Ammunition Shortage Hinders Defense

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today a shortage in ammunition confronted the nation in its defense efforts.

Although he once had said arms could not be spared for Ireland, Mr. Roosevelt mentioned the possibility of sending over rifles because, he said, the actual processing of them is getting along pretty well.

The Irish wanted all kinds of things in addition to rifles he asserted, but most of these were things this country could not get for itself.

"Home And Mother"—It's a good vote-getting technique and all of the four major senatorial candidates dabble in it effectively as shown in the accompanying pictures. Politicians would call it the sentimental approach, but candidates call it intimate glimpses. Upper left, Martin Dies listens to Mrs. B. F. Dulaney, who attended his birth at Colorado City, tell he and Mrs. F. C. Coleman, widow of the attending physician, just how small he was then. Upper right, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann takes time out from his strenuous campaign to romp a bit with his children, Lois Ann and Gerald, Jr., while Mrs. Mann prepares dinner, no doubt. Center, Governor O'Daniel poses with his family—Molly, Mrs. O'Daniel, Fat and Mike—in a musical, homey mood. They all help with his campaign. Below, held to her hospital bed following an operation, Mrs. Sam Johnson does her photographic bit by casting an absentee vote for Son Lyndon.

Houston Death Fails To Alter Senate Race

DALLAS, June 27 (AP)—The second death in Texas senatorial ranks in less than three months brought expressions of sorrow from candidates today on the eve of a special senatorial election. Political observers said, however, they expected the death last night in a Baltimore hospital of 66-year-old Andrew Jackson Houston, son of one of Texas' most renowned heroes, to have no effect on the campaign windup. The aged Houston, one of the few remaining links with the pioneers who battled for Texas' independence from Mexico, had served only 24 days of his interim appointment as successor to Senator Morris Sheppard, who died April 9. He was appointed in a surprise move by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel on April 21, anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto at which Texas troops, led by Houston's father, Sam Houston, routed forces of the Mexican general, Santa Ana. O'Daniel and the other major senatorial candidates — Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee, investigating un-American activities; Attorney General Gerald C. Mann and Congressman Lyndon Johnson—in speeches last night reiterated pledges of all-out aid to the national administration in defense efforts and promised to obtain maximum old-age pensions. From the outset of the rough-and-tumble the four principal aspirants have agreed on the two main issues — the urgency of national defense and the need for adequate old-age pensions but they have disagreed vigorously as to the qualifications required to carry out these campaign pledges. In a campaign speech at Temple, O'Daniel last night appeared confident of his election, declaring it was "a foregone conclusion. The other candidates are just running for the exercise." Mann said in a talk at Waco that he would cooperate fully with President Roosevelt if elected to the senate. He assailed politicians who have taken credit for various defense projects located in Texas. "These politicians should remember," Mann declared, "that until a few weeks ago Morris Sheppard was in the harness in Washington. They should remember, too, that Senator Tom Connally has also been active in the interests of Texas. For one certain candidate to take credit for all this work is a smear on the entire Texas delegation in the capital."

we have should also take the blame for those we didn't get." Johnson told a crowd in the municipal auditorium at San Antonio that he wanted the votes of those who unqualifiedly favored the national defense program. At Washington campaign finance statements filed with the secretary of the state in compliance with a federal statute showed Johnson had received contributions totaling $9,845, the largest sum received by any of the four major candidates. Mann showed contributions totaling $4,695; O'Daniel swore that contributions to his campaign had amounted to $3,224.64, and Dies statement showed contributions totaling $2,000.

Lamesa Firemen Name Officers

LAMESA, June 27. (Spl.)—The Lamesa Volunteer Fire Department met and elected new officers here Wednesday night. James Sumpter was re-elected chief for the seventh time. Sam Cates was chosen to succeed Weldon Lindsey as assistant chief and Douglas Hill succeeds the departed Bruce Boyd as secretary. M. L. Standefer, Jr., son of the driver of the city's two fire engines, was voted membership in the organization. Four vacancies must be filled soon to bring the membership up to its normal quota of 20 members. Heston McDonald, Robert Carter, Bruce Boyd and Jay Ruggles are going away. Boyd and McDonald have gone to aircraft schools and Carter will go to serve Uncle Sam. The department will have its annual barbecue at the city park July 2. The event will also be a send-off party for Robert Carter. He is to be inducted into the army July 2.

