VOTE SATURDAY!

DALTON

Diann Dalton, 38, has been a resident of McLean for six years. She and her husband, Brad have one daughter, Cecilia.

She is a graduate of Darrington High School and of Guymon Beauty College.

She is a hairdresser. Her reason for candidacy: "I'm interested in the education of McLean students."

She received a Bachelor of Science degree in Piano and Music Education from Texas Women's University in Denton. She is a homemaker, a teacher of piano and voice and also works some at the McLean Clinic.

Her reason for candidacy: "It is my desire to help the children of our area receive the best possible education. I would like to help protect the school tax payer from unnecessary expenditures and see that those tax dollars go for the education of our children instead of expensive and unnecessary litigations."

Gwen A. Henley, 46, has lived in McLean for 30 years. She has one son, Greg. She graduated from High School and Amarillo Business College. She is employed by Bank of Commerce as Assistant Cashier.

Her reason for candidacy: "I have a great interest in our youth. I feel I can be useful and have had encouragement from many area voters to seek this position."

HUNT

Lloyd Hunt, 75, has lived in McLean for 24 years. He and his wife, Evelyn have four children, Ronald, Marsha, John, and Melinda.

If elected, I will strive to represent the district to the best of my ability. We should all work to improve our school system. I want to work with the other board members to improve our system. One person can't change anything, you have to work together as a team."

Kathy's Korner

Animadversion, albuminous, bas-relief, chateau, detente, compadre, tenuousness...these were just a few of the words given to the high school spellers at the district UIL contest Friday afternoon in Clarendon.

And take my word for it, these were some of the easier words to spell and pronounce on the list.

How do I know? For the third year, I was the announcer for the spelling contest.

Sounds simple, huh? Well, I was given a list of 120 contest words and 40 tie-breaker words that I needed to know how to pronounce, if there is more than one acceptable pronunciation, the definition of the word and be able to use the word in a sentence.

I didn't even have the most difficult part of the contest, though. The students in the contest are given more than one thousand words to study, knowing that the words given in the contest don't have to be on the study list.

Just because a student spells all the words correctly doesn't mean he's going to regional or that he's got the contest won. The name of the contest is Spelling and Plain Writing, and believe me, judges do count off on the writing.

I don't necessarily think spelling is the most difficult of the contests our students participate in, it's just the one I've had more dealings with.

If you think there's not much to UIL contests, or if you haven't had a child participate in them, ask some of the youngsters what they are required to be able to do, recall and know within a short amount of time.

Number Sense participants must be able to work difficult mathematical problems in their heads (no scratch paper) with pencils. There are no erasers allowed in the contest, and any markovers (however slight) are counted errors.

In Ready Writing, students given are given two subjects from which they may choose to write a theme on. There is a time-limit and a word-limit on this contest and this year's themes included, "Discuss discipline in the classroom and possible alternatives for teachers."

In Impromptu Speaking, students are given three subjects at the beginning of the contest. They may choose one of the topics to speak on. They are given one minute to prepare their 3-5 minute speech.

In Modern Oratory students must memorize a 3-6 minute speech and deliver it to the judges. One of the topics given in this even was, "Does today's popular music have a good or bad influence on students?"

Oral Reading changes each week from Prose to Poetry. This year was Poetry and the students are judges on their interpretation of the poem while delivering.

Fourth and fifth grade students participate in "Picture Memory" (one of the most difficult contests, I think). They are given 40 pictures to study, and must be able to spell and write the name of the artist, the nationality, and the name of the picture correctly and in a certain order. Misplaced commas are counted errors.

Students in the second and third grades participate in Story Telling. They listen to a story told to them for the first time at the contest. Then, to the best of their memory, they re-tell the story in front of a panel of judges and an audience. The students who re-call the most facts and table of events in the story place the highest in the contest.

An the list goes on and on and on...there's science and debate and much more in high school-er's shorthand, typing, headline writing, editorial writing, feature writing...and probably one day soon, computer programming.

