

Korean Fighting Often 'Bad'

this, I'm afraid, because we can't get the civilians to help us. They are afraid to tell us anything so we can anticipate the enemy's move, so it's pretty hard.

They won't tell us a dog-gone thing about what we are going to do until about an hour before time, which is usually about 03:00 in the morning. We almost always move out about 04:00 or 05 and hardly ever get to sleep on the hard ground and rocks until nearly 22:00 every night. Makes old men out of us before our time. One thing for sure, it's going to take a lot of men because the only place we fight is along main roads, so they just go over a mountain, wait for us to go by, then come out and do their dirty work.

This is about the prettiest country I've ever been in. It's full of springs and the grass is green, about like mountains in Colorado. If you can imagine people fighting a war in Colorado or mountains about like those, you can see what it's like over here. In order to do it and do it right we're going to have to go through each village with a fine tooth comb which would take months because each village is a suburb of the last one and so on. The customs of these people are odd, but it's no surprise. The way these towns start is one man and wife build themselves a home, then each of his sons follow in his tracks until sometimes there are 200 or 300 people to a village. It is very honorable for these people to bear sons. We were admiring a tiny, tiny baby and the mother unwrapped it to show us it was a boy. It is understandable, though, for their sons are the only assurance they have in old age.

Rice as usual is the staff of life. Very seldom do you see any type of meat, no hogs, cattle, chickens, or such. They use Jerseys as power for all their crude machinery. Once in a while one sees a small shetland pony. These natives can carry around 400 to 500 pounds on their backs if they can get it there.

Excerpts from Two Received 28th, Post-Marked 17th

Boy, we really have it now. The other day when I wrote we were in a bivouac but it wasn't much so at 11:30 that night they marched us about six miles, put us on a LST navy boat that comes up to shore and the nose opens up for embarking or disembarking, no room below so most of us had to sleep or try anyway. It came a down-pour and I slept. Anyway when I woke up I found out I had been lying in about four inches of water. Put us on a train and moved us about 60 miles to Miryang to a real bivouac along a nice stream to bath in and a real shady spot, lots of tall pines. Guess we are acting as army reserve now. All that country we gained was mines and we evacuated it. Mountains are taller here but not too much vegetation. The first thing I did was bathe and then for one full night's sleep. We get candy, cigarettes, toilet articles, and such. Those are just about a necessity.

The way we attack is this: first the air force strikes a blow with rockets, 20 mm and 50 cal. machine guns, then 105 howitzers, the artillery and 4.2 mortars bomb the devil out of it. Then tanks move in. After tanks get through we begin with whatever is left. A lot is thrown at them before we get there, isn't there? Got my dungarees washed for 10 cig by some native women. Pretty clean, too. From what I've seen of Korea there isn't over 10 miles of paved country roads in all of it. The country people are much cleaner than those who live in town. Doesn't take the kids long to learn that we give away lots of stuff we can't use. They flock around us like flies.

August 16
Just came back from Protestant services. First chance I've had to go since I left the States. Had a chance aboard ship but was seasick and didn't feel like going.

All of our outfit is here now so I imagine we'll be moving out tomorrow (they were moved out that night at 11:30). Saw Chuck Smith this morning and by all I can find out, of all that came down from Alameda, only one has been a casualty. They all have been at it and had it pretty tough. My company hasn't been in any scrapes yet.

Letter Postmarked August 22
Guess it's no use to be modest about it and having you worry as to whether I'm writing what's happening or what isn't, so I'll start from now on to write just what happens, and don't stop praying, for it's plenty rough. (Editor's note: the following is about "Battle Mountain," which has changed hands seven times in two weeks.)

