BOND ISSUE CARRIES

WILSON BROS. HAVE FINE FARM

Last Monday the News man visited the Wilson Brothers' Farm. F. P. Wilson had been telling us so much about a fine litter of Poland China pigs he claimed to have, that we had a curiosity to see how these pigs looked to a disinterested party. We found a pretty bunch of pigs as we would care to see anywhere; they are not fat, but are in good growing condition and uniform in size and shape. These pigs show the strain of their sire, Wilson's Liberty Bond, one of the best boars in this section. This boar is about 15 months old and weighs around 300 pounds. He is a fine specimen of the Liberator strain of Poland Chinas. He is as smooth as a young pig and has all the points of a prize winner. This boar was sired by Cook's Liberty Bond, owned by a comparatively poor man who developed this strain to the point that when he put Cook's Liberty Bond in the prize ring, he was at once proclaimed one of the best individuals of the breed; his owner has become rich by selling pigs from this fine boar. Wilson's Liberty Bond's dam was sired by Liberator, that great individual that no money could buy. Wilson's Liberty Bond was selected for Mr. Wilson by J. C. Halderman, editor of the Poland China Journal, and one of his litter mates now heads the herd of his former owner. Mr. Wilson says this fine boar breeds true to type; his pigs all have the markings of their sire.

But hogs are not the only fine things on the Wilson Brothers' Farm. They breed fine Rhode Island Red chickens, and we were shown the big red rooster that heads the breeding pen. This rooster's mother laid 315 eggs in one year, and 358 eggs without becoming broody. This strain of reds came from the pens of C. M. Evans, who was the National egg laying champion in 1918. The chicken houses on this farm are worth more than passing attention. They are made of concrete in the south side of a hill, giving a warm southern exposure. In fact, Mr. Wilson says his hens lay eggs right through the coldest weather. These houses have concrete floors and are kept clean at all times.

The doctor's office will be at the City Pharmacy. We bespeak for Drs. Ballard and Robinson a successful partnership.

FAIR DATES CHANGED TO SEPT. 26 & 27

The dates of the McLean Fair have been changed to Sept. 26 and 27. This was done when it was learned that the Dallas Fair opens early this year, and McLean wants time to get her exhibits to the State Fair. Exhibits must be in Dallas by Oct. 5, which will give us plenty of time to ship the winning exhibits of the McLean Fair to Dallas.

The Fair catalog will be ready for distribution soon. A nice lot of prizes will be offered on farm products.

TAILOR SHOP ADDS NEW EQUIPMENT

Alva Alexander has sold one-half interest in his tailor shop to Johnnie Back and has added a lot of extra equipment. They now have a Hoffman steam press, a cleaner and extractor, a tailor sewing machine, a big office desk, and a great many smaller articles that go to make up an up-to-date shop.

The new firm will be known as Back and Alexander. Read their ad in this issue of The News.

SPECIALIST MOVES TO MCLEAN

Dr. S. S. Robinson of Houston has moved to McLean and formed a partnership with Dr. W. E. Ballard.

Dr. Robinson is an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, and will specialize in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat, as well as do general practice. Dr. Robinson spent 12 years in the city of New Orleans as a specialist and surgeon. He is a graduate of two medical schools and is highly recommended as a successful practitioner. In line with his practice on diseases of the eye, he fits glasses scientifically.

We are glad to welcome the doctor to our town, for it will be much better to get work of this kind done at home, rather than incurring the expense of going to the cities for special treatment. With a specialist such as Dr. Robinson in our home town, we can get just as good treatment without extra trouble and expense.

The doctor's office will be at the City Pharmacy. We bespeak for Drs. Ballard and Robinson a successful partnership.

