McLean, Gray County, Texas, Friday, November 24, 1922.

Number 47.

LYCEUM NUMBER NEXT THURSDAY

The second number of our Lyceum course will be given Thanksgiving evening. Clyde Wilson McCord will deliver the only lecture on this year's course. Mr. McCord is only thirty-four years of age, but he has had a decidedly unusual career.

He is a college and university graduate, backed by an ancestry distinguished for its men of marked platform and pulpit ability, endowed with the mental and oratorical powers of Southern blood; yet for years he was compelled by force of circumstances to follow lines of work most ungenial. Yet even this was turned to his advantage, for during those years he developed that interest and sympathy for "the other fellow" that gives him a power almost unanny with what we call the "masses."

Fifteen years of pulpit work in city pastorates resulted in an insight into human nature that developed an ability to get next to the hearts of the people to a degree rarely found in platform men of today; while eight years of platform and Lyceum work have given a breadth of horizon that puts Mr. McCord in a place all of his own.

Not only has Mr. McCord developed wonderful ability and power, but he has a most happy way of imparting that ability and power to others. He is a rapid fire speaker, witty, logical and gripping. He is not a dreamer nor a fanatic, but a clear thinker. And while he does not claim to have panaceas for all our present woes and troubles, yet he does have a lot of suggestions that instantly appeal to all thinking people, whether they be young or old. So vivid and burning is his message that while his name and face may be forgotten in communities where he speaks, his message stays and holds its grip on the minds of those who came to listen, and went away to really live. Mr. McCord's message will be especially timely, coming as it does on Thanksgiving Day.

Season tickets have been reduced in price. You will be sorry if you miss the remaining numbers of the course. See the Lyceum committee and buy your ticket now.

CHORAL CLUB ORGANIZED

On Monday evening eight local singers met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cook and organized a Choral Club to take part in the Festival of Music at Amarillo next spring. Miss Ruby Cook was elected leader and Mrs. S. E. Boyett pianist. The next meeting will be held Monday night, Nov. 27, at the Presbyterian church, where it is hoped there will be at least twenty singers present, as twenty is the minimum number required to allow us the privilege to participate in the Music Festival.

The Amarillo College of Music will send a director to drill the class just as soon as the work is well organized. The books containing the chorus for the Amarillo Festival are priced at $1.00 a copy and each member of the class is expected to provide themselves with a copy.

Other nearby towns have classes well organized and there is no reason why, with the proper co-operation, McLean cannot have a creditable representation at Amarillo.

The News printed the full week's program of the Festival a few weeks ago and will publish other items of interest from time to time.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Durham of Wellington were in McLean this week looking for a location. The Durhams used to be citizens of our community and we will be glad to welcome them in our midst again.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Young last Thursday night, a girl.

Representative-elect Dewey Young is in Austin attending the State University.

FLOYD RAISES PECANS

L. O. Floyd, who lives at the west edge of town, has two fine pecan trees that bore about a gallon of pecans to the tree this year. These trees are seven years old and the nuts are of the large soft shell variety. We can't state from personal experience, but Mr. Floyd says the flavor of the nuts is excellent.

VOLUNTEERS WARN PEOPLE

D. C. Parten of the local post of the Volunteers of America has issued the following warning to the Panhandle people about solicitors for that organization:

"This is to request the people of the Panhandle when approached for contributions to the Volunteers of America to get in touch with the Mayor of Amarillo to see if the person so soliciting funds is authorized by the Volunteers headquarters at Amarillo to do that work.

"We are making this request because fraudulent solicitors have been and possibly are now at work in the Panhandle of Texas soliciting funds for the Volunteers of America, when as a matter of fact, those funds are now being turned into headquarters here."—Amarillo Daily News.

HAYNES GROCERY CO. SELLS 2 CARS OF FLOUR IN NEIGHBORING TOWN

Haynes Grocery Company sold two cars of flour to merchants in another town last week. They were enabled to do this on account of the fact that they could quote a price below what it could be bought from the mills or jobbers. Haynes Grocery Co. buys in large lots, which gives them the advantage over merchants in neighboring towns in the matter of price.