If you've heard about it over the radio or read about it, you will know it was bad. They called it "Suicide Ridge" and it was. We took it the evening of the 16th, and then the morning of the 17th about 03:30 they counter attacked with a suicide squad, flanked us, got us pretty well disorganized and practically wiped us out before we could fall back to high ground. Only two certain deaths and 16 wounded. Nineteen of us out of 41 are all that are still going. I and four others, two wounded, were left behind so we had to get the wounded up there with one guy to take care of him, and being that I was the only one left who knew where the aid station was, I led them back. That may be one reason I am safe. At any rate that was the battle that won the main battle. We took the remaining three miles without any organized resistance. All of us were pretty put out when we found out the credit for doing it. Of course, all we saw was the army paper "Stars and Stripes," so we don't know what kind of publicity we're getting in the States. That's one reason I want you to send me all of the clippings from magazines, papers and what not so we'll know just what and whether we're getting any credit for what we're doing. Even the army officers admired our courage for sticking when the odds were against us. Save these letters and when I get home I'll tell you in detail all about them.

We are going from one side of this island to the other. We check a break through, beat h-1 out of the enemy, then leave to go check another on the other side, leaving the ground for the army to occupy. When we leave, the enemy takes it over and at the first bit of resistance they retreat and as soon as we get through we have to go back.

Boy, we had good chow today. We get it pretty often, often enough to where these rotten C rations will tide us over till we get it again.

First we were on the west side of Korea. We drove the enemy back some 35 or 40 miles, then they loaded us on trains and they pushed us over to the east side to help the 24th army division. Now we have to go back to the west side and help them over there. Three beaten up battalions beating h-1 out of a division of from 5,000 to 10,000 troops. We are about 3,000 strong but the enemy can't savvy our kind of war, so so far we are doing all right.

Maybe as soon as the second division of Marines get here we can clean this mess up and come home.

Love and stuff,
Your son.

P. S. Chuck Smith shot himself in the hand. Geo. Garroth is all right. Me—I've got blisters from walking so far, ha, ha.

Entire Meal Can Be Cooked At One Time in Deep Well

Fern Brannen

By Miss Fern Brannen
Home Service Adviser
Southwestern Public Service Co.

Statistics show that 70 per cent of all cooking is done on top of the range. Applied to an electric range, this guarantees lots of top-notch eating. With a flip of the switch or a push of the button the surface units provide fast, clean, measured electric heat economically.

Included on most electric ranges is a deep well cooker. The cooker is just an ordinary large sauce pan. The magic is in the thickly insulated well which holds the cooker, and holds the heat. An entire meal can be cooked in the deep well cooker at one time, including meat, potatoes, vegetables, and a dessert, or just a few dinner rolls can be quickly and easily warmed just before serving. The cooker is an ideal place to cook the less tender cuts of meat. There may be no such thing as inexpensive meats, but there are "less expensive" meats. These less expensive meats are as nutritious as the most expensive cuts. The thrifty cuts, like all others, are rich in complete, high quality proteins. All contain essential B vitamins and certain minerals such as iron, copper, and phosphorus. Thrifty cuts of meat are often less popular with the homemaker because of the longer cooking time necessary since they usually require long, slow cooking with moist heat. This process takes very little of the homemaker's time, however, when done in the deep well cooker of her electric range, for all she needs to do is turn the unit switch to the lowest heat after the meat is steaming and let the electric range do the rest.

Other uses for the deep well cooker are to steam vegetables, cereals, puddings, and Boston brown bread; stew chicken and stewing meats; braise less tender cuts of meat; bake cup custards, apples, potatoes; sterilize tableware, canning equipment, nursing bottles, sickroom dishes; deep fry doughnuts, chicken, potatoes, croquettes; cook soups, large quantities of vegetables, and beverages; blanch vegetables for freezing.

rub with piece of garlic. Cut meat into serving pieces; add salt and pepper to flour and pound well into meat on both sides. Brown steak in frying pan in melted shortening. Transfer to deep well cooker kettle and add water and mushroom sauce. Cover, turn switch to high, and when steaming freely turn to fourth heat and simmer for one hour. Add vegetables to meat and place pudding on trivet. Turn switch to high and when steaming, again turn to fourth heat for 45 minutes or until puddings and vegetables are done. Yield: 5 servings.

