Cheerful John Moody Inter-Language Wanted A Man Of 104 Why Men Farm

John Moody studies and thinks, and predicts five more years at least, of rising values and prosperity. "The old breeders of financial panic that brought on the crises of 1893, 1903 and 1907 have disappeared."

We are living in a new kind of America, with a new kind of prosperity. "America's world of today is not the world of twenty years ago," says Moody.

If you were feeling gloomy, cheer up.

Many are prosperous, NOT all. Barney Deboke, having vainly hunted a job, stood at a restaurant window, watching a woman turning butter cakes. He fell in a faint and doctors are treating him for starvation.

Great is the power of civilization, training a man so well that he stands watching food until he drops of hunger rather than steal. Man is a teachable animal.

Delegations of college men from different parts of the United States will record their voices on talking machines that scientists may study "American dialects."

The main thing is that all of them are understood from New York to San Francisco.

In Europe, traveling 3,000 miles from Oslo to the southeast, you would hear Norwegian, Swedish, Danish, German, Czech-Slovakian, Hungarian, Rumanian, Bulgarian, Turkish, Greek, and, in Egypt, Arabic, twelve different languages in a 3,000-mile trip, and not hear one-half the languages that Europe speaks.

Europe feels the need of an "inter-language." The sensible thing would be to make that language English, that all waiters and clerks need, and nearly all educated Europeans know.

National pride prevents that. So why not use Latin, once the universal learned language, making it possible for Erasmus to speak to Henry the Eighth; for all learned men in Europe to talk to each other through their books? Nothing could be more hideous than a made to order language.

Russia names a dictator, with absolute power over crops, their production and distribution.

Our farmers will watch that experiment for the benefit of producer and consumer, but will not want any crop dictator here.

The thing that reconciles a farmer to his lot is the fact that he is his own boss.

Tell him that others must decide what he shall plant, what price he shall ask, and he will join the crowd to the cities.

Men do not farm merely for profit. They farm because land ownership and management, plus independence, give them intense pleasure. If profit were the only measurement, there would be no farmers.

An old gentleman, aged 104, arrived from Lithuania to see this country. He said he didn't believe in "spending all your life in one place," so he only lived 104 years in Lithuania. He danced a jig for reporters, said he had given up tobacco eight years ago, but "never found that liquor ever hurt anybody."

He will change his mind if he tries certain brands on sale in this country.

SCHOOL OPENS AT 9 MONDAY WITH PROGRAM

Opening Exercises To Be At Baptist Church Parents Invited

FACULTY CHANGES

Reid Resigns Principalship, Claude S. Denham Is Elected

Opening exercises of the Ozona Public School will be held Monday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, it was announced this week by Supt. John L. Bishop. The opening exercises will be brief and all students are required to be present.

After the exercises at the church the students will gather in their respective rooms for classification, assignment of books, etc., the superintendent announced.

All students from the first through the seventh grades will meet their teachers at the school building Monday morning at 8:45 in the teachers' room. The teachers will accompany them to the Baptist Church for the opening exercises.

"As all the teachers will be busy issuing books, classifying students and doing many other things that have to be done on Monday, the parents will please postpone visits and conferences until later in the week," Supt. Bishop announced. "Of course, if the child is in the first grade, it might be necessary for parents to accompany him. After the first day all parents are welcome to visit the school at any time. We urge fathers and mothers to visit the school. We are always glad to have you."

School will be dismissed on Thursday afternoon and the teachers will attend the sessions of the Concho-Colorado Teachers Institute in San Angelo Friday and Saturday, Sept. 7 and 8. Work will be resumed in local school rooms the following Monday morning.

A number of last minute resignations of teachers have kept the local school heads in a turmoil the last few weeks, Supt. Bishop said. The resignation of Warner Reid of Alpine soon after his election as principal of the local high school was received last week by the board and the election of Claude S. Denham was announced. Miss Norene Newson has been chosen home economics teacher.

Run-Off Vote In Crockett Light

Robison, Connally And Marrs Choice Of Local Voters

Crockett County voters exhibited little interest in the run-off primary held here Saturday, only 68 votes being cast. Absence of any local contests and little interest in the state races led local voters to remain away from the polls. J. T. Robison, land commissioner, received the largest majority accorded any candidate by Crockett voters, polling 64 votes to only two given his opponent, Otis Terrell.

Tom Connally was the choice for U. S. Senate, receiving 40 votes to Earle Mayfield's 28.

Barry Miller received 65 votes for Lieutenant Governor while Thomas B. Love, who withdrew from the race before the run-off and whose name was not on the local ballot, polled two votes.

