JOHNNY CAMPBELL
CAMPBELL FILES FOR STATE OFFICE

Johnny Campbell of Pampa has authorized The McLean News to announce that he has filed for the post of State Representative from the 87th District. Campbell had the following statement to make:

"I submit the following in regard to my candidacy for the office of state representative from the 87th District comprising Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth Counties.

1. General Statement: "I am entering this race for the sole purpose of representing the people of Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth Counties in Austin. I will apply myself diligently to this assignment if elected, and in accordance with this aim will base my campaign and my future actions on certain fundamental principles. These are:

1. Government should be of laws, rules or principles and not people—men should be instruments of government guided by principles.

2. Texas should take the lead in restoring states rights through exercising strong and able state government. The best government is that nearest to the scene of the governed.

3. Freedoms (economic, political, academic religious) are in one bundle—One cannot be surrendered without jeopardizing the others.

4. Moral restraint is still a more powerful control than legal restraint. Passing more laws (legal restraint) is not always the right answer in solving our problems.

5. Economic justice can best be won by free men through a free enterprise system.

6. There are many necessary government expenditures, but not all are sacred. Relating spending to equitable and reasonable taxation is necessary to prevent ut-imate confiscation of property and incomes.

"These are principles by which I will live, vote and crusade as your State Representative. These are principles by which you can hold me accountable in performing the duties of this office.

"I will appreciate the opportunity of discussing my candidacy for this office with any individual or group in the area.

Rev. J. E. Byars, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Shamrock, officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Kenneth Hopkins of Fort Worth was her sister's attendant. She wore an afternoon dress of yellow sheer, fashioned with a fitted bodice with short sleeves and high neckline. Dear Friend:
Is agriculture dwindling away to a position of relative unimportance in Texas?
No.

Industry in growing in our state and more than half of our people are now concentrated in urban areas. These are facts—but they point not to a decline in farming but to a change in farming.

The number of workers on Texas farms and ranches has been going down for years—from 34% of the population in 1940 to 13% now. Technological progress has made possible greater farm productivity with fewer workers. But that same progress has resulted in great increases in the number of persons supplying farmers and processing and distributing farm products.

The total number of Texans dependent on agriculture for their living has declined only from 45 to 50% since 1940, according to Texas A&M agronomists.

Our economic welfare still has its roots in the good earth. Farming has changed, but agriculture is still highly basic to the economy of Texas.

Every Texan thus has a stake in governmental policies that affect agriculture.

That is why I am deeply concerned when the President vetoes a bill designed only to insure that farm prices will not be lower this year than they were last year.

That is why a sound world trade program means so much to Texas, for it provides a two-way street along which we can move a substantial part of our farm production.

That is why Texans are concerned with the economic improvement of impoverished nations, to buy more of our food and fiber and more of the products manufactured from them.

That is why water for agriculture is as important as water for industry—why agricultural research is no less vital than industrial research.

What's good for Texas agriculture is good for every Texan, no matter where his paycheck comes from.

The fundamental farm problem is simply to get a fair share of the national income for farmers. They are not getting it now.

In 14 states the principal income is from industry. The average per capita personal income in those states in 1956 was approximately $2,244.

In the remaining 34 states, including Texas, the principal income is from agricultural production and other raw materials. The average per capita personal income in those states in 1956 was approximately $1,574.

That is a difference of $670 per capita.

The difference is too great.

The measure of a man's character is what he would do if he knew he would never be found out.—Thomas Babington Macaulay.

McLean Gets Honor Flag
Little ceremony accompanied the flying of the Liberty Loan Honor Flag, which was unfurled to the breezes last Friday afternoon.

The flag was received Friday afternoon, in response to a telegram to the Federal Reserve Bank that McLean had over-subscribed her quota by several thousand dollars.

Though somewhat late in getting started, McLean went over quickly when our people got to work. Many people express satisfaction over the success of the campaign in Gray County because it can no longer be said that this county will not do her part in buying Liberty Bonds.

Although we did not over-subscribe the loan as much as we did the Red Cross Christmas campaign, it is thought the only reason was that no efficient organization for the sale of bonds existed at any time.

Clean-Up Day
As it is very important that the good citizens of McLean remove all tin cans, rubbish, etc., from around their premises; first, to improve health; second, to help beautify the town; I therefore have set May 10th as Clean-up Day.

Pl's everything you wish removed in the alleys or other places where wagons can get to them, and I will have them hauled off.

