McLEAN RESERVES COMMENDED AFTER GENERAL INSPECTION

Following the recent inspection of McLean's Army Reserve unit, a letter of high commendation was sent to 1st Lt. Melvin E. Callahan, commanding officer of the unit.

The inspection was the first of its type to be held by the McLean group, and was conducted by a regular army inspector-general team.

Sent by Lt. Col. Donald J. Kievit of Amarillo Area Command, the letter stated, "I note with pride the high rating your unit achieved in the Annual General Inspection on 27 May, 1958. It reflects your keen attention to duty and ability to solve the myriad problems which confront you in your assignment. I take this opportunity to compliment you on the high standards you have achieved in your command and trust you will relay my congratulations to all members of your unit, and especially to the key personnel who so ably assist you."

Following the many inspections of the same nature throughout Texas, it was revealed that the McLean group rated as one of the foremost in the state. Plans are now being made by the group to attend the regular summer camp.

WILMER HUNT FILES FOR COURT POST

The importance of the functions and responsibilities of the state's highest court was emphasized this week by District Judge Wilmer B. Hunt.

Judge Hunt is a third generation lawyer seeking the position one post of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas to be vacated December 31 by St. John Garwood of Houston who is not running for re-election.

"The impact of decisions of the Supreme Court of Texas now and in the years ahead are of increasing vital concern to Texans in every walk of life," Judge Hunt said.

"It is therefore important that Texas voters weigh carefully the qualifications of those candidates seeking election to this high post," the veteran jurist added.

"During the course of this campaign it is obvious that there will be many voters whom I will not personally be able to meet to discuss my own qualifications for the office despite the fact that by election time I will have extended my campaign into every part of the state," he continued.

"For the benefit of those I may not meet, I offer the record of my 19 years in the general practice of law and my 11 years service on the district court bench as the basis for my candidacy," the judge said.

The veteran jurist presides over the 133rd District Court in Houston where he has been re-elected three times since 1948 without opposition.

He was first elected a special district judge in 1946 in a special election held by the Harris County Bar Association to name a temporary successor to the late Judge Roy Campbell who was ill at the time.

In 1947 Judge Hunt was appointed judge of the newly-created 133rd District Court by Gov. Beauford Jester.

Hunt received his BA degree at Georgetown University in Washington and his LLB degree from the University of Texas Law School.

He is a member of the State Bar of Texas, the American Bar Association and chairman of the legislative committee of the judiciary section of the state bar.

He was engaged in the private practice of law for 19 years prior to becoming judge of the 133rd District Court.

RAMSEY TO SEEK OFFICE OF LT. GOVERNOR

Eleven daily newspapers representing all sections of the state already have announced support of Ben Ramsey of San Augustine for re-election as Lieutenant Governor, Ramsey's headquarters reports.

"The soft-spoken East Texan has drawn strong backing from Texas, Arkansas to El Paso, and Fort Worth to Victoria," says the announcement.

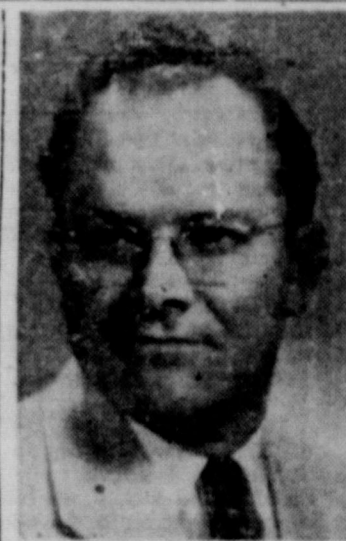

"Often the electorate pay but little attention to the important office of lieutenant governor, often not considering the candidate as a potential governor," the Marshall News-Messenger commented. "In the case of Ben Ramsey there will be no fears. He is capable, efficient, and his long, solid record has been built on honest, diligent and intelligent efforts. The lieutenant governor should encounter no difficulties in returning to high office. He is one person in public life whose strong record has made him a favorite of the people."

Other newspapers supporting Ramsey include the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Texarkana Gazette, Dallas Morning News, Victoria Advocate, Houston Chronicle, Kilgore News Herald, Nacogdoches Daily Sentinel, El Paso Times, Lufkin Daily News, and the Houston Post.

The Texas Mohair Weekly commented that Ramsey's "economic approach to state government is vital to Texans."

FAST DRIVING STILL TOPS HIGHWAY TOLL

Even though the average speed of Texas driving showed some improvement last year, driving too fast for conditions continued to hold its number one position in the list of causative factors for rural fatal accidents.

