Thoughts

From The Living Bible

And remember that you heavenly Father to whom you pray has no favorite when he judges. He will judge you with perfect justice for everything you do so act in reverent fear of him from now on until you get to heaven. God paid ransom to save you from the impossible road to heaven which your father tried to take, and the ransom he paid was not mer gold or silver, as you ver well know. But he paid for you with the precious life blood of Christ, the sinless spotless Lamb of God.

Boy Scouts Go On Campout

Seventeen McLean Boy Scouts under the supervision of Melvin Woods, camped out 2 miles west of Kellerville last Monday night.

The boys, ages 8 through 14, fished and hiked in addition to their camp's food and shelter responsibilities. The youngsters set up tents, gathered wood and worked to prepare their needs.

A Monday night rain dampened a few spirits and some firewood and a few pieces of camping gear were lost but otherwise the company encountered few difficulties.

The group plans more camping trips and excursions through the summer months. June 17th through the 23rd, five Boy Scouts plan to attend the Summer Camp of 2 regional councils, the Adobe Walls and the Santa Fe.

The camp, 4 miles north-east of Mobeetie, has 12 campsites and offers swimming, archery, riflery, basketweaving and other activities a scout learns to earn rank.

The local troop No. 25 has forty registered members and is of the Adobe Walls council. Mr. Melvin Woods guides the troop.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Policeman's Blunder

Officer Harrison halted a speeding motorist and gave him a ticket. But he failed to notice that the man was intoxicated. Scarcely five minutes later, the same motorist drove his car through a red traffic light and knocked down a woman pedestrian.

Could the woman hold the city legally liable for the accident because of the officer's blunder?

"The city is supposed to provide police protection," she argued in a court hearing. "That's what we pay taxes for. If the officer hadn't let that drunken driver get away, I would never have gotten hurt."

But the court disagreed, saying the law simply does not recognize this kind of a claim.

It is true that all members of the community are entitled to reasonable police protection. But this is a general, not a specific, right. It does not mean that each victim of a crime, if he can point to some police error, can collect damages from the city government.

The reasoning is mainly pragmatic. Courts fear that if such claims were allowed, the financial burden on cities would be staggering.

Nevertheless, under certain circumstances, a person may indeed have a special right to police protection. Consider the problem of the person who is an informer or a material witness in a forthcoming trial. If he is in danger, the city is likely to be held responsible for his safety.

"Otherwise," said one court, "it might become difficult to convince the citizen to cooperate with law enforcement officers."

In one unusual case, the family of a suicide victim tried to blame the city because the police had missed a chance to prevent the tragedy. They said officers had come out to investigate a family quarrel, then left with things still unsettled.

But the city was exonerated. The court said even if the officers should have stayed longer, they still could not fairly have foreseen that the man would take his own life.

BUGS ON ALFAFA

We have had a severe infection of bugs on alfalfa. We believe they have about run their course. Dr. Bill Clymer Entomologist from Amarillo extension service will be here in county Friday June 8th to survey the situation. We hope he will be of help on what to do in future years.

FREE COTTON CLASSIFICATION

We now have papers fixed up for the signature of Bryan McPherson and Leeman Andrews to sign. We are asking them to drop by the gin and sign the necessary papers.

WHEAT HARVEST

The High Plains wheat crop is now starting into a maturity phase. We estimate it will be at least 10 days before harvest starts. This is two weeks later than the normal starting date. We predict there will be the highest average yield ever recorded for the county. The dry land yields will equal that of irrigated wheat in many cases. Much of the wheat planted with the intention of irrigating it was never irrigated due to the abundant rainfall during the winter and early spring months.

CATTLE PRICES

Look for the fat market to stabilize at or near the present level. We don't believe the price will vary much for many months if ceiling prices are left on. The fat market can't rise much over $47.50 with the ceiling price as set. You are beginning to see news articles from the National scene that is pointing out the results of the ceiling. We might add that the ceiling has drastically curtailed placements and will further aggr-vate the meat shortage situation. It is nice to know the message is getting through to Washington that ceilings and Boycotts curtails beef production. This is the opposite effect desired by the cost of living council and the boycotting housewives.

