

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

The heavy snow this week gave McLean school students an unexpected holiday Wednesday when Supt. Melton announced that classes would not be held. The conference game between McLean and Canadian scheduled for Tuesday night was also postponed due to highway conditions.

We believe that McLean people are about the most generous to be found anywhere. The recent March of Dimes drive which was highly successful reaffirms this belief. In the drive here about $1300.00 was contributed.

The polio fund campaign has always been met enthusiastically here and some call it McLean's pet drive. We doubt that any town anywhere gives as much per capita as do McLean people.

Many towns that we know who claim two and three times the population of McLean have not gone over the thousand dollar mark. In fact, our home town in East Texas with about 7,000 population is still working to meet a $1500 quota.

It is true that the local economy is holding up much better than is the average throughout the country and this possibly has something to do with the success of the recent drive.

But more important, we believe, is the generous heart of most of the people.

The grouchiest man in town, notes John Creviere of the De Pere (Wis.) Journal-Democrat is usually the one to wonder why folks around him don't smile oftener.

Every now and then a real plug for country newspapering comes from the typewriter of Editor Homer King of the Hemet (Calif.) News, who comments: "Most every metropolitan newspaper writer has had dreams of eventually owning a country weekly. For many the dream has come true; but for most, they've just jumped from the frying pan into the fire; many go back to daily work again or do publicity work . . . but except for a span of years in the daily field when we were full of pep and vinegar we have lived what will probably be a cradle-to-grave life in small town newspaper offices—and for us it has been a good and rewarding life. We wouldn't discourage any man who still dreams of running a weekly. But he'd better have guts and be willing to work twice as hard and twice as many hours as he ever worked on a daily. If he can do that he'll find that newspapering is more fun and more important than any other profession or occupation in the world."

TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK has been proclaimed by Governor Price Daniel for May 2-8. Receiving the proclamation for the eighth annual statewide observance is John McKee of Dallas (right) who has served as state chairman of the Texas Citizens' Committee for Public Schools Week since the week was inaugurated in 1951. Parents and other citizens are urged to visit their local schools during the week.

AGRICULTURE DAY PROGRAM TO BE HELD IN PAMPA FRIDAY

The Gray County Agriculture Day program will be held in the Palm room of the City Hall in Pampa Friday, February 14, beginning at 9:30 a. m. The program sponsored by the Extension Service, Burlington Railway, the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Gray County Soil Conservation District, should be of interest to farmers, ranchers, business and professional men and women, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas.

John McHane, agricultural economist, Texas A. and M. College, will discuss the agricultural outlook for 1958. He was a very popular speaker at a meeting of farmers and business men two years ago.

C. G. Scruggs, associate editor of the Progressive Farmer, will give an insight into agriculture's future. Time and rates of water application will be explained by D. W. Sherrill, irrigation agent, Extension Service.

In the afternoon Paul Marion, superintendent Spur Experiment Station, who has visited Gray County on several occasions, will discuss feeding home grown feeds to cattle.

With the decline in prices of grain sorghum and cotton, many farmers are interested in growing commercial vegetables, and to discuss this topic, Joe Cole, extension horticulturist, will be on hand.

To conclude the day's program Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, will tell the group how to work together for a better agriculture.

Thomas said that everyone is invited to this all day program or to any part of it. Gray County Soil Conservation District supervisors and farmers in the agriculture committee of the chamber of commerce selected the subjects thought to be of most interest to farmers to be discussed at the meeting.

McLean Will Take Part in Weather Bureau Severe Storm Warning Research Program

McLean has been chosen as one of 220 stations being established to provide a dense network of special recording instruments which are expected to materially assist in the intensified severe storm research program of the U. S. Weather Bureau, it was announced by E. L. Hardy, regional administrative officer of the regional office at Fort Worth.