According to the Texas Department of Public Safety, one or more traffic law violations are apparent in most every rural fatal accident. For all types of rural accidents—those classified as fatal, injury and non-injury—the Texas DPS said seven out of every eight involved a least one violation of our traffic laws.

Records for 1957 disclose that 2,539 persons died in traffic accidents in our state in 2,077 fatal accidents, and our economic loss was estimated at more than 277 million dollars. Even so, our death rate dropped from 6.5 to six deaths per 100 million miles of driving. There were 67,886 injury accidents last year and 191,120 non-injury accidents, making a grand total of 261,083 accidents of all types.

With an eye on the accident and fatality record for 1958, Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., DPS director, asked for greater public cooperation in traffic law observance. He said, "Records for the first third of this year indicate that with continued public cooperation some 250 fewer persons will be killed this year than in 1957. Garrison said each individual driver "is a deciding factor in determining whether or not this will become a reality."

"Each driver must use his own knowledge, judgment and decision in avoiding accident situations. We have laws that are designed to aid the driver in protecting himself and others on our streets and highways. Those laws will do only one-half the job, if only one-half of the drivers use them. "Security in driving is the business of every driver. We hope that Texas motorists will continue to improve their knowledge of traffic laws and will become more disciplined in using them. This must be done if we are to make our streets and highways safer for ourselves and our families."

GRAY COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Never has a truer statement been made than the one which says, "It takes grass to grow grass." This fact is a key to successful range management, which is the art of using grass and at the same time insuring growth and production through the year.

To understand grass management it is important to know how and when a plant grows, where plant food comes from and how a plant responds to the many and varied conditions to which it is subjected.

The root system is the foundation of a plant. Roots are the anchors and transportation system for plants. They have power to search for raw materials needed to supply food for plants. They gather these materials—when they are in solution—and carry them up into the stem and leaves of the plants. Then, as the sun shines on these green leaves, sugars and starches are formed, making plant food. This process of food manufacture is called "photosynthesis" and is a key to grass management. Without green, growing leaves, there is no place for way for raw materials or minerals of a fertile soil to be manufactured into plant food. And, of course, without plants will starve and die.

Like livestock, the growth of grass is dependent on the quantity and quality of its food supply. He can do this by giving ability to provide this food supply. He can do this by giving his grass a chance to make the fullest possible growth in the spring and not overgrazing it.

Next year's production of grass is determined very largely by what happens to this year's grass. Too close grazing or even drought during the growing period—especially toward the fall or dormant period—will result in "too little reserve food supply being stored in the underground parts of the grasses. The fall of the year is a critical period in the life of a plant. It is at this season that new buds are formed just under the surface and in the crown of a plant. It is from these new buds that new growth comes next spring. If new buds are not formed in the fall, next spring's growth cannot start until spring buds are formed. This, of course, means delayed spring growth and low production.

It is important to know that fertility in the soil—does not necessarily mean food for growing plants. Fertility is present during severe drought time but very little of it is made into food. It is soil fertility in solution, plus sunlight, that makes plant food possible. Without any one of these three the plant cannot manufacture food—and without food plants cannot grow. Without ample food supplies, grass plants become weaker and smaller.

When rains come again we should not become complacent and say our range problems are over. Ranges in their present condition must have the most careful and intensive management possible if they are to recover their full growing powers.

The good range manager will give his grass a chance to make the fullest possible growth in the spring; he will do all he can to get and keep a good cover of grass over his range to hold the rain where it falls, control soil erosion, and reduce evaporation and high temperatures. He will insure the best fall growth possible so that a good food supply will be manufactured and sorted in the roots and crown; and so new buds will be formed for next year's growth. And he will

PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

Nesting Activities

The results of successful nesting practices is beginning to show up at this early date. Cleo Tom Terry reported one brood of blue quail last week. "There appeared to be nearly 20 young blues about the size of the end of your thumb in the brood." D. T. Fuller reported that he noticed two blue quail some distance away and by the time he got to where they were he observed two sets of large tracks on the ground covered with small tracks. Dick Coon, on the Sanford Ranch, reports quail whistling in all directions. One rancher reported that he had to stop his hay mower and move a small deer fawn from in front of the mower blades. Another rancher who was "haying" reported one fawn casualty as a result of the mower.

From all appearances, there will be a bumper game crop this fall.

Tons of Game Bird Food

Stop almost any place where there is green grass, look at the ground and you will see hundreds of small grasshoppers in a few square feet of land. These small grasshoppers are about one-half inch in length. When these grow to two or more inches in length the earth will be practically covered. Young turkeys and other game birds should fatten at a fast clip. This situation is exactly opposite of what it was a few years back when quail and other birds needed to search all the daylight hours to find enough food for survival.