Steamed Upside Down Pudding
10 tbsp. butter or margarine
5 tbsp. brown sugar
5 apricot or peach halves
Melt butter; place 2 tablespoons butter and 1 tablespoon sugar in bottom of each custard cup. Place in the cup an apricot or peach half and pour over the fruit the following batter:

1 cup enriched flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons melted shortening
Sift together the dry ingredients. Combine remaining ingredients and pour into the center of the dry ingredients. Beat until thoroughly blended. Pour over fruit in custard cups and steam for 45 minutes. Serve with whipped cream. Yields 5 servings.

Broilers on Electric Ranges Can Prepare Complete Meals

By Miss Fern Brannen
Home Service Adviser
Southwestern Public Service Co.

For quick, easy and oh so taste-tempting meals try a broiler combination in your electric oven.

In the electric oven, broiling approximates charcoal broiling over glowing coals. It's the delicious flavor of electrically broiled foods that makes them a meal-time sensation. Many dieticians praise electric broiling for its healthfulness.

The broiler unit in the electric range is in the top of the oven, so that the meat is always in a convenient place for turning or adding sauce. The broiler pan and rack, that is provided with each electric range is so designed that it protects fat drippings from the direct heat, thus eliminating smoke. The broiler pan rests on a sliding oven shelf, adjustable at different positions in relation to the heating unit. The counter-balanced oven door has a stop which holds the door ajar during the broiling period. This permits the broiler to maintain correct broiling temperature.

Meat for broiling should be tender, but it need not be the most expensive cuts. The growing direct heat of your electric broiler gives that delicious grilled flavor to chopped beef or lamb, fish fillets, sausage, frankfurters, bacon, sliced or ground left-over meat. Other popular cuts of meat for broiling are beef tenderloins or steaks, sliced ham, calves liver and chicken. Steaks may be cut from 1 to 2 inches thick. Lamb chops, too, may be cut this thick, although 3/4 inch thick can be broiled successfully. A chop which is too thin will be done clear through before the exterior is sufficiently browned, causing an undesirable drying out.

You can double the capacity of your broiler by filling the rack with meat, and arranging left-over or canned vegetables in the pan beneath. Vegetables will be piping hot and season with the meat drippings when the meat is done.

To add glamour to broiler meals try garnishing them with broiled fruits such as bananas, raw apple rings, orange or grapefruit halves or sections, and canned pineapple, peaches, pears or plums.

Remember electric cooking is flameless—clean as sunshine—to add more enjoyment to the fast and simple job of meal preparation with a modern electric range.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO SAVE A PAIR OF EYES?

LESS THAN 2¢ A NIGHT That's right! A 150-watt bulb, burning for four hours, uses less than two cents' worth of electricity . . . provides light for sight that cannot be replaced at any price . . . once it's gone.

Now that fall is approaching . . . shorter, duller days . . . home-work for the young folks . . . be sure your home is properly lighted. Fill up those empty sockets; add another floor or table lamp . . . or maybe just re-arrange the lamp you already have. But, however you do it, remember that eyes are priceless . . . light is cheap—through dependable, low-cost Electric Service.

A little boy returned from an oculist and was proudly showing an admiring little sister his first eyeglasses. "You know," he said, "I don't have to wear them for always—just for close work, the doctor said." "What is close work?" asked the little girl. "Well," stammered the boy, "you know—for eatin' and such stuff as that."

News From Washington--in 1910

40 Years Ago—IT HAPPENED HERE

Taken from the Files of The McLean News, August, 1910

Washington Gossip

Washington—America has taught the people of the Chinese empire to smoke cigarettes. In a report to this government on foreign trade by Counsel General Charles Denby of Vienna, in which he described the class of foreign markets which may be created by American enterprise, and then supplied, the counsel general says:

"One of the most conspicuous examples of such a market is the demand for cigarettes in China. Ten years ago the cigarette was an article used in China by a small number of people, chiefly foreigners. The field attracted the attention of a group of American manufacturers who examined it and decided to introduce the cigarette to the Chinese people by American methods. The result is that now the cigarette is popular throughout the empire."