I hope everyone will help on the above day set to make our town clean and healthful.

Mr. Norman is one of a number who will go into the army at the next draft, and preferred to marry before he went rather than wait until after the war is over.

The News joins in congratulating the newlyweds, and wishes the groom the best o'luck and for both of them a long and happy married life.

McLean Furnishes 20 Recruits For Cavalry Troop
Capt. Solon B. Bird came over from Claude last week and appointed Clay E. Thompson recruiting officer for the National Guard Cavalry troop he is organizing for service on the border.

Mr. Thompson tells us that 20 recruits have been secured here. Today is the date set for medical examinations, which will likely take place this afternoon.

We are unable at present to give the names of men who go from McLean, but hope to do so next week.

Personals
Miss Ruth Bullock came in Friday night from Groom where she has been teaching in the high school.
W. B. Upham and wife received a telephone message Tuesday night that their daughter, Miss Frances, who is at Amarillo attending a business college, was seriously ill. Mr. and Mrs. Upham, accompanied by their son, J. L., and daughter, Fern, left shortly after midnight to be with her. Mr. Upham returned Wednesday afternoon and reports Miss Frances much improved. Mrs. Upham remained in Amarillo and is expected home Saturday or Sunday.
Miss Maggie Jordan has returned after having finished a term as teacher in the Gracey school.

BOYCE HOUSE

Some of the most successful "confidence games" are based upon the saying that the hand is quicker than the eye.

One of the first news stories I ever covered had to do with a native of Austria who had accumulated considerable means in the bakery business in Memphis, Tenn.

He met a man who was also a native of Austria and, after they became friends, this man introduced two others. He had already told the baker of a wonderful business idea which these two had.

"It will take $14,000 to start the business," he was told. "You put up half and we will put up half."

The baker was interested—but cautious.

The spokesman explained that they had $5,000 which they would put with the baker's $7,000 and the baker was told to hold the money until they put up $2,000 more.

"If we don't return by two weeks from today, the money is all yours."

Now if he held the money, how could he lose?

So the baker agreed. They met again; he counted out his $7,000; one of them counted out their $5,000. The money was then placed in a box and after conversation they shook hands all around and left.

He locked the box in his safe in the office. At the end of two weeks, they had not returned and so he rejoiced at being $5,000 richer. But when he opened the box, there were only two stacks of cut-up newspaper.

During the conversation, they had switched boxes on him.

Yes, it was true that the hand is quicker than the eye, although it had cost him $7,000 to find this out.

COMPULSION VS. INCENTIVE

Military plans, needs and programs hold the headlines. "But our long-term struggle with communism will take place in the much less dramatic area of economic growth."

That was said the other day by President G. Keith Funston of the New York Stock Exchange. It is a truism that bears repeating. Our strength—and the strength of the free world we are doing so much to support—depends on ever-expanding industrial capacity.

In a late year, Mr. Funston went on, Russia "was able to pour a startling 27% of her total output into new investments!"—as against 19% for the U. S. Russia did that by dictation, squeezing capital out of her people whether they liked it or not. Our problem, on the other hand, is "How will a free society attract free funds from a free people—in order to compete successfully?"

There is just one answer to that question. Adequate incentives must be offered to people to encourage them to take risks. To put it another way, risk capital, like individuals, must earn a living wage, and the tax laws must encourage such capital to form.

This is an exceedingly important matter. From now on, Mr. Funston says, the corporate bill for new plants and equipment alone should average an estimated $45 billion a year—much more than was considered necessary a comparatively short time ago. And something like $7 billion of that should be raised by the sale of common stocks—more than two-and-a-half times the level of recent years.

The challenges of the space age are here. We must firmly meet them—and in the all-important area of industrial capacity as well as armed strength. We cannot have the one without the other.

TAXING FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has proposed that money spent by the electric utilities for institutional advertising be taxed, and not be considered as a legitimate business expense. The advertising in question presents the private enterprise side of the public-private power controversy—and, naturally enough, the Bureau's action was spurred by socialist-minded people in and out of public life.

