Canadian river, from the face of the earth, we had hoped that their calumnious outbreaks had been forever stilled, but it appears that we are to be forever haunted by their periodical visits.

However, we are strengthened in our daily pursuit of spreading good cheer and giving expert advice to farmers by the realization of a task well performed and the realization that these apparitions only haunt the devious ways of darkness and are dispelled and vanish into their native nothingness with the coming of the morn.
Get thee behind us, spook.

Two Holidays.

At the school meeting on last Saturday morning it was decided to let the thanksgiving holiday extend over Friday, the extra day to be made up the week following. This was deemed advisable in view of the fact that many of the pupils had planned excursions that would keep them out of school Friday, and the further fact that some of the teachers wanted to visit out of town but could not do so with the one day at their disposal.

Several members of the faculty were present at the meeting, including Prof. J. R. Durrett and their reports show the present school term to be in a very flourishing condition with discipline and scholarship among the student body reaching a high degree of excellence.

Change in Ministry.

Rev. J. C. Carpenter and family left the latter part of last week for their new home at Mobeetie, going overland in wagons. Their places in the social and religious life of McLean will not be easily filled and we regret to lose their influence and their presence from among us.

The new Methodist minister, Rev. J. T. Howell, arrived Friday and preached his initial sermon at the regular morning hour Sunday. He was heard by a large audience whose appreciation of his offering was manifest by profound attention throughout the discourse.

The parsonage has been renovated and refitted for the occupancy of Rev. Howell's family who expect to follow him in a few days.

To Open Grocery.

W. R. Veale is this week having his store building refitted with shelves and other necessary equipment for the opening a first class stock of groceries, which have already arrived and will likely be placed and ready for the inspection of the public by Saturday. Mr. Veale expects to continue the restaurant and lunch stand in connection for the present unless other arrangements not now pending are made.

He informs the News that the new stock of groceries will be right up to the minute in every essential particular and he expects to cater to the cash trade with a line of goods and prices that will attract.

Henry Appointed Alderman.

At an adjourned meeting of the Town Council which occurred Saturday morning of last week the resignation of W. C. Cheney as alderman was read and accepted and his place was filled by the appointment of T. W. Henry, who was the unanimous choice of the council. Other matters of minor importance was transacted, including instructions to the city marshal to notify all those who have not paid their street tax to do so by the first of December, and in case of their failure to file a complaint for violation of the street ordinance.

The resignation of Mr. Cheney was made necessary by that gentleman's contemplated trip to Arkansas where he expects to

THANKSGIVING

Come citizens all, and loved ones dear,

We have come to the last part of the year,

And now our president has proclaimed

That we reflect o'er the year last named,

Count our blessing that God hath given

And renew our faith in Him and heaven.

Health has been meted to us, full store,

Without which there's naught that counts to us more,

For the waving of fields with ripe bending heads,

Absord little thoughts, if on feverish beds,

Friends true, and love ones, are spared us here,

For to the future we lend not the tear,

Loving now in the present with hope for the morrow,

Joys for the present hoards nothing of sorrow.

Lord grant us true blessings, renew, now, our trust,

Give strength for past weakness; rever Thee, we must,

For Thy hand unrelenting, as we've sown, doth repay:

And a heartlet "Thy Will be Done" help us to say.

DIVERSIFICATION ON SOUTHERN FARMS

Cotton Belt to Raise Live Stock Must Have Pastures.

PASTURES FOR FARM ANIMALS

Very Few Farmers Have Compared Benefit to Be Derived From Acre of Cotton and Acre of Bermuda Grass, Lespedeza and Clover.

(By G. H. ALFORD.) If the cotton belt is to raise hogs, mules, horses, cattle, sheep and so on successfully under present land and labor conditions, it must resort to pastures and cheap hays. If it is to produce the necessary quantity and quality of all kinds of live stock it must devote more and better land to pastures and meadows.

Many farmers in the south prize wheat, corn, oats, cotton, rice and cane as crops because their growth has become a habit. Very few farmers have compared the profit derived from an acre of cotton and an acre of Bermuda grass, lespedeza and some winter clover. On many farms the growing of cotton represents a loss instead of a profit. On many farms in the south the growing of leguminous crops for two or three years until the worn-out cotton lands will grow good grass and the sodding of the land in Bermuda grass grazing of pure bred hogs, sheep, cattle and goats, horses and mules will result in big profits instead of the loss sustained by the growing of cotton on the same land year after year. Senator Ingalls said: "Next in importance to the divine profusion of water, light and air—these three physical facts which render existence possible—may be recorded the universal beneficence of grass." Ingalls told the whole truth, but few farmers in the south believe what he said. Not one farmer in a thousand fully appreciates the full value of a good, permanent pasture. The most prosperous counties in England owe their prosperous agriculture to the magnificent pastures. The blue grass regions of Kentucky has done much to cause our farmers to appreciate grass to some extent. There are sections of Tennessee and Virginia where the successful growing of fine stock has helped Kentucky to gain friends for grass.

We firmly believe that we are telling the truth when we say that the main cause of the lack of prosperity on southern farms is the absence of good, permanent pastures. We have turned out a worn, gullied cotton field, stretched two or three barbed wires around it and called it our pasture. Not a furrow was turned, not a seed was sown. No wonder that our pastures are often referred to as "a place where grass does not grow."

A good pasture is made by thoroughly preparing very fertile soil and seeding it to the right kind of mixed grasses, so that every square foot of it is well covered with nutritious grasses instead of broomsedge briars and weeds. The large majority of us have never had a good, permanent pasture and therefore base our conclusions on our experience with a pasture where grass does not grow. We have never yet valued a thoroughly good, permanent pasture high enough.

