

Gen. Wainwright Receives Hero's Welcome In US

By MAURICE RAISER
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8 (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright came home today and voiced his grim satisfaction at having watched the Japanese bow their once-arrogant heads in surrender.

But the hero of Corregidor, rendered almost speechless by his enthusiastic welcome at Hamilton Field, was mute about the treatment he received from the enemy during his 42 months' imprisonment.

He told how his valiant troops of Bataan and Corregidor were subjected to the most intense artillery bombardment in history. "With my men battered and overwhelmed, further resistance was useless," the general told a press conference. "I surrendered to M. Homa, the Japanese general. A few days ago it was my turn. I was present at Baguio in the Philippines when General Yamashita was obliged to bow his head in surrender."

Hundreds of military personnel and scores of civilians greeted the big C-54 transport plane which brought General Wainwright from Honolulu, en route to report to General Marshall at Washington.

The big plane came down through the clouds into brilliant sunshine and settled gently on the Hamilton Field runway.

The hatch was opened and the general's grey-haired head popped out. He took three steps down and suddenly came to a stiff military salute.

Maj. Gen. Henry C. Pratt, commanding general of the western defense command, grasped Wainwright's hand.

"Hello, Skinny," Pratt exclaimed. "God bless you!"

Wainwright's mouth moved, but the words just wouldn't seem to come. He took out a big handkerchief and mopped his face. Well, the day really was warm.

Then Wainwright's husky son, Capt. J. M. Wainwright II, met his father and nearly bowled him over as he grasped him in his arms.

"Dad, I was worried, but thank goodness you don't look as bad as you did in your pictures," the captain exclaimed.

General Wainwright later made a brief broadcast.

"To say I am happy to be home after five years abroad would be to sild the lily," he said with quiet feeling. "I never realized I would receive such a welcome."

Wainwright said he deeply regretted that "my dear wife was unable to be here and share in this great welcome with me, but I did not want her to leave her elderly mother."

Tomorrow General Wainwright will ride at the head of a military parade in his honor, and then from the stand, with Mayor Roger Lapham, will review the marchers.

When the marching feet are stilled General Wainwright will leave for Washington to make his official report on just what happened in the Japanese prison camp where he was held captive for so long.

Bible Fund Now Past Thousand

Four more donations Saturday pushed the amount of cash raised toward the high school Bible course to $909.81, which, with individual pledges, put $1,069 of the needed $2,000 in sight.

Latest donors were the Rotary club, which added $17.50 to $250 already paid in, Mrs. M. B. Iorner $10, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Early $10, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Jones $25.

Contributions have been increasing in numbers for past several days. Checks may be sent to Joe Pickle at The Herald for acknowledgment and deposit to the fund.

Big Spring -Week-

Joe Pickle

High temperatures of the past week have raised the question in the minds of many (not all newcomers) as to when the weather will cool. On the basis of past records, we're on the threshold of that now. During the past five years there have been only nine days with 90 degrees or more after Sept. 15. Six of those were last year.

Farmers, however, would like to see continued warm weather. Not a few are hoping that usual September rains do not come—at least until late in the month.

Aside from the fact that the typhus epidemic is about over and the polio flurry apparently is ended, the city-wide sanitation campaign is producing results. Liberal closing of public places with DDT

Two And Half Billion Work Plan Is Ready

Billion Dollar A Year Road Program All Set For Early Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Plans are ready for $2,500,000,000 worth of public construction jobs to be undertaken in the next 12 months.

Work can begin on many projects as soon as the War Production Board gives the signal. There may be some delay on federal projects until congress appropriate funds.

The relaxing by WPB of construction bans, except perhaps on housing, is expected about October 1.

The $3,000,000,000 three-year federal air road program is all set to go. The $500,000,000 federal allotment for the first year, to be matched equally by the states, already has been appropriated, although congress has to make the appropriation. On August 1 the states reported plans completed for work estimated to cost $616,000,000.

President Truman has asked congress to release, in addition, $164,750,000 of road authorizations for previous years which were held up during the war. These plans call for roads in national forests and parks, access roads to Indian reservations, and parkways.

Construction was stopped or deferred on reclamation and irrigation projects totalling $1,158,981,200 because of the war. The reclamation bureau estimates that to complete work now under way will cost $171,997,000. The bureau has $60,000,000 immediately available for construction without waiting for additional appropriations.

Army engineers have plans ready for more than 250 flood control and rivers and harbors projects to cost $750,000,000.

They estimate that more than $75,000,000 can be spent in the first year on flood control works suspended during the war and nearly $200,000,000 on new projects. The projects have been authorized by congress but no money has been appropriated.

Japs Amazed At Initial Success

TOKYO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Japanese were "amazed" at the success of their Pearl Harbor attack, but they were caught without a plan to take immediate advantage of the blow with a landing on Hawaii, a high Japanese naval ministry official said today.

Planes from four carriers, protected by three battleships, eight cruisers and 20 destroyers hit Pearl Harbor, said Capt. Ryonosuke Imamura, secretary of the naval ministry, in an interview.

"We had expected a much greater defense at so important a base," he declared. "We were amazed. Our fleet was told to bomb and leave. We had no troops with which to make a landing. If we had, perhaps we could have taken Hawaii, but we had no plan to do so."

Imamura's report on the Japanese force agreed with that of Rear Adm. Toshitane Takata, former senior staff officer of the Japanese Third fleet, given in an interview yesterday.

Takata said the Japanese later planned to occupy Midway Island, 1,450 miles northwest of Pearl Harbor, but the American victory in the battle of Midway June 3-6, 1942, six months after Pearl Harbor, wrecked that plan.

"The defeat of our fleet at Midway, where we lost four aircraft carriers, was the turning point of the war," Imamura declared.

Temporary Lab Established By Health Agents

Dusting of the DDT, the new wonder insecticide, over the city was completed Saturday and plans now stand to begin Monday re-covering some of the worst spots. Three cases of typhus reported last week, said health officers, bring a need for more cooperation of citizens of Big Spring in the sanitary clean up campaign in progress.

Sam Landrum, sanitarian with the state health department, said plans are to oil pit toilets to further stop fly and mosquito breeding.

Expected to arrive this week from Austin are Dr. S. W. Bohls, director of the state laboratory, Dr. I. V. Irons, virus division and assistant director of the state laboratory, and Neal Randolph, entomologist. The men are to trap live mosquitoes, flies and any other parasites which might be of some value in checking on the diseases of polio and typhus. A temporary laboratory is to be set up here.

Experiments, heretofore made on polio finds the virus has been known to live in flies 24 hours, in raw sewage 24 hours, in rats from 24 to 36 hours and seven days in bed bugs.

The house officials have inspected a number of breeding places for the flies and mosquitoes and have these localities marked on a city map.

Landrum said, "in behalf of the men who have been here from the state health department, the city and local health unit express appreciation for the efforts so far exerted by the citizens in assisting in controlling the flies and mosquitoes."

BELGRADE, Sept. 8 (AP)—Marshal Tito today accepted an offer of the People's Front executive committee to sponsor a forthcoming election a united front ticket pledged to unseat King Peter and establish a Yugoslavian democracy.

Schools To Open Monday

All Big Spring schools will officially open at 9 a. m. Monday with an almost complete teaching staff, announced W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of the Big Spring school system, Saturday. Teachers will assemble at 8:30 a. m. and be ready to receive the pupils.

Supply teachers will be on hand Monday until assignments are completed. Only four teachers, are ready to open the Kate Morrison school.

Grade school pupils will report to their regular schools and complete enrollment, get a list of school supplies and stay at school until dismissed by their teachers on or before noon.

"We do not know whether unders (sub-six) will be permitted to attend school, yet," said Blankenship. The state department of education asks that unders do not attend when it overcrowds classes of the scholars. However, parents are permitted to enroll their children with the understanding they will be withdrawn if crowded conditions do not permit their entrance.

A trial run on bus routing scheduled for Saturday was not made but is to be made this morning. The bus will serve the territory detached from the Midway district and attached to the Big Spring district and is due to make connections with the Midway bus near Cosden.

The planned route has the bus leaving Big Spring at 8 a. m. and making a stop east of Cos-

Japs Bow To Chinese

NANKING, Sunday, Sept. 9 (AP)—The formal surrender of around 1,000,000 Japanese troops in China was signed here today at 9:04 a. m. (7:04 p. m. Saturday Central War Time.)

Gen. Yasutsugu Okamura signed for Japan.

The surrender was accepted by Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, delegated by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He arrived yesterday by plane, completely ignored six Japanese officers waiting at the field and went to the Central Military Academy, China's "West Point."

Trimly dressed members of the Chinese Sixth army, flown in Nanking by American army planes, preceded and followed the general on a road lined with armed Japanese guards. Thousands of Chinese school children waved flags and cheered the liberating troops.

Another arrival at Nanking was Brig. Gen. Robert B. McClure, who represented the United States at the surrender ceremony.

Immediately following, Chairman Maco Stewart of Galveston called an executive session of the state board of vocational education to accept the appointment of Maj. W. E. Lowry of Huntsville as executive officer and director of vocational education.

The board also approved petition for establishment of a junior college in Howard county, presented by Robert T. Piner and Otis Grafa of Big Spring. The petition asked for formation of a countywide district for Howard county, financed through a $200,000 bond issue and 20 cent tax levy.

Buildings of the former Ink Lake vocational rehabilitation school in Burnett county were transferred to the state board of control for a training school for underprivileged children.

Hirohito May Be Out Of Job Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito of Japan may find himself out of a job soon.

And once the bespectacled little man has ceased to be the royal figurehead of Japan's religious-political system, he may be tried as a war criminal.

At the moment, as far as official Washington will say, these are good possibilities. Some foreign diplomatic persons say they are certain. Evidently the final decision is up to General Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur's entry into Tokyo opens a period of drastic political and economic changes in the defeated island country.

Top developments are tentative expected to include:

1. Withdrawal of Hirohito from the throne—either by voluntary abdication or by order of the Allied powers. He will be replaced by a regency for the schoolboy Prince Akihito. The regent probably will be an elderly member of the royal family.

2. Breakup of the "Azibatsu"—the clique of eight great families which have run Japanese industry and commerce for generations. Some authorities who have helped shape American policy on Japan consider these families to be the real basis of lingering feudalism in Nippon.

3. Revision of the Japanese constitution to take power from the emperor and place it in the hands of the people.

Grounds for speculation that the emperor may be tried as a war criminal are found here in the fact that powerful Chinese factions have demanded such a trial. American leaders see no objection to it and could find the technical basis for it in the fact that the emperor signed official documents starting the war.

Board Approves College Plan

GALVESTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Investigation of rebinding costs for public school textbooks, with a view to cutting costs in half was asked by the state board of education at its first peacetime meeting in Galveston today.

Immediately following, Chairman Maco Stewart of Galveston called an executive session of the state board of vocational education to accept the appointment of Maj. W. E. Lowry of Huntsville as executive officer and director of vocational education.

The board also approved petition for establishment of a junior college in Howard county, presented by Robert T. Piner and Otis Grafa of Big Spring. The petition asked for formation of a countywide district for Howard county, financed through a $200,000 bond issue and 20 cent tax levy.

US Flag Raised In Jap Capital

By MURLIN SPENCER
TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 9 (AP)—Helmeted U.S. troops with bayonets ready spread their control over more of subdued Tokyo today (Saturday, U.S. time). Behind them additional men, tanks and guns streamed into Japan.

