Cotton Harvest Begins To Wind Down

Yields Are Higher Than Fall Estimate

Latest figures compiled show the 1979-80 cotton season is beginning to wind down and the current ginning figure for the 12 cotton gins served by Bailey County Electric Cooperative is 68,837 bales.

At this time, the bale count is comparable to last years count, but for some cotton gins, the season will be extended from two to three more weeks, according to weather conditions.

Some cotton gins, especially in the southern areas of the county report several hundreds more bales this year, while others have suffered through a wipe-out from hail late in the summer.

Bennie Claunch at Claunch Gin in Bula, is one of the cotton ginners who said his extended season would produce some 4,000-5,000 more bales before the season is ended.

Friday, his gin had processed some 10,000 bales and he said he expected to be ginning until around the first of February and would be producing some 6,000 more bales than he did last year.

From Clay's Corner, the ginning was reported to be almost at the end, much earlier than the March completion last year. Adverse weather was explained as the reason for the extended season last year.

The gin has processed around 4,000 bales, which is expected to be approximately the same as last year.

Farmer's Co-op Gin at Enochs said they would be processing approximately the same as last year, and will have probably two more weeks to gin before they complete the season. The production at Enochs is expected to be around 200 more bales than they processed during the 1978-79 season.

Jack Feagley at Maple Co-op Gin said they were still ginning and would be for some time yet. He said they expected to do a lot more pounds, with some 600 bales on the yards, 100 or more modules left in the fields, and 500-600 more bales still in the fields. He was predicting an additional one to three thousand bales before they complete the season.

Also, the gin at Maple would be some 3,000 bales ahead of last year, with 15,000-16,000 bales ginned at this time, and 17,000-17,500 bales expected to be processed before the season ends.

Feagley said the cotton had produced more than early estimates showed, and although a lot of cotton was hail damaged, the farmers are pleased with the turnout from their crop.

Darnell Gin at Progress is winding up the season, completing what they have on the gin yard. Both the Darnell Gin and the West Camp Gin are in the area that received heavy hail damage late in the summer, and the West Camp Gin estimated they lost 3,000-4,000 bales with the late summer hailstorm.

Muleshoe Co-op Gin reported they are running ahead of last year, and to date have ginned 16,900 bales. During the next two weeks, as the season for them winds down, they expect to gin around 18,000 bales, which will be nearly 3,000 ahead of their ginning for last year.

Some 400 acres of cotton that will be going to Muleshoe Co-op is still in the field, and they are receiving little hail-damaged cotton as year.

Cold Weather Is Predicted For This Area

Early January, 1979, saw record low temperatures as the mercury tumbled toward the bottom and below zero marks were recorded, with the coldest unofficial temperature recorded being around the -22 mark.

This year, despite night temperature in the low 20's, daytime temperature is going above the 50 degree mark, being reminiscent of springlike days.

However, the National Weather service has predicted that winter weather is due in the area, expecting to arrive sometime today (Sunday) and linger through at least next Wednesday.

Snow covers a major portion of the northeast and also is falling in far northwest, including Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and into Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Little moisture is expected to accompany the latest cold weather expected to invade the area, and unlike January last year, when snow and ice lingered, early January this year continues to be dry and comfortable.

Outdoor activities are expected to be little affected by the latest cold front and the wind-up of harvest should be continuing.

NEW YEAR BABY--Christopher Eric Mendoza came into the world at 9:58 a.m. on January 2 to become the New Year Baby for 1980. Holding the honored infant is his mother, Yolanda Mendoza. The infant is oblivious to all the honors he was presented as the first baby born in this county in the New Year.

Both contestants missed two games in the contest. However, Gary's 21-17 prediction in the Houston-Nebraska game and 21-14 prediction in the Alabama-Arkansas game were good enough to give him the win. He was a total of 15 points off on the combined tiebreaker scores.

Mrs. Malone also missed two games, but she predicted Houston would defeat Nebraska 24-20 and that Alabama would down Arkansas by 21-17 for a total of 24 points off on the Tiebreakers.

Five persons missed three games to be the next closest entrants. They included Steve Taylor, J.K. Adams, Donald Leak, J.E. McVicker and Randall Stevens.

The Bowl Game contest officially closed the football contests for the 1979-80 football season. However, have your pencils sharpened and be ready for the new edition, which

The course is sponsored by the Lazbuddie Volunteer Fire Department. For more information contact Glenn Lust, Fire Chief, at 965-2828.

