BLOOD DONORS NEEDED FOR OPERATION

In a letter from a Dallas heart specialist last week, Mr. and Mrs. Hickman Brown were informed that special heart surgery had been scheduled for their daughter, Susan, on Jan. 4 and that a special type of blood would be needed.

The letter stated that 10 pints of B positive, especially prepared blood will be needed. A heart lung machine will be used during surgery and the blood must be drawn fresh from the donors the morning of the operation in Dallas.

About 20 prospective donors are needed from this area to send samples to Dallas prior to the operation to determine if their blood is acceptable. The donor's blood must not only be Susan's major type but also be cross matched in minor sub-groups as well.

Prospective donors here in McLean who would give blood are asked to contact Hickman at Brown's Drug.

MISS FOOTBALL OF '59—Pictured above is Miss Elizabeth Boston, pretty high school senior, who was named last week as the Tiger football "Queen" for 1959-60. Miss Boston was crowned by grid captains David Crockett and Darrel Gibson. Attendants were Miss Sandra Burnett and Miss Dixie Jo Burroughs. The crowning took place at halftime of the McLean-Lefors game.

Tiger Win, Clarendon Loss Cinches Title

McLean's surprising Tigers, guided by Coach Clifford Bradshaw in his first season at the helm, clinched the district championship Friday night by smothering the Lefors Pirates, 35-0 in a game played in Duncan Field. The Tigers were pre-poled at the cellar of the 2-A loop.

Clarendon, another contender for the crown, was eliminated through a 20-8 defeat at the hands of the Canadian Wildcats. One remaining possibility would be a loss to Clarendon in the final game, which would tie McLean with White Deer for the championship. However, since the Tigers defeated White Deer, McLean would go into the bi-district game. Clarendon now has two losses in district; White Deer has one loss; and McLean is undefeated in conference play.

It was never a contest against Lefors. McLean's backfield, sparked by the amazing runs of Davy Crockett, shredded the Lefors defense from the opening gun. The forward wall of McLean, defensively, held the Pirates without a serious threat during the entire four quarters.

Crockett, who had been sick prior to the game, ran at will on the field. He scored all McLean touchdowns, with runs ranging from 5 to 75 yards. He proved again his status as an all-stater for the Tigers.

Also furnishing power for the Tigers were O. K. Lee and Jimmy Watson. Quarterback Kenny Willingham did another good job at the key post for the Tigers. Standouts in the line were Clyde Windom, Bob Weaver, Carey Don Smith, Darrel Gibson, Don Cash and Tommy Herron.

The second play from scrimmage, Crockett raced 76 yards for a touchdown only to have it called back on a penalty. It was only a matter of time, however, as six plays later he sailed over from the five.

Later in the initial period, Crockett broke loose again, this time going 75 yards to pay dirt. Neither conversion attempt was successful.

In the second quarter a 39 yard scamper by Crockett gave the Tigers an 18-0 edge, and a boot for the conversion by Lee put them ahead at halftime by 19-0.

In the third quarter, the power of the McLean line was again evident as they smothered a fourth down punt attempt by the Pirates. The ball was recovered

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Sitter were in Fort Smith, Ark., last week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lander. While there the Landers took them on a foliage tour through Fayetteville and Eureka Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. West of Clarendon were in McLean Monday with their daughter, Mrs. Bernard McPirates, and family.

The Armchair Quarterback

No matter how great the champion, now and then they must suffer defeat! Such is the humiliating case this week, magnified with each cup of Rexall coffee that I purchased for Amos Page. He beat me last week. But only by scores, mind you! Not by correct team guessing. So I'll concede one week to Amos.

To the weightier matters—(sneak preview of last week) and for those who missed it, you'll just have to wait until next week. For the rest of the 2-A games this week, here's the way they'll turn out:

White Deer 38 Memphis 12
Panhandle 14 Lefors 12
The one bright thing about the Lefors vs Panhandle tussle is that since both teams are without a victory, somebody is bound to be happy. Or maybe they'll tie for the cellar this year.