The American flag flew proudly over the devastated capital of a fallen empire, placed there yesterday at the command of General MacArthur at a brief and simple ceremony in the U.S. embassy grounds.

Other soldiers were swarming ashore in Korea, under Japanese thrall since 1910. The Tokyo radio said American rule over the homeland would reach up to Japan's northernmost limits of Hokkaido by Oct. 4.

The Japanese were scheduled to yield Ominato naval base, 400 miles north of Tokyo, to the U. S. North Pacific fleet at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Saturday, Central War Time) extending the occupation of Honshu Island beyond the capital for the first time.

Sixty warships crowded into Ominato's anchorage, marines in reconnaissance boats prowled the coast line, and naval crews prepared to immobilize all Japanese shipping in these waters.

A similar drama was being enacted at Katsura naval and submarine base on Honshu's eastern coast southeast of Tokyo, which will pass completely under U. S. army and navy control before nightfall.

Tokyo radio announced a schedule of occupation which would place American forces in control of many strategic points of the fallen empire by early October.

By this account, the naval base of Sasebo on the western coast of the southern island of Kyushu will be taken over Sept. 22, presumably by the U. S. Fifth fleet assigned to Kyushu's waters.

Wakayama, steel city of 195,000 population 30 miles southwest of Osaka—the great industrial complex lying 250 miles southwest of Tokyo—will change hands Sept. 25, Tokyo said.

Tokyo reported Yokkaichi, oil refining center 60 miles northeast of Osaka, will be occupied Oct. 2, the north Honshu port of Aomori Oct. 3, and the northernmost island of Hokkaido Oct. 4.

The Japanese also said two officers of the U. S. Sixth army had left Tokyo yesterday for Kyoto to arrange for its occupation. Kyoto, ancient capital of Japan, is 20 miles north of Osaka.

Meanwhile, as army authorities checked war prisoners' atrocity stories, Japanese intellectuals called on the Americans to announce at once a list of war criminals to which the Japanese people themselves might want to add some names.

The intellectuals told Associated Press correspondent Russell Brines that Hideki Tojo, premier at the time of Pearl Harbor, two members of the present cabinet and both signers of the surrender document should be placed on the list.

There were few Japanese in the rags and rubble that American bombers left of Tokyo, and they glanced only briefly at the columns of armored cars, self-propelled guns and personnel carriers crowded with troops.

He was to have sailed home for a leave November 15, 1941 and while waiting transportation, Pearl Harbor was bombed. The last letter he wrote to his family was dated Dec. 5, 1941.

Sgt. Lusk was aboard the USS Houston when it was sunk by Japanese off the coast of Java Feb. 28, 1942.

He is also survived by a brother, Earl, who is at Pearl Harbor with the U.S. Navy; a sister, Mrs. Carell Mitchell of Midland; niece and nephew, Judy and Cory Mitchell; grandnephews, Dr. and Mrs. G. S. True; and several aunts and uncles.

Parents of the 15 other Howard-Gloucester county men who are reported in Japanese prison camps have received no word.

GOP Forces To Plot Campaign

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—House republicans, hopeful of winning control of their branch of congress next year, will hold a party pow-wow next week to discuss a legislative program aimed in that direction.

The 190 G.O.P. members will assemble in the house chamber Friday afternoon at the call of their leader, Joe Martin of Massachusetts. They will exchange ideas on what legislation they should get behind and what they should oppose.

While not making any public claims at this time, republican leaders are pretty confident they can wrest control of the house from the democrats in next year's elections, and thereby improve their position for the 1948 presidential campaign.

Right now they are 23 seats short of a majority in the house, the line-up being 241 democrats, 190 republicans, two minor party members and two vacancies. A majority of the entire membership is 218.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Funeral services for Vice Admiral John S. McCain will be held in Fort Myer, Va., chapel at 11:30 a. m. Monday, the navy announced today. Burial with full military honors will follow in Arlington National cemetery.

Roosters and Crapshooters Cited As Reasons For Reverting To Old Time

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Kentucky roosters Richmond crapshooters and the fact that the woods aren't wired for electric lights were cited today as arguments against hour-fast war time. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.), the capital's No. 1 foe of time tinkering, filled 17 pages of the Congressional Record with arguments against "this irksome restriction."

The nation officially has been an hour ahead of itself since Jan. 20, 1942.

"Roosters still crow at the same time," observed a farmer of Lone Oak, Ky., whose communication was one of the scores Cannon printed.

A Richmond, Va., businessman complained that the long afternoons "fill the alleys with crapshooters."

"We can't have electric lights in the woods," said a lumberman, "and still they work on this fool time."

Texas has its troubles, too.

"The time has come when even cowhands quit work according to the clock," an Abilene correspondent reported.

Grand Haven, Mich., said "the only ones it does any good for is the golf players and that don't earn the common man a living."

Attica, Ind.: "Farmer goes to milk and cannot milk because the flies are so bad. It is 8 p. m., by the clock and I go to shut up the chickens so we can go to church and they won't go in because they know it is only 7 p. m."

Musical Tells Story Of Tex Guinan's Life

Butty Hutton has a vehicle made to order for her multifarious talents in Paramount's Technicolor production, "Incendiary Blonde," adapted from the adventurous life-story of Texas Guinan, toast of the town in her heyday.

The picture, which opens today at the Ritz theatre, co-stars that dashing Mexican cavalier, Arturo de Cordova, in a typical American story of the rip-roaring twenties when the country was young and reckless. Also featured in the cast are Barry Fitzgerald, Charles Ruggles and Albert Dekker.

For the first time, film audiences will get a good glimpse of all the fascinating facets of the Hutton personality. Formerly intrigued by her non-stop marathon vocalizing, many neglected to note that pin-up allure which is stuff for the barracks walls, no matter which way you turn. And you turn more than once when Betty dons the glamorous Edith Head creations.

In "Incendiary Blonde," Betty goes the whole hog to bring to life the unvarnished story of the spectacular Miss Guinan. This includes riding bucking broncos in a wild western rodeo, cavorting on the stage like an acrobatic daredevil and wowing the blasé nitery crowd with a "hell-o sucker" line that has 'em beating down the cash register.

Paramount picked a good lead for Betty in de Cordova. He does expertly as the all-around town showman who loses his heart over the blonde beauty. De Cordova has made rapid strides in Hollywood, having already starred opposite Joan Fontaine in "Frenchman's Creek." Director George Marshall found the Latin lover a perfect match for Hutton in the torrid love scenes which were brief in accordance with the Marshall dictum, "Keep 'em short and make 'em sizzle." First famous for his direction of westerns, Marshall later took over the directorial stint for musicals, turning out such hits as "Star Spangled Rhythm" and "Murder, He Says." Combining both types, he comes up with "Incendiary Blonde," a fast-paced, engrossing story.

The screenplay was written by Claude Binyon and Frank Butler, the man who put the heart in "Going My Way," Academy-award winning picture which brought an Oscar to Fitzgerald for his masterful performance. Excellent characterizations are contributed by all members of the cast including Mary Phillips, radio announcer Bill Goodwin and Eduardo Clannell.

"Incendiary Blonde" features some outstanding specialty acts including a tily little number by the nimble-fingered Maurice Rocepp—a treat for boogie-wogie fans. And for those who like the old songs, there are many which bring back fond memories.

They asked if Jon or Frances had a photo of their boy.

Jon had also covered the party with 16mm. color movies. He sent the entire reel to the bereaved parents, so that they may see their boy as he was before shipping out. In "Sudan," Technicolor adventure, Hall is seen as a carefree vagabond and for once he does not get the girl, but Turhan Bey does.

The pictures which the magazine photographer made, appeared in a subsequent issue of the publication, but by the time the magazine reached the news stands, one of the little group of service men had been killed in action.

Hall received a letter from the soldier's parents in a Wisconsin city a few days ago and learned that the lad had not lived long enough to see his picture in the magazine. He also learned from the soldier's family that they had no recent pictures of their son.

Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District News

A plan covering a complete program of soil and water conservation and range improvement has been developed by Binle White in cooperation with the district and with the technical aid of the Soil Conservation Service. White's ranch is located in the Vincent conservation group. A portion of White's plan which he intends to put in effect immediately consists of: an additional stock water supply, build level broad based terraces on a 100 acre field and range improvement.

Lloyd Branon, rancher-cooperator in the Vincent conservation group is planning to build a 2,000-yard stock pond on his ranch as a part of his range improvement program. SCS employees located and designed the stock pond for Branon. Range improvement and maintenance have been outstanding on the Branon ranch according to C. R. Donaldson, SCS, range conservationist.

Eight additional miles of level broad based terraces have been completed on D. W. Christian's farm with the exception of fills. This completes 40 miles of terraces built on Christian's farm. R. D. Parker built the terraces with a whirlwind terracer.

T. R. Morris and W. H. Bethell of the SCS surveyed terrace lines on a 160 acre field of the W. D. Anderson ranch. This is a portion of the soil and water conservation program, that covers both farming and ranching, which Anderson is establishing.

Specialties In Bullish Stages

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP)—Specialties continued to perform on the bullish stage in today's stock market after a week in which the industrials and utilities established peaks for more than eight years.

In the first short session since the Saturday summer suspensions of July and August, mail orders and soft drinks achieved the principal popularity with gains running to two points or so while many leaders among rails and other groups were stalled by light selling. The result was that declines and advances were pretty evenly split at the close.

Transfers of 370,000 shares compared with 660,000 in the last previous two-hour stretch of June 30.

Peacetime business optimism continued as a buying stimulant and Senator George's tax predictions helped sentiment.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 68.4, its fourth even-step finish of the week, but, over the five-day route it showed a net gain of .8, all of which was piled up on Thursday. The industrial composite tacked on .2 of a point at 92.2, best level since Aug. 31, 1937 and for the week was up 1.2 points. Both rails and utilities slipped a shade on balance although the former were up .7 for the week and the latter managed to hold a gain of .1.

9 out of 10 chose RIVERSIDES!

YES... when racing-drivers risked their lives on their tires, the winners of 599 of 667 auto races chose Riversides! They deliberately bought regular "stock" tires... right in Wards stores... the same tires that were sold to car-owners all over America! Why? For the same reason that makes so many car-owners switch to Riversides today:—greater protection against separation, bruises and blowouts... MORE MILES-OF-SAFETY!

EVERY PLY IS 12% STRONGER!

Here's why Riversides are now even stronger than our pre-war first-quality tires:—stronger cords to begin with are chemically-strengthened to stay strong... then liquid-dipped to "weld" them together... next, cushioned in rubber! Finally, the plies are cemented together before vulcanizing, as an extra precaution against separation... to provide greater protection against bruises and blow-outs!

OWENS TO RECEIVE MARINER'S MEDAL AT RETREAT CEREMONY

For wounds received during submarine attack in the Coral Sea last January, Lt. Commander Frank K. Owens of Big Spring will receive the Merchant Marine Mariner's medal at formal retreat exercises Tuesday at 5 p. m. at the Big Spring bombardier school.

It was the night of the unlucky 13th of January, 1945, when the small convoy of Liberty ships was nearing port in the Coral sea that enemy submarines boldly surfaced and began shelling.

The attack lasted 30 minutes during which the escort ships and nearby land planes dropped depth bombs and drove away the enemy. Concussion of the depth bombs broke canisters of mustard gas aboard the S.S. Frank Adair Monroe, on which Owens was serving as second-in-command. Owens was one of 41 men burned by the gas. He received burns on his head, face, hands and throat, lost sight for five days, and was hospitalized three weeks.