With the adequate amount of rainfall that we have had the wild species will hit near the peak this year. In fact, if there had been a large amount of seed stock on the ranges this year, we could have had one of the largest crops of turkeys, deer and quail that we have ever witnessed. Nevertheless, there will be good hunting this fall with all of the wild game in a fat and sassy condition.

always leave some of each year's growth as litter and mulch to go back to the land.

Technicians in the Gray County Soil Conservation District, who are assisting ranchers with their conservation problems, are available to help analyze range conditions. They can give guidance in the use of range practices that will accomplish grass management and range improvement. It is a responsibility of everyone concerned to do everything possible to restore one of our most valuable resources—grass—to its rightful productive state.

could watch 'Wyatt Earp' or "Gunsmoke" under the cool breeze of an air conditioner. Recreation, fun, sport, or whatever you call it, has also reversed itself in some ways. Then it was top sport for some youths in the eastern part of the state to push a wagon hub rim. It sounds silly, but at the same time their fathers could find bob white quail hunting that was good just anywhere they stopped their Model T. Now Father needs to travel for miles and miles in an air-conditioned automobile and may be can find a place where he can hunt and he is lucky if he even finds a covey of birds, while Junior is sitting under the cool breeze watching TV.

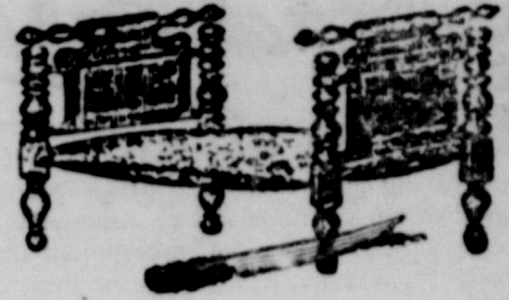

Now which is the more foolish, Father hunting birds and not getting many, or Junior, several years back, pushing the wagon wheel hub ring? Utilizing the opportunity, whether it be mumblety peg or upland game bird shooting at its best, adds up to the significance that is attached to it.

Of course, all of this hilarious fun would be readily scorned by the modern youth, same as the youths of that day, provided they

COMMON-SENSE FARM PROGRAM

The cost of the government's farm program continues to soar into economic outer space. Last year alone the bill was $3,300,000,000. Yet government controls and price fixing have hurt farmers more than they have helped.

That is the view of John L. Strohm, a farmer, businessman, and one of the country's leading farm editors. In a recently published pamphlet, he argues that the controls and other stratagems have made surpluses inevitable, have placed a ceiling on opportunity, have shackled farm progress and reduced efficiency, and amount to a waste of important resources—human, financial, and mechanical. He also points out that price supports have been of extremely minor benefit to the small farmer.

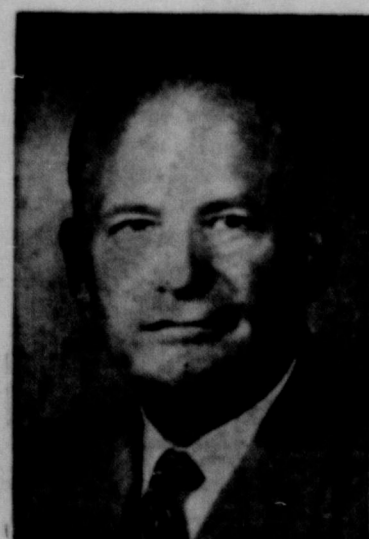

Then Mr. Strohm presents what he terms a common-sense farm program. It has seven points. In capsule form, here are are: 1. Quit trying to fix farm prices. 2. Free farmers gradually from controls. 3. Get rid of surplus gradually. 4. Promote markets abroad. 5. Expand markets at home. 6. Develop new crops and new uses. 7. Help small farmers help themselves.

Mr. Strohm thinks that farmers will support such a program because they'll be free to farm more efficiently and make more money; that housewives will support it because they'll be able to serve better meals at less cost, and that, finally, taxpayers will support it because it will mean a tax saving of about $75 a year for the average family. Government's efforts on behalf of agriculture add up to one of the most expensive flops in history. It's high time we tried an entirely new tack.

generating plant at Parr, S. C. Four private utility firms are ready to put up the major cost of the undertaking and have complied with every requirement of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Joint Congressional Committee on Nuclear Power, but the project is bogged down in Washington.

Could it be that proponents of public power have applied the customary obstruction tactics to such private development of power—or is it, as the Observer said, "... governmental red tape ... gumming up the works."

A plant grows in Death Valley, Calif., which is called the "killer weed." Its orange colored tentacles envelope another plant or bush and strangle it to death. Its effect on plant life corresponds to the results of bureaucratic red tape on our economic life.

