New Clues Left By Burglars At Lemmons Store

Merchandise Valued at $75 To $100 Taken From Warehouse

Few clues were left by burglars who broke into the warehouse of the Lemmons Dry Goods Co. here Thursday night of last week and made their escape with merchandise valued at between $75 and $100.

Two locks used to secure the warehouse door were broken off and carried away by the intruders. The burglars evidently took their time in looking over the stock of merchandise stored in the warehouse, picking boxes of shirts of certain size and overalls and workshirts were also picked over for size. Included in the loss were about three dozens of dress shirts, several pairs of overalls and work shirts, several boxes of men's hanging robes, a number of quilts and blankets and suit cases.

Tracks of two different persons were found by investigating officers between the warehouse door and the paved street. There the trail ended for officers, who had not a single clue except a meager description of an old model car in which four men were riding seen by the attendant at North Motor Co. about 2 o'clock that night, getting air and water at the service station.

The same persons who burglarized the Lemmons store are believed to have broken locks on a gasoline pump at the rear of Joe Oberkamp's store and pumped an estimated 30 gallons or more of gasoline from the tank, a loss which was also discovered the following morning.

ONE THING and THEN ANOTHER
By FRED GIPSON

CORPUS CHRISTI, Dec. 14.—He was a wet, bedraggled creature, and gaunt. But he carried his tail at a jaunty angle. He came padding down the street in search of whatever it is that prowling hounds search for as they pad down a street on a foggy night.

Where Leopard and Sam Rankin streets cross cut he lifted his muzzle, scenting. Out in the middle of the pavement lay a dead cat, flattened by heavy traffic. The hound turned and trotted out toward the carcass.

The bumper of a fast-driven automobile struck him head-on. His body described a high arc, landing heavily in the mouth of Sam Rankin. Hardly had he got to his feet, when another machine took him from the other side. He landed almost in the same spot where the first automobile struck him.

He got to his feet. He shook himself. He lifted his muzzle high and poured a long, lonesome howl out into the night. Whereupon, he trotted over to his cat, sniffed it a time or two, then padded on off down the street.

That hound, I figured, could just naturally take it.

Me—I like to walk off down the beach and find me a drift log and sit down on it and just watch the waves roll in.

Waves are such dependable things. They just keep on coming in, one after another, green-bodied, white-crested, sharp-rimmed and clean, riding along silently until the undertow near the shore begins dragging at their feet. Then the crests topple, spilling forward in white curling froth. The next moment the whole wave breaks with a roar, spreading far out across the beach, only to subside and form a drag at the foot of the next oncoming wave.

Me—I like to sit and watch the waves coming in, while I think (Continued On Page 4)

C. P. Williams Becomes Owner Ozona Market

W. Y. Bengé Sells Interest To Former Clerk At Piggly Wiggly

C. P. Williams, after eleven years experience as a clerk in a grocery store in Ozona, has entered the business for himself. Mr. Williams this week took over by purchase the Ozona Market, buying out the interest of W. Y. Bengé, who has operated the business the past two and a half years.

Mr. Williams took over the business Monday morning, but has spent the week making renovations and changes in the store, with a view to being ready for opening Friday of this week. The store is being rearranged entirely and the interior repainted and refinished. A complete new stock of groceries is being received in readiness for the opening the end of this week.

Mr. Williams came to Ozona in 1927 to accept a position with Flowers Grocery and Bakery. He has been in continuous employ of the same concern until his resignation last week when he completed the deal for purchase of the Ozona Market. When Hubert Baker bought out the Flowers Grocery a little over a year ago, Mr. Williams continued in the employment of the new management.

Mr. Bengé came here from Sterling City to purchase the meat market business operated at that location by R. J. Cooke. He installed a full line of groceries to make a combination grocery and market. Mr. Bengé has not announced his plans for the future but indicated he will remain in Ozona for a few more weeks.

O. B. Trap Co. To Install Scales In Ozona Soon

Need Of Ranchmen To Be Served By Fee Operated Scale

Filling a long-felt need of ranchmen of the Ozona area, officials of the O. B. Trap Co. this week announced a plan to install a set of modern platform scales somewhere in Ozona to serve the public generally.

The exact site of the installation had not been determined, but it was indicated that the scales would be set up in a convenient location and would be operated in connection with some business, perhaps, where somebody could be always in charge and ready to serve those needing weighing service.

The most modern and accurate scales available will be installed, it was announced, with automatic weight printing device, so that each weight will be recorded by the machine itself on a weight slip. The platform will be constructed large enough to accommodate the largest trailer, at least 34 feet long.

The need for the services of accurate scales here has long been felt by ranchmen, spokesmen for the group of ranchers forming the Trap Company directorate said. Particularly is this need felt in the local purchase of feeds hauled in here and sold from trucks. Ranchers also see a benefit in the buying and selling of livestock here by weight, and see the further possibility of opening up a new livestock market and making trading easier locally.

