TOP SCORING TIGERETTES NAMED

The letter-winners of the McLean Tigerettes for the season of 1959-60 were two seniors, Sandra Burnett and Elizabeth Boston. Sandra scored 628 points in 25 games for an average of 25.1 points per game. She made the first team all-district. Elizabeth scored 265 points in 24 games for an average of 11 points per game.

Nancy Meacham was the only junior letter-winner this year. She scored 67 points and was very valuable to the team for her rebounding and defense.

The other letter-winners were all sophomores. At forward was Cynthia Rice who scored 57 points during the year. At guard were four girls who played all year. They are Mary Ann Carter, Phyllis Flowers, Janice Page and Helen Smith.

The Tigerettes were fourth in district play, winning five and losing seven. They won only nine while losing 17 during the entire year. The prospects for the future look good as all the team but two will be returning next year.

Squad members during the year but not playing enough to letter were Linda Burnett, Nona Ruth Beck, Linda McCarty, Doris Vanfuss and Jeanine Lowe.

LOCAL PERSONS INVOLVED IN FOUR-VEHICLE COLLISION

A four-vehicle collision east of McLean hospitalized four persons during the seige of icy roads and fog that enveloped McLean Tuesday. Mrs. Reed Grogan and two children were the only local persons involved in the accident.

According to investigating officers, three cars had pulled off on the shoulder of the right lane of Highway 66, parked close together. A truck had stalled in front of them, unable to gain traction in pulling a hill.

The accident occurred when a Willis Shaw truck approached the parked vehicles and attempted to stop. The trailer of the truck kicked sideways and crashed all three of the parked automobiles.

Involved in the accident were Albert Gabbard, Elkins, Ark., driver of the truck; Mr. and Mrs. William Wayne Rowan and child, driving a 1960 Convair Chevrolet; Luther Vincent Doren and wife, along with Eva Shulte of Xenia, Ohio, driving a 1950 Plymouth; and Mrs. Grogan, who was driving a 1959 Chevrolet.

McLean Ministers Organize Fellowship

The ministers of the area met the last of February and elected officers for the coming year.

Rev. Kenneth McCall was elected chairman, and Rev. Jack Riley secretary-treasurer.

The ministers of the McLean area will meet the first Monday in each month for a discussion period on the major doctrines of Christianity. The first meeting was held Monday at the First Baptist Church. Rev. Jesse Leonard led the group in a discussion of the Holy Spirit. Those present were Kenneth McCall, Paul Cooper, David Fultz, Miss Lois Daniels, Jesse Leonard and Jack Riley.

Rev. McCall will lead the discussion at the First Presbyterian Church on April 4.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION PLANNED

The Texas Highway Department has announced two new construction projects in Gray and Roberts counties: State Highway 273 from U. S. 66 at McLean, north 8.5 miles, and F. M. Highway 282 from the end of the present pavement north of Pampa north and east 3.5 miles. The work will consist of widening, grading, extending structures and resurfacing the entire project on State Highway 273 and new construction on F. M. 282.

G. K. Reading, supervising resident engineer for the Highway Department in the Pampa area, explained that traffic will be routed along the present roadbed or especially constructed detours where necessary and every effort will be made to make travel through speed zones.

DANIEL TO SPEAK AT SHAMROCK

Texas Governor Pries Daniel has accepted an invitation to be guest speaker at the St. Patrick's kick-off banquet to be held at the National Armory in Shamrock on Wednesday evening, March 16.

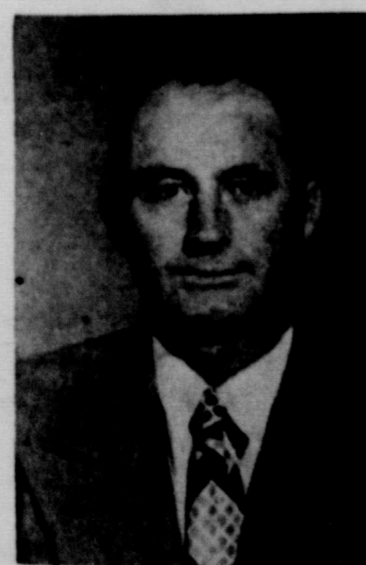

The governor will address the annual banquet on the eve of the Irish festival, and the following morning will be introduced on the second stage, corner of Main and Second Street, to the thousands of St. Patrick's Day visitors.

It will be the first time a governor has visited the Irish celebration. His acceptance touched off a move to invite the governors of neighboring states to attend and participate in the festivities with him. The governors of seven states have been invited. Governors who attend from other states will select Miss Irish Rose.