Preliminary work in a network of instruments in central and eastern Texas and Oklahoma has indicated that a sudden barometric pressure change in a line of roughly 75 to 100 miles in length and traveling at 30 to 35 miles per hour can definitely be associated with severe storm occurrences such as tornadoes. This phenomena has been called a "pressure jump line" and the bureau is investigating the conditions immediately ahead of and behind these lines in the greater detail in order to bring out a clearer understanding of the terrifying and destructive forces of tornadoes and other storms which may be associated with the phenomena.

The network of instruments is now being extended into the Panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma.

A major reason for bringing the project to Texas initially was because of the success of the Texas tornado warning committee organized several years ago. Texas, through successful cooperation of Texas A&M, state and municipal organizations and the weather bureau, now has practically complete radar weather coverage of the entire state. If the pressure jump program fulfills expectations it should prove a valuable ally to radar in severe storm forecasting.

The equipment will be operated by the City of McLean and essentially will consist of a sensitive microbarograph and hygro-thermograph. The microbarograph is designed to record rapidly changing barometric pressures. The hygrothermograph records changes in temperature and relative humidity which are known to be important factors in the development of tornadoes. Information will be channeled to the Fort Worth regional office of the weather bureau for examination and local use and sent on to Washington, D. C., for scientific analysis. The success of the program will depend to a great extent on the endeavors of the cooperative weather observers who give much of their time and effort without personal recognition.

J. D. Morris Named Vice Chairman Of Housing Group

Jimmie Don Morris, manager of Southwestern Public Service Company in McLean, was named vice chairman of the McLean Housing Authority in the regular Monday night meeting of the group.

Morris succeeds Bill Perkins who was made chairman of the group when he replaced Larry Fuller, who was transferred to Oklahoma recently.

Others making up the five-man group are Bill Reeves, Jim Hathaway and Elmo Whaley, secretary. All members were appointed by the City Council and the purpose of the Housing Authority is to provide McLean with low-rent federal housing. A list of eligible renters for the proposed housing units was recently compiled for the authority by Mrs. Johnny Caudill and the list has been forwarded to government officials to further confirm the need for such housing in McLean.

Since the ratio of inches of snow is about 10 to 1 to the inches of moisture, by this figure McLean received a little less than 3 inches of snow.

But since this week's snow was termed as "dry" it was estimated that about four inches of snow fell here.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Some of us know that the groundhog can't predict the weather. But there are other folks who figure that the TV weatherman makes more mistakes than the groundhog does.

When it comes to filing income tax returns lots of folks see their shadow and run for cover. Somehow other taxpayers fail to add and subtract right on their tax returns. Uncle Sam says more people add in favor of themselves than in favor of the government. However, a lot of people cost themselves instead of the government by failing to add or subtract right. The government has lots of adding machines and they check the tax return carefully and try to correct the errors. It pays to check your addition on your tax return instead of completing a correspondence course with the income tax folks.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation to our many friends and relatives for the lovely flowers, cards, food and kind expressions of sympathy during the recent loss of our loved one.

Mrs. W. E. Kennedy
Mrs. Lucille Gaines

Mankind will be God-governed in proportion as God's government becomes apparent, the Golden Rule utilized, and the rights of man and the liberty of conscience held sacred.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Reduce Delinquency

CORRECTION PUNISHMENT III.

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

Juvenile delinquency is by no means a new problem. But our attitude toward children who commit offenses has changed materially in the last 50 years.

Formerly a child of 7 was considered responsible for his offenses and was punished as an adult. The object of society was to punish the offender, regardless of his age if he was over 6, and revenge the crime as well as to protect society.

We try to find out the causes of the individual child's delinquency so that we can remove them. We are not so concerned with handing out punishment as we are with trying to save the offender for good citizenship.

The sentence may be probation or an institution, both involving a positive program to prepare the boy or girl for wholesome community life, including vocational training.

Whatever the punishment, the object is the same—to protect society, remove the causes of delinquency, and make the youngster a good citizen.

My article next week will continue this discussion.

Reduce Delinquency

V. INCREASE FACILITIES

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

Our good Texas program for re-training juvenile delinquents into worthwhile citizens is today imperiled by too little space in our very good institutions and too few probation and other personnel for adequate supervision and training.