ANTI-RECESSION STEP

The idea of relieving individual and business enterprise from unnecessary regimentation as an anti-recession measure is a good one. Such action would likely do much to cure the country's economic "miseria." Yet many politicians accustomed to cozening voters by promising to solve their problems with further government control apparently don't think economic freedom is "politically smart." Representative Harris of Arkansas provides an exception in stressing the need to ease utility-type federal control over the highly risky and competitive business of producing natural gas.

According to Mr. Harris, there has been a 25% decline in the number of exploratory crews actually engaged in seeking new oil and gas reserves. He added that relieving producers from the pressure of federal control at this time would be a great anti-recession step "that would cost the taxpayer nothing; that would be carried out entirely by private business funds; that has the endorsement of the administration and of Congress; that would provide lower energy costs; that would require hundreds of thousands of tons of steel pipe and oil country tubular goods; that would put thousands upon thousands of men back to work; that would be of benefit to the total economy."

Some proposals for lifting controls from the gas producers have been criticized on the grounds that they do not give sufficient protection to consumers and to other interested industries. If that is the case, these protections can and should be incorporated in legislation. But there should be no avoidable delay in lifting an artificial burden that has discouraged exploration, that threatens to imperil the future supply of gas moving in interstate commerce, and that contributes to recession. What are we waiting for?

WHY IS THAT IMPORTANT?

Frequently, emergencies arise when our customers want their money in a big hurry. We are prepared for this by keeping huge cash reserves readily available.

That's why there is no safety like bank safety. Your money is there when you need it... every cent.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK
 IN McLEAN
 Member F. D. I. C.

The cure for anti-Americanism in the world is not to be found in anti-worldism in America.

Withdrawal from the troubled affairs of the world offers an obvious temptation to the United States. But any effort to hold ourselves aloof from the world would be doomed to failure. The promises of this temptation could never be realized.

There is a great challenge to the American spirit in these times. It is to take the initiative in finding new and effective ways of fostering understanding between our nation and other nations of the world.

Since World War II, we have done much to try to perfect a system of defense guaranteeing our country against surprise enemy attack—the kind of attack the Japanese launched on Pearl Harbor in December, 1941.

This effort is both sound and necessary. We need, and the cause of freedom must have, an ever-ready, ever-alert, ever-strong defense. We have spent and are continuing to spend many billions of dollars to provide such a defense.

But is protection against surprise enough?

The threat of military aggression is not the only threat a nation such as ours has to face. When we impose the total burden of American security upon military men, we are asking them to bear a greater load than they can or should carry.

Nor can we rely solely on science and technology to safeguard our security.

Russia has put into the air a Sputnik many times heavier than any of ours. That is a stunning and shocking fact, and we are rightly disturbed by it.

Even more distressing is the fact that only a closed, bullet-proof car kept our Vice President from death on the streets of a city in South America. The shameful incident holds a lesson that should be driven home to all of us.

It is important to teach physics and engineering so we can produce Sputniks that are second to none. But it is just as important—and perhaps more important—to teach humanities and the social sciences, so our people will know how to talk with other people and here will be no mobs throwing stones at the representatives of the United States.

The task we face is not easy.

We cannot buy understanding simply by placing a production order. We have to work to attain understanding—work hard and patiently and without ceasing, both in government and out of government.

The real challenge to the American spirit now is to give our country a spiritual growth even greater than its military strength.

This is our first order of urgent business.

VETERANS INFORMATION

Q—This fall I'll be taking a college pre-med course, under the Korean GI bill, in the same city where I now have a job in a drug store. My boss wants me to go on working for him, part-time. Would those drug store earnings cut down my GI allowance?

A—No. You may earn any amount at all in your spare time, without having your school allowance reduced. In fact, veterans in school under the GI bill do not even have to report outside earnings to the VA.

Q—I am receiving disability compensation payments, and, according to a statement from my physician, my disability has become worse. Is his statement enough to qualify me for increased payments from VA?

A—The evidence provided by your physician must be verified by an official VA physical examination. If VA finds your condition has become worse, the compensation increase may be made effective as of the date VA received the evidence from your physician.

A—An advance financing commitment from the VA is an arrangement whereby sums of money up to $135,000 for any one builder, may be set aside and used by VA to make loans directly to veterans who agree to buy houses the builder will erect. The builder is charged a 2% fee for this service, and has three months, which may be extended, in which to contract with eligible veterans for the purchase or construction of the homes.

Q—I'm a World War II veteran, still carrying GI term insurance, which is getting pretty expensive. Can I convert just part of it to a permanent plan, or must I convert all of it at once?