Some people learns their lessons in economics the hard way. A seventh grade student should know by now that ceilings on farm products reduces incentive and lowers total production. Don't tinker with the law of supply and demand and soon things will straighten out.

If you have cattle scales or other types of scales to be checked please leave word at Smith's Farm and Ranch supply. They have a list started and they will contact R. T. Wood. R. # STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

The 63rd Legislature's failure to agree on even a stopgap aid to education revision set off repeated demands from House members for a special session.

Speaker Price Daniel Jr. joined in the chorus, calling on the House Education Committee to "prepare, polish and refine" a school finance bill "for legislative action no later than September 15."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who holds the key to whether or not there is going to be a special session on anything, made clear--twice in writing that he doesn't plan to call one.

Daniel said his instructions to the Education Committee were offered just in case Briscoe reconsiders his position.

The committee will begin a series of hearings on school finance here June 18. More than 700 of the 1,149 school districts are in financial trouble, according to Chairman Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale.

Briscoe set in motion new studies to develop information for specific legislative proposals in 1975 to equalize educational finances and opportunities. A special session at this time would be "premature," said the Governor, since necessary data cannot be assembled for another two years.

Daniel and others claim the problem of financial inequities among the school districts already has been "studied to death," and that the House had the answer in HB 946 last month.

But Briscoe feels proposals before the Legislature this year would "have only added to the present system of programs and budget with no review of current spending or effectiveness." He said he hopes the new study can produce an "education approach that we can afford (without new taxes), as well as one that will meet the needs of the future."

PETRY HONORED

The Governor, four former governors, legislators, office holders--who's who in Texas--honored Herbert C. Petry Jr., Carrizo Springs, last week for serving 13-1/2 years as a state Highway Commissioner.

Petry, who goes off the Highway Commission at the end of this term, has served longer than any other Texan on that important governmental body.

While he was lauded for his public service, speakers encouraged his neighbor at Uvalde, Gov. Dolph Briscoe, to make a place for him in Texas public service-- and a "balloon went up" for Petry as Director of Transportation for the United States.

Petry said "thousands of people had better jobs and better incomes in Texas as a result of the state's efforts to build an adequate highway system to attract new industries and encourage expansion of industries."

Several presentations were made by present and former highway commissioners, Highway Department officials and employees, Good roads Association and the man who appointed him to his first term on the Commission, Gov. Allan Shivers. A film strip was presented on his career.

including several sections about his worldwide career as the youngest president of Lions International 1951. FINAL REFORM MEASURES PASSED Lobby control, code of ethics and campaign finance disclosure legislation passed in closing hours of the 63rd Legislature's regular session.

While none of the bills were as strict as the original House version, all were viewed by advocates as an improvement over present laws.

All filings and financial disclosure under all three bills will be with the secretary of state.

The new public access to information act is viewed as the best law of its kind in the country. Governor Briscoe earlier signed H.B. 3 to strengthen the open meetings law. LEGISLATIVE OUTPUT DOWN

Legislative output was down considerably this year over 1971, although some contended the 63rd Legislature came to grips with more monumental problems than the last.

A total of 688 bills was passed by the 63rd, compared with 1,057 by the 62nd in their 140-day regular session.

A total of 2,746 bills was introduced, together with 97 proposed constitutional amendments.

Three hundred Senate bills and 388 House bills were passed, as were two proposed amendments to the constitution introduced in the House and seven introduced in the Senate. COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court refused to back Gulf Oil Corporation's claim that its 45,771-acre lease in Crane County of Permian Basin should be extended 4,661 days due to lost production resulting from railroad Commission proration orders. The lease will expire July 14, 1975.

In other recent action, the Court held:

A common law wife can't collect insurance benefits when she isn't using a man's name.

An intermediate court was correct in concluding a car cannot be confiscated by the state for drug transportation unless the state can prove the charge beyond a reasonable doubt.

An Air Force Village retirement home for officers and their dependents is not entitled to a property tax exemption since tenants were not taken in as charity cases exclusively.

An off-duty cafeteria worker who broke her arm while welcoming other workers on pay day is eligible for job injury benefits.

The owner of a $65,000 home in Denton must spend $1,500 to add brick, stone or stucco to conform with neighborhood requirements.