Flashes Of Life-

By the Associated Press
ROCHESTER, N. Y. — For the last two years of her high school career, Grace Karszewick rehearsed the difficult capriccio brilliant by Mendelssohn with the school orchestra, planning to play the piano concerto on her graduation night. Instead she received her diploma in a hospital bed. She was stricken with appendicitis the day before graduation exercises. "If only this silly business could have held off just 24 hours," Grace mourned. "Why, we had that piece down pat."
BLUFFTON, Ind.—Dr. W. G. Ireland, Bluffton dentist, can't stretch his arms far enough apart to measure the "big one that got away" as he fished after dark in Kunkel lake. Dr. Ireland, with a bamboo rod, made a long cast and his bait caught on a high-tension electric wire. Electricity darted down the wet fishing line and crashed into the lake. The dentist was not hurt. Chief industry of Chile, Bolivia and Peru is mining.

If you have ever thought that artists were long-haired sissies, step up and meet Lloyd Jones. That's a cigar he's holding in his left hand, and the mitt that's holding the brush is proof in itself that in the days when he used to be a boxer, he must have packed a terrific wallop.

Winning first prizes in the international water color exhibitions, and having one of his water color sketches purchased by the Art Institute of Chicago for permanent exhibition right in the same gallery with America's greatest water color artist, Winslow Homer, hasn't swelled his head a bit. You see him, here, at his drawing board, with an enlargement of one of his best water color paintings—the one that just came back from a whole string of exhibitions in art galleries all over the country

To know why all this is important to you, you need to know what the artist is working on, at his drawing board. He is working on a picture which will be included in the Meyer Both General Newspaper Service, to which we subscribe, and from which any advertiser in town may select illustrations to use in his ads in this paper. This means much more than a service to advertisers. It means that you and your children and all the rest of our readers will see, as a matter of course, the work of an internationally famous artist. Maybe you haven't realized it, but this has been going on for a long time. And Jones is only one of the many famous artists whose commercial work appears in this paper, regularly. We think this is important to you because it means that our readers are constantly seeing fine art, of a sort few can afford to travel far enough to see in our country's great museums. We know you will agree with us that art exerts a tremendous cultural influence—particularly on our children—and we feel certain you will agree with us that our efforts to contribute in this respect are further testimony to the important part played in the job of making this a better land in which to live . . . by this—your newspaper.

Panthers Add A Knothole Gang Victory

Bruce Roberson's Panthers, current leaders of the Kiwanis-sponsored Knothole Gang league, added another victory to their list yesterday, defeating Sammy Wolfe's Beavers, 5 to 3.

Thursday morning's Panther-Beaver fracas was marked by tight pitching by both clubs. Beaver Tommy Anderson was nicked for a brace of hits over the route, while Roberson held the Beavers to a lone bludge.

The Panthers tallied their score in the first stanza, when D. Thomas, J. Kimble, A. Kerley, Roberson, and A. Harris marched across the home platter on a series of four walks plus a nit, the latter by Kimble.

The Beavers scattered their counts over two frames. B. Vaughn scored after landing on base on a hit and B. Barnes stroled to scoring position in the first inning. Mr. Stewart advanced by route of a walk, plus more passes to score in the second.

John H. Cardwell, recreation leader for the loop play, said he was expecting the turnout to increase as the season continued. Backed by the Kiwanis Club, the Knothole baseball competition is open to any and all boys who wish to join. Kiwanis officials have affirmed that the lads' play will be properly supervised at all times.

Mrs. Farmer Upsets Mrs. Phillips In WT Golf Tourney

Mrs. J. R. Farmer of Big Spring turned in the first major upset of the West Texas Women's Golf Association tournament at Wichita Falls yesterday, putting Mrs. Alice Phillips out of the running, 1 up.