The international opium conference to be held at The Hague next fall will have a very general representation of the powers, according to the latest information reaching the state department.

Heads of Navy Are Annoyed By Women

John Hay had a saying that the ideal diplomatic service—if any government ever succeeds in having one—will be composed exclusively of unmarried men. Mr. Hay has had no experience in naval matters, or he might have included the navy in his maxim.

There probably is no branch of the government service, the Washington Post says, where petticoat influence is so strong as in the navy. Ask any ex-secretary of the navy about it and he will tell you how the navy women in a thousand different ways, sometimes unconsciously and occasionally deliberately, annoy the navy department. He will tell you how they scheme to obtain desirable posts of duty for their husbands or sons and how they annoy the department with requests for a change of orders when their husbands are transferred from an easy job in Washington to sea duty on the Asiatic station or some other far-away tropical post. The recent row at the Boston navy yard, which culminated in the court-martial of two officers, illustrates the prominent part women play in navy circles.

Almost everyone knows of the mutual ill feeling existing between the navy women and the department. Every once in a while something happens to widen this breach. Only a few days ago Ensign Charles M. Austin, son of Representative Richard W. Austin of Tennessee, was deprived of an especially desirable berth by the navy department merely because he got married. He had been detached from the dispatch boat Dolphin at the Washington navy yard and ordered to Japan for duty as a student attached at the American embassy at Tokyo for the purpose of studying the Japanese language. On the way to his new post of duty he stopped at his former home in Tennessee and was married to a girl he had known for many years.

This was too much for the unromantic departmental authorities, who suddenly decided that a married ensign would not make as good a student of the Japanese language as a bachelor. Accordingly his orders were revoked and instead of spending his honeymoon in Tokyo he will have less interesting service at the naval training station on the Pacific coast. He will, however, have his wife.

Girl's Good Looks Are a Bar To Work

After losing four positions within a year just because of her beauty, Mary Todd has left Washington and will try her fortune elsewhere. Miss Todd set out to be a stenographer. Her employer got mixed up in his dictation and included phrases that could not have been part of the correspondence. As a shopgirl the floor-walkers strolled too often near her counter. As a milliner she aroused the envy and jealousy of customers.

Miss Todd has been living in Georgetown for a little more than a year. She came here from a small Pennsylvania town, well equipped to work, with money enough to wait until a reasonably good position was open to her.

"Yes," she said, half-angry and half-amused, "I have been overwhelmed with offers of marriage as well as of employment. But these offers do not appeal to me. Most men forget that I have my own sweetheart, and if I were inclined to consider a second time, it seems that mine should be the privilege of inviting his attentions without having them thrust upon me."

"At first I did not take such things seriously, but since then I have known other girls who have shared the same fate, merely because they are more beautiful than their colleagues.

"I have worked in offices where there were 17 girls and by the end of the third week I was embarrassed by repeated offers of company, pleasures and the like by various men in the office. This gave rise to some bitter passes between some of the other girls and myself.

"I hope to be married by the autumn of next year, but until then I wish to do something."

IT'S VERY PECULIAR, this government of ours. We note that nearly every candidate who announces for either U. S. Representative or U. S. Senator has a platform based on economy in government. But we also note that that particular platform, the one referring to economy, falls by the wayside once the successful candidate takes office.

This thought was brought to our minds the other day when we read that the House of Representatives voted an additional $300 for each congressman's "stationery fund" annually.

The additional $300 gives each congressman an allowance of $800 for stationery.

We presume that the word stationery refers to what we call stationery, too—you know, letterheads and envelopes. If so, the cost per thousand should not run over $10 in the quantity in which they would be bought. It should be less.

Which means that each congressman is to write 80,000 letters each year.

No wonder our congressmen haven't time to practice the economy platform on which they seek office. They are too busy writing us letters telling us what they are doing. After all, 80,000 a year!

THE COOKING SCHOOL

THIS WEEK-END, you are invited to attend the McLean News All-Electric Cooking School. And that invitation goes whether you are a man or a woman—you are all welcome.