The last regular session of the Legislature did something to relieve the situation but not enough.

Extremely Overcrowded
 The State Training School for Boys at Gainesville is designed to handle 875 boys. It now has about 850. The girls' school at Gainesville was built for 180; it has 220.

The last Legislature provided dormitories for 160 boys, a school building, kitchen, and dining room.

Release Too Soon
 No more boys, however, will be accommodated. The new buildings will simply serve to relieve the present overcrowding. Many boys who already need to go there can't be sent; many boys sent will be released before their training is sufficient. And with our ever-increasing delinquency rate, even more offenders will be free who need to be confined and trained.

At Gainesville three new dormitories and a security treatment cottage were provided to replace existing ones considered extreme hazards. But they will not provide room for more girls.

Increase Facilities
 With present facilities so inadequate, whose responsibility is it for failure to rehabilitate? Isn't it ours? We are the people whose elected representatives carry out our wishes. What can we do to remedy the situation? We can make our legislators and our county officials (for county-level facilities) understand clearly what we want.

Next week: The younger learn from the older.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By VERN SANFORD

Right now the Moving Hand is writing in the Book of Time what kind of hunting we'll have next fall.

Farmers and ranchers hold the key to successful wildlife harvests. If you doubt this, just remember that almost 90% of the hunting area in Texas is private domain. Actually, some of this is under state ownership, but grazing rights are leased. So, after all, the farmer or the rancher is the one in charge.

Our wildlife must have its habitat, just like we must have our homes. If that habitat is not available, then wildlife suffers, whether the weather is good or bad.

Naturally, the weather plays a very important part in every year's wildlife crop. No more so, however, than the area that is the natural home of our birds and animals.

Added Income for Farmers
 Although land owners and sportsmen have made great strides in providing proper ecology, there is a consistent uphill battle to keep the working going.

Recently biologists of the Game and Fish Commission, reported on 1957 activities in planting multiflora roses for quail cover. They had passed out to landowners almost 50,000 of these little bushes, bought with the money which you paid for the privilege of hunting.

Land owners accepted the plants and put them in the ground. Then, far too many landowners lost interest and a goodly number of the plants died.

This is just one example of what happens when someone doesn't care . . . or doesn't realize the income possibilities that might result from just a little attention.

However, some landowners have discovered that hunting privileges constitute a cash crop. This is particularly true in the Hill country of Texas, home of most of our white tail deer. Unfortunately, however, some of the agriculture areas have not responded so well.

One of the most successful quail areas in Texas is a quail management project adjacent to Crooks Lake in Lamar County. Here Warden Reb Burks has brought about the planting of many mul-

Care in Shooting Necessary
 Speaking of 22 shooting—and caution. They should be synonymous. Although the 22 is a small gun, it is a pretty powerful little rifle. It should be handled with the utmost care. Certainly it should not be shot over an open lake, or where the bullets might hit rocks and bounce off.

Another very bad practice, and which many of us are guilty of doing with 22 rifles or pistols, is shooting at glass bottles. Broken glass is a real hazard, whether it be on the beach, the bottom of the lake or at the roadside.

Best place to shoot a 22 for plinking is in a creek bottom where you have the permission of the landowner. Also be sure there are no cows around. Farmers are funny that they just don't want their best milk cow perforated with bullet holes.

Handy Gadget for Boats
 Even a short cruise on the water whips up a mighty thirst. Exhilarating air does it, I guess. Anyway, that's why most boaters shove off well prepared with refreshments.

Where to park that opened bottle of soft drink, or that partially full can of beer, or that glass of iced or hot coffee, hot chocolate, or what aive you—poses a problem once the boat is in motion.