Amos figures the 2-A scores this week for tomorrow night: McLean 22 Clarendon 14
White Deer 36 Memphis 14
Lefors 12 Panhandle 12

the subconscious mind that is against his principles, the subconscious will rebel and break the hypnotic state. "Your subconscious always does what is best for you," he said. The entire basis of hypnosis can be boiled down to being a state where the individual is "more suggestible." For instance, has anyone ever said to you, "Gosh, you sure look bad today. You must feel terrible." Maybe before you hadn't noticed any ill feeling, but after this suggestion, you begin to feel that maybe there is something wrong. And pretty soon you really feel bad. And that is being suggestible. And it can be turned around and used in reverse of the above example. The doctor can suggest that you feel relaxed and sleepy and that you are feeling fine. One other peculiarity of hypnosis, according to Dr. Suderman, is that it can be learned. A person can, through several hypnotic evolutions, develop a capacity for falling deeper into hypnosis. Incidentally, I know it works. Before I could get out of his office he put me to sleep and I almost fell out of the chair.

Name Your Own Says City Council

McLean citizens who have found street signs hard to find, or hard to remember, will have an opportunity to do some naming on their own in the immediate future. Following the meeting of the city council Tuesday night, it was decided to rename 11 streets, and put signs up on all thoroughfares within the city limits.

City Manager Don Mize said the new names would be selected from suggestions of citizens, and he urged any who wished to submit a name to do so. He did stipulate that names should be of 8 letters or less for clarity on the signs. All suggestions should be given or mailed to Mize at the city office. All street signs will be of the same construction as the ones that have been on display in the City Hall. Names will be selected at the Dec. 8th meeting of the council.

Installation of the street signs will begin in approximately 30 days, when the first shipment arrives. Work will begin in the center of the business district and move outward to the residential area. In addition to the street signs, individual house numbers will be given to all homes free by the city. At the time when they are available, an announcement will be made and persons will pick up their house numbers at the city manager's office.

Also at the meeting it was voted by the councilmen for the city to donate $629 to the Lions Club fund for the new Christmas decorations. The amount is the balance between contributions and the sum paid for the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams and Mrs. V. N. Pharis visited in Pampa Sunday in the R. L. McDonald and T. E. Anderson homes.

Carlton Burk of Pampa spent Sunday with the Harris Kings.

Gin Expects Good Run Here

Colton ginning here is expected to hit full swing the last of this week and the first of next, according to McLean Gin Manager B. F. Holland.

So far the local gin has completed a little over 300 bales on what looks like a "little better than average crop." At any rate it's a cinch to beat the hail-battered 1958 record of 287 bales for the entire year. Holland said he estimated that between 1,200 and 2,000 bales would be ginned here. "So far it's been the greenest stuff I've ever ginned," Holland said yesterday. But he said it's getting better every day now. Some of the best dry land cotton has already made a bale per acre and another picking is some. Holland said, "I know of an eight acre patch of irrigated cotton that made 11 bales," he said. The cotton right around the town of McLean seems to be about the best in the area with the short end of the stick going to farmers about 10 miles southwest of town who didn't get as much rain and also suffered some from hail.

D. D. Pennington was the first farmer to bring in a bale of cotton to the McLean Gin this year.

Area Observations

MAX WADE in the GROOM NEWS: Two old-timers were discussing a deceased uncle of one of the men. "How did your uncle Bill die?" asked one of the men.

"He fell through a scaffold- ing."

"What was he doin' up there?"

"Gettin' hung."

A traveling salesman walked into the 66 Cafe the other morning and told Tassie Dorsey: "Bring me two eggs fried so hard they are edged in black, two slices of burnt toast and a cup of cold coffee. Then sit down and nag me—I'm homesick."

LON PATE in the HASKELL FREE PRESS: A mannequin kept in a storeroom at the city fire station for use on special occasions was missing for a few days last week and firemen were wondering about the disappearance.

But the truth finally leaked out. Jim Byrd and Desmond Dulaney had taken the mannequin and rigged it up in a room reserved for men at Brazelton Lumber Company.

To say that the stunt worked would be an understatement, but the victims were not the ones Byrd and Dulaney had in mind.

First two victims of the scheme were a top city official, along with one of our most prominent citizens. Noting their red-faced confusion and genuine embarrassment as they quickly backed out of the room, Byrd and Dulaney came up with some quick explanations and apologies.

