Serving McLean and the Area Since 1903

VOLUME 77 McLEAN, GRAY COUNTY, TEXAS THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1980 PRICE 20¢ NUMBER 16

from the distaff side
by Linda Haynes

Good luck to the girls' golf team and Leslie Skipper and Joy Rhine. These young ladies will be representing McLean at the regional golf meet and track meet this week in Levelland.

The boys district track meet was held Tuesday, but results from the boys track and boys district tennis meets were too late for this edition of the paper. We will have stories on the contests next week.

The usual Friday morning ritual around the News office is to read the other weekly papers from around the area. What a nice surprise it was to see Lisa's Loose Marbles column about the census in the Canadian Record! Editor Ben Ezzell reprinted the column and called it a "gem of humor"! Appreciation by our fellow newspaper people is about the highest compliment possible, so Lisa was thrilled. She got a call at the office the day after the column was published from a census taker in Pampa who said that she had thoroughly enjoyed the column and that it may have saved her sanity. She had taken 51 long forms to a nursing home for the residents and had helped them fill the forms out!

Hope you got your census form returned to Uncle Sam. I am still betting that McLean will show a good increase in population when the census forms are tabulated.

Recently, Bill Crisp brought us a rare copy of the first edition of the Alanreed Herald, dated June 10, 1927. A copy was given to Mr. Crisp's wife by May Moreman before her death.

The paper has a blurb by the name with the phrase "The Fastest Growing Town in the Panhandle." The only picture in the paper is of an oil well with oil gushing over the top. The paper consists mostly of advertisements with one long column by some unidentified writer.

The column was long and poetically about the opportunities to be found in Alanreed, and mentions a very busy Chamber of Commerce in the town.

Apparently promoters of the town had hoped that Alanreed would become a center of the oil industry and were doing everything possible to get people to come to the town by bus lots of homes and businesses.

The paper also mentions a big festival to be held June 14, 1927 to start a city building. I wonder what happened to the festival, and what ever happened to the Chamber of Commerce in Alanreed.

The paper is almost depressing to read, since it is so full of hope for a successful enterprise. I don't know what happened to the paper. One historical article I read said that the paper moved to Lefors, but obviously it eventually folded up and went out of business.

Some of the businesses in Alanreed which advertised in this first edition were S.T. Greenwood (fresh butter, cream or milk), Alanreed Motor Company (Steger and Thaker, proprietors) W.J. Ball (dry goods, groceries, hardware), S.L. Jones and Sons (general blacksmithing), The Alanreed Barber Shop (O.H. Parks, prop.) Alanreed Hotel (Rooms, $1.00, meals, 50 cents), S.L.

Gas Line Installation Continues

Some residents are not sure about how much property the city owns beside city streets, according to city superintendent Bob Glenn, and this has been causing some problems when the new gas lines are being laid.

The city actually has 80 feet of right-of-way on each street, which means that the city owns about 22 feet on each side of the road," Glenn said. As the new gas line is being installed, some of the lines will be placed in what most people consider their yards, he said, but the land actually belongs to the city. The lines are being installed as close as possible to the curb

Glenn said. "We don't want to install the new lines under the street so that if the lines have to be worked on eventually we won't have to tear up the streets to repair them," Glenn said.

Robert "Bud" Buie inspector for McMorries Engineers, said that Wes-Tex, the company in charge of installing the new gas system, will try to repair any damage done to yards by watering the ditch, blading it, and then raking the ground so that it is ready to be resod.

Buie also said that McLean residents need to be aware that they will have to clear all alleys by about the middle of May so that crews can install new gas meters in the alleys. The city right-of-way in the alleys is 20 feet, Buie said, and trucks will need to be able to back into some areas to install the meters. He said that the crews would move trash barrels, but other items, such as wood, vehicles, bricks, blocks, etc., should be moved before the date given.

Projected completion date for the new gas system is December, according to city officials.

Directors Named To Club Board

Three new directors were elected to the board of directors of the McLean Country Club at the group's meeting in McLean last week. Elected to the board were Lavern Brooks, Glen Dowdy of Pampa, and Odie Calcutt.

