The Flimsy Arguments Against Woman Fuffrage

Some of the rather weakminded attempts of the Liquor Traffic to discredit woman's suffrage without showing its hand may be seen in the so-called to know whereof they speak Susan B. Anthony literature that is going the rounds, to say nothing of the views of other famous Northern women upon certain phases of the race

All of it rot-every bit of it. What Susan B. Anthony. Mrs. Catt, or any duction of fertile eggs during saloon is not a fight but a love other woman identified with public activities and movements, past or pres- the summer months. ent, may think about the race question or any other question, has absolutely no relation whatever to the pending proposal to enfranchise the women

Even if the most objectional characters alive favored suffrage, that would constitute no condemnation of it Miss Anthony believed in the Ten Com. people in the rural districts are and sad saloon keepers. Saloon mandments, also, but that would be no reason for any Southern man or in a position to keep their eggs keepers are the saddest men woman to repudiate them.

The only thing that matters—absolutely the only thing—is whether the tile eggs will keep for about two ing man can run a saloon and be granting of suffrage to women be right and just. Answer that in the affirmative, and the high obligation of men to grant them suffrage is beyond controversy. women are entitled to the ballot if they want it, and they are now gives time to gather the eggs indicating that they want it.

There are good men concerned about the sociological phases of women suffrage, but good men are tender-footed and tender-minded about every great forward movement of the human race. They must be listened to, for they are wise in many respects, but their councel must not be heeded to the point of subverting justice or retarding human progress.

Men must face the question of suffrage with intelligence, with patriotism, with broadmindedness, with chivalry and with candor. It is easy enough stand the sight of an egg, simp. years." Let's make them all to say "polilics is too filthy for women to enter." It is easy enough to say, "It would be a shame to take women off the pe destal upon which the chivalry of man has placed her." That is the cheapest and most contemptible non ense uttered. Pedestal, indeed!

Where is the pedestal that millions of farm women of the South, who tifully, at which time eggs are as much of the sentiment of a work in the fields, are standing upon? And where is the chivalry that constructed the pedestal and enthrowned them upon it?

Where is the pedestal that tens of millions of women and girls-now earning their pitiful livelihood by nerve-racking toil in all the occupationsare enthrowned upon?

There never was such a fabrick of nonsense, fal-ehood and bank as thi talk of the "pedestal" that the chivalry of men have erected.

It doesn't exist for more than half the women and girls of this country Not only do women and girls work in the field, office, shop, factory and in the trades, but they actually work in the mines. Not only are they doing the harder tasks of the world, but in countless instances they are working

There are women who have the shelter, the protection and the pedestal, but this army of women out on the battle line of life-in the No-Man's-Land of the struggle for existance-have not, and they need the ballot if for no other reason than to exercise, grass and insects.

"HOW THE CLUB WAS FORMED"

UNIQUE COMEDY OF REAL LIFE

By

Ladies of Erick, Oklahoma

Thursday, May 29

Original—Funny -Interesting

The story of the play is that a certain Mrs. Jones, a rural woman of the New England type, becomes tired of the monotony of country amusement such as Sunday School, Church, and funerals and decided to get up a club among the women of the village, just like the women of the city have to go to. became of such porportions that every defect in the elements of rural ethics became prominent and "such a time," you can't afford to miss it.

The characters are selected with consideration of making the play worth your while from an amusement standpoint and carries no other aim, to say they are good, well I won't.

Come and see for yourself.
