THE PRICE OF GASOLINE

Gasoline costs more in some states than it does in others. Many a motorist no doubt wonders why—and wonders also if he is being gouged when he says "fill her up."

A clear explanation of the reasons for price differences has been made by an official of a leading oil company. His explanation concerns Montana, and was presented to the Montana Trade Commission, which has been conducting an investigation of gasoline prices in the state.

In Montana, this authority says, the market for gasoline is thin and the volume of sales is low. Transportation and handling costs are high because of long hauls. And the seasonal fluctuations, because of long winters, are extreme. The result of all this is that unit cost for transportation and distribution of gas in Montana is nearly twice the company average.

Other states are in a similar position, for these or other reasons. Gasoline which must be moved great distances to limited markets must obviously cost more than gasoline which is moved shorter distances to concentrated markets.

Actually, there are three elements making up the price of gasoline. One is taxes, which are beyond the control of anyone except the government. The second is the dealer's mark-up, which is established by competition. The third is the wholesale price dealers pay, and that has to cover the cost for finding crude oil, transporting it to refineries, refining it into products, providing marketing facilities, and moving the products to the service station pump. All these elements vary, often materially, in one area as against another area.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

Gainesville, Texas, Daily Register: "If we are to continue to maintain the balance between the states and federal government that has made possible the development of our country and the protection of our individual rights, the authority and rights of the various states must be preserved and the trend of ever increasing power of the federal government must be reversed."

Dover, Del., State News: "The misbehavior of some of our American young men—especially in their contacts with people who are not natives of this country—has always been a mystery to us. . . . It seems strange in our democracy—where we have always emphasized human rights—that we do not show greater respect for the rights of others."

Claremont, Minn., News: "The blacksmith has not been eliminated. He has just changed his name and is now called a mechanic and there are far more of them . . . than there ever were."

A TRAIN OF CARS ON TRACKS

To the uninitiated eye, a railroad freight train of today looks just about the same as one of a quarter-century or so ago. Similar cars are rolling over similar roadbeds.

But there's a world of difference in the quality and efficiency of present-day equipment as compared with that of the past—and a world of difference in the amount of work it gets done.

From the standpoint of traffic, the prewar peak year was 1929 and the postwar peak year was 1955. In the latter year, the railroads had a smaller plant than in the former. Yet far more railroad service was produced.

This was the result, in the words of a railroad spokesman, of "almost innumerable technical innovations and improvements." Those innovations and improvements have touched everything involved in railroading—rails, cross-ties, signaling, communications, yards and terminals, motive power and rolling stock.

Since 1929, this spokesman said, the average speed of freight trains has increased 41 per cent, the average freight train load has risen 71 per cent, and the combined effect of heavier loads moved at higher speeds has raised by 179 per cent the hourly output of transportation by the average freight train.

What of the future? We will have still better trains, performing still more service. But one thing won't change. To quote the spokesman once more: "The essential principle of the train of cars on tracks will remain as the foundation of our continental commerce."

Burrows-Boyd

Another surprise wedding that was very pleasing to their many friends was that of S. C. Burrows and Miss Velda Boyd, which was consummated at the county seat Monday, County Judge Faulkner officiating. The young people will make their home here, the groom having recently purchased a home in the south part of town.

Mr. Burrows is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burrows and is an employee of the Rock Island under his father, who is assistant road master on this division. Miss Boyd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Boyd and has made her home here for the past several years. Both young people are deservedly popular among a wide circle of acquaintances, with whom the News is pleased to join in extending hearty congratulations.

Main Street Suffers Fire

The alarm of fire awoke the town at half past twelve Monday night and it was soon discovered that the T. J. Earp confectionery was ablaze, the flames spreading so fast that it was impossible to save anything out of the building. The J. B. Hext building on the north and the Masonic Hall on the corner of Second Street were also consumed before the conflagration completed its mad fury.

But for the fortunate arrival of a rainstorm from the southwest, it is more than likely the fire would have spread to the row of frame buildings across the street west. The Crabtree livery barn was in danger from burning timber during the strong wind preceding the rain.

The Earp confectionery was a complete loss, but was partially covered by insurance. The building, which belonged to C. C. Cook, was not insured. The Hext building and Masonic Hall were neither insured.

W. H. Langley had an upholstering and paint shop in the Hext building and suffered a loss of approximately $50, part of his stock having been saved. Practically everything in the Masonic Hall was taken out with the exception of the secretary's desk and the organ. The chapter's charter was also lost.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a gasoline torch on which Charlie Earp had some water heating. He stepped out to get a bucket of water and mail a letter at the post office and when he returned the entire back room was ablaze, the house being so full of smoke that it was impossible to save any of the contents.

The McLean Telephone Co. suffered the loss of two poles and considerable time and work repairing the lines.

The total property loss is estimated at about two thousand dollars.