The Big Spring neighbors went into the sixteenth unit even up, but Mrs. Farmer copped the play to move one up and then on even to split the last two holes.

Today Mrs. Farmer vies with Mrs. F. C. Rochoon of Fort Worth in the semifinals of the championship flight.

Mrs. Harry Stalcup ousted the only Wichita Falls golfer remaining in the first flight running, Mrs. Paul Pearson, taking a 4 and 3 victory.

Mrs. J. H. Ball of Wichita Falls, defending champion remained in the tourney today by virtue of a narrow victory over unheralded Mrs. W. R. Winstler, also of Wichita Falls, 2 and 1.

Mrs. W. G. Carter of Fort Worth defeated Mrs. Frances Atway of Odessa, 1-up on 19 holes. Mrs. F. C. Rochoon of Fort Worth eliminated Mrs. Jess Rogers of Amarillo, 4 and 3.

This current edition of the West Texas Women's Golf Association, now raging at Wichita Falls, brings out one strong point. When these Big Spring girls play golf, they play for keeps.

Now Mrs. Alice Phillips and Mrs. J. R. Farmer, two grand sports-women, are Big Spring neighbors—that is they both have done a bit of golfing together—but, then on the playing field they become a couple who are out to hang up a victory.

That's what happened at Wichita Falls. Mrs. Farmer came through with a steadfast, heads-up brand of golf to bring to a sudden halt Mrs. Phillips' title-bound hopes. Now, Mrs. Farmer is matched and is playing against Mrs. F. C. Rochoon of Fort Worth and she's bound to have that championship gleam in her eyes.

A good turn out was in evidence last night at City Park as Citizens Service Oilers and Montgomery Ward tangled in a Major city softball league fracas. Keep the good work moving.

A new type non-mulmifying acid is to be tried on the well instead of the usual heavy nitro shot which has been the only successful method of completing wells in that section in the past.

Oilers Hang Up Wardmen's Scalp, 10-8

Lewis Heuvell, Cities' Service catcher, turned in the hitting spree of his life last night as the Oilers took the nod over Montgomery Ward, 10 to 8, in a Major city softball league fracas at city park.

Heuvell marched up to the plate four times, took himself a handful of home runs on two occasions, and added to his night's work with a brace of singles. In other words, last night, Heuvell was the man of the hour with his 1,000 batting average.

The Wardmen trailed the show until the third inning at which time they took loose with everything but the light poles and rapped Oiler Bobbey Savages for scored hits. The Oilers had already marked up a pair of wallops, one in the first frame, the other in the second. The Oilers decimated the game in the fourth, when they sacked up two runs, but fell behind in the chase as L. D. Cunningham, having relieved Savages, hit the third, left four runs slip by him.

The Oilers retallied with a trio of scores in the sixth. Then, just one count behind the Wardmen, the Berrymen raked up a lone tally as Martin romped over the plate. Martin got to first on a hit, advanced on Hal Battle's two-bagger.

With the score standing 6-1 in the Oilers' favor at the eighth inning, Manager Perry got a single off Lonnie Evans, Savage singled out to Reid, and Heuvell marched up to the plate, took a light on the ball, and pounded it out for a homer, scoring Berry in the process, breaking the deadlock and winning the game. And, bringing that session of the circuit race to a close.

Sox Take Series Lead As Bombers Are Shutout, 1-0

Slow But Sure Dallas Rebels Put On Steam

By The Associated Press The sixth-place Dallas Rebels seem to be showing a little life at last, although two lops to be classed as Texas league pennant contenders.

A triple by Nick Gregory in the last half of a 13-inning contest with the San Antonio Missions as Dallas gave the Rebels a 2-0 victory last night and a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Padres. Three wins in a row don't make a successful summer for any baseball club, but if the Rebels can keep up the pace they might at least be a threat to some of the upper-division teams.