A—You may convert part of your GI term insurance to permanent insurance, if you wish. However, insurance must be converted in multiples of $500, and the minimum amount that may be converted is $1,000.

Your Reddy Kilowatt dealer has a bonus for you if you see a demonstration of his electric range in his store. He'll give you a certificate good for two bug lamps at any Public Service office. Yellow bug lamps, which fit ordinary sockets, eliminate most of the light that insects see, yet provide a soft, comfortable light for outdoor living.

And that's good. For when this vivacious and attractive doctor's wife is out of the kitchen, she's spending much of her time making her community a better place to live. Time is important to Mrs. Garre. In addition to being a fine mother and homemaker, she is a working leader in the P-T-A, Amarillo's Child Guidance Center, The Family Service of Amarillo, and The Potter-Randall Citizen's Committee. LET THE BIBLE SPEAK

THE EVILS OF DANCING

Our purpose in publishing this article is not to deride anyone, but to inform the public concerning a practice which we believe to be evil. Also to get those whose minds may be awakened to the will of God concerning the moral issues involved to give serious consideration to these issues as they affect the lives of our young people. It is our prayer that all who engage in dancing could be influenced to stop.

Briefly we shall state the issues involved and the teaching of God's word concerning these issues.

Dancing has always been questioned by religious thinking men and women as an evil practice. Space forbids listing these and giving the references, but they can be summed up in the words of representative of two groups who permit dancing and have seen their evil influences. A bishop has said, "As to the dance that it is the most dangerous form of amusement I am equally sure. Why do I say this? Because in scores of cases I have seen the effect of the dance on the Christian character of the young people—and old ones too." Another, an archbishop, has said, "Nineteen of every twenty women coming to the confessional contribute their fall to the dance." When the results are evil then the practice must be. Those who are endeavoring to live righteously will shun the very appearance of evil. (1 Thes. 5:22.)

Proponents of the dance often cite the health and exercise value to be derived. However in this certain facts are overlooked. In a recent survey conducted by a gospel preacher in this state letters were sent to fifty physicians asking the question, "Do you consider the modern dance as engaged in by our young people beneficial or detrimental to health?" Forty-six of that number said that it was "positively detrimental." This fact is further borne out when one is made to realize that the average life of the exclusive male dancer is thirty-one years, and of the female is twenty-five years.

However, the greatest and most important factor to those who are concerned with the will of God is, what do the scriptures teach? In Gal. 5:19-21 are listed the works of the flesh which the apostle Paul tells us that those who practice such cannot inherit the kingdom of God. Among the works of the flesh listed is "lasciviousness." This word is translated from a Greek word which means, "indecent bodily movements, unchaste handling of males and females, etc." THAYER'S LEXICON, pp. 79-80. That such exists in dancing even the casual observer cannot deny. The basic reason for the popularity of the dance is its sex appeal. This is borne out by the fact that men do not dance with men and women with women. A former owner of a large dance hall in Chicago has said, "We are all men. We know the natural desires of youth. We know that sex is the strongest impulse planted in the human race. You can picture the effect on a boy or girl of 18 or 20, when this hunger is keenest, when knowledge and experience are lacking in the foundation of judgment, of one of these dances which calls for close abdominal contact and frequently brings the cheeks together and entwines the limbs—There is left, then, but one reason for its popularity. That reason is sex appeal. I hasten to assure you that I do not believe that dancers are always conscious this is the reason they enjoy this position and the steps that go with it. But lack of consciousness is merely an added factor of danger." The apostle makes it very plain when he says "and such like" in the conclusion of his listing the works of the flesh. An eminent scholar sums up the matter when he said, "No child dances into heaven, but many a one dances into hell."

There may be many other practices which are just as bad, but two wrongs will not make right. One does not have to choose between two evils, he can choose that which is right. We believe the scriptures teach dancing to be wrong and that no Christian will engage in that which is contrary to God's will.

Total Eclipse of the Sun Saturday

A phenomenon that is seldom seen but once in a lifetime is a total eclipse of the sun, such as will be visible from McLean Saturday afternoon, beginning at about 6:0 o'clock and lasting as a total eclipse for about half an hour.

It is declared by astronomers that where the total eclipse is on it will get so dark that the chickens will go to roost and one cannot read without a lamp.

The only way one can watch the eclipse without injury to the eyes is to look through a smoked glass. Get an ordinary piece of broken window pane, take the globe off the kerosene lamp, and hold the glass over the flame until the desired blackness is obtained.

IT'S THE LAW In Texas

"With All My Worldly Goods"

June is traditionally the month for weddings, and many couples will be taking marriage vows within the next few weeks. A certain symbolic transfer of "worldly goods" is often associated with the wedding ceremony, but under Texas law the act of marrying another does not give you the right to take control of his property.