Sure, we'll agree that it's a promotional deal. But it's for your good, too, for you will see an expert home economist prepare a meal while you watch, and hear her tell you how it is done, how you can save money with the newest appliances.

Five local appliance dealers are cooperating in the school, for they want you to know all about their wares. They are competitors, yes, but good friends, too, and all are willing to cooperate to help the sale of their merchandise. The Southwestern Public Service company is very interested, too, from two standpoints: this company is noted for its generosity in helping with all types of civic work and this school is no exception; and, secondly, the company naturally wants to sell more electricity, for that is all it has to sell.

So we're not trying to "put anything over on you." We, as the sponsoring paper, get our payment in the form of the advertisements you see in this issue, and in the goodwill we hope to gain. The merchants who are donating the door prizes derive benefit from the advertising they will gain, and also from the goodwill they hope to receive.

It's a promotional deal, yes, but one in which everyone should benefit.

So make a date to attend both sessions of the school, Friday and Saturday afternoons. You will be repaid for your time many fold in the months and years to come. Thanks for listening.

LES TALK BY LESTER

That cooking school about which we have had so much in the paper during the past few weeks will be held this week-end, Friday and Saturday afternoons.

Howard Horne, the merchants concerned, and I have put in a great deal of time and work in preparing for this school, and we sincerely hope you attend. The larger the crowd the better.

We sincerely believe it will be worth your time. You will pick up some good pointers on food cooking and food preservation. You will get to see the latest in electrical appliances—particularly all the major brands—without going to numerous stores. You will also have an opportunity to win some nice prizes, including a portable dishwashing machine to be given by Sheddick Jewelry.

The food prepared will also be given away. The food, incidentally, is being furnished by Lee's Grocery, Cooper's Foods, Puckett's Grocery, and Herron's Grade A Dairy.

So you are invited to attend. It's all free, and you don't have to buy a thing. Coke, Dr. Pepper, and soda water will be served free. So come one, come all.

Two of my pet peeves seem to have fallen by the wayside.

First of these, and the much more important of the two, is our chamber of commerce. Circumstances caused a delay in the membership drive, and it now has been delayed so long that it is quite doubtful that much response to such a drive would be forthcoming. The prospects, at the time of the inception of the idea for rejuvenating the C. of C. were excellent. I sincerely believe it would have been successful. But now I doubt the chances of its success.

Seems to me we are always starting something in McLean—and then never finishing it.

And that's what happened to the second failure, the rejuvenation of the local golf course. We started fixing it up, but never got around to completing it. And I'm afraid now that that work won't be completed. The grass and weeds on the course proved too high for the would-be golfers. All their time was spent in looking for their golf balls, even when they were fortunate enough to have the balls land on the fairways. Heavy rains caused an even more excessive growth of the weeds and grass, and now we are right back where we started from—almost.

But I'm not giving up entirely on either of the two things. Some day we will have a chamber of commerce, and also a golf course. Some day those who oppose progressive measures will either change over, or leave here in one form or another.

In the meantime, we can go on trying, can't we?

A couple of weeks ago, we ran an editorial on the front page concerning the weeds and grass which nearly got away from us all over town. The editorial brought some results, but not enough.

I don't believe we have ever published any article which caused this newspaper to receive as many comments, most of which were very favorable.

However, we note there are still lots and lots of places covered with weeds and grass.

We also notice a lot of filthy (not just dirty, but filthy) alleys throughout the town.

And we also notice there is still some "grass growing on the downtown streets." Which still ain't good.

Things in general are due to pick up in McLean in the next few days. School starts Monday, and that always helps business and life in general. Football games start Friday night of next week, and you can expect much football news in this paper for the coming two and a half months. For you will know, if you have been here through a football season, what a grid fan I am.

Then the fall harvesting season will soon be coming along. That will help, despite the cutting down of the acreage due to the allotment system.

So things will begin to pick up, and we're glad.

Food Freezer Cuts Out Canning

By Miss Fern Brannen
Home Service Adviser
Southwestern Public Service Co.