The Indians trimmed the Beaumont Exporters 6-3 at Oklahoma City, the Oilers succumbed 4-3 to the Shreveport Sports at Tulsa in an abbreviated game, and the Houston Buffs brushed the Cats 3-3 at Fort Worth.

Brooks and Cards Toss Loop Into Deadlock

By The Associated Press The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals are in an exact tie for the National league lead today, and apparently they are going to keep right on fighting each other until the end of September.

This is an old custom in the senior circuit, but never any more fiercely contested than this year. The Dodgers pulled into a tie last night by crushing the Boston Braves, 11-2, while all other teams in the league were idle.

Brooklyn went west a couple of weeks ago trailing by two games. They won 10 out of 14 on their trip, in contracts to the debacle of their first western swing, when they lost six out of eight.

The New York Yankees held on to their slim percentage lead in the American league by humbling the St. Louis Browns 4-1 with a spectacular one-hit pitching performance by Lefty Mathus Russo.

The young southpaw was parted from a no-hit game in the seventh inning when George McQuinn smacked a homer into right field stands, but he faced only 27 batters, and let no other Brooklyn get past first base.

The Cleveland Indians rallied for six runs in the seventh inning to beat the Boston Red Sox 11-8 and prevent the Yankees from increasing their margin.

The Chicago White Sox and the Washington Senators, who had battled 13 innings Wednesday, struggled through 16 innings yesterday until Washington finally edged out a 9-2 decision.

Bob Johnson hit two home runs, each with two on, and two singles to account personally for six runs and help the Philadelphia Athletics to an 8 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

USC Netter Bids For Nat'l Title HAVERFORD, Pa., June 27 (AP)—Southern California, which gave the west coast its last intercollegiate tennis championship when Gene Mako triumphed in 1934, has another challenger in position to claim the title.

He is hasty sophomore Ted Olive, first to reach the finals in the 37th renewal of the national college classic at Merion Cricket club by overpowering Bill Canning, University of California, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Matching strokes with the second-seeded netter in tomorrow's championship contest will be the survivor of today's semi-final encounter between top-ranked Joe Hunt of the navy and Joe Davis of Vanderbilt.

Northern Section Of Texas Loop Shy On Star 2nd-Basemen DALLAS, June 27 (AP)—Of six eligible second basemen to make the north's team in the sixth annual Texas league all-star game at Beaumont July 16, but three are likely to be given serious consideration by the fans. There is no all-around stand-out.

George Janco, the peppery Dallas infielder, is having by far the best offensive year of the north's keystone men but he is by no means as good a defensive player as Don Johnson of Tulsa or Clyde (Rabbit) McDowell of Fort Worth, the latter a four-time all-star player.

McDowell is off in his hitting this year, so Johnson is regarded as many have observed as to date the best bet in the north but he has to face two handicaps. Fort Worth has always voted strongly for McDowell and is likely to do so again and can outpoll Tulsa.

College Golf Meet Becomes Anybody's Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 27 (AP)—Stanford, Louisiana State, Princeton and Baltimore sent representatives into the 26-hole semi-finals of the 44th national intercollegiate golf tourney today, and any one of the quartet would be a worthy successor to the 1940 king who abdicated in yesterday's quarter-finals.

F. Dixon Brookes of Virginia, the blond winner of last year's event, dropped out with a 3 and 1 setback at the hands of Otto Grivner, of the University of Baltimore, and now it looks like anybody's race, with the expert leading just a bit toward Earl Stewart, Louisiana State's remarkable red-head from Dallas.

Stewart, only four over par for 90 holes of qualifying and match play after losing five strokes to the "old man" in one contest, meets Grivner in today's scrap.

In the other bracket are Danny Carmichael, Princeton's 1940-41 basketball captain and No. 1 baseball pitcher, who meets Ray Brownell, Pacific Coast intercollegiate king and lone survivor of Stanford's mighty four-man team victors.

Plan To Make Job Easier For Ivory Hunters

M'KINNEY, June 27 (AP)—Major league ivory hunters in the future will find it much easier combing the country for material, according to a new plan of the national semi-pro baseball congress announced here today by Beale Largent, baseball's only woman scout.