This year, even if there is an Indian weather forecast, it won't be the same. John W. Crim, who has conducted the unusual crop and weather prediction in this area since 1925, died at 12:40 a.m. on Wednesday, January 2, following a long illness.

Crim, 80, learned to do the weather forecast from his father. And, his father had been taught the method to check the annual crop forecast by Indians. He conducted the weather forecast each year, on March 20, at sunrise at the Crim home place southwest of Clay's Corner.

Funeral services from John W. Crim were conducted at 2 p.m. Friday in the Chapel of the Chimes with Rev. Joe Stone, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, assisted by Rev. David Hamblin, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Bailey County Memorial Park under direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home of Muleshoe.

He was born December 19, 1899 in Kaufman County, Texas, and moved to Parmer County in 1924 from Lubbock County. He had already acquired a reputation of doing the annual weather forecast in Lubbock County prior to his move to the Clay's Corner area.

eyes and answers

NIGHT-DRIVING BLUR
Dear Dr. Pettey: I'm now sixty-five. But I've never been sick much; blood pressure is good; not fat. In the last year though I've noticed I can't see as well at night. Is this normal?

In the usually accepted meaning of the word "normal," perhaps poorer night vision can be expected as one grows older. But, many factors can be involved in poor night seeing, and aging is only one of them. We know that cell changes, especially in the eye lens and cornea, begin as we age. A very slight clouding of these tissues takes place and little can be done to arrest this process when it occurs. That clouding causes light rays entering the eye to fade before reaching the retina. Infections are a frequent cause, such as might be found in kidney, bladder, intestinal tract, nasal or sinus, or in other body parts. Even a bad cold is detrimental to good night vision. Blood vessel changes which occur with aging can also cause diminished night vision. One of the most expected interferences is the pupil of the eye getting smaller. When younger our pupils naturally enlarge under lower illumination levels in order to take advantage of all available light. As time passes, there is less and less enlargement of the pupils and a definite accompanying interference in our night vision. At first a fading, then the gradual ending of normal functioning seems built into all biological tissue and into all of nature's wonderful creations.

Mason Art Association Guest Artist

Lonnie Mason, a native of this area, will be a guest at the Art Association meeting, Tuesday, January 8, in the Muleshoe State Bank.

Mason has devoted several years to full time art work. He feels that while different mediums require practice in handling to develop skill and each has different limitations or advantages, the expression of an artistic idea depends on more fundamental knowledge.

As an art instructor, he feels composing a good picture depends on knowledge of design rather than that of materials. Rendering form correctly requires a knowledge of line and values whether drawing with a pencil or brush.

Mason studied with Harold Roney, Ramon Froman, Leon Franks, Paul Strisk and others.

Isn't it amazing how an attractive serving dish can add a touch of elegance to a simple recipe? For example, you can prepare fruit flavor gelatin in mold and it makes an eye appealing addition to any table. Prepare the 3-ounce size of your favorite flavor according to the simple package directions, decreasing the amount of cold water to 3/4 cup. Pour into mold and chill until firm. Dip just to the rim in warm water for about 10 seconds. Shake to loosen and top with a wet plate. Invert the plate and the mold together and remove the mold.

By Stanley James
Each year thousands of tourists visit Mount Vernon, the spacious Virginia estate of General George Washington, located a short distance from Washington, D.C.

One day, it is reported, a young, somewhat snobbish Englishman remarked to the estate's gardener, "I say, old man, this hedge. Ah...I see that dead old George got this hedge from England."

The elderly employe was more than a match for the young visitor. Looking puzzled for a minute, the gardener finally answered, "Yes, reckon he did. And that ain't all. He got this whole bloomin' country from England!"

Learning To Live With A Disability

One physical disability plus six abilities can equal success—in learning to live with that disability.

People with physical handicaps are not "handicapped people," says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

"They are still people with the usual problems almost everyone has, plus a special limitation.

"Learning to live with a disability, then, will take the usual effort that same person ever needed to learn anything he knows," Mrs. McCormack says.

"He'll need that same effort to develop six special abilities," she says.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

*BE REALISTIC -- Just as you accept the fact that you have brown eyes, or that you wear glasses, learn to accept your physical limitations.

Take stock of your assets, such as intelligence, judgment, enthusiasm or friendliness--and try to develop them even further.