There are, of course, pastures without grass, such as pastures of cow peas, soy beans, peanuts, velvet beans, and so forth, but these are temporary pastures and last for only a short time. Of course, we must have such temporary pastures in order to succeed in the live stock business, but the subject before us just at present is a good, permanent pasture full of nutritious grasses and clover. We are talking about taking land and thoroughly preparing it and fertilizing it with acid phosphate and planting it in cow peas, soy beans, lespedeza, peanuts or some other good leguminous crop for one or two years and then sodding it in Bermuda grass, crimson clover, burr clover and white clover and lespedeza for pure bred hogs, cattle, horses, mules, sheep and other live stock to graze. The best pasture grass for the south is Bermuda. We are growing corn and cotton on poor soil to feed a few scrub stock to obtain the necessary cash to pay the expenses. We are not able to say just what is the average cost of production of an acre of corn or cotton, but the cost of production of an acre of Bermuda grass on fertile soil to a fence and a gate to turn the stock in. The stock will harvest the grass and usually bring a large per cent. of clear profit. Bermuda grass is the great pasture grass of the subtropical and warmer temperate regions throughout the world. It is widely distributed throughout the cotton belt and holds the place in those states that Kentucky blue grass holds in the north. It is a warm weather grass. It will not grow in cold weather and usually winter kills when the temperature fall much below the zero point.

It is primarily a pasture grass and is relished by all kinds of stock. It will stand close grazing and much tramping. It also makes hay of excellent quality, but it will not grow tall enough to mow except on very fertile soil. On fertile soil under favorable conditions, it often furnishes two or three cuttings, yielding in a season from two to four tons of hay per acre.

Since it furnishes no late fall or early spring pasture, summer and winter clovers and vetches must be added to the sod or other grasses, or animal pasture crops must be grown, in order to supply continuous grazing

We Must Grow More Grass

WHY?

To Cheapen Animal Production.

for stock. We can mix lespedeza, white, crimson, burr clovers and the vetches with Bermuda and they will grow well together. We can also mix orchard grass, tall oat grass and the red top with Bermuda. But putting lespedeza on the Bermuda sod to assist in furnishing summer pasture and winter clovers, or a vetch on it to furnish some winter and early spring grazing, we can supply continuous grazing for our stock and at the same enrich our land.

Sow lespedeza seed on Bermuda sod in February or early March; sow the winter clovers or vetch seed in September and October. When the seed are sown on a heavy sod, it is usually necessary to disk it in order to insure germination of the seed at an early date.

Bermuda may be propagated both from seed and root cuttings. The seed method is not recommended except where it is very difficult to secure pieces of sod. Plow the land deep and disk and harrow until it is fine. Lay off rows about two feet apart and four inches deep with shovel plows. Drop small pieces of the sod every two feet in the furrows and cover with a harrow. A drag or light roller will put the finishing touches on the job. The sodding of the land may be done at any time during the year.

When we have made our hill land fertile by deep plowing, the addition of commercial fertilizers and the growing of leguminous crops, and have thoroughly sodded them in Bermuda grass and summer and winter clovers, we can cut out some of our unprofitable labors, substituting good hogs, brood mares, cattle and furnish the hands, labor-saving implements and strong teams to till the more level acres on the farm.

The pasture lands should not only be fertile, thoroughly prepared and properly fertilized before sodding it in grass, but the briars, brush and weeds must be kept down and the grasses fertilized and cultivated every two or three years. Where lespedeza or some winter clover, or both, grow on Bermuda sod it will not be necessary to apply nitrogen except to the poorer spots.

It will usually pay to apply a light dressing of phosphate once every two years where the soil responds to acid phosphates. On some sandy soils it will pay to apply potash every two years. The use of a disk harrow on the Bermuda sod every two years will cause it to take on new life.

We must not permit stock to graze the pastures too close. If we keep the leaves of any plant constantly cut it will finally die. It is a most excellent plan to have two pastures and never graze one more than a week at a time.

Let us urge the farmers of the cotton belt, especially those to the east of the boll weevil line, to put a large per cent. of the cotton land in grass. We have a great variety of grasses to choose from, such as Bermuda, blue grass, meadow foxtail, orchard grass, red top, meadow fescue, alsike clover, tall oat grass.

Money invested in thoroughly good permanent pastures is like money invested in government bonds.

Keeping Sheep in Condition. Doctoring sheep is expensive and often unsatisfactory, unless the symptoms of the disease are clearly understood. If the sheep are not exposed to bad weather in late fall and are given proper care and feed there is not much show for disease, unless brought in from other flocks. With sheep an ounce of prevention is worth considerably more than a pound of cure.

Some Essentials. Plenty of cold water, free access to salt and lime and protection from the flies are necessary for the cow. She can't get without them and make a full

HINTS FOR MAKING MONEY WITH SHEEP

Sheep are the most nervous of animals and if allowed to run down quickly become the prey of disease. The well kept, well fed sheep is the only kind to keep.

Never permit the sheep to lie on foul bedding or in barns that are muddy and dirty. Low, muddy pastures make fine breeding ground for germs and sheep should therefore always be pastured on high, dry land.

Never turn a sheep loss after clipping without first having dipped him thoroughly as a preventive of parasites. No matter if the ram or breeding ewes you buy come from the best breeding farm in the country, do not permit them to run with your flock for at least ten days. This time is necessary to develop any disease that may be carried about with them.

Sheep require more careful inspection than any other farm animal because the disease attacks them quickly and often becomes fatal before it has been really discovered. A good flock master will not fail to have every sheep on the place pass under his own eye once every day.

Some farmers imagine that by breeding a large, rangy lamb with a small ewe larger lambs will result. This is seldom the case and the best results are obtained by breeding

ENCOURAGE PURE BREED OF POULTRY

Farmer Should at Least Purchase Full-Blooded Cock, Disposing of Old Rooster.

