Members of the 337th Engineer Detachment (Util.) arrived in Fort Hood Sunday, July 27, for their two weeks of annual unit training. Travel to camp was made by the unit by chartered bus, two government vehicles, and some of the men brought their private cars.

Since the unit is a Utility Detachment, their work consists of primarily construction work for permanently building up the fort. The bunker, better known as "Operation Skunkbunker," is of concrete construction and will be covered with earth upon completion.

The 337th has had many inspections from other members of the 466th Engineer Brigade, to which the detachment is attached, as well as visiting dignitaries, which includes several high ranking officers. Some of the inspections made were by Commanding General of the Military District of Texas, Commanding General of Fort Hood, the Fourth Army Engineer from Austin, the Commanding General of the 466th Eng. Callahan, the 337th Detachment Commander, has expressed himself to members of the unit as having a feeling of great pride in the unit. The 337th is doing a much more than satisfactory job in their construction work and combat type training.

'58 Gridsters Prepare For Practices

Think the weather is hot? Yes, it is, but before you know it, football season will be here and it will be sport coat weather.

Some of McLean's gridsters are taking advantage of the warm weather by running and trying to get in shape each evening at the football stadium. The Tigers will have just one week of formal workouts before their first game, Sept. 5 with Shamrock.

That's not a lot of time to get in shape, learn plays and get defenses worked up, so some of the players are trying to work off some overweightness and harden muscles by running.

Not all of the team has shown up for running yet, however, and those who are working out are beginning to wonder where the rest of their teammates are, the McLean News hears.

The Tigers will face some tough opposition this fall, but Coach Jack Riley figures to improve on last year's record. The people of McLean, Coach Riley figures, will have something to root for win, lose or draw, because his charges will be "getting after them" in every game.

Housing Survey Now Underway Results To Determine Total Number Of Units

Bill Reeves, chairman of the Housing Authority of the City of McLean has announced that the Authority is conducting a housing survey in McLean to obtain information necessary for planning a local program of low-rent housing. During the next few days, Reeves said, representatives of the Authority will interview residents in certain areas to obtain facts about the dwellings and the families living in them. This information will be used to determine how many dwellings to plan, what sizes, and the income limits for eligibility. All information furnished by persons interviewed will be kept strictly confidential and will not be used for any other purpose.

The following persons have been appointed as interviewers: Mrs. Elmo Whaley, Mrs. R. L. McDonald and Mrs. Miro Pagan.

Reeves stressed the importance of the survey to the success of the local housing program and urged that residents cooperate with the interviewers to insure accurate survey results. The interview does not constitute an application for admission to low-rent housing, but all interested families who believe they are eligible will be given an opportunity to apply shortly before any such housing is ready for occupancy.

LUMPS FROM APIS MELLIFERA

Most people avoid bees—for obvious reasons. Rheumatism sufferers of old, however, tried to get stung. They thought bee stings were an effective treatment for rheumatism. Now most of us prefer the more reliable—and painless—remedies of today. Thanks to medical science we have many safe, fast-acting pain relievers. Other powerful drugs, too. When you're ill, take advantage of these newer medications—but only upon the advice of your physician. Then let us render complete prescription service.

The wholesale return of DL applications is brought on by the omission of a number of factors that must be included for the proper identification of the person desiring to renew his driver license. The department reported that it must have the full name of the individual, the person's birth date and current address.

The number of the old license is a quick means of identification. Most of the information needed is already included on the renewal notice that is sent by the department to the motorist prior to the expiration of his license. A space is provided for that license owner to change his address.

H. C. Smith, manager of the DPS License Issuance and Driver Record section reports that most of the difficulty comes when a person applies for renewal without returning a renewal notice. In this type of renewal application the individual simply writes a letter and includes the fee.

Insufficient information in renewal applications received by the Texas DPS sets up a chain reaction of processes for identification of the individual asking for a new license. But in many instances the search is hopeless.

When a man gives the name of A. B. Smith in his personal application, file clerks of the Driver License service of the state police organization set to work in an attempt to identify the individual by birth date, address, or other information contained in his permanent file. However, if all identifying information does not correspond, the application must be returned to the individual.

You can imagine the task that awaits a DL clerk who must search through a file that contains more than five-million individual records, and more specifically, to look for the name of A. B. Smith in 35 trays with each containing 700 personal record files. There are 36,400 files in the department's massive record system bearing the name of Smith.

In order that it may improve its service of renewing licenses with a minimum delay to motorists, the Texas Department of Public Safety asks that you give complete information.

A woman should give her date of birth, all given names, and her surname and previous married names.

A man should give his date of birth, first name, middle name and surname.

If you have changed address clearly indicate the proper address. And it always helps to list the number of your old license. That number belongs to you and will be on all licenses issued to you.

Texas driver licenses are issued for a two year period and expire on the date given on the face of the license. The fee for an operator's license is $2.00, a commercial operator's license is $4.00.