The members of the board of directors elected officers for the coming year with R.B. "Jiggs" Cooke of Pampa elected president. June Suggs was elected treasurer, Lavern Brooks was elected secretary, and Glenn Dowdy was elected vice-president. Other members of the board are Glenn Bell of Shamrock, J.T. Trew, J.D. Paris of Miami, and Billy Jack Bailey.

According to the treasurer, Mrs. Suggs, the club requires a quorum to elect officers for the board, but that fewer than 20 people came to the meeting. Enough people to form a quorum were finally located at about 9:45 p.m. and the election was held.

Absentee Voting Continues In Pampa

Absentee voting for both Democrats and Republicans began April 14 and will continue through April 29 at the County Clerk's office in Pampa, according to Wanda Carter, county clerk.

Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The absentee voting is for voters who will be unable to vote in the May 3 Democratic and Republican primaries.

Charity Nets $108 In Bike-A-Thon

Linda McDonald, chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon in McLean, announced that four riders raised $108 for the charity in a bike ride Saturday. John Bentley, James Smith, and Robert McDonald each made $25 for the group with Trevor McDonald making $33.

Helping with the fund-raising event were Evelyn Shaw and Louise Turner.

Various businesses and individuals pledged money for the total amount of miles each participant walked or rode. Sponsors were The McLean News, the McLean Variety. Jane

Tigers Win Sprint Relay

The McLean Tigers sprint relay team surprised the spectators at the Salt Fork Relays in Clarendon Friday by taking advantage of some miscues by other teams and winning the event. McLean ran a sizzling 48.8 to take the event, despite confusion in the exchange lanes. According to one report, the Tigers were forced to slow down for one exchange since another team was in their lane, and then a runner from another school stepped on Tiger James Matheny's shoe during the exchange, and sent Matheny's shoe flying off the track. Matheny was forced to run his leg of the race with "one shoe on, and one shoe off."

Other Tigers on the relay in addition to Matheny were Randy Suggs, Terry Todd and Dwayne Morgan.

Booker was second in the relay and Clarendon JV was third.

In other events at the district meet, Tiger Randy Suggs placed second in the long jump with a jump of 19 feet, and second in the high jump with a jump of 5 feet, 8 inches. McLean finished fifth in the meet with 45 points.

The Tigers went to Groom Tuesday for the district 1-B track meet, but results from that meet were too late for press time.

Wrecks Reported In McLean Area

Three wrecks in the McLean vicinity in the past few days caused some injuries and damage to vehicles.

On April 5, James Duke, 16 of Groom driving a 1969 Chevrolet pickup about two miles south of Alanreed on farm-to-market road 291 overturned his vehicle when he drove onto a soft shoulder. Duke was thrown out of the vehicle when it overturned. He and a passenger, Sherry Lynn Curry, 12 of McLean were taken to McLean Hospital, and he was later transferred to the Groom Hospital. Duke was ticketed for having no drivers license, and for turning when unsafe.

The same day, about 7:10 p.m., a similar accident occurred on Texas highway 273 about 14 miles north of McLean when James Michael Mahan, 37, of Pampa overturned the 1977 Chevrolet bobtail truck he was driving. The McLean ambulance transported him to a hospital in Pampa. He was also given a citation for turning when unsafe.

On April 12 at 2:58 p.m. Jerry Smith of Amarillo, driving a 1974 Ford Pinto, pulled out on Interstate 40 from Rowe Street and hit a car driven by Douglas A. Bohn. Bohn, was driving a 1979 Mercury.

Smith was given a ticket for failure to yield right-of-way in the incident. No one sustained injuries in the mishap.

In another incident, April 5 at 12:30 a.m. McLean resident, Dwayne Morgan, 18 was given a ticket for improper start

Council Approves SPS Request

Utility Bills Will Go Up For McLean Customers

Utility bills will take more of a bite out of McLean residents' paychecks following action of the McLean City Council last week. The group approved a rate increase requested by Southwestern Public Service's manager Pat Durham. The McLean council had nixed the increase at the group's meeting in March, but the engineer for the city said that the increase was fair. Mayor Sam Haynes said that other cities in the area had already accepted the increase which will mean a raise of about 14 percent for residential customers, with an 11 percent increase overall.

