Miss Hill, who plays trombone, received the award sponsored by the magazine, "Instrumentalist."

The award, a trophy which is given to McLean High School's outstanding musical student each year, is made possible by living relatives of the great march composer, Sousa, in the interest of promoting music in the public schools.

SUCCESSFUL TRIP BY SENIORS

The McLean seniors left McLean at 6:30 a. m. Saturday, May 10, on their trip to Galveston and "points south."

They arrived in Dallas at about 2 p. m. Saturday and that evening enjoyed Chinese food at a Chinese restaurant and saw a motion picture, "Search for Paradise," a Cinerama production.

They left Dallas "bright and early" the next morning on their way to Galveston. After dinner at Houston, they visited the San Jacinto battlefields and monument. The battleship Texas was also on the class' tour schedule.

They arrived in Galveston Sunday evening and unpacked for their stay at the Coronado Courts located near the beach. Here, they went on an excursion trip around the port and some went deep sea fishing.

The seniors stayed at the Coronado Courts Sunday and Monday nights. Monday night they had seafood at a restaurant that extended over the ocean.

Tuesday morning they boarded the bus, San Antonio bound. On the way, they visited the Aquarena, a marine theater, and took a glass bottom boat tour at San Marcos. In San Antonio, they were guests at the Blue Bonnet Hotel, where they stayed for two nights.

Wednesday they visited the zoo at Brackenridge Park, the Alamo and the Sunken Gardens. That night they ate at a Mexican restaurant, Casa Rio, on the banks of the San Antonio River, and spent several hours at an amusement park, later attending a theater.

Thursday morning, a little reluctantly, they left San Antonio and headed for McLean, the "Pride of the Panhandle." As they passed through Austin, they were guided through the state capitol. They arrived in McLean Thursday evening with "many memories, both sad and happy."

DRINK OF GAS FATAL TO LELA YOUTH

McClellan Chodd Barker, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barker of Lela, died Monday afternoon in Shamrock General Hospital after he had sucked gasoline into his lungs.

The youngster was apparently attempting to siphon gas from a tractor, as he had seen his father do, when he swallowed the liquid.

His mother rushed him to the hospital in Shamrock where he was admitted at 5:30 p. m. He died about an hour later.

McClellan was born August 6, 1953, in Pampa. He moved with his parents from McLean to Lela in 1957.

Surviving are his parents, two sisters, Sherry, 15, and Della, 6, three brothers, Gayle, 12, Ernest, 8, and Percy, 6 months, all of the home; the grandparents, Mrs. L. R. Thomas of Roswell, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dewitt of Chandler, Okla.; and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Barker of McLean.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the First Baptist Church in McLean, with Rev. L. D. Leavelle, Lela Baptist pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Jesse Leonard, McLean pastor. Burial was in Hillcrest Cemetery under the direction of Richardson-Lamb Funeral Home.

GRAHAM'S LATEST FILM TO BE SHOWN IN McLEAN MAY 26

Evangelist Billy Graham's latest motion picture "The Heart Is A Rebel" is being shown in McLean.

The story is based on a conflict in the life of a modern young couple when the husband, an advertising executive, can't find a place in his scheme of things for his wife's sudden acceptance of the Christian faith. In a completely "down to earth" setting the situation provides a dimension of reality seldom afforded a religious motion picture.

Ethel Waters adds luster to her long career in the role of the practical nurse who exerts a profound influence on the young couple through her day by day faith in God! A film highlight is Miss Waters' inspiring rendition of "His Eye Is on the Sparrow" and the spiritual "Motherless Child."

Georgia Lee and John Milford give striking portrayals as the young married couple.

Georgia Lee's previous performances in "Oiltown, U. S. A.", "The Crescent & The Cross", "The Flame" as well as her recent entry into the sacred recording field, have endeared her to audiences around the world.

Reeves Is Named New Housing Group Head

Another step was taken toward gaining new home units for McLean Monday night at a meeting of the McLean Housing Authority.

Effective as of the meeting, Bill Reeves was elected to serve as chairman of the group, replacing Jimmie Don Morris, who tendered his resignation. On the nomination of Jim Hathaway, Reeves was unanimously elected. In other member changes, W. C. Simpson was elected as vice chairman, and Charles Cullin was appointed as a member of the board by Mayor Ed Lander.

