This country's Share-the-Meat necessarily is being followed by a Spread the Butter movement.
 With 30 percent of the country's butter supplies consigned to the armed forces and with quantities of other fats in the fight, it is important that homemakers study the situation intelligently.

Some fat is necessary to a complete diet, since it not only provides calories but performs other functions essential to health. There is fat in many foods, such as whole milk, meats, soy beans, nuts, and avocados.
 Several fats contain one or more vitamins. Butter, for instance, contains Vitamin A.

Some fat makes a meal satisfying.
 And it gives richness and flavor to make many foods more appetizing.

These suggestions are offered for "spreading the butter":

Serve butter thriftily and eat up all you get.

Use butter where it will taste best.
 For example, many people prefer to use it on bread. Others may want it for seasoning vegetables.

Store butter properly. Keep it tightly covered in a cold, dark place.

Butter will spread farther if it is creamed or slightly softened, not melted. Remember that fats fight on two fronts. "They are a food weapon to keep us fit and a material for munitions of war. Waste none."

Payroll Savings Plan. At least 10% of your salary every payday. Not 6%, or 7% or 8% — but at least 10%. And more, if possible.

Many Americans who ought to be buying War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan every payday, aren't. They just haven't yet STOPPED TO THINK what it means to Johnny.

Don't be like that, lady. Invest your 10% with Uncle Sam — payday after payday. You'll get a big kick out of it.
 Knowing that you, personally, are sending him the guns, planes, bombs, tanks — whatever it is he needs!

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO

If you are . . .

1. Already investing 10% of your pay in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan — boost that 10% if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed, but haven't signed up yet — sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Payroll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman, or plant manager — and see if it can't be installed right away. The local bank will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Payroll Savings Plan for any reason, go to your local bank, or wherever bonds are sold. They will be glad to help you start a plan of your own.

and that's one book everybody will be reading and studying.
 What does it look like? Well it has four pages of blue stamps and four pages of red stamps. You'll be using your blue stamps first for the "Processed Foods" such as canned fruits and vegetables. . . . And frozen and dehydrated foods, too. Then later, you'll use the red stamps for meat. Meat rationing is to come along a little later.

Every stamp in your book will have a letter. And the letter will indicate how long that particular stamp will be usable. . . . We're accustomed to these "rationing periods," because we've had them for sugar and coffee some time now. The length of the rationing period will be posted in your grocery store, and too, you'll learn about it in your newspaper, or over the radio.

In addition to letter, every stamp will also have a number. The numbers tell how many points the stamp is worth. A point represents ration value just as a dollar represents money value. Point values of different foods will depend on supply and demand. Foods that are plentiful will meeting.

Receiving awards were: George
 Lee Graf received his Bear badge, Carroll Sproul also received the Bear award and Darrell Graves received the Wolf badge. Earl Dean Clark received a Gold Arrow.

Mrs. Ed Willoughby announced that each Cub had been asked to donate $1.00 to the building fund.

Refreshments of doughnuts, coffee and hot chocolate were served to Earl Dean Clark, Neill Dickens, Ed-

Our Freedom Is Priceless

By JOSEPH E. DAVIES
Former Ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp albums.)

What I myself saw in my four years in Europe gave me a new realization of the priceless rights which we here enjoy.

No secret police can in the night whisk us away, never again to be seen by those we love.

None of us can be deprived by any party, state or tyrant of those precious civil liberties which our laws and our courts guarantee.

None of us can be persecuted for practicing the faith which we found at our mother's knee.

None of us can be persecuted, tortured or killed because of the fact that an accident of fate might have made us of the same race as the Nazarene.

No American can be placed by any party or government in a regimented vise which takes from him or her either freedom of economic opportunity or political religious liberty.

What would the millions of unfortunate men, women and children in Europe give to be able to live and enjoy such a way of life?

Well, in this war, those are the things in our lives which are in jeopardy. Our boys are dying to preserve them for us.

Then we can do no less than to "say yes" and fill those war stamp albums. It is our duty and privilege to help the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, in his magnificent effort to do the tremendous job of getting the money to keep our boys supplied with the weapons with which to fight our fight.