The Texas DPS asks that you check the expiration date of your current license and renew it in time—before you discover you are driving without a valid license. And in making application for renewal, include complete information. Correct, complete information on your renewal will result in a more rapid return of your Texas driver license.

Pork and Pineapple Combine in Special Burgers

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

These new pineapple and pork burgers are for the picnic or the home teen-age party.

The meat combination can be prepared ahead of time. Use a handy hamburger press to shape meat to fit the bakers buns. Incidentally, warm the buns before making the burgers.

Pineapple-Pork Burgers (10 burgers)

Two cups (1 pound) ground pork, 1 cup crushed pineapple, not drained, 1/2 cup fine, dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 10 sliced sandwich buns, heated.

Combine pork, pineapple, dry bread crumbs, salt and cinnamon. Form mixture into 10 patties, using 1/2 cup pork for each patty in the hamburger press. Place foil between layers of meat patties and stack in a covered pan. Refrigerate until ready to use. Brown on both sides in a skillet until well done. Serve in heated buns.

The combination of sausage and lima beans is interesting, too.

Lima Bean Sausage Casserole (4 servings)

One-half pound sausage meat, 1 teaspoon gravy browned, 1/2 cup finely diced onion, 1 clove garlic, minced; 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 2 pounds lima beans or 2 10-ounce packages quick frozen limas. Place sausage meat in skillet over moderate heat. Sprinkle with gravy browned and cook until meat is browned and crumbled, stirring occasionally to break meat up into small pieces. Add onion and garlic and cook, stirring frequently until barely tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce. Add shell or thawed lima beans. Cover and cook over low heat until beans are tender, about 20 minutes. Serve for lunch or as main course for dinner.

A pork-pineapple blend for picnic burger will make that day in the country an especially memorable one.

OIL IN THE GROUND
 The conservation principle of leaving oil in the ground until it is needed has lately been coming under attack as being merely price-fixing in disguise. Actually, restricting oil production to market demand has long been recognized by most authorities as essential to an effective conservation program.

In the earliest days of petroleum production, ignorance of the nature of oil reservoirs prompted the adoption of a legal concept known as the Law of Capture. This gave you neighbor the right to produce as much oil as he could from wells on his property, regardless of the fact that the oil was coming from under your land. So everyone drilled as many wells as he could and produced as much oil as he could—before his neighbor captured it—without any regard to availability of markets. Staggering wastes resulted.

Production in excess of market demand causes physical waste above ground—from seepage and leakage, fire and disaster, overflowing and evaporation. Worse, it can contribute to the irretrievable loss of oil below ground—through unwise dissipation of reservoir pressures.

Oil production geared to market demand insures the protection of correlative rights, fair sharing of available markets, and contributes toward a sound and healthy industry capable of meeting consumers' needs and with substantial reserve producing capacity for national emergencies.

The ill-founded attacks on the market demand laws must stem from a lack of knowledge of a workable and court-tested conservation measure.

MEN WHO KNOW FARMING BEST
 Many non-farm people undoubtedly think that practically all farmers are in favor of farm subsidies and the government's other aids to agriculture.

However, as the New York Herald Tribune observes editorially: "The men who know farming best are not nearly as keen for federal subsidies as the farm-bloc congressmen are."

This view was prompted by a poll which Farm Journal, the leading farm monthly, conducted among its readers. It found that half of the American farmers want the government to get entirely out of agriculture—"lock, stock and subsidy." And another 11% want "no government aid than at present."

This is not so surprising as it may seem to some. For one thing, the subsidies are limited to the six so-called basic crops. Many farmers get no aid at all. The subsidy program has been of greatest financial benefit to the big corporation-type farms, rather than the family farms.

For another, over the years some of the most successful crops have been produced and sold strictly in a free supply and demand market. Meat is the outstanding example. It is the largest source of cash to farmers by far. It can be produced on farms in all parts of the country, and of every size. The livestock producers have had plenty of downs as well as ups, but they have always opposed government control, subsidy and intervention. And, all in all, season in and season out, they have done well, not only in money, but in keeping their freedom and independence.

OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE
 The following reply by the president of the Socony Mobil Oil Company to a shareholder who wired the company he "would rather never get another cent from Socony than have our government intervene with force in Iraq to protect American oil interests," is also a statement to every citizen of the United States. He said:

"You show commendable spirit in your desire to see what you consider to be the national interest ahead of your private interest as a shareholder in a company."

... consider the interests of the whole United States, as well as the interests of the people of the free world, to be of paramount importance. When our company first went into business more than 20 years ago, it was as a private business organization. We invested the capital of our owners in the development of the oil resources of that country. We didn't then ask the American government to intervene with Iraq in our behalf. We never expect or want American armed forces to bail out our private investments. Whatever action the American government takes should be based on our national interests, and only on our national interests, however broadly they may be interpreted. . . . We hope that the self-interest of the Iraqi people will lead them to maintain a government which will support the rule of law of civilized nations."

The work of this session of Congress has resulted in a record of productivity that compares favorably with the record of any Congressional session in our history. As this is written, there are still important measures to be enacted before adjournment of government.

