

PLAIN TALK

By BILL PERKINS

If everything goes according to plans, the Lions Club beauty contest tomorrow night at the high school auditorium will provide a lot of entertainment for McLean folks. E. O. Wedgeworth has been working to get the "Basin Street Seven" together in time to be here for an appearance tomorrow night. As we go to press late Wednesday afternoon all indications are that the group will be here, but whether they get here or not, everyone present will get to see the best looking young ladies in town walk across the stage.

The person who always wants the "best buy" always goes thru life getting second choices.

On page three of The News this week is a page that we are very proud to print because each week it brings out the advantages of trading in McLean. The series of pages that we will publish during the next few months was prepared by D. E. Scott of Wellington and he has covered just about every angle to try to convince smalltown residents that "It Pays to Shop Where You Live." Mr. Scott says the page is designed to help everybody . . . except the big city builders . . . who want their cake and ours, too. Mr. Scott said, "I think my pages will help to preserve the American small town way of life . . . by pounding and pounding the vital key . . . the personal dollar interest that every small town citizen has in the life and growth of the town HE lives in. Mr. Scott is the father of Mrs. Jack Dyer of McLean.

One of our friends said after reading a copy of those trade-at-home ads, "It may not make everybody trade in McLean but when they go out of town to buy something that is sold here they will feel so guilty they won't enjoy it."

Some genius would make a fortune if he would contrive a woman's purse with a zipper at the bottom. That's where they always find something.

Mayor Ed Lander has received word from Dr. R. D. Wagoner, a Dallas physician, that he would be in McLean to look over the town and the newly-constructed hospital building, this week-end. Mayor Lander said that he expected to help Dr. Wagoner meet as many local citizens as possible during his stay here Friday and Saturday.

The City of McLean this week is reminding local folks to keep their dogs and chickens up since many people are now planting gardens. The city has also reminded residents that it is unlawful to shoot air rifles in the corporate limits and has urged everyone to clean up, fix up and paint up to improve the appearance of our town. A general clean-up week will be held here a little later, it was indicated.

Patrolman R. C. Parker of McLean has asked cooperation of local auto owners and has said that the patrol will be required to arrest those who do not comply with the law before the deadline.

Neighbors help us to live longer and enjoy it more

Most of the comforts and conveniences that we enjoy today are accessible to us more or less in proportion to the number of people who live near us.

Schools, churches, doctors, electric power, stocks of foods, medicines, and clothing, trained technicians to service our needs, customers for the products of our own labor . . . all of these are ours to enjoy . . . as long as there are enough PEOPLE in the community to support them.

Every dollar that leaves this community helps to move somebody out. Every dollar that is spent here, helps to bring more people in.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND COMMUNITY

As a matter of local pride, each civic leader must be ready to say with the Psalmist, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

The perpetuation of this goodly heritage involves a responsibility, yet civic pride should not be so intense that it blinds leadership to the shortcomings of the community. As a matter of fact, the city may fall far short of its responsibilities to provide for health, comfort, housing, education, recreation and other features of good community life.

To encourage their citizens to know what their city can and should be, and to foster projects to help achieve the goals that are established, Chambers of Commerce engage in civic activities.

As for the complexities of modern living increase, the demand for participation on the Chamber of Commerce in the civic field is intensified.

Some of the reasons for this are:

Creation of a closer relationship between government and business with the enlargement of governmental activities.

A broadening point of view of business men as to what is involved in the field of commerce and industry. They have discovered that their business prosperity depends to an increasing degree upon conditions under control of their local, state and national governments, and that a well-governed, healthy and happy population contributes to their business success.

The realization that this work must be conducted on sound business lines, and that the way to bring this about is to get into these fields through the Chamber of Commerce and help and not stay out and criticize.

A growing appreciation on the part of public officials of the fact that community prosperity and happiness depend upon the prosperity of commerce, industry and business, and vice versa.

