There is a newly created organization to which the McLean Independent School District is a member (The Eastern Panhandle Co-op). The State provides the money for the organization to hire teachers of children that have learning problems. Below are some characteristics that help to identify students that need some help in learning, other than what the regular classroom teacher provides. Parents of children age 3, 4, and 5 are asked to contact the school office by phone at 779-2671, no later than Monday, April 9. If their children may fit into the categories listed below. The school officials must estimate the number of children are 3, 4, and 5, who may have some learning problems, in order for the organization to hire enough specially trained teachers.

WHAT DID HE LOSE? Residents Attend Funeral Monday

(Editor's Note: the following article appeared recently in the Quannah Tribune Chief and was brought into the News Office by a local resident to share with our readers.)

WHAT DID HE LOSE?

A youth was stopped for a traffic violation. The public safety official recognized the odor in the violator's car and it was found that he had a few "joints" with him. He was convicted of marijuana possession, an automatic felony, and received a suspended sentence. All he lost was his right to vote, to own a gun and the right to run for public office.

He also lost the opportunity of ever being a licensed doctor, dentist, certified public accountant, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, schoolteacher, barber, funeral director, masseur or stock broker.

He can never get a job where he has to bonded to licensed.

He can't work for the city, county or federal governments.

He cannot be admitted to West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy. That's What He Lost.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

The complex job of re-writing the 97-year-old State Constitution began officially last week with initial work sessions of the new Constitutional Revision Commission.

Commissioners outlined plans for a series of public hearings in 18 areas.

The hearings will be held between now and next fall in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, McAllen, San Angelo, Lubbock, Longview, Wichita Falls, El Paso, Amarillo, Abilene, Midland-Odessa, Laredo, Tyler, Lufkin, Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange and Austin.

Chairman Robert W. Calvert, former Texas Supreme Court judge, said the hearings may "determine largely whether people accept the final product."

The 37-member Commission heard advice from a large group of experts, then divided into seven sub-committees to study specific areas of the Constitution which one of the advisors labeled an "appalling" document.

Revision Commissioners received these key bits of advice:

Do the best job they can of streamlining the Constitution, but be prepared for the Legislature to "water down their recommendations."

Don't try to solve the problems but make clear who solves the problems.

Sweep out detailed property tax provisions... get rid of the grants and loans prohibition and provide "home rule" for counties.

The Commission will be backed up by a statewide advisory committee.

Revision drafts must be completed by November. The Legislature will convene January 1 as a constitutional convention.

OPEN MEETINGS BILL PASSES

An amended version of legislation to strengthen state laws requiring that the business of state government be conducted in public has been finally passed by the Senate.

A much-revised version of the bill to shield newsmen's sources of information, meanwhile, advanced to the Senate calendar with Jurisprudence Committee blessings.

The Texas Joint Media Committee representatives and "Common Cause," the people's lobby, termed the open meetings bills as passed by the Senate an improvement over both present law and the Jurisprudence Committee bill.

One controversial section of the latter was amended to allow closed sessions on "negotiated contracts" only for gifts or donations to the government. The bill would allow private sessions of governing bodies to discuss purchase, exchange, lease or value or real estate--but not the sale of property. Also stricken from the Committee bill was a provision for closed sessions with attorneys on "possible avoidance of litigation."

Remaining as exemptions from open meetings guarantees are a wide range of discussions of personnel matters including "employment evaluation."

The revised shield bills would allow forced disclosure of information and sources on mandamus by the State Supreme Court which could be sought by any individual to prevent "substantial harm or injury.... or substantial injustice."

VEE REVACCINATION URGED
Texas Veterinary Medical Association called for immediate revaccination of all horses for Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE).

The association said 100 per cent immunity can be established and reservoirs of the disease eliminated. It urged revaccination of all horses vaccinated in 1971, vaccination of all newborns, those six months of age and older and those coming into the state. Length of immunity is uncertain.

COURTS SPEAK
Persons who have sexual relations with wives or husbands of others can be sued for damages, the State Supreme Court held.

The High Court turned down an appeal of a Dallas lawyer who lost his license after a jury found he asked a client for $500 more than his legal fee, allegedly to prosecute an assistant district attorney.

The Supreme Court set a hearing April 25 over whether Austin could sell 32

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned convictions for sale of heroin (an 1,800 year sentence from Ector County) and possession of marijuana (25 year sentence from Tarrant County) due to judicial error.

A Lipscomb County youth ordered fined and jailed for aggravated assault on a deputy sheriff he called a "pig" won a new trial on appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals, which held the boy's contention that he was resisting what he considered unlawful arrest should have been presented to the trial jury.