In the field of national security, as I pointed out in my News Letter last week, Congress took definite steps to strengthen our defenses and to improve our position in the Space Age.

Also, we met the threat of economic recession with a series of legislative measures prudently designed to combat the slump in business and to provide jobs for people who need them.

Effects of much of the legislation enacted during the last seven months will be felt for years to come. Space does not permit the listing of all the important bills passed, or even of most of them. But among the outstanding ones are these: 1. Resolutions calling for speeding up on previously authorized military construction and public works projects.

2. A new highway bill setting up a program to bring better roads to all our people and provide many, many jobs. 3. The biggest health research program in history. 4. Extension of unemployment compensation—a lifesaver for people who had been laid off from their jobs. 5. A housing bill to stimulate home building. Its good economic effects already are being felt throughout the country. 6. We authorized construction of a long list of water control and conservation projects in Texas. 7. The Senate passed, and I hope the House Representatives will approve, a farm bill of great importance to Texas cotton and rice producers, to wool producers, and to other farmers. 8. A bill creating a permanent Small Business Administration with greater lending authority and lower interest rates. 9. A bill to save the country's railroads from bankruptcy. When Will Congress Adjourn?

Guesses are plentiful, but no one knows the exact date. There is still work to be done. Action remains to be completed on proposed legislation of importance.

These past seven months have been all business so far as Congress is concerned. The concluding days or weeks of the session may be expected to follow the pattern that has been set. That means we will be working right up to the hour of adjournment, on matters affecting the well-being of the American people.

That is precisely as it should be.

VETERANS INFORMATION

Q—If I go back into service will I be covered by the free $10,000 indemnity, as was the case three years ago when I was in the armed forces? I am currently holding a GI term insurance policy and am wondering if I should drop it.

A—Free insurance coverage for men in the armed forces came to an end in January, 1957. You will NOT be covered by any free indemnity, if you re-enter military service. Do not drop your GI term insurance in the belief you will be covered by free insurance.

Q—I plan to attend school this fall, under the Korean GI bill. Who pays the school tuition bills and other fees—the VA or the veteran?

A—You the veteran. You will receive an allowance each month from the VA. VA will not pay for tuition and fees separately to the school. With the help of the allowance, you must meet all your own training expenses.

Q—I am a peacetime veteran receiving compensation for a service-aggravated disability that now needs treatment. Am I eligible for out-patient medical treatment from the VA?

A—Yes, as long as the disability for which you are receiving compensation is service-connected and requires treatment, you would be eligible. For authorization of treatment apply to any VA office.

Q—I am negotiating with a lender for a GI home loan. How can I be sure that real estate taxes which have been estimated for me are accurate? If the estimates turn out to be too low I might have difficulty making my payments on the higher taxes.

A—Reputable lenders and builders will of course make every effort to see that tax estimates furnished are reasonably accurate. Where exact amounts of real estate taxes and assessments are not available, accurate estimates may be obtained by checking with local taxing authorities or by comparing nearby properties.

From the State Capitol HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS
 By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas Legislative Budget Board is somewhat in the position of the harassed husband who's struggling with a stack of unpaid bills when his wife announces the children all need new shoes.

Budget Board works out a recommended state spending plan in advance of each regular legislative session. This year, to make "ends meet," the Board will have to stretch a shorter rope over more territory.

Briefly, the horns of the dilemma are these:
 Horn 1. For the next biennium state agencies have turned in requests to the Budget Board for $368,000,000 more than they received for the current two-year appropriation period.

Horn 2. Official predictions indicate the state is far from having enough money to grant increases. Instead, it may start the next two-year fiscal period 100,000,000 short of enough money just to maintain the present level of spending.

That leaves a potential gap of some $468,000,000 between the two horns—money requests and money in sight. For the next Legislature it's a half-billion-dollar headache.

As far as can be seen, closing the gap would involve either (1) sharp cuts in state spending, (2) enactment of a fair-sized new tax or (3) letting the state government go into debt.

None of these courses likely would be either painless or popular. Third possibility is virtually prohibited by the Constitution which says no appropriation in excess of revenue in sight can be passed "save in the case of emergency and imperative public necessity and with a four-fifths vote of the total membership of each house."

In the past the Budget Board has limited its spending recommendations to foreseeable revenue under existing tax laws. Making up the board are the lieutenant governor, speaker of the house and eight other legislators.

MORE HERE, MORE THERE
 —How did new money requests get up to $368,000,000 when the present state budget is at an all-time high of more than $2,000,000,000?

Big figure result: from a lot of requests from a lot of state departments and institutions. Examples:
 State colleges, faced with increasing enrollments, want $49,000,000 more.

State Water Board, charged with a stepped-up water conservation planning program, asked for a nearly doubled appropriation of $3,966,180.

Hospitals and special schools asked for a 31.5 per cent increase, up to $114,000,000.