COBB'S GROCERY ADDS A NEW LINE

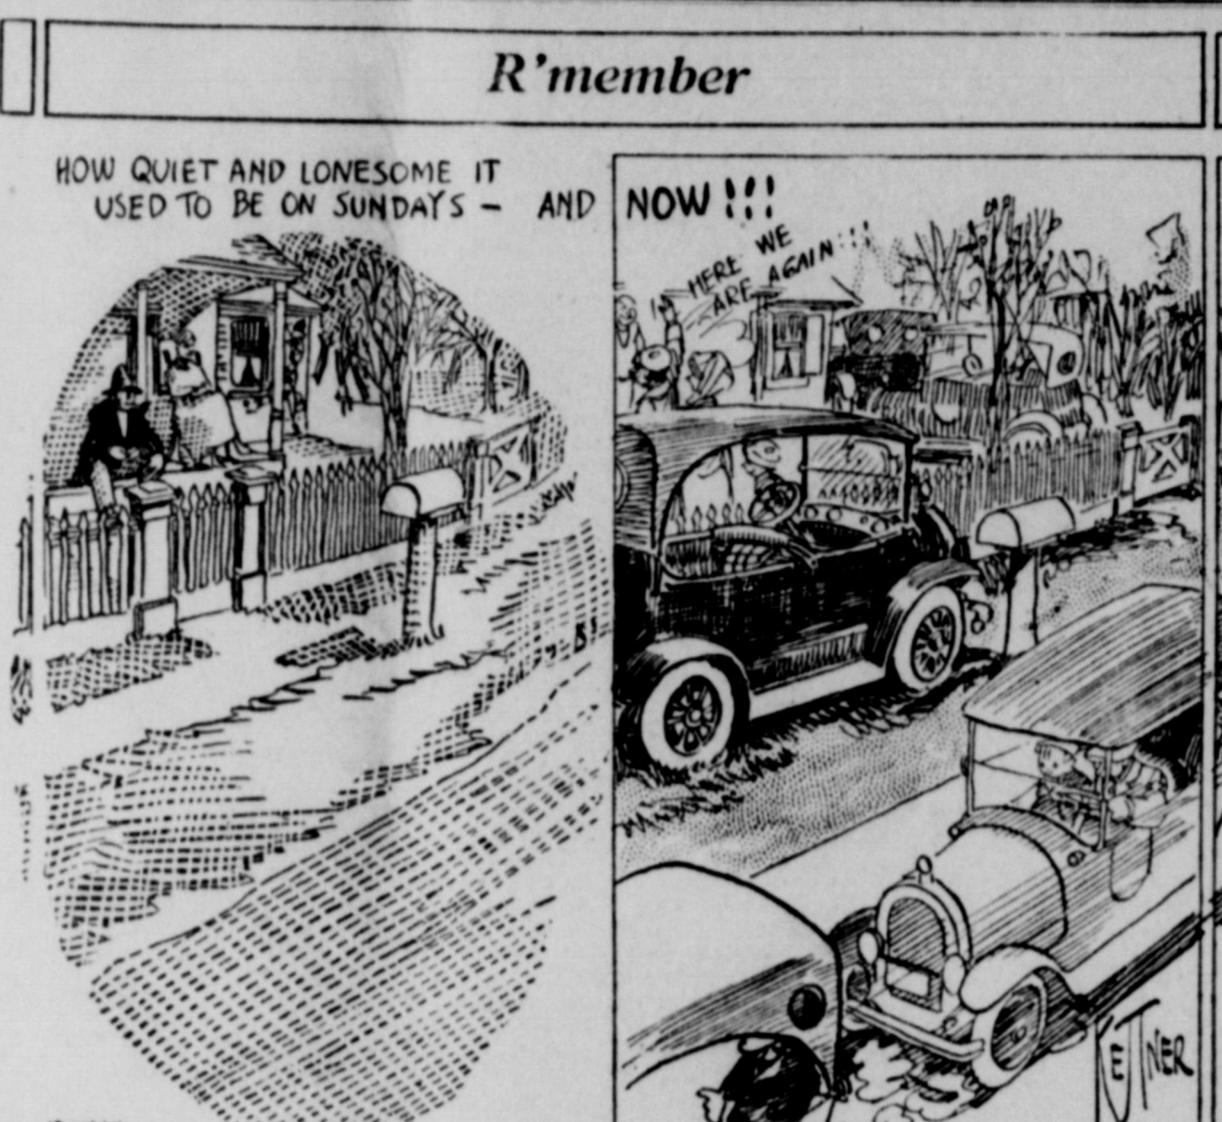

Cobb's Cash Grocery has acquired the A. Chapman stock of shoes and furnishings and will close them out at very low prices. Mr. Cobb advises early purchases before the line is picked over.

But the finest sight to an editor's eye was the big 15 acre orchard. It is estimated that this orchard will make 2,000 bushels of fruit this year; there are about 200 apple trees that are loaded down with big fine apples. D. B. Veatch, our fellowtownsman, who at one time owned this farm, planned the orchard, and he picked varieties of fruit that do well in our climate and in great variety. You will find fruit of some kind in this orchard from now till frost. There are trucks from the Plains loading fruit most every day now. This year's apple crop is the best they have had in the last three years. There are about 15 pear trees that are full of fruit. One tree will make at least 25 bushels of pears.

This farm is practically all sub-irrigated. They have just begun cutting hay. This is native grass mixed with sweet clover, and makes about two tons per acre, and sometimes two cuttings a year. There are about 200 acres in this hay meadow, and as it is all on sub-irrigated land, it never fails to make a crop. Several of the Wilson Brothers' neighbors depend on this farm for their hay, as it is cheaper to buy this hay than to attempt to grow hay on upland.

F. P. Wilson is turning his attention in the cattle line to Jerseys, while W. W. Wilson is raising Herefords. These cattle are easy to keep, as there are only three months in the year that they do not have green grass; their hogs and cattle are now grazing in sweet clover that is waist high.

These farmers are living in comfortable houses that would do credit to that is progressive and for the good of the community.

POSTAL HIGHWAY ROUTE CHANGED

The route of the Postal Highway through McLean was ordered changed at the meeting of the C. of C. Monday night.

The route will remain unchanged coming into town from the east, until it reaches Main street; then instead of turning south on Main, it will go straight on toward the school house and turn south one block east of the school building, then west up the railroad, and turn south at the city limits. This will give a better roadbed and enable tourists to see more of our town.

M. D. Bentley and Rev. J. S. Huckabee were appointed on a committee to have markers painted and placed on the route through town.

CONTROL OF JACKRABBITS

By R. O. Dunkle
At this time of year when the grain ration for rabbits is scarce, some effective methods may be used in the way of poisoning. This may be done by supplying the grain ration in the way of kafir or milo heads soaked for 12 hours in a solution of 2 ounces of strichnine in 4 gallons of water. Add one teaspoon of common salt.

The above formula may be used where the stock is excluded from the field. Put the poison bait in runways and known feeding grounds.

CAUTION: Keep strichnine out of reach of children and from domestic animals and fowls.

MEETING OF C. OF C. LAST MONDAY NIGHT

A called meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in Rice's Furniture store Monday night. A fair sized crowd was present and quite a lot of business attended to.

The Fair dates were changed to Sept. 26 and 27, the route of the Postal Highway changed through the city, and the president instructed to secure a permanent meeting place for the Chamber.

The regular meeting of the C. of C. is the first Monday night in each month.

CARPENTER CITY MARSHAL

B. I. Carpenter was sworn in as city marshal last Saturday. Mr. Carpenter is well known to McLean people, and will no doubt make an efficient officer.

SHOW LIKES NEWS' PRINTING

The News printed the daily programs for the Monroe Hopkins Lathers Company, who had a big tent theatre in McLean all last week.

Mr. Hopkins said we did the best printing and made the most attractive display of any printer they had ever tried. As they have these programs printed every day, this is high praise, for this show has been in some big towns and has had many high class printers work for them. This company ordered three weeks' supply of posters while here, which is something unusual, for they try to give the printer in each town the printing for that town.

Mr. Hopkins said that we had the best equipped country shop he has seen. He made many kind remarks about The News and the people of McLean that we appreciate.

OIL WELL NEWS

Jas. I. Harvey of the Harvey Oil Company was in McLean Tuesday to see about getting a block of leases in order to start another test well. Mr. Harvey says he has a block almost completed. If they can get one or two more men who seem inclined to hold out, into the block, the company will start a test at McLean.

There is nothing to be gained by keeping out of the test, for if tests are not pushed in this country, the bigger companies may lose interest in our field. Mr. Harvey said that if the McLean people expected the Harvey Company to drill a test here, they will have to get the required acreage up withing the next few days.

The test at Alanreed that is being drilled by the Harvey company is getting along nicely, and they have every expectation of finding oil in paying quantities.