(By B. NELSON.) In many localities the barn-yard fowl will not give way to the improved breeds. If you cannot afford to buy an entire breeding pen of pure stock, at least obtain a full-blooded cock and send the old common rooster to market. This will greatly improve matters, if you are careful to retain the best pullets of this cross-breed, and when you have a stock of good ones sacrifice the old hens. Cannot farmers be prevailed upon to do this, when the supply of eggs, even in the villages, is so small in winter? When eggs are scarce and the prices high, do not some diminish home consumption, and even then complain of the small number they have to take to market? A thoroughbred hen of a good strain will lay nearly fifty per cent. more in the number of eggs than a common hen. If the prices diminish a little the increased production of eggs will much overbalance the account. Too many persons raise poultry without regard to the use of pure breeds and regardless of an effort to maintain the high standard to which our domestic fowls have attained. The increased evidence of such high-class poultry pays, is surely sufficient to encourage us to strike out boldly and extensively in this field of enterprise. Every effort in this direction will meet with such favor that success will surely follow. Contrast the present with the past, and

PROPER MANNER TO UNCOIL NEW ROPE

There Are Two Ways of Performing This Important Duty, One Right, One Wrong.

(By J. M. DREW.) The proper way to take rope from a coil is to draw it from the middle. There are two ways to do this, a right and a wrong way. If it happens to be done the wrong way the rope will become twisted in a manner that will make it almost unmanageable. If done the right way it will come out without any twisting or snarling and all the rope in the coil may be drawn out without trouble. To do it properly the rope should be uncoiled toward the left, or opposite the way the hands of a watch or clock run.

MOST IMPORTANT POINT IN RAISING HOGS

Prize Berkshire Sow.

It is true that warm water is just as wet as cool water, but it is not so palatable and the hogs will thrive better if they have a cool drink at least twice a day. Water should always be within reach. Hogs exposed to the hot sunbath day in and day out during the summer will lose much of the gains they make even though the clover fields be of the finest.

The main and only point in raising hogs is to produce flesh that will bring the most money and every little thing that will work toward this end should be put into operation. No farmer who continually stuffs his breeding sows with corn can hope to secure the best pigs. Raising

DEEP PLOWING URGED

Method Has Been Practiced From Time Immemorial.

As Matter of Carrying Over Water in Soil and to Receive Fall Rains and Snow It is One of Most Dominant Factors.

It is wonderful how little moisture penetrates our harder soils in summer, no matter how abundant the rainfall may be, and even long experience with such soils hardly prepares one for their dry condition when one goes forth to plow.

The moisture falling so late this season there has not been so much evaporation, and in some soils I have observed the downward penetration has been much greater than with a great deal more precipitation in the summer months, and it is likely to endure for some time, giving an opportunity for deep plowing.

It is not necessary here to urge deep plowing is suitable to all conditions. The point is, is it not necessary to our hard land, especially those to be dry farmed?

Merely as a matter of carrying over water in the soil and for the entrance of later rains and snows, is it not the one most dominant factor in producing crops; is not the question of making use of our denser dry soils one of bringing them more to the porous condition of the sandier soil, which absorb all the rainfall and a great deal of snow before it evaporates in our warm sun and dry atmosphere?

If the answer is yes, then the importance of plowing deeply when conditions are favorable as at present must not be overlooked unless we have command of deep tillage tools and power to operate them, and even with these a less expensive result will be claimed than in a dry time.

I have not the data and do not know even that it exists to show at what point gravity overcomes the pumping power of the sun to draw moisture from the soil, but it is at no great depth. So long as the soil is kept stored and pipes are not formed through which the water can evaporate. Roughly speaking, I should say that when moisture has descended eight to ten inches it will be with any reasonable top much either from good plowing or cultivation continue in large measure to descend and that short of six inches it will be very apt to ascend in vapor and largely disappear, no matter how carefully we try to retain the dust mulch on large tracts of land.

Theoretically, the dust mulch will hold it perhaps also in practice so long as no cropping interferes with cultivation, but for practical results it is extremely desirable to get the moisture down as far as possible from the sun's attraction, which raises it to the winds and evaporation in an atmosphere which with us almost always absorbs moisture.

This same moisture when it has descended to a depth of eight to twelve inches lies as a poultice on the subsoil and softens it and descends yet deeper where in its original state the subsoil was quite incapable of absorbing it in the small quantities which lay on it for only a short time and thus we get penetration of moisture to five, six or more feet, and have accomplished something permanent quite different from merely wetting five or six inches of top soil by light plowing.

It is true that crops will use the moisture, but its effects on the subsoil will remain, for it has become absorbent to future rains and snows.

QUESTION OF DEEP PLOWING

Considerable Rainfall May Be Entertained Without Any Run-Off—Affords Larger Feeding Space.

(By J. H. WORTH, North Dakota Agricultural College.) Speaking only in general terms, it is safe to advise deep plowing as a rule. Deep plowing will entertain a considerable rainfall without any run-off, and if thoroughly compacted at times of plowing and the surface broken up wherever feasible, should a downpour of rain cement the soil particles together and form a crust, it will, to a great extent, prevent evaporation. Deep plowing also affords a correspondingly larger feeding space for the roots of growing plants. The frequent cultivation recommended for the purpose of conserving moisture tends to destroy weeds which do more toward producing droughty conditions than is generally realized.

Disinfecting Cow Stables.

Disinfectants cannot destroy germs if they do not come into direct contact with them. Disinfectants should be applied in sufficient quantity thoroughly to saturate the surfaces, after the adhering particles of dirt are removed. In the application of the disinfectant in cow stables it is well to use a broom or stiff brush and thoroughly scrub the floor, feed troughs, stanchions and lower parts of the walls.

The solution can be applied to the ceilings and upper parts of the side walls with a spray pump and must be carried into any crevice and recess into which dirt can enter.

Roughage for Horses.

Clean, bright clover hay makes the best roughage for the horse, but this may be varied by such other roughage as can be obtained if it is sound and free from mold or dust.

While Others Were Fast Asleep Mrs. Sanders Would Often Get Out of Bed and Do Sewing.

Cadis, Ky.—"I was in a terrible condition, caused from nervousness," says Mrs. Bicon Sanders of this place. "At times, last spring and summer, I did not get any rest at night; would not sleep at all. Very often I would get out of my bed and do some of my sewing, while the rest of the family were fast asleep."

One of my lady friends advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Just as soon as I commenced taking it, I began resting better. After taking four bottles, I now feel better, and am doing every bit of my household work and although I am small, I feel very strong in every way.