The effect of modern conditions upon the community, every element being drawn more closely together and being permitted to see the advantages of combined effort in a common cause.

Those are the reasons; in other words, it is no longer a question as to whether the Chamber of Commerce should act on civic questions. The question is merely which ones.—Brownsville News.

SETTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

In one of her financial columns, Sylvia Porter points out that "a massive amount of nonsense already has been printed about the effect of this election year on business and stock prices and... an even more massive amount is sure to be thrown at you in the months ahead." So Miss Porter sets out to set the record straight—and to prove that "there's absolutely no validity to the popular legend that presidential election periods signal a downturn in business."

Here's the story. Since 1900 there have been 14 presidential elections. In the year following each of the elections, business improved 10 times—and changed for the worse only four times. And two of those four years saw the onsets of the world wars.

Miss Porter also offers a forecast: "The record also suggest that business activity eight months after this election will be higher than it is at this writing, eight months before the election. And that goes regardless of the names of the candidates, their political tags or the outcome."

Politics is important. So are political candidates and their views. But it looks as if the strength and vigor of American enterprise, luckily for us all, are not materially affected by elections and the unreliable political winds.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WEEK

This year's observance of National Sunday School Week—sponsored by the Layman's National Committee, an all-faiths organization—will take place April 9-15. It is not directed at those young people who now attend churches of their respective faiths—it is directed at the millions who, tragically and needlessly, are receiving no religious training whatsoever.

The Sunday School, with its roots deep in values which are timeless and eternal, can in large measure determine what kind of men and women the children of today will become. The forthcoming week deserves and demands the full support of us all—to the end that its great spiritual and moral purpose may be successfully realized.

THE AMERICAN WAY

The Irony Of It!

CAPITAL "C" AND CAPITAL "V"

T. Coleman Andrews, until recently Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is certainly a grade-A authority on the income tax.

In a recent radio address he had this to say about it, among other things: "The rates have been made so high that they are now confiscatory. The minimum is 20 per cent, the maximum 91 per cent. I'd call that confiscation with a capital 'C' and vengeance with a capital 'V.'"

This is the kind of confiscation and vengeance that weakens initiative and ambition—at the expense of the whole country and everyone in it.

School Closes April 14th

Our local school will close an eight months term on Friday of next week and in addition to having a very successful term there will be the largest graduating class ever receiving their diplomas from this school, 17 young men and women finishing their high school work.

On next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Baptist church Rev. R. F. Hamilton will preach the commencement sermon. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

On Thursday evening, April 13th the class will present their class play at the school auditorium. The play is a splendid comedy entitled "Engaged by Wednesday" and has been carefully and thoroughly rehearsed by a cast of the best talent in the class.

Friday evening, the 14th, will occur the graduating exercises and the presentation of the diplomas. A most pleasing feature of this evening's entertainment will be an address to the graduates by Hon.

Newton P. Willis of Canadian.

War Hero Gets 'Jitters' When Facing Cameras

Audie Murphy blushing admitted that he got a worse case of jitters re-acting his World War II heroics for a movie camera than he did at the time they were actually performed.

The first hero in history to portray himself on the screen, Murphy's jitters occurred during the filming of war scenes for his own wartime story in Universal-International's Technicolor CinemaScope production, "To Hell and Back," showing at the Derby Drive-In Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

During service in Europe during World War II, Murphy won 24 military decorations for heroism including the Congressional Medal of Honor, to become the most-decorated war hero in American history.

The European battle scenes in which Murphy participated include the Colmar Pocket adventure in which Audie directed artillery from atop a burning tank destroyer to defeat six Nazi tanks and two infantry companies, thus winning the Medal of Honor.

"Funny thing that I should get stage fright doing all those things in front of the cameras," Audie admitted. "I didn't have it 'way back when."

Murphy repeated several of the heroic moments at least a dozen times in front of the cameras before he got them right.

"I'm glad I made the mistakes during the making of the movie," Audie told the director, Jesse Hibbs. "When these things first happened, there were no allowances for re-takes."