The new scales are to be set up in as permanent form as possible, treated timbers to be used in the foundation to prevent decay. Scales have been ordered and installation will begin as soon as the treated timbers can be secured, it was announced. The O. B. Trap Co. has owned and operated successfully the livestock scales at Barnhart the past 12 years.

Patrick estate lands, the Crockett county commissioners court in session this week ordered County Surveyor W. P. The surveyor also was ordered to survey the tract purchased by the county from the Patrick estate for the sewer disposal plant.

185 Mexican Boys And Girls Enjoy Community House

Settlement Work Gets Off To Flying Start With Completion

With 185 Mexican boys and girls from 4 to 19 years of age enrolled in various groups, the work of Miss Mary Riddle, settlement house worker, has been launched with a flying start in the newly opened community house, recently completed with $5,000 donated by the Robert Massie estate educational fund and local contributions.

Youth of the Mexican community here are taking to the opportunity afforded by the community house with enthusiasm. Miss Riddle reports, and men of the settlement are lending every cooperation in putting the finishing touches to the newly erected building and grounds.

Open house was held by Miss Riddle Sunday afternoon for boys and girls and more than a hundred were present. The group listened to Christmas stories told by Miss Riddle and then joined in singing Christmas carols under her leadership. Tuesday night there were 31 boys present for organization of various clubs, and table games were enjoyed until 10 o'clock. A kindergarten has been organized with 40 children enrolled.

From 2 to 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon there were counted 75 on the playground. Miss Riddle reported, while at the same time there were 32 girls inside the building in a primary club meeting. At each meeting, Miss Riddle gives a strictly non-denominational Bible study program, with scripture reading and prayer.

COUNTY CRACKS DOWN ON OVER DUE TAXPAYERS

Delinquents Given To July 1 To Pay Without Penalty

TO FILE SUITS

Order Attorney To Collect, With Suit As Last Resort

Crockett County is going to crack down on its delinquent taxpayers, judging from the tenor of an order passed by the commissioners court in session here this week. But not before due warning has been given and six months allowed for payment without penalty or costs on the county's portion.

The court assigned to County Attorney N. W. Graham the task of collecting delinquent taxes and fixed a limit of July 1, 1939, for payments, after which suit is to be filed for collection of all delinquencies. Until that date, as a concession for prompt payment, the court instructed the attorney to remit all penalties and costs if payment is made before next July 1. After that it will be open season on delinquents, with suits ordered filed during the month of July either by the county attorney or someone specializing in tax suits to be employed by the court.

"It appearing to the court that there seems to be a certain percent of persons assessed taxes that do not pay same when due," the court order reads, "and permit same to become delinquent and even then neglect to liquidate same and seemingly fail or refuse to pay same not by reason of financial inability, but apparently through an indifference to the state of their obligations.

"All of which appearing to the court to be wrong and unfair to brother taxpayers and to the budgets promulgated by this court, it is moved, seconded and carried by unanimous vote that N. W. Graham as county attorney of Crockett County proceed promptly to collect such delinquent taxes and in all cases where same are paid on or before July 1, 1939, to remit penalty and costs on all but the state's part; and on failure to make payment on or before July 1, 1939, then to file suit during July, 1939, for the whole amount of taxes, penalties, interest and costs, and on failure of the county attorney to bring suit during July, 1939, then some one specializing in tax suits be employed to bring such suits."

Delinquent taxes in this county are estimated in the neighborhood of $25,000, covering a 19-year period. Taxes delinquent beyond 1919 were remitted by legislative act, the present delinquencies dating from that year.

THURSDAY, DEC. 15, 1933

TAX SANITY

"Massachusetts in 1773 rebelled against unfair taxes. Massachusetts remains fair in her own tax levies on industry."

That is the high spot in an advertisement of the Massachusetts Development and Industrial Commission—a message which could be studied with profit by lawmakers of every state.

In Massachusetts, believe it or not, the state tax has not been increased since 1920, and the only local tax paid by manufacturing corporations is the tax on real estate. There are no onerous "extras"—and the result is that in Massachusetts, industry enjoys the lowest taxes in the United States.

Hats off to the Pilgrim state for that achievement. And, by indication, this is a telling commentary on other state and federal laws, many in number, which have made productive industry the butt of a thousand crack-pot, depression-making tax measures. In such states, a large part of the time and energy of industry must be given to keeping up with the tax collector. The result is obvious—investors are frightened, business and employment lag, and good times remain a mirage.

What one state can do, the others can do. And the time is long overdue for a return to tax sanity in every one of the 48 commonwealths, as well as the federal government.

A REVOLUTION

In the excitement of looking over the 1933 automobiles at the recent National Automobile Show in New York, few spectators realized they were actually taking part in a revolution.

And what a revolution—bloodless and life-saving. A vote was being taken on questions pertaining to automobile operation and regulation from the standpoint of safety.