The council was told that El Paso Natural Gas Company had notified the city that it would raise its price for natural gas by another 35 cents per thousand cubic feet, effective April 1. The council members discussed raising the rate for the users in McLean and the area and decided to ask that an ordinance be written to raise the cost to city residents from $2.75 to $3.10 per mcf and for out-of-town residents from $2.90 to $3.25 per mcf. Mayor Haynes said that the increase for gas users was simply a "pass-through" increase, passing on the increase to the city from El Paso Gas Company.

Ruth Magee Nominated For Distinguished Service

WTSU--Ruth Magee of McLean has been nominated by three organizations for the Texas Panhandle Distinguished Service Awards which will be presented Saturday, April 19, at West Texas State University. Magee, of 301 Grove, has been nominated by the Pioneer Study Club, City Council of McLean and United Methodist Church.

Magee, a WTSU graduate, is a mother of three daughters and one son. She is the first woman elected to the City Council and is vice chairman of the governing body of Panhandle Health Systems Agency, a branch of Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

She taught school for one year in Enterprise community before her marriage to Clyde Magee, who died in 1973. She has been involved in Order of Rainbow for Girls, was a room

Mrs. Alice Short Smith and E.L. Sitter reported to the council on the progress toward establishing the Hillcrest Cemetery as a perpetual care cemetery. Sitter explained to the council that the cemetery association had taken steps to become incorporated as a non-profit corporation, one of the first steps necessary before a perpetual-care type of service can be established. Sitter said that it might be necessary some day to ask the city to deed property in the cemetery to the association so that the group could be recognized as a non-profit group. No action was taken by the council on the report.

City Secretary Stella Lee reported to the council concerning the consolidation of the school and city tax collection services. The two groups have been discussing consolidating the assessment and collection of taxes into one office. Mrs. Lee said that details of the consolidation still need to be worked out, but that the school board seemed to be favorable to the move. The city's taxes would be collected through the school business office if the move is approved, but the city would still set its own tax rate, Mrs. Lee said.

The council canvasses the election and officially recognized the newly-elected members, George Terry, Miro Pagan and Boyd Meador, the only three candidates in the election and all incumbents, were re-elected and were administered the oath of office.

The council agreed to pay the United Methodist Youth $50 for cleaning a certain section of streets in town. The group requested a job with the city as a fund-raising project.

The city agreed to pay $450 as its share of consulting fees during the recent effort to keep the railroad in McLean.

Joe Billingsley will receive $350 from the city because of damage done to his wheat when a gas line was installed.

The hiring and firing of employees was also discussed by the council.

A city-wide clean-up, fix-up week was discussed but the council did not decide on a specific date.

Attending the meeting were Ruth Magee, George Terry, Miro Pagan, Boyd Meador, councilmembers; Mayor Sam Haynes; city secretary, Stella Lee; city superintendent Bob Glenn; Pat Durham, E.L. Sitter, and Alice Short Smith.

OPINIONS

IRS MAY DELAY REFUNDS, BUT WILL COLLECT TAX ON TIME

Some of the bureaucracies in the federal government have passed the point of being absurd and are now simply ridiculous. A case in point is the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS officials announced last week that some refunds to tax payers would be delayed because the IRS was waiting to get more money in the bank before it made the refunds. Some of us taxpayers have been waiting a long time to get enough money in the bank to pay our bills, but we find that our creditors don't like that very much.

However if you're the IRS, you can do whatever you want.

When the official was asked if his bureau would pay interest on the late money, the answer, of course, was a horrified "No!", but when the official was asked if taxpayers then could be a few days late with their income tax return, the official replied, "Sure, if they're willing to pay the penalty."

The lesson for taxpayers is simple. The IRS is the privileged party in this contract, and the taxpayer is the underdog. You can bet that when all the tax returns are in, several thousand will be audited, and the tax collectors will be searching every little cranny to ferret out old Joe Average who might not have reported $40 in tips.

While Joe is sweating about his audit, drug dealers in Florida, according to one national report, will be weighing their 28 million tax-free dollars in preparation for investing in more prime Florida land, with very few worries about the IRS checking on them.