Foremost in the meeting was the motion to adopt a resolution authorizing execution of a preliminary loan contract and general depository agreement, and the issuance of preliminary notes. The motion carried unanimously. The action was taken following the announcement last week of the authorization of $2,000 for the preliminary work in determining the number of units McLean would be eligible to receive.

The first of the funds received will go to secretarial work on the housing projects, to be followed by a land survey for the location of the units and the actual determining of the number of units to be had.

Board members present for the meeting were Reeves, Hathaway, Simpson, Cullin and Elmo Whaley, secretary.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD MAY 30

The Hillcrest Cemetery Association will sponsor Memorial Day services at Hillcrest Cemetery at 10:00 a. m. May 30.

The service will be in memory of those interred there and in honor of the war dead.

Further announcement concerning the service will be made next week.

The 1958 graduating class of McLean High School reaches the end of a 12-year trek Friday night.

Commencement exercises for the graduates will be held in the Municipal Building Friday at 8 p. m. Dr. Jack Walker of West Texas State College will bring the main address.

Twelve years ago, the parents of the members of this year's graduating class probably shed a tear or two as they started their children off on their first big undertaking "on their own." Tomorrow night, there may be another tear or two shed as the 42 seniors who successfully completed that undertaking receive their diplomas.

Some of the seniors will go to college. Some will not. In either case, tomorrow night is a significant milestone in their lives. Graduation doesn't signify the end of high school days nearly so much as it signifies the start of another, more challenging phase of life when they will be even more "on their own."

Baccalaureate services for the seniors were held Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

On this year's honor roll were Molly Miller, David Woods, Darel Lee, Almeda Gibson, Jimmy Vineyard, Mary Gordin, Janiece Magee, Marilyn Herndon, Susie Trout and Charlene Hall.

The class colors are blue and white. The class flower is the blue carnation. The motto is "Forward On, No Retreat," and "I Believe" is the class song.

Sponsors for the class this year are Mary Tom Riley and Carl Dwyer.

J. W. Hoopes, deputy governor of the Dallas Federal Bank, has sent out a circular letter to the press, complimenting them for the efficient work done in promoting the sale of Liberty Bonds. Mr. Hoopes says:

"The greatest compliment I can pay the press of the 11th reserve district is to point to the constantly growing totals of the third Liberty Loan subscription list.

Cavalrymen Leave and Come Back Again

The men of Captain Byrd's cavalry troop received orders to be in Claude by 4 o'clock p. m. Tuesday. At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning they assembled in the street, told their parents, wives and sweethearts good-bye, and started for Claude in automobiles.

They had been told that they would go directly from Claude to Austin, where they would be federalized, but after arriving in Claude they learned that they could not be federalized until after the first of June. The men were mustered in, then returned to their homes, subject to 24 hours notice.

Alanreed Banker Here

C. B. Hedrick, president of the Alanreed bank, was in the city Wednesday, and while here was a pleasant caller at the sanatorium of the moral weekly, and left with us a nice order for printing, which causes the editor to once more have visions of beefsteak, lasses pie, and other delicacies ordinarily enjoyed only by the rich and near rich. We started to say in the outset that Mr. Hedrick was the best looking man in Alanreed, but we remembered that the honors lay between him and Slade Ball, who intends to be the sheriff of Gray County. All of which reminds us that Slade was seen on the streets of the metropolis Tuesday interviewing the voters and repairing and building political fences.

Rev. Carpenter Makes Speech

Those who were fortunate enough to get into the Baptist church last Sunday evening to hear him are loud in their praise of the speech of Rev. J. E. Carpenter, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist Church, Amarillo.

Rev. Carpenter is one of the best orators in the Panhandle, and on this occasion exhibited a rare talent for cracking jokes and driving nails. Before one got through laughing at the joke or funny story, he would drive home a point in his argument with a force few men are capable of.

The first thing he attempted—and he did it, too—was to prove to any who might not think so that it is not always wrong for a nation to go to war, their possible misinterpretations of the scripture to the contrary notwithstanding.

Then he proceeded to pay his respects to the kaiser and his gang of cutthroats, which he did in grand style, winding up with an appeal for subscriptions to the Red Cross second war fund. Something over $800 was subscribed.

POOR MORPHEUS

Insomnia sufferers of old ate raw white onions to woo the arms of Morpheus. Pity the poor husband or wife! Today we have more reliable methods of inducing sleep... sleeping pills and the tranquilizers for example. But, these medications are prescription items and should be taken only upon the advice of your physician. Check the obvious reasons for sleeplessness first—it may be caused by a lumpy mattress. Then, if the condition continues, see your doctor. If he recommends medication, we'll be glad to fill his prescription.