CHAUTAUQUA MEETING CALLED FOR TUESDAY

Miss Rose Kohler, Junior Chautauqua Leader, has called a meeting at the Legion Theatre Tuesday at 8 p. m. to meet everyone of the community to plan the junior work for our chautauqua.

K. K. ADVERTISEMENT

Since writing the editorial on the Pampa K. K. advertisement in the Pampa News, a half page ad has been handed in to us. We call your attention to it on another page of this issue.

CHAUTAUQUA NEXT WEEK

The Radcliffe system of Chautauqua will be in McLean July 27, 28 and 29, in a big tent on Main street.

A meeting of the guarantors was held with the chautauqua advance man Wednesday and the following organization affected: C. S. Rice, chairman; C. L. Cooke, secretary-treasurer; T. A. Landers, advertising mgr.; W. L. Haynes, tent committee; Mrs. J. S. Huckabee, Mrs. R. A. Shell, Miss Lucile Stratton, Miss Ruby Cook, Junior committee. Season tickets will be put on sale at $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children; single admission 50c and 25c.

A meeting of all the citizens of the town and community is asked for next Tuesday, July 25, to meet Miss Rose Kohler of Baltimore, Md., who is the Chautauqua Junior Worker. The meeting will be held at the Legion Theatre at 8 p. m.

Miss Kohler had charge of 123 playgrounds in the city of Baltimore before taking up chautauqua work.

The Radcliffe Chautauqua system is the biggest system in the United States and have some good numbers for our town. See the advertisement on another page.

FLOYD HAS ACCIDENT

L. O. Floyd suffered a very painful injury Wednesday when he accidentally stuck a hay fork through his foot. Mr. Floyd came to town immediately and a physician lanced the wound, and, unless complications set up, the foot should heal rapidly.

PHYSICIAN LOCATES AT ALANREED

Dr. George Awtai of Oakhurst has located at Alanreed to practice medicine. Dr. Awtai is a graduate of Baylor Medical College, and comes well recommended as a general practitioner.

W. E. Clement and family, who have been visiting in Missouri, returned home Wednesday. Mr. Clement took charge yesterday of the Clement Produce, of which he is manager. They report a great time, and if looks is an indication, we would say that Mr. Clement was well fed while away.

Mrs. J. L. Hall and son of Boise City came in Wednesday for a visit with the lady's sister, Mrs. John Cubine.

BIG VOTE ON EACH ISSUE

WATER, LIGHT AND STREET IMPROVEMENT

McLean took a forward step Tuesday when the waterworks, light and power, and street improvements bonds were voted. A heavy vote was polled, workers both for and against, were busy from early till late, seeing that everyone had a chance to express their preference in the matter.

Quite a few voters were challenged, and the judges are sure that no one voted who was not a qualified voter. All preliminary work has been passed on by one of the best bond attorneys in the state, and it should not be very long until the bonds are approved and printed. Bond buyers have been trying to get an option on the issue for some time, so it is expected that it will not be any trouble to dispose of them.

This election removes one of the biggest impediments to McLean's becoming a city. We can confidently look forward to better times for our city. Several men have expressed a desire to build modern homes here, since the bonds were passed.

PRIMARY BALLOTS PRINTED

The News printed the ballots for the Democratic Primary last week. This printing was let to the lowest bidder. We bid our regular price for this work and secured the job.

BOND ISSUES FOR LUBBOCK WATER AND SEWER CARRY

Lubbock, July 18.—One hundred thousand dollar bond issue for extension of sewer system and fifty thousand dollar issue for extension of waterworks system carried for Lubbock nine to one today.

K. K. PARADE AT PAMPA

Special to The News
Pampa, July 17.—There were more people on the streets of Pampa last Saturday night than has ever been in the history of this city; the occasion being a big K. K. K. parade.

Over one hundred robed figures marched quietly through the principal streets of the town. The parade was led by a fiery cross and a big United States flag. Just behind the flag was a banner with a hand pointing toward the flag, and these words printed on it: "We pledge our lives to that flag." Farther down the line was another banner with the words "We stand for a cleaner Pampa" on it. The parade passed off quietly; there was no disturbance of any kind.

VOTE EARLY

An early vote Saturday will help the election officials to get their work done in time. If you wait until late you cannot be served as well as you can if you will vote in the forenoon.

Mrs. Saye and son, Charlie, of Bard City, N. M., came in Sunday to visit their son and brother, Geo. Saye.

J. W. Kibler made a business trip to Amarillo Monday, returning Tuesday.

Miss Hattie Thompson of Denver, Colo., came in Sunday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Thompson.

SYNOPSIS

PREFACE.—"Mary Marie" explains her apparent "double personality" and just why she is a "cross-tempered" and a contrarian girl, who also tells her version for writing the diary—later to be a novel. The diary is commenced at Andersonville.

CHAPTER I.—Mary begins with Nurse Sarah's account of her (Mary's) birth, which was a difficult one, and of her father, who is a famous astronomer, less than a new star which was discovered the same night. Her name is a compromise, her mother wanted to call her Viola and her father named her after his mother. The child quickly learned that her home was in some way different from those of her small friends, and was puzzled therat. Nurse Sarah tells her of her mother's arrival, and of the air of pride and brio with which they all were at the same of the dainty eighteen-year-old girl whom the sedate professor had chosen for a wife.

CHAPTER II.—Continuing her story, Nurse Sarah makes it plain why the household seemed a strange one to the child and how her father and mother drifted apart through misunderstanding, each too proud to in any way attempt to smooth over the situation.

CHAPTER III.—Mary tells of the time spent "out west" where the "perfectly light and gentle" and "respectably divorce" was between her mother and her mother's (her) unaccountable behavior. By the court's decree the child is to spend six months of the year with her mother and a month with her father, Boston or Milwaukee, home, and she and Mary leave Andersonville for that city to spend the first six months.

CHAPTER IV.—At Boston, Mary becomes "Marie." She is delighted with her new home, so different from the gloomy house at Andersonville. The number of gentlemen who call on her mother leads Mary to speculate on the possibility of a new father. She chooses to call them "prospective suitors," finally deciding the choice is to be between "the violinist" and Mr. Harlow. A conversation she overhears between them convinces Mrs. Harlow convinces him that it will not be that gentleman, and "to violinist" seems to be the likely man. Mrs. Anderson receives a letter from Aunt Abigail Anderson, from her mother, who writes that "Mary" is expected at Andersonville for the six months she is to spend with her father. Her mother is distressed, but has no alternative, and "Marie" departs for Andersonville.