One of the questions was: "Which one of the following has been the most effective in making you think seriously about automobile accidents? 1. Personal enforcement experiences; 2. Personal accidents experiences; 3. Safety educational experiences." At a time when a total of 3,929 votes had been cast, No. 1 stood 649, No.

THE OLD SHIRT NEEDS MENDING

2,944 and No. 3, 1,704.

And there is your revolution, namely, public understanding which resulted from consistent and regular safety education to show that only by personal cooperation between drivers and law enforcement authorities can automobile deaths and accidents be curbed or reduced. During the past year or two the steady upward trend was unbroken.

This must have been most gratifying to such organizations as the Association of Casualty and Surety executives, which has been fighting the battle of safety education for years, and at times when it seemed almost hopeless.

A safety consciousness within the driver will do more to prevent accidents than all the safety appliances that can be put on an automobile, important as are the latter.

A SPORTING PROPOSITION

"Driving on the public highway will become a sporting proposition as much as deer hunting is today, when every instructed hunter enters the woods under a code which takes into consideration his fellow hunters," said William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company recently, in addressing a safety conference.

Driver, pedestrian, manufacturer and roadbuilder are the links in the safety chain. A weakness in any link imperils the entire chain. The attainment of safety requires the fullest cooperation on the part of all concerned. And so far, the driver, and the pedestrian have failed to extend that cooperation to the extent they should.

Safety has long been the guiding motto of the automotive engineer. Bodies, brakes, lights, steering, tires—all have been immensely improved to reduce hazards of motoring. The road builder has similar achievements to his credit, with improved non-skid surfaces and highway designs that separate lanes of cars traveling in opposed directions, eliminate crossings and otherwise lower the chance of an accident to the minimum.

In spite of all efforts to save him from harm, however, the pedestrian continues to jaywalk—and the motorist continues to "give her the gun" and commit those other motoring errors which killed 39,500 people last year. But this year the toll has been somewhat reduced, due to the efforts of safety groups which are attempting to instill a sense of personal responsibility for individual safety, in every citizen. It remains to be seen whether the public wants safety—or wants our streets and highways to remain a shambles.

BLOOD MONEY

*** As the present anti-Semitic wave of terrorism proceeds, certain facts become clear beyond the possibility of dispute. Not only does the German government condone the so-called "spontaneous reaction" of street mobs in wrecking, pillaging and burning Jewish stores and synagogues; it officially makes itself a party to this vandalism and proceeds to make a profit for itself out of legalized loot. It orders all Jews who have suffered from the wrecking to repair the damage at their own cost; it confiscates for its own benefit all settlements of insurance claims of German Jews resulting from the outbursts; and, in addition, it imposes a "fine" of 1,000,000,000 marks on German Jews as a whole. Thus the crimes to which the German government makes itself a party are not even crimes of passion. Under the pretense of hot-headed vengeance, of a nation following its "healthy instincts," in the words of Propaganda Minister Goebbels, the government makes a cold-blooded effort to increase its funds. In April Marshal Goering compelled Jews in Germany to register all their property there. The new "fine" therefore appears merely as one more step in a long-time plan. Even from an economic standpoint the present vindictive decrees are stupid. For Germany must lose far more through the disruption of her economic life, caused by these decrees, than she can hope to gain by looting a minority of her own citizens. Long after every other consequence of the present wave of terrorism is forgotten decent Germans will feel a sense of national humiliation and shame because of it.—New York Times.

FISCAL SANITY

There seems to be a growing sentiment among congressmen in favor of a return to fiscal sanity on the part of the federal government. It is hoped that this may mean the end of unbalanced budgets and the establishment of a definite program for retiring the mountainous public debt.

If the next congress follows the example of the last few, and throws all caution to the winds in voting appropriations, it will find that the recovery movement, even if it shows regard for the realities of government finance, it will be as much as anything could be the movement going and gaining

Behind The Scenes American Business

By John Craddock

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Although the general business picture is showing a slight cloudiness at the end, economic observers forecast silver linings on the horizon for the holidays. Woes of the industry are being lightened by a prediction that electric output in the first quarter will be the largest for any similar period in the history of the industry. Statistical services report that owners of clothing stores may look forward to a 10 per cent rise in sales during the next three months of the new year.

WASHINGTON—The latest list of members of the house of representatives indicates that the November elections made deep inroads into the ranks of proponents of the chain store "death sentence" tax proposed by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas. Of the 100 signers of the original Patman bill, one had previously withdrawn and 32 others were not re-elected. This loss of support, together with mounting consumer, farmer and labor opposition, is interpreted by capitol observers as seriously affecting the measure's chance of passage.

"RECORD" RECORD YEAR—

Back in 1933 merchants began to notice a revival in the sale of phonograph records, which for five years or more had been considered a "dead item." This comeback, continuing in spectacular fashion during succeeding years, has been aided and abetted by popularity of combination radios, phonograph attachments for radios, and perfection of portable machines. As a result almost 35,000,000 records will be sold this year, or a little better than one to each family in the country, according to trade estimates. This is a 16 per cent rise over 1937's total of 30,000,000 and the largest annual volume except for 1914, the industry's peak year.

of sailing ships and romance on a coral island far out to sea where dark-skinned women with flowers in their hair play barefooted in the shade of green palm trees.