Teen Town Friday

Teen Town will be held Friday evening beginning at 8:30.

Guests during the week end in the Sam Bruner home were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stevens and children of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Keetch of Shamrock and Mr. and Mrs. Wes Whitaker of Amarillo.

LOUIE ALLEN

LOUIE ALLEN SEEKS POST OF SHERIFF

Louie Allen, Pampa resident, authorized The McLean News this week to make his announcement for the candidacy of Sheriff of Gray County.

In seeking the office, Allen offered the following statement:

In filing for the office of Sheriff of Gray County, I do so with the feeling that I am qualified to make Gray County a fair and honest Sheriff. I have no malice or criticism toward anyone. If I am elected to the office I will employ as deputies, Gray County men who will enforce the law in a fair and impartial manner.

I would like to personally see every voter in the county but if I missed you I did so unintentionally.

Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Fees to Remain Same for TV Cable Customers

Dale Greenhouse and Ted Simmons, co-owners of McLean's TV cable system, announced this week that although the inclement weather had slowed progress of the cable, it is still under construction, and will in the near future be available to homes throughout the city limits area. Also, in answer to many questions regarding the monthly fee, the owners announced that it will not be raised in the future, but is an item regulated by the city officials. The fee for tying on to residence TV sets is $40.00, with $4.75 per month thereafter. Additionally, some confusion has resulted after the last windstorm in regard to replacing insured antennas. Some residents have considered that the money paid by insurance companies had to be used to replace antennas, but this is not true. No insured antenna is required to be replaced but may be applied toward use on the cable system.

With better weather in the future, Simmons and Greenhouse stated that the cable building would progress very rapidly.

Jim Allison and Donna Magee of Texas Tech, Lubbock, spent the week end with home folks here.

a sorta historical footnote

I purchased a copy of Life Magazine the other day which ordinarily is against my principles in the first place.

But then the cover promised to tell me all about international crime for the amazing price of only 19c. (I usually buy Time Magazine. It is published by the same people and is about the same thing except Time Magazine is for people who can read too.)

Scarcely had I caught my breath from learning about the clandestine means women employ to smuggle dope across national borders and looking at daring photographs of prostitutes in Beirut, when I ran smack dab into a section devoted to the colorful old American Indians.

This section contained a lot of arty drawings of American Indians in heroic poses and briefly recounted their courageous deeds. It reminded me of all those well-scrubbed, athletic television Indians who turn out to be such nice fellows after you really get to know them.

In fact, if it hadn't been for a few white owls getting into meanness and then laying it off on these TV Indians, they would undoubtedly have been wonderful Rotarians. I can see them now—sitting around smoking the peace pipe and flapping their loin cloths and arguing about the guaranteed annual wage and telling typical Rotarian "snizzles." (Snizzles are those dumb things people say when they don't have a thing to say but think they ought to say something. Like unfunny cracks about the weather. A snizzle is just a sneeze that fizzles on third base.)

At any rate all this racial misunderstanding has been the fault of the whites—according to television and the NAACP. For instance the whites go around stirring up trouble with the Negroes by singing "Shortenin' Bread" and "Old Black Joe."

So after watching all these television Indians, I'm convinced folks down in my old home town just didn't have the proper attitude towards the colorful American Indians.

Every once in a while some easterner would come through town and say to one of the natives, "That's a funny name for a town. Quannah? What kind of name is that?"

And so then the native'd tell him it was an Indian name. Named for old Chief Quannah Parker—Last of the Comanches.

Well, sir, the easterner would go away thinking how quaint and nice the name was and about the rich historical background of the town. But to tell you the truth I never knew many of the old-timers there (who were old enough to recall Indians on the mesquite plains instead of a 17-inch screen) who were too enthusiastic about the colorful Indians.

Most of them were of the mistaken opinion that the whole lot and caboodle were a bunch of smelly, half-savages who, like ne'er-do-well relatives, dropped in occasionally (uninvited) to mooch a beef.

Once old Quannah Parker urged his tribesmen to take up the white man's ways—to raise corn and "know work" as he quaintly put it. However, most of the old-timers figure the braves in his outfit must have misinterpreted this bit of advice so that it came out: "no work" and raise Cain.

Now take for instance the spring of 1958 back in Quannah. Hardeman County was having its 100th anniversary celebration and the Chamber of Commerce thought it would be a peachy idea to have the remnants of old Quannah Parker's Comanches to come and "add color" to the festivities.