This unprecedented proposal resulted in a unanimous resolution at the recent meeting of the National Editorial Association in New Orleans. The Association represents several thousand daily and weekly newspapers. The resolution, which was framed in formal terms, pointed out that there exists a difference of opinion between our citizens as to competition between private enterprise and government; that the people have the constitutional right to study every viewpoint, whether or not any such viewpoint be popular with public servants; and that the Bureau's proposal "... is an obvious effort to employ a tax penalty to circumvent the freedom of speech and of the press guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States, by taxing the expression of opinion." It added that "... democracy is dead when citizens may only be exposed to opinions with which administrative officials of the government are in agreement," and called upon everyone who believes in freedom to do all in their power to annul the Bureau's ruling and to defeat proposed legislation which would implement it.

This matter goes far beyond the public power fight. If the tax penalty can be used to prevent one group of citizens and enterprises from expressing their views, it can be used to prevent any and all other groups from doing so. It could make a hollow mockery of the Constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, press and expression. It falls into the category of weapons used by dictators to curb dissent.

THAT POWER GIVE-AWAY

Every time a taxpaying-private utility company is licensed to build a hydroelectric dam on some river, a political cry is raised that this amounts to an almost criminal "give-away" of priceless natural resources that belong to all the people.

Wayne Gard, of the Dallas Morning News, has something interesting to say about that. He writes: "A canyon, no matter how scenic, produces no electricity. Power development calls for expensive dams, tunnels, turbines and generators. The only place where the government gives those away are in the public power projects."

"The give-away power plants are the public ones. They give away taxpayers' money by lending it at less than cost. They toss out more by freeing the public plants from normal tax levies. That puts an extra burden on all other taxpayers."

"The private utility companies put $1.1 billion a year into the treasury in federal taxes. But a single one of the public power projects, TVA, costs taxpayers about $90 billion a year. Which is the give-away?"

Mr. Gard points to another give-away—the Rural Electrification Administration. As he puts it: "The government has been borrowing money from taxpayers at 4% and lending it to REA at 2%." And proposals that this rate be raised have been greeted with screams of anguish by REA spokesmen. They want their give-away not only continued, but extended on an ever-increasing scale.

There's a power give-away, all right. It's found in socialized power.

IT'S THE LAW In Texas

AVOIDING LEGAL TROUBLES IN REAL ESTATE DEALS

Thinking of buying a new home this year? Whether you buy a completed house or simply a lot to build on, how will you know whether you are receiving a good title to the property you purchase? The safest method is to have a title examination made—that is, a careful study of the abstract and other title evidence.

Here are a few of the common sources of trouble in real estate transactions to show why the minor expense of a title examination is justified.

Many persons sign "earnest money contracts" believing that they are mere receipts with no serious implications. In reality they may specify, among other things, the kind of title you must accept.

A "warranty deed" from a responsible seller is comforting to have, but it is a poor substitute for a careful title examination. A warranty deed does not guarantee a marketable title.

Moreover, serious title defects may not come to light until long after the seller on a warranty deed is dead, has moved to an unknown address, or is bankrupt. Even if he is available, a good title is much better than a law suit.

The fact that the seller has possession of an "abstract" does not mean that he owns the property. An abstract is only a history of a title. Possession of an abstract no more indicates ownership of land than possession of the history of Texas means that you own the state.

Some purchasers of land feel safe because the title is being examined at the time of purchase by an attorney for the mortgage lenders. This seems logical but is a dangerous theory. Mortgage lenders are sometimes willing to accept less than good record title as security. This is sound business for them because, among other reasons, the chances are that the mortgage will be paid off so that no expense in perfecting the title would ever need be incurred. It is risky business for you when you are putting your life savings into the purchase.

These are a few of the reasons why a title examination is an important safeguard to you. When it is completed, the attorney gives you a written opinion stating his conclusions as to who owns the land, the defects in or charges against such ownership, and the requirements to be met if any, to make good record title.

Off-hand this may seem a simple operation. In fact it is not. It requires the interpretation of numerous deeds, mortgages, wills, court decrees and other instruments; the consideration of the order in which transactions and events affect the title occurred; and the application of statutes and court decisions to the various situations disclosed in the abstract.

The time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.—Song of Solomon.

Tax Man Sam Sez:

Now that April 15 is over and done it would be mighty nice to forget this tax business until next year. However, as the old saying goes, death and taxes are certain. If you calmly rock in your rocking chair on the front porch and don't keep tax records, you are going to pay out of your own pocket come next April 15. It pays to think about the tax consequences of all your business transactions throughout the year and it especially pays to make tracks in the form of a record of where you went during the year for tax figuring purposes next spring.

The Lord is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart, and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit.—(Psalm 34, 18.)

