CHAMBRAY IS one cotton weave that is way out front in the summer popularity stakes. Made up into neat little tank frocks, it is on the go from morning till night and it lends a crisp touch to sport and fun clothes too, as witness this play suit consisting of sun-dress and shorts. Gamutal striped in pink is the nice color scheme with the stripes used vertically for the skirt, and slantwise and horizontally for the bodice which has a triangle of bare midriff below the tab-tied gathered bustline.

Worley Points Out Committee Ideas to Fight F. and M. Disease

BY EUGENE WORLEY

Negative Observations
1. Lack of personnel.—In the opinion of the committee, operations should be just about doubled in speed and scope. More appraisers, paymasters, veterinarians, equipment operators, and inspectors are needed at once if the campaign is to get ahead and stay ahead of the disease—instead of following along behind the disease and trying to catch up.

The following table shows the number of professional workers now engaged in the campaign and the number which the joint commission believes it should have to do the job. In general, the estimates of the commission as to personnel required coincide with the observations of the committee.

| | Present No. | Needed |
|----------------|-------------|--------|
| Veterinarians | 61 | 150 |
| Paymasters | 28 | 60 |
| Appraisers | 22 | 60 |
| Lay Inspectors | 22 | 70 |

2. Lack of equipment.—There is now an insufficient quantity of American equipment on the job. In the opinion of the committee, there is just about half as much as there should be. The mechanical task of digging trenches and burying more than a million cattle is a tremendous undertaking, particularly when the rocky condition of the soil and the inaccessibility of many herds is considered. Much more mechanical equipment is needed for the job.

3. Topography.—The mountainous terrain and the lack of improved roads are a serious handicap to operation. In some places cattle must be driven into valleys for burial because rocky soil prevents digging of trenches in the hills. In most places, as soon as the major highways are left behind, roads are little more than burro trails. This is a serious impediment to movement of heavy digging equipment.

4. Human nature.—It is not the nature of most Mexican farmers to be hurried. The eradication campaign is a job which requires, first of all, speed. It is extremely difficult, however, to impress many farmers and other country workers with the need for haste, and efforts to "high pressure" them into action are likely to arouse resentment. This is a factor which cannot be avoided and which can be overcome only with the fullest cooperation from Mexican officials and the greatest of understanding and tact on the part of American workers.

5. Delay.—The committee observed delays in operation which were to its way of thinking, inexcusable. An example was the burial operation it observed near Salvatierra. Here two huge trenches had been dug, the owners of some 500 cattle had driven their animals to the site shortly after dawn, the Mexican and American appraisers were on the job—but the Mexican paymaster had failed to appear. The accepted practice is to pay owners in cash before their animals are killed, but when the committee

Texas Boys Win

Megrail Dillard

FIRST PLACE honors for Texas in the 1947 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car design competition went to James R. Megrail, of Grand Prairie, who won the $100 state junior model car design award, and Wallace Dillard, of Canyon, who won the Junior Napoleonic Coach award of $25. The competition this year will see $85,000 distributed in cash and university scholarships to the top boy craftsmen of the nation. The Craftsman's Guild is an educational organization sponsored by General Motors to encourage the development of creative ability, handwork and craftsmanship among teen-age boys.

Mrs. Fred Bentley and son Jackie returned Monday after a visit in Hugoton, Kans., with their parents and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Brumley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jairrel Moore of Borger, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Plum and son of Big Spring visited over the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Burrows left Sunday for a week's visit with their daughter, Mrs. Madge Jahnke, in Long Beach, Calif.

left the scene some time after noon, people and cattle were still milling about the open pits, relatively few animals had been killed, and work was progressing at a snail's pace—because the paymaster had not yet arrived.

Other delays are perhaps more excusable but may still be very damaging to the program. The infection in the herd near San Juan del Rio was said to be several weeks old—and the cattle were still above ground. It would be two or three weeks, the committee was told, before the new outbreak inspected near Queretero could be destroyed—although the active disease was at that time confined to two or three animals.

Equally serious is the time that has elapsed between the killing of a farmer's oxen and the delivery of his mules. Many farmers told the committee they had waited two or three months for their mules. Meanwhile their farms had gone unplanted or untended. Such conditions are certain to create ill-will and may be disastrous to the individual farmer.

It may be that, on the whole, the delay and lost motion is no greater than might be reasonably expected in a new organization trying to go into operation on so vast a scale while still in its formative stages. Nevertheless, the committee is strongly of the opinion that this situation must be improved speedily if the job is to be done.

6. Inefficiency.—Closely related to the delay just noted is the inefficiency which still prevails in some phases of the operation. An example of this also was observed at the burial operation witnessed near Salvatierra. Here animals were being killed with .22 caliber pistols, which were entirely inadequate for the job. Larger guns had been ordered, it was stated, but were not yet available. There were reports also of inefficient operation of power shovels and other equipment. The need for a tightening up of operations and the elimination of situations such as this is obvious. (Next week: conclusion of report)

To McLean's Young Women...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Life today is infinitely more complex than during your grandmother's time. It is increasingly difficult to distinguish relative values . . . hair-splitting by divergent schools of thought have made the great moral and spiritual truths the harder to find.