WILLARD JONES in HAMLIN HERALD: We read the other day a good batch of quotations by famous people on minding your own business that impressed us. They are trite and timely . . .

Tale bearers are just as bad as tale makers.—Richard Brins- ley Sheridan

As to people saying a few idle words about us, we must not mind that any more than the old church steeple minds the rooks cawing about it.—George Eliot.

HAROLD HUDSON in OCHIL- TREE COUNTY HERALD: Now idol Charles Van Doren has been found to have feet of clay by having answers to TV questions, we wonder about newspaper col- umnists. We have always sus- pected that Ann Landers, Mary Haworth, Abigail Adams, etc. write themselves those letters that they print and give advice. But that is not in the same category as a bogus TV quiz show, we suppose. One thing about it, we are glad to learn that Van Doren is just human. He answered those questions so quickly that people thought he was Superman.

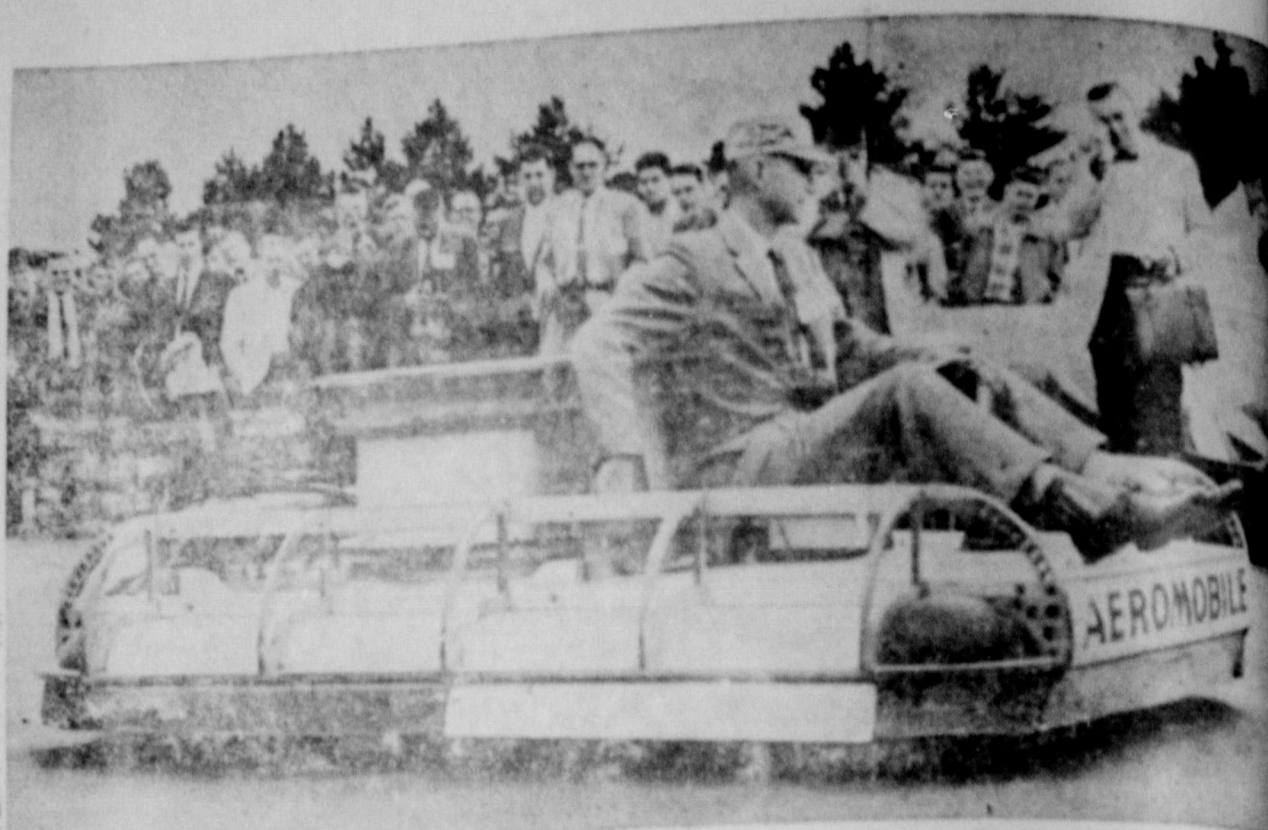

A. M. JACKSON in SALTON SLATONITE: We have had a cleaning spree at our house and I'm practically a wreck and out of circulation. My heart is brok- en when I think of all the money we have pooped off in the past and the second hand shops around Slaton are loaded with some of the most valuable stuff I ever bought. Two coats with curva- ture of the spine and water on their knees, a good green inside door that is guaranteed to groan like a ghost in a haunted house and a screen door that will drag no matter what you do to it, or your money back. A gillion Venetian blinds that will jingle and jingle at the least whisper of wind and a fuel can for a motor boat that has never failed to squirt motor fuel all over the boat, the boat operator and any visiting firemen who might be in the boat with the dope that is foolish enough to risk his neck, seat, or other possessions, in a boat.

It has been my intention to clean out the storage room for over ten years but not until last week when it became almost im- possible to get into it sideways did I grit my teeth, bow my neck and buck in. My hair is knee deep in dust, the skin off all my knuckles, my eyes so red I scare some little boys and all the girls and women, and I've collected four dollars and ninety- eight cents for stuff that origi- nally cost me two hundred and sixty-three dollars and some odd cents. You can't win and there's no use trying.