Me—I guess I just like to sit. One hundred years ago whooping cranes, the tallest birds on the American continent, rose in thousands from their native marshes in Saskatchewan, Canada, with the coming of fall and began their awesome migratory flights to the Gulf Coast.

Mile-long lines they formed in the air then, like winged white regiments. And as the majestic creatures, winged southward, whooping and trumpeting their mightiest, they promenaded in the air with all the pomp and swagger of today's school band on the football field between halves. Here a pair swooped out of this line, to circle high. There another pair swooped out of that line to circle low. The next moment the two pairs were in line again. But they had exchanged places.

What a sight their flights must have been then to the man who watched.

What a sight it must have been to the man who watched them in their fantastic courtship dances down in their native salt marshes. Grotesque, it was, but orderly, yet complicated as the Virginia Reel.

In the late evenings or early mornings, they gathered by the hundreds to an open glade, there to form parallel lines and bow and caper and flap their wings, their wild whoopings resounding throughout the brush. Two of the birds would then stand apart, erect and white, making strange music that was part crying and part singing, while the other birds did an irregular, but rhythmic dance about them, lifting their wings and raising their feet, first one and then the other. Soon the two musicians were replaced by others.

This fall, 30 of the great white birds, the last whooping cranes on earth, ran that long gauntlet of hunters from Canada to Texas. Nine of them took refuge in the 47,000-acre migratory wildfowl preserve which the United States government recently set aside on Blackjack Peninsula, between Rockport and Tivoli. James O. Stevenson, youthful resident manager of the sanctuary has seen them at a distance. They are wild birds. One doesn't get close.

"Their story is one of the most tragic of natural history," he says. "They're big and strange. Some are as much as five feet tall. Their long windpipes, 50 inches of coiled trumpet, gives off a sound like no sound on earth. All this fascinates the gunman. He must kill one just to examine it. You can see the result. There are about 30 of them left in the world."

It's when I hear stories like this that I'm ashamed to be a member of the human race. What other creature lives to destroy just for the sake of destroying? None.

Ozona Girl Member Of Chorus Presented In Annual Concert

DENTON, Dec. 4.—(Special)—Participating in the most important student musical event this year at Texas State College for Women, Miss Lurine Townsend of Ozona was presented with the choir in the annual winter Symphony-Choral concert on the Artists' course series Monday night. Over 300 girls were included in the two organizations who performed.

Under the direction of Dr. William E. Jones, head of the music department of TSCW, Miss Townsend has studied with the choir since the beginning of school. The 75-piece symphony, which collaborated with the choral group on the concert, has been chosen by the Texas Federation of Women's clubs as their official orchestra, the first time such an honor has ever been accorded a musical organization.

Miss Townsend, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Townsend, will appear again this spring in the second annual concert on the campus, which is scheduled for March 16. She is a freshman student doing her major work in the department of public school music.

Pontiac Shows Big Nov. Gain In Sales

In line with improving business conditions Pontiac Motors completed the month of November with 14,761 retail deliveries of new cars by dealers throughout the country, according to C. P. Simpson, general sales manager. This figure compares with 8,344 for October which was the month of the 1939 model introduction and with 12,830 for November 1937.

"As of the first of December dealers report more than four times as many unfilled orders on hand as they had last year at the same time, which indeed is a healthy sign. Furthermore, we have only 15,523 new cars in dealers' stocks compared to 34,155 at the start of December last year. The current figure of 15,523 is several thousand cars below a normal dealer stock for this time of the year.

Dry Tennessee To Have Unique Whiskey Plants

LYNCHBURG, Tenn. — Mellow whisky soon will be flowing thru an almost historic still in Tennessee and the "revenuers" won't be able to do a thing about it.

Although Tennessee is legally dry, Lem Motlow will revive an industry for which his family was once famous: Motlow, by virtue of a law passed by the last session of the Tennessee legislature, will manufacture liquor for sale beyond the borders of this state.

As soon as the Federal government gives its approval, whisky will start flowing through the glistening copper coils of the distillery in a picturesque section of Moore county.

Tennesseans will not be able to buy the spirits in the state—legally at least.

The Motlow product will be the first legal whisky made in Tennessee in 30 years.

Now the 48-year-old father of seven children is a junior at the college where his son is a freshman.

Mishap Season Gets Early Start

The season for accidents like this is well under way in many cities. Mishaps, frequently amusing to the more fortunate, happen often on icy streets, and they're by no means confined to cities. In New York the worst early fall snowstorm in years brought grief to many a pedestrian, and impeded traffic in the busiest sections. Accidents on slippery streets each year result in an alarming number of deaths, and exact a costly toll in damaged automobiles.