State Youth Council asked substantial increases for the facilities it operates including a 99.5 per cent increase (to $4,745,925) for the severely overcrowded Gatesville School for Boys.

"HOW MUCH" LABELS—Budget Board has proposed enactment of a "price tag" procedure to help lawmakers keep track of just how much each measure they consider would cost.

Suggested bill would require that each spending bill be accompanied by an itemized list (with prices) of the expenditures it would involve.

It was seen as a means of keeping a tighter check on the tax dollar.

MORE TIME FOR TEACHING
 —Giving teachers fewer extra chores and more time to teach, has been suggested as a means to relieve the shortage of qualified instructors.

Texas Education Agency conducted a survey on ways to make better use of existing teachers and school buildings. Resulting report noted the many miscellaneous tasks that fall to teachers—keeping up with lunch money, football tickets and charity drives; sponsoring athletic events and special programs; keeping extensive records. Use of teaching aides and secretaries was suggested to free teachers to concentrate on class work.

In regard to building use, the report suggested consideration of a longer school year, a longer school day and greater use of special purpose rooms such as laboratories, shops, homemaking departments, etc.

FRESH START—After months of upheaval and discussion, the State Insurance Liquidator's office is reorganized and off to a new start.

C. H. Langdeau, newly appointed liquidator, has announced the names of nine attorneys who will make up his legal staff.

They are Cecil C. Rotsch, general counsel, John R. Grace, Clay Gotten, V. F. Taylor, Horace Wimberly Art M. LaCroix, J. C. Thomas, William Colburn and Hoyt Cole.

Missing from the scene will be Penne Alfred Jr. who had been appointed by Dist Judge Charles O. Betts as receiver for all insurance liquidation cases in his court. Betts had refused to accept Langdeau as receiver. Langdeau was appointed by Insurance Commissioner William A. Harrison.

Situation was resolved when the State Supreme Court ruled that Betts must accept Langdeau.

Langdeau said his staff would have to do extensive investigating before deciding whether to pursue a $15,000,000 damage suit Alfred had filed in connection with the ICT bankruptcy. Suit charges some 54 different corporations, including some famed names in the financial world, with having some responsibility for the building up of a fraudulent enterprise.

MORE MONEY FOR FARMERS—An overall increase of 3 per cent in Texas farm prices is reported by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Principal gain came in higher prices for new-season cotton, hogs, beef cattle and calves. Slight gains were shown for corn, oats, barley, hay and potatoes. Dairy products, poultry and eggs registered a seasonal increase.

On the minus side, lower prices were reported for cottonseed, vegetables, food grains, lambs and sheep.

Texas 1958 calf crop is expected to total 3,919,000 head, a 5 per cent increase from last year.

"Complete Meals

from "extra" food made possible with my food freezer!"

says Mrs. Marvin Shurbet, PETERSBURG, TEXAS

What housewife can always measure exactly how much of each food her family will eat? Even the most exacting woman will occasionally have vegetables, meats and desserts "leftover." It's a shame to throw good food away and no one really likes to do that. Well, Mrs. Shurbet has solved that problem. Here's what she says: "When I cook more than my family eats at a meal, I put remaining servings on foil, divided plates, seal in SARAN WRAP, and store in my food freezer. If additional portions are needed to make complete dinners, I simply add them from various meals."

its threat had not a bill been introduced that stopped them from doing this. This action, however, only served to delay the matter for a few months.

The bill was up for debate last week, and the House amended it so that the government agency is required to sell the land at present prevailing prices. The former owners, although having first opportunity to buy, are denied the right to repurchase at the price they received. The government, in effect, has sold to these people, who are kicked off their land involuntarily, that even though the government does not use the land for public purposes the individual is nothing more than a cog in the wheel of the state; that compassion or emotion has no place in the operation of a government, and that the rights of individuals have become absorbed in satisfying the whims and demands of big government advocates and bureaucrats. The fact that the man who lost the land had to pay income taxes on what he received from the federal government is not taken into consideration. The fact that it costs a man quite a bit of money to move is not taken into consideration. The fact that money is required to re-establish a home in a strange locality is not taken into consideration. The relationship between the individual and the land upon which he was raised and which was, perhaps, owned by his family before him for many generations, is cast aside and not taken into consideration. The memories of a mother of the family of land, and the emotional feeling which she must have, are held for naught. It was argued on the floor of the House in the debate that human beings, who are Members of Congress, cannot and must not yield in the least to the compassion they might feel for some person under these circumstances. In other words, we as members of Congress, must yield to big government—big government that takes over and destroys the rights of the individual; that places the state above the man of which it is made, and adopt the philosophy that the state is all powerful and is not the creature of man, but that man is the creature and servant of the state, and that members of Congress must incur themselves in a case-hardened coat through which the normal emotions of man must not be allowed to penetrate.

