From the State Capitol HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas has a fairly new addition to its long and much-vaunted list of firsts and mosts. But this one is fun to brag about.

Texas has the greatest number of designated potential enemy bomb targets of any state in the union, says State Defense Coordinator William L. McGill.

This, added to Texas' long-standing record of leading the nation in natural disasters puts a heavy responsibility for defense preparedness on Texas. McGill told the annual State Defense Advisory Council conference in Austin.

Officially designated "aiming areas," as they are called, are Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Austin, San Antonio, Galveston, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Laredo, Lubbock, San Angelo, Waco and Wichita Falls.

Others considered possible targets because of nearby military installations are Abilene, Beeville, Big Spring, Brownsville, Bryan, Dalhart, Del Rio, Killeen, Marfa, Peecos, Poyote, Sherman, Victoria and Wink.

Texas has received a $320,000 federal grant, conferees were told, to draw up a state Survival Plan. Several larger city plans are complete, and the state plan, a massive and complex thing affecting the lives of millions, is due to be finished by December 31.

Rural residents cannot feel themselves invulnerable, the Council was told. In case of a large-scale bombing, it is felt likely that radioactive fallout would cover most of our terrain, contaminating crops, cattle, pasturage and ponds.

Under the present national civil defense plan, considerable responsibility for advance training and preparation rests with the individual family. Each would be responsible for feeding itself for the first two weeks of a post-disaster period. After that, state and local government would take over for two weeks, and after that, if necessary, the federal government would step in.

Persons or organizations wanting to obtain official civil defense information and study materials may write the State Defense and Disaster Relief Office,

Capitol Station, Austin. Price Ads OK Again

In a rare reversal of one of its own rulings, the Texas Supreme Court has held it is not unlawful for optometrists to advertise the prices of their eyeglasses.

Last spring the court upheld a temporary injunction issued by a Beaumont court prohibiting Lee Optical Co. and others from advertising prices. Suit was brought by a competitor, Texas State Optical.

At issue was how to interpret a law passed by the Legislature in 1957 barring optometrists from advertising that is "fraudulent, deceitful, misleading . . . including statements of bait, discount, premiums, gifts . . ."

In its more recent ruling, the court decided, 7 to 1, that the apparent legislative intent, or sense of the thing, is only to prohibit price advertising that is false or misleading.

Effect of this is to knock out the injunction against Lee Optical.

Hot Potato
Atty. Gen. Will Wilson is being asked to give an official ruling on a highly controversial issue.

It is whether Texas, under present law, can accept additional federal funds to extend the period of unemployment payments. Texas Employment Commission and Gov. Price Daniel are asking for the opinion.

Pros and cons already have been the subject of heated discussion. A recently passed federal law would allocate to the state funds to provide an additional 12 weeks of $14-a-week payments to persons who had already come to the end of their 24-week benefit period. An estimated 60,000 Texans are in this category.

But, to receive this money, the state must repay the funds to the federal government. If it does not get the money by some other means, such as the normal accumulation during high employment periods, it would be pledged to raise the tax on employers after Jan. 1, 1963.

Some argue that this would violate the constitutional prohibition against pledging the state's credit. Others say there is no obstacle since the state merely serves as a collecting and distributing agent for the federal government, with no money involved.

Free Rides Eyed

State Auditor C. H. Cavness, watchdog of departmental spending practices, has questioned use of railroad and bus passes by Railroad Commission employees.

Commission Chairman Olin Culbertson declared the passes were used only for official business. Use of passes for state business is specifically authorized by law for certain commission employees.

Cavness noted that 30 employees had passes and that some apparently had not traveled on state business during the past year. He said he felt it violated the new code of ethics law which prohibits a state employee's using his official position to receive special privileges.

Holiday Heartache

Department of Public Safety predicts that 28 Texans will die in traffic accidents during the July 4, 5, 6 holiday week end.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., DPS director, said the Highway Patrol would do all in its power to make the prediction false. Every available patrolman will be on duty, plus extras from the licensing and weights and vehicle inspection divisions, to remove dangerous drivers from the road.

