Well, the Easter bunny has once again come and gone, and we survived the egg-hunting and hiding, even though the weather was not very obliging.

I hope the bunny left your house in the same condition he did ours - mainly with egg shells scattered among the house - stopping up the sink, lying on the floor, and worst of all, hiding in the sheets.

I am thankful, however, that on this occasion my children did not take after their uncle Scott - and "lose" their eggs in the house.

When Scott was three, he decided after several indoor egg hunts, to stash a few away in a drawer for safe-keeping and some mid-night snacking.

After a few weeks, however, the eggs (long forgotten) rotted, and a mysterious odor began to emit from his room. We searched the room for what was obviously a dead animal, but to no avail. Before long, a dark green fog began to take over the house, and it was at that point we came across Scott's hidden treasures.

I was only five or six at the time, but I remember that awful smell, and how nothing seemed to help.

Of course, I may be premature in my thankfulness. Easter has just been over two days...

Allen Patman and Kevin McDowell are on their way to state (and are probably competing now) in UIL science competition. I am anxious to hear how they fared - as I'm sure you are. And, if they place in the competition...I may have to take back some of the things I've said in this column about Allen. (Don't get your hopes up, Al, that's not a promise!)

I owe an apology to Craig Morris - he made the 90-and-above honor roll last week, and I left his name out. Sorry about that, Craig.

I received an anonymous note in the mail the other day, the contents of which are unprintable. (And mostly unreadable).

However, the intent of the letter was to point out one of my mistakes and I shall share that with you.

In a recent story, I wrote that Donnie Smith had an "unprecedented third place" in the district golf meet. My sources inform me that several McLean teams have qualified and won in the state meet, much less the district meet, so my choice of words was improper.

I should have known this - I do remember when Dick Back, Joel McCarty, Pat Windom, Terry Dan

MHS Athletes To Be Honored Monday Night

Dr. Myron Dees will be the guest speaker at the 1984 All-Sports Banquet Monday night, where local high school athletes will be recognized for their achievements during the school year.

Dr. Dees, presently serving West Texas State University as chairman of the Health and Physical Education and Recreation Department, has long been associated with Texas sports.

He graduated from Llano High School, where he lettered in football, basketball, baseball, tennis and track his senior year. He was named all-district in football, basketball, and baseball, and all-central Texas in football.

He attended Southwestern University in Georgetown, where he participated in football, basketball, and baseball. He received his Bachelor's degree in physical education from Southwestern University, and his Masters from the University of Texas at Austin.

He has coached in public schools at McAllen and Georgetown, and coached 12 years at Southwestern University in Georgetown, where he served as head basketball and head baseball coach for eight years.

He has been with WTSU since 1969, when he came as Chairman of the Physical Education Department. He also served as WTSU athletic director from 1978 to 1981. He currently coaches the golf team.

Dr. Dees and his wife have three children, a daughter who is a CPA

Livestock Boosters Schedule Sale

The McLean Jr. Livestock Boosters Club has scheduled a consignment sale, 9 a.m., May 12 at the new agriculture barn, south of McLean.

The organization is taking farming and irrigation equipment from local farmers and ranchers to go to the sale. The boosters will only keep 6% of the sale money received, and approximately 2% of that money will go for advertisement and promotion of the sale.

"If anyone has some old equipment they need to sell, now would be a good time to get rid of it," said booster Ida Hess. "We have several pickups and trailers, and if someone wants to consign an item to the sale, we will be happy to pick it up and deliver it to the barn."

The organization plans to distribute flyers advertising the items to be sold in the sale. To get your equipment included in the advertisements, call Mrs. Hess at 779-2641 or 779-2915.

The Whittler's Bench

The Libyan embassy situation in London should be getting close to some sort of solution by the time this paper comes out.

This has been a really ticklish situation, and it seems to me the British are doing everything about right, especially since there are eight or nine thousand Englishmen in Libya subject to the whims of Colonel Mommarr Khadafy.

