Geistweidt Makes Announcement

State Representative Gerald Geistweidt, the Republican legislator who represents the 56th District in Austin, filed for reelection Monday.

Geistweidt was elected to the legislature by an almost two-to-one margin in a special election held last February 3.

As a freshman representative, Geistweidt realigned and consolidated the judicial districts affecting the counties he represents and was praised by agricultural and conservative groups for his consistent and vocal opposition to liberal, urban interests and increased government regulation.

Says Geistweidt, "The freedom of the individual is what has made this state and this country great, and I am committed to fight for the preservation of this noble principle against the encroachment of big government. I am grateful to the people in my district for the support they have given me in my pursuit of conservative ideals, and I look forward to serving you in the 67th session of the Texas legislature."

Geistweidt's district, the 56th, comprises Gillespie, Kerr, Kimble, Llano, Mason, Menard, Real, San SABA, Schleicher and Uvalde counties.

Just Talkin'

By Nell Edmiston

The Leader has gotten a lot of response from the mystery article we printed two weeks ago about the "Christmas Peddler," especially from people who have lived here many years. I also understand it was the major topic of conversation at least at one bridge party and for one afternoon when several persons congregated in Elizabeth Ballew's office.

What is so funny is that almost anyone who talked to us about it has guessed the same person, T.J. Bailey, or Jader as some of you call him.

The story I heard begins with Jader's brother-in-law, Eldred Roach, dressing up as an old man by using a fake moustache and his father's old hat and coat. He walked from his house (where Danny Dunagan lives now) to the DeLong house (where Pat Ragsdale lives now) and knocked on the door. Miss Ruth (now Ruth Harper) opened the door and he grabbed her and kissed her.

Well, that was so funny and he got such a kick out of surprising her that Jader thought he would give it a whirl, and as Paul Harvey would say, "And now you know the rest of the story."

Anyway, either some one let the cat out of the bag or else someone suspected him, because a lot of people remembered the story. Others who read it but hadn't heard the story guessed T.J. immediately because of the way it was written.

T.J. did own up to pulling the Christmas trick and still grins when he remembers, "And no one recognized me." He said he was cautious around children because they are so curious and made his steps quickly so that no one would recognize him.

Later I heard that the Roaches and Baileys believe they never had as much fun as they did that one Christmas Day.

The countdown is on for Rehab '80!

Many times over the years, before my days in public relations for West Texas Rehabilitation Centers, I can remember the excitement of the annual Rehab telethon on a cold January night and what a good show it was to watch at the ranch. This year's show will be even greater on January 26th.

Bob Hope will introduce the shows--a five hour show from San Angelo's Convention Center and a seven hour show from Abilene's Civic Center--and a parade of stars will keep you entertained all evening.

Singer Pat Boone, one of the top three recording stars of the rock and roll era, will join Rex Allen, who has hosted the show every year for the last ten years. The production, the nation's largest regional telethon, will be seen on 14 television stations.

Also participating in this year's telethon are: Shari Lewis, Johnny Desmond, Dave and Sugar, Slim Pickens, Anacani, Arthur Duncan, The Otwell Twins, Helen Forest, Bill and Susan Seaforth Hayes, Eileen Barnett, Sammi Smith, Margo Smith, Tex Williams, Chris Christian, Pedro Gonzalez Gonzalez, Grant Teaff, Jimmy Weldon, Jonny Gimble and the Bosque Bandits, Larry Mahan and the Ramblin' Rodeo Revue, Mac Wiseman, Montie Montana, The Angle Sisters, The Texas Travelers Cloggers, and the Regab '80 orchestras.

Rex Allen, Jr. is the official host for the Colonial Rehab Ranger Program.

the program co-sponsored by Colonial Food Stores, Inc. -- directed toward involving children in the campaign to raise money for WTRC. The young recording star will also appear on the telethon with his band and the Country Travelers.