Beyond that, said Garrison, it's up to each driver to do his part by following the law to the letter and not trying to drive too long.

New Assistants

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has named four new assistants to his department.

Two will be on temporary assignment—Clyde Kennedy of Rosenberg and Neal R. Allen of Amarillo. Kennedy is to become Fort Bend County judge next January. Other two appointees are Robert Hamilton Wells of San Antonio and Richard Owen Jones of Wichita, Kans.

Short Shorts

Payments to jobless Texans took another substantial drop, according to Texas Employment Commission's latest report. Total claims dropped from $0,220 to $6,889. It only looks bad if compared to the 33,432 claims of a year ago.

BenJace Cage and 143 other persons in some way connected with the rise and fall of ICT Co. are being sued in a Travis County district court for $15,000,000. Suit was filed by V. F. Taylor, court-appointed receiver for ICT, on behalf of ICT's 60,000 creditors.

WHITE SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS COMMISSIONER

A major advance for the Texas Department of Agriculture was claimed by Commissioner John C. White this week with the announcement that Texas now stands first among 12 southern states in the amount and enforcement of farm legislation.

"Since 1951, we have jumped from seventh to first position in modern farm laws," said White. "These legal provisions have enabled us to increase our services in Texas by as much as 300%. As a result, Texas can no longer be regarded as an agricultural dumping ground for inferior products from other areas."

The 33-year-old commissioner, who is seeking re-election to the top farm job in Texas, added that "ten years ago we were a convenient 'garbage pail' for the nation. Today we can put more trust in our own production and know that farm goods shipped into the area must meet certain quality standards."

Commissioner White cited his re-organization of the department as a major factor in modernizing and increasing farm services. It marked the first big overhaul in its previous 47-year history and helped put many programs on a self-supporting basis.

"Our goal during my seven years in office has been to increase state services without making constant demands for new tax money," White stated. "The clean-up of state grain scandals, better seed laws, more effective insect controls and establishment of a market news service are just a part of the accomplishments under this system," he added.

White is actively campaigning to continue the programs he inaugurated after taking office in 1951. He defeated two opponents without the necessity of a run-off in 1952 and 1956 and was unopposed in 1954.

Born and raised on tenant farms in North Texas, White said that "the challenge today is for even greater progress in our most vital industry—agriculture. It calls for devoted and experienced leadership in the future."

Before election to office, Commissioner White was head of the department of agriculture at Midwestern University at Wichita Falls. He and his wife and three sons now live in Austin.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Hot Foot

When hot weather strikes, it seems to hit feet first. Here are some tips to keep you footloose and fancy free, hot weather or no. First, look to your shoes. They should give support without rubbing any part of the foot. Shoes for a growing child should have a straight inner margin with plenty of space for the toes, with sturdy sole and toe for protection.

Get into the habit of using a foot powder daily. You'll find it helps keep the foot cool and dry, prevents shoe-rub and walking friction. A new powder, called Eez, is also an antiseptic that checks infections such as athlete's foot. What's more, it sprays on — which should entice all members of the family, Junior and Dad included, into practicing good foot hygiene.

Sneakers, once restricted to young fry and tennis courts, are now popular with all ages for all-day wear. Unfortunately, this type of shoe creates the moist, hot climate where athlete's foot breeds. Athlete's foot, one thing that needn't be shared by the whole family, is easily picked up by infected scales which fall from affected skin.

It's important that the member of the family who has athlete's foot use a separate towel and bath mat, wear only his own shoes and slippers, and avoid going barefoot. These are all ways the disease is spread. Wearing fresh white socks helps avoid risk of irritation by dyes used in colored socks.

Unless properly cared for, the scaling, itching, burning and inflammation of athlete's foot continues throughout winter, often in a chronic state, aggravated by wet feet or hot galoshes.

Where there is the most love to God, there will be the truest and most enlarged philanthropy.—Robert Southey.