Generally speaking, each spouse has the right to control and dispose of his or her own separate property. The separate property of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired by either after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Aside from the ordinary community estate, there is a class of property known as the wife's "special community," which includes all the income from her separate real property, and probably the interest on bonds or notes, and dividends on stocks owned in her separate right. While the husband may have similar assets, the law accords them no particular distinction from ordinary community property.

Although the history of the matter is somewhat confusing, it appears that under present day law the husband has control of ordinary community property; but control of the wife's special community property is reserved to her.

Certain restrictions are imposed upon both husband and wife in exercising such control. For instance, the husband cannot legally dispose of community property in such a way as to defraud the wife, nor can he sell the homestead without her signature and acknowledgment. And the wife's sale or mortgage of her separate real estate, stocks or bonds is not valid unless her husband joins with her in the transaction—he must sign and execute the necessary papers along with her.

There are laws exempting the wife's separate and special community property from liability for debts incurred by the husband. Such liability is restricted to his separate property and the ordinary community property.

On the other hand, debts incurred by the wife in obtaining necessities for herself or the children bind all property belonging to either party, including the husband's separate property. For other debts which she has power to incur, only her separate and

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Eyes Right

A child's first eye test, according to many specialists, ought to be done at about age three, when differences in right and left vision often can be corrected quite easily. A few years later, similar defects are much harder to correct. A picture chart can be used to test the vision of youngsters who haven't learned to read.

Other hints on eye care are suggested by Dr. Franklin M. Foote, executive director of the National Institute for Prevention of Blindness. Dr. Foote recommends that you shade a baby's eyes from direct sunlight, and if they are watery or inflamed, have your doctor take a look.

Don't try to "rub" a cinder out of your eye, Dr. Foote cautions. If blinking or washing with a little lukewarm water doesn't do it, let your doctor remove the particle before it works into the cornea, or "window" covering of the eye.

Eye specialists urge that you protect your eyes against glare reflected from shiny surfaces when reading, and read only in good light. Whether light comes from behind your right or left shoulder doesn't really matter.

A lamp turned on when you watch television actually helps you avoid strain. If you drive at night, don't wear tinted glasses to protect against headlight glare; vision will be dangerously reduced.

Headlights, sun, smoke, reading, sewing, television—even emotional upsets can irritate your eyes. Rubbing makes them worse. According to Dr. E. E. Grossman and Dr. R. H. Lehman, of Marquette University Medical School, new eye-drops called Visine are "superior to all other commonly used drugs" for easing strained eyes. A few drops in each eye offer immediate relief that lasts for several hours, according to these eye specialists. Morning headache or eye pain, or sudden reading difficulties may be early signs of glaucoma, according to Dr. Foote, who urges early eye check-up for these signs.

All of these distinctions emphasize the advisability of keeping proper records. By doing so the various classes of community and separate property owned by a married couple will always be easily distinguishable. Each category will then receive the special protection afforded it by our laws.

Hosiery Stylists Stress Color, Care

NEWS FROM PARIS of shorter skirts and slim styles give pretty legs and sheer stockings a dominant place in the fashion picture. Cannon hosiery stylists suggest a one-color look in costumes—nylons in soft muted tones that blend, rather than contrast with shorter skirts. Select lovelier, sheerer stockings—seamless or seamed. They are surprisingly low-priced these days and give excellent wear.

As a wise precaution, buy nylons big enough—even a half size larger than you wear. When you put them on, take off rings to prevent sharp points from causing snags. Draw nylons on gently; don't pull. Keep a vigilant eye on rough shoe linings that cause rubbing. Toe nails, too, should be short and smooth to prevent catching.

Launder nylons carefully after every wearing, suggests Cannon. Use mild soap such as Lux and, after washing, squeeze stockings in a towel and hang away from heat.

Organize Your Kitchen for Leisure

"Today's housewife can be a lady of leisure or a household drudge," says William J. Milton, president of the Can Manufacturers Institute. "It's a matter of organization."

Running out at odd intervals during a week for a loaf of bread, a half dozen cans of beer or a pound of butter are the great time-wasting activities which make American women slaves to the kitchen.

Four hours a week is a generous amount of time for planning, making a purchase list, buying and unpacking household staples. For those fortunate enough to have delivery service, two hours is sufficient time.

"From grandma's time until today, the tin can has been a trust-worthy friend of the housewife, and modern day canning developments bring most household needs into the realm of non-perishable goods which are easily stored," Mr. Milton comments.

