

TB Seal Letters To Go Out Monday

Monday the familiar Tuberculosis Seal letters will go out to Howard county residents asking for contributions in the continual war waged against the dread disease of tuberculosis.

Only once a year the association asks for donations, but the fight to prevent the spread or start of tuberculosis is carried on each year in this and other counties in the nation.

This year, the association here has set $2,000 as its minimum goal as an enlarged educational program is being planned. The years program, depending upon the response to the sale, includes testing of first and fourth year high school students; testing of all first graders; and x-raying of all indigent cases and non-indigent cases.

The association can probably point to its work during the past 12 months when it tested 364 persons, x-rayed more than 62 indigent patients, and assisted in placing a number in sanatoriums.

Tuberculosis in the lung can be found long before a person feels sick by taking an x-ray picture. If it is found early, treatment can start and be successful. If it is not found early, getting rid of it is a tough job.

During the past 30 years, the work of the Tuberculosis society has been responsible for cutting the tuberculosis death rate two thirds—an enviable record that is a necessity to maintain for everyone's protection.

Repatriate Ship Enroute To U.S.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Swedish repatriation ship Gripsholm bringing Americans and other western hemisphere nationals home from Japanese internment camps, was enroute today to New York, her final port of call.
The Gripsholm left Rio De Janeiro last night after a two-day lay-over at this port. The repatriates, who were exchange for Japanese nationals at Mormugao, Portuguese India, on Oct. 19, had spent from eight to 21 months in Japanese internment camps.

Valuable Dog His Owner Thinks
ANCHORAGE, Utah (AP)—F. L. Stewart wants $582 damages for injuries he says his hunting dog received when it was struck by a truck. His claims:
Hospital bill, $25; travel expense, $20; cost of hunting the dog two days after accident, $12; loss during hunting season, 30 days at $10 a day, $300; expense for being "nurse maid during convalescence," $25.
"His teeth are all broken," Stewart said, "and I'm listing this last amount as general damage, $200."

Animals classified as "game" in the Wyoming game and fish law include elk, deer, mountain sheep, wild goat, antelope, moose and bear.

Some of the "universal" languages proposed from time to time are Volapuk, Esperanto, Mondolingue, Universala and Kosmos.

THIRTY-SIX MILES—Teresa Caldrali of Rifton, Pa., winds a machine at the East Pittsburgh, Pa., plant of Westinghouse over which 36 miles of "ribbon" spin daily. She is winding strips of aluminum and paper to form capacitor cores.

Bombers Blast Molybdenum Mine

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—A power station at Rjukan, about 80 miles west of Oslo, and a molybdenum mine at Knaben were blasted yesterday by Britain-based U.S. heavy bombers which flew through heavy snowstorms to deal a new blow to German war industry in Norway.

Molybdenum, used in hardening steel, is vital to munitions manufacturing.

Chemical plants in the Rjukan area, producing essential components of high explosives, also were hit by the heavy bombers. Two bombers were lost in the raids and six Nazi planes were destroyed, a communique said.

RAF light bombers and fighters also attacked a seaplane base near Brest, an alcohol plant near St. Nazaire and communications targets throughout northern France yesterday.

RAF Mosquitos stabbed last night at western Germany without loss.

Gardens on sloping ground are better if they are not plowed until spring, as heavy rains of spring and late winter may wash away topsoil.

Out-Foxed Fox Brings Reward

NORFOLK, Conn.—Mrs. Jerry Benedict out-foxed a fox and is richer by $2.50.

Seeing the animal in the backyard as she was hanging up clothes Mrs. Benedict cautiously withdrew through a door of her house, seized a piece of wood, and when Reynard followed, bopped him on the noggin.

The pet brought the reward.

Nancy Is Too Young To Marry Without Consent

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 17 (AP)—Alfred De Marigny explained today that his scheduled remarriage in a Catholic church was called off Monday because his wife Nancy has not reached the age where she may wed without her parents' consent.

Nancy is 19, and the legal age in the Bahamas is 21. "It's a strange situation when a man can't marry his own wife," said De Marigny. "But that's how it stands."