The Mariner's Medal will be presented by Col. John K. Nissley, post commanding officer and veteran AAF flyer.

Owens, a veteran of sea action in both world wars, holds the World War I victory ribbon and star, and both the Nicaraguan and Mexican campaign ribbons. In this war he won both the Atlantic and Pacific ribbons.

A locomotive engineer on the Texas and Pacific railway, he was called to sea duty with the Merchant Marine in June, 1944, and served until April, 1945.

He began sea duty in 1910, serving with the navy from 1910-14 and 1917-18, and with the coast guard 1914-17. In 1916 he was licensed as a Merchant Marine Navigator, and in 1922 as a Master Mariner, unlimited. He served with the Merchant Marine 1918-26, and 1931-35.

He was with the T&P here 1927-31 and 1936 until called to sea duty. He has since returned to work as a locomotive engineer. Mr. and Mrs. Owens reside at 900 Lancaster street. They have one son, John, an AAF gunner stationed in Florida.

GOP Demands On Probe Ignored

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP) — Republican demands for equal representation on a congressional committee to investigate the Pearl Harbor attack drew a flat rejection today from the house democratic leadership.

"It's out of the question," said Speaker Rayburn. His statement to reporters made it just about certain that the committee will consist of three democrats and two republicans from each branch of congress.

Rayburn declared it would be impractical for the committee to be divided evenly because of the possibility of a deadlock on every important move. Anyway, he said, it would be contrary to all congressional tradition for the party in numerical control not to have a majority on a committee.

Nazi Ring Leaders Turn Tattle-Tale

NUERNBERG, Sept. 8 (AP) — Nazi ring leaders are "snitching" on each other while being questioned for their war crime trials, a member of the United States interrogation staff said today.

This source did not disclose who was telling what on whom but said there were several cases where the defendants were pointing fingers accusingly at ex-colleagues in apparent efforts to gain consideration for themselves.

The prisoners are bearing up well physically. Some are showing mental strain and depression, however, and psychiatrists have been rushed here from Paris.

The youths, Hubert O'Pry of Amarillo and Jesse Montague, alias Jesse Williams, of Bay City, were charged with robbery of two service stations at Lubbock.

Cowboys Gathering In Colorado City For Annual Roundup

COLORADO CITY, Sept. 7—Colorado City began to bustle Wednesday with the arrival of the advance guard of dozens of cowboys who will participate in "open to the world" contests in this town's tenth annual Frontier Roundup and rodeo which will start with the parade and evening performance Thursday.

Three loads of stock from the Sellers' outfit in Del Rio have arrived and are quarantined in the rodeo barns and pens under care of several Sellers' employees. Forty-two bucking broncs, 22 bucking bulls, the bulldozing steers, roping stock, and pickup horses arrived Monday night.

Parade plans, under management of Bob May, call for the roundup association president, Pete Ainsworth, and vice-president, Clay Smith, to lead as color bearers. The fire truck, the high school band, the TSG, a group of old time Mitchell cowhands, will be followed by all other cowhands and visiting and local cowgirls in that order.

Features planned to entertain visitors during the roundup are dances open to the public at the Legion hut and under management of the roundup association.

The Mitchell Pioneer club will hold open house Friday afternoon in the woman's lounge at the city-county building. Refreshments will be served and a program will be presented featuring musical numbers by a sextet in early Eighties costumes.

Too Much Of A Load With The News

by Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign News Analyst

Death of Dr. Glenn S. Weaver, acting superintendent of the Big Spring State hospital, leaves this institution with only one doctor.

Since Aug. 1 Dr. Weaver and a colleague were trying to carry on. Prior to that time there were only three doctors to carry the load of care for more than 400 patients.

It goes without saying that we are in a period when doctors are sorely needed everywhere — and there are not enough to go around. But surely the State of Texas can do better than supplying only one doctor to every 150 or so patients (assuming three staff physicians).

The situation resolves itself into about three possibilities as it now stands: 1) Doctors who feel a calling (regardless of economic factors) for institutional work. 2) Doctors who have attained the age that they are willing to exchange the worries of private practice for a more regulated type of practice, and 3) young doctors looking for a chance to get started in their profession.

These institutional doctors, from all our contacts, are a loyal lot. We've never heard them grumble about pay. Yet observation tells us they get too little, or else those in private practice make too much. Of course, proposing higher professional pay stirs the legislative hornets nest, but we think it ought to be done. We suggest also that something comparable to a civil service system also would be an inducement to good professional men to make institutional work a career.

Quietly, but with that inevitability which characterizes the European politico-social upheaval, the expropriation and redistribution of the rolling acres of the landed gentry is proceeding in the eastern and central part of the continent.

With the comings and goings of that section of Europe more or less sub rosa, few details have been available. We know there has been extensive expropriation of the properties of the feudal barons of Poland. There are indications that similar changes are going forward in Hungary, the Balkans and East Prussia.

Now comes news that the tide has reached western Europe. This is in Saxony, Russian-occupied Germany, where large landed estates are being broken up and turned over to the small tillers of the soil. There seems no reason to believe that the program won't spread to other parts of Germany.

Without attempting to draw sweeping conclusions from these expropriations, it is an important commentary that much of the wealth of the Prussian war lords has come from great feudal estates which have been in the same families for generations. Thus it is obvious that some of the strongest roots of German militarism are being torn up in this manner.

Of course the mere ownership of many acres doesn't make a man a rascal. It's true, however, that in numerous parts of Europe there still exists a feudalism which at one and the same time has kept land from the peasant and has waxed fat from the sweat of farm laborers. In many instances these families of serfs have been attached to the same estates for generations, unable to break away and set up farming for themselves, even though untold thousands of acres were set aside by the barons for deer shooting and the like.

I've seen a small army of peasant girls digging with shovels on a great estate in Bulgaria, and have had the wealthy land-owner tell me with a laugh that he paid them only fifteen cents a day each, with a spot of food at noon.

Some people are aware that other steal or commit depredations on property; but they say nothing, for they don't want to make trouble. All the while our over-all supply of trouble piles up until we almost despair of deploring the situation—a great deal because we don't want to make trouble.

With The AEF: Jap Railroad Ride Biggest Possible Adventure

By HAL BOYLE

YOKOHAMA, (AP)—Let's go for a railroad ride—it's about the biggest adventure you can have now in Japan under present restrictions.

It's like going for a jaunt during rush hours on the Manhattan to Brooklyn subway that had been pumped up to street level.

We are taking a 20-mile trip from Yokosuka naval base to Yokohama on an electrified line that goes on to Tokyo.

The station's platform is crowded with Japanese men and women dressed in ragged and worn wartime clothing. They look curiously at the noisy, chattering Yanks but strictly keep to their own business.

Suddenly a number of young women and a small boy start running about the platform and crying through stiff red paper megaphones. They are train announcers—and they make you homesick because they sound just like train announcers back in America, like they were trying to yodel in one note.

They seem to be crying "Chatanooga—Swanee—Shee Kagoo—Kansas Citee!"

When the train rolls in you take one look and realize that New York suburbanites are wrong in thinking that when all old railroad cars die they go to the Long Island commuter lines. They really go to Japan.

As the cars click onward you get a moving picture of fire bomb ruins along the Yokosuka and Yokohama waterfronts. Fanatical Japanese have approached solitary American passengers in the last few days to denounce them for the destruction. But we are a good sized group and if any Japanese in our car nurses a grudge he keeps it to himself. Our officers still pack their sidearms.

Most natives who speak English seem well disposed. One little Nipponese, after hesitating several times, comes over and haltingly says, with a friendly, proud grin: "I play baseball."

We ask him what position he plays.

He looks puzzled at first and then replies: "First base—I play first base 30 years."

Our conversation has been interrupted by several other American Japanese and when our train halts at Yokohama several of them point out and chime "Yokohama" to let us know we have reached our station.

We emerge into Yokohama—or the skeleton of what was Yokohama, once a city of almost a million population. It looks much worse than Kansas City after the first American Legion convention.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Byrnes Has World's Hardest Job

By DREW PEARSON

(Note: Drew Pearson today awards the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round to Secretary of State James Byrnes.)

WASHINGTON—No secretary of state in years has inherited greater responsibilities than Jimmy Byrnes. No man in history carries with him as he goes to London or as he goes about his daily work greater hopes of all mankind.

Dimly at first, but definitely now that the horrors of the atomic bomb are known, the mothers and fathers who sent their sons to war and the wives who suffered at home and the men who fought the war, realize what would happen if there should be another war. And their hopes and fears center on the one man who must pilot our foreign affairs through the tangled skein of misunderstanding, through the international jealousies, the rivalries, the conflicting interests and personalities—in the difficult, elusive goal of permanent peace.

Few men in history also have a more rounded background to prepare them for being secretary of state than Jimmy Byrnes. He has known what it was to battle things out in both houses of congress for 26 long years. He has sat on the highest court of the country. He occupied the all-important, nerve-racking job of coordinating war activities under Roosevelt. He has had experience in every walk of government life.

Capitol Hill Critics
Some of Jimmy's old friends on Capitol Hill will tell you that he is ambitious, that he is an opportunist, that he is always out for Jimmy Byrnes, that he undermined the late Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi with F.D.R. Some senators, such as the venerable Tom Connally of Texas and Walter George of Georgia much preferred having cooperative Ed Stettinius as secretary of state and weren't at all enthusiastic about having Byrnes assume that office. Even though they reluctantly went through the motions of endorsing him. They figured he would be headstrong and uncooperative.

Despite their criticism, however, Jimmy Byrnes is ideally suited to be secretary of state—except for one defect. He has no first-hand intimate knowledge of foreign affairs.

In other words, Byrnes will have to take the word of his foreign affairs experts. If they give him the wrong word on a certain situation, he may stub his toe. He is largely in their hands.

This is a danger which always exists in one of the so-called "career" departments of government. It is hard for a secretary of war or a secretary of the navy or a secretary of state to come in green and go counter to the career officers who have functioned permanently for decades. Josephus Daniels was the only secretary of the navy in years who has had the courage to buck the tide, and that was one reason he was so hated by the navy. Charles Evans Hughes was one of the few recent secretaries of state who rose above the career officers and really ran the state department.

Cordell Hull, who sensed this problem, sometimes with obvious frustration, in the end was taken in by the subtle charm of the man around him, until without realizing it, he became their mouthpiece and spokesman rather than their talking orders from him.

Byrnes vs. Diplomats
This is going to be Jimmy Byrnes' greatest problem. He is, despite all his other fine qualities, get sucked in by the career experts who for decades have made a specialty of taking new secretaries of state into their camp?

For instance, here is what happened to Cordell Hull. During the first months of his administration he ran into a personal feud with Professor Raymond Moley, the brain trust whom Roosevelt had made assistant secretary of state and who rushed to London for the avowed purpose of "rescuing" the London economic conference. Hull was a leader of that conference and quite rightly felt that he didn't need anyone to rescue him. The man who helped Hull at London was the state department's chief of protocol, Jimmy Dunn, whose job it was to make hotel reservations, arrange place cards at dinners, and check on all physical arrangements for the conference. Dunn is one of the most ambitious men in the state department, and simultaneously one of the worst reactionaries. He makes up in charm for what he lacks in brains.