Congressman Rogers Reports—

TO THE PEOPLE

BIG GOVERNMENT

There have been complaints for many years about the government in Washington getting too big. Last week, the Congress had a good taste of what happens to the individual when government becomes too centralized and too concentrated. The House, in effect, denied to an individual, from whom the government had taken real property under condemnation proceedings, the right to recover that property for the same price which he received from the government, even though the government did not use the property for public purposes. As an isolated transaction, this did not register too deeply with many people, but it could have the most serious repercussions if such a policy is continuously followed in the future as it has been in the past five years.

The government has the right, regardless of the Constitution or statutory law, to take your property for public purposes. This right, however, is supposedly controlled by provisions in the Constitution and statutes limiting this right on the part of the government only to those cases where the property is needed for public use and where the owner receives just compensation. The particular matter before the House of Representatives last week concerned an airport site which was selected by the Department of Commerce. A number of the landowners, mostly families holding only a few acres, were called upon to get off the land because the government needed it for a public purpose to wit, an airport. Some sixty-odd landowners, reconciled to the fact that they had no defense against such a proceeding, settled with the government and moved off the land, giving up their homes which had been occupied by some of them for many, many years. This was in the early 1950's. The government acquired only a part of the land included in the original project, because it was soon determined that someone had made a mistake and that the chosen site would not be satisfactory. The government, however, continued to hold the several parcels of land it had acquired for some seven years, although some of the former owners had tried to get it back. This land was finally declared surplus by the government and turned over to another agency to be sold to the highest bidder. The former owners came in and asked that they be allowed to repurchase the land at the price which had been forced upon them when they were forced to sell the land and move off. The government agency simply told them that they would not consider the matter, but that the land had to be appraised and sold at whatever its value might be at the present time, either by negotiated sale or by public auction. This government

This may be the philosophy of some, and God forbid it may become the philosophy of this country, but as for me, I shall never subscribe to it. When the time comes in this country that they are willing to deny the individual his inherent rights on the basis of fair play and honesty, the dignity of man will be lost as will the concepts of the government which was entrusted to us by our forebears.

IT HAPPENED HERE

Taken from the Files of The McLean News, 1918

From Grandma Rogers

Yellville, Arkansas
I thought I would tell my many friends of my delightful trip here, visiting Charlie Rogers and R. M. Stone's families. This is the cleanest country I ever saw, there is no wind or dust at all. The yards are lovely, covered with blue grass and clover. There is a solid shade overhead with sycamore trees, tho' I don't think that any of them are the one that Zachaeus climbed up in; some of them look high enough for it, they are so tall as they have been here a long time. We have lots of rain in this country, fine gardens, fine crops with what there is of them. The farms here are from 5 acres to 100, but the latter are only in the valley of Crookton Creek and White River. The corn now is as high as a man's head, and a tall man at that.

We all went huckleberry hunting the other day eight miles in the mountains in the truck. It looked like we had come to the jumping off place, but we found lots of huckleberries.

Now I will tell you about the good part. We ran a week of union prayer meeting with all denominations. When the evangelist came with his tent, the first night of his meeting he told the people he didn't want any excitement and wanted everybody to use common sense and decency in worshipping God. He was a fine preacher and it seemed like everybody was interested in hearing him. He preached 26 sermons. I have heard 40 since I have been in Yellville, so you see the good Lord is still blessing me with good preaching.

There are going to be about 500 newspaper men here on what is known as the "Editorial Convention," the 13th. These men represent all the important newspapers in the United States and there are over 50,000,000 people who read their paper. They will come through in a special train and will be served a squirrel supper, on account of which they are known as the "Squirrel Head Editors."

They will have a big write up in their papers about this mining district and it is thought that it will draw untold attention to this rich mining district and result in this becoming one of the most noted mining districts in the United States.

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

Division of Estate Explained
The death of an intestate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate. In the preceding column we investigated the manner of dividing the community estate upon the death of a husband or wife. Now we shall see that, where separate property is involved, a completely different set of rules applies in determining heirship and apportioning the estate among the rightful claimants.

It may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Now, here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

The rule for distributing personal property—cash, stocks, bonds, furniture, or any other items not constituting real estate—is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third, and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. In this case the surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the survivor obtains full title to one-half, and the other half is divided between your mother and father, if both survive you. If only one of them survives, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive. If there are no surviving brothers and sisters and their descendants, then the one surviving parent inherits the full one-half.

Where no parent survives, but there are brothers and sisters and descendants, the full one-half is divided among these survivors.

And, if there are no parents of brothers and sisters (and their descendants) surviving, then the surviving husband or wife inherits all of the real estate.

Old-age, survivors, and disability insurance benefits are being paid in the Texas Panhandle at the rate of $8,019,024 a year, according to John R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo Social Security district office. "This is an increase of about 35% over last year," Sanderson said. Payments to a retired worker average about $65 per month, Sanderson said. The average for a widow with two young children is $145. The maximum payment for a retired couple is $162.80 a month, and the maximum for a family is $200. "There were several reasons for the increase in benefits over last year," Sanderson said. One was the payment of benefits to people who were brought under the law for the first time in recent years—self-employed farmers, for example. Other reasons for the increase were the reduction in the retirement age to 62 for women and the starting of disability insurance benefits to disabled people 50 or over.