ANOTHER WEEK LATER

Well, I've got them—those brown and blue serge dresses and the calf-skin boots. My, but I hope they're stiff and homely enough—all of them! And hot, too. Aunt Jane did say today that she didn't know what she'd made a mistake not to get gingham dresses. But, then, she'd have to get the gingham later, anyway, she said; then I'd have both.

Well, they can't be worse than the serge. That's sure. I hate the serge. They're awfully homely. Still, I don't know but it's just as well. Certainly it's lots easier to be Mary in a brown serge and clumsy boots than it is in the soft, fluffy things Marie used to wear. You couldn't be Marie in these things. Honestly, I'm feeling real Maryish these days.

I wonder if that's why the girls seem so queer at school. They are queer. Three times lately I've come up to a crowd of girls and heard them stop talking right off short. They covered up, too; and pretty quick they began to slip away, one by one, till there wasn't anybody left but just me, just us they used to do in Boston. But of course it can't be for the same reason here, for they've known all along about the divorce and haven't minded it at all.

I heard this morning that Stella Mayhew had a party last night. But I didn't get invited. Of course, you can't always ask everybody to your parties, but this was a real big party, and I haven't found a girl in school, yet, that wasn't invited—but me. But guess it wasn't anything, after all. Stella is a new girl that has come to live since I went away. Her folks are rich, and she's very popular, and of course she has loads of friends he had to invite; and she doesn't know me very well. Probably that was it. And maybe I just imagine it about the other girls, too. Perhaps it's the brown serge dress. Still, it can't be that, for this is the first day I've worn . . .

But, as I said, I feel Maryish already.

I haven't dared to touch the piano since that night a week ago, only once hen Aunt Jane was at a missionary meeting, and I knew Father was over the college. But didn't I have a bad time then? I just guess I did! Aunt Jane doesn't care for music, either, it's noisy, she says, and would likely to disturb Father. So I'm not keep on with my music lessons here, he's going to teach me to sew instead. She says sewing is much more sensible and useful.

Sensible and useful! I wonder how many times I've heard those words since I've been here. And durable, too. And nourishing. That's another art. Honestly, Marie is getting awfully tired of Mary's sensible sewing and dusting, and her durable clumpy sex and stuffy dresses, and her nourishing oatmeal and whole-wheat bread. But there, what can you do? trying to remember that it's different, anyway, and that I said I liked something different.

I don't see much of Father. Still, there's something kind of queer about it, after all. He only speaks to me about twice a day—just "Good-morning, Mary," and "Good-night." And so far as most of his actions are concerned you wouldn't think by them that he knew I was in the house. Yet, over and over again at the table, and at times when I didn't even know he was round, I've found him watching me, and with such a queer, funny look in his eyes. Then, very quickly always, he looks right away.

But last night he didn't. And that's especially what I wanted to write about today. And this is the way it happened:

It was after supper, and I had gone into the library. Father had gone out to the observatory as usual, and Aunt Jane had gone upstairs to her room as usual, and as usual I was wandering round looking for something to do. I wanted to play on the piano, but I didn't dare to—not with all those dead-hair and wax-flower folks in the parlor watching me, and the chance of Father's coming in as he did before.

I was standing in the window staring out at nothing—it wasn't quite dark yet—when again I had that queer feeling that somebody was looking at me. I turned—and there was Father. He had come in and was sitting in the big chair by the table. But this time he didn't look right away as usual and give me a chance to slip quietly out of the room, as I always had before. Instead he said:

"What are you doing there, Mary?" "Nothing!" Father frowned and hitched in his chair. Father always hitches in his chair when he's irritated and nervous. "You can't be doing nothing. Nobody but a dead man does nothing—and we aren't so sure about him. What are you doing, Mary?" "Just looking out the window."

"Come here. I want to talk to you."

"Yes, Father."

I went, of course, at once, and sat down in the chair near him. He hitched again in his seat.

"Why don't you do something—read, sew, knit?" he demanded. "Why do I always find you moping around, doing nothing?"

Just like that he said it; and when he had just told me—

"Why, Father!" I cried; and I know that I showed how surprised I was. "I thought you just said I couldn't do nothing—that nobody could!"

"Eh? What! Tut, tut!" He seemed very angry at first; then suddenly he looked sharply into my face. Next, if you'll believe it, he laughed—the queer little chuckle under his breath that I've heard him give two or three times when there was something he thought was funny. "Humph!" he grunted. Then he gave me another sharp look out of his eyes, and said:

"I don't think you meant that to be quite so impudent as it sounded, Mary, so we'll let it pass—this time. I'll put my question this way: Don't you ever knit or read or sew?"

"I do sew every day in Aunt Jane's room, ten minutes hemming, ten minutes seaming, and ten minutes basting patchwork squares together. I don't know how to knit."

"How about reading? Don't you care for reading?"

"Why, of course I do. I love it!" I cried. "And I do read lots—at home."

"At—home?"

I knew, then, of course, that I'd made another awful break. There wasn't any smile around Father's eyes now, and his lips came together hard and thin over that last word.

"At—at my home," I stammered. "I mean, my other home."

"Humph!" grunted Father. Then, after a minute: "But why, pray, can't you read here? I'm sure there are books enough." He flourished his hands toward the bookcases all around the room.

"Oh, I do—a little; but, you see, I'm so afraid I'll leave some of them out when I'm through," I explained.

"Well, what of it? What if you do?" he demanded.

"Why, Father!" I tried to show by the way I said it that he knew—of course he knew. But he made me tell him right out that Aunt Jane wouldn't like it, and that the books always had to be kept exactly where they belonged.

"Well, why not? Why shouldn't they? Aren't books down there—in Boston—kept where they belong, pray?"

It was the first time since I'd come that he'd ever mentioned Boston; and I almost jumped out of my chair when I heard him. But I soon saw it wasn't going to be the last, for right then and there he began to question me, even worse than Aunt Jane had.

He wanted to know everything, everything; all about the house, with its cushions and cozy corners and curtains 'way up, and books left around easy to get, and magazines, and Baby Lester, and the fun we had romping with him, and everything. Only, of course, I didn't mention Mother. Aunt Jane had told me not to—not anywhere; and to be specially careful before Father. But what can you do when he asks you himself, right out plain? And that's what he did.