The court of Criminal Appeals held requiring movie patrons to have membership cards is no defense for showing obscene films.

A district court hearing here ended in an oil company's agreeing to give priority to local consumers of liquefied petroleum gas

How fire-safe is your home? Most homeowners are careful not to overload electrical circuits, store combustible waste materials, or leave fireplaces unscreened. But there are other basic fire-safety measures that should be built into a home to assure maximum safeguards against the threat of fire.

One of the most important is fire-resistant roofing. The National Fire Protection Association has for years urged enactment of community codes that prohibit use of readily combustible roofing.

An increasing number of communities do require roofing that qualifies as fire-resistant. Such roofing includes asphalt shingles, tile, slate, metal, asbestos cement, asphalt roll roofing, and chemically-treated wood shingles.

Other built-in structural fire-safety factors are:

- Walls of non-combustible materials such as plaster, gypsum or asbestos-cement. Insulation should be fire-resistant.

- Doors that are solid (not hollow core) and tight-fitting enough to hold back fire and smoke.

- Windows large and low enough to serve as emergency exits, and easily opened even by children.

- Chimneys that are "lined" and reach well above the roof peak.

- Use of "firestop" barriers between wall studs, floor joists and ceiling rafters to block the passage of heat, smoke, and flames.

- Furnaces that are properly installed and serviced. There should be sufficient air for proper combustion of oil, gas and coal furnaces and adequate wall clearance around furnace and flue pipes.

June is Dairy Month... Hay Baling In Full Swing... Herbicide Warning... Keep Those Samples Coming.

Among other things, June is Dairy Month. It's a time when dairy producers are hoping everyone remembers to drink an extra glass of milk each day, not just through June, but throughout the year.

Dairy producers in Texas continue to be caught in the middle of a tightening cost-price squeeze. Even though their prices have shown some increase, their production costs have been soaring. Feed costs now are double from that of a year ago.

Dairy association spokesmen are worried about a reduction in production of milk. Reports from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service note that there has been a reduction of almost two per cent during the first four months of this year. Dairy men are faced with rising production costs and a good market for dairy cows at their local auction markets.

The dairy industry is an important part of Texas agriculture picture. Texas ranks among the top 10 states in the nation in total production of milk; almost 3.5 billion pounds of milk were produced in Texas during 1972. Texas also is in the top 10 states in the nation in milk cow numbers with 360,000 head as of January 1.

Texas dairy producers now total about 4,000.

Top counties in milk production in Texas are Hopkins, Erath, Wise, Grimes, Johnson, Tarrant, El Paso, Parker, Bexar, and McLennan.

Milk, any dairyman will tell you, is Nature's most perfect food. So, now is the time to enjoy summer with extra helpings of dairy products.

HAY baling is now in full swing throughout the state. Baling was off to a slow start due to the weather, but a good hay crop is expected in most sections of Texas.

Range and pasture conditions are good to excellent but moisture is needed to maintain present levels of grazing.

REMINDERS are being issued to users of 2,4-D and other hormone-type herbicides about their use during this time of year. Cotton is growing throughout the state, and that crop as well as many other is highly susceptible to herbicide drift.

If you're using 2,4-D or other such type herbicides, be sure not to use it if the wind velocity is above 10 miles per hour. The herbicide can drift several miles.

Herbicides such as 2,4-D are valuable production tools for agricultural producers but they must also be used with care and concern.

About a third of the state's counties are regulated under the Texas herbicide law.

KEEP those screwworm samples coming to the fly lab at Mission, officials request. Texas is now experiencing one of its lightest years on record in number of screwworm cases.

The number of cases this year compared to last year is ten times less. Many livestock producers were fearful last year when the screwworm was completely out of control that the pest would never again be controlled.

But the screwworm infestations are light this year, and that's due in part to continued reporting of suspected cases by livestock producers throughout the state. This enables officials with the program to counterattack the infestations and wipe them out before they can increase.

The screwworm eradication program in Mexico is also making progress, officials note. Through a cooperative effort between the United States and Mexico, the screwworm will be eradicated in Mexico.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Vacation time is a happy time, but it also can be a time for tragedy, says the Texas State Department of Health.