Some smart people I have known have told me all through life that it is impossible to argue with ignorance, and I have certainly found that to be true. When that ignorance is compounded by lunacy and over-ridden by truly mad ambition, you can readily see the plight the British are in, trying to deal with a mad heathen.

I was also glad that our president backed the British action in the matter, and feel that the time is long over-due when God-fearing, freedom-loving nations around the world band together to mete out rapid and meaningful justice to terrorists all over this globe, whether they be Libyans, P.L.O., Iranians, Syrians or Irishmen. Perhaps someone should devise a plan for instant, world-wide denunciation and resolution of terrorist acts, with perhaps the Israelis as the group chosen to devise the plan and

The Russians are coming... the Russians aren't coming... which is it?

The Summer Olympics are just a few months away.

It is a happening that the world looks forward to. It is an event that is supposed to draw the nations of the world closer together. It is an event in which the competition involved is supposed to be among the athletes and pettiness and bickering are to be left outside. It does neither, it never has, it probably never will.

Politics is thick and the competition is not on an individual or team concept, but is broken down to be a "them against us" affair.

In the 30's it was Hitler and his mighty Germans against the inferior races and peoples of the world. His pure race ran into a problem, however, and a man named Jesse Owens wrecked his dream of domination of the event.

Not it is Democracy vs. Communism, it is highly political and it is used for propaganda purposes, or worse, it can lead to terrorism, as was the case in the 1972 games when several Israeli athletes lost their lives in an aborted hostage situation.

In the 1980 games, it was the United States who chose to make a political statement with the games by boycotting them entirely. The Russians had invaded Afghanistan and President Carter kept our athletes from attending the games in Moscow.

This may have been a proper gesture, it was one with good intentions, but it did little to deter the Russians.

It did keep several dedicated athletes from performing in the games, something they had worked hard many years for.

Now this year the Olympics are scheduled to be carried out in this country, more specifically at Los Angeles, Calif.

This year it is the Russians that are making sounds of boycott.

It is enough to make one wonder if the hassle is worth all of the tension and political run-around. That is until you watch some of the events and see the athletes themselves engaging in a labor of love, one that they have sacrificed for, and in many cases actually went through pain, in order to participate.

It really does not matter who boycotts and who does not, after all it is the spirit, not the action that counts.

So, come on Russians, or stay at home, it really makes no difference.

It is a happening that the world looks forward to every four years. With them or without them... or us.

implement the action.

Here's hoping the English situation will work out without further loss of life and that the man who fired the shots which killed the English policeman will somehow be brought to justice.

Perhaps if he could stand side-by-side with his hero Khadafy on a scaffold with a hangman's knot above each of their heads, the world would be a little nearer to eliminating this blight, which has been making a mockery of civilized decorum throughout the world.

Don't forget to set your clocks forward one hour Saturday night when you turn in... or for those of you who will be up at 2 Sunday morning, you can do it then. Otherwise, you'll be an hour late for Sunday school, and we don't want that.

(Okay, Lisa... I put it in my column, so you can't use that as an excuse for being late Sunday!)

kk

Now, I'm going to take the kindly advice of W.A. Bentley. He told me in church a few weeks ago that I didn't have to apologize every week in my column. So those of you to whom I owe an apology... Sorry, I've about run out. (However, you might check with me next week...)

Hostility and Heart Disease

Hostility may be a key aspect of the "Type A" behavior profile — the hard-driving, impatient person who is at higher risk than others of having heart attacks, said Redford B. Williams, Jr., M.D., at a recent American Heart Association meeting.

Not all Type A's get heart attacks, but in studies at Duke University Medical Center in Durham, NC, over the last seven years, Type A patients showed more severe coronary heart disease than others. And the Type A's who scored high on an experimental "hostility" scale from the standard personality assessment questionnaire, the Minnesota Multiphasic Inventory (MMPI), had a particularly high rate of heart disease reported Dr. Williams, associate professor of medicine and professor of psychiatry.