If you are nervous, run-down, discouraged, fagged out, don't give up—try Cardui, the woman's tonic. This great medicine has been used for more than half a century by thousands and thousands of women, and has been found to be a specific, building medicine for nearly all the ills from which women suffer.

Perpetual Motion.

One may well be sure that there is no "perpetual motion machine." For this purpose machines have been constructed from time immemorial, but nothing has ever come of it. Men have gone mad on the subject, but without any practical results. It was demonstrated long ago by Sir Isaac Newton and De la Hire that perpetual motion is impossible of attainment. Even the solar system, the most wonderful machine of which we have any knowledge, will run down in the course of time, some say in about 11,000,000 years from now.

FRUIT LAXATIVE FOR SICK CHILD

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver and bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs" that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and indigestible food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Adv.

Postum seems to have body-building properties and leaves the head clear. And I do not have the bad taste in my mouth when I get up in the morning. voice and bearing, to say nothing of his uniform, telling heavily against a civilian like Arrelsford,—were taking the revolver out of his hands, Thorne once more turned to the telegraph table.

Arrelsford burst out in a last vain attempt to stop him: "Listen to me, sergeant," he pleaded desperately, "he is going to send out a false telegram and—"

"That'll do," gruffly said the sergeant of the guard, shaking his fist in Arrelsford's face, "what is it all about, captain?"

"All about? I haven't the slightest idea. He says he comes from some office or other. I was sending off some important official dispatches here and he began by letting off his gun at me. Crazy lunatic, I think."

"It's a lie!" said Arrelsford furiously. "Let me speak—I will prove—"

"Here!" said the sergeant of the guard, "that'll do now. What shall I do with him, captain?"

"I don't care a damn what you do with him. Get him out of here, that's all I want."

"Very well, sir. Are you much hurt?" "Oh, no. He did up one hand, but I can get along with the other all right," said Thorne, sitting down at the table and seizing the key.

not care to have her precious dispatch made the subject of discussion before so many people.

"Stop him!" exclaimed the general. "What do you mean?"

It was evident that the dispatch was not to go out then. Thorne had not succeeded in getting an answer to his signal. He left the key, rose and saluted.

"He means me, sir," he said. "He's got an idea some dispatch I'm sending out is a trick of the Yankees."

"It is a conspiracy!" cried Arrelsford. "He is an impostor—"

"Why, the man must have some crazy, general," said Thorne coolly, holding his position by the table and listening with all his ears for the return signal.

"I came here on a case for—" expostulated Arrelsford.

"Wait!" said General Randolph. "I will soon get at the bottom of this. What was he doing when you came in, sergeant?" he asked of the non-commissioned officer in charge of the guard.

"He was fring on the captain, sir," answered the sergeant saluting.

"He was sending out a false order to weaken our lines at Cemetery Hill, and I—ah—Miss Varney, she was here. She saw it all," explained Arrelsford. "Miss Varney!" exclaimed the general.

went on with great acuteness. "If any of the operators came back they would catch him doing it. With that order and the secretary's signature he could go right on. He could even order one of them to send it."

"And pray how did he get the secretary's signature to a forged telegram?" asked General Randolph.

"He tore it off a genuine dispatch. Why, general, look at that dispatch in your hand yourself. The secretary's signature is pasted on, I saw him do it."

"They often come that way, sir," said Thorne nonchalantly.

"He is a liar!" cried Arrelsford. "They never do!"

Thorne stepped forward impulsively, his face flushed at the word "liar," but he controlled himself.

"General," he said, "if you have any doubt about that dispatch, send it back to the war department and have it verified."

It was a splendid, magnificent bluff. So over-claiming in its assurance that even Arrelsford himself was petrified with astonishment.

"That's a good idea," said General Randolph. He hesitated a moment and then turned to the guard. "Sergeant," he said, "take this dispatch over to the secretary's office and—"

At that moment, the key which had been silent began a lively clicking.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

By Timely Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Here is her own statement. Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me.

One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around.

It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

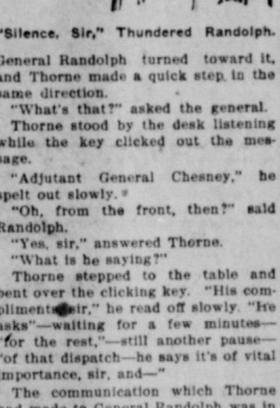

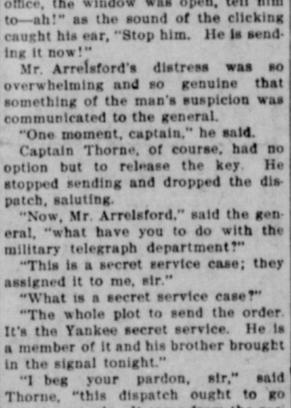

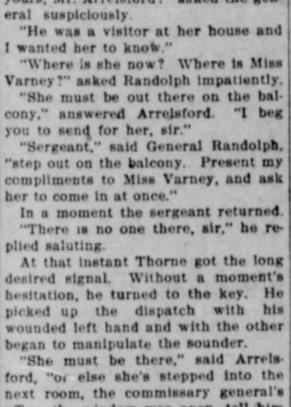

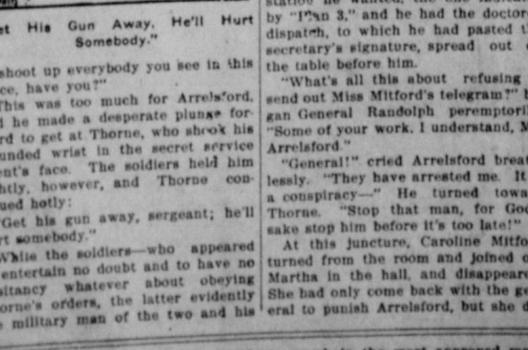

Only William. At a singing contest at Frankfort recently Kaiser Wilhelm, who attended, was served by several high-school boys as pages. According to Jugend, he was attracted by the bright face of one of them and asked his name.

"Korner, your majesty," said the boy. "And your first name is Theodore?" said the emperor, thinking of the patriot-poet Theodore Korner, whose centennial year this is.