There may be some truth in the reports that Russia caught us reading science fiction instead of science manuals, but I just don't believe we're exactly duffers in the field. Personally, I used to sit with glazed eyes in physics and chemistry classes, and still haven't the remotest idea of the "how". But then, I figure we all have some speciality and that's what makes the world go round. So just because I don't understand scientific things, I know for a fact there are those, and many of them, who are, as some teenagers say, "way out there".

Like most unscientists, I'm fascinated with some of the everyday marvels I just can't comprehend, but count on. For instance, we have an RCA Whirlpool Imperial, a room air conditioner, that is tucked in the window and when called upon, brings a mountain coolness from the hot outside air into an even hotter room, operating on a little electricity yet! Electricity has always been associated with heat to me, and heat and coolness just don't mix. But it's obvious that notion is wrong. Anyway, all we have to do is set a dial and down goes the temperature. If the weather turns chilly for a few days, another swipe at the dial, and a warm and temperate air comes through. The instrument (and I choose the word) will also control humidity. Now if this isn't scientific miracle, I'd rather not know what is. My money is on American science every time. Now then, I wonder how many of the RCA Whirlpool technical people can keep house efficiently. That's my specialty.

LOSE A DISHRAG?

Most everyone has a tale to tell concerning wart cures. One goes like this—steal a dishrag, bury it... when the rag rots, the wart will fall off. Absurd, of course. But there are reliable treatments for warts, thanks to medical science. Physicians know them. Take advantage of the newer treatments and medications available. They can mean the difference between pain and comfort... between life and death. Let your doctor do the diagnosing and prescribing. Then come to us for quality prescription service.

TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT NO. 4 GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS

There is a matter I would like to clear up for some of you relative to the time I would devote to the office of County Commissioner should I be elected.

I believe the office of County Commissioner is of such vast importance and pays a salary sufficient for a man to devote all of his time to this work. If elected, I shall retire from the insurance business and give all the time necessary to look after the affairs of Gray County, and especially of Precinct No. 4. I assure you I shall do my best to see that the people on this side of Gray County get their share of everything.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,

"THE BIG GIVE-AWAY"

Our American system of free enterprise was founded on the idea that the government should never do for the people what they can do for themselves. And yet, time and time again, it is said that the people's resources are being "given away" when a private company is licensed to build a dam and a power plant. But what can be given away, when all the utility company gets is the right to produce electricity at rates which are regulated by the people themselves?

The government cannot produce a dam by magic. Federal projects cost the same as private projects, and generally more, due to political influences. Over the years, the American taxpayers have invested $1,614,302,195 in the TVA system. From this investment, the public has received no income at any time. No federal income taxes are paid. TVA does make certain payments to local and state governments "in lieu" of taxes. But those amounted to only 3.88% of the gross revenue in 1954. Private companies paid 22.7% of their gross in taxes in the same year, for a total of $1,100,000,000.

Just who is giving away what? According to the Federal Power Commission, $100 billion of new capital will be invested in electric power plants in the next 20 years. It is up to us, the people of America, to decide how this investment is made—by taxpaying, private investors, or by bureaucratic, tax-eating public authorities. The real big "give-away" lies in the destruction of our American private enterprise system, and the undermining of our freedom. In giving away our rights as private citizens we are giving away the American heritage.

IF OIL SEEKERS WERE DISCOURAGED

Oil wells ultimately wear out, become worthless and must be replaced. The search for new productive wells is an extremely expensive and risky enterprise. Only about one of nine wildcat wells drilled finds oil.

These facts are reflected in our tax laws, in what is known as the depletion allowance. The allowance is a credit against income taxes, and it is allowed producers only—not refiners or other segments of the industry.

The allowance has long stood at 27½%. Every so often efforts are made to reduce it. That has happened at this session of Congress, in the form of a proposed amendment to the law setting the rate at 15%.