ARCHER FULLINGIM in the KOUNTZE NEWS: As long as we are voting out sin, let's also vote out divorces—divorce is a sin, isn't it? The Bible only says "beware" of strong drink, and it does not say anything about ci- garettes, but it does say "what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." So if we are go- ing to vote out sin, let's make a clean sweep and vote out divorces. The same argument can be brought against liquor: a waste of money and a homeworker. How much do you suppose it cost to finance the cost of those 25 divorces just granted and the 52 now pending in district court? But failing to vote out divorces, why not put a tax on divorces, since it is regarded as a sin by many people. If we are going to tax sin in the form of liquor and cigarettes, why not tax di- vorces, a state tax of $25 per person involved? They will gladly pay it, because a person dead set on getting a divorce is just like a cigarette fiend chain- smoker or a wine-bad—they'll pay anything to get that divorce. As long as we are going to tax sin, let's go right down the ten commandments. Come to think of it if we stuck to the principle of taxing sin to finance our state government; pay old age pensions and the teachers, we could have a tax bonanza, just by taxing the violators of the ten command- ments, not to mention the deeds now regarded by the churches as sin that are not covered in the Bible.

(I shudder to think what a state investigator could turn up to collect say a $10 tax on all violations of the seventh com- mandment.)

wood and aluminum, and claims he used it to reach over rough country and snow. The device is held inches aloft by blasts of air forced out beneath it. military is experimenting with similar vehicles.

PAST RESIDENT OF McLEAN IS BOOK AUTHOR

A former resident of the Mc- Lean and Shamrock areas, Ferris Weddle, is the author of a new juvenile book published this fall in New York, according to the author's sister Mrs. W. T. Moore, who owns and operates the Mc- Lean Hotel.

Weddle was born in Leaday, Texas, but spent most of his early life in rural areas in the vicinity of Shamrock and Mc- Lean. His father, the late Lee Weddle, was a farmer and ranch- er and government predatory animal trapper. He is the grand- son, on his mother's side, of the late Mary "Aunt Mollie" Newman Wood and W. H. Wood, well known pioneer farmers of the area. He has hundreds of rela- tives in Texas—from San Angelo northward to Amarillo.

"I've always felt that if all of my relatives bought a copy of any book I write, I'd have a best- seller," Weddle says.

In addition to Mrs. Moore, who previously operated the McLean Cafe, he has several other rela- tives in the area including an- other sister, Mrs. Ernest Phillips, and a number of nephews, nieces, cousins and distant cousins.

While this is Weddle's first book, he has written and pub- lished over 500 articles and stories in some 70 publications.

"My interest in wildlife began on the Texas prairies," Weddle writes. "Dad ran trappings for years and had a pack of bound dogs to chase down varmints."