And thus it came to pass that for a healthy fee, the motley red crew headed by Chief Quannah's eldest son, Baldwin Parker, left their reservation at Cache, Okla., and descended upon Quannah. They were to camp out in the city park, and do their little warwhoop dancing at the celebration events. And just generally "add color." Which is just what they proceeded to do.

their stay in town, old Baldwin decided that this sleeping on the cold, cold ground was for the birds—or at least the ancestors. And gathering up his herd—lock, stock, and papposes—they proceeded to move into Quannah's plush Four Winds Motel—charging the bill to the city.

Now the Chamber of Commerce was indeed a good sport about this sort of thing and went right along with the gag. In fact, they even went so far as to renew the ancient tradition of donating a beef to placate the Comanches.

Almost immediately following this gesture of good will, the Indians mysteriously disappeared from the local scene. They were back the next day though. Baldwin patiently explained to the city fathers that the tribe had butchered their beef, quartered it, and taken it back to the reservation where they had deposited it in their new deep freeze unit.

But the straw that really collapsed the wigwam was when chamber discovered—several days after the Indians had made their exit—that Baldwin & Co. had seen fit to open various charge accounts about town . . . and, of course, in the city's name.

And so, children, it was no wonder indeed, that this past summer when a Panhandle sculptor did a bust of old Quannah Parker, and there was a big to-do about the unveiling down at Quannah, and the Quannah mayor proclaimed it "Quannah Parker Day," and sage, old historians gathered to make sentimental speeches about the contributions of the colorful old Indians—yes, it was no wonder indeed that the Quannah Chamber of Commerce did their damndest to keep Chief Quannah's eldest offspring from getting wind of these proceedings.

Instead, for the "local color" they invited a handful of old Quannah's distant female relatives—most of whom were shepherded about by their white husbands.

I figure the television Indians must be from an altogether different tribe.

It is unfortunate that Chessman is not a "pinko" or related color or he would have been free long ago. And of course those lives Chessman touched should not have gotten in the way.

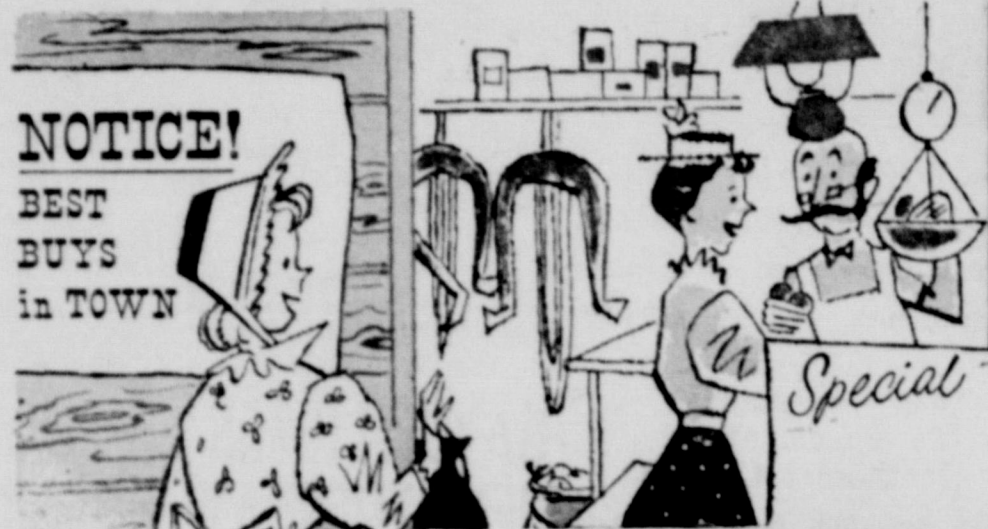

The American way of life and his parents are to blame for Chessman so the poor boy cannot be held responsible for the blood, grief and heartaches he has generated. He should be freed on a pension and allowed to appeal to our youth of his way of life.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

By Jack Riley, Methodist Pastor

THINKING that three hours of any movie are harmless for the child, but that two hours of church and Sunday school are too much for his nervous system is just bad thinking.

GIVING him a nickel for the collection and fifty cents for the movies not only shows a parent's sense of values, but it also is likely to produce a proportionate giver.

LETTING him listen to several hours of radio thrillers a day with no time for one short prayer and a few Bible verses is criminal unbalance.

BEING careful that Junior had his weekday lessons, and caring not that he knows not his Sunday school lessons makes for spiritual illiteracy.