Dr. Williams studied the records of 255 physicians who had taken the MMPI 25 years earlier, while in medical school. Those who scored low on the hostility scale had a less than three percent heart attack rate during the ensuing 25 years, compared with more than a 12 percent rate for those with higher range hostility scores — nearly a five-fold difference. Their death rates from all causes followed this same pattern, being lower among the low-hostility men.

Numerous researchers are investigating the mechanisms, by putting Type A's and the more calm Type B individuals through stressful experiments in laboratories. Type A's show larger boosts in blood pressure, and larger increases in blood levels of epinephrine and cortisol, the adrenal hormones that cause blood vessels to constrict, Dr. Williams said.

The Duke researchers found, among Type A men given simple arithmetic problems, physiologic and hormonal reactions similar to those seen in emergency and fight-or-flight situations.

Further studies are necessary to determine if the higher hormonal responses observed so far in some Type A persons are causative factors in heart disease, Dr. Williams said. If susceptible people could be identified early, then preventive measures could be taken to save their lives.

County Extension Offices Schedule McLean Tour And Lunch May 1

Problems which are increasingly confronting area ranchers - and some ways to combat them - will be examined May 1 during the East Panhandle Range, Grass, Brush and Weed Control Tour around McLean.

Control of shinoak and goldaster weeds and the latest information on lovegrass and Old World Bluestems will be featured during the program.

The program also will include information on new brush control methods and cell grazing systems along with a free barbecue lunch.

The tour and program is being sponsored by the county Extension offices and the Extension Program Building Committees of Collingsworth, Donley, Gray and Wheeler counties. To assure lunch, reservations must be made by telephoning the Gray County Extension office (806-669-7429) or the Donley County Extension office (806-874-2141) by noon April 30.

The tour will begin at 9 a.m. at the Jake Hess II ranch, five miles south of McLean on the east side of Hwy. 273. Charles Beers, Elanco Products Co. representative from Wheeler, will discuss shinoak control.

At 9:30 a.m., the tour will stop at the Martinez ranch. Ronald Gooch, Donley County Extension agent, will discuss lovegrass management. Tim Fitch, manager of the ranch, will discuss shinoak control and cell grazing systems.

At 10:30, the tour will stop at the former Boyd Meador place north of the McLean rodeo arena. Here Dr. Pete Jacoby, associate professor with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Vernon, and Joe VanZandt, Gray County Extension Agent, will discuss goldaster weed control.

At 11 a.m., the group will stop at the Ken Stark farm just east of McLean to learn about Old World bluestems and inspect the Plains variety. Dr. Chet Dewald, research agronomist with USDA Agricultural Research Service at the Southern Plains Range Research Station, Woodward, Okla., will lead the discussion.

The tour then will move to the Gray County

Lions' 'Journey For Sight' Nears

For the past several weeks, members of the McLean Lions Club have been soliciting pledges from local residents for the May 5 "Lions Journey for Sight."

Funds raised during the walk-a-thon will benefit local Lions Club sight programs.

"We are extremely pleased with the community's response thus far," said Club representative, Johnny Haynes. "The money we raise will enable us to assist many more blind persons and, hopefully, prevent many more from losing their sight. We're proud to be able to join with thousands of Lions Clubs worldwide in this Journey."

Seventy-five percent of the money raised during the walk-a-thon, will stay in the local Lions Club.

Lions Club International is the world's largest service club organization, with more than 1.3 million members in 157 countries and geographical areas. Clubs operate or support

The program concludes with a panel discussion on the Weeping Lovegrass situation and management practices.

Extension and research personnel will be on the panel. A lot of folks are wondering what to do with their lovegrass

because of the lack of early spring growth this year. The panel will attempt to come up with some possible explanations and suggestions.

The program should adjourn at 2 p.m.

Transportation for the tour will be by private automobile.

House Hunting Hints

Buying a house will probably be the biggest financial transaction your family will ever have to face. That's why it is vitally important to look for signs of quality and to buy wisely.