Under the new plan the leading young ball player in each of the 48 states is to be selected after conclusion of the series of sanctioned state tournaments over the country.

These 48 outstanding players, none of whom will have had previous experience in professional baseball, will be honored on the 1941 All-American sandlot team and their names turned over to all scouts," Mrs. Largent said.

Story

she remarked. "If I didn't exist you wouldn't be in this horrible predicament."

"You swear we're going to live," he reminded her, suddenly changing tactics. "If so, it's not such a horrible predicament. A week or two of fasting is no more than food for the soul." He sprang to his feet. "I'm getting out. See you later."

Eagle's Nest

She sat up and watched him walk down to the little lake, following the margin around to the farther side and strike off in the direction where they had seen the eagle.

"Why didn't he tell me he was going up there?" she asked herself. "He's a difficult person to understand." One moment he had stabbed her heart with the words: "only a few more days in which to really feel alive" and the next he had bewildered her with the statement: "a week or two of fasting is no more than food for the soul." What was a girl to believe?

The sun was low. Sherwood disappeared, a tiny speck in the distance, and she remained there, alone in that strange crater of desolation so barren of life beside her own that not even a fly shared it with her. Presently she pulled a blanket about her shoulders and closed her eyes.

When she opened them at dawn she saw Sherwood lying near by weeping in a rug.

"The spent much of that day talking about food, though she noticed that he seemed preoccupied at the same time as if his secret thoughts were quite different from his surface speech.

"When she asked him what he had found among the clay ridges he answered, "An eagle's nest from which the life has flown."

"I'd like to see it."

"Nothing to see," he answered quickly. "You'd only tire yourself." She made a secret resolve to take the walk.

Once, when he would have put an arm around her she drew away. He looked at her steadily for a moment. "Do you still think we're coming out of this alive, Anne?"

"I refuse to believe anything else."

He started to reply and then restrained himself.

That afternoon he went off in the direction from which the carriage had brought them. "To see what I can see," he explained, but did not ask her to accompany him. When he was out of sight she headed across the basin in the direction of the eagle's nest.

Strangely enough, as she approached the region she was thinking of Mackey, wondering what had become of him, for there was no evidence of a light. Skirting a clay ridge she came to the spot where it met an encroaching dune.

Suddenly she stopped and stared—stark unbelief changing to dreadful certainty. She found she was whispering to herself.

An eagle's nest from which the life has flown. They killed him. He fought and the soldiers killed him. She went to the grave in the sand and knelt down. Mackey's uniform coat decorated the mound as a blanket of flowers would have done at home. She lifted a sleeve of the coat to her cheek, and touched there crying softly until the sorrow that wrung her heart was chilled by physical exhaustion.

Suddenly the flapping of wings startled her. A great eagle settled down on the comb of the dune above and watched her with his fierce golden eyes. Wonder was added to her fear of him. When she backed away the bird sided after her for a few rather terrifying moments and then desisted and began preening his wings.

"Despair"

Sherwood had not returned when she arrived at the tent. She looked up anxiously at the rim of the bowl in the direction he had taken and then down at her body, faint with the effects of fatigue and hunger and sorrow. Suddenly she crumpled to the pallet, and when she finally roused, the sun had set and she was still alone.

"Perhaps something has happened and he will never return," she thought in wild despair, as she stood in front of the tent watching the sunlight fade and the pale stars appear. If he were not here when the moon rose she would take his path and follow him. Anything better than this dreadful waiting.

Her knees were trembling. She clung to the tent cloth for support, trying vainly to think of what wisdom she had been taught for such an occasion.

Then she looked up and saw Sherwood coming down the path. For a moment her breathing stopped; she could not move, but stood and stared, glad the moonlight would not reveal the tear-stained face.

"Anne," he called.

Instantly her strength returned and she ran to him. His head hung in weariness; his clothes were soaked with mud.