All the will power in the world will not mend a broken heart, or bring comfort to a soul in deep sorrow. The love of God alone, so freely given to those who seek His forgiveness and His help, can heal and restore us to health and happiness, raise us up from the depths of despair.

Evetts Haley, Canyon; and A. M. G. Swenson, Stamford.

Mrs. Rodgers' Pupils Participate in Guild Auditions

Seventeen members of Mrs. Frank Rodgers' piano class played in the National Guild Auditions in Pampa Saturday, April 26, from 9:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. This is an annual event in which over 40,000 piano pupils of the nation participate. It is held in 403 music centers of the country. The students who pass are given a certificate, a gold or bronze embossed pin, depending on the group in which they play, and a year's membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians.

Marilyn Magee, Joyce and Dorothy Beasley, Teresa and Toni Mertel, Carol Lawson, Joyce Smith, Burnelle McReynolds, Pamela Mann, Janelle and Donna Lou Hall, Regina Leonard, Vicky Bunch and Chris Rodgers played ten numbers each for national certificates.

Sandra Greenwood, Judy Smith and Norma Page played six selections each for district certificates.

Mrs. Madelon Skonberg of Chicago was the judge for the Pampa district.

Others attending the auditions were Mesdames Clyde Magee, Relia Ayers, J. R. Lawson, Joe Smith, Charles Hall, Johnnie Mertel, Harold Bunch, Guy Beasley, Jesse Leonard and Tom Greenwood; Patricia Greenwood, Martha Ann Beasley and Beverly Lawson.

The recital for Mrs. Rodgers' class will be held during National Music Week, on Thursday evening, May 8, at 7:30 in the McLean Methodist Church. Certificates and pins will be awarded at this time. The public is cordially invited to attend.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Being the editor of a small-city daily is sorta like those sidewalk cafes in Paris where, it is said, if you sit long enough everybody you know will come by.

However, I would not take this so literally because nearly all the people I know—including me—will never get to Paris.

But, anyhow, the editor does see a parade of the notable—and perhaps the notorious—go through his home town.

For example, Eastland, where I was editor in the 1920's, Barney Ross—who was lightweight champion of the world—stopped there, on a drive across the nation, to call on a physician to be treated for a severe cold.

Jack Curley, America's leading wrestling promoter at the time that Tex Rickard was the foremost boxing promoter, made a talk to the Eastland Rotary Club in 1921 or 1922.

Raymond Hitchcock, long a star comedian on Broadway, also attended a Rotary Club meeting in the 1920's. He was in Eastland with his big road show, "Hitchy Coo," which was presented that night at the Connellee Theatre—the theatre was the largest at the time between Fort Worth and El Paso.

Illustrating the wide range of personages: Jake Hamon—now one of the nation's leading oil men—visited Eastland when he was a boy.

Another visitor was Jeff Davis, "King of the Hoboes," who was interviewed in the Stanley Hotel. (A newspaper dispatch recently quoted Davis, now 78.)

General Smedley Butler, who commanded the U. S. Marines, visited his brothers in Eastland as did their father who served many years in Congress from Pennsylvania. A Quaker, he was the chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee!

"Foghorn" Clancy, most famous of rodeo announcers, officiated in a rodeo at Connellee Park. In that park also, "Hap" McKeown demonstrated how he shaved himself and how he could bat a baseball—without arms.

Being the county seat, Eastland attracted nearly all the state's leading political figures. I remember hearing George E. B. Peddy, Senator Earle B. Mayfield, Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, Congressman Tom Blanton, former Congressman Oscar Calloway, Alvin Owsley (former national commander of the American Legion), Cullen Thomas, former Congressman Patrick Henry and Jim Ferguson. For "Farmer Jim" the street on the south side of the square was roped off that night and the crowd was estimated 12,000.

Another speaker in a political campaign was the brilliant lawyer, Luther Nickles. The most eloquent of preachers was the evangelist, the Rev. Mr. Bulgin, and another powerful exhorter was the Rev. Mr. Crim, known as the "fox-hunter," who wore cowboy boots.

At the height of the Klan-anti-Klan fight, the Klansmen brought in Capt. Skipwith from Mer Rouge in Louisiana where two men were rumored to have disappeared. The anti-Klan side brought in a fiery speaker who had been a national prohibition administrator.

IS LOCAL NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING TO LOCAL BUSINESS PEOPLE?