The Can Manufacturers Institute states there are over 2,000 commodities now available in metal cans and suggests that although an order list will be composed primarily of canned products, the most helpful technique in kitchen inventory is to check household needs by department.

Each homemaker providing herself with a large empty sheet of paper or pad can jot down the following list headings as she takes her weekly household inventory, and be fairly certain of furnishing all family needs for the week: Beverages, Dairy, Desserts, Fruits and Nuts, Household Cleaners and Hardware, Meats, Poultry, Fish, Paper Products, Staples, Drugs and Vegetables.

Armed with this handy group of categories, Mrs. America can clean her refrigerator, cupboard, and storage compartments at the same time she is determining the number of needed purchases. Such a technique is the best possible guarantee against ending up with 8 packages of noodles and no cheese or tomatoes for sauce.

A complete and well ordered stack of staples makes all household tasks easier and less time consuming. Housecleaning, painting and redecorating or cooking are most readily accomplished if all materials are close at hand, and the time saved by such intelligent organization becomes free for favorite hobbies, entertainment and leisure-time activities.

Shape up to the chemise with Formfit's new rounded "Romance" bra of nylon taffeta and lace. The new "Skippies" pantie of nylon power net has satin elastic front and back panels and reinforced side panels to control curves where it counts.

Whether you choose to wear the chemise or not, you are going to feel its influence in your wardrobe this Spring and Summer. The new shape is available in all price ranges and in many forms—one of which may be just for you.

The chemise in all its variations calls for a high, gently rounded bosom and firmly controlled hips in order to maintain its lean, free look.

The new kind of figuring you'll find is provided in Formfit's Spring collection of underfashions.

Perfect understudy for the chemise is their new series of "Romance" bras with circled-stitched princess line cups to lift and round the bosom.

One of the prettiest in the group is a nylon taffeta bandeau, style #565, with delicate-looking nylon lace cups. A two-inch elastic band beneath the cups gives flexible fit and complete comfort.

Specialty designed to whittle your curves under the narrow-skirted chemise is a new longer-than-usual "Skippies" pantie girdle, style #873, of nylon power net with controlling satin elastic front and back panels. A long diamond-shaped panel of doubled power net runs down each side to taper the side hip and thigh. The waistline is slightly dipped in front for extra comfort.

If you prefer girdles to panties, there is a girdle mate to this pantie in the same sizes—small, medium, large and extra large.

New Outlook for Oldest City

TURKEY'S ISTANBUL, one of the oldest cities in the world, is getting a completely new look. Overnight, bulldozers move whole blocks, opening up historic sites that were cluttered with obsolete small buildings. First built twenty-five centuries ago by Byzas, rebuilt in 1453 by the Turkish Sultan Mehmet (known as the Conqueror, portrayed above, right), Istanbul's present renovator Premier Adnan Menderes, at left, has five centuries to catch up. So, wasting no time, he starts his rounds on the construction of the city at sunrise each day. Already he has been named Adnan, the Builder. The oldest city in the world is getting the newest look.

Congressman Rogers Reports—TO THE PEOPLE

Defense Appropriations

The House last week voted 389 to 0 to give the Department of Defense 38½ billion dollars for the 1959 fiscal year. The House added an amendment which would keep the standing army at 900 thousand during 1959. The House felt, by the tune of 224 votes for to 158 votes against, that the army should be reduced to the 870,000 figure suggested by the President. In 1955 the army had 1 million 109 thousand 300; 1 million 25 thousand 800 in 1956, and 998 thousand in 1957. The President first suggested for 1958 a standing army of 1 million, but subsequently reduced his estimate to 900 thousand. He then urged a further reduction to 870 thousand for 1959. The matter was thoroughly debated, both in committee and before the House, and the conclusion to fix the standing army at 900 thousand for 1959 was well justified. The fact is the army gets the smallest amount of money from the defense budget, some 8½ billion; the air force approximately 18 billion, and the navy about 12 billion. The tremendous amount of money involved in the over-all defense picture is one of the bones of contention between the White House and the Congress with relation to the reorganization plan offered by the President. Our military establishment has always been maintained under civilian control through a secretary for each respective service. The un-fication bill of a few years ago setting up the Department of Defense created a single cabinet office of Secretary of Defense, but did not abolish the administrative powers of the secretaries of each of the services. The latest request of the President for changes in the bill written by the Armed Services committee of the House would indicate that the administration wants to concentrate all power in the Secretary of Defense and leave with the secretaries of army, navy and air force limited powers that would be ineffective as against the whims or desires of the Secretary of Defense. To follow the President's suggestion would be to place in the hands of one man, the Secretary of Defense, almost absolute powers with relation to the military forces of this nation. That power, coupled with the power to control the expenditure of 38½ billions of dollars for the next fiscal year plus carry-over sums, could, and possibly would, create an over-all power in one man that could measurably affect the economy in any section of this country. Although it could be argued that the proposal of the President would not, in itself, set up a Prussian-type of high command, it cannot be successfully argued that the powers placed in one man would not provide a vehicle by which a Prussian-type command could be set up in a very few years and perpetuated for many.