But Hull never forgot Dunn's help with the formalities of running the London conference. And later, when Jimmy piloted Hull through the Pan-American conference at Montevideo, he became a permanent fixture as Hull's closest state department adviser. It made no difference that Calvin Coolidge had picked Dunn as chief arbiter of social affairs. In fact, he became Hull's most trusted confidant on intricate political problems.

And, as such, his influence was almost always thrown against Russia even after she became an ally, and for Franco Spain, even when it was obvious that Franco was kept in power only through the Axis.

Last winter, for instance, Dunn was charged in the senate with having instrumented the American minister in Switzerland, Leland Harrison, to stop reporting on the Nazi murder factories which Harrison reported were killing Jews by the thousands. Harrison had sent a long cable on these frightful Nazi atrocities, but received a stop-order from Washington that the state department wanted no more of such reports.

Byrnes' Barometer
What diplomatic observers are watching as the chief barometer of Jimmy Byrnes as secretary of state is whether Jimmy Dunn can take him into camp as he did Cordell Hull. The betting odds so far are in favor of Dunn. The news-hawks in the state department press room, whose job it is to watch every move of the secretary of state, are betting strong that Dunn once more will emerge as the fair-haired boy, once again will run the state department.

Also the society ladies in Washington are gossiping about the close friendship between Mr. Cordell Hull and Mrs. Jimmy Byrnes and how, because of petting Cordell Hull, Byrnes will eat out of Hull's hand.

However, this columnist, who has watched Byrnes over a period of many years, has a different opinion. When Byrnes became war mobilizer, it was generally reported that Bernie Baruch, his close friend and political godfather, would control Jimmy. But he didn't. Byrnes went his own sweet way, to such an extent that Baruch got indignant and went around telling people what a mess Jimmy was making of things.

So this columnist is betting that Byrnes, as secretary of state, will eat out of nobody's hand—either Hull's, nor Jimmy Dunn's, nor anyone's. Byrnes will rely on his own mature judgment in his difficult job of trying to achieve the hopes and ambitions of mankind for the future peace of the world. ## On Making Trouble

A woman, reporting to police that her husband attempted to have her killed in a fake robbery plot, scooped her case by relating that he had beaten her on the head with a hammer handle and dragged her down a flight of stairs last March.

Officers quoted her as saying she never reported it because she didn't want to make trouble.

Regardless of the merits of her current case, the March episode is worth a laugh. Be it with a hammer handle and dragged down the stairs—and she didn't want to make trouble.

But don't laugh too much, for this is all too typical of one of the big troubles in America. Most of us are exactly in the same position as this woman to a greater or lesser degree.

Perhaps we know of a person who is, by his actions, creating a nuisance in a neighborhood—but no one reports him because we don't want to make trouble. At the moment we are steamed up over sanitary matters, and our condition waxed into its status because most of us didn't want to make trouble for the neighbors. Occasionally, we see someone driving recklessly, too fast or dangerously, yet we say nothing about it because we don't want to

Laurel "Ready To Be Shot" If Guilty Of Treason, Disloyalty

By MURLIN SPENCER

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Jose Laurel, who was president of the Japanese puppet government in the Philippines, was quoted today by CBS correspondent Felix Bustos as saying "If our people decide I am guilty of disloyalty and treason I am ready to be shot."

Bustos said he had located Laurel at Nara, near the ancient city of Kyoto, where he set up a refugee government after a perilous journey to Japan last June.

"If the government's government contemplates to try leading leaders of the Philippines who participated in the republic for their acts," Bustos quoted Laurel in an interview, "I submit that they be spared that responsibility and try me instead, first and solely."

Bustos said he described the destruction of Manila to Laurel, who bowed his head. Tears came to Laurel's eyes as he said: "Yamashita (Japanese general in the Philippines) fooled me. When he asked me to leave Manila for Baguio he assured me he wouldn't defend Manila."

High-Ranking Officers Sadistically Tortured

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7 (AP)—A graphic, bitter story of sadistic abuse of American prisoners by the Japanese, including the slapping and beating of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, was told by Maj. Gen. Albert N. Jones, on his arrival home.

Surrounded by his family, the general told his story quietly.

Captured on the west side of Batan April 11, 1942, he and his troops took part in the "death march" to Camp O'Donnell where they were "turned over to the devil."

The general saw his men die by the hundreds for lack of water, medicine and food. "The air was stifling with the stench of the dead."

In August he was transferred to Krenkow, Formosa, to Camp Starvation where he stayed until June, 1943.

"It was the camp for high ranking officers. It was the camp where the Nips slapped and beat Skinny Wainwright and Percival (British general). We worked and starved. We were stripped in parade. We were slapped in public. We were forced to pray three times

Workers To Go Back On Job In Shipyards

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Full Employment Bill may be vague in some respects but it is specific in setting up the machinery for examining prospective unemployment or inflation at least once a year.

The bill, as written, would require the President to present to Congress at the beginning of every session a so-called National Production and Employment Budget.

Briefly, this budget would include:

1. An estimate of the national labor force, including self-employed in industry, business and agriculture.
2. An estimate of what it will take in the way of investments, production, etc., to keep this labor force fully employed.
3. An estimate of the prospects for this labor force without any help from laws or programs.

If No. 3 is greater than No. 1, or if the demand for employees is greater than the supply, as in the war, then anti-inflation measures would have to be taken. If it is less, then steps would have to be taken to forestall unemployment.

In either case it is up to the President, after consultation with his Cabinet and any advisory boards he wishes to set up, to lay before Congress proposals for remedying the situation.

This budget and any proposed legislation or changes in policy would go before a Joint Committee on the National Budget, composed of the chairman and ranking minority members of four important committees in the Senate and four in the House and seven additional members from each chamber.

This Joint Committee would report to Congress its findings on the national budget not later than March 1 of each year, along with a joint resolution setting forth a general policy to serve as a guide for prospective legislation.

The hearings and debates on this report, it is hoped, would make inflation-unemployment as vital and permanent an issue as taxes.

Washington—60 Million Jobs: How And When

(Second of Four Articles)

Thus, we see that the Full Employment Bill provides three things:

1. A declaration of responsibility by the federal government to see that full employment is maintained.
2. A periodic inventory and forecast of the nation's economic trends.
3. The springboard for legislation to correct those trends if they appear to be away from normal prosperity.

No one, as far as I know, has kicked yet about the periodic inventory. As a matter of fact, proponents of the bill, some of whom are very strange bedfellows economically and politically, have been congratulating each other on the provisions which would virtually force the administrative and legislative branches to cooperate in stating and debating our economic problems.

It is in the declaration of responsibility and in legislative

"I saw 20 men with ugly scars made by the Japs by burning incense on their fists as they held their arms out before him. If they dropped the incense they were badly beaten."

Three prisoners were placed on their backs and held down by guards standing on their arms and legs while incense was burned on their stomachs.

Churchill said the Funatsu camp had a case where an American prisoner attempted to escape and was confined to the guardhouse for 111 days without clothing and on half rations.

"This camp was high in the mountains and some nights it got as low as 45 degrees below zero. The prisoner died Aug. 8, was cremated and his ashes brought here."

STATE FILES TAX SUIT
AUSTIN, Sept. 7 (AP)—Phillips Petroleum company is defendant in a suit filed in district court here yesterday by the state which seeks $1,010,723 in gas production taxes, penalty and interest from May 1, 1941, to April 30, 1945.

"Love Letters" An Absorbing Play

By BOB THOMAS
"Love Letters," a Hal Wallis Production for Paramount, with Jennifer Jones, Joseph Cotten, Ann Richards and Cecil Kellaway. Running time: 101 minutes.

HOLLYWOOD—Blessed with competent acting, writing and direction, "Love Letters" turns out to be one of the best dramatic offerings in many months—movie story-telling at its finest.

The actual plot involves a love story, a war story, a mystery and a study in psychology. It is principally concerned with the recovery of a girl's memory, which has been lost through a terrifying experience.

The soundness of the theme may be challenged by psychologists, but most moviegoers will find it an absorbing, dramatic film.

Jennifer Jones, as the memory-haunted girl, plays the role with her own intriguing style. Joseph Cotten performs sensitively and intelligently. The screen play by Ayn Rand is mature.

William Dieterle's direction, the element which provides real distinction to "Love Letters," is crisp, particularly in the first half of the picture. Especially good is a drunken scene.

"A Bell for Adano," a 20th Century-Fox picture with John Hodiak, Gene Tierney, William Bendix and Henry Morgan. Running time: 105 minutes.

John Hersey's fine novel, "A Bell for Adano," has scarcely been altered in its transformation to the movie medium. However, many passages were necessarily eliminated to concentrate the narrative.

That is the main fault of the picture—Hersey's rich characterization and his description of the AMG work in Italy can be only sketchily presented.

There is another drawback to the picture. It had to please not only the Hays office, but the Army as well. Thus the blustery Gen. Marvin, who had an Italian's mule shot for holding up traffic and eventually caused Joppolo's removal, becomes an innocuous Gen. McKay, portrayed by a bit player. Some of Hersey's satire of the Navy is retained, however.

Aside from these defects, "A Bell for Adano" is well done and often very touching. John Hodiak gives a satisfactory performance

William Wright To Join Company Staff

William H. (Bill) Wright, a native of Nolan county, and son of the Rev. and Mrs. Cal Wright of Lamesa, is to join the staff of Commercial Standard Insurance company and the fire and marine companion company at Fort Worth in an active capacity on Sept. 15.

Wright is leaving Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., where he has served as assistant to the division manager of the Fort Worth division for more than three years. He has been a director of Commercial for the past year and vice-president of the marine and fire branch since its organization. He will serve as vice-president and director of both units. Wright was manager of the Terrell chamber of commerce from 1934-37 and at Vernon for five years until he moved to Fort Worth in 1942. Under his direction Consolidated employees at Fort Worth bought $25,000,000 in war bonds for one of the leading records of the nation. He was born at Blackwell and is a graduate of the Baird high school and McMurray college.

More Cooperation Sought By City In Clean-Up Campaign

A strenuous effort is being put forth by the city and health officials to clean up the community even though the polio-typhus epidemics are at a stand still. More cooperation is being asked of the citizens, said a city official.

Six men who are in charge of spraying and dusting the DDT in town have already covered all the picture shows, schools, court house and the majority of the commercial houses. They also have sprayed 350 outside pit toilets, some of which were further out than the city limits. The Ellis Homes were treated with the DDT and numerous other public places as well as garbage containers.

Saturday was set for a possible time to begin spraying the stock lots in the community. Immediately after that the men will begin trapping and dusting rat runs. The trapped rats will be combed and bled. Blood is to be sent to the State Health Department in Austin to determine the ratio of those infected with the typhus fever. Officials are requesting people please to leave the traps alone before and after the rat is caught.

The health officers are requesting that all pit toilets be made absolutely fly proof. If this order is not complied with, persons using the pit toilets will be prosecuted. Stress has also been made on the importance of keeping the garbage containers covered. One department s.o.g. will receive 40 dozen of the regulation type containers within a week.

Joe Stanley, Lubbock, state department district sanitary engineer, said today, "It is evident that a large portion of the mosquitoes in town are 'man-made' as they are coming from bottles partially filled with water and other artificial containers which are 'out of sight, out of mind.' No doubt some are also breeding in the bottom trays of air conditioners. A thorough clean up of private premises will very likely help the mosquito situation."