November Sales Of Olds Second Largest In Company History

Oldsmobile retail sales for the month of November were the second largest in the company's history, being exceeded only by November of 1935.

Total sales for November were more than 25 per cent greater than for the same month last year. Olds sales for the last 10 days of November showed a 52 per cent increase over the same period last year.

In commenting on the current outlook D. E. Ralston, general sales manager, said, "Our sales have shown a steady increase each ten days since the introduction of the 1939 Oldsmobiles. For some time the factory has been running a double shift working day and night to supply the nation-wide demand for the new line. At the present time, with indications for a good Christmas business, it appears that the last quarter of 1938 will be the second largest year end quarter in Oldsmobile's forty-two year history."

Sales Of New Cars In Texas Increase Sharply In November

AUSTIN, Dec. 14.—Sales of new automobiles in Texas during November rose sharply over the preceding month and substantially over the corresponding month last year, according to the bureau of business research of the University of Texas.

Reports from 17 representative Texas counties show an increase in sales of 88.1 per cent over October and 17.9 per cent over November last year. Aggregate sales in these counties during the entire 11 months of the year, however, were still 32.4 per cent below the corresponding period last year.

Marked increases occurred over October and over November last year in all price groups, the bureau's report said.

Dr. G. L. Nesrsta this week completed installation of a new and modern X-ray machine in his offices here.

BOTTLE NOTE DELIVERED JUST 23 YEARS LATE

ADELAIDE, Australia. — Just 23 years after Lieut. Henry Blunt threw a bottle containing a message to his fiancée, overboard from a troop ship that was carrying him to France in 1915, the message was delivered. It was addressed to Miss G. M. Severen, then living in South Australia.

The bottle was recently washed ashore about 60 miles from Albany. The finder forwarded the message as requested and it was delivered, Blunt in the meantime had married Miss Severen in 1919 upon return from the war.

ON ORIGINALITY

At school, social gatherings, movies, everywhere, one constantly hears someone imitating someone else. One imitates because he is not smart enough or quick-witted enough to think up something else to say. All of us imitate others, more or less, but we pattern after recognized authorities such as Emily Post or Hollywood artists. What I didn't like so much in students is their doing something because someone else does it, counterfeit another's actions. Sometimes people act like sheep following a leader. It is customary, I believe, to have a lead sheep with a shearing machine, whose duties is to lead the herd into the pen to be sheared. The sheep follow an unknown and untested leader to an unknown goal.

An original person is one who has the power to originate new thoughts or combinations of thoughts. And what a power that is! An original person is also one of marked individuality of character.

Often I have heard someone say that he wanted to do something when his companion would agree in the very same words. Agree, yes, but why mimic?

Do you notice real, worthwhile people imitating others? Those people are the ones who lead, not follow; they originate ideas and carry them out.

Naturally, if everyone was entirely different and original from everyone else, we would have many disputes when ideas overlapped, and there could be little social and economic unity, but if I might suggest it—be original.

PHILOSOPHY

Are you interested in the workings of human nature? Here is some interesting so-called "Sawmill Philosophy" taken from the advertising of a Boston store.

"Nothing will destroy a man's memory so quickly as to lend him five dollars."

"Produce good pumpkins—the pies follow."

"If you have got a good harvest, be content with some thistles."

Showing some modern-day slang—here is an example of modern youth:

A very nice old lady had a few words to say to her granddaughter.

"My dear," said the old lady, "I wish you would do something for me. There are two words I wish you would promise me never to use. One is swell and the other is lousy. Would you promise me that?"

"Why sure, Ganny," said the girl. "What are the words?"

Here are some "timeless words." Voltaire once said, "The secret of boredom is the practice of saying everything." Rackett said, "Youth, enthusiasm, and tenderness are like the days of spring. Instead of complaining of their brief duration, enjoy them."

Bank Official Speaks To Spanish II Class

Mr. Guinn, an American whom Coach White met in Mexico City summer before last, visited the Spanish II class recently. Mr. Guinn, works with the Bank of New York and his duties have taken him to many foreign countries. He was educated in the East and became an auditor in New York. From there he was sent to various foreign cities where he improved the organization of the bank.

His work first carried him to Paris, where he lived for three years; later he went to Spain for six years. While he was there, he went down into the jungles of Africa to look over possibilities of organizing a bank for the Good-year Rubber company. He traveled in a hammock carried by six natives, covering about 12 miles a day. From Spain he went to Cuba for two years and then to Panama Canal zone.

In May, 1937, he was transferred to Mexico. When in Europe, he got a three months' paid vacation and a ticket to come back to the states. He and his wife passed through Ozona on their way to California.

In the bank in Mexico, there are about 100 Mexican employees and only four American officials. He has four children. When they are in a foreign city, they live in the American quarters, and the children go to school where English is spoken; however, the government requires that some courses be taught in Spanish.