"I'm sorry," replied the uncourtier-like youngster, "but it's only Wilhelm."

When Kaiser Wilhelm broke into a hearty laugh at the answer the page realized his missed opportunity.—New York Evening Post.

Doctors Say: Take This for Your Liver and Bowels. Don't take Calomel, Salts, Oils or harsh cathartics when you can go to any real drug store in town and get a box of safe, blissful HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS for only 25 cents. They never fail.

QUEER PLANT THAT COUGHS Works itself into a Rage When Dust is Deposited on Its Leaves. All have read of carnivorous plants, of laughing plants and of plants that weep, but who has heard of a plant that coughs?

so much the cough of a child suffering from a cold as to carry a most uncanny sensation to the one beholding the phenomenon.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

the doleful thought presents itself or the bogey-man attempts to show his face; to look always on the bright side of things, determined to stand always in the shadow—this it is that makes life with its daily round and its knotty problems continually easier.

STOP THAT BACKACHE There's nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. You are lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to rest and next day it's the same old story.

McLEAN

TEXAS

By A. G. RICHARDSON

SUBSCRIPTION.

One Year $1.00

Entered as second-class mail matter May 8, 1906, at the postoffice at McLean, Texas, under the Act of Congress.

Special Service.

Rev. J. T. Bryant, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, is in receipt of the following letter from W. M. Baker, chairman of the Trinity Endowment committee, which explains itself:

"Trinity Endowment committee appreciate your readiness to co-operate in the great task before us, and regret that we were not able to visit your field sooner."

"Rev. J. A. Hornbeck of Henderson, Texas, has come to us to assist us in the endowment campaign and as he can only be with us until the third Sunday in December, it becomes necessary to arrange an itinerary as follows:

"McLean, December 7th, 11 a. m. (one stage of the itinerary.)

"Mr. Hornbeck or myself will be glad to address your congregation on the above date that is set opposite the name of your city. No subscription or offering will be taken at the public meeting.

"It is suggested by the Auxiliary Endowment committee that each Sunday school be asked for contributions to this fund on a basis of at least twenty cents per number per year for five years and the committee will be glad to have your Sunday school consider the matter and do what it thinks best and wise in this regard."

The meeting contemplated in the above will be held at the Presbyterian church and the public is cordially invited to attend.

DRUGGIST GIVES MONEY BACK

Dodson's Liver Tone Gets Four Square Guarantee From Erwin's Drug Store.

When an article is sold a druggist who is willing to give it his personal guarantee, it's a mighty strong proof of real merit.

That's exactly the case with Dodson's Liver Tone. It is a pleasant-tasting vegetable remedy for a slow and sluggish liver. Since Dodson's Liver Tone came on the market the sale of calomel has gone 'way down. The reason is simply this: Dodson's Liver Tone is safe and harmless and guaranteed to be satisfactory—calomel is often uncertain, sometimes dangerous, and no druggist wants to guarantee that it won't knock you out of a day's work and maybe send you to bed.

The Erwin Drug Co. sells Dodson's Liver Tone and guarantees it. For you and for your children, it's a good thing to keep a bottle always in the house.

The Erwin Drug Co. will give you your money back if you think Dodson's Liver Tone is not worth the price. "Keep your liver working and your liver will not keep you from working" is good advice to go by.

Mother Gull Gives a Dinner.

Like Poe's "Creed of the Bells," just the merry tinkle of phone 19 seems to tell of something good to eat, and guests asked here on Sunday were in no way disappointed to see a real thanksgiving feast in readiness for a few Dr. and Mrs. Plummer's friends, the keen eyes of the hostess having detected their intention to further their journey before the real date for Thanksgiving.

No tears were shed over the untimely death of Mr. Goble as he lay so nicely dressed and tenderly roasted, a gay profusion of cranberries and celery being the floral offering, but due haste was made in distributing the palatable dainties from plate to plate.

Those in attendance besides the well filled tables of regular diners were: Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Veatch and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Richardson and Mrs. J. H. Horton and children.

We bespeak staunch friends for Dr. and Mrs. Plummer wherever they go, as like attracts like, but a friend as devoted as our genial hostess is a rare heavenly gift and by her splendid management she has gained a great reputation for her table, whose artists in preparations and arrangements are as rare as Lillies and Pearls.

A GUEST.

Married.

At his home in the west part of the city Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. R. F. Hamilton, pastor of the local Baptist church, performed the ceremony uniting in marriage Mr. James Taylor of Duval, Oklahoma, and Miss Myrtle Thompson of this city. The young couple left Tuesday evening for Duval, where they will make their home in the future.

The best wishes and hearty congratulations of a wide circle of friends accompany them on their wedded journey.

Cattle Deal.

R. S. Jordan this week purchased from Scott Johnston 22 head of fine Hereford cows which that gentleman brought here from Peabodie several weeks ago. Mr. Jordan will pasture the cattle at his place west of town.

We understand the consideration was $52.00 around.

Carpet Tacking.

On Friday of last week a number of her friends met at the home of Mrs. A. A. Beall and spent the day, each having taken some dish to contribute to a delicious pot luck dinner that was enjoyed at the noon hour.

The object of the visit, besides enjoying the splendid hospitality of the hostess, was to assist her in carpet tacking and in the hours not otherwise spent were devoted to this task.

A diversified musical program contributed to the enjoyment of the affair and on the whole the day was most enjoyable and profitably spent.

Those who attended were:

In mention of the Clarendon-McLean basket ball game last week the Clarendon News expressed the pleasure of the visitors to McLean at the show of hospitality and fair dealing accorded them here and complimented the local team upon their classy playing, laying the blame for their defeat at the door of Clarendon's superior goal pitching, which was undoubtedly the case.

We appreciate the kindly words of the News and assure the people of Clarendon that we would rather maintain a reputation for fairness and open handed hospitality to strangers than to secure the reputation of winning all games at the expense of these virtues. In all matched games of this character the visiting team is more or less at the mercy of the locals for a fair

TEXAS SUGAR INDUSTRY

Built Up by Home Patronage State Sands Second in Production.