AG OPINIONS
A bill (HB 168) proposing to give the governor budgetary authority over state agencies and require submission of quarterly expenditure plans is unconstitutional, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Hill said, however, the legislature might confer on the governor's discretion to approve or disapprove or disapprove expenditures of funds appropriated to restructured agencies discharging only duties which could be constitutionally discharged by the governor.

In other recent opinions, Hill held:
A district judge has discretion to grant a prisoner credit for pre-trial time spent in jail between trial and final conviction and must give credit for time spent in jail awaiting determination of appeal. However, he cannot reduce a sentence due to good behavior and prisoner reforms.

Hunting club employees can carry firearms but unless they are law enforcement officers have no more right to enforce the law or to protect the club property than any other individual.

An individual convicted of a felony three years ago, and is now on probation, is not qualified to be appointed a deputy sheriff.

FIRMS TO BE HONORED
Five industrial firms will receive the governor's industrial expansion award for 1972 at a conference here May 10.

Selected to receive the 1972 awards at the Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion are Stemco Manufacturing Company of Longview, Redman Mobile Homes Inc. of Burleson, Lanchart Homes of Childress, Can-Tex Industries of Mineral Wells and Weber Aircraft of Gainesville.

All were named by local chambers of commerce and selected by Texas Industrial

Non-Stick Cookware

Scraping, scrubbing, soaking and scouring have virtually been eliminated with non-stick finishes on cookware and appliances.

Two types of non-stick finishes are available--heavy duty and regular, Lillian Cochran, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, reported.

The heavy type is more scratch and abrasion resistant. Smooth-edged metal spoons and spatulas may be used--if they're not dug into the finish.

However, knives, forks and rotary beaters can mar the finish.

With the regular finish, use only rubber, wooden or plastic utensils.

Also, read all labels and instructions furnished with the item to determine its finish and properties.

Before using the item for the first time, wash it in hot sudsy water to remove any dust or manufacturing oils.

Then condition the cooking surface by lightly rubbing with cooking oil on a paper towel or waxed paper. This insures non-stick cooking if repeated from time to time.

After each use, clean the item thoroughly with hot sudsy water. Remove any residue with a plastic pad. Otherwise residue could damage the non-stick properties.

Sometimes discoloration may occur from improper cleaning. As a result of this grease build-up, effectiveness of the finish is reduced.

A commercial cleaner is available for removing stains. If directions are closely followed, it is safe and effective.

After such a cleaning, recondition the finish with oil. A spotty white film indicates an accumulation of minerals from water. To remove soak a soft cloth in lemon juice or vinegar and rub the finish. Next, wash the cookware or appliance, and recondition once again.

Girl Scouts

More than 100 million Girl Scout cookies were sold in 1972. Girls 9 years and older practice small business--making the sale, fielding complaints, doing paper work, and coping with the red tape--by selling cookies. In general, cookie profits are split between the troops and their local Girl Scout council.

Rep. Cates Reports On Scabies Bill

Rep. Phil Cates has announced that the Scabies Bill, which make provisions for the spray dipping of cattle was passed favorably out of the committee on Agriculture and Livestock Thursday (March 29) and is now pending House action.

"The current law states that cattle in Texas can be required to be dipped into vats at intervals as frequent as 10 to 14 days," stated Cates, who is co-sponsor of HB 1194 with Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas. "With the possibility of severe and extended winter weather in the Panhandle this becomes impractical and a hazard to the cattle breeders."

Rep. Cates, a member of the sub-committee studying the Scabies issue, noted that Rep. Bryan Poff's amendment allowing cattlement a 30 day period within which to spray dip the cattle was also well received at the hearing.

"This amendment will also exempt any feedlot operation or business restricted to the feeding or fattening of cattle," Cates pointed out.

Presently the Animal Health Commission can require the dipping of all livestock in feedlots and in all other livestock operations at intervals from ten to fourteen days and may not require more frequent intervals than every six days.

"This could become a burden to the feedlot industry," Cates stated, and, it is of vital importance to this area's economy that a quicker and more efficient treatment of livestock diseases be enacted into law during this session."

My Neighbors

"Oop--sorry, that's the wife's grocery list--here--here's the threatening note..."

off buying the car completely you could supply beef for your family for at least 2 to 3 years.

Talk your husband into selling the power saw and the other non-essential items he has in the garage. This will kill two birds with one stone. You can buy beef with the proceeds and then be able to park your car in the garage.