Aladdin Laboratories of Minneapolis have solved that one, and cleverly, too. They call it the

SECRETS FROM THE PEOPLE
 In this day of sputniks and ever-increasing federal power, there is a tendency among many of the people in high offices to feel that what they do is none of the business of the citizens. This is especially noticeable in any field where the information can be labeled as a military secret. It is a constant danger to the freedom of this country for officials to conduct public business in a private manner. However, this is one of the greatest tendencies of the bureaucratic type organization.

Persons interested in the functions of government over the last several years have found that it is getting increasingly more difficult to find out what is happening inside the various bureaus. The committee for the Advancement of Freedom of Information of Signa Delta Chi, a professional journalism fraternity, recently issued a report on government secrecy during the past few years. Included in the report are 93 specific instances of censorship by the executive branch of the federal government. The Canyon News recently included some of these cases of censorship in an editorial. Below are one of the absurd cases of the bureaucracy cheating the people out of their right to know.

1. Department of Defense experts, testifying before the House Government Information subcommittee, stated that "more than a million" federal employees are classifying security information and that this classification is "running at a higher rate today" than during World War II.

2. The Army Intelligence Division declined clearance of a book by Lt. Col. Robert B. Rigg on the history of U. S. Army Intelligence, even though he offered to limit it to intelligence operations of George Washington, based on material discovered in 1921.

3. Pictures of plush furnishings inside military transport planes, requested by Rep. Daniel J. Flood, were stamped "secret" and then even the congressman's letter of request was stamped "secret." Rep. Flood said: "It appears to me that this classification is designed to protect bureaucrats from embarrassment and not to protect genuine military secrets from potential enemies of the county."

4. As an example of bureaucratic confusion, the Department of Labor censored statistics on the Armed Services purchases of peanut butter on the grounds that clever enemy officials could deduce from the number of men in our armed services. At the same time, the Department of Defense was issuing monthly reports on the totals of armed services personnel.

5. The Pentagon has affixed its "for military use only" classification to official U. S. weather data. The Soviet ambassador for anyone else can telephone the Department of Defense and ask for Extension 7-9355. Whereupon, a recording automatically gives the latest 24-hour weather forecast from nearby Bolling Air Force Base. This automatic recording concludes as follows: "This information is for military use only and dissemination to the public is not authorized."

6. A mimeographed release of Secretary of Defense Wilson's press conference on April 12, 1955 (carried the following stamped at the top: "Not for General distribution." This illustrated the stamp-happy attitude of the Pentagon.

7. Trevor Gardner, former assistant secretary of the Air Force, prepared an article on ballistic missiles based solely upon material which he gleaned from high school textbooks, which included the classroom formulae for determining arc speed, the amount of thrust needed for desired range and the strength of the base platform needed to withstand this thrust. He sent it to the Security Review Officer for clearance. Whereupon, the Security Reviewing people "blew their tops," charging the article contained "top secret" information and refused clearance.

8. Assistant Secretary of Defense Robert T. Ross, in an official ruling, stated that only those persons with a "legitimate interest" are entitled to know the location of military bases where liquor is sold by the bottle. His letter containing the ruling specifically mentioned wholesale liquor dealers, but it implied that a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union would be denied the information on the grounds of a lack of "legitimate interest."

9. After stories by Clark Mollenhoff in the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and subsequent inquiry by the House subcommittee on Government Information, the Department of the Treasury finally agreed to make public out-of-court settlements of fines in cases involving the refilling of liquor bottles, but declined, on the grounds of technicalities of the law, to make public similar settlements in cases involving the watering of whiskey and other minor offenses.

 The above are only a few of the many examples which could be cited to show how bureaucrats are trying to make "secret" everything they do. We are not in favor of revealing information which would help enemy nations but we do feel that too many people in high places have gone "stamp happy" in the last few years. The sooner the bureaucrats of the nation realize that they are responsible to the people, the better off we will all be.—Memphis Democrat.

Red Cross Wants Names Of Service Men

The home service section of the local Red Cross is anxious to have the names and addresses of all persons from this part of Gray and adjoining counties who are in the military service of the country. The names and addresses of the relatives of these men are also wanted by this section of the Red Cross.