De Marigny was acquitted last week of the murder of Nancy's father, Sir Harry Oakes, but the Bahamas supreme court jury recommended that he be deported. The ranking governing group of the colony invited him to leave.

De Marigny announced Monday that he and Nancy would be remarried, explaining that they were not wed in a church the first time.

He set the hour at 2 p. m. The Rev. Fr. Bonaventure waited at the St. Francis Xavier church for more than an hour, before De Marigny called him by telephone and said he was ill.

Nancy will go to the United States next week with Godfrey Higgs, De Marigny's attorney.

Meanwhile, she was under the care of a physician, near collapse as the result of strain and the postponement of an operation on her jaw.

Blooded Herefords On Auction Block

DALLAS, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 60 head of top breeding Herefords have been consigned for the National Hereford association's annual auction sale today.

In a parade of champions, trophies will be presented to winners in the National Hereford show here.

WHR Miss Mixer Mischief 44th, reared at Wyoming Hereford Ranch at Cheyenne, yesterday was crowned grand champion cow of the show, justifying the judgment of Chester F. Kroger of Cincinnati, who paid $13,000 for her in the ranch's breeders auction last month.

The Harry Miller home was badly damaged by fire last Friday afternoon, the blaze starting from a lighted match dropped into a wastebasket by Billy Dan, small son of the Millers, while Miller was at the office and Mrs. Miller had stepped out to mail a letter.

Continental employees and neighbors extinguished the blaze with company equipment. Miller is district superintendent for Continental. Mrs. Miller and children will visit her parents in Bangs while the home is being rebuilt and Miller will stay with Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Williams.

MOTHERS ASKED TO PRESERVE FAMILIES—AUSTIN, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mothers tempted to over-indulge in activities outside the home were called upon today to guard against the many-sided forces of war that are attacking homes and families.

The speaker was Dr. Allice Sowers, director of the family life institute of the University of Oklahoma, before the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers in the opening session of its annual convention.

"It is important that mothers consider the care of their families and the companionship with them as important contributions to the home front during wartime, and that they keep this in mind when considering duties which require them to spend many hours outside the home," she said.

"This does not mean that mothers must remain at home all the time x x x but it does mean that today, when children are feeling more insecure than many adults realize, parents need to determine its effect upon each member of the family."

She urged, for example, that dinner not be allowed to degenerate into a "sort of lunch wagon affair" despite the inability to obtain paid help and because mother is busy and father is absent. Everything possible should be done to maintain family unity, she said.

Migration of families, family separations, working mothers, boys working in men's jobs, ill-considered marriages, and changing housekeeping standards, were listed as important factors brought on by the war that hold danger for the home.

May Will Not Try Another Break

HOUSTON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Robert Eugene May, 24, headed back for the Conroe jail today with a promise that he does not intend to attempt a third escape.

May, under a three-year sentence in the state penitentiary for car theft from Montgomery county, made his second break from the jail in about a month last Wednesday.

"I'm not going to try to make any more escapes," May told police, "for I don't want to be too hard on the jailer." May was captured here late yesterday. Arlice Huffman, 21, who fled with May, was arrested here Friday.

Miss Tallulah Bankhead, dry, stepped into the boat in water up to her knees, began splashing herself, finally held her nose and ducked, and came up looking authentically wet. Hume Cronyn, John Hodiak, Mary Anderson, and Canada Lee—other occupants of that end of the boat—drenched themselves similarly...

On signal from Hitchcock, the storm died instantly. Tallulah stood, smiling gamely, shivering. Then they did it again, and again, and again. And Hitchcock, dry, called "Lunch..." We caught Cronyn, wet but blanketed, on his way to the hot stove league.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds— The Comfortable Place Is Behind The Camera

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD — Some years ago Alfred Hitchcock decided that the place to be in the movies was behind the camera, and today I saw what he meant. He's no fool. Mr. Hitchcock finished a morning's work and, after he had kicked off his rubber boots, emerged to go to lunch looking as neatly pressed and dapper as he had at 9 a. m.

Mr. Hitchcock, taking off his rubber boots, said he wasn't wet a bit. "I," he said, "am on the right side of the camera." "MEANEST" THIEF MILWAUKEE (U. P.) — A new version of "The Meanest Man in the World" was reported here when police announced a robber had stolen from a Milwaukee tavern...