He'd been up on his feet, tramping up and down the room all the time I'd been talking; and now, all of a sudden, he wheeled around and stopped.

"How is—your mother, Mary?" he asks. And it was just as if he'd opened the door to another room, he had such a whole lot of questions to ask after that. And when he'd finished he knew everything: what time we got up and went to bed, and what we did all day, and the parties and dinners and auto rides, and the folks that came such a lot to see Mother. Then all of a sudden he stopped—asking questions, I mean. He stopped just as suddenly as he'd begun. Why, I was right in the middle of telling about a concert for charity we got up just before I came away, and how Mother had practiced for days and days with the young man who played the violin, when all of a sudden Father jerked his watch from his pocket and said:

"There, there, Mary, it's getting late. You've talked enough—too much. Now go to bed. Good night."

Talked too much, indeed! And who'd been making me do all the talking, I should like to know? But, of course, I couldn't say anything. That's the unfair part of it. Old folks can say anything, anything they want to you, but you can't say a thing back to them—not a thing.

And so I went to bed. And the next day all that Father said to me was, "Good-morning, Mary," and "Good-night," just as he had ever since I came. And that's all he's said yesterday and today. But he's looked at me a lot, I know, because at mealtimes and others, when he's been in the room with me, I've looked up and found his eyes on me. Funny, isn't it?

TWO WEEKS LATER

Well, I don't know as I have anything very special to say. Still, I suppose I ought to write something; so I'll put down what little there is.

Of course, there doesn't so much happen here, anyway, as there does at home—I mean in Boston. (I must stop calling it home down to Boston as if this wasn't home at all. It makes Aunt Jane very, very angry, and I don't think Father likes it very well.) But, as I was saying, there really doesn't so much happen here as there does down to Boston; and it isn't nearly so interesting. But, then! I suppose I mustn't expect it to be interesting. I'm Mary now, not Marie.

There aren't any teas and dinners and pretty ladies and music and soulful-eyed prospective suitors here. My! Wouldn't Aunt Jane have four fits! And Father, too. But I'd just like to put one of Mother's teas with the little cakes and flowers and talk and thinking laughs down in Aunt Jane's parlor, and then watch what happened. Oh, of course, the party couldn't stand it long—not in there with the hair wreath and the coffin plate. But they could stand it long enough for Father to thunder from the library, "Jane, what in Heaven's name is the meaning of all this?" And for Aunt Jane to give one look at the kind of clothes I've heard him give two or three times when there was something he thought was funny. "Humph!" he grunted. Then he gave me another sharp look out of his eyes, and said:

"I don't think you meant that to be quite so impudent as it sounded, Mary, so we'll let it pass—this time. I'll put my question this way: Don't you ever knit or read or sew?"

"Why, Father!" I tried to show by the way I said it that he knew—of course he knew. But he made me tell him right out that Aunt Jane wouldn't like it, and that the books always had to be kept exactly where they belonged.

The last time I told him all about Mr. Harlow, and he was so interested! I just happened to mention his name, and he wanted to know right away if it was Mr. Carl Harlow, and if I knew like to see Aunt Jane with one of Mother's teas in her parlor?

I can't see as Father has changed much if any these last two weeks. He still doesn't pay much of any attention to me, though I do find him looking at me sometimes, just as if he was trying to make up his mind about something. He doesn't say hardly anything to me, only once or twice when he got to asking questions again about Boston and Mother.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Campbell motored to Clarendon Tuesday.

James S. J. Beard and J. T. Baird returned home Tuesday after a month's visit with relatives Baird and different points in Garza county.

Almon Buckner left Wednesday for Amarillo, where he will be for a few days on business.

Mrs. E. B. Hall and children of Louis came in yesterday for a visit with the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rice. They were accompanied by Miss Verna Rice, who has been visiting them for some time.

Mr. Ballard and Robinson performed an operation for throat trouble for Percy Kinard Wednesday. Kinard is convalescing nicely.

Miss Irene Moore of Wellington returned to her home Tuesday, after a week's visit with Miss Mabel Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rippy left Monday for their home at Springfield, Colo. They were accompanied by Mrs. Rippy's mother, Mrs. Stanfield and little Miss Lola.

J. T. Wilson, one of our good friends from Alanreed, was a visitor to the News office Monday. Mr. Wilson said that when he first began reading The News he did not take much interest in it, for he knew so few people here, but now he reads each week and enjoys it. We are glad to know that Mr. Wilson enjoys The News, for we try to have something in each issue of interest to everyone.

W. L. Haynes, T. N. Holloway, Mesdames J. A. Haynes and Sam Ladd left Sunday for Amarillo to be with Mesdames Haynes and Holloway during their operations.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Bundy left Saturday for Illinois for a visit before returning to their home at Hanson, Okla.

To The Voters

On July 22 the people of Texas will have to answer the question as to who should be elected State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the leader of the educational forces of the state. It is of relatively little importance to Texas who wishes to be state superintendent, but the question as to who should be elected superintendent is vitally important. The interests of more than a million children of Texas of school age are paramount to the political fortunes of any man or set of men. By their votes the citizens of Texas will, in the coming election, in a large measure determine the welfare of our schools for years to come.

Political considerations should be put aside. Fitness for the office should determine how public spirited citizens will vote in this matter.

Believing as I do that the superior training and experience of S. M. N. Marrs makes him the best man available at the present time, I and many others in this section of the state are supporting him for state superintendent. His platform contains only sound and progressive educational policies; his campaign is addressed, in a dignified manner, to individuals who are interested in the cause of education in Texas. Personalities and trivialities have found no place in his campaign. Running on his merits and records as a teacher, superintendent and official of the state, he has paid no attention to irrelevant issues and purely political questions.

Mr. Marrs is known throughout the state as an able, conscientious, and efficient school man—an honest Christian gentleman of the highest type. His name is intimately and inseparably connected with the history of the development of our public school system. We have confidence in his ability to give the state a successful and efficient administration of its school affairs.

The people of Texas believe in rewarding their honest, faithful, and efficient public servants. By long years of faithful and remarkably successful work in all phases of educational service, Mr. Marrs has earned the honors and leadership that belong to the state superintendency. We commend him to the consideration of the friends of our school system throughout Texas.