Oasis apples, grown by A. T. Wilson, won $10.00 first prize and $2.00 and $1.00 prizes for two best varieties at the Cotton Palace Exposition at Waco. This, in addition to the prizes won at the Dallas Fair, makes quite a string of prizes for The Oasis this year.

FINE HOGS AND CATTLE ARE SHIPPED

Cattle and hog shipments from McLean so far this year indicate a somewhat smaller number of cars, but the quantity has been more than made up with quality. 18 carloads of big 1500 pound steers have been shipped this month, that are said to be the best and biggest steers shipped from the Panhandle this year. 146 cars of cattle have been shipped from McLean since the first of the year, all of the cattle being fat or in good condition. 58 cars of hogs have been shipped to date.

Summer pasture was cut short by the dry weather, but not to such an extent that the cattle suffered, and we always have an abundant supply of water that is very essential to the stock raiser. A great deal of feed was raised this year, so that no stockman need have feed shipped in, as feed is being sold on the local market and shipped to other less fortunate communities.

INSURANCE AD GETS RESULTS

Last week C. C. Bogan, assistant cashier of the Citizens State Bank, placed his first ad in The News as an insurance agent. Mr. Bogan had five new policies written up in as many days after the ad appeared. MEADOWBROOK HEREFORD FARM SALE SUCCESSFUL

The second annual sale of Meadowbrook Herefords held last Friday was a successful one; every offering being taken. While the prices obtained for the offerings were not as large as might have been expected, the average price per animal was great enough to make the sale a paying proposition to the owner. The Davis Stock Farm at Mobetie was a heavy buyer at the sale, buying about half the cattle offered.

The Meadowbrook Hereford Farm has gained an enviable reputation for Anxiety Herefords, and Mr. Carpenter is to be congratulated for his efforts to promote the breeding of purebred cattle in this community.

FOOTBALL GAME McLEAN TIGERS VS. WELLINGTON

The McLean Tigers meet the Wellington football team on the home grounds today (Friday) for the last home game of the season. There has been more enthusiasm manifested at the High School over this game than any game this year. Eight of the Tigers graduate this year, and this will be the last opportunity for the home folks to see these boys play on the home grounds. The Wellington lads are husky players and can put up a stiff game, but Coach Baxter says the Tigers are in better shape than at any time this season and are determined to win this last game.

W. E. Lockhart, coach at Canyon Normal, will referee the game.

The game will start promptly at 3:30 Friday afternoon, and it is hoped that a large crowd will be present, as the Tigers are greatly in need of financial help, as they have run considerably behind in expenses of the games so far. McLean's football team has done a great deal to advertise our school and town, and deserves the support of all loyal citizens who enjoy a good game of football.

HOG SALE SATURDAY

The McLean Purebred Livestock Association will hold their second annual hog sale next Saturday. There are a number of as fine individual animals offered as one would care to see anywhere offered in this sale.

Elsewhere in this paper you will find each offering listed. Study this list and be on hand at the sale.

CITY WORK STARTED

The city started work on the Waterworks, Electric Light and Street Improvements Monday. Engineer E. W. Baker has a force of men at work on foundations for the buildings, tank and engines. The main work of ditching for the water mains will not start for some time yet.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A community Thanksgiving service will be held Thursday at the Legion Theatre, beginning promptly at 11 a. m., and continuing for one hour. The lecture to be given by Mr. McCord, of the Lyceum course, on Thursday evening is expected to attract an appreciative audience. This lecture will be well worth anyone's time and money.

THANKSGIVING

Let us be thankful not alone because Since last our universal thanks were told We have grown greater in the world's applause And fortune's newer smiles surpasses the old—

Let us be thankful—thankful for the prayers Whose gracious answers were long, long delayed That they might fall upon us un-awares And bless us, as in greater need we prayed.

Let us be thankful for the loyal hand That love held out in welcome to our own, When love and only love could understand The need of touches we had never known.

Let us be thankful for the longing eyes That gave their secret to us as they wept, Yet in return found, with a sweet surprise, Love's touch upon their lids, and smiling, slept.