Taxes
The House of Representatives last week granted a one-year extension of the existing corporate normal tax rates and of certain excise tax rates. The measure came before the House under a closed rule. This means that no amendments or changes in the bill could be made except those named and provided for in the resolution calling for debate of the bill. In other words, it was a case where you had to take the bill as it was or kill the whole measure. There was much dissatisfaction with this procedure, because there were some items that many members wanted to reduce, such as automobile excise taxes. It was the feeling of many that a reduction of these taxes might generate some help for the recessionary situation that has developed in the automobile industry. However, since this could not be done separately, it was practically impossible to get it done at all. The reason being that the bill under discussion carried with it a continuation of excise taxes on whisky, beer, wine and certain tobacco products; therefore, the killing of the bill.

 In order to provide a reduction in automobile excise taxes, would have also resulted in killing taxes on whisky, wine, beer and certain tobacco products. So under the circumstances, the measure passed the House and was sent to the Senate. The bill had been recommended by President Eisenhower for passage and, in fact, it had been introduced by the chairman of the tax committee at the request of the administration.

Transportation taxes on freight and passengers were not included in the extension of the taxes under the bill that was before the House last week. There was a discussion about the possibility of getting tax relief in the transportation field, but the indications are, both from the administration's forces and the leadership in the House, that there will be no tax reductions in any areas this year, except the possibility of some tax relief for small business. This, of course, made many of us rather sad, because we had hoped that some of the taxes could be had where it was most needed.

World Affairs
 Much could be said about the many conflicts across the face of the earth, but space is running out, so I will leave you with a poem that was sent to me by my good friend, Dennis Zimmerman, from Tullia. It is most appropriate and reads as follows:
 "This world is a wonderful world,
 Its wonders never cease,
 All civilized nations are at war,
 All savages are at peace."

GRASSHOPPER CONTROL BEGUN THROUGH OUT PANHANDLE

Sixteen field men from the Texas Department of Agriculture have initiated an emergency grasshopper control program in the Panhandle area, Agriculture Commissioner John White has announced.

Seven counties are the initial target in combatting an expected heavy buildup of the destructive pest. Federal and state officials met in Amarillo last week to plan early phases of work in Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson and Oidham counties.

Ground spraying of highway right-of-ways has been started in Moore County. Early estimates show spraying operations may be necessary on about one million acres of land where the hopper could reach "plague proportions."

White said about $25,000 in state funds are available for insect control work. Field men will be spraying right-of-ways at a cost of some $3.60 per mile. Work on private land is expected to run about 60 cents per acre, with costs shared jointly by property owners and the state and federal governments.

"Early spraying is expected to prevent a serious build-up," White said. "Migratory female hoppers lay 200 to 400 eggs a season. If a majority of the eggs develop into adults, they can average about 23 to 32 hoppers per square yard. Even lesser amounts can strip the end of crops and grass."

The hopper threat is especially serious to cattlemen of the Plains. "For every dollar spent on control, it can save ranchers and farmers of Texas some $38 in crops and grasses later on," said White.

Pad and Fan Saves Profit

Summer is the time for rejoicing — but not if you are in the egg laying business. To the egg producer, hot summer temperatures can mean fewer and smaller eggs, and the possible heat death of many layers.

Research and testing conducted by Texas A & M College proves the pad and fan cooling method to be effective in reducing layer deaths and improving summer egg production.

Mr. Art Chesher of Littlefield is the first egg producer in the area to install this profit-saving cooling system. A unit has been installed in his 30' by 160' egg laying house using four 1/2 horsepower electric exhaust fans and 50 feet of aspen pads.

The pad and fan cooling system is an overgrown evaporative cooler which may be constructed in size to meet the cooling needs of varying sizes of layer houses. Mr. Chesher, by using 4 electric exhaust fans, gains complete flow of cool air throughout the laying house without the extreme drafts common to evaporative coolers installed in the conventional manner. Water is supplied to the aspen pads through an ordinary 4" eaves gutter and is recirculated by a centrifugal pump pump.

Mr. Chesher expects the pad and fan cooling system to increase summer egg production 20% and reduce layer culling as much as 12% without creating a moisture or litter problem.

Mr. Art Chesher of Littlefield expects the pad and fan cooling system to increase production as much as 20% and reduce layer culling 12%.