Boone, according to Billboard Magazine, has been on the charts during the rock and roll era for more than 200 consecutive weeks, an all-time record. He has 15 songs on the Top Ten including "Love Letters", which was number one for five weeks in 1967. He starred in 15 motion pictures, hosted his own television programs both for network broadcast and in syndication, been guest star on both dramatic programs and variety specials, and written five books.

This will be Boone's first appearance on the Rehab telethon.

The telethon will be seen on the following television stations: KRBC-TV, Abilene; KACB-TV, San Angelo; KCTV-TV, San Angelo; KXTX-TV, Dallas; KTVV-TV, Austin; KSWO-TV, Lawton, Okla.; KAMR-TV, Amarillo; KLBK-TV, Lubbock; KMOM-TV, Monahan; KWAB-TV, Big Spring; KDBC-TV, El Paso; KZTV-TV, Corpus Christi; KVTU-TV, Laredo; and KCEN-TV, Temple.

The broadcast will inform viewers about the services offered by the West Texas Rehabilitation Center and of course, ask for regular support for the program.

The telecast launches the Center's year-long funding program. Last year's telecast grossed $680,000 toward the 1979 operational budget of $2,243,000.

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center is a private, non-profit treatment facility for the handicapped of the southwest. In 1979, more than 7,000 children and adults were treated at the Center's three campuses in Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

Since before Christmas, those of us on Shelley V. Smith's public relations staff have been working at putting the details in place for this year's show. This is my second Rehab telethon to work on and I will grant you there is much more work than pleasure on it. I don't know how many more my nerves will stand but at least I am going to make it through this year's.

Be sure and tune in Saturday night, Jan. 26, at 7 p.m. It will be an evening you won't forget!

Cope Scholarship Offered

Students interested in majoring in journalism at Angelo State University may begin applying for the Millard Cope Memorial Scholarship, according to Dr. Mary K. Sparks, head of the ASU journalism department.

The scholarship is awarded each year to a freshman journalism student entering ASU. A freshman recipient is eligible to apply for renewal each year providing the student maintains good academic standing and makes significant contributions to the ASU journalism program.

Several Cope awards are made each year by the selection committee. Last spring, four scholarships were awarded to entering freshmen and four scholarships were awarded to sophomore, junior, and senior students who were renewing the awards.

Application forms may be obtained by writing to the office of financial aids at Angelo State, and the application deadline is March 31.

Millard Cope scholarships are financed from the proceeds of a trust fund established by the late Mr. and Mrs. Houston Harte as a memorial to the late Millard cope, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times at the time of his death Jan. 4, 1964.

Winners of the freshman award as well as the renewals will be determined by a selection committee composed of Dr. L.D. Vincent, ASU president; Tucker Sutherland, publisher of the Standard-Times, and Larry Crabtree, publisher of the Vernon Record and president of the West Texas Press Association.

Food, Family, 4-H

Like what you see on TV? Do you approve of it? Some consumers don't approve of some programs, and they're taking outside action on behalf of children.

In citizens' groups they're going beyond simply setting guidelines at home.

Several groups have complained to networks and sponsors that the content of many prime-time TV shows is offensive and may influence children adversely.

Some consumer groups have effectively boycotted advertisers who sponsor shows they say are offensive.

Deciding on appropriate shows starts with the consumer.

Also, "comparing notes" with others can help.

Consumers can study ratings of such groups as the National Parent-Teacher Association.

Some groups that rate programs are: National Parent-Teacher Association, TV Action Center, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611

National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting, 1530 P. Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20005

Action for Children's Television, 46 Austin Street, Newtonville, Massachusetts 02160

What can consumers do if "changing channels" or

"turning of the set" isn't quite enough?

They have several opportunities to voice their feelings to people who influence programming.

First, you can let advertisers know if you think they're sponsoring a program of dubious merit.

You can also tell them when you like programs they sponsor.

Likewise, if you object to their particular advertising style -- or approve of it -- let them know that, too.