Then a significant event occurred. The Treasury Department made a report to Senator Byrd of the Senate Finance Committee opposing the amendment. It said: "Percentage depletion is a subject that must be appraised not only in the light of national policy affecting the development and preservation of national resources. In view of the far-reaching implications of depletion allowances, any change should be considered only after full consideration of all its possible consequences. Accordingly, the department believes that an examination of the entire subject with extensive Congressional hearings would be necessary to determine whether and the extent to which the rate should be changed."

What is at stake here is our future oil and gas supply at a time when demand is enormous. Last year, for instance, gasoline consumption reached another all-time peak—an incredible total of 7,402,000,000 gallons. It doesn't take much imagination to anticipate what would happen if the depletion allowance was so reduced that the risk of loss outweighed the chance of gain, and producers were discouraged from seeking new supplies.

A BAD BARGAIN

A tax which adds to the forces of inflation, which is a burden on agriculture and business, and which produces little if any net revenue for the government, is obviously a bad bargain. That is the case with the World War II excise taxes on transportation, which are still on the books all these years later.

The taxes amount to 3% on freight shipments in general, and 10% on passenger fares. In large part, they are paid by businesses and so are deductible from income tax.

Senator Smathers, who headed the committee which made an exhaustive investigation of the critical financial situation of the railroads, is a leader in the repeal movement. To his mind, abandonment of these excises would result in only an insignificant drop in tax revenue, and perhaps even a gain. Prices to consumers would be lowered in two ways—directly, by cutting the cost of train and plane tickets, and indirectly in the cost of the goods and services on which taxes are now pyramid ed. On top of that, he says, it would improve the competitive position of small business. In many cases, large business can avoid the tax by moving goods by private transportation. The small business cannot.

Senator Smathers emphasized that excise tax repeal would help all the carriers—the railroads, the trucks and the airlines. It would lead to increased capital investment by all—and the health of the whole economy would be bettered. To use his own words: "It appears to me that there are few steps we can take in this session or any session which promise so much good for the expenditure of so little effort."

GRAY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

By Patric W. Neil

This section of the country frequently has dry spells that make a farm pond a mighty good thing to have. A good pond may have a number of uses such as supplying water for livestock, fish production, recreation, waterfowl, and to prevent erosion. If irrigation is to be involved from such a pond, a permit will need to be secured from the Texas State Board of Water Engineers at Austin.

Farm ponds need to be properly planned and constructed if they are to fill their intended purpose. Your local Soil Conservation Service technicians will be glad to furnish such technical assistance.

The first thing to do in planning a pond is to decide about how much water is needed and how big the pond should be. In general, for this area, the water should be 12 to 15 feet deep. Investigate the site to see that it is suitable for the purpose intended. The watershed above the pond should be large enough to keep water in the pond during dry periods, yet not so large that it will create flood hazards during heavy storms. The watershed should be covered with grass or erosion control measures may be necessary to prevent silting.

Soil tests are needed to determine if the pond will hold water. Borings should be made along the center line of the proposed dam and also in the pond area. A topographic map of the pond area and possibly the watershed should be made. An emergency spillway will need to be

The Space Agency Bill passed by the Senate without opposition had been reported by unanimous agreement of the special Senate committee on space and astronautics. I am chairman of this committee, and I have never served with any group that approached its work with greater seriousness.

That is as it should be. Man presumes much when he presumes to bring the dominion of the stars within the purview of his legislative processes and under the jurisdiction of his administrative agencies.

Some say we now stand at the edge of the battleground for Armageddon. Others believe we are poised before the plains of the millennium. In either case we have no national option but to marshal our resources, order our course, and proceed beyond the shelter and sanctuary of earth's atmosphere into the realm of the limitless unknown.

To proceed prudently—or to proceed at all—we must of necessity proceed by faith. Humility is a proper companion for this national journey.

As a nation, we are motivated not by fear, but rather by great confidence that extension of our capacity into the realms of space will some day bring release from fear—for ourselves and all mankind.