POETIC JUSTICE

Business Week reports: "Since the nation's makers of farm equipment began feeling the recession earlier than most in the hardgoods field, it's only poetic justice that they can now descry some hints of hope in their future." The article goes on to say that employment in the industry has been holding up well, that dealers have found keen farmer interest in new products, and that most of the manufacturers expect 1958 sales to equal last year's and that some even anticipate an improvement.

As a general rule, the dealers stock farm equipment in the first quarter of a year and make deliveries to the buyers in the second. So we will soon know whether or not this attitude of hopefulness is well-founded. However, it is difficult to see how the long-term trend in the industry can be anything but favorable. With today's inflated labor costs, mechanized farming is an absolute necessity—and that goes for the family farm, which remains the backbone of agriculture, as well as the big corporation-type farms.

Business Week tells of some of the improved machines. Combines are now offered which cut swaths 16 to 18 feet wide, as against last year's 14 to 16 feet. Planters and cultivators can work six rows at a time instead of four. So it goes down the list.

Farm machinery can't be judged by the price tag alone. The big factors are how much time, money and labor it can save the farmer in his operations. Judged by that sound criteria, the present offerings are A-1 buys.

IS FREEDOM A DEAD DUCK?

It is heartening to report that there has been a vast amount of protest over a ruling of the Internal Revenue Service concerning certain institutional advertising placed by the taxpaying electric utility companies of the country. This advertising, in general, has presented the private enterprise side of the power question as against the socialized power side. And the IRS said that it could not be regarded as a legitimate business expense in making tax returns.

A typical view is found in a resolution passed by the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association: "... such a ruling... is a threat to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom to communicate, and this ruling infringes upon the constitutional rights of independent power companies, other businesses and individuals, and is a violation of the fundamental principles upon which this country was founded and which have made it flourish under economic, political and social freedom."

Editor Jack W. Gore of the Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Daily News, reprinted that statement and added: "If the private power companies can be penalized in this fashion then any private industry, including the press, can be throttled in much the same way. In other words, the federal government can propagandize the people all its wants to and even use our own money against us to accomplish its ends. But free enterprise, threatened by government encroachment into its field of business endeavor, can't take its case to the people and treat the cost as a legitimate business expense."

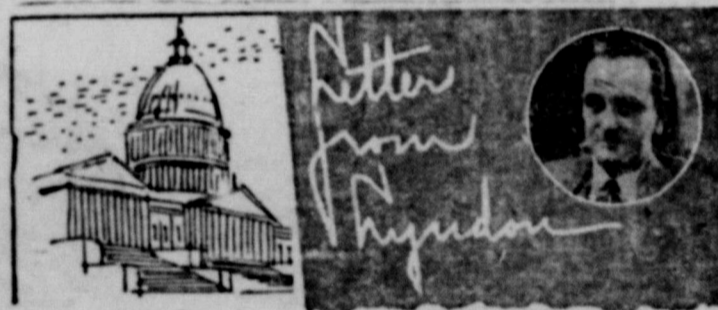

If taxation can be used as a weapon to prevent the airing of the views of any business or group, we can write freedom off as a dead duck in this country.

THE MEAT SITUATION

Meat has been in comparatively short supply and, consequently, prices have risen. Growers are building up their herds and so are marketing fewer animals.

This matter prompted an interesting editorial observation in the Portland Oregonian. It pointed out that Department of Agriculture experts are afraid that meat producers may expand their breeding stocks too rapidly, and thus bring on a meat oversupply accompanied by plummeting prices about two years from now. Then the Oregonian said: "The ideal would be for producers to send just enough animals to market to maintain fair prices but not to boost them to the point where consumers will rebel. . . . But stringent controls would be necessary to achieve such a situation, and this no one desires. Government controls and price supports have complicated other phases of agriculture. Cattle growers have got along without them and so they should continue, even though steaks are high now and may be cheap two years from now."

Meat moves in a free market. Like any free market commodity, meat prices will vary drastically on occasion. But one thing is sure—in the long run both producers and consumers get a fair price break. Another point needs mention here. Despite price increases, the average worker earns enough money in 29 minutes to buy a pound of round steak today—as compared with 36 minutes in 1948.

Dear Friend:

The American people are deeply shocked by the treatment accorded the Vice President and his wife in Latin America. The shock is understandable. The Vice President is the symbol and the representative of our government.