Rural and suburban homemakers will vouch for the hours of tedious canning work saved with an electric home food freezer. Foods bought in season in large quantities and then frozen—add dollars to vacation funds and invaluable hours to every day. Whatever the size or pocketbook of a family there is an electric freezer to exactly fit their needs.

It is easy to meet emergency meals with calmness with a modern food freezer. Whole meals can be prepared in leisure time, stored in the freezer, then when unexpected guests arrive you are spared needless embarrassment. The food freezer is your food bank that you can open any hour of the day or night. A typical menu from the freezer might include:

- Fruit Cocktail
 - Broiled Steak Green Lima Beans
 - French Fried Cauliflower
 - Hot Rolls
 - Chocolate Ice Cream Roll
- We should like to offer the following suggestions for using the food freezer to aid the homemaker in preparing meals that will sparkle and bring forth appreciation "oh's" from her family:

1. Extra quantities of pies, cakes, breads, etc., can be made and frozen when the homemaker is in the mood for a baking session. This is the time to try new recipes and ideas. It only takes a few minutes longer to make an extra pie or cake—and you'll truly enjoy "banking" one for that time when it will be urgently needed.
2. Save time and effort by preparing in advance for special occasions or holidays, to save that last-minute rush—mince pies, rolls, plum puddings, birthday cakes, hors d'oeuvres, canapes, party desserts, such as eclairs, ice cream cake, cream puffs, etc.
3. Keep a supply of retail bakery goods in the home freezer, which will save marketing trips and afford a good food supply on hand.
4. Freeze and save egg yolks after the whites have been used—or use the egg yolks in sponge cake and freeze the cake for future use.
5. Take advantage of a good buy on butter, eggs or cream—save money by freezing.
6. Rewards of a fishing or hunting trip can be enjoyed for months when stored in the home freezer.
7. Practically all leftovers can be frozen for later use—the family need not tire of a big turkey. Remember, a half cake can be frozen and enjoyed later. Gravies and meat stock also serve to help the homemaker at a later date in preparing stews, meat pies, etc.

8. All fruits can be frozen at the peak of their season—and don't forget citrus fruit and fruit juices, apple sauce (serve partially thawed for a new taste), lets can be frozen separately and sundae, frozen fruit salad, etc.
9. Corn on the cob at Christmas is good eating.
10. Prepare and freeze fryers during the spring chicken season and serve the year around. Giblets can be frozen separately and used in creamed, creole or casserole dishes.
11. Lunch box sandwiches (except salad greens and salad dressings) can be frozen—also a complete lunch can be packed and frozen. It's a big help in getting the youngsters off to school.
12. Don't forget lamb stews, Hungarian goulash, spaghetti dishes, chop suey, chow mein, chili and the like.
13. Furs or woollens to be stored may be sealed in a bag and then placed in the freezer for one or two days before storage. This will assure the killing of any moth eggs which might be present and which would subsequently hatch and do damage, if the zero treatment was not used. For small articles, the standard heat sealing type of frozen food cellophane, or phillifilm bags are very convenient to use. Subsequent storage should be in the coolest location available, since high temperatures are detrimental to furs.

Before using any electrical appliance the manufacturer's instruction book should be carefully studied. In the instruction book for the freezer, you will find very helpful information concerning packaging materials, processing requirements for various types of foods, cooking and serving of frozen foods, and defrosting and cleaning the freezer.

The universal and absolute law is that natural justice, which cannot be written down, but which appeals to the hearts of all—Victor Cousin.

Fluoride Salts Better Teeth

City fathers in three Texas cities by artificially adding fluoride salts to their municipal water supplies are making the dream of fewer tooth cavities come true.

Corpus Christi and Marshall have fluoridation systems working now. Austin has one in the installation process.

If things go according to plan, children in these towns will be spared easily half the visits they now have to make to their family dentists, because they'll have fewer cavities.

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox describes the fluoridation process as a "tremendous step forward in the fight against dental diseases. It's simple and inexpensive, as well as effective."