We are moved with no thought of aggrandizement. We have no intention of planting flags of conquest upon the planets or of laying annexation claims to the stars. We do propose that space shall never become the route of march for tyrants and totalitarians and, as we have dedicated our resources in the past to maintaining the freedom of the seas and the security of the skies, so shall we dedicate our national capacity to maintaining the neutrality of space.

Space neither invites nor necessitates any re-definition of American goals and aims.

The goal of peace and liberty has led Americans throughout our history to explore the dimensions of challenging frontiers. Our goal now remains unchanged.

The nature of space, we must recognize, is quite apart from the nature of land frontiers. We were permitted, in the development of the American West, to roll back the unknown at our leisure, confident as we did so that such gains as we claimed would be permanently ours. With space, neither such leisure nor such confidence is permitted.

Space has given priority to a new denominator of national strength—the human mind. Unless this resource receives continuous exercise, our presumptions of security are meaningless.

We are, therefore, faced with the challenge of devising a policy and a program assuring the nation the fullest mobilization of a resource which, among free men, is not responsive to directive and command.

That is the challenge. Mankind has never faced a greater one.

Your travel plans are all set. Whether you're headed for Europe, South America or one of the other 47 states, you aim to "get away from it all."

You know, of course, that there's no getting away from some things. A bee is as likely to sting you on the beautiful English countryside as in your own backyard. But with smart handling, these minor inconveniences need not spoil your trip.

Should a bee of any nationality sink his stinger into you, remove the stinger with a pair of tweezers. A few drops of ammonia or iodine will help ease the pain.

At home or abroad, everyone should know how to cope with fainting, usually a result of temporary blood loss from the brain. If you are in a crowd and cannot sit down, it may help to draw in your abdominal muscles and grunt, forcing blood up to the head.

Another ubiquitous annoyance is the nosebleed. Usually it can be stopped by pinching the nostrils together for a few minutes to help clot the blood.

To avoid sunstroke, take salt tablets and wear a light hat. A sunstroke victim has a red face, hot dry skin, and a high fever. Keep him in a prone position with head raised. Apply ice bags or cold cloths to reduce the temperature.

How to handle these emergencies—and many others—is concisely covered in a new edition of "The Traveler's Health Handbook," an illustrated booklet by Henry Milo. Traveling or not, you can obtain a free copy by sending a postcard to Educational Services Department, Chas. Pfizer & Co., Inc., 800 Second Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. It tells you how to cope with almost every minor health problem you're likely to encounter far from home or in your own backyard.

PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

The knowledge of the finer arts in fishing is many times the difference between a successful trip and one that is not so successful. Getting an education in the ways of catching fish sometimes comes about quite accidentally. For example, last week Dr. Henry Hamra was fishing in a private pond, together with friends, when he cast his plug (an eel) into an open hole on the lake. The reel backlashed and it was some time before Dr. Hamra got the line straightened out. The plug had settled to the bottom of the lake for a minute or so before it was reeled in.

Just as soon as the plug was moved from the original casting location, a 1/2 pound bass connected and was landed. The next time Dr. Hamra cast out, he deliberately gave the plug time to settle to the bottom and then moved it an inch or so. Wham! Another 3/4 pounder was landed. Altogether, five bass were caught from the same place in the lake by the same method. Usually Dr. Hamra and practically all of the other fishermen cast the lure out and reel it in, quickly.

It wasn't but a few minutes until all of the fishermen on this particular outing were using the same modus operandi and the trip produced something like 40 pounds of black bass for the four fishermen.

H. W. Shidham and H. A. Shipley returned recently from Lake Marvin with 30 bass that weighed from one to four pounds. Two of the 30 weighed four pounds. Mr. Shidham and friend were employing the inner tube method and were using spincast reels. They were using a new lure called "Heddon's Dying Fluter." This lure is very similar to the "Devil's Horse" but has a spinner at the front as well as the back of the plug. Mr. Shidham also said that they fished parts of two days. The first day they began fishing at 6:30 p. m. and fished until 9:00. The next morning they fished from 5:15 a. m. until 1:30 p. m.