Now we could go on and on. The point is--The reason we have all these luxury items is because it takes only sixteen percent of your take home pay for food today. This compares to 25 percent just a few years back. The high cost of living is not bothering nearly as much as the cost of high living.

THE CATTLE PRICE CEILING
As most of you realize my article last week in both the McLean and Pampa News was prepared before any ceilings were proposed.

One of the common comments that I have heard from store owners and others. Why meat prices? Canned goods and just about everything else sold in super markets have gone up just as much percentage as has meat prices. Another thought is the fact a ceiling has been placed on a non-essential food items. In the Asian Countries little or no meat at all is consumed. In Japan they average annual per capita consumption of beef is six pounds. In the U. S. the average per capita consumption of beef is 118 pounds. In 1951 the per capita consumption of beef in the U. S. was about 55 pounds.

Now let's pose this question why has beef consumption more than doubled per person? With the increase in population you can see that production of beef has to be over two and one-half time what it was in 1951. The reason beef consumption has more than double is because the average wages has gone up much faster than beef prices. Cattle on foot are a few cents per pound higher today than they were in the early 1950's.

In my opinion it would be much better to let supply and demand set the price of beef at the retail counter. Especially, since there is no obligation by the farmers and ranchers to see that every housewife gets her 118 pounds per family members at what could be a loss or no profit basis to the cattleman.

In my days in the 1930's in Montague County we got by on sow belly, beans and clabber milk. Even though we produced cattle, we couldn't afford to slaughter those high priced four cent per pound steer calves. In the first place we had no way to refrigerate the beef.

Here are a few suggestions I would like to make to the housewife, whose husband was making $12,000 per year yet she couldn't afford to buy beef that was little higher than it was 20 years ago.

Now if your husband plays golf at the country club--He can buy a pretty good roast by dropping off one weekend of golf or by dropping out of the club for one year he could buy and entire beef.

Instead of having your hair done at the local beauty shop--get you a do it yourself kit. Each week you can buy a pretty fair size roast for what you would be saving.

After you have pushed the cart through the grocery store get you an extra basket and take out the soda pop, the make up cream, the cigarette make up cream, the cigarettes and the rest of the really non essential luxury items and you can more than likely take on a good sirloin steak for each member of your family.

If you trade for a new car each year to replace one of the two or three you have setting on your drive--leave the air conditioner out of the new one. This would buy a fair sized beef for your freezer.

Now if you would just leave

More Cows, More Milk... Fertilizer Use Increases... Broiler Prices Advance... Citrus Harvest Active.

Texas cows produced almost five tons of milk each during 1972. Total milk production in Texas this past year was up four per cent from a year ago. Total milk production was 3,381,000,000 pounds.

The milk cow population also increased slightly, from 355,000 in 1971 to 358,000 in 1972. Average production per cow in herd, including dry cows, was 9,444 pounds in 1972, up 320 pounds from 1970.

But the nationwide average per cow production was 10,271 pounds. Total milk production throughout the nation during 1972 amounted to 120 billion pounds; this is 1.5 per cent higher than the previous year.

FERTILIZER use in Texas continues to climb. Total amount of fertilizers applied on Texas farmlands during 1972 was up almost 200,000 tons over 1971.

Types of fertilizer are divided into three categories: mixed fertilizer, primary nutrient fertilizer, and secondary and micronutrient fertilizer.

Mixed fertilizer utilized in Texas totaled 1,312,535 tons; this is up 11 per cent from 1971. Primary nutrient fertilizer amounted to 1,200,733 tons, which is six per cent above the 1971 use. Secondary and micronutrient fertilizer applied amounted to 1,100 tons which was down slightly from the 1971 level.

Amounts of fertilizers used in Texas during 1972 include: nitrogen--712,135 tons; phosphate--280, 292 tons; potash--112,045 tons.

Anhydrous ammonia fertilizer accounted for 39 per cent of the nitrogen fertilizer used in 1962; ammonium nitrate accounted for 25 per cent, and ammonium sulfate accounted for 14 per cent while nitrogen solutions accounted for 13 per cent.

Superphosphate made up 20 per cent of the directly applied phosphate materials.

CITRUS harvest continues in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Harvest of grapefruit is active, and moderate supplies of early and midseason oranges will be available this month.

Condition of citrus trees is good. Recent freezing weather caused little to no damage.

BROILER wholesale prices are jumping at almost unheard of rates. The price recently jumped four cents a pound at the wholesale level, which is perhaps the first time that has ever happened.

Reasons for the price increase include: The high price of red meat is causing consumers to buy more broilers, thus making the law of supply and demand react;

Bad weather in Georgia, a major broiler production area.