Dollar Day

A dollar deposited at this bank today will be at your command tomorrow. If you repeat the operation each day, or occasionally, according to your means, you are going to have a lot of dollars at the end of the year—and if this Dollar Day practice is continued, you will have a snug little sum to fall back on in times of need. Observe Dollar Day often and long. Dollar Day is an established institution with some wide-awake merchants, and they profit thereby. But why should not every individual observe Dollar Day? Instead of making Dollar Day come at long intervals, why not make every day a Dollar Day, or at least as often as it is possible?

PROCLAMATION

According to custom, it is fitting and meet that we observe Thanksgiving Day with the rest of the United States, and as Mayor of the City of McLean, I most respectfully ask that every citizen cease from his labors on that day for one hour and attend the community Thanksgiving services at the Legion Theatre beginning at 11 a. m.

Our community has much to be thankful for this season, and we should be willing to spend some of our time in rendering thanks to Him who has it in His power to bless or withhold blessings.

The pastors of the various churches in town have prepared an hour's program that will be given at the Legion Theatre, and the Lyceum lecturer at night will be asked to lecture on matters pertaining to the day.

Signed: T. A. LANDERS, Mayor.

WHERE THE TIMES GOES

It is estimated that the average man spends his life thus: Sleeping, 23 years; working, 19 years and 8 months; recreation and worship, 10 years and 2 months; eating and drinking, 6 years and 10 months; traveling, 6 years; illness, 4 years; dressing, 2 years; and hunting for a match, 4 months.—Capper's.

SPORADIC PUBLICITY FUTILE

The Oklahoma Public Utility Information Bureau has been advising public utility operators to become regular advertisers in newspapers. Several of the public utility companies in the state have been following this policy for some time.

The Rocky Mountain Committee on Public Utility Information, Geo. E. Lewis, executive manager, along with committees in several other states, has been advising persistent advertising. Speaking recently before a gathering of Denver business men, Mr. Lewis said, relative to newspaper advertising:

"An 'eating campaign' of a few weeks' duration, followed by a famine of several months or a year, the present state regulation, has demonstrated the truth of this assertion, for, mainly through newspaper advertising, it is winning confidence and friends by the thousands."

Abe Martin says: "The leader of any enterprise should never be a feller with nothing to lose." Not only is this true, but any man selected to lead in anything should be a man who has made a success of his private affairs, for the man who makes a failure of his own business cannot lead others on to success. Many men with pleasing personalities are placed at the head of organizations that have no claim for fitness, other than their ability to make friends. This is the reason that you see so many failures among organizations that elect their leaders by popular vote. The leader of any body that depends on finances for its existence needs a successful manager, and he can be secured only by paying the price, for this kind of man is in demand and seldom out of a job.

The prizes won by A. T. Wilson, proprietor of The Oasis, shows how we stand compared with the rest of the state as regards quality of fruit. There is no question but that the Pashardie has the rest of the state bested along most all lines of farm products. And our community has reason to be proud of the prizes won by our citizens at the various fairs this year.

Have you ever taken notice of the fact that all men who are condemned to death make profession of religion when hope of pardon or escape vanishes and the gallows becomes a certainty? A man may say he does not believe in God or life beyond the grave, but if the time of his departure is fixed he immediately becomes a believer and a supplicant for mercy. And this leads us to the belief that no person would go to the grave an unregenerate if the time of departure of all were fixed and known. Man realizes that death may come at any time—to other people; but for himself he feels that there remains a stretch of years, and at some opportune time he will seek pardon. If it should be thundered from heaven today that time would end a week hence, a revival would start up in every church in the world tonight, and it would be difficult to find a sinner in all the land tomorrow.—Rule Review.