SAYING that a child must make his own decisions as to whether or not he should go to church, or to what church, is shirking parental responsibility.

WHEN PARENTS idle Sunday morning in reading the paper or listening to the radio, while brother and sister are sent by themselves to church, something happens to the children's evaluation of church attendance.

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap."

Texas DOTs

The "Democrats of Texas"—or the DOT as it is commonly referred to—got together for their annual policy making convention last week in Houston.

The DOT is the extreme left wingers of the Democratic party in Texas—ramrodded by the ultraliberal Mrs. Randolph of Houston and championed by ultraliberal Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Among the long list of policies they adopted are, we feel, a number of policies that are extremely dangerous to both private enterprise and personal freedom in the America which is rapidly being suffocated by socialistic bureaucracy.

Let's look at some of the more dangerous planks in their platform:

(1) On foreign policy: "Make all democracies in the Hemisphere 'partners' in the Panama Canal, sharing in its policing and defense."

With the recent anti-American attitude exhibited by Cuba and several South American countries, especially in the tours of Vice President Nixon and President Eisenhower, it seems that this policy would invite trouble. The joint "policing and defense" would likely be letting these anti-American groups get a toe-hold where they could ham-string a vital link in America's defense machinery.

Would it not be more practical, and certainly less trouble, for us to retain control, but guarantee these Latin American nations free use of the canal? That is at once a gesture of good will toward them and also a guarantee that this vital defense link will not be slammed shut in our face. For once we let other nations share in control of the canal, we can never divorce their interest. And who knows what the sentiment of these countries will be 10, 20 or 100 years from now.

(2) On resources; public power: "Power generation on such major projects as the Amistad Dam on the Devil's River should not be 'privately owned' but should be 'publicly owned and operated' so as to further advance the development of our magnificent REA and publicly-owned power systems."

Here again is flagrant encroachment of government agencies on private enterprise.

And as for our "magnificent REA" it has already accomplished the job it was created to do: furnish farm families with electricity that could not otherwise have it.

However, now that more than 95% of the farms are served by electricity the bureaucrats are attempting to pervert the REA to compete with private interests such as the Southwestern Public Service Company. They are extended an unfair advantage, and there is no good reason why a government agency should take over an area which is being more than adequately serviced by a private enterprise.

(3) On problems of cities: "Only a federal housing program can meet 'the blight of slum housing, inadequate housing for migrant workers, the absence of proper homes for our aged, the problems of home ownership, and the advantages and need of cooperative and low-cost public housing'."

More federal aid—more federal control—less personal rights and freedom.

(4) On social security: "The failure of the state to improve the (social security) system calls for federal legislation for uniform minimums . . ."

The failure of a state government—if this is a failure—never warrants intervention by the federal government. If they feel this area is neglected, the DOT should try to remedy the situation in the STATE government where it belongs.

This seems to us like another case of the liberals using any method—good or bad—to accomplish a creditable end. The Communists feel that they have THE system of government which is for the ultimate good of mankind, therefore they feel justified in using any means to accomplish this end—even if the means is the mass murder of millions of innocent people.

Questionable means are never justified, no matter how humanitarian the end seems to be. By liberals or Communists.

(5) On taxation: "A tax on gas pipelines so that it will be paid by those buying gas in Texas cheap and selling it outside Texas at high rates."

"An increase of the tax on the 17 major oil companies that import 75% of the nation's imports of foreign oil by graduating production taxes on the amount of production."

"The 'bank accounts' bill to let revert to the state all abandoned accounts."

"A corporate net profits tax starting with net profits of more than $25,000 a year, with credits for present state taxes paid."

The important aspect of their taxation policies is the fact that several sources of new revenue are subjected to taxation, but there is not the slightest mention of either (1) balancing the budget, (2) cutting waste and unnecessary spending or (3) any other economy measures. My how those liberals do like to spend other people's money.

Secondly, this thing of abandoned bank accounts reverting to the state is purely and simply a case of government confiscation of private property. Such a bill was brought before the legislature the past session and was defeated. Apparently it will be proposed again.

It is well to keep these DOT proposals in mind, for in the next sessions of both state and federal legislatures, the ultraliberals will be attempting to push them through.

We feel they would be particularly detrimental to free enterprise and our traditional freedom. Bill Neal

"Battle Border"

Little known facts about Texas boundaries.

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE TEXAS ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE.

Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of articles outlining the numerous boundary conflicts dating back to 1716, pointing up little known facts which shaped the Texas of today.