Porter's Top Tunes Featured in Derby Show 'Anything Goes'

Cole Porter fans will have their day when "Anything Goes" opens on Wednesday and Thursday at the Derby Drive In Theatre. Six of the master tunesmith's most famous songs are woven into the plot of the spectacular VistaVision, Technicolor musical extravaganza, called the year's greatest.

Stars Bing Crosby, Donald O'Connor, Jeanne Crain and Mitzie Gaynor sing, dance and romance to "I Get a Kick Out of You," "It's De-Lovely," "You're the Top," "All Through the Night," "Blow, Gabriel, Blow," and "Anything Goes."

The real measure of wealth is how much we should be worth if we lost our money.—J. H. Jowett.

'Man Called Peter' Showing at Derby Friday and Saturday

The management of the Derby Drive In Theatre announced this week the booking of "A Man Called Peter," a Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope production in DeLuxe color, for presentation Friday and Saturday.

This picturization of Catherine Marshall's biographical novel, which has been on the best-seller list since it was first published in 1951, has been hailed as one of the most unusual pictures to come out of Hollywood in a long time.

Richard Todd and Jean Peters are the stars in this story of Peter Marshall, the Scottish immigrant who came to America, dug ditches, stoked furnaces, corrected proofs on a southern newspaper, was staked to $50 a month by his Bible class for his first two years at Columbia Theological Seminary at Decatur, Ga., preached in Covington, Atlanta, and within 10 years of his arrival in the United States became the minister of the New York Avenue Church in Washington, D. C., where eight presidents, including Abraham Lincoln, worshipped.

Peter Marshall, known as "the charming young Scot with the silver tongue, wound up the elected chaplain of the U. S. Senate and was known as "the conscience of the Senate."

Twentieth Century-Fox mounted this tender love story with its Horatio Alger touches with every possible advantage in talent and technique.

Word of Advice

Woman's Club Speaker: "And, ladies, don't turn away the wanderer seeking food at your door. It's only then that wives will know what a relief it is to see a man eat a meal without find-fault with the food."

And Sometimes Not

A farmer wished to insure his barn and a few stacks. "What facilities have you," asked the insurance man, "for extinguishing a fire in your village?" The man pondered a little while. Finally he answered, "Well, sometimes it rains."

Beyond a doubt the best place to go in McLean for car service is our Chevrolet station. Hot or cold, rain or shine, you can't beat our products or our service either.

GLAMOROUS,

SURE—

 at heart!

Turn Chevy out on the road to discover its real charm! For this is the beauty that recently raced 2,438 miles in 24 hours to set a new round-the-clock competition track performance record!

It happened at the famed Darlington Raceway, Darlington, S. C. A regular production Chevrolet with 225 h.p. poured it on for 24 straight hours, averaging 101.58 miles per hour, to top the Indianapolis stock car record by 280 miles!

Add that to Chevy's unparalleled record in stock car competition—and you come up with the low-priced beauty that outshines everybody! No maybes about it. Here's proof of pep and performance that means safer, happier highway driving. Few cars at any price can hold the road with Chevrolet's grace. And it's got the stamina to stand the gaff for 24 straight scorching hours at a pace that few other cars would even attempt to match! Drop by—you'll see you can't beat Chevy for a buy, either!

John R. Sanders, manager of the Amarillo social security office, states that a surprisingly low number of applications have been filed in this area for the purpose of establishing a period of disability.

Sanders feels that the low number of applications is because there are no cash payments paid upon a worker's proving that he is disabled. In many cases, however, Sanders says that the establishment of a period of disability will make eventual social security payments much higher, on the death of the worker or upon his reaching age 65, than they would have been otherwise. In some cases no payments will ever be possible unless the period of disability is established.

Any worker who can answer "Yes" to the following questions should contact the Amarillo social security office about establishing his period of disability: Are you now under a serious disability which prevents you from engaging in gainful employment? Have you been disabled for at least six months? Did the disability begin before you became 65 years of age? Did you work in employment or self-employment covered by the social security act for at least one-half of the 10 years before the disability began and for one-half of the three years just before it began? Sanders urges anyone who can answer "Yes" to each of these five questions to contact the Amarillo office and get full particulars about this phase of the social security law.

A representative from the social security administration office will be in McLean June 27 at 2:00 p. m. at the City Hall.

Wyman and Hudson Star in 'All That Heaven Allows'

Teamed for romance again, after their smash hit co-starring appearance in "Magnificent Obsession," Rock Hudson and Jane Wyman will be in "All That Heaven Allows" at the Derby Drive In Theatre Sunday and Monday.

It was a case of return-by-popular-demand after their initial appearance together. This is the story of a rugged individualist whose love for a young widow and his determination to make her understand his way of life are never shaken. It more than supplies the demand for moving story and dramatic situations charged with high drama.

Rock Hudson, as a man who is dedicated to the simple outdoor life, achieves new thespic heights in his dramatic interpretation.

Jane Wyman, as the widow who vacillates between trying to please her "friends" and trying to remain in love with a man who brooks no compromise, turns in a masterful performance.