"Had a little difficulty," he said, patting her hand that clung to his arm. "Didn't know for a while if I'd come back or not. Got caught in quicksand." He threw himself down on the ground in front of the tent and when she protested replied, "I'm too dirty to go inside. Let me get my wind. Later I'll change and swim."

She wanted to do something for him—bring him a drink—bathe his face. And she wanted to do something for herself—kiss him—take him in her arms—feel his nearness. But she saw his great need for the moment was rest and stillness.

Oil Men

price should go hand in hand with conservation, and that domestic producers are entitled to protection from foreign imports. "We as an industry are patriotic," he said, "but we feel that we should not surrender our markets to foreign oil and at the same time furnish the ships to transport that oil."
On taxes, Fell said the industry is ready to carry its fair share, but that it should insist, in the face of defense costs, on the sharp curtailment, by all governmental agencies, of all non-defense expenditures.
He indicated there is no immediate threat of absolute federal control, cited the able work of the interstate compact commission and the benefits accruing from state conservation methods. "Conservation in the oil industry is the only such program," he said, "that has been accomplished without the aid of any kind of federal subsidy. It is something we can be proud of. It demonstrates that if we have unity of purpose, we can solve our problems by ourselves. There is a middle road between unrestricted individualism and totalitarianism. We can follow that road, and we can see to it that we do not lose representation for ourselves."
Fell explained the regional setup which will function under Coordinator Ickes. Committees of 12 members each will be established for each of the four divisions of the industry—production, refining, transportation and marketing—to serve in 12 regions of the nation. The group Thursday night made recommendations for appointments on committees for the Southwest, and forwarded those recommendations to Washington today. Unanimously endorsed were R. L. Tollett for the refining division; Douglas Orme and C. L. McIver for the transportation division; O. C. Harper and P. F. Brown of Midland for the production division; and Al P. Groehl for the marketing division.

Police were called in on a baffling case Friday morning. A woman had left a pan on the porch, with a dime, so that the iceman could leave a dime's worth of ice. But somebody stole the dime away, and the iceman didn't leave any ice. Hence, everybody, including the police, is unhappy.

O. B. Bryan, supervisor for the Caprock Electric Cooperative, is planning to attend a ceremony at Possum Kingdom dam on July 2 when the Brazos River Transmission Electric Cooperative lays cornerstone for its sub-station and power unit.

Incidentally, he predicts that no great haste can be expected in construction of extensions to current REA lines. On a 25-mile extension in Midland county, the wire delivery date was set for Sept. 1. Bryan placed order for two 700-pound lots of copper wire for minor extensions and was given a Sept. 28 delivery date.

Draft Board Asks Helpers

More volunteer workers are needed to serve Tuesday when the nation's second "R-Day" of the current international crisis comes off.
To date less than a dozen persons have offered their services to the Howard county selective service board to help register a new crop of 21-year-olds. Most of these were for part-time or half-day periods. Few had had experience in the registration last Oct. 35.
Those who can and will help in the new registration were urged to communicate with the selective service headquarters, telephone No. 755.
At the same time, all young men who have become 21 on or after Oct. 17, 1941 and who will be 21 years of age before or on July 1, 1941 were reminded that they must call at the board's quarters in the First National Bank building and register for possible military service.
Likewise, any who should have registered in the original draft and did not should make it a point to register Tuesday.

China's Revival In War Shown In March Of Time

Current aspects of China's bitter struggle to drive out the invading Japanese armies and reestablish her national economy are pictured in the latest March of Time film, "China Fights Back," which is at the Ritz theatre today and Saturday.
Although China has already lost nearly half a million soldiers, and one out of every nine of her people are homeless refugees today, the film shows the Chinese are now only just beginning to fight. Under the able leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the best statesmen and military chiefs China has ever known, the Chinese people, with renewed courage, are today making a new stand against Axis-Partner Japan.
Ninety percent of China's industrial capacity has been completely destroyed or immobilized, the March of Time points out, but the Chinese counter-offensive is nevertheless being centered chiefly around a newly-established network of vital war industries organized in small units and sheltered in disguised farmhouses, huts, and even caves deep in the interior of China.