Big wooden rollers pushed the quiet water into swelling motion. Wind machines blasted, catching the rising waves and filling the air with spray. The boat rocked and shuddered, and Hodiak worked madly at the pump. Another signal from Hitchcock, and tons of water, from a wooden reservoir high beside the set, crashed down over the boat in a mountainous wave which sent Tallulah sprawling.

stove league. Mr. Cronyn opined that he had never been wetter. Miss Anderson, whose costume had been ripped and torn by her "three weeks" aboard, had a little pink rayon showing through one rip. "If anything more happens to this costume," she said, "they'll have to change the title to 'Down to the Sea in Slippers.'"

The picture was "Lifeboat." The setting was 20th Century-Fox's private ocean, the big tank out on the back lot. The scene was one in which the lifeboat, already adrift for three weeks with eight survivors of a torpedoed ship, takes its worst beating and is all but submerged. Hitchcock, his camera on a platform over the water, was taking close-ups. That meant that doubles, ordinarily employed to spare the stars the risk of injury in such scenes, were out.

The Unseen Audience

Circle? I thought you did. Well, a bunch of the wives of the town's big shots got together, and decided the lonesome government girls needed a recreation spot, to take dates to, but mostly to go to free of charge when they didn't have dates, and didn't relish spending the evening kicking around a hot little hall bedroom.

So Sally went along. They turned into the driveway alongside Mrs. McLean's home and came out into a square courtyard, paved with bumpy cobblestones. The place was incredible. It was furnished with Moorish tapestries and Louis XIV chairs and heavy oak tables, all magnificent, all elegant.

So Evelyn Walsh McLean — you know? — said they could use the stable of her mansion on Massachusetts Avenue, if they wanted to do it over themselves. Somehow I got sucked in on the renovating committee, and boy, have I worked. I think I've spent at least 48 hours on a stepladder painting that darned place. But it's swell now. We christened it last night, and there were nearly 400 people there. These philanthropists have something. Where are you going now?

That was a question Sally had been trying not to face. She was afraid Ted might try to get in touch with her at her house and she didn't want to talk with him till she made up her mind what to say. All she knew was she didn't want to see him again. It would be too painful. She'd probably go to pieces and weep in his arms, and they'd be no place all over again. The best thing to do was to get it over with as quickly as possible.

evidently hoped to meet the recreational needs of every type of government worker. "We probably won't get around to all this for a while," Georgia explained. "But we'd like to know what people want. Do they want to sing, or dance, or play ping-pong, or learn Spanish or what? So tell us all here." Sally filled her questionnaire carefully, trying not to remember that Ted had taken care of all the social life she wanted to have these past weeks. Then she started on a tour of the room. Georgia had told her to take a look at the kitchen, which didn't exist in the days before the government girls descended on the place. She pushed open the door, and confronted a white-haired woman with rolled-up sleeves, busily washing a pile of dishes. She said, "Hello," to Sally without surprise. Sally watched her grappling with the enormous stack of dishes, then said, "Can I help you?" The dishwasher seemed relieved. "If you would dry them... This is our newest present. Isn't it grand?" Sally liked the energy and enthusiasm of this attractive woman. She wasn't old enough to be her mother, in spite of her white hair, but there was something about her that reminded Sally of her own mother back in River Edge. The kitchen was cheerful, with cabinets painted bright blue, and the walls gay with cut-out pictures of carrots and tomatoes and apples. As Sally talked with this friendly woman about her job, her home town and family, she was conscious her nerves, which had been stretched as taught as a telephone cable, had suddenly relaxed. After the emotional strain of the day, after the excitement of the weeks she had known Ted, it was pleasant to do something as commonplace as drying dishes. Sally had been living at Stratosphere heights for so long it was a relief to be down on the ground again with the rest of the world. The door was pushed open and two more women came into the kitchen. The dishwasher introduced her, and they smiled at Sally. "I see Amy-put-you-right-to-work." one of them said. "Kitchen police duty is my specialty." (Continued On Classified Page)