Also, you certainly can write your concerns -- and compliments -- about television to the networks:

-- Audience Information, ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10019.

-- Audience Services, CBS-Television Network, -- Audience Services, CBS-Television Network, 51 West 52nd Street, New York, New York 10019.

Consumers also could consider filing a formal complaint with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), if they feel specific programming is not "in the public interest."

When the FCC was created in 1934, it said that programming must be "in the public interest."

Radio and television stations must renew their broadcasting licenses every three years.

As members of a community served by a station, consumers have a legal right to participate in the license-renewal process.

Bean Supper Scheduled

Feb. 27 was set as the date for the Beta Sigma Phi sorority bean supper and bingo such as the one held last year. The supper will feature beans and cornbread and other extras, with proceeds going toward the sorority's service projects in the community.

During the meeting held last week, Sherry Martin presented a program on countries in Europe.

President Glenda Harris read a newsletter stating that the international sorority has presented a check of over $12,000 to the Children's Dialysis Unit of the Baylor College of Medicine at Houston.

The chapter has recently made donations to the International Endowment and Disaster Funds and $100 to the local Meal on Wheels now being organized in Eldorado.

Sherry Lux read a thank-you card from Richard and Jill Preston who were winners of the trip to the Dallas Cowboys football game the sorority drew for in December.

Hostesses for the meeting were Nelva Martin and Mary Leigh Dunagan.

supplement these courses by attending nearby colleges and universities during off duty hours. In the latter case, the Air Force pays 75 percent of the tuition, other education programs are also available in the Air Force.

For more information about the "Stripes for College Experience" options and what other opportunities are available, call TSgt. Johnnie Meek at 915-944-8440.

The Air Force implemented the new "Stripes for College Experience" options for people without prior military service to enhance the recruitment of highly qualified people for the Air Force.

EDITOR'S NOTE--These are a few stories taken from Mrs. Imogene Edmiston's fifth grade class, who were given an assignment to write a news story on an 11 year old boy who caught an alligator. They were to use several words in a recent spelling assignment.

James Cartier, lived on Jackson Street. He was a good fisherman. James asked his dad if he could go fishing, his dad said yes.

He went to the garage picked up his canoe and started off.

When he arrived no one was at the loge.

He started paddling, put his fish hook in and waited, later on, it moved, it went down! He thought it was a monster! It jerked even harder.

A crocodile came up and hit the canoe, he dodged it's tail! Bolts were flying, he was chewing the canoe! He took the paddle and beat it over the head!

He had caught it! And the sheriff gave him $50 because the crocodile had ate the sheriff's private wharf.

My dad and I were driving along a bog in a Dodge pick-up. When I saw a crocodile! I told my dad, he saw it but didn't say anything. The pick-up hit a big rock and a bolt came out of the tire. Mr. dad stopped the car and got out to fix it. I was playing with a fishhook and I found some string and threw it in the bog. The crocodile got it stuck in him so I pulled it out. I found a branch I tried to pull the crocodile out.

He came out of the bog. I tied him up. The blood was coming out fast and it helped me to get him tied up because when he moved. And that's how I captured the crocodile. I took to the zoo and got $500.

Amy Sutto
An eleven year old boy captured this crocodile.

While fishing at the Christoval Lake. With his dad and dog. He caught, the crocodile on his fishhook. He said his line gave a big jerk the dog began to bark, it had to be a monster. He reeled it in. It was a crocodile. He pulled it to the bank. So he ran to get the rope from their pickup to tie his mouth up. So it would not bite them. He went and got his dad to help him put a chain around the crocodile. They didn't stop until they were at the News Paper Place.

Karen Ussery

On Dec. 12 one Alex Zaine was fishing in a swamp about a mile away from his Kansas home. It was at 11:00 o'clock that the young boy caught the crocodile it was one of the largest ever recorded. It weighed 400 pounds and was six feet long.