Mrs. Jones presented a recital Thursday, December 8, immediately following assembly. Those of Mrs. Jones' pupils giving readings were Doris Bean, Peggy Jeffreys, Joe Bean, Alvin McCaleb, Buddy Phillips, Noma V. Miller and Arthur Rynnion. A playlet was given by Doris Bean, Peggy Jeffreys, Joe Bean, Buddy Phillips, and Arthur Rynnion. There were two tap numbers given by Doris Bean, Jo Nell Coose and Ruth Townsend, pupils of Miss Merle Draper. Billie Hoover, Adele Keeton, Jeff Fussell, Billie Jo West, and Eloise Carson, speech pupils of Mrs. C. E. Nelson, assisted on the program.

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

By A. SENIOR

Just what is "matter of introduction?"

"Mrs. Smith, let me present Mr. Jones."

It is to be noted that the names of both persons concerned are given.

Often the form of introduction is curtailed, especially when the company is numerous. In such case, merely the names are spoken, that of the stranger having first place.

When, for any person, one fails to understand a stranger's name at the time of introduction, it is permissible to ask it.

"Pardon me, but I did not understand the name."

A man, on receiving his introduction to a lady, should express his appreciation.

"I am very glad to meet you, Miss Jones."

Introduction may be formally made by letter. In such case, the letter should deal exclusively with the introduction. There is no set form.

HOW I LOST AN AMBITION
 By ROZELLE PHARR
 I lost an ambition a few years ago, and it has never come back since. I used to want to be a bareback rider in a circus. I had a little Shetland pony, and although he was very frisky, I decided I would learn on him, if I could keep him still long enough. I thought it would be very easy, so I began at once. He was fairly easy to get on with a saddle, but bareback was quite different. Just when I was standing up on him, he would give a jump that would scare anyone to death. It seemed to me that I would go up into the air about a 100 feet; then I would come down, landing on my stomach. When it would end, I was afraid to move for fear that some part of me was not there, but luckily for me there were no bones broken. All that I got was a skinned nose, a sprained wrist, a body full of bruises, and the breath knocked out of me. Since this incident, my ambition to be a bareback rider is lost forever.

ASSEMBLY UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS MILDRED MORRIS
 The assembly program on December 8 was under the direction of Miss Mildred Morris. The Glee club, composed of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, sang songs, "Bendemeer's Stream," an Irish folk tune, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," and "Silent Night." The saxettes played two numbers, "Jingle Bells" and "Silent Night." Miss Morris read "The Loneliest Day of All Christmas" which was written by her mother, Mrs. Jesse Morris. A girls' quartet consisting of Margaret Russell, Rozelle Pharr, Alyne Hokit and Mary Elizabeth Gray gave two songs, "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Upon the Housetop." A musical number, "O Holy Night" was given, with Mrs. H. B. Tandy at the piano, Miss Ruth Grady, violin obligato and Miss Morris, singing.

Band to Present Xmas Program In Assembly

The Ozona high school band cordially invites you to be present at the Christmas program Thursday, December 15, at 3 p. m. We are offering a varied and interesting program of marches, semi-classical, and novelty numbers, which will be followed by Christmas carols and the school song.

The uniforms, with five exceptions which have not been ordered, are expected to arrive about December 20. Satisfactory sketches of the twirler's and drum major's uniforms have not as yet been received.

The band will play for the outside Christmas carols next week, with choirs of all three churches singing the hymns.

A variety of numbers were given by the entire band, which were: March, "Our First Parade," John Victor; "Bells Across the Meadow," Kiteley; "Some of These Days," Selection of Christmas Songs: "First Noel," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Jingle Bells," "Cossack Invocation and Dance," Lenkow; Radio Movie, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," Harry Alford.

We should like to add here that the rumbles and booms heard in the scholastic section of the city (?) are not results of Gem Ella's new drum, but dynamite "umpahs" from the construction of a new tunnel.

Ozona Lions Trim Sonora Bronchos In Fast Game

Ozona On Top 28-16 In First Game Of Basketball Season

The Ozona Lions opened their 1938-39 cage season with a smashing 28-16 triumph over the Sonora Bronchos on the Sonora court. Beecher Montgomery led the Lions scoring spree with 14 points. So tight was the Lions' defense that the Bronchos failed to score in the first quarter. Ozona meanwhile piled up 8 points and never headed. Half time score was 16-6. Driskill lead the Sonora cagers with 8 points.

In a second string game, which followed the first game, the Lions were also victorious, sacking up a 11-3 victory. Lemmons and Langford lead the winners with four points each. On Friday, Ozona will go to Eldorado for a night game, and Eldorado will come for a game Saturday night.

How Did They Even Know That?

By STANLEY LEMMONS

Have you asked this question as you were reading some of the remarkable stories from the Encyclopaedia Britannica?

For example, observers have seen a cuckoo flying with an egg in its bill. So the old natural history books said that the cuckoo carried its eggs in its bill and put it into another bird's nest to hatch. Young cuckoos had been found in nests of other birds, and there were other good reasons for being sure that the cuckoo did not brood over her own eggs but left them to another bird to hatch. But there is another possible explanation of the egg that the cuckoo carried. Do you guess what it is?

