"What are those queer-looking statues over there?" asked the visiting Englishman.
"Those are not statues," explained the American, "they are workmen busy on one of our government projects."

Your local newspaper, a flip of the radio dial or a call to the local weather station may be sufficient to get weather conditions of a local nature.

But in this day of modern travel when outboarders think nothing of trailing their rigs 300 or 400 miles far a weekend on a major lake or the Gulf Coast, one needs more than just local predictions.

Weather conditions at home and 300 miles away can be quite the opposite or any given day.

The wise outboarder will plan for his weekend by reading the signs, properly using the barometer, and by learning to visualize water conditions in terms of wind velocity.

Suppose an outboarder in Dallas decides to weekend in Port Aransas. He can get an idea of the weather for the week ahead by getting a barometric reading and tendency, wind velocity and cloud conditions. But he should obtain that information from the place where he plans to fish, not his point of departure.

When you purchase a barometer you'll get a chart with it. Use it—don't put the chart in file 13.

You can also obtain from the United States Weather Bureau a barometer-wind chart that is quite accurate in the forecasting of weather. Finally, learn to visualize water conditions in relation to wind speed.

A 25-mile-per-hour wind may sound slow in this jet speed age, but it can make open water much too rough for the average size outboard rig.

Now, getting back to the barometer and wind, there are some broad and general rules that will hold true. Here are some of the main ones:

1. A wind out of the easterly quadrant coupled with a falling barometer means foul weather is approaching.
  2. A wind out of the easterly accompanied by a rising barometer means fair weather.
  3. A steady, slowly rising barometer means settled weather.
  4. A steady, slowly falling barometer means wet or unsettled weather.
  5. A rapidly rising barometer indicates clear weather with wind.
  6. A rapidly falling barometer means an approaching storm.
- An outboarder, minus a barometer isn't a lost soul. He can look to the skies and the clouds for general weather hints. Here are a few of the more easily recognized ones:
- Bright blue sky: fair weather.
  - Vivid red sunset: fair tomorrow.
  - Vivid red sunrise: likely foul weather later in the day.
  - Cloudless sunset: fair tomorrow.
  - Dull gray sunset: foul tomorrow.
  - Weak sun: probable rain, especially if wind is out of the east.
  - Moon with halo: approaching foul weather.
  - Diffused sunset: approaching foul weather.
  - Sunrise from gray horizon: fair today.
  - Cirrostratus clouds: rain.
  - Fleecy, light-textured clouds: fair.
  - Dark, oily clouds: rain.
  - High and low clouds traveling in opposite directions: unsettled weather.
- An outboarder who plans to navigate open waters never should pass a Coast Guard station without casting a glance at the flag signals.
- Several years ago official storm warning flags and lights were reduced in number—and simplified—to cover the following types of warnings: small craft, gale, whole gale and hurricane.
- The day flag signals are as follows:
- Small craft: red pennant.
  - Gale: two red pennants.
  - Whole gale: red flag with black rectangle in center.
  - Hurricane: same as whole gale but with two red flags flying.
  - Light signals used at night are as follows:
  - Small craft: red light above white light.
  - Gale: white light above red light.
  - Whole gale: two red lights, one above the other.
  - Hurricane: three lights reading from top to bottom—red, white, red.
- Most outboarders realize that gales, whole gales and hurricanes mean absolutely no boating. But many are in the dark about the meaning of small craft warnings. "Small craft" generally refers to crafts up to 35 or 40 feet. A small craft warning quite obviously means for the outboarder to stay at home.
- When you make up a weekend trip, be sure to check the weather signs at the lakeside or Gulf Coast resort. The price of the long distance phone call might save you the cost of being holed up in a motel for several days because of the weather. Motel rates are far more expensive than phone calls.
- Kay Braxton of Amarillo is spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Ola Henderson.

Tips for OUTDOORSMEN

Vern Santor

Clean Hooks After Use

Clean and dry your fish hooks after use.

Scraps of bait that may stick and harden on the hook make it difficult to bed the hook in a fish. A bait-clogged barb often will result in the hook falling to catch.

Bright Hooks Attract Fish

You can increase your catches by using bright hooks—both on lures and with natural baits. In murky water the shiny hooks will attract fish.

Keep Oil off Hooks

Never use oil on hooks or store hooks in containers with oily rags. The oil is hard to clean from the hook, and an oily hook will cause live bait to die quickly.

Polish Protects Hooks

You can protect hooks against rust by coating them with clear, fast-drying nail polish.

Paint the entire hook with the exception of the point and barb, as paint on either will slow the hook's penetration into the flesh of the fish.

Use Dull Colored Sinkers

New sinkers fresh out of the tackle store often have a shine or glitter. Put them out in the weather a few days so the shine will be lost.

A shiny sinker can lead to a fish striking at the sinker rather than the bait or lure.

Freshening up Plugs

In a round of particularly fast fishing with fish that have sharp teeth, your plugs may become quite battle-scarred. Carry along small bottles of model airplane paint to touch them up.

The paint will dry in a matter of seconds.

Cleaning Metal Spoons

Metal spoons should be cleaned at home with non-abrasive cleansers.