As one who has been intimately acquainted—on terms of mutual respect and friendship—with Latin Americans for many years, I am confident that this feeling of shock is shared by our neighbors to the south. The fact is that those who attacked our Vice President are the enemies of Latin America just as they are the enemies of the United States.

We are faced by a common peril—an unthinking force directed by coldly calculating men in Moscow and Peking.

An enemy of civilization is loose in the world. That enemy has the intelligence and the skill to capitalize on our mistakes and our weaknesses and will do so at every opportunity.

The demonstrations against our Vice President are, in part, manifestations of temporary conditions that are being deliberately exploited by the enemies of freedom. We must recognize those temporary conditions, whatever they may be. We must not close our eyes to their implications.

The bad economic conditions in Latin America are a direct re-

you bet we're

PROUD CLASS OF 1958

May all of your dreams of the future be filled.

TIGER'S DEN

From new Safety-Twin headlights to new sculptured rear deck, every gleaming line of this Fairlane Club Victoria says "fine car!"

Look what you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 FORD

You just can't appreciate all the wonderful things that have been done to make driving more fun . . . until you've checked out in a shiny 58 Ford!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only yesterday it was stoop down or knock off your hat. Now that has been changed. There's room for you and your hat inside the 58 Ford.

Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see. Full-Circle visibility lets you see where you're going . . . see what's coming . . . see to park!

Now touch the starter. Observe how smoothly your engine idles. That's because each Ford engine is built with painstaking care. Each V-8 is electronically balanced while operating under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly . . . dependably . . . efficiently. (If your pick is a thrifty Six, you can't buy a more powerful, more modern 6-cylinder passenger-car engine than Ford's 145-horsepower Mileage Maker Six.)

Ease down now on the throttle and you'll take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! For after all, the 58 Ford offers you the Thunderbird's own transmission and engine! Team Ford's Cruise-O-Matic Drive with a Thunderbird-powered V-8 engine, and save up to 15% on gasoline. It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Next hunt up the roughest roads you can find. Notice how bumps lose their bounce with Ford's softer-riding suspension system. Notice how Ford's exclusive Automatic Ride Control combines Angle-Poised Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level . . . corner level . . . enjoy a "big car feel."

And Ford gives you more—much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide—sofa-wide. You sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture Control.

Always a leader in safety, Ford again has pioneered new features to protect you. New Safety-Twin taillights, for example, keep you safer because they give better warning to cars behind you. And only Ford offers you famous Lifeguard Design—the whole family of safety features designed to protect you should an accident occur.

Then there are the hidden values that are yours when you choose Ford. The car is put together with fine-car precision. The finish is durable enamel—baked-car shine. That helps Fords keep that new-car shine. On the inside, too, Ford cars give you more insulation than any other cars in Ford's field.

Why not discover all you've been missing if you haven't driven a 58 Ford? See your Ford Dealer and find out firsthand all the wonderful things that have happened to Fords. And remember: a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices shows that Ford is lowest priced of the "low-price three" in 17 out of 19 comparable models!

So why not make tomorrow your day to drive a Ford? The keys are waiting for you at your Ford Dealer's. See him and discover all the fun a Ford can be!

TEXAS SCHOOL STUDY CREATES MUCH INTEREST

Texans making an all-out study of their public schools this spring are finding that the end result is not only going to be recommendations to the 1959 Legislature, but also resolution of some of their local problems.

This is reported by the Texas state committee on education, a non-partisan state-wide citizens group concerned with encouraging citizen interest in school improvement. The committee reported on activities which have come to its attention as a result of the Hale-Aikin school studies being made in every Texas county.

The TSCPE, reviewing state-wide newspaper reports and also comments from its own members participating in the studies at the local level, found that more often than not county committees are uncovering and tending to solve local problems right along with others that may call for state action.

In more than one case the county groups have already let their school boards and administrators know that they want more emphasis put on academic achievement, stressing the so-called solid subjects. On the other hand, a number have indicated that they don't want to give up "fringe" courses such as driver education.

Out of such discussions have come local decisions, reported TSCPE, which require no legislative action. For instance, some counties, wanting more academic work but unwilling to give up useful, non-academic subjects, already have indicated that driver education will be given only in summer school in order to leave more time during the regular term for basic subjects. The Texas Education Agency already allows this. In at least one case, a school system without driver education decided to add it.