Constant church attendance helps mightily in orienting a perplexed state of mind. The worthwhile fundamentals of life assume a new importance, and living, itself, finds a goal. As citizens about to assume the tasks of moulding tomorrow's citizens, you, especially need the guidance of the church.

The long, black limousine, driven by a sleek and glamorous lady, limped protestingly into the garage. Greeted by the Service Manager, she complained that her car was jumping. The S. M. checked the spark and found one cylinder wasn't hitting.

"Lady, you have a cylinder missing," he said.

"Oh, if I had my hands on that chauffeur I fired yesterday," she frowned, "he must have taken it with him."

World peace is the most urgent problem facing the United States in the opinion of Republican Representative Claude I. Bakewell of Missouri, above, who is quoted in the July issue of Cosmopolitan magazine as saying: "World peace is the most urgent problem facing us. It will not be attained until peace treaties are signed, the United Nations proves to be an effective, workable organization, and peace of the former Axis powers are started on the road to regeneration. Europe, the Middle East, the Far East, suffering in postwar devastation and starvation, are fertile fields for alien 'isms.' America must remain strong militarily, our foreign policy must transcend partisan politics and as important as all, we must be strong domestically with a sound policy of economy, prudence and thrift."

Major problem facing the United States is the restoration of orderly government in the opinion of Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Republican Speaker of the House of Representatives, above, who is quoted in the July issue of Cosmopolitan magazine as saying: "Restoration of orderly government is our most urgent problem, for that matter the most urgent problem of the world today. Millions are still displaced, hungry and dazed by the horrible disaster which wrecked their lives and laid waste their lands. These millions still burn brightly here. We have a duty to stand as an example of national strength and freedom. Government control over the private affairs of the people must not be a mere order can come to us again."

Major problem facing the United States is preventing depression, in the opinion of Republican Senator Robert A. Taft, above, who is quoted in the July issue of Cosmopolitan magazine as saying: "Our basic problem, in both the urgent and long-range sense, is that of preventing depressions so that substantially full employment may be maintained. No problem is more vital to our welfare, to the very existence of our way of life or the peace of the world. It involves studies of price levels and wage levels and their relation to each other, methods of preventing monopolistic control in industry and labor from distorting prices and wages, searching for consumption and for capital investment plus studies of individual and corporate saving and means of a stable economy bearing on the other economy."

BOYCE HOUSE

Gives You Texas

Ah, for the good old days! The good old days when you got up at 5 a. m. in January with the tail of your night-shirt flapping around your chilled ankles and built a fire. But first you had to shake down the stove. For the benefit of the younger members of our audience, it should be explained that, when ashes accumulated, the stove wouldn't draw, so the stove had to be shaken down and it took so much energy that the house was almost shaken down, too. Then came the task of setting fire to paper and shavings and kindling and coaxing a chunk of wood to burn. Of course there was a quicker way: a teaspoonful of kerosene could be used but this had a way of blowing the user through the roof.

Ah, the good old days! Did you ever take a bath in a wash-tub?

And the fireplace with the log fire—roasted on one side and froze on the other.

But there is nothing finer than a fireplace with a log fire, provided the fireplace is also equipped with gas.

Guess you noticed where Fred Allen, Red Skelton, and Bob Hope were faded off the air when they said something that a network vice president didn't like. Well, I'm on the air—in fact, have two programs a week, the newest one being at 12:15 noon each Tuesday over KFJZ, Fort Worth. I wish some vice president would make me off the air; I need the publicity. Fred, Red, and Bob don't.

I noticed a sign the other day "Dirt for sale." I suppose it is "dirt cheap." Or has inflation raised the price there, too?

J. A. Haynes Writes Again From Montana

(Editor's Note: The following letter has been received from J. A. Haynes, former resident of McLean, who now is making his home in Miles City, Mont.)

Well, here I come again to say hello to my friends in and around McLean.

We have had an extremely hot summer; however, only had a few real hot ones and would come a shower of rain and cool off. The nights are always cool.

I have seen a lot of the country this summer, and it's really a cattle country. The principal crops here are wheat, oats, and barley. Have hundreds of acres of alfalfa, clover, blue stem and crested wheat grass for hay. Threshing is about half over and the grain is turning out good. Sugar beets are also a good paying crop here. There are thousands of acres up the Yellowstone and Tongue River valleys.

Can grow any kind of vegetables. My granddaughter has the finest garden I have ever seen. My son, W. L. Haynes, and wife, and Senator and Mrs. Wheeler of Weatherford, Okla., visited us last week, and I really enjoyed them. Mr. and Mrs. Romain Pugh, and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Miller and two children from the Heald community have spent the last couple of weeks visiting in the Glynn Pugh, John Williams, and Ben Plunkett homes.

Miles City is a wonderful little town with a population of about 12,000 and altitude 1,355 feet. I have ridden over most of the little city by car, and it's also a clean town, lots of trees, shrubs, and the most beautiful flowers I have ever seen.

Stock here are fat and going to market each week. Have a sales yard and good market here in Miles City.

I still enjoy reading the McLean News each Monday morning when the mail arrives. Good luck and best wishes to all.