Signed: W. A. CAIN.

TO OUR COAL CUSTOMERS

If conditions of the mines remain as they are there will be no surplus coal by winter, on account of the miners striking. We believe that conditions are such that it would be advisable to buy your coal this summer and store for winter. We will keep coal all the time, but if you want your winter supply please book same with us so that we may contract for it to insure your wants. The coal situation as we see it is very serious, and unless the people show a readiness to co-operate with us by booking their orders, we cannot guarantee them prompt delivery this winter. Come in and let us explain the situation more fully to you.

SIX BIG COMMON LIES THAT ARE TOLD JUST FOR FUN

A liar said he was riding on a horse through Russia when there came a heavy snow. He rode all day without seeing a house and about dark tied his horse to what he believed was a stump, and went to sleep. By morning the snow had melted away and he found himself lying in a graveyard surrounded by a village. His horse was hanging to the top of a church steeple. Taking good aim with his forty-four, he shot the bridle rein in two, brought down the horse and went on his journey.

Abraham Lincoln used to tell about the fellow who would lie about the size of the fish he caught until his neighbors could not believe a word he said. In order to convince them he bought a pair of scales and would weigh the fish in their presence. One day a neighbor borrowed the scales to weigh a new baby and was surprised to find that the youngster tipped them at 40 pounds.

A medicine vendor thrilled his audience when he said that his girl lived in a big apartment house which caught on fire. The elevator shafts, stair cases, and halls were full of fire and smoke; the firemen's ladders were too short to reach to the ninth floor where she lived. Sticking her pretty head out of the window, she looked down at him like a dying calf and cried "Help!" The medicine man said he ran seventeen miles to a neighboring town, bought a rope, ran back and threw it up to her. She tied it around her neck and he pulled her down to the ground. An old fellow with billy-goat whiskers called him a bar'right to his face in the presence of the crowd and said he didn't have faith in him or his medicine either, after telling that.

In our humble opinion, the Goliath of Lies is this: "The world owes me a living." The fellow who started that lie should have been sent to the penitentiary for life, and may have been for all we know. Many who have believed it have gone there. It has a touch of reason in it, which makes it dangerous, poisonous. The man who tries to collect what the world owes him is playing seven-up with trouble and destruction. Every thug, every gum shoe thief, every blue sly salesman be-

SLIGHTLY DAZED

Speaking of white mule, two rustic sports were uncertainly flitting their way home from the county seat.

"Bill," said Henry, "I wanna to be very careful. Firs' thing y' know you'll have us in a ditch."

"Me?" said Bill in astonishment. "Why, I thought you was drivin'."

FUN BEING AN

There is lots of fun in newspaper, and again things that make the editor could lay aside his typewriter to be a follower of Isaac W. is a pleasure to boost men and churches. One can write for hours telling of things of this world, but then some fellow steps in office and asks that this be "shown up." There are us who fail to err that a perfect man is like a needle in a haystack. It is to see the misfortunes of others to tell all would make the unwelcome place for man. This paper had rather be a thing that is undeserving throw rocks at someone wronged. The world is get tired too small for the person may the day hasten when breed fails to survive.—Oxford.

COFFEE

I speak the truth, I stand, in sooth, writhin a prophet's shoes, I dare to say that coffee has a kick like booze. From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strand, my fellow men pay francs and yen each for his favorite brand. It is a mighty stimulant, a habit forming drug, as potent as the erstwhile beer or cider from a jug. When this for evening drink I steep, I go to bed and do not sleep and when this for morning use I brew, I feel as young and fresh as you. Two hours or three I'm on the jump, but after that my feelings slump. It is not good for me at all; it irks my liver and my gall. Yet when to quit it I begin, I act as mean and cross as sin. I shun the cup for many a day, then fall once more beneath its sway. Now, while my weakness I deplore, I think I'll take just one cup more. The flesh is weak and though I am right soon to quit the coffee game, I hope they'll keep their pucker still, those sweating peasants of Brazil. I hope the Arab from his tent, a bumper coffee crop is sent, to carry with it everywhere its moratorium of care.—Bob Adams.

A man is a fool who blames Providence for such calamities as might have been prevented by the exercise of ordinary horse sense.

It is generally the man who does not know any better who does the thing that can't be done. The poor fellow doesn't know that it can't be done, so he goes ahead and does it.

A man's value to the community depends on what he does for the community, not on what he merely talks about doing.

We note that some of our citizens are cutting the weeds about their places. This is a work that everyone should take an interest in. It not only adds to the looks of our property, but helps in a sanitary way as well. Weed grown streets and corners offer good harbors for germs and insects and should not be tolerated by anyone.

Next week is chautauqua week, and we expect the people of McLean and surrounding country to enjoy the excellent programs offered by the committee. Let's enjoy the chautauqua programs, but kindly ask them to come to us next year without a signed guarantee. If they will furnish proper talent, there will be no need of a guarantee. There is no reason why this business should not succeed on its merits, any more than your business or mine.

The bond issue carrying means more for our town than any other step that has ever been taken for the betterment of the community. When a town reaches the place where individual effort will not carry on any further, it takes cooperative effort to build cities; and water, light and power are things without which it is impossible to build cities. With these conveniences, we can afford to ask for any industry that we may need. We have heard many expressions of good will toward the town since the election, by men who were not fully convinced as to the wisdom of the bond issue, and we are glad to know that our citizens are willing to work with the majority for the upbuilding and betterment of McLean.

The county commissioners of Wheeler county had a complete report of the annual expenditures for the past year published in both Wheeler county papers last week. This is rendering a service to the people that can be appreciated. Publicity of the people's affairs is what is needed to keep us informed, and it will keep down useless criticism, for when people understand just where and how their money is spent there is generally no cause for criticism. The small amount of money spent for publishing these reports cannot weigh against the service they render to the public.

The Pampa Knights of the K. K. K. had a half page ad published in last week's issue of the Pampa News setting forth their principles. Editor Smith, in commenting on the ad, says that it was received through the mail with the exact amount of money for its insertion. He says he likes the way they do business, and gathers from the ad that the Klan is for the right—regardless. The McLean Klan has run some notices in the McLean News and every time notices have been accompanied by the necessary coin. It is mighty hard for an editor to condemn anything that treats him fairly, especially when there are so many men and things trying to graft for free space.