Writing in an eastern paper, C. N. Freig, well-known journalist, says: "The home paper is your chum, your pal and your intimate friend; the big city daily is your casual acquaintance; the magazine is your occasional visitor. And when it comes to advice, we trust a chum and an intimate friend first, don't we? You may not know it, but the small-town paper not only delivers more friendly and intimate home influence circulation, but it is trusted far more widely than the big city daily published by men so far away that they can't possibly be in touch with your community." There's advice to remember when you want to sell something—offer it to those who read the home-town paper, because they have long ago learned that they can believe what they see in its columns. It isn't so full of advertising, either, that your message will be buried, as often happens to advertisers in the big dailies. If you haven't learned the truth about advertising in your home-town paper then you haven't learned all you ought to know about successful merchandising.—Pampa News.

Modern weekly newspapers cannot live on fresh air and gyp water; it takes some real money to issue a respectable newspaper now-a-days.—Childress Post.

It does, for a fact. And it takes lots of good dollars, too. The cheap newspaper is a thing of the past, and it will not return soon, if ever. Then why not put the newspaper on a business basis? Why not charge for space used and not only expect, but demand, pay at so much per, for space in the columns of the paper? The time was, and is yet, when every Tom, Dick and Harry rushes into the print shop with a notice of this or an ad for that, a boost for something else and a windy for still something else. The space is given. But the expense of running the paper goes right on, and usually those who want the most free publicity pay least into the editor's till. Now why not make the paper pay dividends by demanding and getting what the thing is worth? At first, of course, people will not understand why they are required to pay for things they want printed, but pretty soon they will take a tumble and realize that business is business and act accordingly.—Higgins News.

TWO KINDS OF CITIZENS

(Excerpt from speech by Dr. S. P. Weeks, president of Baylor University, before the Rotary Club of Dallas.)

"There are two kinds of citizens in the world, illustrated by the following story:

"A selfish rich man in an Eastern city died. He left millions of money and one wayward boy. When the man died, the city editor conjured his brain as to what to say of the departed, and it was as follows: 'In the passing of Captain Skinflint, our city loses a well known character. He had amassed a fortune by close attention to business. During his life he never let anything or person interfere with the prosperity of his undertakings. He was a member of all our exclusive clubs, but rarely took time away from his business to enjoy them. His son will probably follow in the footsteps of his father.'

"In that same city a cultured poor man died. When the editor went to write about him, it was as follows: 'In the home-going of Mr. Goodfellow, our city mourns with a quantity rarely found. Old citizens testify to the fact that he lived throughout his long life to the service of his family, his country and his God. It is a matter of community interest that Mr. Goodfellow left a large family of sons and daughters. Each followed in the footsteps of the father in preparing for life's duties by getting a high class education. Each has married well and each has now a family and home and successful business. Each seeks the good of our country by service in the church and civic and social duties. Each emulates the father in his countless virtues.

"The editor, along with all good citizens, mourns the death of our fellow townsman, but the editor sees each passing day monuments made by this good man. His monuments will live. His life was objectified in that of noble sons and daughters, in the service rendered as officer in his church, as trustee of his city schools, as director of the local public library, as member of the Good Roads Commission, as a citizen known far and wide for his many modest deeds of kindness to others. This man in our town, in a high sense, is not dead, he lives with just men whose spiritual profits counted more than mere material things."

"Are you willing to pay the price shown in the above parable? Have

I made it clear that we don't want your filthy lucre? We want YOU! We want your service. We want the good you can do to match and spur on our own. We want to see you ride in the chariots of glory, but we will expect you to walk in the paths of darkness and doubt and failure unless you will live and practice the high calling of those who preach the doctrine that 'He profits most who serves best.'

STAND UP FOR YOU TOWN

I know my town, and I love my town,
 And I want to help it be
 As great a town to everyone
 As it seems to be to me!
 I praise my town and I cheer my town,
 And I try to spread its fame;
 And I know what a splendid thing 'twould be
 If you would do the same!

I trust my town and I boost my town,
 And I want to do my part
 To make it a town that all may praise
 From the depths of every heart!
 I like my town and I sing my town,
 And I want my town to grow;
 If I knocked my town or blocked my town,
 That wouldn't be nice, you know!

I think my town is the very best town
 In all the world—to me!
 Or if it's not, I want to get out
 And try to make it be!
 I talk my town and I preach my town,
 As I think a fellow should,
 Who has more at stake than to win or make
 For the love of the common good!