But if you should need to polish a spoon while fishing, do this: Shred a cigarette, and wet the tobacco. Rub the wet tobacco on the spoon with your fingers, and soon the bright shine will return.

Keep Tackle Box in Shade

Keep your tackle box in the shade on extremely hot days.

Prolonged exposure to heat can cause a plastic tackle box to warp. The interior of a metal tackle box can get extremely hot, and plastic lures stored within often will warp enough to spoil their action.

Scale and Filet Cut Bait

When using cut bait, scale and filet it so your hook will pierce it easily.

When the bait is "tenderized" in this manner, the flesh is soft enough so the hook will break through quickly and sink into the fish.

Restoring Bucktails

Bucktails that are discolored and matted can be restored to almost "like new" condition by holding them over a pot of vigorously boiling water.

Using Insect Sprays

Exercise care in using insect repellents around plastic lures and monofilament line. Some sprays will cause the lure finishes to "peel" and will make monofilament line sticky and unusable.

Carry a Small Magnet

Hooks, snaps, etc., dropped between the floor boards in a boat are sometimes hard to pick up with your fingers. Carry a small magnet in your tackle box for just this purpose.

Straightening Out Line

If the boat trip home from the fishing grounds is a long one, part of the time can be put to good use by trolling the line free behind the boat.

Use no hooks, sinkers or leaders. Just peel all the line off the reel spool and troll it behind the boat for 10 to 15 minutes.

This free trolling will remove dirt from the line. Also it will take out twists and kinks acquired in the day's fishing.

Keep Dolphin in Water

When you catch a dolphin offshore, don't bring the fish immediately into the boat. Let it thrash around in the water. This will attract other dolphins in the immediate vicinity.

Some marine biologists say dolphins are able to communicate with each other, and they theorize that the hooked fish makes sounds that attract other dolphins.

Fishing Snaggy Waters

When fishing snaggy waters, tie your sinker on with light line. Then if you foul up, you can jerk the rig loose and lose only the sinker.

Wear Dark Clothing

Don't wear light colored clothes when fishing. It's the mark of a novice, for it enables the fish to see you at a greater distance.

Carry Scotch Tape

A roll of scotch tape is one of the handiest items to carry in to replace line guides or tip tops that break off in the course of fishing.

Carry Tiny Screwdriver

A small screwdriver, such as the type used by optometrists, is mighty handy when it comes to changing hooks on a plug.

Deadly Reckoning by Robt. Day

More than 27% of the drivers involved in fatal accidents in 1960 were under 25 years of age.

And it just about did, too, early this month when Bill discovered how close a tornado came to his house.

Bill and Alice were still in McLean when the wicked storm moved across this area on June 2, but his mother—Mrs. Fidel Stubbs of Alanreed—went to their house north of Alanreed, to be near a storm cellar.

Mrs. Stubbs heard the roar of a twister as she sat inside the house, but didn't realize how near it came. She felt the weather had become too bad for her to go outside to the cellar.

When storm had passed, it was found that the tornado came within 30 feet of the Stubbs house. Large trees were uprooted and the television antenna twisted like a piece of taffy candy.

—jbu—

Elzie York had a frightening experience during a storm near Le-fors shortly before, too.

He was at an oil well attending to his chores when the weather became suddenly vicious. And he watched one twister form on the ground nearby and others dip from the clouds all around—while he sat in a truck unable to get it started.

40 Years Ago

Little Miss Oleta Holloway was hostess to 15 little girls Tuesday afternoon, the occasion being her sixth birthday. Misses Fern Upham and Gladys Holloway entertained them with many little games, and all went away having had a very pleasant time.

Those present were: Little Misses June and Josephine Turner, Lena and Lorne Sparks, Lois Kirby, Earline Peters, Bonnie Bell, Winnie Mae McCleskey, Clara Fay Carpenter, Luella Jones, Fern and Madge Landers, Johnnie Vella and Gordia Lou Haynes and Virginia Burk.

The talking machine given away by Forbis, Stone and Co. Saturday was won by Mrs. P. C. Saunders. As there was no one present who had the ticket with the number drawn, a second trial was made, the lucky ticket, No. 1164, being held by Mrs. Saunders.

20 Years Ago

About 8 o'clock Wednesday, June 11, 12 summer homemaking girls and their teacher met at the high school for a night of fun. First they went to the park for games, then to the movie, cafe for ice cream and finally returned to the school building for a slumber party.

But as slumber parties usually are, so was this one - almost slumberless. However, all 13 were able to enjoy the sunrise breakfast in the park.

Those attending this enjoyable affair were Doris Cecil, Zelda West and Juanita Erles of Kellerville; Oma Lee Hardin, Betty Lou Roth, Nora and Zora Petty of Liberty; Loyce Thacker, Pauline Simpson, Enoree Hodges, Patty Smith, Bonnie Ruff and Miss Gadberry, teacher.

A square dance on horseback will be one of the features of the rodeo celebration here next week. The dance will be called by C. A. Gatlin, and the dancers will be Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hindman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Luther McCombs, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Clifton, W. W. Boyd and Mrs. Marvin Hindman.
