Wedding vows will be exchanged by Karen Sue Wilson and Randy Jones this Saturday, Jan. 9th at 7 p.m. in the Assembly of God Church at 4th & Main. Friends of the couple are invited.

 And make me whole today.
 And let me praise Thy Holy Name

Fair Warning

While a housewife was polishing her dining room table, the telephone rang in the kitchen. Although she was out of the room only a few minutes, her infant son managed to take a drink of the furniture polish. It was poisonous, and the child died.

In due course, the victim's parents filed a damage suit against the manufacturer of the polish. They charged that the label failed to warn how dangerous the polish was.

True, the label did contain the words "May be harmful if swallowed." Nevertheless, the company was indeed held liable for the tragedy. The words were found to be too mild a warning for so deadly a product. Besides, they were placed in an obscure position on the package.

One of the common issues in product liability cases is whether the manufacturer has given the user "fair warning" of possible danger. Generally speaking, the warning should be as conspicuous and as urgent as the danger reasonably calls for.

To judge the adequacy of a particular warning, courts will weigh various factors. Thus:

A label on paint, listing a dangerous ingredient, was held inadequate because the ingredient was described only by its chemical name, which few users would understand.

And the warning on a cleaning fluid was held inadequate because it was printed in letters that were too small.

On the other hand, when the warning is fair, it is not the manufacturer's fault if the user simply fails to pay attention to it. For example:

An adhesive compound, placed too close to an open flame, exploded and injured the user. But when he sued for damages, the company pointed out that the label had a plain and positive warning of the danger. Accordingly, the victim's claim was turned down.

Furthermore, many dangers are so obvious that no warning is needed at all. As one judge put it: "A knife will cut and a stove will burn; but no authority holds that manufacturers must warn of such contingencies. No one needs notice of what he already knows."

Linkletter Urges Parents To Learn About Drug Abuse

Art Linkletter looks to the young to turn off on drugs—by themselves. Speaking at the 75th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, the famed television star cited some of the more successful programs young people are promoting to fight drug abuse. Mr. Linkletter mentioned volunteer organizations whose teenage counselors give periodic lectures and aid students who need information and help. There should be more such organizations, he says. Mr. Linkletter's speech before the NAM's membership was entitled "The Role of Business in Drug Control." He urged the industrial leaders to "become the leaders in the fight against drug abuse." What You Should Do When Car Hits Water

Everyone, at one time or another, has wondered what it would be like to be imprisoned in a submerged automobile. The fear of such an incident is not totally unfounded, as 27 Texans died last year when the vehicles in which they were riding went into water. George Cook, director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Water Safety Services, said the number one rule to remember is "stay clam and don't panic." Don't try to get out of the car unless it comes to a halt.

Governor Names Jan. 15 As Arbor Day In Texas

Texas--Governor Preston Smith has designated January 15, 1971 as Arbor Day in Texas. A resolution by the 51st Legislature, in recognition of the importance of trees to Texans, designates the third Friday of each January as Arbor Day. In his Proclamation the Governor urged all citizens, and especially the public schools of Texas, to appropriately observe the occasion in the interest of Texas and the Nation. "Trees have played a major role in the development and growth of Texas. As an economic crop, they have provided Texans with vital raw materials, so important to our wood-using industries, helped stabilize the soil from erosion by wind and water, provided food and cover for wildlife, and have been refreshing objects of beauty around the home, in parks and along our public roads. "Trees are a renewable resource and as such should be protected from their natural enemies--forest fires, disease and insects."

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times. There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value. At Chevrolet, we understand. You want meaningful change. And our aim is to give that to you, as you'll see in the 1971 Chevrolets.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change. Bigness in itself is nothing. But it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride. The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure for 1971, too. We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy ever. It wasn't changed from anything. Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.

What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind. In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

TV Special.
 Chevrolet presents Changing Scene III with Engelbert Humperdinck • Don Adams • Barbara Eden • and a host of other stars • ABC-TV, Jan. 7. Consult local listings for time and channel.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

- Q) My job requires me to keep in fairly close touch with some of my customers. To do this I must use my own car. Are my car costs deductible if I'm not reimbursed for them?
- A) The use of your car on company business is a deductible expense to the extent that you are not reimbursed by your company. Driving back and forth from home to work, however, is a personal expense and not deductible. Many taxpayers find that the standard mileage rate of 12¢ per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 9¢ a mile thereafter, is a convenient way to figure this deduction. It only requires a reading of your speedometer at the start and end of your business driving. Parking fees and tolls may be added to the mileage costs. If you prefer, you may deduct the actual expenses of operating your car. Include depreciation, insurance and similar costs but be sure to prorate them between the business and personal use of the car.
- Q) For some years I've provided a home for my father. If he moves to a nursing home because of ill health will we still be able to claim him as a dependent?
- A) A close relative does not have to be a member of your household to qualify as a dependent. In the situation you describe, as long as the other dependency tests are met you may continue to claim your father as a dependent. Furthermore, if your father is in a nursing home primarily because of the medical care provided there, the entire cost of his maintenance is considered a medical expense. If personal or family reasons prompted the decision for him to enter the home, only those expenses specifically for medical care will be considered deductible medical expenses.
- Q) How does a farmer handle conservation expenses for tax purposes?
- A) You may deduct some of these costs but must capitalize others. The cost of structures or facilities subject to depreciation must be capitalized with the costs recovered through annual depreciation allowances. This covers such items as water walls, pipes, tiles and concrete dams. You may elect to deduct, within certain limitations, the costs of drainage ditches, diversion channels, earthen dams and ponds along with certain other expenditures. If you deduct these expenses you must do it the first tax year you have such expenses. Details are contained in Publication 225, Farmers Tax Guide. It's available free from your County Agent or by sending a post card to your IRS District office.
- Q) Can I deduct the pledge I made to my church's building fund drive?
- A) No, however, you may deduct the amount you actually paid this year on your pledge as a charitable contribution. That part of your pledge which is paid in succeeding years may be deducted when paid.

IRS Computation Of Of Tax

TAX MAN SAM SEZ: There has been some confusion on what IRS is going to do for taxpayers on figuring their tax returns this year. IRS will not take your shoes box full of records (?) and put it down on your Form 1040 for you - however, you can have IRS's computer figure your tax return by simply following the instructions with your Form 1040.

"Your Federal Income Tax" says: "If your income on line 18, Form 1040 is $20,000 or less, and consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities and you choose the standard deduction instead of itemizing your deductions, you may have IRS compute your tax for you. If you want IRS to do this, fill in lines 1 through 19 and 24, 26, 27 and 28, if applicable. If you are entitled to a retirement income credit, attach Schedule R and enter "RIC" on line 22 of Form 1040."

If you meet the requirements and you figure that the computer can "out figure" you, just mail it to the Austin Ser-
