Gas Stove Ignites Clothing, Mrs. Bert Couch Suffers Burns

Mrs. Bert Couch is receiving treatment in the Crockett County Hospital for burns suffered early yesterday morning when her clothing caught fire from a gas heater.

Mrs. Couch was standing near a vented heating unit when the thermostat turned on the heating system, which is believed to have sucked her clothing into the flame area, igniting a robe which she was wearing.

The flames quickly enveloped Mrs. Couch's clothing, causing severe burns on one side of her body and arm. She was not burned about the face, however. Mrs. Mahlon Robertson, Mrs. Couch's daughter, was in the house and quickly extinguished her mother's burning clothing.

Mrs. Alma Obrkamp Roach is reported in serious condition in a hospital at Fredericksburg where she was taken following a reported heart attack at her ranch home near Harper.

County's Lead In Screwworm Drive Receives Praise

Animal Health Found- ation Head Compli- ments Leaders Here

Crockett county has taken the lead in the state in raising of funds to assure success of the proposed screwworm control program for the Southwest and the county's leadership, both in being first to launch a determined drive and so far the leader in the amount raised, is the subject of praise from officials of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation.

The Foundation, the non-profit corporation organized to receive and disperse the contributed funds, through its acting president, C. G. Scruggs of the Dallas office, extended congratulations to Wayne W. West, chairman of the Crockett county committee, and his co-workers in a letter received last week.

"Mr. West, through Mr. Pete Jacoby we have received the splendid news that over $28,000 has been collected in Ozona in Crockett County for the screwworm program," Mr. Scruggs wrote. "This is thrilling news and you and all the citizens of the county are to be congratulated for this marvelous effort."

"Your county has the distinction as being one of the very first — if not the very first in the state — to organize to help out on the screwworm program and, at this moment, yours is the largest amount so far contributed."

"This splendid example of leadership and livestock and ranchmen cooperation is a very fine thing. We very much appreciate all your effort and in the meantime, please accept our congratulations for your fine work."

Lion Cagers Swamp Menard 56-27; Ozona Frosh Drop One 21-23

By Ernie Boyd

The Ozona Lions broke out of a first half cool spell Tuesday night with an 18 point third quarter and coasted to an easy 56 to 27 win over an unexpectedly tall Menard team.

Fine rebounding by Carl Montgomery, who also led in scoring for the night, along with some stellar defense by Van Miller kept the Lions well ahead throughout the first half before Hal Long sparked the third period hot spell.

Coach Brooks Dozier substituted freely with nine of his squad breaking into the scoring column for the Lions and one accidentally scoring for Menard.

Carl Montgomery with 14 points, 10 of which came in the first half and Hal Long with 13 points, 12 of which came in the second half, led the Lion attack. Phil Carnes had 7 points and Van Miller 6 with three other boys getting 4 each.

The Lions jumped into a 4 to 1 lead early and the shortest margin after that was a 6 to 3 edge just moments after. The Lions led 12 to 4 at the quarter, 22 to 10 at the half and swept into a commanding 40 to 16 lead midway of the third period before subs came in to finish with the 56 to 27 edge.

In a freshman game played before the main contest Coach H. O. Hoover used 20 boys in a narrow loss to the much bigger Menard crew. The score wound up 23 to 21 with the Menard team stalling.

Ozona had held fairly good leads from time to time during the contest by the Menard crew, capitalizing on its height, advantage, pulled ahead to win the final period.

Richard Vargas, who played with the second unit in the second quarter, led the Ozona team with 6 points.

Ozona Girl Cagers Edge Out Favored Comstock 45 To 44

By Ernie Boyd

Two free throws in the fading seconds of the third quarter gave the Ozona High School girls a hard fought 45 to 44 win over Comstock Tuesday night.

The win, the third in a row for the Ozona girls, came only after a final quarter rally which overcame a Comstock rally that had held up thru most of the contest.

Beverly Alford and Janie Lara each had 16 points and Don Nell Carnes had 15 to account for all of Ozona's points in the rather rough contest.

