THE COMING OF CHRISTMAS

The ubiquitous Christmas songs have been crowding the airwaves for weeks. The tinsel across the streets has been up since Thanksgiving Day.

There are those who bemoan the commercialization of Christmas and yet the truth is that it is all an authentic part of something wonderful that happens every December.

Nothing ever really gets in the way, nothing ever succeeds in hiding, the fact that what makes this a season of joy is that we approach the day when all over the world people observe the birth of Jesus.

And there is the wonder. Imagine that nearly 20 centuries ago in a city of little importance except to the family of David a baby was born—and the world still remembers.

Imagine that a stable in the little town of Bethlehem is still remembered because a mother gave birth to an infant there. Imagine that such an unimportant event as the world, if it had known of it, would have thought of it should touch the lives of people 2,000 years later, that the world should even date its calendars from that event.

Imagine that what happened that evening so many years ago still brings about a change in people, still stirs the whole world to thoughts of joy and dreams of the reality of the hope that peace would come to men of good will through the wonder of that night in Bethlehem.

Santa Claus, the tinsel, the melodies, the trees, the rush and bustle, the shopping lists, the greeting cards, all are a part of it but the center of everything is in the remembrance of Joseph standing tall beside Mary who cradled in her arms a Baby who transformed the world.

THE WILL OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Nearly every self-serving group in the country draws "the American people" to its side when it seeks to further its aims. One of these matters concerns the Vietnam war, and it ought to be made clear before the American people forget what they did.

Earlier in the war poll after poll showed that the people wanted to win the war and get out. When it became apparent, however, that a handful of strategically placed no-victory politicians were going to have their way, and that a limited war with unlimited casualties would continue to be fought in the absence of agreement between the huge majority and the powerful minority, the people progressively turned toward getting out rather than sacrifice their men to no purpose.

All the men who have devoted their lives to the study of military affairs and who were in positions of responsibility in the Government felt that the war could be won in a matter of weeks or months at most, without the use of the atomic bomb. Nor would Russia or Red China have joined in the fray to make it a great war—the phoney bugaboo that prevented General MacArthur from winning the Korean War (where the U.S.S.R. was involved up to the hilt, and Red Chinese soldiers were surrendering in droves).

President Nixon followed the right course in entering Cambodia and in supporting the South Vietnamese in their effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail. He undoubtedly saved many American lives. Now that he is trying to save the honor of the nation and prevent more wars in the Far East by helping the South Vietnamese to keep control of their country, many politicians are harassing him with obstructive amendments to normal and needed legislation. "The American people" should not be dragged into these moves, since it is obvious that a majority of the people support the President.

YES, THERE ARE WELFARE CHEATS

Ever try to tell a liberal that there are at least a few people on the welfare rolls that shouldn't be, only to be answered with a claim that this or that study has shown virtually everyone on welfare is beyond hope?

Next time, tell him that since New York State began requiring employable welfare recipients to pick up their checks at state employment offices (and perhaps be given jobs as a consequence), 20% of the recipients have decided that they could survive without their checks after all. At first shrugged off by bureaucrats as attributable to the confusion of a new system, the rate has consistently stayed the same since July 1, when it began.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Friends, I have been wanting to write back home for a number of years but have failed to do so until now.

Ozona was our home for nineteen years and we really enjoyed all those years, especially the year I met my wife. Ozona was a place to be proud of. I left there in 1941 to go into Service for my country.

I still have many good friends there and would like for you to print in your paper the passing of my father J. S. Whatley Sr. I am sending you a clipping from the Dallas paper.

Dad had been sick for a number of years and was bed-ridden for two years. My Mother, who is 86 years of age, was blessed with good health and waited on him those two years. She would like hearing from some of her friends.

I enjoy reading your paper, especially Kitty's Corner. My wife really gets a big kick out of that.

Sincerely, John D. Whatley 3306 14th St. Port Arthur, Tex.

Monopoly unionism which can paralyze the nation's economy is one of America's most serious problems. The United States won't be able to recover its economic health unless the union monopolists are curbed. For many weeks, the state of the economy has been the No. 1 domestic concern of the American people. The President and the Congress have been grappling with economic issues, hoping to increase prosperity.