• DO check to see that the house is well constructed. It is wise to get expert advice on this, for much construction detail is hidden. Get an architect, for a nominal fee, to look over the house you are considering; he or she will give you a reliable opinion on its soundness.

• DON'T neglect to make sure that the house's heating, plumbing, and electrical are adequate and in good condition. These are important factors in a house and if they are not in good shape they can run you into a great deal of trouble and money.

• DO inspect the appliances that the builder has installed in the house. Whirlpool appliances in the kitchen is a sign of a builder who is concerned about quality.

Your Oral Hygiene

Plaque, as many people know, is the bacterial film that begins to form within hours after brushing the teeth. It can harden by drawing calcium and phosphates out of saliva, forming a brittle white compound called calculus or tartar. This accumulates around the teeth, supporting additional bacteria food stains and odor.

Dentists have long recommended a routine of brushing twice daily and flossing once a day to fight plaque, as well as having regular dental check-ups and cleaning.

Recent clinical studies conclude that rinsing twice daily with Listerine antiseptic, in addition to usual oral hygiene, can reduce plaque buildup by as much as 50 percent over brushing alone.

New Peril: Unspent Air Bags

Air bags installed in automobiles to save lives on the road could be posing a threat to the health of scrap processors and the general public unless Americans take action now, experts say.

Studies show that unspent air bags in auto hulks can be dangerous because of the chemical compound known as sodium azide, which is used to inflate the air bags. The canisters used to activate the air bags could explode during processing at scrap metal plants.

causing serious damage to life and property. Even if the canister doesn't explode—but is cracked—the sodium azide powder, a possibly cancer-causing chemical, would be released into the water, ground surface and air. The canister might also escape processing and wind up in scrap sent to steel mills and foundries, creating similar dangers.

Junk autos are often flattened before they arrive at the scrap plant, making it impossible to determine whether they contain untriggered air bags, say experts at The Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel (ISIS). The easiest means of avoiding dangerous risks, says the organization, is to insure that the bags are either activated or removed prior to processing.

The scrap industry, which processes up to nine million automobile hulks into scrap each year, suggests that air bag manufacturers or another appropriate body repurchase unspent air bags from towing firms, autowreckers or other owners of car hulks, prior to their being sold as scrap.

CAR CARE

One of the most common household products—baking soda—can help put your car on the road to cleaner, safer operation, say the experts. Here's how:

• Battery: Use a baking soda paste to clean corrosion build-up from terminals without having to use a wire brush. The slightly alkaline paste actually neutralizes corrosion. Then, after reconnecting the clamps to the terminals, wipe them with petroleum jelly. Be careful when working around the battery as it contains a strong acid.

• Car Ashtray: A layer of baking soda in the bottom of the ashtray works to extinguish cigarettes and eliminate flying sparks. Helps freshen the air, too.

• Carpeting: Clean and freshen by sprinkling baking soda onto the carpet. Brush or vacuum off. The baking soda will help rid the car of dog, baby and smoke odors too.

Use baking soda to clean floor mats, headlights, taillights, mirrors, license plates, windshields, wiper blades, upholstery and—for more car care tips send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Great Ideas, ARM & HAMMER, P.O. Box 369, Piscataway, NJ 08854.

Making The Most Of Fruits

In many areas of the country, luscious fruits like strawberries, blueberries and raspberries are seasonal, and we need indulge ourselves whenever we can.

The Fruit In Crust recipe featured here uses fresh strawberries and bananas in one sumptuous tart. A layer of smooth Royal® Instant Pistachio Pudding and Pie Filling provides a delicious contrast in flavor and texture to the fresh fruit.

To receive 66 additional easy-to-prepare dessert recipes in an attractive recipe card box, please send $3.95 plus 55¢ mailing and handling and one of the following proofs of purchase (UPC codes from 1) four small Royal Gelatins or Puddings or 2) two large Royal Gelatins or Puddings or 3) two Royal No Bake Desserts to: Royal Desserts Recipe Offer, P.O. Box 673, Young America, Minnesota 55399.