Similar actions at the county and local level saw one county planning to take steps to interest high school students in the teaching profession and another seeking to add more foreign languages to the curriculum. In another case, aptitude tests to discover superior students were suggested for the seventh and eighth grades instead of high school.

At least one county is going to make a point-by-point comparison of its own actions with any recommendation made by the state-wide Hale-Aikin committee of 24 to see how they match. The Hale-Aikin committee is the official state group which will coordinate the reports of 254 counties and submit recommendations for legislation.

Another county group discovered what is believed to be a weakness in arithmetic in its schools, and decided to try remedies for that before strengthening arts, crafts and physical education which it also wanted.

Numerous counties have looked into the question of whether they want to go beyond state minimum requirements in courses offered or required. They also looked at the question of whether—and how—to pay teachers more than the minimum. They discussed local administrative practices to permit teachers more time for teaching, with less time for record-keeping and non-class work.

Reporting on these items, the Texas state committee on public education said that although it is evident there will be much diversity in county reports, school systems already are gaining thru the studies. The committee president, Mrs. Carter Taylor, said that any citizen who needs information about how to participate in school studies will receive it by writing committee headquarters, 2503 Avalon Place, Houston, or the Texas Education Agency, Austin, or the county chairman.

The Lord, He it is that doth go before thee; He will be with thee; He will not fail thee, neither forsake thee.—(Deuteronomy 31, 8.)

The almost unbearable loss of a beloved one; grave illness; bitter despair—one or all of these may come to us in our lives, and we will be unable to withstand them by our mortal selves. It is only the supernal and never-failing strength that we can find in God, Our Father, that will save and sustain us.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS

By VERN SAIFORD

Highway Construction

At least one segment of Texas economy—highway construction—is booming. One reason: the Texas Highway Department isn't letting any grass grow under its feet in getting federal emergency projects under way.

Low bids tabulated at the department's May letting totaled $19,187,933. State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer, in opening the May letting, said that about $25,000,000 in road projects would be up for bids next month.

This figure, if reached, would set a new record.

A big chunk of this upsurge comes from Texas' $36,000,000 share of the Federal Emergency Fund, authorized by Congress this year to get extra money into the economy fast and provide needed roads. All of this work must be put under contract by December.

Texas highway officials hope to beat the deadline by several months. Greer announced that $8,000,000 of the May lettings represented the first of the extra federal projects. He noted with quiet pride "the speed with which the projects were made ready." Bids were taken just four weeks after the federal bill was signed. Department officials expect all the $36,000,000 to be under contract by the end of the summer—bringing record or near-record lettings for the next few months.

A short time back monthly highway lettings of $9,000,000 to $12,000,000 were about average. Time was, too, when the emphasis was mainly on the need for fine, new roads to accommodate the growing stream of fine, new cars. Today, there's also emphasis on the number of people who'll be put to work, the money they'll spend on groceries, cars, clothes.

High Tension

With millions involved, the highway lettings are scenes of high tension. Sunburned, sport shirted contractors, plus materials men and insurers, flock to the department's hearing room where the sealed bids are opened and read, item by item.

Department personnel have an electronic computer to add up the item bids and determine the low bidder. Results are announced later in the day. But contractors or their representatives take down the bids on the spot and made rapid calculations.

It isn't hard to spot the man who's just realized he missed a million-dollar job by bidding a few dollars high. Typical muttered comment: "He can't do it for the money!"

Bumpy Road

Though the mammoth highway building program is moving forward, top speed, there are problems along the road.

Chief bone of contention, now in the courts, is whether cost of relocating utilities to make way for new construction should be borne by the cities and utility companies or the state.

A law passed by the last Legislature authorizes the state, with 90% federal aid, to pay for utility re-location on the federal projects.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled that part of the law invalid in "donating public moneys to corporations and individuals for private and individual purposes." Wilson filed a test case in an Austin district court.

City officials, through the Texas League of Municipalities take the opposite view. They contend that in "other states cities get this money for utility moving and that Texans, through federal taxes, contribute to the cost. Besides, they add, it'll cost the cities some $20,000,000.

Hospital Officials

The Texas Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools has a flock of new names topping its roster of officials.

W. W. Heath of Austin was named chairman of the board. He succeeds Dr. Raleigh Ross, also of Austin. Howard Tellepsen of Houston is the new vice chairman.

Raymond W. Vovell was appointed executive director of the hospital system. This post has been vacant nearly a year.

It was announced, also, that Dr. C. J. Rullmann, now commissioner of mental health for Tennessee, will become director of Texas mental hospitals in June.