Snead Takes Lead In Dallas Tourney

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS, Sept. 8 (AP)—Slammin' Sammy Snead, the drawing Virginian, rolled in with a three-under-par 69 today to overtake and pass Harold (Jug) McSpaden in the battle for the Dallas open golf tournament, reaching the three-quarters mark with 208 — one stroke ahead of the field.

McSpaden, who started today's play two under Snead, three-putted No. 18 to take a five and finish with an even par 72 that gave him a total of 209. Snead had come in an hour before.

The putts were dropping well for the Hot Springs, Va., veteran who has four tournament victories to his credit this year. He finished the first nine with a 34, scoring birdies on 2, 4 and 9, and showing five one-putt greens. The only hole he was over regulation figures

No. 7—he missed a five-foot putt.

He birdied No. 12, missing an eagle only by inches when he putted from off the froghair. On No. 14 his tee shot rolled over the green and Snead putted 50 feet back, the ball rimming the cup and almost dropping in for a deuce.

On No. 18, he turned in a sensational iron shot, going under and over trees 175 yards to land at the edge of the green where he pitched to six feet of the hole and ruffed down a six-footer for his par.

Two strokes back of McSpaden, the dapper pro from Sanford, Me., seeking his first tournament championship this year, came Wee Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who shot a 69 to bring his score for 54 holes to 211, one better than Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.

Byron Nelson of Toledo was one under par to retain his fifth place stand of yesterday with a total of 213. One stroke below Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, Ga.

McSpaden made the turn with a one-over-par 37 but drew even with a birdie on No. 10 when he sent his second shot under trees 220 yards to the edge of the green, chipped within a foot of the hole and easily sank it. He got into a sand trap on No. 11 and took two coming out, so he went back one over par.

On No. 12 McSpaden rammed down a 15-footer for an eagle three and came in with pars on all except No. 18 where he lost his chance of tying Snead for the lead.

The final 18 holes of the $10,000 tournament, with $2,000 for first place, will be played tomorrow.

Locals Show New Fire In Initial Scrimmage Bout

Football fans will have to wait no longer than Friday at 8:30 p. m. to get their first glimpse of action when the Big Spring high school Steers play host to the Tahoka Bulldogs.

Little is known of the Class A Tahoka team under H. D. Stewart, who formerly was coach at Commerce, but last year they held the Steers to a six-point victory. The Steers, said Coach John Dibrell, will be out to repeat and improve the margin.

Weight of the Steers is against them, but the 149-pound average on the line and 143 for the backfield was established on the basis of stripped weights. Come game time the average should be up by about five pounds. Uniforms will add another 10 to 15 pounds per man.

The Steers looked good in their first scrimmage Friday and a new enthusiasm continued throughout the workout. Friday afternoon they got a round of blocking and tackling and more of the same dose Saturday morning when they did a lot of blocking for the passers.

One of the bright spots has been the improvement of ends in pass catching. Marvin Wright, D. D. Douglass, a letterman, Ensor Puckett and Jimmy Jones have shown most promise at the terminals.

Being watched closely is tackle play. The fight is restricted to one post, for Gerald Harris, who will weigh about 167 when the whistle is blown, is greatly improved and has his place sewed up. Jimmy Shaffer, 158, A. J. Cain, 158, Bobby Hollis, 167, and Reed Collins, 178, are making a spirited bid for the other spot. The Steers have been weak at tackles for several seasons and the situation promises to be better this year.

Billy Casey, shifted from tackle, is perhaps the surprise package of the squad, for on the basis of his work thus far, he may be in one of the guard spots. Ike Bobb is a starter at the o-line. Pete Fuglar, 168, is the man Casey will have to beat out, and it won't be an easy job for Pete in a rugged charger.

Tommy Clinkscale, returning center, will have his old job back. He can't let up, however, for Roy Lee Reeves is pressing him closely for the place.

In the backfield it looks like Jackie Barron or Horace Rankin at quarterback. Barron, more experienced, may get the starting nod. His passing is much improved, but Rankin still has the edge in chunking.

Robert Miller looks better all the time at fullback, but he has a tremendous job in filling the shoes of Pete Cook. Miller has developed his shiftness. Hugh Cochran, veteran back, and Bobo Hardy, shifted from quarter, will be on the half-back slots. Both are looking better than ever.

Little George Worrell probably ranks next as a threat, for this youngster, with four years of eligibility, is one of the scrappiest backs ever to don a Steer uniform. Paul Shaffer, Donald Webb and Jerry Houser, who ranks as the best pass receiver on the squad, are due to see considerable service.

Season tickets, $4.50 for five games, are now on sale. Officials suggested early purchase of tickets for the game to avoid long lines at the gate Friday evening.

Giants Shut Out Leading Cubs

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The New York Giants shut out the league leading Chicago Cubs for the second straight time today as Harry Feldman pitched an eight-hit 3-0 victory over Paul Derringer before 8,994 paid fans in Wrigley Field.

The defeat reduced the Cubs' lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals to three and a half games and left the season series between the Giants and Cubs in a tie at 11 victories apiece.

Derringer, who was defeated for the third straight time this season by the Giants, allowed only seven hits, but four came in the ninth to account for all the visitors' runs.

Mel Ott began the frame with a single, Dan Gardella was safe on a fielder's choice and lumbering Ernie Lombardi beat out a surprise bunt. Roy Zimmerman then singled to drive in the first two runs. A double by Billy Jurges knocked in the last counter.

The defeat was the ninth for Derringer who has won 15. Feldman won his 12th game and has lost the same amount.

Baylor To Open Grid Season

By The Associated Press
The college football season opens in Texas this week with Baylor University, making its return to the game after being out two seasons, the first Southwest conference eleven to swing into action.

Baylor meets Blackland Army Air Field of Waco at Waco Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

West Texas State and Southwestern University are other Texas colleges with games this week, the former meeting Eastern New Mexico at Canyon and Southwestern playing Bergstrom Field of Austin at Georgetown. Both games are Friday night.

Four Texas service teams also start the gridiron campaign, one of them playing Friday night and three Saturday.

In addition to Blackland and its engagement with Baylor and Bergstrom's tilt with Southwestern, Hondo Army Air Field plays Ellington Field of Houston Saturday night at Hondo.

A lump of glossy starch rubbed on grease spots on wall paper will absorb the spot.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—President Truman's presence created somewhat of a world series atmosphere today and the inspired Washington Senators again beat the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1.

The president came early and stayed until the last man was out as the Senators won their fifth victory in six games with Mr. Truman's home-state Missourians. A southpaw, he tossed in the first ball.

Pete Appleton, veteran relief hurler, gave a masterful exhibition of come-back pitching for the first president to attend a game here since 1941.

Interpreting The News-- GEN. HO YING-CHIN TO ACCEPT JAP SURRENDER FOR CHINESE

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8 (AP)—Accepting Japanese surrender for China tomorrow will be General Ho Ying-chin, chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. This mild-mannered, professional looking military man returned to—if he ever left—the front ranks of China's powerful men.

His choice by Chiang Kai-shek to represent the nation in her hour of supreme triumph may hold deep significance for China's future policy.

From the Japanese standpoint, it is possible that they would rather surrender to Ho than to any other Chinese. He was educated in Japan and understands the Japanese. They never have attacked him personally, nor Chiang Kai-shek, as they have most other Chinese leaders.

Ten years and three months ago, to the day, they linked Ho's name to a Chinese capitulation to Japan—the famous Ho-Umetsu agreement which enabled Japan to get her foot more firmly in the door in north China.

Ho Ying-chin then was war minister and head of the north China political council. The Japanese had crossed the great wall and threatened to invade Peking. Somebody made a dicker to get them to stop. The Japanese said Ho made it with General Jishihiro Umetsu, then boss of the Kwantung army and the same Umetsu who signed Japan's surrender the other day on the battleship Missouri.

The Chinese never admitted the Ho-Umetsu agreement and no present-day official Chinese account mentions it.

But this is what happened: (1) Chahar province was demilitarized and Chinese officials in another (Hopes) tried to stop anti-Japanese activities. It didn't work, and the Japanese invaded outright in 1937.

The full meaning of Ho's re-emergence remains to be seen. He has been accused of being pro-Japanese, and anti-western, and fascist—by his declared enemies. But "neutral" observers say the outstanding thing about him is his unswerving loyalty to Chiang Kai-shek.

Sanitary Survey Progress Seen

Dewey Martin, chairman of Lions club committees engaged in a city-wide sanitary survey, said Saturday that progress generally was good.

"Four teams have completed their territories," he said. "Several others are well along in their canvassing."

Lou Baker, chairman of the group to check the Latin-American section, said his committee would go into action at 1 p. m. today and urged people in that area to cooperate by furnishing information. He said that Spanish speaking persons could be of immeasurable help if they would accompany workers, including Bill Davis, Escol Compton, Dalton Mitchell, E. B. Dozier.

Martin called a meeting of all committee chairmen for 8:30 p. m. Monday at the chamber of commerce office. "We are calling it at this hour," he said, "because many will be working until late to complete their surveys. We hope to have most of them complete by that time."

State Guardsmen To Attend School

Members of the local Texas State Guard unit (Co. E, 34th battalion) will go to school this week.

For three consecutive evenings the company will be transported to Odessa, the battalion headquarters, for special schooling at the hands of regular army officers. They will attend the first training session Wednesday, and on Saturday, the day after the course is completed, the company goes to Odessa for a two-day bivouac.

Nature of the training was not divulged, however it was taken as evidence that the state guard is due to fit into a previously announced plan to bring the training to the men rather than having small groups report to a general state camp. Also, it was taken as evidence that the guard will continue to be an active force.

In support of this view, guardsmen cite a report from Lt. Col. Gordon M. Reese, chief of chaplains, TSG, who recently returned from several months in the Hawaiian Islands where he was liaison between military and civil authorities.

Col. Reese felt the guard should be maintained for internal security for "we don't organize a fire department while the fire is burning"; to combat vestiges of fascism. He urged guardsmen not to quit, citing an example of a youth, he once had as a scout, who dropped the atomic bomb over Nagasaki because he had a record of "never quitting." Col. Reese added: "Let's keep our Guard up."

Heading the service pigskin parade will be such powerful units as the Fourth Air Force Flyers; the St. Mary's Navy Pre-Flight Alrdvils; Fleet City of Shoemaker Field; the San Diego naval training center and the rugged El Toro marines. All are based in California.

Grotesque Masks Grimace At Earth— Atomic Blast Looked Like Living, Purple Totem-Pole

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—A pillar of purple fire shot 10,000 feet into the skies over Nagasaki Aug. 9 from the burst of the second atomic bomb dropped on Japan, according to a graphic eyewitness account released today by the war department.

The account was written by William L. Laurence, science writer for the New York Times and a special consultant to the Manhattan engineer district which developed the atomic bomb.

Laurence flew in one of two Superfortresses accompanying the B-29 "The Great Artiste" which loosed the bomb on the city.

Nagasaki, Laurence discloses, was one of several potential targets. They circled over the industrial center until they found a break in the clouds. It was 12:01 p. m.

"We heard the pre-arranged signal on our radio, put on our arc welder's glasses and watched tensely the maneuverings of the strike ship about a half mile in front of us," Laurence writes.

"There she goes!" someone said. Out of the belly of the Artiste what looked like a black object came downward. "Captain Bock swung around to get out of range, but even though we were turning away in the opposite direction, and despite the fact that it was broad daylight in our cabin, all of us became aware of a giant flash that broke through the dark barrier of our arc welder's lenses and flooded our cabin with an intense light.