S. M. N. Marrs was given a majority over his opponent, W. F. Garner, polling 47 votes to Garner's 15.

Lee Wilson And Editor Hibdon Heed Stockman's SOS

Lee Wilson, the flying Buick dealer, saved the day for this week's issue of The Stockman. What with two ten-page papers in succession and 1500 circulars off double page ads, the stock of print paper was exhausted before shipment from the mills reached here. An SOS call to Big Lake and the big heart of Editor Hibdon of the Wildcat was touched and he got in touch with Lee Wilson who was just ready to take off in his airplane for Ozona. Enough paper to finish out the edition was loaded into the plane and the presses were again running in about 40 minutes.

Big Crowds Attend Cooking School Held By W. T. Utilities Co.

Big crowds of interested women are attending the cooking school and electric range demonstration being conducted this week by Mrs. Stella Floyd, home economics expert from the Hotpoint factory at Chicago, under the auspices of the West Texas Utilities Company. The cooking school is being held at the Joe Oberkamp store, with Louis Hoffmaster of Abilene in charge of sales.

Mrs. Floyd is giving some practical suggestions and instructions in the culinary art and explaining the best methods of cooking on the Hotpoint Electric Range. The school started Tuesday afternoon and will continue through Friday afternoon. A valuable prize is being given to some lady at the close of the demonstration each afternoon.

Connally Defeats Earle B. Mayfield

Congressman's Lead Over Incumbent Nearly 60,000 Votes

Congressman Tom Connally's lead over U. S. Senator Earle B. Mayfield was nearing the 60,000 mark with latest reports available Wednesday from the run-off primary election held last Saturday. The last figures available, with five counties not yet reporting, gave Connally 305,814 and Mayfield 248,499.

S. M. N. Marrs was an easy winner for re-election to the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, his total reaching 304,436 to his opponent's 228,444.

J. T. Robison was the overwhelming choice of Texas voters for the office of Land Commissioner, piling up a total of 333,138 to Terrell's 188,251.

Miss Rachel Schrader returned Friday after a week's vacation trip.

BANK AWARDS CONTRACT FOR NEW INTERIOR

Ozona National To Be Out In New Dress In About Six Weeks

TO SPEND $10,000

Tile And Marble Fixtures And Floors; New Front

A complete new interior, including tile floors, decorated plaster walls, tile and marble fixtures with polished brass and decorative iron fittings and a new front will soon be installed at the Ozona National Bank.

Contract for this work was let Monday by the directors of the bank to the Mailander Company of Waco. The total cost of the improvements will be $10,000, it was announced by Scott Peters, cashier.

Installation of this new interior will make the local bank one of the most attractive small banks in the state. All present cages and other fixtures will be discarded and replaced by the marble base partition with four windows. The arrangement of the windows will be approximately the same as at present, Mr. Peters said. One more window will be added, however, on the north side, with the teller's window toward the front.

The ceiling will be beamed with a new finish in the panels. The granite and tile will be of a pink tint, giving the interior an attractive color. The cages will be moved out slightly to afford more room for the workers.

A plate glass front with decorative iron railings around the windows will be another feature of the improvements. New, heavy, front doors with polished brass fittings will be installed. The work is expected to be completed in about five or six weeks.

COUCH RECITES OZONA'S NEEDS IN LIONS TALK

Bridge, Paving Streets, Park Improvements & Weed Control Cited

DAVIDSON SPEAKS

Judge Lauds Club Work Bishop Asks Co-Operation In School

A bridge over the draw, street paving, improvement of the city park and cutting of the rank weeds along the streets and alleys of the town were among the outstanding needs of Ozona as recited by S. E. Couch in a talk before the Lions Club at its luncheon Monday noon.

Mr. Couch had been asked to speak to the Lions two weeks ago but was called out of town on the meeting day and he was asked to speak at this week's luncheon.

The proposed bridge over the Johnson Draw was the first matter pointed out by the speaker. The finance committee met with liberal response from the people living on both sides of the draw. Mr. Couch pointed out, and the matter is now in the hands of the commissioners court, the committee having asked the county to supply the balance necessary to build the structure, and he predicted favorable action from that body in a short while.

"It seems that the Lions Club has but to think about a thing and it will be done," Mr. Couch said. "Possibly if we talk about some more of the bad places in the streets and other matters we will get similar results." He then pointed out several places where the streets are badly washed and suggested that some method be

Slogan Contest Lasts To Oct. 1

School Children And Adults Urged To "Send 'Em In"

The contest, with $10 in cash as the prize, for a slogan for Ozona will close the night of September 30, it was decided by the Lions Club at its luncheon Monday after the plans of the contest had been laid before the organization by the slogan committee.