Heath, appointed to the board by Gov. Price Daniel last fall, is prominent in business circles as an attorney, banker and rancher. He also is a former county judge, secretary of state and assistant attorney general.

Short Snorts

A slight downward trend in joblessness was noted in the Texas Employment Commission's latest report. Number of persons receiving unemployment compensation checks dropped from 90,949 to 90,913.

A former TEC attorney, Lee G. Williams, has filed suit in an

TOTS and TEENS

By Mrs. Joan Cameron

Some children are always getting nosebleeds. My other children rarely have them, but six-year-old Bud is always coming into the house and yelling "Ma, I've got a nosebleed!"

Usually, I can get him over it quickly by having him lie down quietly with his head on a thick towel to protect the upholstery from stains. Well-wrapped ice cubes at the back of his neck will help, because cold constricts the blood vessels.

If the nosebleed is severe, try packing the nostril with narrow sterile gauze and leave one end dangling. Coat the gauze with Vaseline petroleum jelly. This pure lubricant prevents the clotting blood from sticking to the gauze so that you can pull out the packing without starting the bleeding again.

Sometimes, if Bud's nosebleed is difficult, my doctor has also advised pinching the nostrils gently for about 10 minutes to stem the flow. However, if these treatments don't bring results, it's time to call the doctor.

In any case, even if the nosebleed is mild, Bud has to lie quietly for at least 20 minutes after the bleeding has stopped, and he knows that he is not to blow his nose for some time. At Bud's next medical check-up I intend to speak to the doctor about his frequent nosebleeds because I know he will consider this an important clue to Bud's general health. If your child is a nose-bleeder, I'd advise you to talk to your doctor about it, too.

TO THE PEOPLE

Trouble, Trouble, Trouble
It seems that the world has more than its share of troubles. The Russians are bombarding outer space with sputniks, the Algerians are bombarding the French, the French are bombarding the Algerians, and it looks as though the French will soon be bombarding the French. The Lebanese are bombarding the Syrians with bombs and charging that the Syrians are bombarding the Lebanese with massive interference. Some of the South Americans have bombarded Nixon with eggs, etc. The President is bombarding the Vice President with the smiles of himself and government employees, and it seems that everybody seems to be bombarding everybody else with propaganda, and to top it all off, the Attorney General of the United States has now started bombarding the Supreme Court with argument that Texas does not own its tidelands, even though Congress passed a bill saying just the opposite.

nik, let it be said that this was quite an achievement, but it does not mean the end of the world any more than the launching of the first sputnik did. The crowing of Khrushchev is nothing new and comes with no great surprise to anyone in this country. The satellite and missile programs of this nation continue on schedule.

As to the bombardment proceedings between the French and Algerians, this has been going on for some time, and probably everything from words to bombs has been employed. The matter that is causing the deep concern in the picture is the internal difficulty that seems to be plaguing France.

The bombardment between the Lebanese and Syria does not represent a parting of the ways of old friends. It will be remembered that there have been strained relations in this section of the world for many years in the past, and from all indications this strain will continue in the future.

and it should take a lot of explaining on the part of our intelligence forces. It would seem to me that the President should call upon the CIA for a full report and explanation of somebody's failure in this particular instance. Perhaps we are spending entirely too much time trying to bombard some of these foreign countries with American taxpayers' dollars and not enough time trying to find out what they think of us and what they are going to do to injure or harm us the first time they get the chance.

The return of Mr. Nixon to this country brought forth what appeared to be an attempt on the part of the government, acting through the President, to soften the propaganda value of the South American incidents, by having all of the government employees leave their jobs and go to the airport to welcome Mr. Nixon. In fact, telephone calls were made to government offices, including my own, on the subject. The caller would state that the President was urging all to go to the airport to welcome the return of the Vice President. The man hours that were lost would add to a stupendous sum.

Is Fat A Medicine?

Recent research into the body's use of fats indicates that certain kinds of fat may be essential not only to produce energy but to support body chemistry very much as vitamins do. In fact, such fats have been called "essential fatty acids," and they are even being incorporated in multi-vitamin and mineral formulas for older persons and children.

One of the first scientists to suggest the importance of these fatty acids was Dr. Arild Hanson, a professor of pediatrics at the University of Texas School of Medicine. Dr. Hanson, who has been studying fatty acids for years, recently reported that mother's milk is much richer in one of these substances than is cow's milk. Noting that certain skin conditions seen in infants may result from a lack of essential fatty acids, Dr. Hanson suggested that it is desirable for infant formulas to contain as much of them as breast milk.