The table below shows the number and amount of each type of benefit being paid in Texas: Retired worker—210,266 beneficiaries, $12,214,700 total payments. Wife or Husband—70,345 beneficiaries, $2,102,100 total payments.

A Home Rule City may provide by charter or ordinance a general law city operating under the general laws may provide by majority vote of the qualified voters voting at an election called for that purpose, for a longer term of office than two (2) years for its officers, both elective or appointive, or both, but not to exceed four (4) years; provided, however, that tenure under Civil Service shall not be affected hereby. "Provided, however, if any of such officers, elective or appointive, shall announce their candidacy or shall in fact become a candidate, in any general or primary election, for any office of profit or trust under the laws of the State or the United States other than the office then held, at the time when the unexpired term of the office then held shall exceed one year, such announcement or such candidacy shall constitute an automatic resignation of the office then held, and the vacancy thereby created shall be filled pursuant to law in the same manner as other vacancies for such office are filled. "A municipality as providing a term exceeding two (2) years but not exceeding four (4) years for any of its non-civil service officers must elect all of the members of its governing body by majority vote of the qualified voters in such municipality, and any vacancy or vacancies occurring in such governing body shall not be filled by appointment but must be filled by majority vote of the qualified voters at a special election called for such purpose within one hundred and twenty (120) days after such vacancy or vacancies occur." "Section 2. Any Home Rule City providing by charter or ordinance a general law city operating under the general laws may provide by majority vote of the qualified voters voting at an election called for that purpose, for a longer term of office than two (2) years for its officers, both elective or appointive, or both, but not to exceed four (4) years; provided, however, that tenure under Civil Service shall not be affected hereby. And providing for automatic resignation when such officers become a candidate for election to another office and providing for the filling of vacancies occurring in such governing body by special election." "AGAINST the Constitutional Amendment providing that a Home Rule City may provide by charter or ordinance a general law city operating under the general laws may provide by majority vote of the qualified voters voting at an election called for that purpose, for a longer term of office than two (2) years for its officers, both elective or appointive, or both, but not to exceed four (4) years; provided, however, that tenure under Civil Service shall not be affected hereby. And providing for automatic resignation when such officers become a candidate for election to another office and providing for the filling of vacancies occurring in such governing body by special election." Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT THE GENERAL ELECTION ON NOVEMBER 4, 1958.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 4, 1958.
SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 3 proposing an amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 5, to provide that the Legislature may authorize the creation of a Hospital District, coextensive with the incorporated limits of the City of Amarillo, Texas; authorizing the County of Potter to render financial aid to and participate in the operation of such Hospital District; authorizing the Commissioners Court of said county to assess and levy taxes on property outside the incorporated limits of such city; further authorizing a county-wide Hospital District for Wichita County, Texas, and authorizing the creation of two districts in Jefferson County, and further providing that any enabling Act shall not be invalid because of their anticipatory character. "BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: "Section 1. That Article IX of the Constitution of the State of Texas be, and the same is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be designated as Section 5, which shall read as follows: "Section 5 (a). The Legislature may by law authorize the creation of two hospital districts, one to be coextensive with and have the same boundaries as the incorporated City of Amarillo, as such boundaries now exist or as they may hereafter be lawfully extended, and the other to be coextensive with Wichita County. "If such district or districts are created, they may be authorized to levy a tax not to exceed seventy-five cents ($75) on the One Hundred Dollars ($100) valuation of taxable property within the district provided, however, no tax shall be levied until approved by a majority vote of the participating resident qualified property taxpayers who have duly rendered their property for taxation. The maximum rate of tax may be changed at subsequent elections as long as obligations are not impaired, and not to exceed the maximum limit of seventy-five cents ($75) on the One Hundred Dollars ($100) valuation, and no election shall be required by subsequent change in the boundaries of the City of Amarillo. "If such tax is authorized, no political subdivision or municipality within or having the same boundaries as the district may levy a tax for medical or hospital care for needy individuals, nor shall they maintain or erect hospital buildings, but the district shall be com-

With all Jacob's evil tendencies and qualities, there was that in him on which something substantial could be built. This provides the greatest contrast with his brother, Esau.

Good natured, easy going Esau was the more likeable of the two but how could anything stable or permanent be built upon him? He showed little sense of values or capacity for responsibility and was completely weak where Jacob was strong.

This shows what the vision of God may do with men who have positive force and strength, though there may be a great deal wanting in their conduct. Take a man of worldly ambition whose thoughts are taken up with material success and who is willing to exert great energy and undergo privation to get what he wants.

Give that man the vision of something more worthwhile. Above all, let him see God and the standards of success that Christ showed in His life. Then, such a man may become a tremendous power for good. St. Paul is certainly an excellent example.

It has been said that the greatest sinners make the greatest saints. Though this is obviously not always so.