Union bosses who issue such orders -- and the rank and file of the unions have no choice but to obey -- are the equivalent of the robber barons of medieval times. They hold up essential commerce in our society. They cost seaport cities millions of dollars per day in lost business.

Something must be done about such modern-day highway robbery, about such an abuse of power that violates the rights of millions of working people, manufacturers and communities. And, at long last, something is being done in Congress. Last month, U. S. Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona introduced a National Right to Work Law. Thus, for the first time, a serious drive is being mounted for a national ban on compulsory unionism. Seventeen other congressmen are co-sponsors of this important legislation.

The sponsors of this legislation don't expect victory this year. But they have started a legislative process that offers great hope to a nation weakened by union tyranny.

Rep. Steiger's bill isn't anti-labor but pro-worker. In many industrial disputes, the workers don't want to be called off the job. They want to continue working. But the unionized worker hasn't any voice in union decision-making. Unions are monolithic organizations with powerful officials at the top who make all the decisions. If rank and file members protest, they may find themselves stripped of union membership and of a job. In some unions, protest results in personal danger.

Rep. Steiger believes that each worker should enjoy the benefits of democracy, that each worker should be free to decide whether or not he will join a union. This freedom doesn't exist today on a nationwide basis, Congressman Steiger described the situation in these words:

"Existing law authorizes a labor union to make an agreement with an employer whereby all employees must pay dues to the union as a condition of employment. As a result of these agreements, millions of workers throughout our country are being compelled to pay dues to labor organizations for representation they do not want. If they refuse to pay, the employer has no choice but to fire them."

The national need -- and the objective of the Steiger bill -- is to make union membership entirely voluntary in all 50 states. Thus it will get at the root of union monopoly power.

It should be borne in mind that unions don't represent anything like a majority of working people. Out of the 80 million working men and women in America, only 19 million are members of "organized" labor. But the officials of the unions can paralyze vast industries, transportation systems and communities, thereby throwing out of work millions of non-union working people.

This is a degree of power that is totalitarian in character and scope. Indeed the monopoly power of Big Unionism is incompatible with our country's democratic system of government. The Steiger National Right to Work legislation is the proper instrument whereby a basic freedom can be guaranteed to all. It deserves the full support of the American people.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

While far from perfect, an election reform bill approved by the House last week may turn out to be the first effective brake on campaign spending by candidates for Congress.

A limitation of approximately $50,000 on such spending for a primary and a similar amount for a general election, was voted, along with a strict requirement for full disclosure of contributions and disbursements.

This conforms generally with a bill introduced early this year. During last week's debate a good many instances were brought out where candidates for Congress have spent more than a half million dollars during a campaign. Excessive spending, far beyond any need for exposure of candidates, development of issues, and contact with voters, has become a national scandal.

Unlimited spending, the House concluded, begets corruption, unethical tactics, deceit, and distortion of facts and issues, when a well-heeled "win at any price" campaign is conducted.

There are indications the public resents efforts to "buy" public offices through the use of cash, sustained by unlimited slash funds. A recent Gallup poll showed 78 percent of the public favors a meaningful limitation on campaign spending. Now, at last, an enforceable lid is to be placed on unnecessary outlays, if the Senate cooperates with the House action.

Crime in D. C. schools is so bad that 80 policemen are assigned to patrol in and around the buildings, with some stationed inside. A woman member of the school board is demanding more cops for this purpose. She insists the necessity is "urgent."

The above letters were collected this week and mailed directly to the North Pole by the Stockman. We can offer better service than the postal department, as we have a direct reindeer route every year at this time and mail does not have to be zip-coded and shuttled around to various Sorting Facility Centers before reaching old Santa at his shop at the North Pole. Letters may be mailed at the local post office or dropped by the Stockman office.

Tips For Gardeners

From The Ozona Garden Club
By Mrs. Bailey Post

The word Yule is Scandinavian, coming from the word wheel, indicating the changing of the season as the sun turns on its course.

It's Christmas time again so most of you will be seeking a beautiful tree for the Yuletide season. Perhaps you will enjoy its beauty more if you know the effort put forth by both nature and man in making the tree available to us.