I think we should take our hats off to our youngsters for showing so well in the district contest. Many of the schools make this contest their big event of the year. They begin practicing on some of these events from the day school begins, gearing up for this particular contest.

Our students and teachers work hard at their contest in a much shorter time frame, and represent our school quite well.

Whittler's Bench

By Sam Haynes

People with fruit trees in our area were certainly holding their breath last weekend during the cold weather. The U.S. weather bureau thermometers which I keep, recorded 28 for a low the first cold night and 27 degrees the second night. Since it was as wet as it was, I am hoping that at least most of the blossoms may have made it through.

I have talked to several who thought they may have lost some, but I looked at my trees and have decided most of them have made survived so far. We don't have a fruit crop very often here and when we do it usually is really spectacular. Maybe this will be the year. Of course, being classified an old timer in this area, I know we are not out of the woods yet, as the biggest snow I ever saw in the Panhandle was the eighth of April; but anyway, we can all keep our fingers crossed and hope for the best.

+++ This coming Saturday is election day in McLean, and we will be electing members to our school board, a mayor, and members of the city council. I hope you consider it a personal responsibility to get out and vote, and not let apathy and indifference do to our country what is did to Germany in the days of Adolph Hitler. All we have to do is not care, and not be involved, and a lunatic fringe minority can suddenly be in total control, ignoring existing laws and imposing their will on a society that waited too long to take an active part in the democratic process. See you at the polls Saturday!

+++ The Texas Aggies really catch it in this part of the country as far as the jokes are concerned. Our speaker at Lions Club Monday night (who is himself a professor at A&M) said the university had quit using white rats for experiments because so many of the students were becoming attached to them, and that they had substituted lawyers for the rats, and so far not one lota of concern had been shown for any of them!!!

The Hon. Frank P. Greever, Judge of the 31st Judicial District, was shot to death at Lefors Friday at the noon hour by A.E. Humes, who residence was in Oklahoma. Five shots were fired at the Judge, four of which took effect and he passed away in a few hours after all that medical skill could offer was done. The assassin, after his victim had fallen mortally wounded, turned the weapon, a thirty-eight caliber revolver, on himself and pulled the trigger several times, but there was no explosion as there were no more loads in the gun. He hurried to the sheds nearby and reloaded his pistol, taking his own life with a bullet through the brain.

Phelps To Speak At Church

The revival will begin Sunday, April 7th and will continue through the fourteenth. Sunday services will begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Weekday services will start at 12 p.m., and lunch will be served. Nightly services will begin at 7 p.m.

is planning an even bigger success this time.

Nusery will be provided for the night services and Sunday services.

City Council Applies For PRPC Grant

City councilmen met with representatives of Southwestern Public Service and the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission Monday night to discuss upcoming grants and contracts.

After hearing from Dwight Brandt, Linda Allen, and Mike Micheals of PRPC, councilmen voted to have the PRPC apply for new grants to improve the city's water system.

The lease of the hospital building was discussed and tabled.

Pat Durham from Southwestern Public Service re-submitted a new contract to city fathers for a 25 year agreement between the city and the electric company. Councilmen tabled the subject.

The 1968 pickup previously owned by the City was sold to Johnny Day for $566. Day was the highest bidder for purchasing the pickup.

Councilmen also agreed to allow a bid for covering the old dump ground area, subject to ruling by an attorney.

In further business, city fathers decided to stand in a previous decision not to reimburse Rush Turner for damages done to his sewer line.

W.A. Ayers received approval to use the land by the city water tanks for a vegetable garden, providing he signs a release of obligation and repairs any damages done to the land.

The summer water rates went into effect April 1, 1985 at the previous rates. Clean up week for the city of McLean has been designated from May 1 to May 15.

In final action, councilmen decided to hire two high-school age people as summer help. Applications are currently being accepted.

The meeting was adjourned at 9 a.m.

Attending the meeting were mayor Terry, councilmen June Suggs, W.A. Bentley, H.F. Fabian; Stella Lee, Bob Glenn, Dwight Brandt, Linda Allen, Mike Micheals, Pat Durham, and Elmonette Bivens.