He was sitting under a tree waiting for a fish to bite his fishhook when all of a sudden there was a tremendous jerk on his fishhook. It pulled him into the bog up to his knees. He let out a horrible scream. His father and brother were down there in about 5 minutes flat. They pulled and pulled until he was out of the bog they pulled him to a nearby tree so that he could hold on to it. Fortunately he had bought a 500 pound test line instead of the 15 pound test line.

Mitchell Bradley

Today at a bog. A 11 year old boy caught a crocodile. The crocodile fought like a monster. He said, "I saw a jerk in my line." "It was chewing my meat off the hook," he said. I did doge the crocodile. Then I threw a bolt in his mouth. Then he died. I got a 1000 pound crocodile. I got 100 dollars for capturing the crocodile.

Donald Hucabee

A boy from Eldorado, Texas, was walking in the bog lands of Loiseana chewing on some jerky fishing he had laed his fishhook and cast it out a ways, then like a bolt of lightning there was a jerk, he pulled and pulled, until it was out, "It was a crocodile," he explained, he grabbed the monster and held to the tail as tight as he could, he had to dodge the giant jaws of the monster till finaly the crocodile gave up and the boy caged him.

Eagles Now 1-2

The Eldorado Eagles are now standing 1-2 in district standing after losing to the Reagan County Owls Friday 77-61. Randy Morrison lead the scoring with 31 points. Keith McCormack scored 17; Eddy Montalvo, five; Don Garlitz and Joel Robledo, two each.

Coach Matt Chalmers commented that the team played this game very well and was closer than the score indicates as the Owls pulled ahead very late in the game.

Earlier in the week, the Eagles squeezed by Junction 54-53 with Morrison again leading the scoring with 18 points. Mike Griffith scored ten; Montalvo, nine; Garlitz, and McCormack, six each and Robledo, four.

Montalvo's efforts won him the title of Eagle of the Week with Chalmers noting that he played very well for a young player.

GROWING TRANSPLANTS
 Very soon now many of us will be gearing up to grow our own flower and vegetable transplants for the 1980 season. The following "Ten Tips" should be of interest and help to you as you endeavor to "grow your own thing" from seed this year:
 1. Start with good seed. Today's selection of seed is better than ever. Also, the cost of flower and vegetable seed is still one of the cheapest items in growing plants. Don't fool with old seed.
 2. Start seed in one of the new prepared mixes containing perlite, peat-moss and vermiculite. They are loose, and practically foolproof. You get such good germination from these mixes that you actually need less seed.
 3. Sowing seed is an art. Many think you just scatter the seed on the starting material and get the big catch. Don't cover fine seed such as petunia, snapdragon, lettuce, carrots, etc. Sow thinly, either broadcast or in rows, omitting covering if seed is fine. Coarse seed can be covered with a loose material such as milled sphagnum moss, or one of the ready-mixes on the market.
 4. After seed is sown, it should be watered from below. Set the seed box (called 'flat') in a pan of warm water and let it soak naturally. Allow several hours for the seed flat to soak up enough water.
 5. Cover the seed with a clear plastic sheet or pane of glass. Such a covering conserves moisture, traps needed heat, and prevents drying out of the seed.
 6. Some seeds need light for germination; don't put them back in a dark place for germination. These include ageraru, begonia, browallia, coleus, impatiens, nicotiana (flowering tobacco), salvia, snapdragon, and others. Most other seeds can be put in a dark place, or have seed covered to exclude light.
 7. Don't let seed or mix dry out. One drying can be fatal to germinating seed. If seed or soil is dry, syringe with warm water, or place the box in a pan of water for half an hour or so. Check daily to see if any mold has formed. If so, it means not enough air circulation or too much moisture.
 8. Maintain a day and night temperature of 72 degrees F. for most seeds, 75-80 degrees F. for coleus and impatiens. Low night temperature is one reason for poor seed germination. Moisture evaporating from the surface of a seed flat cools the soil by 10 degrees. Also, do not water seedlings (or seeds) with cold tap water. In some areas water can be as cold as 45 degrees and can lower the temperature of seed box to almost the temperature of the water.
 9. Just as soon as seedlings are up, move the seed box to a bright window or under fluorescent lights. Be sure to remove any covering. An area with a 50 degree night temperature and full sun during the day is fine.
 10. Transplant seedlings when they are about 1 inch high, into pots, boxes, peat pots, or whatever you have. Grow them in full light, keep them slightly moist at all time and give fresh air on hot days.