Here is a clue. It has been discovered that the cuckoo's egg very often resembles the egg of the bird in whose nest the cuckoo egg is found; and that if the new egg doesn't match with the old, the bird whose nest has been invaded is likely not to give it nest room. What does that suggest?

But even if it is possible that the egg that the cuckoo was seen carrying was not the cuckoo's, but belonged to the nest where the cuckoo had intruded—still that does not prove anything. It is just another thing to be tested, as a detective would say.

How can it be tested? Take photographs—better yet, moving pictures—so you can be sure what happens. Then you have evidence. That has been done. The pictures show that the cuckoo picks out of the nest one of the eggs that belong there, holds it in her bill while she settles on the nest, and lays her own egg, then carries the host's egg away—usually to eat it. And films show that the young cuckoo crowds the other young birds from the nest and gets constant attention from its foster parents.

Not every species of cuckoo steals nests. One South American variety that makes its own nest and lays eggs there does such a poor job of nest building that the first nest of the season falls down and the eggs fall out. The second attempt is better.

Billie Gene, how did you do over the weekend? A date Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

J. K., where could you have been Saturday at about 11:30 p. m. Crystelle, were you very ill over the weekend? I imagine if you could have so much fun in bed, most people would be sick all the time.

Shortly ended his sick spell with a bang. A date Friday and Saturday.

Jim, how did you like the dance (and afterwards)? Bette Lou was doing OK Saturday night.

Mary Bess, you should be ashamed. Last week it was Bette Lou and this week it was Lloyd. You shouldn't ask boys for dates.

Where's your Emily Post? Toots, why don't you give the girls a break.

Willie Joe, who was your girl friend Friday night? Byron, who was your girl friend Saturday afternoon? Jess, maybe you can help us out.

Phillip, what do you think about the Plymouth cars? Are they better than the Chryslers? Would the driver be responsible for the decision.

Congratulations to J. K. We have just learned from an out-of-town high school paper, that he is to be married as soon as a sophomore gets out of school.

Walter, do you think you got 50 cents worth of fun at the dance Friday night?

Has anyone heard Joe W.'s new nickname? Ask him some time; he will tell you.

A certain red headed junior girl and the smallest of the Carson sisters seemed to be having a swell time Sunday night. Who were your out-of-town guests?

Beecher, you had better make up for time that will be lost during the holidays.

Why I Want To Get Into The Press Club

By BILL CARSON

Getting into the Press Club of the Ozona Lion's Roar is a very hard job, (but, personally, I think it is worth it. It will help a student in his English, and he will also learn about printing and publishing. Friends of mine who are in the club are all such enthusiastic members that they have inspired me to try to get into the organization.

A member learns how to write themes and learns how the news is written. He also increases his vocabulary.

The Press Club meets once every two weeks. At these meetings the members make talks on how to improve the Lion's Roar; these talks give them training on how to speak before a group. At these regular meetings the group follows parliamentary rules for conducting a meeting. After an interesting program, the group has a social hour. This results in pleasant social contacts.

I could wait until the time for the Press club banquet and maybe get voted into the club, but I want to write a thousand words to show people that I can. This is the hard way to get in.

There are many different types of news in the Lion's Roar. Some of these are the following: the sport section, the gossip column, the news of assembly meetings and of other organizations connected with the school, and the editorials. The section I am most interested in is the humorous section. When I read a newspaper, I turn first to the funny papers. The Lion's Roar has no cartoons, so I'd like to devote any space given me to jokes and humorous sayings.

Good Planning And Designing Needed Now

The liveability and attractiveness of present-day houses depend to a greater extent on competent planning and good design than the average house of 50 or a 100 years ago, in the opinion of FHA officials.

To keep small homes within a reasonable price, it is explained, the building industry now must build groups of 10, 20 or 30 small houses, using two or three basic plans and standard designs. This practice may result in the creation of monotonous and unattractive neighborhoods unless each unit is well designed and skillfully related to the other houses.