Another similar study carried out in New Jersey indicated that asthma in children may, in some cases, be relieved by addition of the essential fatty acids to the diet. Since these — like the corn oil, peanut oil and fish oils which are the best sources — are unpleasant to take day after day, pharmaceutical manufacturers have incorporated them in capsules for easier administration. One such capsule, called Lennie, has been formulated to contain eleven vitamins, ten minerals and appreciable amounts of all five essential fatty acids.

One of the most interesting areas of research relates to the possible role of unsaturated fatty acids in prevention of heart disease. (All "essential" fats are unsaturated, which merely means that the fat molecule does not contain all the hydrogen it is capable of holding.) A number of reports indicate that the unsaturated fats can help reduce blood cholesterol levels and thus fight the accumulation of fat-like scales on inner walls of arteries. Such clogging, in arteries that feed the heart and brain, is believed responsible for many heart attacks and "strokes."

A quorum in the U. S. Senate is two-thirds of all Senators.

Congressional salaries are subject to income taxes.

Because of these preliminary findings, there is at present intense research in pharmaceutical laboratories directed toward determining precisely how the body uses fat. The liver plays a very important role in absorption of fat from the intestines and a number of complicated chemical processes are involved in bringing fat out of the tissues where it is stored and transporting it through the bloodstream to areas where it is burned to produce energy.

One recommendation made by all doctors concerned: overweight persons should cut down their food intake, but should not exclude from their diet any of the factors needed for nutritional balance. These elements include protein, carbohydrate and fat.

While pharmaceutical companies are pursuing this complex area of research, there is one recommendation made by all doctors concerned: overweight persons should reduce; a balanced diet under the guidance of a physician is one of the most important first steps in protecting against heart disease.

MARILYN PATTERSON

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Patterson, 502 South Kansas, Roswell, N. M., formerly of McLean, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marilyn, to Jay B. Messer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Messer, also of Roswell.

The groom is presently employed by the State Highway Department. The bride works at the Roswell State Bank. Both are graduates of Roswell Senior High School.

Combining the luxurious look with usefulness, these handcrafted glassware items are perfect gifts for Brides.

American-Made Glassware Is Tops for Bridal Gifts

With June approaching, wedding invitations start pouring in, bringing with them the problem of the appropriate gift. American manufacturers of handmade glass have created a multitude of bright gift ideas which have been designed especially for the home and to make entertaining easier. Because of its basic clearness, purity of color and shape and simple form, and because it is formed by skilled artisans, hand-wrought glass is the most decorative of materials and can supply sparkle and highlights to any room in which it is used.

As guideposts for your gift selection, it is well to pick a gift which covers the following elements: 1) it should be something that is practical; 2) it should be goodlooking; 3) it should be something that is used often.

Glass is completely versatile and will fit into any room in the home. A pretty and practical spoon holder or a jam and jelly server in pure white milk glass would be gift-perfect for the bride's first kitchen. To make entertaining easier, select a handsome crystal clear pitcher or a set of multi-colored glass tumblers. A tall glass decanter in a stylized design and bright color could be used as a decorative note in a room or could be filled with greens or used to hold a liquid. A gold-decorated milk glass dresser set is a charming accessory note to the furnishings in the bedroom.

Every bride loves to set a pretty table, and a most welcome gift would be a place setting of her pattern. A place setting usually consists of a water goblet; sherbet; juice glass; ice tea and salad plate. With these basic pieces, a bride can set any type of table, either formal or informal, for any meal of the day, since each of the pieces can serve several functions.

Produced first in America in 1608, glass has progressively developed in durability, quality and shape, because our manufacturers have perfected formulas and manufacturing methods for added strength and adaptability to changes in temperatures without sacrificing the lustre and clarity.

MRS. JONES NAMED MOTHER OF YEAR

Mrs. Felix Jones, owner and operator of Kate's Cafe on McLean's Main Street, last week was elected McLean's Mother of the Year. This is not only an honor but unique in that Mrs. Jones has no children of her own, and, it was mainly the youth of the town who elected her. And kids, you know, have pretty good first hand information about what it takes to make a "mother."

Kate's Cafe might well be called Teen's Canteen. Probably a hundred boys daily come to the cafe, sometimes to talk to Kate, and sometimes because he has no other place to go—and he knows he's welcome there.