ATTEND CHURCH

Whiter than Snow...

"Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean; wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow." The Psalmist desired to be pure and white as snow, and knew that this could come only from God. Complete joy, and gladness of a pure heart can be yours too, when you walk close with the Lord.

This feature is published in the interest of a better Community, and is sponsored by the following civic-minded business firms and individuals.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

NEW DRIVE-IN SYSTEM AT FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Spotlight On Business

The First National Bank of Eldorado has added another convenience to its facility, namely another drive-in booth. The new booth is located just next to the existing booth and is a pneumatically-operated remote transaction system. Customers can drive up to the booth, press the service button and take the carrier from the tray.

Secondly, they open the carrier from either end with a little twist and insert the transaction.

Customers then close the cap and place it back in the tray. The teller completes the transaction and sends the carrier back to the customer. The transaction is removed, the carrier is placed back in the tray and the customer is ready to go.

The new facility allows tellers to help more than one customer at a time and will reduce long waiting lines. Another advantage is that customers never have to leave their cars.

It is the "ultimate in speed and convenience", according to bank president Jo Ed Hill.

Focus On Small Business

It seems to be that the energy field is opening up many good business venture areas. Is there help from the Small Business Administration to get started

You can bet your photo-voltaic cell there is.

A year ago, Congress added a Section 7(1) to the Small Business Act authorizing a new Energy Loan Program. It has the advantage of not having an administrative limit on the number of loans made plus the fact that loans can be made at greater than usual risk.

The program started in January with $6 million available for loans. In four months, funds were exhausted. SBA earmarked another $13 million for these loans. In the new fiscal year that begins October 1, the Agency has asked for $45 million in loan funding.

In the first nine months of 1979, 123 energy loans totalling $16.2 million were made. Forty-six percent went to manufacturing and firms, 22 percent to the construction sector, 11 percent to wholesalers, 10 percent to retailers, 8 percent to service firms, and 3 percent to firms in mining. The firms were located in 26 states.

Loans ranged in size from $10,000 to the statutory ceiling of $35,000; the average size of the loans was $115,000, and they typically went to the very young and new firms that have been in business for less than three years.

The largest users of the 8(1) program so far are two industries: about 35 percent of the loans were made to firms involved in the solar energy industry as manufacturers, distributor, or installers of solar panels and other solar system components. An equal share of these loans are made to firms involved in the manufacturing and retailing of insulation materials, including cellulose, thermal windows and shutters, and roofing. The remainder of the loans were dispersed across a wide variety of energy producing and conserving industries such as wood stoves, heat transfer equipment, and general energy management systems.

To date, SBA has not had substantial participation in energy loans involving hydroelectric power, biomass, wind energy, or co-generation. But it has the statutory authority to assist, and expects to use this authority in the future.

SBA's overriding philosophy is to learn what energy efforts, in both production and conservation, the free market will support and to tailor the Agency's efforts to assist the small business community to react quickly to the signals from the marketplace. The Agency has no institutional preference for production over conservation, for solar panels over windmills, for manufacturing as opposed to retailing.

SBA feels that small businesses will create a wide range of good business propositions that will need support, and the Agency is trying to get adequate financial resources and a delivery system for loans that is responsive to the needs of small business.

If you have an idea to pursue in the energy field, you can contact your SBA office.