This home section of the Red Cross, or the civilian relief section, as it is sometimes known, is the only real and quick connecting link between the men in the ranks and the relatives at home. For this reason it is important that the home service know the address of the men's relatives as well as know the exact location of the men.

Another work of the home service section is to look after the relatives of the men in service and to assist them if they are in need. If the man in service is needed to support a near relative, then the civilian relief committee of the Red Cross takes action through the proper channels.

Mrs. Mont Noel is chairman and Postmaster Faulkner is secretary of the home service section here and the information can be given to them.

Alternate Method Used by Farmers In Figuring Income

Self-employed farmers may use an alternate method for figuring earnings from their farm. John R. Sanderson, district manager of the Social Security Administration office, and Jim Pierce, group supervisor of Internal Revenue, Amarillo office, reminded farm operators this week.

Mr. Pierce pointed out that self-employed farmers may figure their earnings for social security in several ways.

1. If your gross income from agricultural self-employment is not more than $1800, you may count as your net farm earnings either your actual net or two-thirds of your farm gross income;

2. If your gross farm income is more than $1800, and your net farm earnings are less than $1200, you may use either your actual net or $1200;

3. If your gross farm income is more than $1800 and your net farm earnings are $1200 or more, you MUST USE the actual amount of your net earnings.

Pierce added that use of the option will enable farmers with gross income as low as $600 to obtain social security protection for themselves in their old-age and for their survivors in case of death. However, he emphasized that regardless of the way in which you figure your net earnings, you must have net earnings of at least $400 (from farming alone, or in combination with other SE earnings) in order to get social security credit for the year.

In addition to the revised optional method, the 1956 amendments extended social security coverage to some farm owners who receive cash or crop shares from tenant farmers. If the farm landlord under his agreement with his tenant, materially participates in the production or management of production of the farm crops raised on his land, this income formerly excluded as rental income, may be reported for social security purposes. This provision is effective for taxable years ending after 1955. Requests for information regarding taxes due and tax return forms should be directed to the Internal Revenue Office at Dallas. Questions concerning the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program will be answered by the social security office at Amarillo.

Precinct Conventions

One of the hottest topics at next July's precinct conventions likely will be whether such conventions should be held any more.

Gov. Price Daniel has suggested abolishing the precinct conventions. His premise is that much of the infighting that afflicts the Democratic party in Texas originates in these neighbor-against-neighbor squabbles.

He proposed instead the electing of delegates (one per precinct) to the county conventions by direct vote at the primary.

Governor Daniel pointed out that the conventions sometimes are controlled by a minority group within the area. Many more people, generally, vote in the primaries than bother to come back to the voting place a second time in one day for the precinct conventions.

Electing delegates by direct vote, contended the governor, would do away with "rump conventions" and contests over which precinct delegation is entitled to seats at the county conventions.

Governor Daniel's recommendation, made at the state Democratic executive committee meeting, came as a surprise counter-offensive to the DOT's "code of ethics" campaign. DOT (Democrats of Texas) is a liberal group, openly backing the governor for control of party affairs.

Spearhead of its drive is the "code of ethics" proposal designed, according to its sponsors, to eliminate much of the fighting and give everyone a fair shake at conventions.

DOT members were immediately critical of the no-precinct convention plan. It would eliminate "grass roots" gatherings, they said, the only chance every citizen has to get up and speak his piece. But the governor had an answer for that, too. He suggested that the new law provide that any qualified party member could propose a resolution at his county convention.

Both the governor's and the DOT's suggestions are to be studied by the SDEC. Governor Daniel said if his plan meets with approval within the party, he will submit it to the Legislature next year.

Tax Facts

Texans paid $2,600,000,000, or one-fourth total income, in state, federal and local taxes in 1956.

In a fact-packed report (its first), Texas State Tax Study Commission traces the history of Texas' taxing patterns from 1932 to 1956. Next in an expected series of about 10 reports will compare Texas taxes with other states. Findings are to be presented to the Legislature in 1959 to serve as background for revenue-wrestling.