The slogan committee, composed of Rev. J. H. Meredith and L. L. Bewley, announced last week the opening of the contest and the offer of $10 in cash to the person submitting the best slogan for Ozona. This action of the committee was ratified by the club Monday.

The contest will extend through September for the purpose of allowing school children to participate in the contest. Many worthwhile slogans have originated among children of the grammar grades in school, it was pointed out, and the committee was of the opinion that the contest would be more successful if the interest of the school children was aroused.

There are no limits as to who may enter the contest, it was declared. The committee and the club are primarily interested in securing the best slogan possible for Ozona and the prize is being offered as an inducement for everybody to submit a slogan. The slogan should not be over five words in length and should be something appropriate for this community and something that the visitor will remember. The slogan that is finally adopted will be incorporated in a proposed electric sign of welcome to be hung in the downtown section.

SEND YOUR SLOGANS IN to Mr. Bewley, Rev. Meredith or The Ozona Stockman.

devised to keep down the dust.

"Street paving may be a distant improvement," he continued, "but unless we begin to think about it it will never come to pass. It may be that the town will have to be incorporated before it can ever have paved streets, but it might be well to set that as a goal to be reached at the earliest possible time."

Judge and Mrs. Chas. E. Davidson were guests of the club for the luncheon and Judge Davidson made a brief talk, expressing their appreciation for the opportunity of visiting the club and Judge Davidson complimented the club on its accomplishments and lauded its virtues as a means of bringing the community closer together through its social features.

"The Lions Club is made up mostly of young men and the young men are the ones who must take on the load," Judge Davidson declared. "We old fellows get conservative and it is up to you young men to pick up where we leave off."

Three new members were admitted to the club by unanimous vote. They were T. A. Kincaid, Jr., L. B. Adams and Hugh Childress, Jr. The club went on record as favoring the proposed establishment of regional hospitals for the treatment of crippled children and named a committee composed of Secretary Nelson Hawkins and Evert White to draw up suitable resolutions to be sent to state Senators and Representatives urging their support of such a move.

The club enjoyed a musical program presented by Misses Eleanor Ingham and Vivian Baggett. Miss Baggett sang several number with Miss Ingham playing the accompaniment on the piano. The program was arranged by Lions J. A. Fussell and T. J. Lewis.

A plea for the co-operation of parents of school children and the people of Ozona as a whole with the schools was made by Supt. John L. Bishop. "A quarter-back can't win a football game by himself nor can the teachers put over the schools successfully without the co-operation of the people," he declared.

MOVEMENT OF CROCKETT CO. LAMBS BRISK

Over 7,000 Head Sold During Past Week For Feeders

11 AND 13 CENTS LB.

Ewe Lambs Brought High As $9 Head Yearlings $11.50

Sale of more than 7,000 head of Crockett County lambs to northern feeders at 11 cents a pound for muttons and 13 cents for ewes and at from $7.50 to $11.50 a head featured activity in local livestock circles during the past week.

The movement of Crockett County lambs to feeders is now in full swing, many flocks on the road daily to the shipping point at Barnhart where they are weighed out and shipped to their destination.

The recent sale of approximately 5,000 head of yearling ewes by Ed Downie of Sanderson to three Crockett County ranchers was another high light in the week's stock news. The yearlings were purchased by Clayton Bros. and Roy Henderson of Ozona at a reported price of $11.50 a head, the high price for the season in this area, it is reported, though one small bunch is reported to have brought $12.00.

Movement of lambs from this section will continue at a heavy pace through September and into October.

During the past week Wayne West delivered his lambs at Barnhart. The animals weighed out at an average of 78 pounds for muttons and 74 pounds for ewes. The muttons brought 11 cents and the ewes 13.

Alvin Harrell delivered a bunch of muttons averaging 73 pounds, which brought 11 cents a pound.

Other local ranchmen who have delivered their lambs or have them on the road to Barnhart include Ray Piner, Joe and Charles Davidson, Sam Cox, J. C. Montgomery and Bill Grimmer.

Arthur and Hillery Phillips recently sold their ewe lambs at $9 a head.

With ranch conditions better than they have been in more than a quarter of a century in this county, according to old timers, local ranchers are looking forward to one of the best winters in years. Abundant rains through the summer have kept the ranges in splendid condition and livestock is in fine shape for the winter. Winter range is also expected to be good and although a cold and wet winter is being predicted the flourishing condition of both the range and the livestock is expected to carry them through in good condition.

Lemmons Dry Goods Co. Announces Fall Opening Sale Sat.