I bet on my town and I bank on my town,
 And I think it fine to feel—
 When you know your town and you love your town—
 That it's part of your honest zeal.
 I'm proud of my town, I love my town,
 And I want to help it rise—
 And that's the way to help a town—
 Not curse it and despise.
 —Baltimore Sun.

WHEN YOU TALK OVER THE TELEPHONE WIRES

Dallas, Nov. 22.—When a telephone subscriber uses his telephone he not only has exclusive use of a part of the company's property for the distance over which he talks, but he uses innumerable items in the company's equipment, according to an official of the Southwestern Bell

McLean Sales and Service Station
 Oils, Gas and Accessories
 C. W. GINN, Prop.

Telephone Company here, who has figured it all out.
 The instrument is only two per cent of the equipment necessary. The operators must do 25 different things in setting up the call. Six hundred parts aside from the instrument that are involved must each work all right. Twelve hundred connections must function accurately. To co-operate, the subscriber should call the right number, stand close and speak distinctly, answer the telephone promptly when it rings, and handle the telephone equipment as carefully as its delicate construction requires.

HISTORY OF LIGHTS

Here are some interesting facts in regard to the process of lighting:
 The earliest form of lighting was a wood fire in a cave.
 5,000 B. C.—Torches or lighted splinters placed in holders of stone or clay.
 390 B. C.—Lamps, made of brass or bronze, became highly artistic.
 50 B. C.—Romans used tushes soaked in grease—forerunner of the candle.
 400 A. D.—Phoenicians introduced candles in Constantinople.
 400 to 1700 A. D.—The candle, tallow or wax, vies with the lamps and lanterns.
 1700 Oil lamps, with wicks, began to be used.
 1780—Oil lamps are equipped with round wicks and glass chimney.
 1800—Gas lighting perfected, but candle still most universal.
 1850—Discovery of petroleum, revolutionizing oil lamp lighting.
 1879—Edison, apostle of light, produces incandescent electric lamp.
 1885—Auer Von Welsbach produced incandescent gas mantle.
 1895—Incandescent electric lights made with carbon filament, growing in use.
 1922—Incandescent electric light, using Tungsten filament in high state of perfection.
 What will be the next?

THIS IS NO JOKE

"Lead others," said the chain.
 "Let me reflect," said the mirror.
 "Hold your tongue," said the shoe.
 "Don't hang around," said the rope.
 "Don't give out," said the battery.

 "I'm on the blink," said the light.
 "Be self-supporting," said the suspenders.
 "Never give a blow-out," said the fuse.
 "I'm right on the tick," said the watch.
 "Well, I'll be swamped," said the canoe.
 "Always keep cool," said the refrigerator.
 "Keep your secrets," said the phone.
 "Never get heated up," said the test-tube.

Little Louis was a smart boy and very anxious to forge ahead in the world. He got a job in the local bank. A wealthy uncle met him in the street one morning and said:
 "Well, Louis, how are you getting on in business? I s'pose the first thing we know you will be president of the bank."
 "Yes, uncle," replied the boy, "I'm getting along fine. I'm draft clerk already."
 "What!" exclaimed the uncle.
 "Draft clerk? Why, that's very surprising, but very good."
 "Yes, uncle," replied the lad, "I open and shut the windows according to order, and close the doors when people leave them open!"

STERN JUSTICE

"Doctor!"
 "What?"
 "Come quick! My wife is very ill!"
 "Who is it?"
 "It's B. W. Jones."
 "Not at this time of night, my man, for you. My brother, the grocer, tells me you order all your supplies from a mail order house; my cousin in the dry goods business says you get your clothes, etc., ditto. You'd better go right home and write a letter to the mail order house for some medicine and a physician. Good night!"

THE FARMER'S LOT

President J. H. Kimble of the Farmer's National Congress said the other day:
 "The farmer can't help envying short hours and high wages.
 "A union man while striking for a 44-hour week, visited his cousin, a farmer in the country.
 "The striking man said one day over his pie at dinner:
 "Well, there's one thing you farmers can be thankful for, anyhow, George. The death rate is smaller in the country than in the towns."
 "Yes, said farmer George, 'folks that have to run a farm don't have time to die.'"