This symbolism has taken hold very strongly in the world's literature and in its religious life. Jacob's Ladder is the typical means of communication between earth and heaven. The vision that Jacob had has become intimately associated with the experience that is possible for every Christian who seeks God's guidance and God's help.

MEET MR. G. OF McLEAN

By Jack Riley, Pastor
McLean Methodist Church

To meet the finest Mr. G. you will need to turn to Luke's writing in the Book of Acts 5:33-42.

This lawyer Gamaliel in comparison to his fellow lawyers was a giant. Measured by the yardstick of Christ he was a grain of sand in the field.

Mr. G. was more highly educated, more cultivated, more talented than the man on trial before his council, Peter. Yet Peter is the reflector of the ways of Christ through all generations and Mr. G. soon lost his glow. There is something in the Jewish "law" which enslaved men rather than saved them, and instead of making them good, made them dull.

However, we cannot overlook Mr. G. and his contribution to the community. His counsel is one of wise restraint. Do not act hastily in disposing of Peter and his companions for reaching the Way of Christ. Let's wait and see what happens, "for if this plan is of men, it will fail; but if it is of God, you will not be able to overthrow them. You might even be found opposing God." Mr. G. could be called the "well-balanced" type. Let's not be quick to judge. He knows how to wait. To the Peter type of personality, the Mr. G. might look like a compromise, the easy way out, do nothing. Mr. G. says, "Give it a chance, wait and see what happens. It may be the way out, if it is not, it will soon collapse. If it is we had better be on the right side."

Mr. G. can be a great stabilizing force to cool the hotheaded Peter type. Peter gets things done while Mr. G. sees that certain things are not done. Peter runs ahead in great movements over roads that Mr. G. has paved. How often are we impatient and hotheaded in our relationship to God. We want things done—rid our lives and community of evil; our nation of prejudice; our world of hatred; let thy kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven. Only to discover that God has said through the Psalmist, "I believe that I shall see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living! Wait for the Lord; be strong, and let your heart take courage; yea, wait for the Lord." Ps. 27:13, 14. And Jesus has said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Jno. 16:33.

There should be room in your heart for a bit of Mr. G. and Mr. P. Look into a mirror, are you wise enough to recognize a Peter or a Gamaliel personality in you? Do you have the courage to make friends with the opposite. This could well be the beginning of the kingdom of God "within" you.

PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

Varmint callers and predator hunters can only oil up their rifles and tune up the calls this time of the year regardless of the amount of coyotes, cats and foxes in the Panhandle during this part of the year. Weeds and vegetation are so high and thick and food so plentiful that predators won't come to a call, and if they did the hunter could not see them through the tall grass and weeds. However, there should be a large crop of cats and coyotes, and predator hunting this fall is expected to be better than it has been the last few winters. John Wade, veteran coyote hunter via the stag and greyhound method, recently said that he caught 78 coyotes in one winter with two hounds. When coyotes get that thick the hunters can really have a heyday. In another year or so the wolf population will hit the peak if there are no Government efforts made to kill them out.

CLIFF SWALLOWS
Each summer from the top part of Texas south at least to Austin there are scores of Cliff Swallows that nest under most of the highway bridges. All four of the concrete bridges that span the Canadian River have furnished nesting sites for this summer visitor. The May issue of the TEXAS GAME AND FISH MAGAZINE has a very interesting article about the habits, etc., of the swallows that frequent Texas. The feature was written by Edgar Kincaid and illustrated with photos by E. P. Haddon.

According to "Architects in Adobe," the title, "A swallow could be defined as a flying insect trap. Foster E. Beal of the United States Department of Agriculture has reported that 377 Cliff Swallows collected from March to September had eaten beetles (113 species), cotton boll weevils (687 individuals in 35 stomachs), chinch bugs, ants, bees, grasshoppers, mosquitoes, dragonflies, may flies, lace-winged flies, and just plain flies.

"So dependent are Cliff Swallows on flying insects that they must disappear before cold grounds most of the bugs. Various kinds of swallows often become extraordinarily conspicuous in late summer and early fall. Thousands of individuals may congregate on telephone wires and in reedy marshes. Then they vanish. Many people used to think these swallows dropped down into the mud to sleep all winter. (More than 60 years ago U. S. Army Surgeon Tiliott Coates compiled a list of 175 books and articles that had been written on swallow hibernation.) Actually Cliff Swallows fly to South America. With two other long-winged species, the Barn Swallow and the Nighthawk (Bullbat), the Cliff Swallow shares the distinction of being the greatest traveler among United States land birds. Some individuals go 7,000 miles from Alaska to the temperate regions of Argentina. "When cold winds usher in the Southern Hemisphere autumn, the visitors start on their return journey through the tropics and back towards North America. Why don't the little birds settle down in the Torrid Zone, where bugs are abundant all year? How do they navigate over thousands of miles of woodland, pasture field, stream, and city without guidance? Science still has not answered these questions satisfactorily."