One stormy chapter in the history of our Texas boundaries was written with the unsolicited help of Oklahoma's blustery, colorful Governor William J. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray.

Murray, governor of the Sooner state from 1931 to 1935, figured prominently in the "Bridge War" of 1931 between Texas and Oklahoma.

The "Bridge War" grew out of the differences of opinion between Alfalfa Bill and Texas officials concerning the opening of three "free bridges" spanning the Red River. Attorney General Will Wilson explains.

Built as a joint effort of Texas and Oklahoma they were intended to provide highway travelers with toll-free passage over the river.

In the spring of 1931 three of the new bridges were nearing completion—the Ringgold-Terrell bridge near Wichita Falls; another crossing the river north of Gainesville; and a third span between Denison and Durant, Okla.

By mid-summer the bridges were still not in use and Alfalfa Bill, long a champion of free bridges, grew impatient with the continued delay.

In spite of the fact that half of each bridge lay within the Texas border, the Oklahoma governor ordered the bridges open. He was also conspicuously unimpressed with the fact that the Gainesville bridge was still under construction on the Texas side while the Denison free bridge had been ordered by the Federal Court in Houston not to open until settlement of certain legal disputes between the owners of the nearby toll bridge and the Texas Highway Commission.

Traffic, swelled by thousands of curious sightseers, began to flow across the bridges.

Crossing the Gainesville bridge a large truck found the Texas side impassable, couldn't back off the bridge, and so remained suspended over the Red River until morning.

The Ringgold-Terrell free bridge operated without incident.

At Denison, however, Alfalfa Bill's action defied both the State of Texas and the federal judiciary. Governor Ross S. Sterling promptly ordered the bridge closed. Texas Rangers rushed to the scene ordered barriers rebuilt of heavy logs and beams to be guarded indefinitely.

Alfalfa Bill responded by throwing up a barrier across the Oklahoma side and ordered highway workers to plow up 200 feet of the road approaching the toll bridge. He then declared the bridge under martial law.

The Texas legislature passed an urgent resolution exhorting representative Sam Rayburn to press for passage of federal legislation aimed at breaking the deadlock.

Meanwhile Governor Murray moved troops to the Denison bridge and appeared in person from time to time to review his men wearing a campaign hat and packing an old pistol.

After a few tense days, an uneasy truce was effected.

By fall a flurry of legal actions were under way. The toll bridge company obtained an injunction against further interference with the operation of their bridge.

The bridge war was brought to a final end when the toll bridge company's suit against the State of Texas was won by the state, represented by the late James V. Allred, then attorney general.

So Texas had fought over practically all of her boundaries with Louisiana, Oklahoma, Mexico and New Mexico. But the most persistent and aggressive of the land biters has been the federal government.

Attorney General Will Wilson's present case with the federal government is one more battle in a century old war to maintain Texas territory.

Welcomes You

I'M SATISFIED

"I'm satisfied with my religion and don't want to be disturbed." This is the attitude of the majority of people. A religious survey indicates that about 88 per cent have this satisfaction with their religion. But the real question is, "Is the Lord satisfied with what I am doing?" Jesus said that few would find the way. Matthew 7: 13-14.

Is the fact that I am satisfied a sufficient guarantee of my salvation? In material things this is so. I can be satisfied with my car, hat, and even the companions I choose, but in religion there is a difference. Paul said, "I am not aware of anything against myself, but I am not thereby acquitted. It is the Lord who judges me." (1 Cor. 4: 4, RSV) Thus what satisfies me may not satisfy the Lord. Consider:

Having worldly goods satisfied the rich fool—but not God. Luke 12:19-21.

Some do not believe in the deity of Jesus—but not God. John 8:24.

Moralists are satisfied with just doing good works—not so the Lord. Isa. 64:6.

One may be satisfied outside the church—but not the Lord. Acts 2:47.

You may be satisfied with religious division—but God is not. John 17:17-21; 1 Cor. 1:10; Matt. 15:13.

You may be satisfied not being baptized for the remission of sins—but is God?—Acts 2:38; 22:16; 10:48; Matt. 28:18-20; Mark 16:16

You may be satisfied with your worship to God—but is God? John 4:24

Some members of the church are satisfied to miss services of the church—God is not. Heb. 10:25.

Our formula for real satisfaction is found in John 8:29.

Area Observations

Views from Neighboring Editors

CECILE WALDRIP in OLTON ENTERPRISE: The little girl in Sunday school who was reading memory verses aloud didn't realize how many people practice what she solemnly read; "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel."