Savings in high quality dry goods and ready-to-wear are being offered by the Lemmons Dry Goods Company in its Fall Opening Sale which begins Saturday, September 1, and lasts ten days. Full announcement of the sales event of the season is contained in a double page ad in the center spread of this issue of The Stockman.

The Lemmons Fall Opening Sale follows on the heels of the receipt of a big shipment of fall merchandise which Mr. and Mrs. Lemmons purchased a few weeks ago from eastern markets. All of this fresh stock of the latest styles for fall is being offered patrons of the Lemmons Dry Goods Company in this section at substantial savings.

Announcement of the sale is being broadcast throughout the Ozona trade territory by means of circulars printed from the ad in The Stockman and the price quotations and descriptions of new merchandise as contained in the ad are expected to arouse considerable interest in Ozona and nearby towns in this selling event.

W. EVART WHITE EDITOR and PUBLISHER
Entered at the Post Office at Ozona, Texas, as Second Class Mail Matter under the Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

Ozona, Texas, Thursday, August 30, 1924.

A good deed is never lost; he who shows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love; pleasure bestowed upon a grateful mind was never sterile, but generally begets reward.—BASIL.

Sanitation is one of the most important problems facing any community and it has become a grave one for Ozona. It is a problem that is more or less neglected in this community except at intervals when the Woman's Club clean-up campaign is in progress or after a contagious disease has broken out.

Proper sanitation is a necessary measure for prevention of disease in a community and the old adage about the ounce of prevention is doubly true from the standpoint of the community as a whole. Without proper sanitation, outbreak of a communicable disease is a calamity for the life of every resident of the community is in grave danger. There is no more certain means of spreading disease than through wholesale unsanitary conditions existing in a community and the best safeguard a community can have against disease is a policy of strict sanitation throughout its area.

Ozona had a scourge of flies at two different times this summer, and there is no filthier thing inhabiting the face of the earth than the fly, the hog or the scavenger bird not excepted. These pests are possibly the greatest cause of the spread of disease than any other one thing. Besides keeping down their breeding places and thus limiting their number, strict sanitation will minimize the possibility of spread of diseases by the fly. The person who allows an unsanitary condition to exist around his own premises, not only endangers the lives of himself and every member of his family, but also the life of every person living in the community. And we venture the statement that there is not a doctor nor health authority in the world that will deny this statement. No matter how small the unsanitary condition, if it is a place where flies may breed or where they collect, it is a menace to the health of the community. If you have an open garbage can, an open outhouse, a pig pen, if you allow dead animals to lie on top of the ground or if you have a cow lot and do not keep it clean, you are menacing the health of your own family as well as your neighbor's, and that means the whole town.

There are certain state laws regulating the health of the people, applicable to every community. There are county regulations and if the people of Ozona should decide to incorporate the town the subject of sanitation in the city of Ozona could be thoroughly covered by city ordinance. But unless there is somebody to see to it that these regulations are enforced they are useless. The state health department can not see to it all the time that the sanitary laws are observed here, it is up to the local authorities.

A county health officer, on the job all the time, with full authority, backed by the entire machinery of law enforcement, to enforce any regulation he might deem necessary for the protection of the health of the community, should be appointed in this county. If the city were incorporated the city government could name its health officer, but until that time the county must be depended upon to furnish this protection.

S. E. Couch, speaking before the Lions Club Monday, gave the best brief summary of things needed to make Ozona a better place in which to live that we have heard. Every undertaking that he mentioned aroused a hearty response from the club membership. He hit the high spots in the list of things that should be brought about here, the vital things that must be done sooner or later if Ozona is to keep her pace with other growing towns in the state. One of these things which Mr. Couch mentioned is apparently a trivial matter compared to the other things, but a little closer consideration will reveal it as one that needs immediate attention. Mr. Couch suggested that the rank weeds growing along the sidewalks in vacant lots and along the draws and alleys should be cut down. The street running east and west by the Hotel Ozona furnishes a real hazard for motorists as a result of high weeds. One or two of the corners along this street are almost completely "blind corners" weeds having grown up to such height along the sides of the street that the driver of an automobile can not see cars on the east and west street until they are well out into that street. Several accidents have occurred recently at these corners as a result of this condition.

The weeds should be cut now in order to destroy the seed and prevent their further spread next year. They not only present a real hazard to the motorists along this street, but they furnish an eyecore there and in many other parts of town. Furthermore, they furnish a daytime hiding place for flies and mosquitoes, and if there is anything that can be done to make the life of these pests a little less comfortable any time of the day, it should be done.

For perhaps the first time a heavyweight championship bout has proved a flop—that is, as far as gate receipts are concerned. On the thrilling Tunney-Heeney encounter Tex Rickard has lost, it is reported, about $155,000.