"It won't be a cure-all," cautions Dr. Edward Taylor, director of dental health at the State Health Department. "It won't give children complete protection against tooth decay, but it will reduce decay from 23 to 47 per cent."

He said that range of reduction percentage had been established in departmental experiments with artificial fluoridation at Marshall. The addition of the chemical to drinking water in the ratio of 1 to 1.5 parts per million parts of water now has been recommended as a decay control measure by the United States Public Health Service, the American Water Works Association, and the Association of State and Territorial Dental Health Directors. Recommendations are subject to approval of state and local health departments, which has been granted in the case of the three Texas cities.

Marshall began artificial fluoridation in 1946 in a controlled experiment, and was a leader in the field both nationally and locally. Corpus Christi began the water treatment in October last year.

Austin City Manager Walter Seaholm has indicated that orders for equipment have been placed.

and treatment will begin as soon as delivery and installation are complete.

Combining the population of the three cities, over 300,000 people will soon be drinking water chemically treated to retard or prevent dental decay.

The thing most important is what we do, not what we say. God's open secret is seen through grace, truth, and love.—Mary Baker Eddy.

WHAT'S COOKING?

By Mary Anne Duke, County Home Demonstration Agent

The purpose of "What's Cooking" is twofold: To relate some of the activities of the Home Demonstration and Girls' 4-H Clubs in Gray County, and to bring new facts in the area of home economics to all homemakers. If you have a homemaking problem or question, please send it to Home Demonstration Agent, Box 1796, Pampa, Texas.

While at the Wayside Club the other day, Mrs. Ernest Edwards asked this question: "What causes the meringue on my pies to weep?"

Well, Mrs. Edwards, meringue has long been a mystery even to experienced cooks and pie makers like yourself. It may be soft and fluffy as a cloud when the pie goes into the oven, yet quite different when it reaches the dinner table. Familiar troubles are shrinkage, "weeping," wateriness underneath, stickiness which makes cutting difficult, toughness, and "beading"—small moist droplets covering the surface.

Recent meringue-making studies, reported by the New York State Experiment Station, may help you and other cooks avoid these difficulties. Secrets of fine quality meringue revealed in these tests are: whipping egg whites and sugar to just the right stiffness; placing meringue on a hot filling; baking at 425 degrees F. for 4 to 4½ minutes.

For tender, moist meringue, able to hold its high fluffiness, the right amount of whipping is important. In the tests, best results came from this method. Have the whites at room temperature. Add a pinch of salt for each white. Beat until the foam is relatively fine and forms rounded peaks when the beater is lifted out. Then add sugar gradually—2 tablespoons for each white—and continue beating until the meringue is stiff but not dry.

Meringues baked on hot fillings in the tests cooked more evenly and were less likely to "weep" than those baked on a cold pie. Baking at 425 degrees F. for 4 to 4½ minutes proved more of a protection against leakage than baking at a lower heat a longer time, as many recipes recommend.

Beading, the tests showed, results from too long cooking, causing over-coagulation of the whites. A temperature of 425 degrees F. proved best for tenderness and preventing stickiness and shrinkage. In 4 to 4½ minutes this temperature also gave a golden brown glint over the top of the meringue.

preventing stickiness and shrinkage. In 4 to 4½ minutes this temperature also gave a golden brown glint over the top of the meringue.

Living Room Demonstrators

Living Room Demonstrators in Gray County are busy making all sorts of improvements.

The John Brandons of the Merten lease are certainly redoing their living room, and making other improvements, including the addition of another room to their home. Living room improvements include a lovely front door, a picture window, removing a partition which will make the living-dining room combination. New carpeting, a divan and matching chair, a drop-leaf table, new draperies, and a new paint job are among the other improvements being made by the Brandons.

The Marvin Halls of Alanreed remodeled their entire house last year into a most livable home. New sectional furniture has been placed in the living room and other improvements are planned for the future.

The Vern Savage family of Hopkins have lengthened their living room and have rearranged units of furniture. New draperies have been made for their living room.