Of the many species of evergreen trees provided by nature, the Scotch pine is in the fore front on the Christmas tree market. It has less needle drop and is relatively non-flammable. Briefly is the process of developing a tiny seed into a marketable tree.

The first year nature transforms a seed the size of a pea into a small green needle. The following two years the needle develops into a small but sturdy tree trunk supported by a net work of life-giving roots. After two or three years at the nursery the seedling is ready for transplanting at the grower's plantation. The first year there is very little growth, however, nature is busy beneath the soil surface developing a healthy root system. During the second and third years at the plantation branches form and the tree trunk becomes stronger and grows skyward.

Beginning with the third year the shape of the tree form develops. Nature provides a short period of time following completion of the annual growth of the pine tree when trimming is possible without disrupting subsequent years growth. A skilled grower cutting back the new growth of the tree trunk can control the vertical spacing between branches. By cutting back the lateral branch growth, he can control the width to height proportions of the tree. Thus the inverted cone shape which we have come to associate with a Christmas tree is developed. This process must be completed each year of the growth period. After six to nine years under the watchful eye of the grower the tree is ready for harvesting. When buying a tree, first choose the spot where it is to be located, then decide how large it should be. The tree should not be near a fireplace, radiator, television set, or other source of heat. You will have a better choice by making an early selection. To be sure it's fresh, tap the base of the tree on the ground, if many needles fall, the tree is too dry. Inspect the tree in good lighting to be sure the sides are symmetrical. If you plan to use an ornament in the top of the tree, you'll want a tree with a strong central leader. Take the tree home, saw an inch or two off the bottom, and stand in a bucket of water in a cool, shady place, preferably outside. It will last longer if mounted in a stand that holds water.

Another treatment which is supposed to give longer life to a Christmas tree is as follows: Mix together 1 gallon hot water, 2 cups white corn syrup, 4 tablespoons micronized iron, and four teaspoons chlorine bleach. Let tree stand in mixture overnight. Add solution to tree stand through the holiday period.

"Eleven, twelve and one more for a baker's dozen," said my grandma, counting out eggs for a customer. "It'll be 'found gold' for her!" And she smiled as she bustled about the shop.

Even then, as a child, I knew that Grandma was the "found gold" for all who knew her - always giving more than was expected, cheerfully looking for ways to gladden those whose lives touched hers.

Today I know that Grandma's strength was of the spirit. The teachings of her church gave purpose to her life. She lived her creed joyously, demonstrating vividly for all around her the vitality and richness of the Christian life.

Today, in a world that sometimes seems dark with selfishness and greed, each of us needs to realize and utilize the spiritual resources of his church as a necessity of life.

Trailer Laws—

The basic requirements are two tail lights, two stop lights, two electric turn signals and two red reflectors. If the trailer is registered, it must have a license plate light. The placing of lighting equipment will be discussed at the meeting tonight, Cumby said.

Any trailer over eighty inches wide in permanent structure must have on each side at front one amber clearance light and one amber reflector. It must also have the same thing on the rear, except in red, plus three red identification lights which are not necessary on the front.

Trailers over thirty feet in length are required to have certain marking lights. These include amber side marker lights and reflectors centrally located on each side between the front and the rear of the trailer.

Other parts of the law will be discussed and explained at the meeting tonight. All trailer owners are urged to be present, since the law even applies to boat trailers, etc.

ASKS DONATIONS TO MEMORIAL FUND

The Dr. H. B. Tandy Memorial Fund, designed to build and/or furnish a geriatrics wing for the Crockett County Hospital, has been building slowly for the past fourteen years. It has built up to approximately $6,000. Usually the contributions are small, gifts made as donations in memory of deceased persons and it takes a lot of $5.00 gifts to add up to $6,000.

Now as Christmas season and closing the year is coming on, it seems that many people in Crockett County should make a donation and gift to this fund and deduct same from their income tax reports. Of course, the small gifts are welcome, but it seems to me there should be many, many gifts made this season of larger amounts, since so many people have indicated an interest in the building of a nursing home.

How about it fellow citizens? Do you want to donate a portion of your money to this worthwhile endeavor?