Rickard is a good sport and took it real good-naturedly, but he had a few things to say about the radio.

It seems that only 40,000 people attended the fight. Double that number were expected. Rickard ascribes the absence of many to the fact that they could hear the fight over the radio. And so he threatens to forbid radio broadcasting of his next big event.

The situation is interesting indeed.

A championship bout is a great national event. The entire country is interested. Is it ethical to shut off the means whereby the majority of persons get their running story of such an event.

What if a number of persons kept away from the Yankee Stadium in New York, preferring to get the fight over the radio? Does this mean that persons living far away from the scene of the encounter are not to have the privilege of "listening in" on it? There will always be sufficient people who will want to see the fight "on the spot." The real solution is lower prices for seats, lower guarantees for the fighters, and not the outlawing of the broadcasts.

For by this time American citizens deem it a natural right to be able to get news and descriptions of important proceedings via radio. There is no reason why this right should be taken from them.

We wonder if Tex Rickard has ever thought of newspaper advertising as a means to swell the attendance at his bouts? He gets tons of free publicity, but nothing takes the place of paid newspaper space. If Tex Rickard used it, he might not have to worry about the radio.

About Your Health
Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

JUST WORK

Regular, legitimate toil never harmed anyone. We often hear of "over-work" being a cause of break-down mentally and physically; but, when we look carefully into the matter, we find the victim, long prior to his invalidism, wrecked the machinery of his body by improper feeding, irregular sleep, and unsystematic exercise. Can you imagine a tubby, swivel-chair, club-ridden gormandizer, getting exercise from a ride in an upholstered automobile, and three hours a week devoted to panting around a fancy golf course, where he does his heavy-ballasted carcass more harm than good? Wouldn't you think he is about fifteen or more years too late with his "exercise"? There is no hope of long life for that sort of man—absolutely none! He is in danger every moment he exists. One thing our city business men should remember: There is a vast difference between "good business" and right living. My idea is, there is nothing that pays quite so well as a rigorous adherence to proper care of the body. It is a shame that we violate every law of diet, sleep, and exercise—die young—and put the blame on overwork. Does Providence remove the man that commits suicide?

I knew a man who worked in a stone-quarry on his farm until he was near eighty. "A freak," you say. No, you are the freak! This man ate regularly, never sat in a swivel chair in his life; when tired he rested. He had his full allotment of fresh air; he slept eight hours every night; he ate just what he wanted and no more. He died at eighty-two—and he didn't die of overwork. His was a perfectly natural death.

Mrs. Walter Kyle has been seriously ill for several days as the result of a wasp sting.

Eagle Lake Scouts Pass Through Ozona Enroute To Carlsbad

Seventeen Boy Scouts composing a troop at Eagle Lake, with their Scoutmaster, Rev. J. W. E. rector of the Episcopal Church at Columbus, Texas, and Scoutmaster of the Boy Scouts in Columbus and Eagle Lake, passed through Ozona late Wednesday enroute to Carlsbad, N. M., to visit the caverns. The boys are traveling in a big bus and had been on the road three days when they reached Ozona.

The Scouts are on a twelve day outing, made possible through funds made up by the Columbus Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club of Eagle Lake, according to Scoutmaster Airey.

Included in the troop were one Eagle and one Star Scout. While here Scoutmaster Airey was interviewed by Assistant Scoutmaster H. B. Matthews of the local troops and A. W. Jones, member of the local Scout committee. The local Scout officials were loud in their praise of the discipline of the troop and the manly behavior of the youngsters composing the party.

"If those who are responsible for this enjoyable outing were permitted to go with these boys and see their behavior, they would feel that their money was well spent," local Scout officers declared. "Ozona is entitled to a live Scout organization like that, because the material is here, organization and backing being the only things that are lacking. What we need is better support of the 'daddies', new spirit and backing of the adults in Ozona. Other towns the size of Ozona support live Scout organizations and there is no reason why we cannot do the same."

GIST HEREFORD A CHAMP

Odessa, Aug. 25.—John M. Gist, prominent Texas cattleman, added a rich plum to his long list of awards this week when his Bonnie Prince was awarded grand Champion honors at Sedalia, Mo.

Competitors from 31 states were present. The official report covering the award stated that Bonnie Prince was the heaviest bull ever exhibited in Missouri. According to Mr. Gist it is the weightiest 3-year-old bull in the world. It weighs 3,010 pounds.

Bonnie Prince, the giant bull owned by Mr. Gist, was shown in the Hereford cattle show of the Crockett County Fair Association here last June, taking the grand championship in his class.