DID NOT READ THEM
 Mr. Jones saw a small boy carrying a big bundle of newspapers under his arm. He felt sorry for the youngster and said: "Don't all those papers make you tired, my boy?"
 "No," replied the lad, "I don't read them."

RANK EXTRAVAGANCE
 It was on an ocean voyage. The insurance agent, unwilling to lose a chance of canvassing so many prospects who could not possibly get far away, turned loose a flood of eloquence on a Scotchman.

 "Surely," he said, "you see the advantage of taking out a policy if for nothing except to cover your burial expenses."
 "Wait till we get on land, mon," replied the wily Scot. "I might be lost at sea."

SPEAKING OF DRY SPELLS

"Yes, we do have some pretty long dry spells here," said the old desert rat to the inquiring tourist.
 "Fact of it is that after some of them we have to teach the fish to swim again, but what makes it sad is that so many of 'em drown learnin'."

Fire! Fire!! Fire!!!

When you hear the alarm of fire, what is the first thing that comes into your mind? In most cases, at least, it is the thought, "Am I protected, in case it is my house?"
 Better let me write you up a policy today; it will be too late after your house catches on fire.
 I write policies on residences, business houses and stocks, and country property, against Fire, Tornado and Hail.
 Special terms on country business.

HIS MUSICAL VOICE

"O I can see red roses bloomin'" sang the street vocalist inharmoniously, and he was about to begin the second spasm when a carpenter's helper beckoned him to his side.

"I'll give you a dime," he declared, "if you'll sing in this shed until I come back. I'm dying for a drink of milk." And the songster assented.

Soon the helper reappeared, wiping his mouth, and paid over the reward he had promised.

"I s'pose," said the vocalist knowingly, "that my voice is about the same as your own, an' that you thought your boss wouldn't know the difference—eh?"

The other looked at him indignantly and then replied:

"Your voice the same as mine! I should hope not. I you want to know, it's the same as the voice my saw makes, and I wanted the boss to think I was workin' hard on these planks!"

NEWSPAPERS—NEW AND OLD

In the beginning man created the Newspaper and there was neither printer nor devil to help him out of his predicament. He was the whole cheese! Evolution and revolution were destined to bring success to the new method for spreading the printed word. Centuries later marvelous machinery was invented to "stick type," and the crowds still gape in at the open window to watch the great process which the Chinaman observed to "run like hellee."

Thirty years ago a handful of metropolitan dailies collected the news thru country correspondents. "The Senator" hired a newspaper man for his secretary, and part of his job was to write a "Washington Letter," in which he never failed to boost the boss. This inadequate method has been replaced by the great wire-news agencies that now cover the world. Features in prose, poetry and pictures came along to fill a still further demand.

AMERICAN COLLARS IN JUNGLE

American collar manufacturers are finding a big market in the jungles of Africa. The natives, it seems, are as fond of white starched collars as they are of silk hats. The taller the collar, the more ivory they'll trade for it. Submission to an uncomfortable fashion is a reflection of a strain of barbarism, whether in Africa or here at home. That American women are insisting on comfortable garments is proof that they are progressing mentally.—Capper's.

WHEN THE READER KICKS!

My father says the paper he reads ain't put up right;
He finds a lot of fault, too, he does, perusin' it all night;
He says there ain't a single thing in it worth to read,
And that it doesn't print the kind of stuff the people need;
He tosses it aside and says it's strictly on the bum,
But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.
He reads about the weddin's and he snorts like all get out;
He reads the social doin's with a most derisive shout.