Sugar and related products are obtained from three widely different classes of plants, to-wit: cane, beets and maple trees. In Texas cane is the only article producing sugar in commercial quantities. The soil and climate of the coast country from the Mississippi to the Rio Grande are especially adapted to the propagation of sugar cane.

We have 40,000 acres in cane, producing 400,000 tons, valued at $4.50 per ton, and the average production is ten tons per acre. The sugar cane crop for 1912 approximated $2-000,000 in value. The entire production is manufactured in Texas.

We ship into the state from Porto Rico for refining at our mills 10,000-000 pounds of raw sugar per annum, and approximately 50,000,000 pounds from Cuba. We manufacture per annum in Texas 250,000 barrels of sugar and 20,000 barrels of syrup. One-half of the Texas production is compelled to seek a market outside the State, although we consume four times more sugar than we produce. The investment in this industry approximates $2,000,- 000 and gives employment to 2,000 people. The annual output has a factory value of $3,000,000. Texas ranks second with the states in the Union in production of sugar cane, Louisiana leading with almost ten times the acreage of Texas. In the United States 6,240,000 tons of sugar cane were produced in 1909, according to the federal census reports.
The West Indian Islands furnish the bulk of the raw sugar manufactured in the United States.

The best sugar producing states are on the Canadian border and the Pacific Coast. The production in the United States in 1909 was 3,935,000 tons.

The average consumption of sugar per capita in the United States is 87 pounds per annum. A little more than one-half the sugar consumed is for household purposes; the remainder is used in the manufacturing establishments chiefly in the preparation of articles utilized for food and drink.

Flour Import Enormous

The flour mills of Texas constitute one of the most important industries in the State. According to the Federal census report of 1910, we have 238 mills, employing 1,899 people and representing an investment of $13,219,000. The industry has shown an increase of 118 mills and an increase of investment during the past decade of $9,236,000 and now ranks third among our industries as to capital and second in value of its output.

We have a flour milling capacity of 7,800,000 barrels annually. The average consumption per capita is about one barrel per annum or approximately 4,000,000 barrels, leaving 3,800,000 barrels to seek an export market. A few mills not able to enter the export trade have been compelled to shut down for want of a market, although a million barrels of foreign flour are sold in Texas each year. The patronage of home industry would open these mills and give employment to 500 people and increase the demand for wheat raised by the Texas farmers.

The miller is perhaps the only manufacturer in Texas that has outgrown the raw material produced on our farms. We produced last year 11,025,000 bushels of wheat which is 25,000,000 below the annual capacity of the mills. The Texas millers are heavy purchasers of Oklahoma and Kansas wheat. A number of the Texas mills have built up an extensive export trade with Central America, Cuba, Porto Rico, and quite a few of them go to England and the Continent with a considerable bulk of their output.

The opening of the Panama canal will enlarge the marketing zone of the Texas output and call for an increase in the area of our wheat fields, but both the farmer and the miller need the friendship of the consumer in building up our flour industry.

'CASCARETS' FOR LIVER; BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

Judge Resents Attitudes of "Funny Men" as to Present Tendency in Dress.

Judge Ralph S. Latschaw squelched in Kansas City, the other day, an incipient movement against the close fitting skirt with a slash.

"Narrow skirts don't mean immorality," said Judge Latschaw. "One of the most vicious epochs was when hoop skirts were worn."

"Why, I remember when it was considered immodest for a woman to arrange her coiffure so as to show her ears. We have advanced."

"We have advanced, but we haven't advanced as far as the jokesters and cartoonists would pretend."

"Doctor," said a pretty girl—no runs the latest joke—"doctor, I want you to vaccinate me, please, where it won't show."

"Humph," said the gruff doctor. "I guess you'll have to take it internally, then."

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Don't Look Old! Try Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Gray, Faded, Lifeless Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

What He Noticed.

The extent to which the modern child is educated in matters of hygiene appears from a recent episode in a Boston school.

The class had visited the art museum and the teacher wished to learn what the children had observed and how they were impressed. The subject at the moment was the exquisite head of Aphrodite, one of the chief treasures of the museum. A little boy who frantically waved his hand was called upon. He announced triumphantly:

"I noticed she had adenoids!"

"Why, Peter," exclaimed the shocked teacher, "what do you mean?"

"She keeps her mouth open all the time," was the reply.—Youth's Companion.

KING OF SIAM WANTS AN AMERICAN WIFE

KING OF SIAM AND ROYAL BEARERS

RECENTLY returned visitor to the Orient is authority for the statement that the "King of Siam will marry no one but an American." The report is more illuminating than is at first remembered. When the young king—then crown prince—after his years of European education and American travel returned home to take up the serious study of his father's kingdom it was thought that as a matter of course he would follow the custom of the royal house to which he belonged and marry. But, greatly to the astonishment of the entire realm, this he flatly refused to do, and not even his father's kingly "requests" could change his decision. Now, marriage by a Siamese monarch means not the simple taking of one wife, but the complicated and wholesome absorption of a hundred. His late majesty King Chulalongkorn had three wives when he was crown prince and added 97 others to his household before ascending the throne, and his father, the great Mongkut, claimed many hundreds of wives. So when young Prince Vajiravudh turned his back upon the beauties of the court and would have none of them he established a precedent of celibacy unheard of in his domain since "before time was."

There was never a suspicion of scandal connected with the prince, either while he was at Sandhurst or at Christ college, Oxford; nor during his many visits to Berlin, Paris, Madrid, Vienna or London—covering many years of his most impressive age—not even a word during his flying trip through the states and if he went back to his Asiatic throne leaving his heart here or in Europe the world has never been notified of the matter nor has any particular caretaker been singled out as the possible happy custodian of the royal gift.