Candidate Files Truthful List of Election "Costs"

New Lexington, Ohio.—The law requires candidates for office to file a report of all expenditures. A widely known candidate for sheriff in Perry county has his all ready to file and has the matter truthfully compiled, showing just what it cost him "to be elected."

"Lost 1,349 hours of sleep thinking about the election. Lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent. Donated one beef, four shoats and five sheep to county barbecues. Gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses, $5 in cash and 15 baby rattles."

"Kissed 126 babies. Put up four stoves. Kindled 14 fires. Walked 4,076 miles. Shook hands with 9,508 people. Told 10,101 lies and talked enough to make in print, 1,000 volumes."

"Attended 16 revivals and was baptized four times by immersion and twice by other ways. Contributed $50 to foreign missions and made love to nine widows—five grass and four sod."

"Hugged 40 old maids. Got doped 39 times and was elected by a 353 majority."

Mother: "Daughter, I told you to beware of strange men."

TOURISTS LOSE CAR CROSSING "DELAWARE"

A Midland man came in from Carlsbad, N. M., on the Pecos highway a few days ago, and reports an amusing incident, although unfortunate for the tourists concerned.

The "Delaware," well known stream which crosses the highway was up and several cars were lined up on each bank waiting for the water to go down. A large woman and her smaller husband were in a small car, and kept making "cracks" about going across. Finally the woman said with finality, "Let's go," and they went. Less than half way across the water rose above the running board and finally got high enough that the back seat cushion left the car, followed in quick succession by a suit case and other baggage.

About that time the Delaware took a real rise and the occupants barely had time to get out of the car before it turned over and over downstream.

The owners clamored for the opposite bank, took a look at their car and other belongings, took off their coats and threw in after the rest of their losses, and started toward Pecos on foot.

By the time the Midland man could get across and start toward Pecos, no trace of the pedestrians could be found.—Midland Reporter

THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Dr. Long is visiting Southley Downs, to which he is conducted by Ahmad Das, an Oriental. There he meets Mr. Southley, whom a detective friend, Alexander Pierce had told him to watch, and his son Ernest Southley, Mr. Hayward and his son Vilas, and then Josephine Southley, whom he had seen faint on the train. Josephine tells him the story of Southley Downs and its ghost, which is not the ghost of a human being but of a tiger.

Dr. Long has a quarrel with Vilas Hayward over Josephine, and finds that the Haywards have a strange authority over the Southleys. He is ordered to leave Southley Downs. The rain prevents him leaving at once. Dr. Long and Ernest go out on the road in the rain looking for the tracks of a tiger that Ernest says are there.

They find the tracks. Later Ernest and Dr. Long see a prowling creature in the hall of Southley Downs. This frightens the elder Hayward, who also sees it. Ernest begins to feel that Ahmad Das is perpetrating some devilry.

The elder Hayward is later found dead, his neck broken as if by a giant's blow.

The coroner and police arrive in order to investigate.

Because of the murder, Dr. Long must remain at Southley Downs. All the persons there are questioned by Inspector Freeman.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Yet you knew of this influence. The fact that Southley let his guest strike you before his face."

"It seemed to me that they were the closest of friends."

"And where were you just before the bell rang, when Southley told you to get out of the car?"

"In the kitchen."

"How long?"

"At least an hour before."

And he told him what he was doing to prove it.

Ernest corroborated my story perfectly.

"And what did you think of the elder Hayward?" he was asked.

"I didn't like him."

"And why not?"

"I didn't like his attitude with my father. He was too arrogant, and demanded more than a guest should. His manners were often boorish. Nor did I like the way he threw his son with my sister."

"I believe that was your sister's part to object—not yours."

"Perhaps it is."

"And she made no objection?"

"Never. Of course I don't know his very well."

The detective and I looked at him in amazement.

"And what do you mean by that unusual speech?" the former asked.

"That you don't know your sister very well."

"Because we went to different schools. Both of us are comparative strangers to Southley Downs."

The detective turned to Josephine.

"And what light have you to throw on this matter, Miss Southley?" he asked.

"None at all," the girl replied.

"And where were you, after the scene in the den?"

"I went straight to bed. My maid helped me undress."

"And the Haywards must not have been so unpopular with you as your brother and Ahmad?"

"I was with both of them a great deal."

"And I think you took Vila's part against Dr. Long."

Her voice lowered.

"Yes."

"And why did you do that?"

"Because I couldn't do any thing else under the circumstances."

"You evidently didn't like Dr. Long?"

"I did like Dr. Long. But his relation with me was greatly different from that of Vilas."