At present, says the report, Texas taxes are derived 45% from property; 22%, sales; 16%, severance; 17%, all other sources. Basic pattern has not been changed since 1941, but all categories except the property tax have increased at least 10% since 1950.

Price of Progress

Re-locating utilities in the path of the new interstate highway system is going to cost Texas cities more than most officials had originally thought.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled that state-federal funds may be used only in a limited way to pay for utility moving. Specifically, said Wilson, they may be used to pay for relocation of sanitary sewers and for other utilities, such as water and power lines, only if they must be moved completely outside the road right of way. Cost of re-locating water, power and gas lines within a right of way must be paid for by the city or utility company.

Texas League of Municipalities protested the interpretation, said it would cost Texas cities as much as $20,000,000 to comply. Chief source of disgruntlement to the city officials is that under the same federal building program, cities in other states are not required to meet this cost.

No Prices for Specs

No mention of price can be made in an advertisement for eyeglasses until the State Supreme Court clears up questions about the new optometry law.

High court turned down the request of an optical company to suspend the temporary injunction against price advertising until the test case is heard on March 5.

Rival groups of optometrists are at odds as to what kind of advertising should be permitted. One group contends the law passed last spring clearly prohibits certain types of solicitation. Another agrees with the Nov. 8 attorney general's opinion that the law is unconstitutional because it is drawn.

Trust and Guaranty Co. will be $1,987,886, reports State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

US Automotive Service had assets of $4,893,269, said Cavness, partially offsetting the $6,881,155 in US Trust liabilities.

Cavness' audit of the liquidation division of the State Insurance Department suggested some tightening of methods of handling and selling property in receivership.

US Trust creditors still cannot be paid. Suits filed by groups seeking preference have not been settled.

Gentler Slide for Texas

In a year of predicted recession, the dip in Texas business will be less noticeable than for the nation generally.

This prediction is made by the University Bureau of Business Research on the basis of figures for past recessions. In 1948-49 national figure dropped 19%; Texas, 6%. In 1953-54, the national drop was 11%; Texas, 8%.

Short Snorts

Ballot positions for the nine proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on Nov. 4 have been determined by a drawing in the Secretary of State's office. No. 1 position went to the amendment which would give legislators a $7,500 annual salary.

The Veterans Land Board has agreed to try to sell the remaining $87,000,000 in bonds allowed under the program as rapidly as possible. Aim is to get the program rolling again without waiting for possibly more favorable interest rates.

Land office reins are now in the hands of new Commissioner Bill Alcorn, appointed after the resignation of Earl Rudder.

Framing of legislation to cut down juvenile delinquency is being discussed with a view toward the '59 session. Governor Daniel will ask the new State Law Enforcement Commission and the Texas Youth Council to make recommendations.

The will of the people is the only legitimate foundation of any government, and to protect its free expression should be our first object.—Thomas Jefferson.

"NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE"

During recent years many new medical treatments have been perfected. Some of the diseases that have plagued mankind for ages have been conquered.

There are still more to be overcome, but in due time they, too, will be mastered. So many research physicians, scientists and chemists are devoting their lives to this work that truly no disease will eventually be impossible to cure.

We are glad that it is our privilege to share in this important work by supplying the medicines that fight disease.

FREEDOM IS A MIGHTY SWORD

We Americans can rightly be proud of the fact that we are a peace-loving people. That our aim as a nation is to strive to improve human welfare, with freedom and justice for all. * Such a people is always slow to anger, tolerant and patient. But when patience is exhausted, a peace-loving people can turn its peace-time skills into weapons of fierce and righteous wrath. There is only one way such a nation could be enslaved. That would be through propaganda that misleads; through lack of knowledge, and of truth. America's greatest strength is...freedom of the printed word...to give the people truth, truth that builds freedom of thought, of word, and of vision. * This great Freedom tempers the steel out of which a nation and a people can forge mighty swords.