As a result, prices to consumers for broilers will be at levels of 20 years ago. Until recently; broilers have for the past several years been several cents per pound less than they were 20 years ago.

Production efficiencies of broiler producers as well as increased feed conversion are among reasons why broilers are at bargain prices.

CATTLE on feed in Texas as of Feb. 1 totaled 2,215,000 head. This is 22 per cent above a year ago, but one per cent below a month ago. Nationwide, cattle on feed in the seven major states was one per cent above a month ago and eight per cent above a year ago.

4-H Program Strong in Texas

Texas has 2.5 million potential 4-H club members, and approximately 200 of these young people reside in Gray County, emphasizes County Extension Agents Foster Whaley, Richard Guggisberg, Jimmie Lou Wainwright, and Audette Vaughn.

An objective of the Texas 4-H program in the 70's is to involve 250,000 young people, according to the agents. Another goal is to construct a State 4-H center. "To meet the goal of reaching new youth, present programming will have to expand greatly. Many new approaches in involving people will have to be used. More leaders will be needed. The present 14,000 4-H adult leaders will need to expand to 40,000", Whaley says.

Further, a well-trained confident adult leadership is vital to youth programs. "To enable the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to offer adequate leader training and establish new programs, a permanent facility is needed--a state 4-H center," Whaley says.

Such a 4-H center is on the drawing board for Texas. Presently, about 10 states operate year-round 4-H centers and others have numerous summer camps.

Leadership for the projected 4-H center is being provided by the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation, but members need the help of all area citizens. "Put it all together with a 4-H Center" is the campaign theme.

The education facility will be constructed on a 78-acre site at Lake Brownwood. It will offer many new opportunities and dimensions for the programs and activities.

"Project workshops, county and district activities, leadership labs, 4-H leader workshops, clinic and camps ecology projects, citizenship and international activities to be staged at the Center," Dr. Donald L. Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader, explains.

Proof that the proposed 4-H center is important to youth is evident from the fact that 4-H34's throughout the state conducted chocho-late sales to earl $134,000, and business and industry groups have pledged another $200,000 toward the project.

Within each Extension district, 4-H Youth Foundation Trustees and other leaders have formed committees to set district goals make plans for reaching these goals. A total of $1.5 million is needed to construct the Center.

O. Young of Pinger Falls, New York great grandchildren, great grandchildren, and great great grandchildren.

"This means that our county has established a goal within the District framework to share in an important project. The local goal has been set at $4,500.00 and a fund committee has been organized," says Whaley.

All interested citizens are invited to participate in this vital project to prepare today's youth for tomorrow.

Freedom with an If

"I will suspend your jail sentence and let you go free on one condition," said the judge to a teenager found guilty of malicious mischief. "You will have to go to church every Sunday for a year."

But on appeal to a higher court, the go-to-church requirement was thrown out. The court said forcing anyone to attend services was a violation of the religious freedom guaranteed by the federal Constitution.

Probation—that is, letting a prisoner go free "on condition"—is a common method of dealing with lesser lawbreakers. Judges do have a right to put reasonable limits on the person's activities, such as not leaving the county without the permission of his probation officer.

But, as the above case shows, the judge cannot use probation to take away basic constitutional rights. In another case, a requirement that the probationer would have to donate a pint of blood to the Red Cross was also held unconstitutional as a "cruel and unusual" penalty.

Nevertheless, special restrictions may make sense in the context of a particular situation. Another case involved a woman who had twice been convicted of unlawful conduct during anti-war demonstrations.

The judge granted probation on condition that she not take an activist part in any more such demonstrations. And this restriction was duly upheld on appeal.

"The conduct it forbids," said the appellate court, "even if lawful in itself, is conducive to future criminal activity of the same kind of which (she) was convicted."

The court added: "The granting of probation is within the sound discretion of the trial court. A defendant has the right, if he feels that the terms of probation are more harsh than the sentence, to refuse probation and undergo such sentence."

The girl was very rich and the young man was poor but honest. She liked him, but that was all, and he knew it. One night he had been a little more tender than usual.

"You are very rich," he ventured. "Yes," she replied frankly. "I'm worth one million dollars."

"Will you marry me?" he asked. "No." "I thought you wouldn't." "Then why did you ask me?" "Oh, just to see how a man feels when he loses one million dollars."

The speaker was getting tired of being interrupted.

"We seem to have a great many fools here tonight," he said.

"Wouldn't it be advisable to hear one at a time?"

"Yes," said a voice. "Get on with your speech."

"How come you teach your dog all those tricks? I can't teach mine at all." "You just have to know more than the dog."