But, should this rumor have more than the usual claim for credence—should his majesty, Maha Vajiravudh, the supreme ruler of all Siam, "marry an American"—what then? There is no royal family in this democratic country from which the young man could or should make his choice and by so doing cement the bonds that already hold his little kingdom in far away Asia very close to Uncle Sam's heart. But there are American ladies aplenty that are fair to look upon, rightminded and devoted enough to be any monarch's queen, and if this be a culture quest as well as a longing of the heart—there can be no question of money in the affair, no bargain of gold for a title, for Siam is one of the richest of the little kingdoms of the world and her sovereign holds by the right of possession legal title to about everything worth having in his entire state—if this then be a quest of the royal girl, his majesty could make no better choice than one of the true American nobility, many of whose daughters are already serving in similar positions of trust and responsibility with rare distinction and dignity, though as co-rulers over smaller principalities.

When the writer was a child he remembers being taken by the hand by King Mongkut, Vajiravudh's grandfather, and being led into the king's favorite room—his American room. On the walls were rows of portraits of the presidents of the United States. They were not good likenesses—some of them—but they were the best his native artist could make from the photographs and other pictures his majesty had secured. They were all there, however, and in order, from Washington to the ruler at that time—Abraham Lincoln.

"I am very fond of America," said his majesty, as he closed the door, "very fond. And some day we are to be united."

Was this a prophecy, that, uttered a half century ago, is to be fulfilled by the marriage of his grandson to an American?

Old King Mongkut patterned his policy of "righteous rule" as closely after the principles found in the Declaration of Independence as he dared and remain on the throne of his father. His son, King Chulalongkorn, never ceased to lament that he was not permitted to see the promised land of America. His multiplicity of wives and his desire to bring more than one with him on his official visit caused a coldness in Washington diplomatic circles that damped his ardor at the time—and he insisted upon his son making a special effort "to visit the United States and personally meet the president of the great country of which your grandfather was so fond and which I have been unable to see."

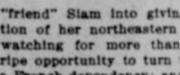

There has always existed the most cordial relations between these two diametrically opposed governments—the most despotic and the most democratic. France has bullied her Asiatic others; the descendant of a line of princes dating back to a time when Egypt was in her infancy and before Greece was born; he, the illustrious, the invincible, the divine master of the immortal souls, has played football at Rugby, friend" Siam into giving up a very large portion of her northeastern territory and has been watching for more than a half century for a ripe opportunity to turn the entire kingdom into a French dependency, and England, on the south, is guarding her Malayan peninsula with more and more skill and care, hoping for her chance to squeeze her neighbor into a hole and then to extricate her at the price of some of the adjacent land belonging to the lord of the white elephant. America alone of the three most influential nations in southern Asia has never sought for conquest of land or for official emolument for years past, present or future. Her Stars and Stripes for the last three-quarters of a century have floated from the masthead of the American consulate undisturbed amid all the vexatious rivalries for political and territorial gain which have obstinately come to the surface with great regularity—some of which have been referred to Uncle Sam's resident deputy for settlement.

So it would seem that if the king of Siam were to marry an American he would be but following his political and social predilections and would be endeavoring to bind still closer the bonds of friendship and real brotherly affection that have held through the reigns of his two immediate forebears—Mongkut and Chulalongkorn. But there is a better reason than this for his preference. Vajiravudh is not only a very independent and pre-eminently a practical person, and has often openly admired the independent and practical young American women whom he has met both in Europe and here. A man of tremendous energy and vitality himself, he has naturally looked for the same characteristics in the women whom he has admired enough to make his companions, and has found them in the women of America in a more pronounced degree than in the women of any other country in the world. Among his own Siamese ladies are examples of some of the most beautiful of creatures. They are slender and small boned; their eyes are large and luminous and are half covered with heavy lids and long, silken lashes; their voices are low and their hands and feet truly Andalusian. They are companionable and steadfast and make ideal wives and mothers, and, taken collectively, fifty or a hundred of them will combine to please almost any husband—preferably a Sybarite. But the present ruler of their kingdom is looking for a wife and not a harem, and unless he changes from the manner of man he has shown himself to be in other matters pertaining to himself and to his rule he will select and obtain the girl of his choice and will make her the most envied bride and the happiest queen of the century.

She will be the bride of a good looking young man of thirty-three, who is a graduate of Oxford and Heidelberg, a charming conversationalist and a speaker of and a writer in many European as well as many Asiatic languages—a writer of prose and poetry, of fiction and philosophy—a good horseman, a fencer to be feared, a lover of sport and a tireless worker, with exquisite taste as to mind. Generous and loving by nature and with an unlimited pocketbook to satisfy the desires of himself and his beloved, King Vajiravudh seems to have the making of the ideal husband and lover, as well as an energetic and wise ruler of his kingdom.

Geographically Bangkok is usually considered as far removed from Broadway as is Mars from the Metropolitan, but there are compensations, even the lack of opera in this charming eastern capital. One of the most beautifully situated cities in southern Asia, stretching down on both sides of the Manan river, and sumptuously provided with cool gardens, broad highways and inviting parks, Buddha's city is as cosmopolitan as a United New York, Moscow and Budapest. On her street, and her waterways—for Bangkok is the Venice of the east and is provided with more canals than roadways—are to be seen Americans and Chinese, English ladies and French cavaliers, German barons and Russian diplomats, Malays, Abyssinians, Parthians and Turks.

Ever since the days of King Mongkut there has been a delightful colony of European and American society in the capital. King Chulalongkorn, with his many years spent on the continent, encouraged the sending of some of Europe's best diplomatic timber to his little "Paris of the South" and fostered the intercourse between his native princesses and the foreign hostesses, and King Vajiravudh is stimulating in every way the mingling of the races within his realm. There are half a dozen clubs in a radius of a few miles from the palace, all with more or less affinity of a social nature, and springing from them and from the embassies, from the increasing foreign population and the aristocracy of the native gentry there has arisen a large cultured community in Siam's capital, a community that needs a leader. And who can do these gracious honors with more dignity than the sovereign's queen?