These assets are very important to successful management positions in business, by the way.

*USE A POSITIVE APPROACH-- Try to avoid feeling sorry for yourself. It will be devastating for you, and it will tax the creases satisfying feelings and thoughts--and it shows in the way you act, which, in turn, promotes fulfilling relationships with others.

*BE ADAPTABLE --Don't limit yourself unduly, but stay realistic, of course.

Remember that many people use only 10 percent of their potential abilities.

Try to do everything you possibly can within the limitations of your handicap, but don't waste your energy on something that rally isn't important just to prove you can do it.

*SET GOALS -- Start with goals that are not too high.

Again, stay realistic. Progress comes by inches.

Physical and psychological adjustment does not come in a week--or even in a year.

MUNITY RESOURCES-- Never before have there been so many agencies concerned with rehabilitation of the handicapped--tax supported and private ones.

Get acquainted with them.

They might give you just the extra help or advice you need.

*SHARE -- Think of something you can do for someone else.

No one can be happy unless he is giving as well as receiving.

Start in simple ways with your own family.

West Texas Wine Grapes "Very Strong"

LUBBOCK--The infant Texas wine industry is showing healthy signs of growth, and a likely prospect for reaping first benefits in West Texas, according to a Texas Tech University researcher.

The potential for producing good wine grapes in West Texas is "very strong," in the view of Dr. Roy E. Mitchell of the Texas Tech chemistry faculty.

He has been conducting research on West Texas grapes and wine quality since 1972, when there was only one winery in the state. Now there are four wineries in Texas. Mitchell's prediction of future growth of the grape and wine industry in West Texas is based on the results of his studies and on reports that plans are underway to establish more Texas wineries in the early 1980s.

Mitchell's research began with grapes from South Plains vineyards near Lubbock and wine he made from those grapes. He continues to work with South Plains grapes and wine, but for the past three years he has been involved in another grape and wine research program in cooperation with The University of Texas System. Funding for this research has come primarily from the UT System as part of its experimental conservation and land utilization program on university lands.

"Several conclusions are coming from the cooperative study," Mitchell said. "Very clearly, West Texas has the potential to produce good quality wine grapes and to support a grape and wine industry."

"The most promising grape varieties for West Texas belong to the Vitis vinifera, the classic wine grapes of Europe, but we are investigating many other varieties."

Mitchell said some varieties are eliminated from further study because of the poor results found in their chemical analyses. Other varieties lose out in the wine tasting.

He performs chemical analyses on both the grapes and the wine, but he makes it clear that "the quality of a wine cannot really be tested chemically. It has to be tasted."

As a consequence, he has developed tasting panels of individuals from the Lubbock area who have palates sensitive to the variation in wine quality. The wine tasters do not drink the wine, only taste one variety, spit it out, clean their wine glasses and their palates, and then taste another wine. Only about six wines can be tasted at any one session, as the tasters' palates "get tired," Mitchell said.

As for the chemical analyses of the grapes, Mitchell looks for a sugar and acid balance and a PH factor, which is related to mineral content. These analyses are used to determine the best time to pick the grapes.

ELECTRICITY FROM COAL...

It's good to know there's something we can depend on.

Almost all of us depend on electricity in our homes, factories, and offices to provide for more jobs... greater productivity... and a higher standard of living. Yes, electricity plays a big roll in the scientific and technological developments that make these things possible.

The constant striving for these innovative and advanced ideas and achievements of tomorrow means we will need more electricity. That's why Southwestern Public Service is continuing the building program of new electric generating plants that use coal as fuel. Because it's good to know there's something we can depend on.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

Use imagination in decorating small food containers, like jars and bottles. A few hard candies (or homemade) will bring much joy to shut-in friends.

Attach a recipe card to the hood over your stove with a small piece of tape or magnetized ornament for easy reading.

The easiest way to dispose of leaves is to dig them directly into the soil. Add nitrogen fertilizer to speed decomposition.

While Christmas greens and plants are quite pretty, many are highly toxic or poisonous if chewed or eaten. Some are holly berries, mistletoe, poinsettia, yew and Jerusalem cherry.

Save broth from turkey, chicken or roast by pouring into cube trays and freezing. Remove broth cubes and store in plastic bag in freezer. Use, when needed, for gravies, sauces and soups.