These two expert fishermen are the two that I referred to a year or ago who always brought fish home with them. They have fished Lake Marvin enough to know all the tricks about catching fish.

Top water lures are usually the best to use this time of the summer. Night fishing, especially in clear lakes, will produce the best results, according to latest reports.

Norrel Wallace, wildlife biologist, and Lake Black, flying game warden, recently completed an aerial survey of deer and turkey in the eastern part of the Panhandle. They put in 17 hours of flying time and covered a large part of the game areas east of Highway 70. The Washita and Canadian Rivers, plus Gageby Creek, made up the largest part of the survey.

During much of the flying time visibility was very poor; however, these two fellows tabulated 990 turkeys and 516 deer. This is the first time in history that an aerial survey has been made with the idea in mind of calculating the deer and turkey in this part of the state. Mr. Wallace stated that the flying time allotted was very inadequate and just an initial start on what would take place in years to come. "This survey was to get our feet wet for a better and longer survey next year. We should be able to get an excellent count by using this method," he said.

About a quarter of a mile on each side of these streams was all that was observed. There is a considerable amount of game from Highway 70 west, including Roberts and Hutchinson counties. One calculation that Mr. Wallace made was that there was an adequate amount of bucks per number of does and also an adequate amount of strutting turkey gobblers for the number of turkey hens. He also surmised that it might be practical to increase the yearly kill as a result of the survey.

By using this method in the future, wildlife technicians will be able to make a fairly accurate count of the total amount of game on the range during the summer and be in a better position to recommend hunting regulations that will coincide with the amount of game to be harvested, thus adding to the hunter's sporting pleasure and success.

IT'S THE LAW In Texas

Declaration of Independence Basic American Principle

What do we mean when we say that in the United States we have a "government of law" and not a "government of men"? Basically we mean that we have certain individual rights guaranteed by our federal and state constitutions and laws, which may not be denied by any governing body.

The early American colonists had their fill of government by men, and the Declaration of Independence, signed 182 years ago, set out their complaints against that type of government and revealed their belief in a principle which we now accept as basic to our American way of life.

The indictments set out in the document against King George III of Great Britain charged him with numerous violations of that principle. Among the complaints enumerated are the following:

- "He has dissolved representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people."
- "He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws establishing judiciary powers."
- "He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries."
- "He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."
- "He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation. . . . For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses; For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments; For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever."

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revolutionary War followed, through weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles.

In 1787 when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously they set to work to create a system of checks and balances in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of the earth's document:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

"That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Some five years later, the first ten amendments to our Constitution—officially detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence.

Our courts day by day guard these rights for us.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS
By BOYCE HOUSE

A year or two ago Uvalde celebrated its hundredth birthday and I was invited back as a "prominent former citizen." (I had attended the fifth grade there.) In fact, the committee invited me to make the principal address at the high school reunion—with H. B. Zachary, the owner of San Antonio's vast Transit Tower (formerly the Smith-Young Building) as a five-minute speaker. An advantage of being up at first. That really was a case of the front of a parade—if you of poor casting, as they would say in theatrical language for he should have been the headliner.

But downright embarrassing was taking part in the parade. Former Vice President John N. Garner, wearing an old-time duster, was in the lead in a horse-drawn coach with the top down; then came a car with Lt. Gen. J. H. Collier, Major, Gen. William D. Old and Lt. Col. Malcolm Treadwell, historian of the Waco—all of these celebrities being former Uvaldeans; and then in the No. 2 car sat "I Give You Texas." (I hope that Harry Herby will publish this in the Uvalde Leader-News for the record so the several thousand viewers will know who that fellow was.

The town has wide streets and many trees and you can hear the doves cooing. Around the plaza are the courthouse, the post office and the city hall, each in a square.