"We removed our glasses after the first flash but the light still lingered on, a bluish-green light that illuminated the entire sky all around. A tremendous blast wave struck our ship and made it tremble from nose to tail. This was followed by four more blasts in rapid succession, each resounding like the boom of cannon fire hitting our plane from all directions.

"Observers in the tail of our ship saw a giant ball of fire rise 10,000 feet high, shooting skyward with enormous speed.

"By the time our ship had made another turn in the direction of the atomic explosion the pillar of purple fire had reached the level of our altitude. Only about 45 seconds had passed. Awestruck, we watched it shoot upward like a meteor coming from outer space, becoming ever more alive as it climbed skyward through the white clouds. It was no longer smoke, or dust, or even a cloud of fire. It was a living thing, a new species of being, born right before our incredulous eyes.

"At one stage of its evolution, covering missions of years in terms of time, the entity assumed the form of a giant square totem pole, with its base about three miles long, tapering off to about a mile at the top.

Its bottom was brown, its center was amber, its top white. But it was a living totem pole, carved with many grotesque masks grimacing at the earth.

"Then, just when it appeared as though the thing had settled down into a state of permanence, there came shooting out of the top a giant mushroom that increased the height of the pillar to a total of 45,000 feet. The mushroom top was even more alive than the pillar, seething and boiling in a

Dean Of H-SU Death Victim

ABILENE, Sept. 8 (AP)—Funeral service will be held here tomorrow for Lucian Qultman Campbell, 52, dean of Hardin-Simmons University. Campbell died at his home last night following a series of heart attacks.

Campbell, a native of Evergreen, La., was also acting director of athletics and chairman of the Hardin-Simmons artist course committee at the time of his death.

Associated with the university for 18 years, he had been professor of English, assistant and acting dean before his appointment as dean last March.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mary Cornelia Thamer, whom he married at Chaneyville, La., a daughter, Mary Anna, and a brother, Maurice Campbell of New Iberia, La.

"It kept struggling in an elemental fury, like a creature in the act of breaking the bonds that held it down. In a few seconds it had freed itself from its gigantic stem and floated upward with tremendous speed, its momentum carrying into the stratosphere to a height of about 60,000 feet.

"But no sooner did this happen when another mushroom, smaller in size than the first one, began emerging out of the pillar. It was as though the decapitated monster was growing a new head.

"As the first mushroom floated off into the blue it changed its shape into a flower-like form, its giant petal curving downward, creamy white outside, rose-colored inside. It still retained that shape when we last gazed at it from a distance of about 200 miles."

Hygiene Rules Wisest Policy

Now that school is opening Monday, Mrs. Ann Fisher, city-county health nurse, advises parents to watch their children carefully for signs of common communicable and infectious diseases.

She said that parents need not feel reluctant about starting their children to school if they observe good hygiene measures. A very good response has been reported from mothers of pre-school children in having checkups.

Mrs. Fisher reminds parents that diseases common to children are frequently more contagious or spreading during the early stages before rashes or other clinical signs appear or before the child feels sick enough to go to bed. Parents should observe the child for the appearance of any symptoms before sending the child to school.

In checking your child throughout the day, Mrs. Fisher says watch for anything which is different from his usual appearance or different from the way he or she generally acts, as it is an indication that the child is not well.

All schools in town have been powdered with DDT and the county schools will be treated within the next few days, officials say.

Quotas Exceeded By Methodists

Methodist churches in Big Spring have gone $500 over their quota for the donation to the Crusade for Christ movement sponsored by the Methodists over the United States.

The over all quota was $25,000,000 and has already been oversubscribed by about $5,000,000. The financial movement began in December, 1944.

The First Methodist church has sent $4800 to Rev. John E. Eldridge of Spearman, conference treasurer. The church quota is $4500.

Members of the Wesley Methodist church pledged $1000 and have already paid $600. Their church quota is $800.

Abilene Schools May Enforce Frat Ban

ABILENE, Sept. 8 (AP)—School officials here are free to require pupils of the senior and junior high schools to sign a pledge that they do not and will not belong to a sorority or fraternity.

A temporary restraining order against such action was granted by Chief Justice Clyde Grissom of the eleventh court of civil appeals at Eastland Sept. 1. Dan Childress, clerk of the court, announced yesterday that Judge Grissom had dissolved the temporary restraining order and had scheduled a hearing on the appeal for Sept. 21.

Thailand Said To Have Been Ardent Support Of Allies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Office of Strategic Services pulled another spy-thriller from its voluminous collection of war secrets today to reveal:

That virtually the entire government of Thailand, supposed to be a satellite of Japan, was actually in league with the Allies.

That Thai leaders in on the dangerous and patriotic game were the regent, Luang Pradit; the premier, Thawal Bunyakert; and the chief of police, Luang Adul Duldekarat.

That for many months American army officers lived in a room in the heart of enemy-occupied Bangkok and radioed out intelligence picked up by the Thais from conversations with the Japanese. Nowhere else did the Allies have so direct a check on the enemy's thoughts, actions and plans.

Cotton Labor Ceilings Set

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 8 (AP)—Wage ceilings of $1.25 a hundred pounds for pulling and snapping cotton and $2 for "well picked, clean cotton" in 39 southwestern, low rolling plains and eastern panhandle counties have been recommended to the office of labor by the Texas USDA wage board.

Chairman E. R. Alexander of the board said he has also recommended to the Office of Price Administration (OPA) a ceiling of 25 cents a hundred for crew leader services for hauls up to 15 miles, and 30 cents for longer ones.

The counties for which the ceilings were asked were McCulloch, Concho, Tom Green, Coke, Runnels, Coleman, Midland, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Taylor, Callahan, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Shackelford, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Throckmorton, Young, Dickens, King, Knox, Baylor, Archer, Motley, Cottle, Hardeman, Foard, Wilbarger, Wichita, Hall, Childress, Donley, Collingsworth, Gray and Wheeler.

Rollins Named To A. & M. Post

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 8 (AP)—A post of dean of men was created by the board of directors of Texas A and M College today and Maj. John W. (Dough) Rollins was appointed to the job.

At the same time the board issued a set of declarations which stated: "That the system of student control that has been practiced over a number of years has been investigated by the board of directors and has been found unsatisfactory and not in the best interests of the college."

Outlining the "basic policy", the statement said in part:

"Every student is expected at all times to recognize the constituted authority, to conform to the ordinary rules of good conduct, to be truthful, to respect the rights of others, to protect private and public property, and to make the best use of his time toward an education."

"Every student has rights which are to be respected. They include the right of respect for personal feeling, the right of freedom from indignities of any type, the right of freedom from control by any persons except as may be in accord with published rules and regulations of the college and the right to make the best use of his time and talents toward the objective which brought him to this institution."

"No officer or student, regardless of position or rank, shall violate those rights. No custom or regulation in conflict shall be allowed to prevail."

Today's action followed the presentation of a report by a special committee, headed by John W. Newton of Beaumont.

Members of the Wesley Methodist church pledged $1000 and have already paid $600. Their church quota is $800.

Connally Proposes Atomic Bombers To Keep Peace

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—Senator Tom Connally proposed today that the United States furnish a flying task force of atomic bombers to the United Nations security council but retain the secret of their awful power.

His suggestion was the second definite plan put forward during the day for control of the new explosive force. Senator Mead (D-NY) proposed an international agreement to outlaw use of atomic bombs in war.

"The secret of the atomic bomb ought to be retained by the United States," Connally flatly told an interviewer.

The Texas democrat, chairman of the foreign relations committee, added:

"We shall never use it except in the interest of world peace or our own necessary self defense."

The United States is a member of the security council and will furnish a contingent of air forces. "Armed with a few atomic bombs such a force conceivably could crush any attack or act of aggression quickly and effectively."

Connally said he was not impressed by theories that civilization might not be able to survive the atomic bomb.

Rapid Treatment For VD Cases Given Here

Rapid treatments for gonorrhea are now being given at the local health unit instead of sending the patients to Mineral Wells, announced health officials Saturday.

Two persons were treated here Friday with 200,000 units of penicillin in four hours. Seven cases of gonorrhea were listed here this week in the communicable disease report.

The Week

Those who fancy good breeding stock ought to find time Tuesday and Friday to accompany members of the Howard County Hereford Breeders association on their tours. Those who have never made the trips will be amazed at the number of breeders and quality of stock. Rides are available at 8 a. m. each of the days at 2nd and Main.

Future stockmen of the county have plenty of sound judgment if results of a field day Saturday are indicative. In exhaustive tests, numbers of the 4-H club boys scored heavily.

Look for a call on the junior college election soon, for the state board of education Saturday approved the petition presented by Robert T. Piner and Otis Graf. The commissioners court put in long hours Thursday to check signers before the two left to get approval of the state board for creation of the district in event voters approve.

Last year was the best for construction in about five years. But 1945 promises to be even better. August permits amounted to $84,000, of which more than $52,625 was in new building.

The tip to buy football tickets during the week to avoid long lines at the game Friday evening is a good one. They will be available at the school tax office.

Coahoma Wins Club Boy Meet

Coahoma 4-H club boys Saturday became first winners of a loving cup posted by the Howard County Farm Bureau.

The team scored 2,173 out of a possible 2,800 points in livestock judging to capture the field day at the Alex Walker farm northeast of here.

Sixty-eight club boys participated and all but the Forsan club were represented. Some 250 persons took part in the luncheon, furnished by mothers of the club boys. Mrs. Akin Simpson furnished a goat for barbecue and a mutton was provided.

Bill Marschall, district agent, and Hubert Martin, Stanton, checked boys' judging and reasons for placing. Judged were two classes of beef cattle, two of dairy cattle, one of hogs and two of sheep. After the contests, junior matched roping was held.

Gay Hill ranked second with 2,090, with Center Point 2,050, Big Spring 2,044, and Knott 2,023 in order.

By winning teams, scores were: Coahoma—James Coates 568 out of 700, Wayne White 544, Ray Echols 534, Bobby Cathey 527, R. J. Echols (alternate) 525.

Gay Hill—Harold Simpson 544; Don Lockhart 525, Tom Lockhart 512, Billy Bob Simpson 509.

Jap Occupation Whets Curiosity Of Yanks

By DUANE HENNESSY (Substituting For Kenneth L. Dixon)

WITH U.S. MARINES, Japan (AP)—Most of all, marines want to see "Tokyo Rose"—the radio announcer who tried to tear their hearts out and only cheered them with swell jive music.

"She was another Jap failure," says Lt. Elmer Imus of Kingman, Ariz., holder of four Purple Hearts and father of an 18-month-old child he has never seen. "When we were at Bougainville, she'd harp on the cool ice cream at home and 4-F's going out with our girl and wives."

"That stuff didn't register with us but we always looked forward to her program because she had hot records. I'd like to meet Rosie. She was the best morale builder we had."

Pfc. Francis W. Goslee of Austin, Minn., an apprentice embalmer in civilian life, wants to see how the Japanese prepare their dead.

Many marines, remembering their school geography lessons, want to climb Mt. Fuji, Japan's famed mountain.

Simply "to find out how the Japs act and what makes them tick," is the ambition of Don Farr of Eagar, Ariz., another pharmacist mate. "I've never had time to study the little men before," he says, "but maybe now I'll get the opportunity."