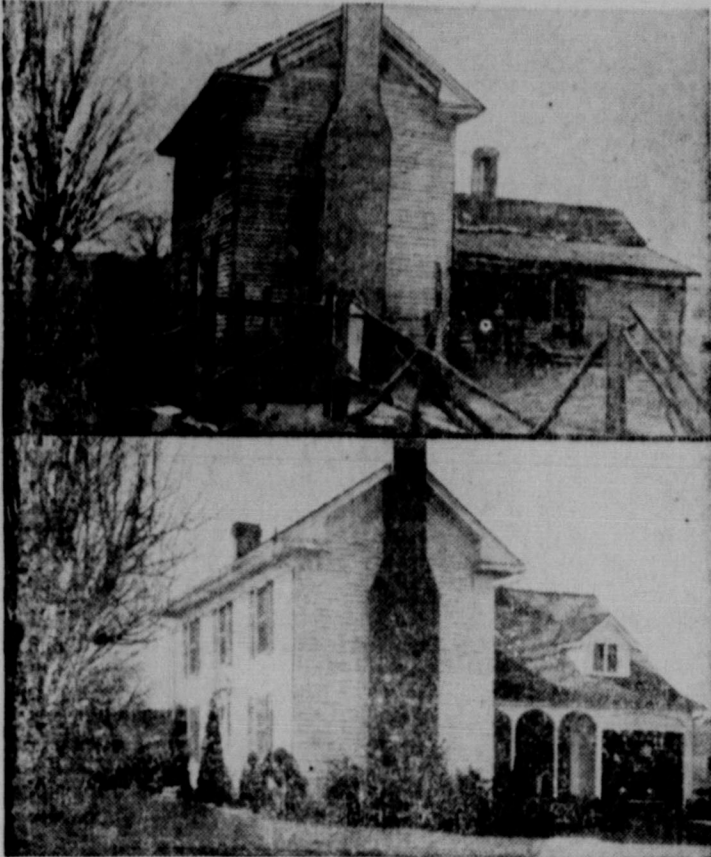

The pressure of land prices has made modern building lots relatively small, a fact which not only complicates the problem of design but makes it imperative that thought and technical skill be applied to the problem of providing each family with adequate privacy, light and air.

The relatively small size of the individual modern units presents another problem. Since family activities must be carried on in a smaller area, every foot of space in each unit must be carefully planned and adapted to some useful purpose.

Houses built a century ago derived much of their charm from their setting. Even as late as the beginning of the present century large lots were a common practice in the smaller cities. While many of the houses were far from architectural perfection, the general effect was good, due to large grounds and heavy planting of trees, shrubbery, and vines.

Under present-day conditions, however, the builder is not able to depend upon unusual settings to compensate for lack of architectural attractiveness. The house of today must be carefully planned from every angle.

A Home Reborn

The ramshackle old tenant house in the "Before" picture appears hardly worth saving and yet its owner, by the expenditure of less than $1,000, restored it to usefulness and made a modern and beautiful home of it.

This structure, despite its appearance, was structurally sound and worth reclaiming. Other run-down houses viewed as far advanced toward total obsolescence may lend themselves equally as well to salvage. Funds with which to carry out modernization projects may be obtained from private lending institutions qualified by the Federal Housing Administration under its Property Improvement Credit Plan.

Faulty Window Sash Usually Easy To Repair

A window sash may stick because of hardened paint or dampness. In the case of excessive moisture, the wood in the sash and its frame swells, and this swelling causes the sash to bind. Trouble usually appears when the wood dries. Before any correction work is undertaken, it is advisable to see if a thorough coating with beeswax will relieve the friction.

A broken sash-weight cord will allow the sash to fall if it is raised and not supported. A cord which has stretched will not carry the sash to the top. In the case of the upper sash, it must be forced up for the remaining distance and locked to make it stay closed.

The boys who have worked out hard but haven't got to play enough to letter will receive a reserve sweater.

CHEMISTRY STUDENTS STUDY NITROGEN

When a student feels annoyed or slightly aggravated, he remembers that it must be caused from that chemistry exam that is looking him in the face. Chemistry is that course offered upstairs from 9 to 10; its latest developments deal with nitrogen. Seventy-eight per cent of the air is nitrogen, but it is a very inactive element. All good farmers know that nitrogen is necessary to soil fertility; but because of its inactivity, it is difficult for nature to change it into a form that plants can use. The students generated nitrogen and made a number of experiments with it.

Origin and meaning of the more familiar of the Christmas carols, with their Scriptural background were exemplified by costumed groups as a feature of the Christmas program of the Ozona Woman's club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. West, who also directed the afternoon's program.

The carols from different nations were introduced by members costumed to represent the nation of origin, and scripture quotations around which the carols were written were quoted, the carol thus represented being sung by a trio composed of Miss Ora Louise Cox, Dorothy Hannah and Crystelle Carson. Members making the introductions were Miss Elizabeth Fussell, Mrs. Hilery Phillips, Mrs. Evart White, Mrs. Stephen Perner and Mrs. Ira Carson. Piano accompaniment was played by Mrs. Neal Hannah.

Humble Station salesmen are selected men who have been carefully trained to give your car the care it needs to keep it running right and locking good. The service they render is so competent that many Texas motorists have shifted the care of their cars to Humble's shoulders; they depend on the Humble stations in their neighborhoods to call them when it's time to wash and lubricate their cars, to change oil, to check batteries and tires.

Equipped with every modern facility for servicing your car, Humble stations are truly service stations. See for yourself. Let a Humble Station wash your car, lubricate it, change the oil. Next time you need battery water, or air in your tires, stop at the Humble sign. That's the best way we know to show you how complete, how thoroughly satisfactory, Humble service really is. One stop, and the next thing you know, you, too, will be shifting the care of your car to Humble's shoulders—like thousands of other Texans, you'll have the Humble habit.