She looked squarely into his eyes as she talked. The room faded except for her. The faces of the watching circle became a mist. I don't know why each answer she made seemed to go so deep into me—each word—each inflection of voice an indelible imprint in my memory. I couldn't turn my eyes from her white face. I hardly heard the questions when he turned to Southley. They came from somewhere far off.

"Please tell me, Southley, just what were the relations between you and the Haywards."

"The elder Hayward and I were the oldest friends," the old man answered. He spoke falteringly, in the hesitant way of age.

"They had been here almost a month?"

"Yes."

"How long did you ask them for?"

His voice changed ever so slightly.

"As long as they would remain."

"You were in the den, in the scene between Dr. Long and the younger Hayward?"

"Yes."

"Did you think he was in the right?"

"I—I didn't know—for sure."

"Then why did you take the stand you did?"

His answer called me from my preoccupation. It rang in the quiet room. He spoke it softly, hesitantly; yet all other sounds became as nothing.

"Because, Inspector Freeman," he said simply, "I couldn't do any other thing with wisdom. Because Vilas Hayward is going to marry my daughter, Josephine."

After dinner I met Inspector Freeman in the hall. He called me to one side. Perhaps he was a little more intent, a little more nervous and quick of motion than in the afternoon.

"I'm in need of your help," he told me.

"And I'm ready to give it."

"Look in the kitchen and see where Ahmad Das is, and what he is doing."

I obeyed, on a plausible excuse. Ahmad Das was polishing the silver. I came back to report.

"The coast is clear, then," the inspector exulted. "Long, I want you to come with me and search Ahmad's rooms. I can trust you. I think, when I say that I haven't any further question but that the Hindu is the murderer."

"Then you must have discovered something new."

"No; but he was the one man who went out of the house with Hayward—the one man in striking range. I don't believe the Southleys were implicated; and knowing you as I do by reputation, it is absurd to think that you were. That leaves Ahmad. We know that he hated him, so we have a motive. But the Hindu's a funny duck, isn't he?"

"Did you ever see a man cross the room with such a funny, cat-like stride? He walks as if he had cushions on his feet."

We mounted to the third flight; then turned into Ahmad's room. My admiration for Freeman increased mightily when I saw him in action. It was impossible to imagine a more complete search.

"If there's murder, there's bound to be blood," he said. "Nothing is so convincing to a court as a garment with blood on it. He's been kept pretty busy since the murder, and I don't believe he'd have time to dispose of all his things. That's the chance I'm playing for."

But evidently Ahmad Das had foreseen this contingency. The detective searched swiftly for twenty minutes; then paused to wipe the little beads of perspiration from his lean face.

"It's no use," he said. "No clues worth finding."

He started toward the door.

"There's one place you haven't searched at all," I told him.

"Where?" He turned in amazement.

"That drawer full of linen." I pointed to a drawer in the dresser.

"I glanced into it. He wouldn't put it in such an obvious place as that. Even Ahmad Das wouldn't be that much of a fool."

"Perhaps, Inspector Freeman, you have never heard of M. Dupin? Inspector Freeman stopped to consider.

"His name's slipped my mind," he confessed.

"M. Dupin was a very famous detective—a Frenchman. A very great American wrote about him long ago."

"Oh, you mean a story-book de-detective," Freeman scorned. "I'm glad to say I've never wasted my time reading such truck. None of 'em were ever practical. Practical men are the go nowadays. The time they wasted in theories and talk—"

"Yet sometimes their theories came out right. Mr. Dupin would have been the first to tell you that for the very reason that you would think that drawer too obvious a place for a man to hide a garment, it would be the very place an astute criminal would hide it. He proved it with the story of a stolen letter, hidden among a packet of other letters, in plain sight."

"It's all right in books; but it don't work out in life," Freeman commented.

Of course I knew that as a whole he spoke the truth. But it had begun to dawn on me that Freeman was not the highest type of official detective. If he had been, I would never have asked the question about Dupin; and I would not have had the cold courage to lecture to him now.

"Then there was a later detective—a little, fat Catholic priest," I went on. "He asked his friend where a wise man would hide a pebble."

"And his friend, if he had any sense, would have said to bury it six feet under the ground and smooth the top off."

"His friend told him to hide it on the beach. Then the detective asked where a wise man would hide a leaf. And the answer was—in the forest. I don't say Ahmad Das would have chosen this drawer if he had time to choose a better place. But it is certainly the most likely place in this room."

I went to the drawer and hunted among the garments. And I'm afraid the color came to my face. Evidently my theories were to go unsupported by fact.

"I guess Ahmad Das didn't hide his pebble on the beach," the detective exclaimed.