But there is far more than all this that the "King of Siam" is looking for in the American wife—far more than even the leadership of the most cultured set in the kingdom. Vajiravudh has stupendous ideas for his country and its people, and already (in less than two years since he set the crown of Siam upon his head) he has had time to show of what stuff kings are made. The reported rebellion and reputed uprising of republicanism he halted with a word; the wishes of his late father in affairs of state and religion have been carried out; he has revised where revision seemed best and has made new where the old could no longer serve; he has chosen wise counsellors and has pressed many new men about him the youth of the kingdom—the new minister at Washington, Prince Triadon Prabandh, from an English university—and he has planned and put into execution seemingly impossible improvements, from the laws on the statute books to the trivialities of everyday living. Altogether whom already are focussed the eyes of both the east and the west.

Vajiravudh is the first Asiatic ruler to have studied in western schools. Numberless Japanese and Chinese of high rank have been welcomed to the educational centers of Europe and America, but never before has a crown prince or budding emperor been allowed to mingle with the rough and ready westerner. Vajiravudh, the king of kings; head of the most ancient empire of the earth; he, who in his supreme rulership holds rights and privileges withheld from all crossed swords with the saradivis at Heidelberg, drilled as a private at Sandhurst and won his spurs in competitive games against the brainiest of Brits at Oxford. This is the man who, according to rumor, is seeking an American wife to aid him in his rule

400,000 Settlers a Year

Immigration figures show that the population of Canada increased during 1911, by the addition of 400,000 new settlers from the United States and Europe. Most of these have gone on farms in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

WESTERN CANADA FREE

Lord William Percy, an English statesman, says: "The possibilities and opportunities offered by the Canadian West are so incalculably greater than those which exist in England, that it seems almost to think that people should be imported from coming to the country where they can most readily and certainly improve their position."

New districts are being opened up, which will make accessible a great number of homesteads in districts especially adapted to mixed farming and stock raising.

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life.

Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect, and genuinely harmless.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among their reliable people like Mrs. James R. Rouse, of Marinette, Wis.

Red Cross Seals to Sell

Miss Pearl Newton, Chairman of the local Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign Committee will soon receive the first consignment of Red Cross Christmas Seals from Mrs. O. B. Colquitt, General Chairman of the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign Committee of Texas, and President of the Texas Anti-tuberculosis Association.

The Christmas seals are sold throughout the United States for benefit of anti-tuberculosis work. The price of the Seals are once cent each.

This year's campaign will be the third state-wide campaign for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. In the first campaign, over $13,000 was raised, and last year the amount exceeded $15,000. It is hoped to raise a total of $25,000 this year.

With the funds secured from the sale of Seals, the Walter Colquitt Memorial Children's Hospital for children afflicted with bone tuberculosis has been built and opened at Galveston.

The Texas Anti-tuberculosis Association has also carried on a campaign of public health educational work and agitation for hospital care for the sick and afflicted. As a direct result of the Association's efforts along this line, the recent session of the Legislature enacted the McGregor-Colquitt county hospital and dispensary law. Under this law, any county may establish a general hospital for the care of any persons suffering from any disease or injury, and the hospital is to be open to both pay and charity patients. In addition, free dispensaries may be established and visiting nurses employed. Special schools for tuberculosis children may also be established. Some counties have already taken action under this law.

The seals are sold to business houses, who in turn sell them to the public. Seals are to be placed on the back of all mail matter, also on checks, bills, and statements, on hotel menu cards, on children's school books; and they are used in many other ways as a reminder of the Christ-mas spirit of helping one another.

Don't Be Misled.

Young man, young lady, don't be led to think that any other school in the state is more practical than the BOWIE COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. We will measure records with any other college when it comes to turning out competent graduates who never fail to do the work of their employers, and will gladly send you a list of many of them, also the names of the firms for whom they are working—just write us for it.

We had a graduate not long since to walk right out of the college, with no experience except his work here in the school room, and take a competitive examination for a $125 position as stenographer and bookkeeper. Every other leading college in Texas and Oklahoma had one or more of their graduates pitted against him, until he had more than fifty competitors. What was the result? Why, our man, the only one we had to compete, got the position upon his merit and efficiency. Does that sound like any other college can surpass us in qualifying its students? We can point you to many other almost similar instances.

It costs you very little more than half as much money to come here and take a practical, down-to-the-minute course as it would cost you to go elsewhere and get inferior instructions. INVESTIGATE, you owe it to yourself. We will gladly send proof for any statement we make. Our town is free from negroes and saloons, and the best of private board and rooms here costs only $12.50 per calendar month. Write us NOW.

TRUMBULL TALKS DEVELOPMENT.

Pending Litigation Against the Katy Prevents Improvements and Extensions.

Mr. Frank Trumbull, the executive head of the M. K. & T. Railway in a recent communication discussed the litigation instigated by the Attorney General against that line. Mr. Trumbull has brought many millions of dollars to Texas and it is so seldom that we have an opportunity of hearing men who are capable of influencing investments, that his utterances are here reproduced in part.

"I have been particularly interested in the development of Texas, as it was formerly my home, and I have been for a number of years connected with properties which are important factors in the industrial life of the state. More than that, I have been instrumental in getting a good many millions of dollars invested in Texas.

"We want to improve our Texas lines. We want to give better service. On the other hand we want to look everybody in the face, including our creditors and shareholders, as well as our Texas friends. We cannot ignore our responsibility to investors. No conscientious man can do that.

"I regret that what seems to me an unwarranted and superfluous impairment of our credit has made some of the things I had hoped to do even less possible than they were before. If the state of Texas had endeavored to find a way to prevent our making extensions, it could have hardly chosen a more effective method than to bring suit for penalties aggregating $105,000,000. We will do the best we can, all things considered, but ought we to ask our friends to put more money into Texas except for maintenance of existing lines?"

"If the suit brought by the state of Texas is successful, I and all my friends here and abroad will lose every dollar we put into that state. What would you do in my place? This is a broad, far-reaching question, but it is a broad and far-reaching condition and not a theory that confronts us. And I am sure you will agree with me that it is a very interesting question to ask ones self."

$50.00 REWARD.

We will give a reward of Fifty Dollars for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any persons found crossing any of the fences or in any manner trespassing upon our land in Gray and Wheeler counties. The public is cautioned to take warning that we will vigorously prosecute any violation of the law covering the crossing of fences so far as it affects our properties.