The little boy found a fool-proof way of alienating Mother's not-so-welcome guests.

On a blistering hot day when they had guests for dinner, the mother had asked her four-year-old son to say grace before the meal.

"But I don't know how! You always say it," the boy exclaimed.

The determined mother replied, "Oh, just say what you've heard Mother say. It begins 'Oh, Lord...'"

Recognition came suddenly to the boy's eyes and he obediently bowed his head and murmured:

"Oh, Lord, why did I invite these people here on a hot day like this?"

Wonder how many people, like this writer, have heard the words "Mardi Gras" all their lives but never bothered to wonder what they meant?

Well, for information of those vitally interested, "Mardi Gras" means "fat Tuesday." How about that? Wonder what fat Tuesday means?

With GRAHAM in the STATE LINE TRIBUNE: Now I know how much fun it is to run from the sheriff and get away. Last week he sent me a little postal notice, which made me one of the elite selected to do petit jury duty in district court.

Along with 47 other folks caught in this public service, I was supposed to report in to the court house at 10 o'clock Monday jury box.

However, I believe that I can beat the rap. Somewhere back in my mind I remember Hop telling me that for some reason newspapermen and butchers were excluded from jury duty in the State of Texas.

How these two professions got teamed up for such exclusive treatment I was never sure, but that's the way the story went. Anyway, I thought the thing was worth looking into, so got ahold of County Judge Loyde Brewer to help me check the statutes.

Sure enough, newspaper folks are exempt from jury duty. However, in digging through the big legal book, I found out some thing I hadn't heard about. For one thing, being a butcher by trade doesn't get you off any more.

However, if you are over 60, or a civil officer, a preacher, a doctor or lawyer, a schoolmaster, a druggist, undertaker, telegraph operator, or one of several classes of railway employees, or even a flour miller, you don't have to be sworn in.

I can't explain much of this, except that some jobs seem to fall into what would be considered essential ones from a timebroke down and cried. When standpoint. Also, I don't know why they dropped butchers. The idea used to be that it wasn't fair to have a butcher serve on the jury (especially in a capital case) because he didn't mind the sight of blood. Today's butcher don't have such cold-blooded outlooks, maybe.

CECIL WAGGONER in the CLAUDE NEWS: Surprising

What They Know—My favorite school teacher tells me another interesting fact about second-graders. From week to week and to make the story "folksy" their Weekly Reader ran a continued story about Uncle Charley and Aunt Jane. Last week Uncle Charley and Aunt Jane got married. As soon as this was brought to light in class one little girl fall into what would be considered essential ones from a timebroke down and cried. When standpoint. Also, I don't know answered, "Uncle Charley and Aunt Jane got married."

Being assured she should be happy over the wedding, not crying about it, the little miss blurted out, "But all their kids will be crazy."

Shades of the younger generation, and I'm just now learning about genes.

Glory Be—I'm glad Senator Ralph Yarborough is supporting the Connally Amendment which prevents the United States from becoming subservient to a world court.

If Senator Yarborough keeps this up I may be able to get along with him after all.

The Dallas News stated in part last week:

"A one-world, Socialist-minded court could wreck American independence, American free enterprise and the American Bill of Rights. Senator Yarborough said he had received thousands of letters urging preservation of the Connally Amendment. The News urged a flood of such mail. Keep it going."

The Law of Chessman—I have nothing from the "lawyers of the land" in the Chessman case. Instead he has become an international hero who flouts the law. We should immortalize him as we have Jesse James, Billy the Kid and the Dalton boys.

In keeping with the times our new heroes must be sadists, rapists, murderers and hostile to the law, lawmen, courts and judges, who attempt to do their duty in spite of the present administration, and its many 'law of the land' antics.

Free Movie!

If you think you have been confused—wait till you read this.

The calendar for the Derby Dixie-In Theatre shows opening with a free show on March 1st. As you know, due to Dan True's weather, we didn't make it. If the weather is fittin', land Charles gets this in the paper correct) we will have our opening and free show on Tuesday, March 15. By the way, the free show will be "Cowboy," starring Glenn Ford instead of Audie Murphy in "Guns of Fort Petticoat," as advertised. Confused?

Did you hear the one about the old lady in Arkansas? It semes she was celebrating her 110th birthday and a reporter asker her what she wanted for her birthday. The only present she wanted was to see Audrey Hepburn in the movie, "The Nuns Story." What reminded us of this is that "The Nuns Story" is showing at the Derby on March 20, 21, 22.