Then I looked twice at a newly laundered shirt that I had picked up and laid down before. It struck me as being an unusually heavy garment. Some inspiration made me unpin it. And folded within it was found another shirt covered with great splotches of dark brown stain.

Freeman leaped toward me and took the garment in his hands. Just for an instant he examined it.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed. "You've found it after all. Do you know what those spots are?"

"No."

"They're blood. It's convincing proof. And it's Ahmad's shirt, too."

Swiftly he compared the laundry mark on it with the mark of the other garments in the drawer. I didn't dream that this austere man was capable of such exultation. His eyes actually seemed to glisten; and a high color suffused his lean, dark face. I thought of a hound hot upon the trail.

"It's the final proof!" he cried. "We'll get him now. I'll wring a confession out of him."

Then both of us drew up sharply.

"Ahmad is coming into his room, I whispered. For I was sure that the faint sound I had heard had been the fall of Ahmad's light feet in the corridor.

Both of us instinctively braced ourselves. We didn't know what frenzy of desperation we would have to face if Ahmad saw us with that condemning evidence in our hands. A long moment dragged away.

Then Freeman stole to the door. He looked up and down the corridor.

"Must have been a rat," he exclaimed.

"Rather noisy for a rat."

"Maybe the wind. But we'd better get out of here. He'll come back any moment."

I started to pin the dinner shirt into even folds, just as I had found it.

"M. Dupin did the same with the envelope of the letter," I explained. "Then the criminal didn't know it had been found."

"I do believe you've got the makings of a detective!" Freeman told me with a little amazement.

Then we crept down the stairs. He took the shirt into the room that had been given to him for his use; and rejoined me in the library.

"I've got a hunch," he said. His face was clouded. Little wrinkles were flickering between his eyes. I waited for him to explain.

"I've got an idea that someone's been following me this last three minutes. I'm not an imaginative man, Long, but I've had that hunch before. I never believed in it; but once I woke up in the hospital with a bump as big as an egg over one eye where a billy had hit me—and knew that it had been so. It's a queer thing; yet I felt that way when I was going to my room just now. The noise we heard in the corridor seemed to bear it out. But it isn't Ahmad. I stole out and took a look at him. His hands buried in flour. There is no one in the servant's quarters but a colored man or two, and that long-legged whiskered bird that brought out the row-boat. Robin, I believe you call him."

There was no answer worth making. So we sat and watched the darkness steal over the marshes. It seemed to me that the waters had already begun to recede. The flood had been the sole result of the ten inches of rain; now it was done, and the river was quickly falling.

The Florida darkness is always worth watching. It comes so gently, so like a dark mist that the wind blows up. The color of the water changed and deepened. The shadows that were the jungle grew black. Again we heard sounds of wild life that the storm of the previous night had stilled.

We smoked cigars and talked. And after while one of the colored men came to tell us of a discovery.

A flat rock jutting out from the hillside about fifty yards from the scene of the murder, he said.

Ozona Garage

Ozona, Texas

Just at twilight he had walked near it, and had noticed a queer discoloration on the stone. It was evidently clotted with blood, he thought, and what looked like fragments of flesh.

"You don't mean—human flesh?" Freeman asked.

His eyes narrowed, ever so slightly. It was evident that the colored man was terrified almost beyond power of speech.

"Yes, suh. I couldn't tell for sho'. But it was some kind of flesh, suh."

We didn't waste any more time. We hastened down the footpath. Although the night had fallen, the darkness was nothing of the in-front of me. I could detect the shadows that were the stables and garages, and the nearer of the cottages of the tensity of the night before. I was able to discern the outline of his colored farm hands. And, then, at the same instant, both of us saw another shadow.

Like wheat at 50¢ Cotton at a nickel, Gasoline at - 7¢

THE best rubber mileage is cheaper today than wheat at 50c per bushel, cotton at a nickel per pound, gasoline at 7c. Only such unheard-of low prices in these commodities can give an idea of the extremely low level of today's tire costs.

In this favorable price situation motorists are taking fullest advantage — selecting the quality that can be depended upon to carry through the next high-price tire period.

The saving in buying now will be cause for congratulation more than once in the seasons to come.

Tire Prices Lowest Ever

With crude rubber selling below production figures, today there is no such thing as a high priced tire. Even the top quality tire is low priced now -- costing less than was formerly paid for tires of ordinary service.

But economy isn't the only big feature of today's tire buying opportunity. Freedom from trouble is more important to tire users, in this fast moving age, than ever before--and the supreme safety and riding comfort, the serene peace of mind that goes with General's uninterrupted mileage, will alone sell you the top quality idea for all time--even should tire prices rebound to their highest peak.