He says they make the papers for the women folks alone;
He'll read about the parties and he'll fret and fume and groan;
He says of information it doesn't have a crumb—
But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.
He is always first to grab it and he reads it plumb clean through.
He doesn't miss an item, or a want ad—that's true;
He says they don't know what we want, the darn newspaper guys.
"I'm going to take a day sometime and go and put 'em wise;
"Sometimes it seems as though they must be blind and dumb—"
But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

Getting up these "school notes" is no picnic. If we print jokes people say we are silly. I we don't they say we are too serious. If we publish original matter they say we lack variety. If we publish things from other papers we are too lazy to get original articles. If we don't print contributions we don't show proper appreciation. If we do print them we are accused of filling up with junk. Like as not some fellow will say we swiped this idea from another paper—and we did.

A friend of Carl's living in the city wrote him: "Saturday we went to the country club, where we golfed until dark. Then we went to the lake and Sundayed down."

Carl answered: "Yesterday we bagged down town and footballled all afternoon, then we footed to Doug's and poked till morning. Today we muled out to the corn field and gee-hawed till sundown. Then we suppered and piped a while after that we staircased to our room and bedsteaded until the clock fived."

The McLean Tigers went to Clarendon Monday afternoon and played the Clarendon High School. The game resulted in a 14 to 7 score in favor of Clarendon. Clarendon scored a touchdown in the second quarter and McLean came back in the third with their touchdown. In the last quarter, with the ball in McLean's possession on Clarendon's 20 yard line, the McLean team tried a drop-kick which was blocked by a Clarendon player, who picked up the ball and raced 75 yards down the field for a touchdown. "Touch back," I call it.

I suppose you people that read the McLean News have read quite a bit about the McLean Tigers' football team this year, but you have never noticed anything about the girls' basketball team. Don't think for a moment that we don't have a basketball team, for we have one of the "pippiest" and best teams in the Panhandle. The only reason that you, the public, do not know this is because the girls have never had a chance to prove it to you.

The girls have been coming out regular every afternoon for practice, and sometimes when the Tigers would be "going in" you could see the girls still practicing.

But what I started to say is that the basketball girls are going to Clarendon with the football boys on Thanksgiving, and McLean is going to come home with a double victory. Folks, let's back our basketball girls this year as we have the football team, and there is not a doubt but that McLean will have the winning team of the Panhandle.

CROSS-CURRENTS

It was the people of Holland who first adopted the rooster as a medium for the weather vane, soon to be followed by England, because of the incident in which the cock figured when the Apostle Peter denied his Lord.

"As changeable as a weathercock" is an old adage, which illustrates the swaying of the vane. But because the vane may point to all four points of the compass in as many minutes, does not mean that the wind has changed that many times from its original quarter.

A man raking up the leaves on a lawn rakes with the wind. He has the leaves piled up and the wind is blowing steadily from the North. Then there is a sudden gust from the South, a cross-current, a whirling eddy, and the leaves are blown back over the lawn. But the man does not begin to rake toward the North, for the wind is still in that quarter. He knows that the gust which drove the leaves back was merely a caprice of the breeze, and so he still rakes them again with the wind. It is only one of those happenings which occur in the day's work, and which can be repaired by patient labor.

In the cross-currents of life the same thing holds true. A man who has always lived a good, upright life may, in a moment of moral or physical weakness, give way to a sudden temptation. A cross-current has struck him and, for a time, faces him in the opposite direction to that in which he has been traveling. He may have thought too highly of his own ability to resist temptation. He may not have guarded his weak point as he should. He may have been in a boastful frame of mind, which always precedes a fall. But even though he fell, he should not be regarded as a degenerate man. The damage can be repaired, although it will take time and patience and suffering.

Many people are apt to say, when a man or woman, who up to that time has lived an exemplary life, makes a misstep. "Now we see him in his true character; all that has gone before was but a masquerade." Oh, for a little of that charity which was extended to Peter when, for a moment, he was swayed by a cross-current! Why try to tear down and destroy a reputation which has been built up by years of right living? How much better it is to have sympathy for the one who has been caught in the cross-current amid the winds of life, and help him to steer straight again.

Aviators will tell you that after climbing to a great height and then flying with the wind, they will suddenly encounter a cross-current of air, which causes them to go tumbling from their course, sometimes to their destruction. If they can recover their equilibrium, they turn about and begin the long, laborious climb to reach their former height again.