Columbus made four voyages to America.

Hitchcock New Talent Revealed in Film Coming to Drive-In

Following close on the heels of the great suspense tales, "Rear Window" and "Catch a Thief," Alfred Hitchcock's latest film, "The Trouble With Harry," will come as a surprise, a delight, and one to his world-wide audience.

Already acknowledged master of the kind of story that glues you to your seat, Hitchcock has this time mixed chuckles with guffaws with his chills, and the result is completely unique, completely captivating entertainment.

"The Trouble With Harry," arriving Wednesday at the Derby Drive-In, with Edmund Gwenn and John Forsythe starred, and introducing Paramount's red-haired lovely young pixie, Shirley MacLaine, is the wonderfully bizarre story of a group of Vermonters faced with the problem of what to do with a body that won't stay buried.

Trio of Stars Head Drama To Show Here

Raymond Massey, Debra Paget and Jeffrey Hunter co-star in "Seven Angry Men," Allied Artists' powerful dramatization of a fiery chapter in the history of the United States, at the Derby Drive-In Theatre Friday and Saturday.

The period is during the mid-1800's, when the fanatical anti-slavery leader from an Ohio farm, John Brown, went to Kansas Territory with six of his seven sons as the leader of his cause.

The story ends at Harper's Ferry, Va., when troops under Col. Robert E. Lee defeated Brown and brought him to trial.

The picture was produced for Allied Artists by Vincent M. Fennelly and was directed by Charles Marquis Warren. Daniel B. Ullman wrote the screenplay.

One of the best rules of conversation is never to say a thing which any of the company can reasonably wish had been left unsaid.—Swift.

Miss Genie Haven and Rodney Gunn Are Married Here Easter Sunday

Miss Genie Havens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Havens, exchanged marriage vows with Rodney Gunn, son of Mrs. Odessa Gunn, Easter Sunday at 3:00 p. m. in the McLean Methodist Church. Rev. H. A. Longino performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin and lace. The bodice had a stand-up collar and self-covered buttons at the neck and sleeves. The long fitted sleeves tapered to petal points. The skirt was inset with lace and matching lapels and fell to a chapel length train. The waist length veil of net was dotted with imported French lace roses falling from a tiara accented with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses over a white Bible.

Mrs. Barbara McCutcheon of Amarillo, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a street length princess dress of candlelight with matching accessories and carried a crescent bouquet of pink carnations. The three bridesmaids' street length dresses were three shades of pastel pink crystalline fashioned identically to the matron of honor's dress. They wore matching accessories and carried crescent bouquets of pink carnations. The bride's gifts to her attendants were their dresses and accessories.

Hershel McCarty, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Joel McCarty, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. The ushers were Phil Price of El Paso, James Jolly of Tulsa, Okla., and Ricky Mantooth of Stillwater, Okla. They were dressed in navy blue trousers and white jackets.

The church was decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli and palm trees. Mrs. Travis Stokes, organist, and Donna Magee, pianist played "Taumeri" by Schumann, "Whither Goest Thou" by Sniger, "Indian Love Call" by Friml, and "Will You Remember Me" by Romberg. Barbara Carter sang "O Promise Me" by DeKoben and "The Lord's Prayer" by Mallotte. The traditional marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The mother of the bride wore a dress and duster of brown with flax accessories. Mrs. Gunn wore a flowered gunmetal gray dress with a pink duster and black accessories.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The table was laid with a white linen cloth centered with the bride's bouquet. The three-tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. The mantel was decorated with white gladioli and pink candles. The matron of honor served the cake and the bridesmaids served the punch. Mrs. Harlene Smith registered the guests.

The bride and groom are 1955 graduates of McLean High School. The bride recently finished a beauty course in Amarillo and has been employed at Vick's Beauty Shop. The groom is a student at Texas Western College in El Paso.