For the past 14 years, Weddle has made his home in Idaho. He has also lived in Arizona, Colo- rado, Washington and California for brief periods of time.

At present he is working on other juvenile books in the wild- life-conservation field.

"Blizzard Rescue" is an action outdoor adventure set in the mountain country with a solid conservation theme. A sequel is now in the works.

BAPTISTS BELIEVE... A SYMBOL, NOT A SACRAMENT

Baptists do not call the Lord's Supper a "sacrament." To them, "sacrament" suggests a meaning foreign to New Testament teaching by suggesting that the act itself brings the individual salvation from his sin. Baptists prefer to call the supper an "ordinance"—something established by the Lord. Rightly observed, however, the Lord's Supper is worship on the highest level and has a very sacred meaning.

The Lord's Supper is a memorial of love. Jesus said "This do in remembrance of me" (1 Corinthians 11:24). He wanted it to remind Christians of his sacrifice for their sins. It is indeed a memorial of his self-giving on the cross. The supper declares the amazing love of Christ in giving his body and shedding his blood to reclaim men for God. Its observance, therefore, declares the grateful love of those who have been restored to God through his death. They keep this ordinance in joyful obedience to honor the Saviour.

The Lord's Supper is a sym- bol. It is really a dramatic ser- mon; it is truth in a picture. When Jesus said of the bread, "This is my body," he meant that it represented his body. Likewise he spoke of the cup; it represented his blood poured out for the forgiveness of sins.

The Lord's Supper is not spiritual magic. To eat and to drink at this service can never impart any divine favor to cover one's sins. Salvation is not provided by a ceremony but by Christ. A person does not re- ceive salvation by obedience but by faith. According to the New Testament, "by grace are ye saved through faith" (Ephesians 2:8). Observing the supper can add nothing to the free gift of divine pardon.

The Lord's Supper is a de- claration of faith. By observing it, "Ye do show the Lord's death till he come" (1 Corinthians 11:26). Christians thus declare their faith in Christ, who sacrificed his own life for the sins of others. They testify to the reality of Christ's continuing pres- ence and pardoning power. And they affirm their faith in the certainty of his coming again.

The sacred importance of the Lord's Supper, therefore, arises from its meaning and purpose. It is a symbol of holiest truth: first, that Christ gave his life to restore men to God; second, that this restoration comes through partaking of Christ and Christ alone. The observance of the Lord's Supper vividly recalls Jesus' suffering for sin. Its ob- servance furnishes new insights into the glory of the cross and moves people to follow Christ in a way of self-denial, sacrifice,

LIGHT BULB BURNS OUT

It is certainly nothing startling nowadays about burning out of an electric light bulb. Yet a bulb burned out 80 years ago, on October 21, 1879, the dawn of a new era of civilization. It was Thomas A. Edison's first successful bulb. For the great inventor and his associates watched the glowing filament. Then he stepped up the voltage and the bulb completed its career in a blaze of glory. The span of a man's lifetime electricity has wrought which would have challenged the imagination of Verne. In the home, on the farm, in industry, power performs innumerable tasks which make life easier, happier, healthier, better in every way. Electrical commonplaces would have been viewed as miracles less than a century ago, and we accept them for the future that would have been dismissed long ago as insane fiction. The United States leads the world in electric production. The average price per residential kilowatt-hour is about one-third of what it was in 1913. The cost of living generally is nearly three times that of 1913. Its cost runs to about one per cent of most budgets, despite all the services it performs and the daily increasing quantities being used. By way of comparison, last year nearly five times as much was spent for liquor and tobacco as was spent for power. Edison's bulb was the revolution-making achievement of the man working in a free society. And the great achievement which made it possible was and is being built by men, working together, in a free society.

NATIONAL CONTROL CREEPS ON

Federal controllers of public education never stop. Socializers of medicine, they creep forward one by one Congress at a time. The latest: A Senate bill approved $1 billion a year, for two years, for school construction. Fortunately, federal funds for teachers' salaries were kicked out. Federal controllers are happy, any way. Every session they get their ultimate—money for buildings, money for loans, money for scholarships, money for books. They get about one-fifth of what they ask. This year the committee goes to work on the bills. The sensible, however, know that federal aid means federal control, throw up all resistance. A compromise results. The federal government gets about one-fifth of what they ask. This year the goal is complete elimination of local and state control of public schools and a substitution of a federal system directed by the United States Office of Education.