If you have climbed to a height of moral attainment, if for years you have been a respected member of the community, if your face has always been set toward the sun, and you have been caught in a cross-current, faced about the other way, crushed to the earth, perhaps, and are sick and bleeding, don't despair.

It was probably your own fault that you fell, and you deserved the punishment that your act has caused you, but by your own efforts you can rise again to the heights you once attained. Yes, and you can go to sublimer heights, if you so will it. It will take time; the road will be full of discouragements and temptations to give up the fight, but you will win again if you will only press on.

"One ship goes east, another west, By the selfsame winds that blow; 'Tis the set of the sail, and not the gale

That determines the way they go. Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate,

As we voyage along through life, 'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal,

And not the calm, or the strife."

HE DIDN'T UNDERSTAND

The Father—"You told me that he was worth millions, and so I gave him your hand, of course. Now that you are married, I find that he is as poor as a church mouse. What did you mean?"

His Daughter—"Well, papa, he was worth that to me."

BALANCED RATIONS

"Can any girl tell me the three foods required to keep the body in health?"

There was silence till one maiden held up her hand and replied: "Yer breakfast, yer dinner an' yer supper."

INDIFFERENCE

Most of us know what we ought to do, in our work, in our lodges, in our churches, and in the community—but we just don't do what we ought to do. We can call it whatever we want to—carelessness, that we are not doing what we ought to do to make our own little corner of the world a happier and better place to live in.

When one sees people stumbling about, passing up their duties, and trampling on the things that will make their town and community better, one is reminded of the story of the negro mule trade.

Sam sold Eph a mule, guaranteeing the animal to be thoroughly sound and well. Three days later Eph brought the mule back.

"Sam," he said, "you told me dat mule was sound and well."

"Yes, 'at's what I told ye!"

"Dat mule ain't no good; he's blind as a bat."

"How come ye say he's blind?"

"Well, when I taken him home an' turned him in de pasture, he run right square into a tree. Jes' bumped his haid square agin dat tree."

"Aw, Eph, dat mule ain't blind; he jes' natcherly don't give a damn."

There are too many of us like that mule. We know better but we are too lazy and indolent—or too selfish—to do better.

Not only in community affairs are we this way, but many a friend or acquaintance has been hurt to the quick because we have withheld a word of appreciation or approbation. That word wouldn't have cost you or me anything, and the bearing of it might have made the pathway a little easier and little brighter for the person we should have spoken it to. There are times in the life of every individual when he needs a cheerful word, a hearty handshake, or a friendly pat on the back. These things are to meet an sunshine, fresh air and water are to growing plants.

Indifference is a frightful blight. To one who lets it get the better of him, the world is a dark and gloomy place, wherever he may be. Let thoughtfulness and kindness and sincerity get a hold on you. If you will, it won't be long till the world will begin to brighten up and life will seem worth living to all of you.—Exchange.

NOT UNREASONABLE

A man, obviously from the country, stepped up to the ticket seller in a Chicago railway station and demanded:

"Been here long?"

"Quite a while," replied the clerk.

"Know a man named McConnell?"

"No."

"That's funny. Sure you don't know a man named McConnell?"

"Yes," expostulated the ticket seller impatiently, "there are several million people in Chicago. Do you expect me to know every man in the city?"

"Not exactly," answered the stranger, walking away, "but I did figure you might have sense enough to know one."—Japan Advertiser.

Good Groceries
at Good Prices

Following our old custom of setting the prices, we are again calling to the attention of our customers that prices at our store, quality considered, are lower than any place in the Panhandle.

We are fortunate enough to have a good stock of everything in the grocery line, especially flour and sugar, that has been bought at the lowest market with every possible discount off, and we are in a position to offer to our trade prices that cannot be duplicated elsewhere.

Please bear in mind that we can sell a large bill of merchandise and at the same time get the cash for it, cheaper than we can sell in small lots, make charge tickets, and in some cases deliver, for it costs money to carry accounts and run a delivery, but when we have a chance to figure on large bills for the cash, we make prices that look good to the man that wants to save money.