Here's what the American Bankers Magazine, a publication which represents a traditionally conservative profession, has to say:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. "A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town . . . it's the best possible town adviser. PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

If we knew all the angles to fishing, there probably wouldn't be much more fish caught after a few months than are being caught now. The reason for this is in a few months all the choice ones would already be caught. However, it is trying on the brain to figure out a way to catch a dishpan full, especially when you know they are swimming around in the lake and you can't get a strike. Sometimes some particular lure will really do the trick but there are times when fish simply won't bite. Usually choice shiner minnows will get the job done but sometimes fish ignore them. The entire skill of successful fishing is puzzling to me, however there are always a few fishermen per thousand who seem to have good luck on every trip. A former Abilene policeman that I once knew seemed to always bring back enough three to eight pound bass for himself and all the neighbors. This fisherman made his own lure which was about two-thirds the size of a teaspoon and shaped like a spoon. It was made from common lead, painted black, and was equipped with two wires so as to make it weedless. The fisherman told me that he would cast the lure into a likely looking place, let it sink to the bottom for a few minutes, then move it a few inches every once in a while.

Another group of successful fishermen from this area is a party from Phillips that goes to Lake Marvin at regular intervals. From what I have heard these fellows will set up camp while one of them is plugging. They alternate at fishing around the clock until the bass start striking, then they all start and keep fishing until the fish stop hitting.

Of course if a person really made a study of the art of angling, the skillet would be warmed up more, but what seems to be the object of a majority of average fishermen is to enjoy a week end away from the everyday affairs of the office, or whatever the daily routine might be. Coming out among the tall cottonwoods, watching the deer, turkey, squirrels, wild birds and other creatures of nature at play is top recreation.

Where is a good place to go fishing? My guess would be Buffalo Lake for several reasons. It is the largest lake in the Panhandle, it is well stocked with black bass and channel cat. Chiefly, the lake has been treated several times during the last few years by Game and Fish Department Aquatic Biologists. The treatments consisted of several applications of rotenone with just enough strength in it to kill the rough fish, carp, shad, buffalo, goldfish and hybrids of goldfish and carp. Hundreds of tons of these undesirable fish were taken from the lake. I seem to me that with this amount of fish taken from the lake the bass and catfish should be looking for something to eat. There are hundreds of large black bass, over four pounds, and channel cat over ten pounds in the lake, plus other species. More than seven years ago, Bill Gunn, of Amarillo, liberated several hat-head catfish in the lake that went over twenty pounds, with one of them weighing over forty.

Each fisherman in the Panhandle is allowed an aggregate of twenty hooks. If a party of four went to any lake, set out four trotlines of, say, eighteen hooks each, that would add up to 75 hooks for the group and each would still be permitted two hooks more for rod and reel. With good bait I believe four fishermen could spend a night or two at Buffalo Lake and really hit the jackpot. In fact, I am going to try it in a few weeks just to see if for no other reason, if one fisherman can't catch at least ten pounds of channel cat and black bass.

Bobwhite Quail
 Last week the ground was almost completely covered with hail about the size of mocking bird eggs. Did this harm the bobwhite quail? Seems as though it would but a few years back Jack Woodford and I spent the night in camp and the hail came down as big as hen eggs. From the way the twigs and leaves covered the ground under the cottonwoods and from the force with which the hailstones pounded the earth, it would seem a safe calculation that no small bird could survive such a storm. However, next morning broke bright and clear. We hadn't driven from camp more than three hundred yards when Jack observed a covey of twelve bobwhites feeding near the bar ditch and not one appeared any worse off from the hailstorm.

New Man Joins McLean Reservists

The 337th Engineers Utility Det. of McLean acquired a new member April 7. He is Bob Ferguson, a nineteen-year-old prior serviceman from Shamrock. Ferguson recently served in the National Guard at Shamrock, and after receiving an honorable discharge, joined the local Army Reserve. Since the local area is in a freeze and no non-prior servicemen can join, Lt. Callahan, the local commanding officer urges all prior servicemen to come out and investigate the Reserve. In the event that this unit grew to the total membership of 51, an armory would be built here and it would be equipped with instructional tools and equipment. At the rate the unit has been growing this year, this armory is becoming more and more a reality. Several young men are waiting now for the freeze to lift so they can join. Once again the members of the local detachment would like to invite you to come down to the American Legion Hall any Monday night and see for yourself what they are doing.