If that's not ridiculous enough for you, how about the pronouncement the IRS made about the hostages? According to the report we heard, the IRS in its great magnanimity, has said that the hostages being held in Iran don't need to worry about their 1979 income tax return...for a while.

The IRS will give each hostage 75 days following his return to the United States to file an income tax return!

That should certainly make the hostages feel that we all are concerned about their welfare. I'm sure that the Americans in the embassy in Tehran held a little celebration when they heard how generous the IRS is!

Isn't there a presidential candidate out there anywhere who is courageous enough to tackle the Internal Revenue Service and make them clean up their act? If there is, he has my vote.

Regulation: Like Income Tax by John W. Fisher

Government regulation is like income tax: Necessary, sometimes painful, and at this point out of control. Americans pay too much money, both to Uncle Sam's revenue service and to the regulatory process. It's pretty easy to see how income tax affects us, even though some taxes are hidden in the prices of products. But regulation requires a deeper look.

In the decade of the 1970s, government regulation took the honors as the fastest growing industry in America. It outstripped automobiles, electronics, and other productive industries which have created for Americans the highest standard of living in the history of the world. The record of regulation in the 1970s is not one that I would like to see repeated in the decade of the '80s.

How did we get into this situation? Through growth of government.

In 1932, the Federal Register, the publication used to announce government regulations, began its existence with 2,400 pages. By 1970, the Register had grown to 20,000 pages. In 1979, it was over 74,000 pages.

Americans now pay for 80 regulatory agencies and commissions which interpret and implement regulatory laws passed by Congress. This means salaries for over 100,000 government workers at a cost of $3.54 billion a year. These are direct costs to each and every taxpayer. They show up in the income tax rates which all of us pay.

What do these billions of dollars and thousands of pages mean? They mean, for example, that a truck driver going from Dallas to San Diego must detour 800 miles, which adds 12 hours to the trip and wastes 160 gallons of diesel fuel. They mean, for example, that parents and college students pay an extra $2 billion a year for college educations. This $2 billion equates to about 18 per cent of all tuition money. They mean that our national debt has grown to $839 billion, which averages $4,000 for each man, woman and child in this country.

All of this is not to say that government regulation is unnecessary. Regulations exist to protect all of us from the excesses of a few, to protect the earth, air, and water we all own in common. But in the world of 1980, regulation is like crabgrass in a lush summer lawn. Allowed to go unchecked, it will choke the life out of all of us.

Federal regulations, moreover, increase the cost of providing goods and services. Such items as special safety features (often rejected by users), excessive product testing, and unreasonable OSHA requirements have been government mandated. As consumers we have no options but to pay or do without.

When we choose to pay, we fuel inflation. This is so because the money spent to meet excessive standards or the money diverted from productive work, such as producing electricity, to non-productive work, such as filling out forms, increases the cost of products without increasing their value. To put it another way, one widget at $1.95 coupled with government regulation on widgets equals one widget at $2.25—assuming widgets could be made at all.

Sometimes it does make sense to give up a degree of productivity, such as when reasonable alterations to production improve the health and safety of the public or employees. But most regulation makes no match-up of costs against benefits.

Government regulations have other effects—they shackle American creativity and ingenuity. We spend so much time filling out forms in triplicate that we drain energy and money better spent in developing new technologies for the future. Money diverted to meeting federal standards cannot be used to modernize or expand factories or to create new jobs. In 1979 alone, that amounted to $103 billion—$103 billion to meet regulatory requirements.

And it is a myth that regulations protect the "little guy." The time and excessive cost required to meet federal regulations favor existing, established companies over new and expanding entrepreneurs. A company producing a million widgets can afford the regulatory process much better than a business producing a thousand.

What can be done about the regulatory process? Just as each of us pays attention to the tax laws which affect our pocketbooks, so too must we scrutinize regulations which govern not only our pocketbooks but the ways in which we are allowed to live. We should support "sunrise" legislation, which would require a statement of specific goals and objectives for all major new forms of regulation. The use of regulations to achieve public policy goals requires a balanced and cost-effective system. To help achieve such a system, we should also support "sunset" legislation for agencies and programs. Those not reauthorized by Congress would be terminated.