Oldsters go to Kate's too—for the same reason teen-agers go there. John Sublett, a beloved character of the town said of Kate "Well, Kate mothers me—and I'm eighty-two."

IT'S THE LAW
In Texas

Legal Terminology
Sometimes Necessary

Many persons feel that the "whereases," "aforesaid," and other legal verbiage used by lawyers are intended only to confound and confuse the layman.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. In drafting legal documents, the lawyer attempts to draft them in such a way as to exclude all ambiguities. In the last analysis, a legal document means what some court at some future time shall declare that it means. As a consequence, it is the lawyer's duty to his client to attempt to draft the instrument in such a way that it can mean only one thing.

Most any paragraph of non-legal language contains numerous ambiguities. When a lawyer refers to the "deed aforesaid," he is attempting to make it clear beyond question that the deed he is referring to is the deed mentioned in a prior portion of the instrument. Likewise, when he prefaces a legal document with a long list of "whereases," he is simply reciting pertinent facts for the benefit of the court to show the facts of the situation that lead to the execution of the instrument.

The difficulty with drafting a document in layman's language is that to the trained analyst such language is susceptible of several meanings, and consequently is likely to lead to litigation. It is the draftsman's purpose to avoid litigation which is usually expensive for the client.

Another reason why lawyers use legal language is historical in nature. Thus most deeds declare that the grantor "by these presents does grant, sell, and convey" the land in question to the grantee. Each of the words recited has a technical meaning. The words together have frequently been construed by the courts and consequently the lawyer knows in using them that their meaning is settled, and that they will operate to properly transfer the title. He would be inviting litigation for his client, if instead of using those words, he devised new language to express the same purpose. He could only say, "While I think the language that I have used will accomplish the purpose, I cannot be sure of it." As a consequence, the lawyer, in the interest of his client, naturally uses the time-tested language instead of experimenting with new language.

"People who wonder where the younger generation is headed would do well to consider where it came from."

PANHANDLE OUTDOOR LIFE

 Game Warden

A fishing license is required when a person fishes in any of the waters of this state with these exceptions: No person under 17 years of age and no person over 65 years of age is required to possess a fishing license. No person, or member of such person's family, shall be required to hold the license provided for in this act (regular fishing license) when fishing upon the property he owns or resides on. No license shall be required of a person with a trotline, throwline or ordinary pole and line having no reel or winding device attached when fishing in the county of his residence. No other fishing license shall be required of a person who holds a commercial fishing license.

The above isn't the whole statute intact but is roughly the gist of same regarding license requirements. All state game and fish commission licenses expire August 31 of each year.

Commercial Fisherman License
 A "commercial fisherman" is any person who takes fish or oysters or shrimp or other edible aquatic products from the waters of this state, for pay, or for the purpose of sale, barter or exchange. The fee for this license is $3.00.

The above is taken from the law books in part, however, the following is on the lighter side and is a story that has been going the rounds. It goes something like this:

There was a very strict game warden who was tipped off that a certain colored ranch cook, here in the Panhandle, was selling mud catfish. Of course, the warden knew that there would be the requirement of a commercial fisherman's license involved and he surmised that the cook was selling fish without same.

The warden approached the cook and inquired if he could buy a few fish and readily the cook-fisherman said that he had a few for sale. "How much do you want for this string of fish?" said the warden.

The reply was, "Ten dollars, Suh."

The warden pulled out his roll, peeled off ten dollars and purchased the few catfish and then said, "Now let me check your commercial fisherman license." The cook reached into his billfold and pulled out a commercial fisherman license, much to the consternation of the game warden.

Dog Training
 There was a college boy who was hard pressed for money. On a week end he told his father who was farming, "Say, Pop, there is a feller up at college that can teach old Rover to talk for a thousand dollars." The father thought for a few minutes and finally said, "By golly, that would be something if old Rover could really talk. Why don't you take him back to college with you and get him trained?"

The son took Rover back to school, together with the thousand dollars and after a few weeks wrote home that old Rover wasn't doing too good in school and that sure that that dog was killed?"

Brittany Spaniel Bird Dogs
 First time in many months there is a litter of bird dog pups for sale in this part of the country. Dr. Walter W. Willis, Borger dentist, has a few Brittany spaniel bird dog pups for sale. These puppies are about six weeks of age and should be old enough to hunt with this autumn. The price is right. Contact Dr. Willis at 1300 Cooley Drive in Borger.