Just seeing the Imperial palace from the outside won't satisfy Pfc. Arthur W. Gratiot of Portland, Ore. "We should order Hirohito to open the palace," he declared, "so we can go through it. I also want to visit Hiroshima. That would be a thrill."

But the most ambitious marine of all was Pvt. Henry E. Simmons of Coolidge, Ariz., who wants to ride Hirohito's white horse, either before or after Admiral Halsey. "But," he admits, "I might compromise for just a look at the nag."

What Of Our Schools?

We'd Like To Know

By FRANK GRIMES
Herald Special Writer

We talk glibly of "re-educating" the Germans, by which we mean making law-abiding citizens of the world out of them. They are old hands at violating international law and pastmasters in violating the laws of humanity.

They subscribed to, and broke, every principle of the Geneva Convention relating to prisoners of war. While we learned over backward to give even-handed justice and fair treatment to Germans held prisoners by us, they learned just as far in the other direction to trim or cut corners on Geneva rules.

Every German held by us will be repatriated in better health than he enjoyed when taken. Every American returned to us by the Germans was in poorer health, and thousands of them were in need of hospitalization. There were enough Red Cross packages piled up in German warehouses to have kept every American prisoner in good health. Mountains of these packages remained untouched on V-E day.

The Germans will come round in a year or two explaining that they simply couldn't distribute these food packages because of transport difficulties. That will be a cold-blooded lie.

The Japs were even worse, and they added neglect to physical beatings and scientific malnutrition. The Japs brutalize everything, including themselves, but the Germans have been exposed to 2,000 years of Christianity and at least know about mercy and justice.

What can be done about getting observance of Geneva rules from bandit nations? Surely some formula can be found to improve the system in vogue among the axis nations in this war.

Is the International Red Cross all it should be? Did it do all it could to keep the Germans and the Japs in line, and to see to it that allied prisoners got the breaks—instead of starvation and beatings? Was the International Red Cross inspection system adequate and efficient? Were its representatives on their toes, battling for the rights of prisoners, or were they tired and rather bored retired Swiss business men merely going through the motions?

We'd like to know. We'd like to see our government make a point of finding out. If, as we have seen stated, 9,000,000 Red Cross packages were available in Germany, undelivered, when our men were starving, we want to know if the International Red Cross had done its best to get those life-saving packages distributed to allied soldiers, and if not why not?

We want to know whether the International Red Cross representatives in Japan knew of warehouses full of food packages and letters sent by American families to their loved ones in Jap hands—found untouched when our troops moved in?

There are lots of things we want to know now

Opening of the Big Spring schools Monday may well be the beginning of a new era for the system.

In the first place, the war is over and although many of the problems created by war linger, the solution now is in sight. Within the year and certainly by the time the next term comes around, the situation should be substantially improved.

Ending of the war, too, opens new possibilities in the field of education. Whether the short-cut methods will be inculcated into the general program is doubtful, but as it is many basic theories proven by them may be absorbed with good results. In the light of what has happened and of what lies ahead, there may well be some critical reevaluation of objectives in education as well as of methods.

Locally, the district is in better financial position, and hence the district will be in an improved position to attract teaching personnel. This does not mean that we have arrived to where we want to be, but with impending development of the immediate postwar area in sight, the financial position may be strengthened further.

This will be needed on another count, for if the community does progress, the need for new facilities sooner or later will be manifested. It is well to keep this possibility in mind.

Only the most shallow minds will look upon schools as buildings to house children during a period when they are simply growing toward adulthood. Real schools, we believe, are those dedicated to teaching children how to live helpfully with their fellowman.

There are lots of old notions among the teaching profession and among the public which should be cast aside. Some hold to the belief that education is a constant process of hammering away on the three Rs, on disciplining the mind, of repeating until certain sacred cows are fixed in the memory. In the profession, there are certain methods which have long been used. Perhaps there is no better reason in many instances than that they always have been used. It may be that some of our wartime experiences will induce us to shift to new approaches.

There is a definite challenge to both the home and the teaching profession to view the problem of education open-mindedly. There is a challenge to get away from ideas that an education is process whereby one is able to outsmart his colleagues. Certainly it is well to teach children how to make a living honestly. However, new emphasis should be placed on the idea of finding happiness as well as money as a reward for work. It is well to stir appreciation of the arts, to gain enjoyment from reading, from music, from painting and many other fields.

But most of all, it seems to us one of the biggest challenges is to teach children to think creatively, to act unselfishly, and to be inspired to service.

that the war is over, and one of the mainstays is how the axis nations were able to get away with organized murder, starvation and brutal beatings in wholesale lots when their activities were supposed to be under scrutiny of the International Red Cross headquarters in Switzerland.

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

The New Job Bill: Meat Or Poison?

(Third of Four Articles)
By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—As far as the United States is concerned the Full Employment Bill proposes a new economic weapon, as untried as the atomic bomb was before it roared across the New Mexico.

It could prove a dud, a suicide bomb or an effective weapon against depressions, unemployment and inflationary indulgences that lead to economic D's.

If passed, it would be in some respects a virtual addition to the Bill of Rights—though not of course, a part of our Constitution.

As now written it says that in addition to other freedoms, every American not in school or doing full time housework has a right to gainful employment and that it is up to the federal government to see that he or she can exercise that privilege.

But bear in mind that this is not a guarantee. The individual out of a job would have no redress in court if the government failed to live up to its promise.

In that respect, the Full Employment Bill might easily become a dud—an empty promise—and the only way the unemployed could get any relief would be to turn out their members of Congress and the administration and elect officials who would give them relief.

On the other hand the Full Employment Bill could open the door to scores of any economic schemes.

Its authors have tried to forestall this. At one point they have specifically written in the bill:

"In order to assist industry, agriculture, labor and state and local governments in achieving continuing full employment, it is the responsibility of the federal government to pursue such consistent and openly arrived at economic policies and programs as will stimulate and encourage the highest feasible levels of employment opportunities through private and non-federal investment and expenditure."

If that fails, the bill then proposes that federal investment and expenditure shall be used (through private enterprise in every feasible instance) to bring about full employment.

Here again is a promise. The only remedy, if it isn't made good, or if its good intentions are abused, is to "turn the rascals out." Could that be done before irreparable damage was done?

That is one question asked by conservatives who feel that constant attempts to adjust our national economy might lead to anything from Communism to Fascism.

Sponsors, of course, see no such explosive powers inherent in the bill. Repeatedly they have said in explanatory speeches that the bill is only an implement for orderly inventory and planning of our economic future.

In other words, it sets up the blueprint shop and the assembly line out of which will come the effective weapons against economic ailments.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Jap Code Help In Midway Plans

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Release of the Pearl Harbor reports now makes it possible to tell the long-withheld story of the battle of Midway and the reason why the Chicago Tribune was never successfully prosecuted for revealing certain war secrets at the time of that battle.

It has now been made clear through the Pearl Harbor reports that the U. S. Navy was in possession of the Japanese secret code and thus was able to break down messages sent between Tokyo and Washington and between various units of the Jap fleet.

That was how Cordell Hull knew at 10 p. m. on Dec. 6, the day before Pearl Harbor that the Japs were going to hand him an abrupt note flatly refusing his peace proposals. That was why General Marshall was censured in the Pearl Harbor report for being out horse-back riding on the morning of Dec. 7, so that word of this pending break in US-Jap relations was not flashed to General Short at Pearl Harbor until such a time and through such a slow channel that he received it only after six American battleships were at the bottom of the harbor.

Advance Midway Preparation That was also why, two weeks before the battle of Midway, the navy knew that Japan was preparing a mighty attack on our key island base of Midway, which, if successful, was to be followed by a tremendous naval drive on the Hawaiian Islands and the California coast. The information had been picked up from Jap radio messages immediately after the battle of the Coral Sea in the South Pacific, and gave time for the U. S. fleet to rush everything it had north to Midway and prepare a trap for the unsuspecting Japs.

Ships and planes from all over the Pacific were sent to Midway. The west coast of the United States was left almost unprotected. Had the Japs become aware of what was happening and shifted their tactics, the cities of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, etc., would have been almost defenseless. But the Japanese coded radio messages were unmistakable. They gave the name of every ship in the Jap fleet which was steaming to attack Midway.

The result of that battle is well known. Not well known, however, is the manner in which the Chicago Tribune's Stanley Johnston revealed the navy's secret, and how he escaped prosecution.

Johnston had been aboard the ill-fated Lexington which sank in the battle of the Coral Sea, was taken aboard another ship which rushed north to participate in the battle of Midway, and while on this ship he learned that the navy knew in advance the Japs were preparing to attack Midway and that we even knew the names of every ship in the Jap fleet.

Chicago Tribune Prosecuted After landing in the United States, where he was not subject to naval censorship, Johnston wrote and the Chicago Tribune published a story regarding this, even naming the complete list of Jap ships. This was information which U. S. naval officers obviously could not have obtained without being able to decode Jap secret messages, and the navy hit the ceiling.

Adm. Ernest King, commander of the fleet, called at the White House and demanded that the Tribune be closed down. He pointed out that the Japs were sure to change their code, and thus we would lose one of our most priceless wartime assets.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, owner of the Chicago Daily News, an opposition paper to the Tribune, was loath to prosecute. So was Roosevelt. He feared it would look like an attack on his severest newspaper critic. The navy, however, insisted. So William D. Mitchell, republican attorney general under Hoover, was selected to present the case to a Chicago grand jury.

What finally happened during that trial has never been revealed. The navy, which had been insistent in demanding the prosecution, suddenly backed down. It refused to let Mitchell tell the grand jury about the secret Jap codes and the fact that the Tribune's disclosure tipped off the Japs that we were breaking them down.

For, in the middle of the trial, code experts found that they were still able to break the Jap codes, and the navy feared that anything told to the grand jury would get back to Japan and prompt the Japs to change their codes again.

Thus the props were knocked out of Mitchell's case, and the whole thing fizzled.

Secret Service In Missouri Although citizens of Independence, Mo., admit the secret service agents assigned to the summer White House aren't the most sociable people in the world, they openly admire the efficiency and alertness with which the agents have kept hundreds of persons from trespassing on the forbidden ground of the Truman home. But even the secret service muffs one now and then.

Not long ago, Miss Florence Carvin entertained several lady friends at her home, 400 North Delaware Street—just two blocks north of the summer White House. When the guests prepared to leave, they discovered several billfolds and purses were missing from their handbags. One of the victims was Miss Marion McClellan, of 3809 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Mo., assistant executive secretary of the Women's City Club of Kansas City. During the evening, a sneak-thief had entered the Carvin home, emptied several of the handbags, and escaped. His loot included about $25 in cash, plus ration coupons.

Interesting fact was that two secret service agents of the summer White House staff were living at the Carvin home. They were upstairs in their rooms when the theft occurred.

Ambassador Harriman During the recent reparations negotiations in Moscow, Ambassador Averell Harriman frequently reminded U. S. colleagues how the Russians had cleaned out every movable piece of Nazi machinery from their zone of Germany, even removing machinery from what later became the American zone of occupation in Berlin.

Harriman termed these operations "looting." When the U. S. reparations party got to Potsdam, Harriman inspected several plants in the area which the U. S. had taken over from the Russians. All had been stripped clean. Harriman kept muttering, "those Russians! What looters!"

Finally the party came to the glass works which the Russians had been through. They had removed most of the machinery, but had overlooked some finished fancy glassware on work benches. So when Ambassador Harriman left the factory, he took a few glass "souvenirs" with him.