Spring and Summer weather go hand in hand with recreation in Texas, which has something to offer for everyone--from seashores and lakes to forests and rugged mountains.

In most cases, recreation is associated with water for swimming, boating and fishing. While great for recreation, water poses a serious threat to the safety of young and old alike.

Last year, for example, 601 persons lost their lives in water-related accidents in Texas.

Not all of these drownings involved swimmers and boaters. In far too many cases individuals fell from a place of presumed safety--say a dock or river bank--into the water and were drowned. Children are most susceptible to this type of incident. A good safety rule is to put a life jacket on a child playing near the water--just in case of a sudden, unplanned dip.

Two children drowned this year in the Colorado River near Austin after being warned of the treacherous nature of the river bank on which they played.

What can you do to make your vacation or a weekend trip a happy, safe one? The State Health Department and Texas Safety Association have some lifesaving pointers.

First, make swimmers out of all children and adults. The Red Cross throughout Texas offers free swimming instruction. Or, you may enroll for swimming lessons with a private instructor. Being able to swim is your best insurance for coming out of an accidental dunking alive.

Always swim in marked areas if possible, and never swim alone. If you get into trouble, your companion could toss you a life jacket or rope or extend you a pole to help you reach safety. Never swim when chilled, overtired or overheated. Stay out of or off the water if a thunderstorm threatens. Rough water and lightning take their toll.

Always supervise small children constantly. They need your protection.

Boaters should make certain their boats are in perfect shape and meet safety and state regulations--which include having a Coast Guard approved flotation device on board for each person. Many of these de-VICES are cushions--which could float away if a boat overturns. If there are children aboard, make them wear a life jacket or ski belt. If you're on the water at night, you must have running lights.

Certain regulations apply only to larger boats, so don't get caught short says the State Health Department.

Rough weather and overloading are particular hazards for boaters. If you're on the water when a storm threatens, head for the dock immediately. Even the best of boaters and swimmers have perished in foul weather. If your boat should capsize, stick with it--chances are that it will stay afloat.

When pulling skiers, boat drivers should be aware of swimmers, other boats and obstacles above and below water. Don't be a showoff on the water. Life is too precious to lose.

Skiers have safety rules, too, including the wearing of a flotation device. Even good swimmers can be dazed by a hard fall while skiing.

A good procedure is to have at least two persons in the ski boat--one to drive and the other to watch the skier. Learn the arm signals prepared specifically for skiers-- and use them. It's hard to hear above the noise of a motor, but a hand signal can get the message across. For instance, a skier who falls should raise an arm to signal he's okay.

When a person is entering the water, being picked up or having a towrop moved into position to grab, the motor should be in neutral. Whirling propeller blades kill several people every year.

If you're in the water, be on the lookout for other boats. If one approaches, raise a ski into the air as a signal. It's much easier to see this signal than the head of a person bobbing in the water.

Summer is a time for fun, and there's enough recreational pursuits for anyone. So when you're planning your outing, the State Health Department says, put a little thought and planning into safety.

Use leftover fabrics for contrasting yokes, sleeves, pockets or front dress panels in new garments. However, combine fabrics of similar weight and washing instructions, recommends Vivian Warminski, clothing specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Usually when a parent shows patience with childrer their behavior improves. Children can sense when a parent is tense and irritable then act worse than ever.

ADOLESCENT GROWTH

It's common knowledge, I hope, that young people need more nutrients during most of their teen years than at any other time. It's possible that a young woman when pregnant might need as much. But for the sake of this discussion, let's set that subject aside.

Documenting precisely the growth that young people experience, say, from 12 to 17 years, has not been difficult for parents or the family physician who see it happening every day before their eyes. But now we have national statistics from a Federal study that are interesting because exact averages are given.

Findings Of The Study

According to an announcement of the results of the study by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's National Center for Health Statistics:
 "American boys 12 years of age average an even five feet, or 60 inches, in height. For boys age 15, the average height is 67.5 inches, and for 17-year olds, it is slightly over 69 inches.

"Girls experience a similar growth pattern, though by 17 they average only a little over 64 inches in height. This is three inches more than their 12-year old counterparts.