FRUIT IN CRUST

1 (17-ounce) package frozen puff pastry
1 egg, beaten
1 (3-3/8 ounce) package Royal Instant Pistachio Pudding & Pie Filling 1-1/2 cups milk
1 cup strawberries, sliced
1 banana, sliced
1 cup whipped cream or topping

Preheat oven to 450°F.

Roll pastry into 10-inch square; fit into 9-inch pie plate or quiche plate; trim edges. Place foil in center of crust. Fill with uncooked rice or dry beans to weight down pastry. Reduce oven temperature to 400°F. Bake pastry for 15 minutes. Brush with beaten egg and bake an additional 5 minutes; cool.

Prepare instant filling according to package directions for pie using 1-1/2 cups milk. Spread in crust. Chill 1 hour. Arrange sliced strawberries and bananas over filling and garnish with whipped cream or topping. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PERSONALS

DEAR DAVID: With an enemy like you, a gal doesn't need just a whole big bunch of friends! Every time I let Bernard go to town by himself, something like this happens.

The last time we received a gift of such magnitude was nearly twenty years ago -- it died ten years ago but its memory lingers on -- and on -- and on...

If this touches your heart and you feel that an apology is in order -- I will be receiving my mail in care of the nearest psychiatric pavilion.

P.S. Perhaps some day, in some small way, we can repay your kindness!!!

THE 1984 WORLD'S FAIR

A fantasyland complete with a monorail, a network of lagoons, a 20-story Ferris Wheel, a wall of playful architecture, and a playbill filled with celebrity entertainment. That's what the 1984 Louisiana Exposition has been called.

This World's Fair will run from May 12 to November 11, 1984. It occupies 84 acres of New Orleans along the Mississippi River.

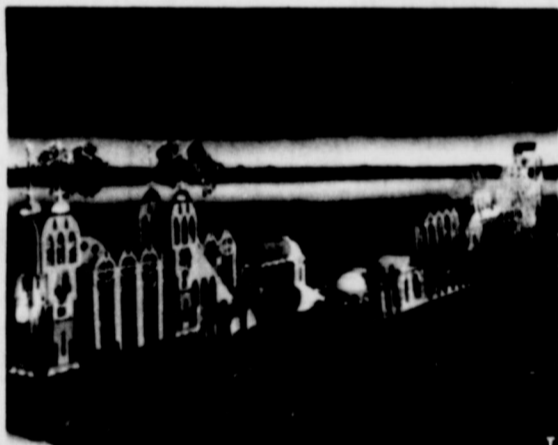

Within its boundaries are a vast array of attractions and experiences. Among them:

Wonderwall is a new kind of architecture conceived for the Fair. Alive with fanciful beasts, magicians, exotic birds, lights, fountains and curious twists and turns, it will be for a half-mile through the fairgrounds. It has been described as a stationary Mardi Gras Parade.

The first full-scale Aquacade since the 1939 World's Fair will feature twin 95-foot diving towers. It will be replete with beautiful precision swimmers and water ballet with synchronized music, fire and fountains.

Overhead, a ten-car monorail train will silently glide over exhibits and right through buildings. Riding it, like enjoying any of the Aquacade's daily shows, is included in the price of getting into the Fair. In the riverfront International Pavilion, 23 nations will put up exhibits that educate and invite wonder--such as ancient water marvels. The Chinese plan to show. Nearby will be the Space Shuttle Enterprise flown from the West Coast.

The International Amphitheatre, overlooking the river will present daily events and nightly star-studded shows. Some 350 feet above, a rapid transit aerial gondola system will offer a majestic panorama as it transports people across the Mississippi to the Fair gates.

Food for body, soul or thought will abound in the Italian Village; Reunion Hall; Vatican Pavilion; Artworks '84; German Beer Hall; Water Gardens; Bayou Plaza; Centennial Plaza; Fulton Street Mall; Cajun Walk; Louisiana Exhibition and Convention Center; Chrysler Pavilion; U.S. Pavilion; Petroleum Industries Pavilions.