Jack Dempsey has agreed to enter the pugilistic ring against a man. Prize fighting has lost about all of its dignity and respectability in the esteem of decent people, if it ever had any. Since the days of the Kilrains and the Sullivans. In those days prize fighters fought for the belt, the championship and the applause of the sporting world. In these days of John L. Sullivan that the division of the gold was a minor consideration, and, moreover, he drew the color line and consistently refused to fight a negro.—Amarillo Tribune.

The chautauqua recently closed in Clarendon after a very pleasing series of programs which ranked much higher than their former offerings, but the people did not sign their guaranteed contract for another year. The News points this out with a view of showing that there was no kick on the quality of programs presented, but rather to reiterate the declaration often made in these columns that the contract this community were against this offered by the chautauqua people is kind of thing. There is a feeling not in accord with good old Americanism, in that the party of the first part takes no risk whatever. There is not another business in the country that demands and receives a guarantee, and our contention is that the chautauqua should come to us solely on its own merits. If they win, well and good; if they lose they will be having an experience common to other businesses. The News notices that other towns of the Panhandle are taking the same attitude and when the movement is general enough the chautauqua people will readjust their contracts and do business like anybody else in this glorious republic. Let us no longer be the cats-paw to pull the chestnuts from the embers for somebody else.—Clarendon News.

The action of the rodeo officials in calling off the proposed public dance has caused many expressions of approbation. It was found that

In our recent Fourth of July celebration we were confronted with the dance hall situation. Our committee on arrangements refused to license same by taking concession money. Therefore, we did not have any dance hall. However, it was claimed that the gambling devices at the carnival were as vicious as the dance. Agreed. But two evils does not make one right. Had our committee known just what attrac-would have come with the carnival no concessions would have been these things, and while the learning has been a little expensive, yet it has been thorough. We will offer

SAY SOMETHING GOOD

Say something good, 'tis better far,
Than unjust words that hurt and
mar,
And when your neighbors visit you,
Say something good and pleasant,
too,
And when they leave, say something kind,
And do not try their faults to find.
Say something good, for words of
peace,
They live and grow, their powers increase;
Sweet words of love are just the seeds,
They blossom into loving deeds,
And words of joy, all sparkling bright,
Dispel the darkness like the light.
Say something good, and gladness
bring,
For words of anger sting and sting,
And words of hatred burn and burn,
As unkind deeds to you return;
And words of gossip, speak them not—
Upon your life they'll leave a blot.
Say something good, 'tis better far,
Than unjust words that hurt and
mar.
Say something good, for words of
peace,
They live and grow, their powers increase,
Say something good, and gladness
bring,
For words of anger sting and sting.
—Carmen La Forrest.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Did you ever think, as you strive for gold,
That a dead man's hand a dollar can't hold?
You may pinch and tug, strive and save,
But you'll lose it all when you reach the grave.
Did you ever think, as the hearse goes by,
That it won't be long till you and I Go riding in a big plumed hack,
And never remember coming back?
Then while you are here, do all the good you can,
So that you may be known as "A Prince Among Men."

—Selected.

WHEN TO DO IT

Friends, in this world of hurry
And work and sudden end,
If a thought comes quick of doing
A kindness to a friend,
Do it at that moment!
Don't put it off—don't wait!
What's the use of doing a kindness,
If you do it a day too late?

—Exchange.

OUT OF THE QUESTION

Murphy was up in court on the usual charge—street brawling.

"Murphy," counseled His Honor,
"this must stop. Why don't you count to one hundred before you begin to fight?"

"Impossible, Yer Honor!" exclaimed the defendant aghast. "Why, by that time the feller'd be a mile away!"

Two old settlers sat smoking in a cabin far away in the backwoods.
No feminine presence ever graced that settlement, and domestic arrangements were primitive and crude.

The conversation drifted from politics to cooking, and one of the confirmed bachelors said: "I got one o' them there cookery books once, but I never could do nothin' with it."

"Too much fancy work about it?"
asked the other.

"You've it it. Everyone o' them recipes begun in the same way. Take a clean dish—, and that settled me at once."

Six-year-old Dora returned unusually early from school the other day. She rang the door bell. There was no answer. She rang again, a little longer. Still there was no response. A third time she pressed the button long and hard. Nobody came to the door, and she pressed her nose against the window pane and in a shrill voice, which caught the ears of every neighbor, called:
"It's all right, mamma, I'm not the installment man!"

BE COMFORTABLE

Edison, the inventor, says the chief reason he can work 18 hours a day without getting "run-down" is because he keeps his body healthy by never wearing tight-fitting clothes.

Edison wears baggy suits and loose collars. He never wears tight shoes, a belt or anything that would interfere with the circulation of the blood through his arteries.

In other words, he doesn't saw cross-grain on nature. Maybe nature intended the human animal to wear clothes, maybe not. Anyway, she certainly never intended us to wear garments that fit like the casing of a sausage.

In wintertime on streets of cities that have snow and zero weather, you see flappers wearing silk stockings and shirtwaists with V-necks cut so low that they expose the throat to the cold weather and icy wind.

A man with a high starched collar and muffler around his neck marvels that the flimsily-dressed flappers fail to die of pneumonia.

The reason is simple: The flapper dresses loosely, allowing her blood to circulate freely enough to keep her warm.

Her grandmother, in girlhood, had to bundle up like an arctic explorer to keep from catching cold, largely because she cramped her blood circulation and other bodily functions by lacing herself into a wash-waist corset.

Men, too, are slowly getting wiser —discarding tight starched chokercollars, painful shoes, and plug hats that fit the head like iron hoops.

Hygienists believe American women will be health-wise enough to keep their present comfortable way of dressing. Also, they are campaigning to drive some of the same common sense into men.

Men, say the hygienists, should copy the women and adopt clothing that ventilates the body. This is especially advisable in summertime, to permit quick evaporation of poisonous perspiration.

The average person is haunted by a fear of "taking cold."

How about the dangers of taking heat?"

You have noticed, in the movies, that the savage dresses loosely, so the air gets easily to all parts of their skin. That probably is the chief reason they are as hard as nails and as healthy as young wildcats.—Wichita Times.