The corner where my father's bowling alley (actually the game was boxball) stood in 1908 has a filling station now. But I recognized several landmarks—the Opera House where I attended several shows and the baseball park where a mind-reader (blindfolded and driving a spirited team to a buggy) found a key which opened a lock-box which contained a ring which had been hidden—(which sentence probably holds the world's record for "whichs").

I was glad I returned for Uvalde's centennial. And they promised to invite me back for the next celebration, 100 years later.

Figure Fashions by Boby White

Shape up to the chemise with Formit's new rounded "Romance" bra of nylon taffeta and lace. The new "Skippies" pantie of nylon power net has satin elastic front and back panels and reinforced side panels to control curves where it counts.

Whether you choose to wear the chemise or not, you are going to feel its influence in your wardrobe this Spring and Summer. The new shape is available in all price ranges and in many forms—one of which may be just for you.

The chemise in all its variations calls for a high, gently rounded bosom and firmly controlled hips in order to maintain its lean, free look. The new kind of figuring you'll need is provided in Formit's Spring collection of underfashions.

Perfect understudy for the chemise is their new series of "Romance" bras with circle-stitched princess line cups to lift and round the bosom.

One of the prettiest in the group is a nylon taffeta bandeau, style #565, with delicate-looking nylon lace cups. A two-inch elastic band beneath the cups gives flexible fit and complete comfort.

Specially designed to whittle your curves under the narrow-skirted chemise is a new longer-than-usual "Skippies" pantie girdle, style #573, of nylon power net with controlling satin elastic front and back panels. A long diamond-shaped panel of doubled power net runs down each side to taper the side hip and thigh. The waistline is slightly dipped in front for extra comfort.

If you prefer girdles to panties, there is a girdle mate to this pantie in the same sizes—small, medium, large and extra large.

Interior Modes... by Reno

Furniture influence is strong in this new high-style lavatory-vanity by American-Standard. The gleaming china top combines counter surface and basin in a single unit, without a crevice or joint to catch dirt or mar its smooth beauty. Below, the twin-door cabinet—on tapered, brass-tipped legs—provides much-needed storage space for towels, cleansers and cosmetics. Cleaning is easy—wiping with a damp cloth is enough to make the china top and satin-chrome faucets sparkle. The top comes in white and eight decorator colors; the cabinet is finished in neutral beige. Doors are equipped with magnetic catches and a special two-drawer cosmetic unit is available.

GRAY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

By JIM SMATHERS

John Winters of Kingsmill has signed the first Great Plains Conservation program contract with the Gray County Soil Conservation District.

Winters is the owner and operator of some ranch land about 10 miles southeast of Pampa. He has worked out a complete conservation plan for his place. He plans to carry this plan to completion during the next three years.

Winters will use assistance from the Great Plains Conservation program for a livestock water dam and for some cross fencing. These practices are needed on the place in order to get better grazing distribution.

Proper use of the native grasses will be practiced so as to improve and maintain the better grasses. Also a system of deferred grazing will be carried out after the construction of the cross fencing.

Winters has been improving this place since he took possession two years ago. He can now carry out his plans.

G. W. Schaffer, 23 miles south of Pampa, has also submitted a conservation plan for approval under the Great Plains Conservation program.

Genuine benevolence is not stationary, but peripatetic; it goes about doing good.—William Nevins.

Fountain of Freedoms...a Free Press

THE history of the press, since its development five centuries ago, has been a history of restraint. It is natural for men in authority to resent the sting of criticism. It is human for them to be ambitious, and to seek to entrench themselves. Hence rulers often avoid criticism and disagreement by stifling it. But the courageous men who founded this new nation sought here full freedom for each individual. When they established a constitution, aware of the human frailty even of rulers elected from among them, their First Amendment provided that "Congress shall make no law...abridging the freedom of speech and of the press..." With the widespread education and enlightenment that resulted, the people here have advanced farther toward all freedoms than the people of any other nation. The beacon of this Western World, marks for all nations the start of the path to Freedoms: Freedom of Speech and of the Press.