No thinking person opposes all government regulations. No one wants children to eat paint that contains poisonous lead. No one wants to breathe polluted air or use cancer-producing substances.

It is also true that no one wants to be caught in a crabgrass explosion—to be smothered by regulations that establish rules but do not remove the lead from paint, do not clean the air, and do not control carcinogenic drugs. It is time that the federal government be required to apply common sense to its regulatory process—and to its tax structure—to insure that rules move America forward to a better way of life, to cleaner air, cleaner water, safer products, but also to increased competitiveness, improved productivity and a sound, healthy economy.

Mr. Fisher is chairman, National Association of Manufacturers.

I certainly appreciated Bill sharing this rare paper with us. If anyone knows how long the paper stayed in business, or what happened to Mr. Reavis, we would appreciate your letting us know.

Special note to "The Phantom": It is our policy that we do not publish letters that are unsigned. If you will give us your name, we will be glad to publish the letter.

The McLean News office will be closed Friday so that the members of the staff may attend the Texas Panhandle Press Association meeting in Amarillo.

We always welcome suggestions from our readers, even though we can't always use some of them. One was suggested the other day that we have a "Call the Editor" column in addition to the "Letters to the Editor." He said that many people don't like to write but would be glad to call in their opinions.

I don't believe we will start a column like that, even though it might be fun.

Another suggestion that was made, however, might be enjoyable for our readers, and that is a "News from Heald" column. Anyone out there interested in such a column? Call us if you are and we'll explain the details.

Somehow I gave some of my readers the impression that I am backing Jimmy Carter for president. Let me clear up that misconception. I am a true neutral in this election. So far I have not seen a candidate that I like. Before November comes, I will probably make up my mind, but right now, I'm not excited about any candidate in the arena.

I have a feeling that world events will shift enough so that either Carter will look like a real hero and be a shoe-in, or he will look like the worst bungler of all time, and he will be defeated in a landslide. I don't think this will be a close election, and I don't believe that the American voter will vote on either candidates merits, but rather against the other candidate.

It's almost frightening to realize that the outcome of the American presidential election will probably be determined by that bunch of crazy, illiterate, fanatic "students" in the embassy in Tehran.

Notes From Your County Agricultural Agent

by Joe Van Zandt

I have had several farmers ask about obtaining TAM 105 seed wheat to plant next fall. Recently, I obtained the names of several growers around the Panhandle who obtained registered seed last year with the intent to produce certified seed this year of TAM 105. If you are interested in obtaining some of this seed, call or come by the County Extension Office for the list of area growers.

SBA FARM DISASTER PROGRAM GETS TOLL-FREE NUMBER

Texas farmers and ranchers who want information about the disaster recovery loan program of the U.S. Small Business Administration now have a toll-free number they may call.

SBA has already assisted more than 10,000 agricultural producers in Texas, and this toll-free number will make it easier for farmers throughout Texas to receive information about the SBA program.

Farmers who have questions about being eligible or how to apply for an agricultural disaster loan may receive a brief explanation by calling toll-free, 1-800-692-4296, from anywhere within Texas. If a farmer has already applied to SBA for assistance, he may leave his name, address, and phone number with the receptionist and a loan officer familiar with the application will call back at once using another line rather than tying up the toll-free number for any length of time.

SBA physical disaster-loans are available in counties recommended by the governor and subsequently designated by the SBA administrator. Loans are made only for crop losses not already covered by insurance or other disaster or deficiency payments.

PRUNE TREES - NOT TOP THEM

Freshly "topped" trees are once again beginning to make their annual appearance in the area. Unfortunately, this method of so-called tree pruning continues to be done by unqualified tree servicemen and home owners.

The topping practice is only justified when tree limbs are fouling overhead utility lines. Then the best alternative is to remove the tree and replant with a small growing tree that will not grow tall enough to get into the overhead lines.

Topping results in decayed stubs and weakly attached branches which combine to reduce beauty, value and expected tree life. The profusions of stems which develop from branch stubs are very susceptible to breakage from wind and ice storms.