Lions Thwarted in Try at Wild Sheep Supper

A "hot wire" from a six-volt battery was enough to change the mind of a sheep-hungry mountain lion at the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area in Brewster County, reports E. A. Walker, Director of Wildlife Restoration.

Tom Moore, superintendent of the area told Walker the workers picked up the tracks of a big lion and followed them to the seven-foot fence around the Big Horn Sheep area. Large claw marks on fence braces indicated the big cat had attempted to jump the fence and had hit the hot wire. Hair on the wire and torn up ground were evidence that the electrified wire had paid for itself in protection of the sheep.

The mountain lions evidently have their taste set for mutton. The following morning another lion trying to find its way into the pen was trapped. Foot measurements showed it was not the same animal that got the shock treatment.

The sheep are wild broodstock which have been trapped on the Kofa Range in Arizona and transported to Texas.

IT'S THE LAW In Texas

Who Inherits Property In Absence Of Will?

What will happen if you should die without executing a legal and proper will? Who will inherit your property? Your husband, wife, mother, father, children, wife's relatives? The best way you can say who will have it is to provide a will which will protect your rightful beneficiaries and dispose of your property in accordance with your wishes.

When a deceased has no will, or dies "intestate" as the law calls it, the property of that person is distributed according to a detailed formula fixed by law. In some cases this may be the way you yourself would divide it—but in many cases it is not.

The provisions of the law concerning the distribution of the property of a person who dies without a will are rather complicated, and all of the possibilities cannot be covered by a general statement.

There are different rules for real estate and for personal property, for community property and for separate property, and for all of the many possible combinations of surviving relatives. Each situation must be carefully studied to determine the correct distribution of the property.

For example, here is a general idea of how the community property which you and your spouse have accumulated will be divided if you do not make a will prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and there are no children the surviving spouse receives all of the property. If, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of deceased children, they would divide one-half of the property, while the surviving spouse would receive the other one-half.

Of course, grandchildren do not share in the estate unless their parent who would inherit is deceased. And when descendants of previously deceased children do inherit, they receive only the portion that the child would have received, regardless of the number of such descendants.

An odd note, perhaps, is that the surviving spouse already owns one-half of the community estate prior to your death, and the law adds nothing to this share where there are children surviving.

When there are only children and their descendants surviving, they divide the entire community estate between them.

"Assuming" A Loan You can give some of your rights to other people, for example, the right to collect a bill; but it's a different thing with your duties. You need creditor's OK firmly to assign your debts to another.

You can sell what you own, all right, but you can't shake a debt merely by getting somebody else to promise to pay it for you. Your creditor—who is a party to your contract—has something to say about who takes over your obligations.

Thus, your cousin, say, borrows from you and promises to pay the money back. He can't get out of it by getting his neighbor to say he will pay you for him unless you agree—and this takes a written contract.

Suppose you bought Abel's house on time for $15,000 and led paid off $5,000. Then, with $10,000 left to pay, you get Joe Blow to buy the place.

How could Blow pay you for it?

Well, for Blow it would be just dandy for you to let him take over the $10,000 debt, pay you back your $5,000 equity, and then pay off Abel the rest of your $10,000 debt. Blow would save the cost of a new loan—if his credit was good enough to get one in the first place. So you set it up that way.

One day Blow blew; and you, yes you, hold the bag. True, you could turn over your equity to Blow without Abel's consent.

But your agreement with Blow to pay the balance is not binding on Abel. He can hold you to your original deal. Pay up $10,000.

Don't let someone "assume" your loan unless you protect yourself by an agreement with your lender, or unless you are willing to risk holding the sack.

Your buyer is often a good risk for you to let him assume the loan—but don't do it thinking you are free of your debt.

'COUNTRY PLAYERS' LES CARROLL

Lately there seems to be a trend back to country music of the pre-rock 'n' roll style, with several artists who made big hits in the R & R field again recording with a country beat.

Faron Young's latest, "Every Time I'm Kissing You" is a very pretty ballad that is starting to go places (Capitol) and "City Lights" by Dave Rich (RCA) has an appealing poignant quality. Jim Reeves' "Blue Boy" should keep his name in the hit charts (RCA) and Bobby Helms' "Borrowed Dreams" is a beautifully handled ballad, backed with "Schoolboy Crush," which has lots of appeal for teenagers (Decca).

In the inspirational field, George Jones has a very beautiful recording of "Wandering Soul" (Mercury) and Reno and Smiley capture the old-time gospel flavor with "One More Hill" (Dot). And with rockets and satellites in the news, Bill Franklin has incorporated them into a fine inspirational type number, "That Moon's No Stopping Place for Me" (King).

STRICTLY FRESH

The high cost of living discourages many a divorce.

We don't have to mess with our storm windows this fall. Never took 'em down last spring.

If you can recall the fun you had at an old-fashioned taffy-pulling party you have a remarkable memory for your age.

After getting the picnic lunch ready, mother will be able to tell you why it's called Labor Day.

If you can stall the wife just a little bit longer on that weed-pulling job, they'll show hardly at all under the falling leaves.