When this is achieved, then Washington as its ex-terminator for federal aid will insist on prescribing curricula. It will rule that any school system which accepted aid, or intends to get it, must integrate. Insist on setting up the curriculum of studies for each local school in the country. If you did it. And he did it under terms of national aid to education. His purpose was not to build schools but to train German youths in the ideals of Nazism.—The Dallas News.

This Is Traveling Light?

Gray County Soil Conservation News

By Bill Autry, Agriculture Engr. This is about the time of year for farmers in the Gray County Soil Conservation District to be thinking of how to handle their crop stubble for the windy seasons to come. We have good stubble this year, why not let it work for our soil and its productivity? Leaving stubble on the surface of the soil provides cover to protect from wind and water erosion; to catch and hold snow; to reduce the rate of decline of soil organic matter. Protection of our soil from eroding should be reason enough to encourage leaving crop stubble on the soil.

We, in the Panhandle of Texas, are proud of our soil and like to talk of its productivity. When we see the dust blowing no one wants to admit that some of it may be coming from our farm. No one wants to see culverts, or rills, in his field or muddy water running down the road ditches. We know that the best way to farm our land where it is, is by the proper management of our stubble and, where needed, other conservation practices such as terracing, proper crop rotations, and grass plantings.

We are short enough on soil moisture as it is and should try to save all we can. When we have a snow it is usually a blowing snow of low moisture content so why not catch and hold as much as possible. Leaving crop stubble on the surface of the soil will surely be a great help.

We all know that we have rich soils, relatively high in organic matters as compared with soils of other parts of the country. Organic materials, though, have a high susceptibility for blowing. As a result the top few inches of our soils are much lower than they should be. Leaving crop residues on the surface of the soil to decay and go back to the soil will help build our organic matter as well as help prevent its blowing away.

You may wonder what types of implements are best to use. A large sweep type plow, or a rod weeder, and blade type implement are very good. The object is to leave as much stubble as possible. One-way plows are sometimes effectively used if you have a lot of stubble and do only one or two operations. Chisels are very good and are probably the most commonly used. In the event of a crop failure, the best protection is to do some type of tillage operation to bring about surface roughness, or a cloddy condition. This type of operation, however, can never replace the total benefits of handling your stubble on the surface of the soil.

SEVENTEEN PASSENGERS LIVED—Although the nose of this airliner was demolished when it crashed in Santa Maria, Calif., 17 passengers were not injured. The pilot was killed.

I know some of you will think that tillage methods to leave the stubble will not fit into your farming operations. You might say to yourself, "It is so inconvenient this year, I'll try it next year." If you're not careful, year after year will go by and more and more of your top soil will be lost. Leaving your stubble on top of your soil is not an inconvenience, but a soil and water saver.

Our soil is valuable; let's save it by using tillage methods to give the best benefits. If there is any way the Gray County SCD can assist with any of your soil and water problems, contact one of your local soil conservation service technicians at the court house annex east of Pampa on the Miami highway.

"Sh-h-h! Not so loud, cautioned one of the newspapermen. "Our jeep hasn't found out about roads yet, and we don't want to spoil it!"

Even on good roads, your car needs some "babying" if it is to give the best service. Drive in today and let us check it for you and fill it up with that good Chevron gasoline.

Patient benefits derived from the newer drug products, whatever their cost may be, represent a dramatic story. No longer must a patient suffer along on symptomatic treatment for weeks with pneumonia, strep throat or numerous other infectious diseases. No longer are mentally or emotionally disturbed persons destined to be permanently exiled from society. WHY? . . .

Productive pharmaceutical research of recent years has made available entirely new and different drugs. These products, highly valuable, get the job done efficiently and with as little pain as possible. It cost millions to develop them—you pay proportionately little for the benefit derived.

Prices on drugs are different from 1939 to 1959 as apples and avocados. And so are the drugs now on the market for your use.