SMOKING AND EFFICIENCY

John W. Raper, writing for the Los Angeles Record, tells us some interesting things about Henry Ford's railway—the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton. Some of the first moves Mr. Ford made was to abolish Sunday work, lower shipping rates, and establish an eight-hour day, with a minimum wage of $5 per day. But this was not all. He made a rule that no employee should smoke while on duty.

As is generally known, this road made money for its new owner the very first year, whereas it had been before a losing proposition. It would be interesting, if it could be known, to what extent the "no smoking" rule contributed toward the remarkable success of the enterprise, for as Mr. Ford said in announcing the rule:

"A man can't smoke and do his best at the same time." A reporter asked one of the engineers who was receiving $275 a month if the rule against smoking didn't take away his personal rights, when the engineer promptly replied: "To hell with rights! I can make several hundred dollars more a year on Henry Ford's road than on any other in the United States. Why should I risk my job by breaking rules?"

In speaking of this rule, the superintendent of the railroad said: "It is a rule for everybody, officials and laborers. I obey it. I do my smoking when I'm off duty."

Working men of all classes will soon learn on "which side their bread is buttered."

MABEL'S LITTLE SCHEME

For many months he had been eating free suppers at her father's expense and the fair Mabel thought it time to get a move on. One evening as they sat together in the parlor she carried out her little scheme.

"Oh, how funny!" she cried suddenly, as she turned over the pages of the evening paper.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Why, here's an advertisement in which it says 'No reasonable offer refused.'"

"What's odd about that?" asked the young man in surprise.
"Oh, nothing," she replied coyly, trying to raise a blush, "but those are my sentiments exactly."

Three weeks later the invitations were sent out.

IT PAYS TO PAINT

Beauty may be only skin deep, but it has its value in this world just the same. The impression of prosperity created by a neat yard, a well painted house and out-buildings cannot be over-estimated. It means increased credit at your bank and with your merchant. It means an increase in value to your property amounting to many times the cost of paint and labor, to say nothing of the personal satisfaction of living in a home that is pleasing to the eye. Then, besides, your buildings will last longer. We all know that. No one, we will venture to say, will dispute the fact that it pays to paint.

If you have a house you want to sell, paint it. If you have a buggy or wagon or automobile you want to sell, paint it. It will then bring nearly double the price, anyway, enough more to pay for the paint and labor several times over. In fact, paint is the most profitable investment you can make, and now is the time to do the work.

Even if you do not want to sell, paint it anyway. Your friends will all remark the change. They will have an added respect for you. They will want to know when you bought your new turnout or what you have done to your house. And when you paint, be sure to use a good, reliable standard paint of a well known brand that will give you service while you are at it.—Southland Farmer.

PROHIBITION A BOON TO POOR

"Prohibition has resulted in told good among the thousands of families most likely to suffer severely because of intemperance," said John F. Moors, of Boston, president of the Family Welfare Society, in a statement to the Unitarian Temperance Society.

The Volstead act, he said, had decreased the number of new cases in the juvenile court of Boston; had enabled many families to accumulate savings which tided them over periods of unemployment; had decreased the number of applicants for aid to the society, and had its influence on the industrial situation in keeping irregular workers, "who are most subject to the temptations of drink," from spending their wages for intoxicants.

"Prohibition has favorably affected family life among those we visit," said Mr. Moors. "Today many families are better and happier for it. Considering the effect of some of the liquor now being sold, and the attitude of the police, there is no doubt that a higher per cent of drinkers is now arrested than formerly."

To the Lovers of Law and Order Greeting:

We, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, desire to announce that we are fully organized in McLean and are operating by the authority of National Headquarters at Atlanta, Georgia, under the name and seal of Panhandle Klan Number 212, Realm of Texas, and that already our membership is more than one hundred.

We desire to state that no one need have the slightest fear of this organization except those who make a practice of violating the laws of our land. And to them we give warning that we are here to see that the laws are enforced and to stand squarely back of those officers who have been elected by the people and into whose hands the upholding of the law has been entrusted.

We have pledged our lives, our honor, our money and our vote to uphold the Constitution of the United States of America and to protect its flag. We stand for the eternal maintenance of white supremacy; for the separation of church and state; for the limitation of foreign immigration; for the support of our free school system; for the protection of pure womanhood; for the abolition of mob violence.

We are composed of native born, white, protestant American citizens and in our ranks are a large number of the highest type of citizens in our community. We respectfully invite every lover of law and order who is a native born citizen and a real man, who is not afraid to do his duty, to join our ranks.

Bootleggers, gamblers, women chasers and their kind are fighting us. Men of the highest degree of honor, integrity and patriotism are for us. If you desire to know more, investigate.

At the foot of the Rainbow

When you start to chase your Rainbow,
Get a round trip ticket,
Because you'll find it right where you started—
Most people do.

When the mind and purpose are right, everything takes on rainbow colors, for after all is said and done, the so-called rainbow is simply the state of mind.

Finding a contented state of mind is, for you, finding your rainbow. You've a right to yours, and you can find it if you will.

To be contented, one must be comfortable, at least financially, and otherwise and usually the Financially makes the otherwise probable.

To be comfortable financially, one must save, especially in these days.

INCIDENT CONVEYS A MORAL

One great man who had deived into scientific methods for many years was passing along the street one day when he was halted by a householder who said:

"Sir, you had an article in your paper yesterday."

"Yes, I did," was admitted.

"In that article you said that the world moves."

"And so the world does move."

"You are a liar, and I can prove it. I drove some stakes on my property last night, and found that they had not moved at all."

"Rash man, but I can prove to you that the world does move." And he turned the other around and gave him a kick which landed him about ten feet away.

"And I will prove to you that the world does not move," cried the householder. And he hauled off and gave the wise man such a blow in the face that he fell down and did not move.

Moral—When a man cannot be convinced by argument, then blows and kicks and black eyes will do no good.

All towns have their knockers. What is a knocker, anyway? Why, he is the fellow that is soured on everybody, including himself. He is a chronic belly-acher, and resembles a carbuncle on the back of progress. The fact of the business is, a knocker won't thrive in a live, wide-awake town. They soon get up and drift to a dead town where they can find conditions suited to their systems.—Exchange.

Too many people in this vale of tears think they are independent just because they are habitually insulting.

J. S. Searcy of Alanreed spent several days here this week visiting relatives.

J. M. Fields and family of Abernathy are visiting their uncle, D. L. Abbott, this week.