I haven't said much in this column about our parts department and I think we should say a few words about genuine factory parts. Yes, there are discount houses where you can buy both rebuilt and new parts for nearly any kind of car. We here at our parts department also know there are those who will sell these parts cheaper than we can sell factory parts, but when you buy a genuine factory part remember our reputation is based not only on the way we guarantee our new vehicles, but the same goes for the factory parts we stock. When you buy a part at our dealership, it is guaranteed by both -- our dealership and our factory. This is not always the case with discount parts.

ATTEND THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

Ring out the Old Ring in the NEW

Another year has passed, and things gone by, we cannot change. So ring out the old year and ring in the new with high resolutions. These bells, which have long been used by churches as a call to worship, are ringing an opportunity for you to begin the new year at worship with the Lord in His house. Start now and be faithful throughout this year. Attend Church regularly.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

STATE CAPITOL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—State Capitol halls were decked out in the Christmas spirit last week, but government slowed to an idle as employees left for the holidays. While taxpayers are mulling the benefits of one week of "less government," they can also enjoy a couple of Christmas presents from the state.

State Treasurer Warren G. Harding announced the treasury received an extra $189 million from interest earned during the fiscal year ending Nov. 30. It was a nice present for Harding, too, since he campaigned on a theme of better money management practices and increased earnings from state cash funds.

Another half-plus for citizens is a State Insurance Board staff proposal to lower premiums on credit life, accident and health insurance.

If the proposal becomes policy, premiums would drop 14 percent on credit life and 10 percent on credit accident and health. Consumers could save $25 to $120 on a typical 2- to 5-year loan, the staff said.

large buildup of radioactive waste in Texas, said creating a nuclear waste storage dump in Texas may be the fourth topic for the special session he intends to call in March or September.

Clements has also said he supports the creation of such a dump in New Mexico, not Texas.

In general, debate on the controversial subject is not centered on the need for a dump, but on its eventual location.

Clements' late concern is an apparent turnaround from his statement last year that Texas was willing to accommodate a nuclear waste dump. Some 2,000 55-gallon drums of waste per month brought into the Galveston area this fall have caused many state officials to rethink the issue.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby thinks any special session would be a waste of tax money. Interviewed on the Capitol Eye radio-television program, Hobby slammed all of Clements' reasons for wanting to bring the Legislature back to Austin:

—Hobby thinks initiative and referendum is a bypass of the legislative process of examination and compromise. Clements is a strong advocate of I&R.

—Hobby thinks wiretapping is an intrusion of government into the lives of private citizens and that controls should be increased. Clements is the state's strongest advocate of increased wiretapping of narcotics traffickers.

—Clements wants bread

Radioactive "Incidents"
A Department of Health official last week said Texas has had about 300 "incidents" involving radioactive materials, with about 45 involving transportation of the materials.

Ed Bailey, administrator of the Radiation Control Branch, defined an "incident" as a case of overexposure of radiation, improper packaging of radiation source shipments, loss of such materials, or anything "out of the ordinary" that calls for special investigation. Bailey spoke at a seminar to inform users, shippers, transporters and receivers of such materials about regulatory requirements.

Bailey said reporting of transportation incidents was "very good," but that some licensees were hesitant in reporting incidents from fear of bad publicity.

He also said he thought the handling of radioactive materials was better regulated than hazardous chemical wastes.

Special Session

Gov. Bill Clements, concerned about the recent tax relief measures. Hobby argues that Texas is "one of the lowest-taxing states," and that Texas education already will need more money because of an increase in children in the public school system.

Hobby, who presides over the Senate, and House Speaker Bill Clayton both see no need for the promised special session. Should Clements go ahead and call the legislators back to their chambers, the resulting fireworks may be visible both in Mexico and Oklahoma.

Clements: Defeat Carter

When President Jimmy Carter comes to campaign in Texas, Clements may well toss a rubber chicken into his presidential dinner plate, just as he did to former Attorney General John Hill. Clements' gubernatorial opponent.

The Republican governor has never been more outspoken in his opposition to the president as he was at a gathering of petroleum officials last week.

Clements urged the petroleum industry to work to defeat Carter at the polls.

And responding to a query about his policy differences with Sen. Edward Kennedy, Clements said: "I'm not sure what Kennedy knows. He certainly didn't know his way to the ferry, did he?"

Later that evening Clements said he was willing to study the establishing of a state aid system in Texas to allow parents to send their children to private schools.