Three men registered at a hotel and took a room for $30. Since the room was worth only $25, the clerk's conscience began to trouble him, so he called the bell-hop and gave him $5 to return to the three guests. The bell-hop, however, had only half a conscience, and returned only $3 . . . pocketing $2 for himself.

Now since the guests paid $27 for the room, with the $3 the bell-hop returned from their $30, and since the bell-hop kept $2 (making a total now of $29), what happened to the extra dollar?

The cost of street and highway maintenance, administration, and research by state and local governments will double from $5.7 billion in 1970 to $11.4 billion in 1980, says The Tax Foundation, Inc.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible One day as the crowds were gathering, he went up the hillside with his disciples and sat down and taught them there. "Humble men are very fortunate!" he told them, "for the Kingdom of Heaven is given to them. Those who mourn are fortunate! for they shall be comforted. The meek and lowly are fortunate! for the whole wide world belongs to them. "Happy are those who long to be just and good, for they shall be completely satisfied. Happy are the kind and merciful, for they shall be shown mercy." Matthew 5:1-6 Religious Heritage of America

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

One cold February morning a young East Texas farmer busy with outside chores was startled by a terrified scream from inside the house. He raced the distance to the house and burst into the kitchen to find his wife backed into a corner, shielding her two children from a slobbering, trembling fox. He beat the crazed animal to death with a piece of stovewood.

There wasn't the slightest doubt that the fox was rabid, driven to a maniacal recklessness by the fire in its brain. Only a mad animal would go brazenly and fearlessly into a farmyard and into a house where humans were present. One child was bitten during this particular incident.

Last December, a West Texas rancher was awakened to the sound of his favorite dog fighting off a rabid fox in his backyard. Before the rancher could end the intrusion by killing the fox, the rabid animal had bitten the man twice. Knowing how rabies can spread the rancher destroyed the dog, which had also been bitten, on the spot. About a month later, one of the man's sheep also turned up rabid.

In January of this year, during a basketball game being held in the high school gymnasium of a small community near the Gulf Coast, the referee of the game bent down to sweep away what appeared to be a dead bat lying on the playing court. The man was bitten, and immediately began the series of shots required for protections against rabies.

So far this year, rabies cases have been reported in East Texas (Rusk County), Central Texas (Llano, Austin McCulloch, and Mason counties), West Texas (Concho county), the Gulf Coast (Harris County), and North Texas (Montague and Ellis counties), involving dogs, cats, skunks, foxes, bats, and a nutria. One such case reportedly involved some 18 dogs bitten by one rabid skunk.

Hundreds of variations of the same stories could be related--all tragic, all true, all preventable.

Texas may be a place just waiting for a rabies epidemic to happen. A year-end report of animal bites indicated that only about one-third of the dogs and five per cent of the cats involved in biting cases were reported as vaccinated against rabies.

Two-thirds of the dogs and 95 percent of the cats involved in biting incidents in Texas had no rabies vaccination.

Approximately three-fourths of all animals involved in bite cases were listed as owned.

State health officials point out that local health departments and county commissioners have the authority under existing state law to control the occurrence of rabies in Texas, although a few may be unaware the law exists. It authorizes the Commissioners Court of any county to declare their county to be in danger of a potential rabies outbreak in the animal population of the county.

Under such an order, the Commissioners could establish regulations requiring rabies vaccination, registration of domestic animals, quarantining of biting animals and rabies suspects, and requiring restraint of domestic animals. Such an ordinance would become the legal minimum standards in existence throughout the entire county, including all incorporated municipalities even if their ordinances were not as strong as the county's. The state law's "teeth" include fines and jail terms for repeated violators.

Simple vaccination for rabies, the elimination of stray animals, and the discouragement of wildlife in populated areas and the general support of the public for rabies control programs would go a long way toward elimination of rabies as a threat to the population, say state health officials. But when there is a human exposure, the State Health Department really swings into action.

The animal brain is examined by an intricate laboratory process for evidence of rabies. If the result is positive, the local physician is alerted to the need to institute the series of rabies vaccinations. State Health Department Laboratories provided 634 rabies injections for the treatment of humans exposed to rabies last year.

During 1972 more than 7,000 persons reported animal bites. Children from birth through nine years of age had the largest number of bites of any other age grouping listed and accounted for 38 per cent of humans bitten.

the foxes and skunks in Texas, as well as bats, rabies protection for pets doesn't appear to be sufficient to prevent a rabies epidemic wherever these animals are allowed to run at large. State Health officials estimate that for every case of rabies diagnosed in Texas wildlife, there are ten cases that go undetermined and unreported.