Surely that is little enough for us to do on the home front.

are majors, five are captains, 17 are lieutenants and one is a Navy ensign.
All 150 received training and experience in this organization which is enabling them to render valuable service to their country.
While they stand ready to make the supreme sacrifice in the fight for our American way of living, those of us left behind stand united in backing them up with plenty of electric power.
And we're proud of the job we're doing here at home, too! There has been no power shortage... either in your home or for Uncle Sam.
Back of this ample supply of power is the American system of FREE ENTERPRISE, which is performing the incredible job of producing the weapons of war with which to win the victory... weapons for all the United Nations.
Business management under free enterprise is supplying the brains, the know-how, and manning the production lines that turn out the planes, tanks, ships and guns.
The creative genius behind the lines comes from the ranks of industry, not from the middle of bureaucracy.

Der Fuehrer Drank There

The new landmarks of Munich are such places as the Brown House and the Fuehrer building on the King's square, and the beer hall of the famous bomb explosion in November, 1939. Dorchtsagaden, where "peace in our time" failed in 1939, is 80 miles southeast. Munich was a wine city before it learned the brewing art from north Germany. Most of the city's 20 large breweries have their own beer cellars. A 17th century Bavarian rule provided that "countesses and ladies of nobility are allowed four quarts for the day and three quarts for the night."

Warmer in New England

An ancient Indian fish trap of 65,000 stakes, with a two-acre spread, was unearthed in excavating for a building at Boston. The fish traps included sassafras and sycamore trees now rare in that area. These discoveries, along with the finding of 14-inch oyster shells, were interpreted as evidence of a warmer climate than now prevails in New England.

Flake Graphite

The decision to produce flake graphite from eastern Pennsylvania followed Axis threats to Madagascar and to Indian ocean and Mediterranean shipping. These threats have been lessened by British invasion of Madagascar and the Allied North Africa campaign. Cargoes of graphite from Madagascar are reported reaching Atlantic ports.

Toltec Empire Capital

Fifty miles north of Mexico D. F. excavations revealed the ruins of a city believed to be Tula, capital of the ancient Toltec empire which disappeared four centuries before the arrival of Cortes. Two eight-ton statues, a ruined pyramid, and several large palaces were uncovered, with only a part of the two-square-mile area bared.

Ancient Egyptian City?

Excavations in Egypt disclosed several more tombs, the oldest dating back more than 5,000 years. Two soldiers digging near their camp, not far from Cairo, came upon a mosaic floor in excellent preservation. It is believed to mark the site of an ancient city.

Kansas, Wyoming

Footprints of the camel, rhinoceros, mastodon and smaller animals were found in Kansas in chalky rock in the bed of a pond. In sandstone deposits in Wyoming were discovered tracks of three-toed horses, saber-toothed tigers and rhinoceroses.

143,000,000,000 Pounds

To fill all requirements for dairy products in 1943 would require the production of 143 billion pounds of milk. This is impossible with present herds, labor and equipment. The national goal has been set at 122 billion pounds.

Deer in Alaska Since 1891

The history of reindeer in Alaska dates from 1891, when 16 were brought in from eastern Siberia to provide means of livelihood for the Eskimos and furnish them with food and clothing.

Cotton

Cotton farmers will have 15 more days in which to apply for federal crop insurance on their 1943 cotton crop than on their 1942 crop, the closing date in North Carolina being April 1.

Chicks

The output of chicks by commercial hatcheries continues high compared with other years, the November total of 24,913,000 chicks being 10 per cent greater than the same month last year.

One-Fourth

Around one-quarter of the expected 1943 domestic production of food probably will be required for American armed forces and our Allies in 1943, according to most recent estimates.

Kharkov Once Cossack Town

Kharkov, for a couple of centuries before it became a great industrial center of Soviet Russia, was the great Cossack horse-trading center, famous for its quarterly fairs.

HIP, HIP! HEPZIBAH!