One member of the party who had heard Harriman denounce the Russians looked at him critically. Laughing, the ambassador remarked:

"I was talking about Russian looters, wasn't I?"

Senators are looking forward to better eating, now that Derwin Darling has come back from two years in the marines to resume management of the senate restaurant. Alleged United States opposition to the Kilgore unemployment compensation bill cracked open last week. Forty-seven state administrations were reported opposed, but it now develops that Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Oklahoma, Washington and California are definitely for the bill, while Connecticut and several other states about ready to support it.

When Nelson Rockefeller was eased out of the state department, workers in that building were startled to see truckers removing the furniture from his office. He had furnished his suite with his own furniture. When the truck pulled away, even the chandeliers, which were Rockefeller's personal property, had been taken.

Presbyterians Show Membership Growth

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Presbyterian church in this country now has 2,161,872 members—largest membership in its history, the church's office of the general assembly announced. The net gain during the past year was 63,781, largest in 24 years.

In a report for the year ending March 31, the assembly disclosed that it had received the greatest amount of money contributed in one year in the past 15 years—$59,669,015.

Smallest Cotton Crop In Ten Years Forecast

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The agriculture department today forecast a 1945 cotton crop of 10,062,000 bales, the smallest since 1934.

Last year's crop totaled 12,230,000 bales while those for the ten-year 1934-43 period averaged 12,293,000 bales.

The forecast for this year's crop was 108,000 bales smaller than was indicated a month ago, attributed to excessive moisture in August in eastern sections of the cotton belt. Because of pent-up civilian demands for cotton products, it has been predicted that cotton consumption this season may well exceed 10,000,000 bales.

However, the country has a reserve of more than 11,000,000 bales from previous crops. From this reserve domestic requirements and exports—which government officials predict may reach 3,000,000 bales this season—can be drawn.

The department said the yield of cotton per acre was indicated at 247.2 pounds this year compared with 233.5 pounds last year and with a ten year average of 231 pounds.

The department said the outlook in Texas remains unchanged from a month ago.

The department said the extreme lateness of the crop in Northwest Texas made an early frost more of a hazard than usual.

Conditions included: Texas 6, 240,000 acres; 71 pct.; 162 pounds; and 2,100,000 bales. New Mexico 117,000; 83; 484; and 118,000.

Mexican College Head Ired At Studes

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8 (AP)—Students at Mexico's National University finally have roused Rector Genaro Fernandez MacGregor to threaten expulsions to rowdy ring-leaders.

He said he was "indignant and humiliated" because he felt obliged to close the university Thursday to prevent further trouble.

Closure was exactly what the students sought. They demanded that September vacations start last Thursday instead of Monday. To emphasize their point of view groups stormed their way into motion picture houses, captured a street car, drove out passengers and crew and sent it in the wrong direction and had skirmishes with the police.

About 45 percent of the entire peanut crop has gone into the making of peanut butter in recent years.

Through Mr. Disney's Looking Glass

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — You'd think they were making atom bombs at Walt Disney Studios. It takes several telephone calls, a signature, a badge, a guide, and sometimes I understand a pint of blood to get into the joint.

The reason for all this intrigue is that the studio has worked for the Navy Department on some supposedly secret stuff. That's all over now, but evidently the bosses aren't aware there's a peace on.

The interior of the studio carried out the initial impression of intrigue. The buildings are as immaculate as a hospital, and the dens in which the Disney hirelings carry on their mysterious work are cryptically marked Unit 4Z, Unit and 118F, etc.

Under any conditions it is worthwhile to visit the Disney Studio. When I arrived they were showing some of the sequences from the forthcoming production, "Make Mine Music."

The first scene was a wonderful juke box number with the music supplied by clarinetist Benny Goodman. This was entirely in color. Parts of the other sequences were in color, but mostly they were the bare outline of the action.

There was a hilarious "Casey at the Bat" and a rollicking "Casey (no relation) Jones." Sterling Holloway narrated a charming "Peter and the Wolf" to Prokofiev's music. Dinah Shore sang "Two Silhouettes" while two ballet artists, Rianouchinsky and Lichine, danced in a Disney wonder world.

There were two other sequences in a less advanced state of production. One was "Johnny Fedora," a romance of two hats. A supervising artist put on a record by the Andrews Sisters and described the action with a series of drawings pinned on the wall. The plot is up to Hollywood standards—boy hat meets girl hat, loses same, then gets her.

Even more imaginative is "The Whale Who Wanted to Sing at the Metropolitan." This was also described with wall drawings. It is the story of a whale with a beautiful voice—tenor, baritone and soprano. All are sung by Nelson Eddy. How Eddy, or the whale, ends up singing in the Metropolitan Opera House should be a classic.

"This, then, is the bobby soxers' "Fantasia." Perhaps Walt won't like that term, but he himself admitted "Make Mine Music" is "groovy."

Disney fans (and who isn't?) will have to wait a while to see it. It has already been in production 14 months and will take eight more. When Walt gets some of his artists and experts back from the service the process may be shortened.

That will also hasten such forthcoming productions as "The Little People," a story of Irish folk; "Uncle Remus," and a version of "Alice in Wonderland."

MEN'S WEAR OF CHARACTER

Andrews, Concho Tests Looking Up

By JOHN B. BREWER
SAN ANGELO, Sept. 8—Prospects of oil production from the Silurian in Humble No. 1 J. E. Parker in central Andrews county and reported swabbing and heading of oil by Eltex, Ltd., No. 1 E. L. Martin, "tight" Concho county wildcat, from a Bend zone slightly higher than that tested earlier featured West Texas developments this week. Wildcatting was limited to staking of a few short outposts to fields.

Humble No. 1 Parker recovered 180 feet of mud-cut oil, 360 feet of free oil and 180 feet of oil and gas-cut drilling mud on a 65-minute drillstem test of the Silurian from 7,994 to 8,167 feet. After the testing tool had been closed and two wet joints of drillpipe had been pulled, the drillpipe unloaded oil and gas for five minutes. The oil tested 43.2 gravity.

No. 1 Parker drilled ahead below 8,187 feet. It is in the C NW NE 24-A41-psl, southwest offset to Sun No. 1 N. H. Martin and others, opener of the Martin (Clear Fork lime) pool. It is slated to drill 10,000 feet if necessary to explore the Ellenburger.

Eltex No. 1 Martin in Concho county, four miles northwest of Eden, was reported to have swabbed and headed oil through tubing run to 3,767 feet. It was believed that 7-inch casing had been perforated between 3,755-95 feet. The horizon had been acidized, it was understood.

Lower perforations, likely between 3,815-35 feet, were squeezed off after 38 barrels of oil and 38 barrels of salt water were recovered, swabbing and flowing naturally in 12 hours. Two storage tanks were moved in. No. 1 Martin found the Ellenburger and Cambrian barren in drilling to 4,392 feet and plugged back. It is 650 feet out of the northeast corner of section 6, Wm. Hughes survey, 3 1-2 miles northwest of the nearest well in the Eden gas field, where production is from the Bend. Northern Ordinance, Inc., No. 1 T. B. Drinkard community, in the southeast quarter of section 82-O. F. Wegin, three miles northeast of Eden, plugged back from 3,664 feet, in the Ellenburger, to 1,750 and cemented 7-inch casing at 1,695. A machine was to be moved in to test oil saturated sand, probably the Cisco, between 1,700-25 feet.

Oil rose to about 150 feet in J. K. Hughes Oil Co. No. 1 Shannon estate as the western Crockett county test drilled past 4,441 feet in lime. There was no water. Some geologists said the Clear Fork oil bearing zone was entered about 300 feet lower than in Ledge No. 1 Bouscaren, the Clear Fork discovery in the Noelke field, 1 1-4 miles to the south. The Hughes outpost is in section 28-GG-Martha T. Wilton.

Sinclair Prairie No. 1 Geo. F. Ratliff, southwestern Andrews county wildcat C SW SE 25-73-psl, was credited with showing saturation in the Devonian in progressing to 9,200 feet and was to drillstem test.

Shell and Texaco No. 1 Ratliff & Bedford, four-pay strike in southwestern Andrews, C NW NE 4-73-psl, flowed 407 barrels of oil through open 2-inch tubing in the last 9 1-2 hours of natural testing of the Ellenburger through casing perforations between 11,018-320 feet. It squeezed these perforations and was to perforate between 9,190 and 9,182 feet. Dual completion, from the Ellenburger and Devonian, is planned.

Frankel Bros. of Houston No. 1-I University, wildcat C NW NW 32-13-U, was abandoned at 8,777 feet, reportedly without reaching the Devonian. Its failure confirmed earlier beliefs that Stanolind No. 1-P University, Devonian discovery two miles farther southeast, is on a different structure from wells in the Fullerton Devonian field. The Frankels drilled three miles southeast of the nearest Fullerton Devonian production.

Credited with slight oil stains in samples, Texaco No. 29 W. E. Connell in Ector county, C NE NW 9-B16-psl, was due to drillstem test to 7,105 feet in Devonian chert, topped at 7,048 feet, 4,171 feet below sea level. The scheduled Ellenburger test is 7,900 feet northeast of the nearest San Andres producer in the Penwell field.

Humble No. 1 Buchanan, Midland county wildcat C SW SW 32-W. M. Baldrige, recovered salt water through casing perforations between 12,130-350 feet, reportedly opposite the Ellenburger. It was expected that some zones showing gas and dis-illate, in the lower Permian or Pennsylvanian, would be tested.

Phillips No. 1 Talvez in Winkler county, C NE NE 15-B2-psl, which marked a three-eighths mile southeast extension to the Keystone Ellenburger field, was finished with a daily flowing potential of 1,760 barrels from between 9,951-66 feet. J. E. Sharp and R. C. Barnes No. 1-E M. E. Crum, northeast offset to the Phillips well, flowed naturally 1,465 barrels of oil in 12 hours, bottomed at 9,878 feet.

Standard of Texas staked No. 1 Nellie M. Tucker, proposed 6,400-foot test in southwestern Crane county, about one-third mile north of Magnolia No. 1-B Tucker, wildcat now testing the Simpson. Location is 660 from the southwest, 330 feet from the southeast line of section 20-3-H&T.C.

Closing a gap between the Mabee field and Mabee Oil & Gas Co., No. 1-B Mabee, a 1 1-4 mile northeast extension, Texaco No. 53-A Mabee in southwestern Martin county, in section 18-39-2n-G&MMB&A, established a daily flowing potential of 271 barrels of oil from pay at 4,655-4,730 feet, which had been shot.

Airline Landings Gain In August

Commercial air line landings at the municipal airport totaled 655 during August, giving the month an equal status with June as the second highest for the year. The top was 667 in May.

American Airlines bounced back up with 571 landings, 447 of them non-scheduled. Continental, with flights cancelled on the latter part of the month due to damage to a plane, eased off to 84. Replacement may be made the last of this month.

American cancelled out one crew change here and installed another in its place. Currently, the swap is on the Nashville-Tulsa-Oklahoma City leg of a transcontinental run. Prospects are now that American will make Big Spring the crew point change for two other transcontinental flights, one from New York to Chicago, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Big Spring, El Paso, Phoenix and Los Angeles. The other would include Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Tulsa, Big Spring, El Paso, Tucson and San Diego as stops. This would boost the number of crew changes to six daily here as of Oct. 1, if the plan goes through.

Cans are made of 98 percent sheet steel for strength and 2 percent tin to keep the steel from rusting.