Comstock, with all of its starters returning from last year's team, had been expected to provide the Ozona team with its stiffest opposition thus far and they did not fall short of expectations.

In last week's story about the Ozona team this reporter erroneously reported that the team had but one returning letterman, a guard, and omitted the name of Janet Mason, who lettered last year at guard.

Is Adlai Inevitable Too?

In a stern warning to UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, the Committee of One Million has strongly indicated that the admission of Red China may mean the end of the plushy clambake on Manhattan's First Avenue.

Declaring that "continued American support of the UN would not be justified if its Charter is weakened and ultimately destroyed through the admission of representatives of the so-called People's Republic of China," the Committee's blast comes on the heels of Russian wailing that it is too poor to pay its UN dues, and its demands that we pay more.

Accompanying the Committee's letter were 75,000 more signatures of American citizens opposing admission of Mao's minions to the UN - 75,000 in addition to the

Let's Not Pull Our Punch Now!

While poor, deluded fools here and there over the country and on the sidewalks in front of the White House continue their ban-the-bomb demonstrations that can only serve the forces of appeasement and Communism, seasoned military men chew their fingernails over the indecision of our leadership and the zig-zag course of defense planning.

The voice of Brigadier General Bonner Fellers (USA Ret.), the brilliant strategist who was General MacArthur's chief of planning in the crucial years of '43 to '46, is among those crying in this wilderness of confusion. He writes: "Russia is the base from which the Communist-announced dream of world domination must of necessity emanate. The Kremlin will not knowingly risk destruction of this base. Therefore, our air and space striking power, if maintained superior to that of Russia, is reasonably certain to preclude a major nuclear war."

"Today, however, some are failing to appreciate the fact that the only effective free world military shield is US nuclear striking power. It is the only military force which the Kremlin fears. On its own defense has been based."

"Despite these obvious facts our 1963 defense budget fails to insure continuance of US supremacy in nuclear capability. Instead of continuing superior nuclear striking power - which we unquestionably have today - a wholly inadequate conventional warfare capability is gradually to be substituted."

General Fellers proceeds to outline the drastic cuts planned for missiles and the virtual scrapping of our supersonic bomber and fighter program, the domination of "powerful" space projects over military development and the $2 billion cut in Air Force research and development for fiscal 1963. "One is compelled to wonder," General Fellers concludes, "what the reason is for our failure to plan future superior striking power over the Red forces. Could it be that we are deliberately per-

GREAT VOID - GREAT SILENCE

Federal aid to education is a political issue, an economic issue, and a public issue. It will be at the forefront of the domestic issues the next Congress must consider.

So here is a very pertinent question indeed: How much support is there for putting the federal government, and the federal treasury, into the business of financing our school - and, in all probability, eventually bossing them?

A man who strongly favors federal aid answers that for us. He is Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Riddicoff. In a recent speech, as reported by The Washington Post, he said: "Mail urging Congress to do something for education was infinitesimal. There was a great void, a great silence."

Did not this "great void, great silence", result from the fact that the majority of the American people regard education of their children as a local duty, right and responsibility? They do not want their children in schools where text books and study courses can be dictated from centralized government authority. That is not the pattern for education to follow in the United States.

AFL-CIO President George Meany has invited six top executives of Big Business to attend the Big Union's upcoming convention in Miami. He thinks management should know labor better, which is a fine idea. We think the tycoons should accept.

We think the Labor Barons at the Meany level should know labor better, too - at the local level, in West Allis, Wis., for example, where a UAW local is suing to collect fines levied on workers who did more work than the union said they should.

The Congress that convenes next January may still save us. But it will have to place patriotism (which seems to be in ill repute) before politics.

CHEATING, A FLAW IN MORAL CHARACTER

By Marian Ross

Many students cheat in their work, but they never admit it. Cheating is a subject that is not mentioned.

In recent surveys taken on cheating in colleges in the United States, it was discovered more than half of all college students have cheated at one time or another.

Does this prove that the youth of America are lowering their standards? As we, the youth, grow older, what will it lead to in our lives and the lives of our children and friends?