The bride chose a flax colored dress and accessories, with a green jacket and white carnation corsage for her going away trip. After a short honeymoon, the couple will be at home in El Paso.

U. S. Weather Bureau Issues Tornado Report and Information

It is not uncommon for towns to experience more than one tornado, but it is unusual when a town is struck twice during the same weather situation. Baldwin, Miss., was struck twice by tornadoes within 25 minutes on March 16, 1942, resulting in 65 casualties and about one million dollars damage. Irving, Kans., was visited by two tornadoes within 45 minutes which left one-third of the town in ruins on May 30, 1879. Austin had two tornadoes within a short interval on May 4, 1922, with 12 deaths and one-half million dollars damage. Codell, Kans., was struck three times in three successive years, 1916, 1917 and 1918. Each tornado at Codell occurred on the same day of the year—May 20.

Tornado paths have varied in length from a few feet to nearly 300 miles. The width of the paths has ranged from 9 feet to over a mile.

At least 7 tornadoes have occurred with paths over 200 miles long. The longest officially recorded tornado traveled 293 miles in Illinois and Indiana on May 26, 1917, and lasted for 7 hours and 20 minutes. The forward speed of this tornado was 40 miles an hour, which is about average. Forward speeds have been known to range from almost stationary to as much as 68 miles an hour.

The surface wind in connection with the development of the tornadoes is usually from the southwest. Nearly two-thirds of all tornadoes move from that direction. Seven-eighths of the tornadoes move from some westerly direction, that is, either from the southwest, west, or northwest. However, tornadoes have been known to come from almost any direction, even stopping their forward movement, turning, and looping their paths. A 1942 tornado in Buchanan County, Iowa, caused wide-spread destruction in a crescent-shaped path, moving from southeast thru west and north to northeast. A Michigan tornado in 1946 made a circuitous path from Windsor, Ontario, to Detroit, Mich. It frequently happens that several tornadoes occur on the same day and move in nearly parallel lines.

The lowest officially recorded air pressure in a tornado occurred during the May, 1896, tornado which struck St. Louis, Mo. An aneroid barometer was located near the point where the center of the tornado at its most destructive stage, passed through Lafayette Park. When the storm struck, the pressure was 26.94 inches mean sea level. This reading was 2.42 inches lower than the pressure recorded at the Weather Bureau office seven blocks away.

It is interesting to note that over a 39-year period (1916-1954) the total number of tornado deaths (8,776) was less than one-fourth the number of fatalities (38,300) reported by the National Safety Council as the result of automobile accidents in the single year 1953.

Destructive effects of the tornadoes are terrifying. Strong buildings are torn apart and scattered about like kindling wood; large trees are uprooted and the bark stripped off; people and farm animals are whirled through the air and then dashed to earth; bridges are wrenched from their foundations. The terrific force of the whirling winds within the storm is demonstrated by the shearing off of large tree limbs by sailing pieces of tin roof; by straws and slivers of wood driven deep into posts and boards; by the penetration of large pieces of wood, javelin-like, deep into the earth.

THE RIGHT ROAD

TORNADO SAFETY RULES

TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN A WARNING IS RECEIVED, OR A TORNADO IS OBSERVED, MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH!!

- I There is no universal protection against tornadoes except caves or underground excavations. When time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave, or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas, or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.
- II If you are in open country :
  1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.
  2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.
- III If in a city or town :
  1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!
  2. In homes: The southwest corner of the basement usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a depression, such as a ditch or ravine, can offer some protection. If time permits, electricity and fuel lines should be shut off. Doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.
  3. Standing against the inside wall on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection.
- IV If in schools :
  1. In city areas: If school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS with large, poorly-supported roofs!
  2. In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.
- V If in factories and industrial plants :

On receiving a tornado warning, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.
- VI Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected. You should know about tornadoes though, "just in case".
- VII Keep tuned to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your individual request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay advisories to radio and television stations for dissemination to thousands in the critical area.