"For both sexes, there are concomitant increases in weight.
 On the average, 17 year-old-boys weigh 150 pounds — or 55 pounds more than the 12-year olds. Girls of 17 years average 127 pounds, as compared with 103 pounds for 12-year olds.

"These data on height and weight of youths are based on a 1966-70 survey in which physical examinations were given to more than 7,000 youths representing a national probability sample of the population.

"In both sexes the weight spurt begins about six months later than the height spurt. The two are of equal duration — 2 3/4 years — in boys, but the weight spurt in girls continues a little longer than that for height.

"Comparisons of these findings with other studies suggest an earlier onset of the adolescent growth spurt than previous investigators found. The examination survey data indicate that American boys now reach puberty only about 1 1/2 years later than girls. Traditionally, the lag has been placed at two years."

Need Best Nutrition

The foregoing makes it rather obvious that with such growth going on, young people need the best nutrition they can get. This is one reason why the school lunch program is so vitally important. It means teenage children can be sure of an adequate lunch — one that not only feeds them well but is a demonstration, in itself, of what students have heard in the classroom when good nutrition is discussed. Hopefully, too, this learning carries over into their eating at home and elsewhere.

But the responsibility of parents will always be terrifically important. Are you, if you are a parent, paying that much attention to your child's nutrition?

Fire Extinguisher Important In Boats

Man's best friend may be his dog on land, but on the water his best friend could be a fire extinguisher.

Officials for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department remind boaters that fire extinguishers are required by law on many outboard motor boats and all inboards.

Your boat is required to have a fire extinguisher on board if it has:

- Closed compartments under the thwarts and seats wherein portable fuel tanks may be stored.
- Double bottoms not sealed to the hull or which are not completely filled with flotation material.
- Closed living spaces.
- Closed storage compartments in which combustible or flammable materials are stored.
- Permanently installed fuel tanks.

Some boat owners consider the extinguisher a superfluous piece of equipment until their boat, worth several thousand dollars, catches fire.

Fires on boats are especially terrifying since there is usually no place to run. You can either fight the fire, or swim for your life. If you have fire extinguisher on board, you alternatives are cut in half, say department officials.

Splashing water on boat fires won't help since they usually involve spilled gasoline. Water merely spreads the flames.

Four types of extinguishers are available for the boater--foam, carbon dioxide (CO2), freon and dry chemical. Boat owners should make sure the fire extinguisher they purchase has the B-I or B-II classification required by the coast guard. This classification will be stamped on the fire extinguisher.

Boat owners should make frequent checks to be sure their extinguishers are in their proper storage brackets and undamaged. Cracked or broken hose should be replaced, and nozzles should be kept free of obstruction. Locking pins and sealing wires should be checked to assure that the extinguisher has not been used since last recharged.

Extinguishers should never be tried merely to see if they are in proper operating condition because in many cases the valves will not properly reset, resulting in a gradual discharge.

Love-- It's The Real Thing

When a loved child fails, the failure doesn't cut so deep that it makes him doubt his self worth, according to a family life education specialist.

Being loved gives reassurance and encourages a person to try again, Dorothy Taylor with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, said.

Most researchers mention love as a "potent reality" markedly influencing human behavior, development and adjustment, she said.

As a great preventive for maladjustment in children, love affords them a basic security, a feeling of belonging--to families, to the community.

When love has created security in a child's individual, he develops loving behavior for unspecified situations.

In describing the nature of love, Miss Taylor Love of an individual affirm and support the person--not to possess person.

Love grants a person full right to his own humanity.

The affirmation of own life, happiness, and freedom is rooted in capacity to love.

She cited products and love of self and others as two forms of love necessary to development and adjustment.

Productive love is for something, to something grow.

Love for self--respect, love for others, mankind awakens a reverence for life.

Turning to lack of or inappropriate use of relationships, the specialist pointed to their effects on children.

Insecure, unloved tend to show anxious, icky symptoms.

The unloved child scarcely dares to try wings in learning.

He's usually so full of hostility that he rejects refuses valuable experience as a way of demonstrating his power to himself.

While love doesn't badly maladjusted child it is a great aid to the adjustment, Miss Taylor concluded.