Most of all, are you ashamed of your cheating? Will you try to stop? Is your cheating promediated? If you really are ashamed of cheating you will try to stop.

Why do you cheat? There are many reasons. Is it because you can't do the work otherwise? Is it because of pressure from home? Is it to be like everybody else? Is it to do better than your classmates? You can't really blame it on any of these reasons because it is your own fault. It is a flaw or a weakness in your character.

The only way we can change this cheating is to try to stop it ourselves. There, and only then, can we try to persuade other students to do the same. Can we, the youth, stop this? Yes, of course, we can, if we try. It won't be easy, we may not completely succeed, but we must try.

THE SHODAW RETURNS TO OHS

By Janet Mason

At about 8 o'clock you decided you were cold so, despite all of Mr. Pello's pleas for everyone to stay outside until the bell rings, you and some of your cronies marched boldly into the building.

Since there was no one in the halls you had no trouble getting ready for your first period English class.

As everyone else was walking into class you stood by the radiator trying to get warm. There you took notes all period. Then off to your second period class which was study hall so you didn't have to rush to get there since it was just across the hall.

Third period is your speech I. Period under Mr. Leath, and your favorite girl was in there too so you hurried as fast as your legs would carry you and just chanced meeting her in the hall so you walked her down to class. Ah, isn't love grand?

You made several wise cracks about girls and then you began taking notes. This note-taking took up the complete period. After Speech you walked affectionately down the hall with the object of your attention. What you talked about I couldn't tell because you were too close together.

You finally made it to Mr. Dozier's trig class, and she isn't there so you decided to concentrate on trig for at least 55 long minutes.

After trig you took your time getting to the cafeteria. You walked in the door and began shoving and pushing your way to the front of the line. After all, you're a senior and what could be more important?

After lunch you went to your fifth period typing class. By this time of the day, you were getting sleepy so you settled down to typing. About 5 minutes until the bell rang you discovered you just couldn't possibly type anymore so you put away your book, adjusted your typewriter, and sat smiling.

When the bell rang, you were off to third floor for your physics class. The long hike woke you up so now you had more energy to enjoy your many classmates (both of them!).

The bell rang and you headed for study hall again. This is the last period in the day you couldn't believe another day had passed. You took your homework to study hall, but you accomplished very little because there were other things to keep your mind occupied.

You talked most of the period, and then you couldn't figure out why the teacher was giving you such a terrible look. But, he didn't say anything, so at 3:36 you were off.

You decided that you didn't want people to know that your mother was gone so you were going to iron your Levis. This caused you much trouble because you didn't know that you had a steam iron and a friend told you to sprinkle the levis. As you ironed the levis became damper and damper. Finally you gave up and cut the steam off. Then you finished ironing the pants.

That night you had a telephone call from one of your favorite friends, Coach Cleere. He informed you that you were to speak at Rotary Club Tuesday at noon and you wouldn't need your well pressed Levis because you had to wear dress pants.

After retiring from the laundry profession you watched TV and, then you retired for the night to dream about your next day in OHS.

Yes, on November 27, The Shodaw followed you, Darrell Rasberry.

Garden Reminders

From Garden Club Reporter

The cold may keep you indoors most of this month but you can take advantage of mild spells to repair your garden walls and other construction.

Take a critical look at your house plans and give them a few minutes trimming, repotting or staking. Set all potted chrysanthemums in the open now, as soon as the bloom is spent.

Try planting tulips in large pots, a dozen to the pot. They can be moved readily from place to place for new accents in the border designs.

Rooted cuttings make special gifts to a friend who will appreciate the thought and the new plant from your garden.

This is a good time to plant candytuft. Crepe myrtle may be cut back now. Scale on pyracantha may be sprayed with mildly dormant spray which contains some type of oil. Later on a full strength oil emulsion spray may be used. Do not neglect this chore.

Plant anemones and ranunculus this month. Set them 2 inches apart and 2 inches deep. If you have failed to plant hardy annuals in October, get the job done right away.

The Garden Club meets Dec. 11 in Mrs. S. M. Harvick's home. Every member is to bring fresh or dried arrangements, candles, decorations, etc.