"All That Heaven Allows" had the touch of good fortune from the beginning. In the supporting cast of Hudson and Miss Wyman was Agnes Moorehead as Jane's confidant. The director was Douglas Sirk, the producer Ross Hunter, and the cameraman Russell Metty. These personalities were all eminently associated in similar capacities with "Magnificent Obsession."

This important U-I production is notable also for the return to the screen of Conrad Nagel after a ten-year absence. Nagel, once Hollywood's most sought after leading man, portrays the disappointed suitor of Miss Wyman. The film also marks the screen debut of Leigh Snowden, the girl who made a career out of being whistled at on a Jack Benny TV show. Miss Snowden, now under contract to U-I, proves in "All That Heaven Allows" that her potentialities are far greater than mere whistle-bait.

Prominent on the list of featured players are Charles Drake, Virginia Grey and William Reynolds. Reynolds portrays Miss Wyman's son and shows great promise as a juvenile of uncommon dramatic ability.

Attorney Tom Moore Tells His Platform To Texas Voters

With his campaign for Attorney General of Texas in full swing, Tom Moore of Waco declared a continuing war against corruption in state government.

"We must clean-up, not cover-up, the dishonest and underhanded dealings of those greedy persons who would betray our citizens," he stated.

The 38-year-old Moore is serving his second elective term as District Attorney of McLennan County.

As District Attorney, Moore played the key role in conducting the grand jury probe of the U. S. Trust and Guaranty insurance fraud and investigated statewide election law violations.

In addition, he has received statewide recognition for the efficient and impartial manner in which he has operated his department.

"As Attorney General, I pledge that confidence and integrity will be restored to this all important position and that the laws of the State of Texas will be administered fairly in regard to all citizens of the state," Moore said.

A native of Waco, Moore graduated from Baylor University Law School. He was an overseas veteran of World War II, serving with the military government in Okinawa and Japan.

Moore is married and father of three children, Margaret, 8; Liz, 6; and Timmie, 5. He is active in St. Albans Episcopal Church in Waco.

He has also been active in state Democratic party affairs.

Human language can repeat only an infinitesimal part of what exists.—Mary Baker Eddy.

By Vern Sanford, Texas Press Association

Next month, for the first time in 24 years, Texans will be asked to vote—not only on men—but directly on issues.

State Democratic executive committee members have approved the placing of three questions on the primary ballot. Voters can express their desires for or against:

1. Legislation exempting a child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools.
2. Legislation "perfecting" laws against intermarriage of Negroes and whites.
3. Use of interposition to halt federal encroachment on states rights.

Majority approval presumably would constitute a mandate for action by the next legislature.

Historically, such voter referendums seldom have been used. And not too successfully. Present procedures, still substantially unchanged, were set up with the passage of the Terrell election laws in 1907.

In the nearly 50 years since then referendums were held only three times. And failed to pass twice. In 1908 a prohibition proposal was voted down more than two to one. In 1919 the people rejected three to one a proposal to call a constitutional convention.

But in 1932 Texans voted overwhelmingly in favor of repealing the federal prohibition amendment. A year later the legislature followed suit and ratified the repeal amendment.

This was the last referendum submitted until this year.

In other action the state executive committee certified a list of 31 candidates for statewide office. It ignored a charge by Reuben Senterfitt that Price Daniel's name was ineligible to appear on the ballot because he had not resigned his U. S. Senate post.

Fort Worth was selected by the committee as the site for the September 11 state convention. Principal business at that time will be naming new party officers.

and deciding on a general election platform for the Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

GOP Chooses Corpus

Texas Republicans will hold their August 28 state convention in Corpus Christi. GOP nominees for state office, presidential electors a new state chairman and a general platform will be decided upon at that time.

Selection of the convention site was made at the party's state executive committee meeting in Austin.

Committee members sent President Dwight D. Eisenhower a telegram asserting their confidence that he will carry Texas and be re-elected in November.

Redistricting Urged

Demands that Texas congressional districts be re-aligned were heard at both political party meetings.

Texas was allotted an additional congressman after the 1950 census. Since the legislature has rejected redistricting bills for the past two sessions, the extra man is elected by the entire state.

Bill Elkins, candidate for congressman-at-large, told the Democratic executive committee the main plank in his platform is to have the office he seeks abolished.

Republican National Committeeman Jack Porter said the GOP legal committee might seek federal court action to force the legislature to redistrict.

"It's not fair to have the same representation from districts of 100,000 as you do from areas with more than a million," Porter charged.

Birth Certificate Bottleneck

State health officials are urging parents of children who will enter school for the first time next fall to avoid the "birth certificate bottleneck." In past years thousands of requests have swamped the department in September. An estimated 260,000 children will be eligible to enter the first grade this year.

Short Shorts

Soaring heat and lack of rain are withering Texas crops and pastures in all areas except the high plains, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The high plains still are green after three consecutive weeks of showers. . . . May was one of the best contract award months in Texas construction history. The $168,102,823 contracted in May brings the the 1956 to $572,000,000. That is better than the record year of 1953.