When it is necessary to prune trees that have grown too large, corrective pruning can be done. Broken limbs, dead wood, and branch stubs first need to be removed back to remaining branches or trunks. Dense tree crowns can then be thinned out by removing branches that are growing too close to others. A thinning cut results in one remaining limb where two or more were originally growing. Trees that need to be reduced in height can have upright limbs pruned back to outward growing lateral branches. A tree properly pruned in this manner will not appear to have been worked on as the natural form of the tree will be retained.

The next time your neighbor or local tree serviceman suggests "topping" as a pruning method for your trees, tell them there's a better way. A booklet on pruning trees is available through the Gray County Extension Office.

PUBLICATION AIMED AT REDUCING CALF LOSSES

Cattlemen can prevent some calf losses at birth if they know what steps to take to help the cow. A publication has been prepared by the Extension Service that will assist cattlemen in dealing with calving problems.

The publication, "Recognizing and Handling Calving Problems," guides cattlemen through the calving process, instructing them and showing illustrations how and when to give assistance.

If a cow does not successfully give birth to a live calf, the total management and feed cost invested in her is lost. Research indicates that 80% of all calf deaths occur at or near birth and that calving difficulty accounts for two-thirds of these deaths. Furthermore, calving problems are most common in heifers giving birth to their first calves with more than half usually having calving problems.

Since the reproductive capability of a cow that of conception, gestation, and parturition is by far the most important economic factor in cow-calf production, good management of the cow herd is of vital importance. Calving problems develop, cattlemen should be able to recognize these and provide assistance.

The new publication on calving problems should be of value to all cattle producers. Copies of "Recognizing and Handling Calving Problems," B-1203, are available from the County Extension Office.

In The Kitchen

Every good homemaker probably knows a thousand and one ways to prepare ground beef, because that delicious meat is usually one of the cheapest in the market. The following recipe is one that my mother liked to fix, and although I never particularly cared for cooked cabbage, I do like this dish.

STUFFED CABBAGE

From Mae Looper
8 cabbage leaves
1 lb. ground beef

1 onion chopped
1/4 cup minute rice
1 large can tomato sauce
salt and pepper

Drop cabbage leaves in boiling water for about five minutes.

Combine beef, onion, rice, salt, pepper and half the tomato sauce.

Place beef mixture on leaves. Roll up, fasten with toothpicks.

Place in greased casserole. Pour remaining sauce over rolls. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for about one hour.

THEN and NOW

Our ancestors, it seems, were hot stuff in more ways than most people consider. Through the ages, keeping cool has led to some pretty fancy innovations.

THEN: In ancient Egypt slaves poured water on a Venetian blind arrangement of curtain reeds to cool the air brought through. The Romans, it's said, carried snow down the mountains to cool their homes, packing it in their bathtubs and then hopping in.

NOW: Since 1902, however, things have been a bit easier and more comfortable. That was the year Willis H. Carrier designed the first scientific air-conditioning system. The latest addition to his company's collection of coolers is the new two-ton Premium Round One central residential air conditioner that has the highest Seasonal Energy Efficiency Rating of any comparable unit on the market.

Through May 1980, tennis players will be competing in World Champion Tennis tournaments for Barclays Visa travelers cheques, the official travelers cheques of the 1980 World Championship Tennis Tournaments from December to May 1980 in Europe and North America. The prize money is always given in Barclays Visa Travelers Cheques and amounts to a total of $3 million.

Wind warning for area snakes!

Loose Marbles
by Lisa Patman

Eureka! I found it! After months of hacking my way through a jungle of income tax returns, census forms, social security papers, charge card bills, note due payments, and overdraft notices I found a loophole which will eliminate all of those problems forever.

The remedy is so easy that anyone will be able to do it. And not only was it created by the federal government, but that same government provides a special form to fill out to get rid of the darn things.

(Because this involves the federal government it is a little confusing, but try to follow along because I think we've got them licked this time.)

I found this little-used form in, of all places, the United States post office, and the loophole that it gives us comes under the heading "The following are non-mailable" which says that it is illegal (thereby a federal offense, I assume) to mail "Obscene, lewd, lascivious, or filthy publications or writing or...Any mail containing any filthy, vile, or indecent thing" to anyone who doesn't want to receive it.