Other living room demonstrators include the Harry Brittens of the Grandview community, Mrs. Irene Osborne of the Wayside Club, the Roland Dauers of the Bell community, the C. H. Brickens of Hopkins, the W. F. Meltons of Hopkins, and the R. E. Engle family of the Worthwhile Club.

We will all be looking forward to achievement day when all these living room demonstrators will show their improvements to others.

respective rooms for rest period or classroom work. This policy is in line with suggestions of the State Department of Health, to eliminate a play period following lunch. High school students will be allowed 45 minutes for lunch, since they will have to be transferred across town to the cafeteria.

"We have done quite a bit of repair work and painting during the summer, especially in the high school building," Cummings said. "Since we hope to have a new grade school building one of these days, repair work in the grade school has not been so extensive."

"We wish to ask for the continued cooperation of the parents in keeping their children in school regularly. Since the number of teachers we can employ is based on the average daily attendance, it is to the interest of every parent to see that his children attend every day if possible. We had fine attendance last year which enabled us to retain the same number of teachers this year that we had last year. Many schools were forced to reduce their teaching staffs due to the low average daily attendance in their schools."

"Teachers will be on duty at 8:30 o'clock each morning, and parents are urged not to send or bring their children to school before that time."

"We have one of the strongest faculties this year that we have ever had. With the fine support and cooperation as we have received in the past, I am sure we will have one of the best school years we have ever had in McLean."

 "I shall gratefully appreciate it if, through your paper, you will extend my heartfelt thanks to many friends who supported me in my race for Congress. As soon as time permits, I want to see and thank them personally. And I thank you, too, for your many courtesies."

"Everywhere I went, I heard of folks who were out working for me—very often folks I didn't even know. Therefore, I would be deeply grateful if those who read this letter would drop me a note at Amarillo, telling me the names and addresses of those who took an active interest in my campaign."

"Naturally, I am sorry not to have won, but as a true American, I'm happy to abide by the wishes of the majority. I can honestly say that campaigning over this district and meeting so many wonderful people has been an outstanding experience and my life has been greatly enriched by it. I thank everyone who had a part in the campaign and I hope in some way I can show them the same type of friendship and loyal help. Uncle Sam Is Again Manager Of U. S. Trains

The U. S. government went back into the railroad business on a general scale for the fourth time since 1943, when President Harry Truman ordered seizure of the major railway lines, effective Sunday afternoon, to avoid a nation-wide strike.

The order did not affect the Rock Island lines which serve McLean, since the government took over the Rock Island system late in June, and still retains control.

Seizure of the major lines in the U. S. was mostly on paper, for there were no troops boarding the trains and manning the controls. Actually, the U. S. army furnished only about 50 uniformed officers in taking over the reins.

As a matter of fact, six railroad presidents of the seven who assumed the responsibility of keeping the trains moving, had prior experience and colonel's uniforms still in their possession.

The seizure of the lines came about when 300,000 trainmen and conductors threatened to strike Monday morning in a wage-hour dispute unless the president did order government seizure.

The union leaders had previously asked the president to order government operation of the lines, in the event the issues were not settled, and all unions concerned readily agreed to work for the government. Uninterrupted operation, in the face of the Korean situation, was promised by both the railroad management and the unions.

Naval Orders Mean 'Go Now'

Orders are still orders in the navy. When you get em, you got to go, even though some back-bit naval reservists may get temporary delays in reporting for active duty.

That is the word from Eighth Naval District headquarters at New Orleans, which controls reserve affairs in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas.

Ten days, including travel, are usually allowed for recalled reservists to report, Rear Admiral W. K. Phillips, USN, district commandant, said.

In exceptional cases longer periods are being granted, but each case is carefully considered by a board of senior officers, so no delays are granted for more than six months. The average, much less, the admiral said.

Requests for deferment must be submitted in writing within 48 hours after orders are received, he warned. Department of Defense policy, announced in Washington several weeks ago, is close followed to determine eligibility for deferment.