Add to all of these the charm, history and hospitality of New Orleans itself, one of the world's most colorful cities and the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition appears to have just about everything going for it to make life more fun for families that go to it.

OLYMPIC NEWS & NOTES

Top Track and Field Performers in the Spotlight

The athletes you'll be seeing at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles will, it's expected, include these three top track and field performers. They're considered the premier athletes in their respective events:

Alberto Salazar: Salazar is the world's top marathon runner. He won his first marathon in New York City in 1980 and set a course record of 2:09:41 for the 26.2 mile race--the fastest marathon debut in history. He won the New York Marathon for three consecutive years--1980, 1981 and 1982--and set a world record in the race at 2:08:13 in 1981. He also won the Boston Marathon in 1982 with a time of 2:08:51, a course record. In road racing, he has run five miles in 22:03 for a world record and 10,000 meters in 28:03.5 for an American record. He was born August 7, 1958 in Havana, Cuba, moving to the U.S. when he was two years old.

Mary Decker: Mary Decker is the world's dominant female distance runner. She holds American records in the 1500-meter and 5000-meter events, and the world record in the mile and the 3000-meter and 10,000-meter race. Decker won the Sullivan Award as the top U.S. amateur athlete of 1982 and also was named amateur sportsman of the year by the Woman's Sports Foundation. Edwin Moses: Edwin Moses is the world's top ranked intermediate hurdler. He won a gold medal at the Montreal Olympics in 1976 for the 400-meter hurdles. Since the Olympics he has lost only once. He has the ten fastest times ever in the 400-meter hurdles and 30 of the 50 best times. In 1977, he was cited for "Performance of the Year" when he lowered his world record in the hurdles at the U.S.A. Championships. That same year he was the "World Cup Champion" and runner-up in voting for the Field Team.

LAWN LORE

You witness it every spring. Across the suburban landscape, the stout-hearted troops of lawnmowers diligently cutting, pulling, digging--trying to rid their lawns of springtime's perennial invader, the dandelion.

Never mind the hand-to-weed combat. Because pulling, cutting and digging just won't do the job, according to the lawn experts at The J.M. Scott & Sons Company. To get rid of dandelions once and for all, you have to eliminate the entire plant, including the taproot, which can penetrate the ground more than two feet. If part of it remains in the ground, the dandelion will simply grow back again.

So during the first days of spring, take a few minutes to spread a selective broadleaf control that destroys dandelions and other common broadleaf weeds such as clover, plantain, buckhorn and chickweed.

According to the experts at Scott's, this will get rid of lawn spoilers without harming desirable turfgrasses.

The best time to rid your lawn of pesky dandelions in the spring is when they have blossomed but have not reached puffball stage. This is also an ideal time to spread a high quality weed-n-feed that not only destroys dandelions, but also fertilizes your lawn.

Scott's offers the following suggestions to ensure excellent results when using broadleaf weed controls:

- Apply the weed control on a calm day when the grass is wet from morning dew or sprinkling. (Dew provides the ideal application environment.)

- Pick a day when rain is not forecast for at least 24 hours. The weed control particles must adhere to the leaves that long to work effectively.

- Be sure to overlap applications so that no areas are missed.

- Stay off the lawn for at least a day, so that the weed control has ample time to do its job without disturbance.

Within a few days, you'll notice the dandelions will begin to shrivel. In a month, they'll be gone. To keep your lawn thick and green, keep it well fertilized and watered. Then the good grass will actually crowd out new dandelions and other weeds.

Modern weed control products make it simple and easy to win the dandelion war.

Scott's offers a wide range of lawn products that are custom-made for your region and its weather, soil, grass and weed conditions. These products are developed and tested on regional grass varieties at five Scott's research stations across the country. To find out exactly which products to use on your lawn, just call Scott's toll-free HOTLINE: 1-800-543-TURF (in Ohio, 1-800-762-4010).