Going quickly from this astonishing find at the post office to my ten pound dictionary at the News office, I found under the word obscene the definition "repulsive, disgusting", under the word lewd the definition "vile, wicked", under lascivious, "lewd", and under filthy, "obscene, morally corrupt, lewd, low, contemptible, mean."

Now, fellow citizens, do you know anything more repulsive and disgusting (thereby qualifying as obscene, according to Webster's) than a federal income tax form? Can you think of anything as vile and wicked (remember lewd?) as an overdraft notice? And what, I ask you, is more obscene, morally corrupt, lewd, low, contemptible, mean (and thereby filthy) than a stack of note due payments, credit card bills, computerized car payments, not to mention that stupid census form? I find them so objectionable that I (get this folks) don't want to receive them anymore.

We have them now. We're gonna hang them by their very own loophole. We shall marshal our forces and march en masse to our nearest post office where we will fill out forms to stop these criminal activities. If this works, all we'll have to do from now on is write the offending agencies and tell them to cease and desist their obscene, contemptible, mean mailings, or we will report them to the proper authorities which will deal with them without delay.

It's really very simple—we can thumb our noses, point to the federal law that spells out the violation, and tell them to take us off their mailing lists.

UNSUNG HEROES OF AMERICA

Little Known Facts About People Who Help Us

HANDICAPPED: JUST A STATE OF MIND?

Richard Chavez is living proof that you can overcome a handicap if you think you can.

Through his own school, Richard Chavez & Associates in Los Angeles, this 36-year-old Californian and spokesperson for the disadvantaged, teaches others that a physical handicap is far easier to cope with than not believing in yourself and your ability to succeed.

Selected to receive the first annual W. Clement Stone "Endow a Dream" Award, Chavez overcame the crippling effects of polio at age five, followed by pneumonia, to establish an innovative motivational and training school where more than 1,000 persons complete courses each year.

Chavez, received the $50,000 award last fall in Chicago and divided the money among ten not-for-profit groups in California. The award allows the honoree to "Endow a Dream" by giving $50,000 to a charitable group or groups of his or her choice. Finding a worthy recipient for this year's recognition is the job of the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation awards committee.

Stone, Foundation chairman and Combined Insurance Company of America founder and chairman, says, "We seek to show through this award that every individual can make a significant contribution to the improvement of his or her fellowman." Stone's personal gifts and family foundation grants had exceeded $70 million by 1979.

To nominate an unsung hero or heroine you know, write for a nomination kit to "Endow a Dream," 111 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60601. The winner and his nominator will be honored at a dinner in Dallas in October, but the deadline for receipt of the complete nomination forms at the Foundation is June 2, 1980.

Don't you know someone whose good works should be recognized?

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart had written a complete symphony by the time he was eight.

SEASONS OF SHAME

By Robert C. Yeager
"Seasons of Shame" is a brand new book by Robert Yeager which vividly and accurately points up the alarming rise of serious injury due to the increased violence in competitive sports.
Yeager undoubtedly proves his point that violence is trending up, and that we as spectators seem to be demanding more and more violence as did the people in the days of the Roman Gladiators.

A number of excellent photographs depicting incidents of foul play which were of national notoriety are shown in this volume, including the soccer fan riot and panic in Lima, Peru, in 1964, which killed 318 people, the attack on football player Johnny Bright, the collision which made Darrel Stingley a quadriplegic, the serious injury to Rudy Tomjanovich by Kermit Washington in a professional basketball game, and others of hockey game fights, which now are expected and always enjoyed by hockey fans all over the country.

The very valid point is made by Yeager that the spread of violence has covered every competitive sport even down to Little League Baseball, and that the necessity to win is being ingrained into the personalities of our youth as certainly as the promoters and owners of big time sports must do whatever necessary to win and keep the turnstiles active.

This report will no doubt be shocking to most and the undeniable necessity to check this trend will be realized by all who read the book.

The book does project some hope for the future, as movements are already underway to interest youth in new sports less liable to cause serious injury.

"Seasons of Shame" will no doubt alarm you greatly, and it will also prove to be exciting and interesting reading. It is now available at Lovett Memorial Library.

North Carolina, often called "Golf State USA," has some 330 golf courses.