By CHET GRANT
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

"THE fact that Hepzibah is not an actual cousin," Mrs. Blake said to her son Georgie, "has nothing to do with the matter. You hop in that Iron Horse of yours and get down to the station to meet her. I don't want to hear another word about it. Now hurry!"

Georgie Blake moped out to the garage. Imagine being harassed with a girl named Hepzibah! Georgie squirmed in his seat. He could just picture her!

Hugo Green was mowing his lawn when Georgie drew up before the house. Hugo was a good fellow, but he played the cornet. However, any port in a storm.

"Lo, Hugo, what's new?" he called affably.

"Nothin'." Hugo eyed Georgie narrowly.

"Say," Georgie said brightly, "how about comin' up t' the house t'night? Bring your horn."

Hugo grinned. "Not for me, Georgie. I've heard about Cousin Hepzibah from Maine."

The Iron Horse slewed around the cinder parking space and came to a stop beside the station platform. Georgie dismounted and was taken aback to discover Tootles and the rest of his crowd innocently sitting on the baggage truck by the ticket window.

"Hey," Tootles yelled, "you goin' to kiss Cousin Hepzibah, Georgie?"

"You got hayseed on your collar!"

"Makin' her feel right to home!"

There was lots more, but the train thundered into the station. There were but a few passengers and only one of them was a girl. At the sight of her Georgie's heart flip-flopped. She was a small person, exquisite from head to toe. There was not so much as a snicker from the baggage truck audience.

"Are you Cousin Hepzibah?"

Wide gray eyes twinkled. Red lips parted in a wonderful friendly smile. "Yes. And you're Cousin Georgie, aren't you?"

"Um!" Georgie answered, reaching for her bag. "I guess we'd better be moving."

Without so much as a turn of his head in their direction he led Hepzibah away from Tootles and the rest. They stood quite still, shocked into inertia by the sudden revelation of Cousin Hepzibah in the flesh. Before their brains could function normally Georgie had started the Iron Horse away from the platform.

For the first time since Easter Georgie changed his suit before supper. He looked forward to a long enjoyable evening. He and Hepzibah would pop corn, discuss a number of things and listen to the radio. They discussed a number of things first and right in the middle of it the doorbell rang.

Georgie couldn't shut the door in Tootles' face because Tootles' foot was shoving the door for dear life. "You invited me, didn't you?" he demanded, shucking off his coat. Skinny Tate came next, Bud Thornbrun wasn't far behind, and within ten minutes the living room held every breathing male member of Elston's Young People's Society. When Georgie returned from work in Mack's Garage the next evening he discovered that Hepzibah was dated with Tootles. Hepzibah hinted, too, that she would be dated the following night. She was; and the next night, and the next. Georgie's own particular girl was out of town, so he moped.

The feminine portion of Elston's Young People's Society did not view Hepzibah's popularity favorably, but there was nothing they could do. Only the approach of the Annual Picnic saved the day for them. It had been decided at the last meeting that all would go by bus, except Georgie, who had to work for half an hour after the starting time. It was expected that he would follow in his car with Hepzibah.

Saturday morning Georgie tinkered with the bus engine at the garage. Later it went by the door ablaze with banners and streamers. Georgie grinned. When closing time came he went home and bathed and then started toward the picnic grounds. As he expected he came upon the bus some five miles from Elston.

"Hey, Georgie," Tootles called, rubbing grease across his hot face. "Come and give this blamed engine your expert attention."

Georgie sat behind the wheel of the Iron Horse and grinned. "Not me, boys, this is my afternoon off." He stood up and yelled. "Hey, you girls want a ride? Come on!" They came running.

"Well, boys," Georgie said, "I'm sorry there isn't any more room, but it isn't more than a two-mile hike to the grounds. The girls and I'll be waiting for you!"

The Iron Horse began to pull away, snorting and chugging. "Hey," Tootles yelled suddenly, "Where's Hepzibah, didn't she come?"

"Now," Georgie shouted back. "She went back home. Said she never saw such a big bunch of Hicks in her life!" The Iron Horse churned away down the road and over it hung the musical laughter of Elston's Young People's Society—feminine portion.
