BEATING THE MOON SINKABLE LIFEGUARDS A NOBLE EFFORT A WOMAN AT 49.

Men have already beaten the moon in its journey around the earth. The moon's trip takes a little more than twenty-seven days. Fliers have made the trip in twenty-three days.

Beating the moon around the earth is one achievement. The next will be to TIE the sun in its apparent journey around the earth. With machines flying 1,000 miles an hour, gentlemen wanting a prolonged sun bath will be able to fly directly under the sun, following it around the earth for twenty-four hours or longer.

New York's Civil Service Commission investigated the qualities of life guards, hired by politicians to protect New York's beaches. They were supposed to dash into the boiling surf and save the drowning.

It was found that of 163 guards 15 couldn't swim a stroke, 18 more refused to "risk the swimming test in the water." They thought it too dangerous. In the words of Mr. C. W. of Los Angeles, imagine their embarrassment when anyone cried "help." There may be something in the statement that politicians are not fit to attend to any kind of business. In New York they certainly are not fit to select life guards.

When a gasoline launch exploded on North Bay, Ontario, a priest, a man and wife and their two children were thrown into the water. All but the father perished.

With his two little children, one aged two years, one only a month old, in his arms, the father endeavored to swim to the shore, a mile away.

But, exhausted, he was obliged to drop the children. He reached the shore alone.

It was a noble effort. The only difference between a father and a mother in such a case is that THE MOTHER WOULD HAVE DIED WITH THE CHILDREN.

Ethel Barrymore, forty-nine years old yesterday, told friends she was enjoying life "as much as ever."

She ought to be enjoying life MORE than ever.

For an intelligent woman real life begins at forty-nine. Wise Providence won't let women do important mental work much before fifty. Up to that age Nature intends women to be busy with children.

Roy Chapman Andrews, searching for strange things in Central Asia, reports finding an extinct monster "as big as the Woolworth Building."

Such an animal, if carnivorous, could carry home in its mouth a couple of big elephants and walk through an ordinary city crushing buildings as it went.

But it had a small head, little or no thinking power. That is why it is no longer with us.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company insured a man past fifty for $10,000. A few generations ago when the second biggest city in France had no inhabitant over fifty years of age, such insuring would have been financially suicidal. Men live longer, intelligence counts. A wise man at fifty is a safer risk than a fool at twenty-five. And the Metropolitan has promoted longer living by intelligent health advertising.

Misses Mary Childress and Pauline Perner have entered Lindenwood College in Missouri and write that they are well pleased with prospects for the year's work.

Ozona May Get New Bus Line

Application Made For Line From San Antonio To Pecos

Possibility of securing a through bus line from San Antonio is extended Ozona with the application of R. C. Bowen bus lines of San Antonio for a permit to operate a line from the Alamo city to Pecos in Reeves county via Kerrville, Junction, Sonora, Ozona and Fort Stockton, notice of which has just been received here.

This line connects with the San Antonio busses at Junction.

Miss Schraeder Buys Interest Of Partner In Bluebonnet Shop

Cemetery Association In Regular Meeting Thursday Afternoon

The regular meeting of the Ozona Cemetery Association will be held at 2 o'clock next Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. E. Smith, Mrs. Joe Oberkampff, chairman of the association, announces.

This will be one of the most important meetings of the year, it is declared. Plans must be worked out at this meeting for financing the work of the association for the rest of the year, or until the annual dues of members are payable in January. The association is now without funds to continue its work and to pay the salary of the cemetery caretaker and it is thought likely that a small free-will offering will be necessary to finance the work until the end of the year.

Will Rogers Says—

The Stockman is pleased to announce another first-class feature for its readers, the campaign talks of Will Rogers, world famous cowboy humorist, who is running for the presidency on the Anti-Bank ticket. Below is the first article by Will. Read them every week in The Stockman.

Will Rogers Says:—

I was kinder disappointed in Al's speech of acceptance. I thought he was smarter than he is. I thought he would refuse.

Just think how much bigger man Al would have been if he had refused. If he gets elected he will be the only one out of thirty that's held the presidency. But if he had refused he'd be the first in history to do that—and probably the last.

A Democrat is naturally winder than a Republican. He is out of office more and he has more time to think up things to say. All a Republican has to say is "well I am in, try and get me out." While with a Democrat he has to say something that will get the Republican out and also that will get him in.

Al said he would take the nomination because "this is the country that had raised him from obscurity to the standard bearer of his party." Now Al didn't have any monopoly on obscurity at birth. There is awful few babies very well known at weaning time.

The part of his speech that kinder hit me was where he said that if he was elected he would have our government quit messing around down in Latin America. In other words if a Marine went sight-seeing he would have to pay his own way.

Al is honest about the farm report. He says he don't know a corn stalk from a jimson weed and that a tractor might be a mouth wash so far as he is concerned. Now I think my platform's more constructive. I will make mine up after I get in. Nobody knows what they might want by next March anyhow.

Sheep Shipments Heavy This Year

2,000 Cars Expected To Be Carried By The Orient

The first few hundred cars of the more than 2,000 cars of lambs and adult sheep that will be moved out of West Texas by the Orient railway this fall have gone to the feeders and farmers in the north. The total sheep movement over the Orient should bring into the pockets of the ranchmen throughout the sale of these about 600,000 sheep, a sum of around $4,200,000, if an average of $7 per animal, and that is very conservative, is given. Shipments are to be as heavy if not heavier than last year, it is thought.

The Orient railway has orders for about 300 cars between now and October 5, though last October the road is reputed to have handled between 900 and 1100 cars of sheep in the month of October alone. October will be the heavy sheep shipping month as the shipments will fall off heavily in November though that is a lucky situation for the road as then the calves begin moving in force out of the Big Bend.

J. W. Tilton, general livestock agent for the Orient has just returned from a trip to Wichita, Kansas, Kansas City and Chicago making arrangements for fall shipping. It is believed that there will be sufficient cars to handle the large movement with ease. He left tonight for Altus to look after the feed yard over the Orient there.

Movements of sheep over the Orient this summer were about twenty cars heavier in the month of July than in August.

The Southern Pacific which also handles a good deal of sheep and cattle will have heavier shipments this year than in the fall of 1927. This is due to the opening of more territory along the Southern Pacific to the sheepmen.—S. A. Times.

AMERICAN EAGLE MOUNTED

A giant American eagle, with a wing-spread of nearly nine feet, captured recently by Ray Dunlap on his ranch near here, has been mounted and placed on display by A. W. Jones of the Jones Saddle. The big eagle, declared to be a comparatively rare species in this section, was mounted by a Del Rio taxidermist and stands on a pedestal representing a rock or peak of a crag, the bird's native haunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Augustine were in town the first part of the week.

Two contractors are to be awarded, a general construction contractor and a contract for the heating system, the former including everything but the heating system. Three bids for the heating system were also submitted Monday night.

Another meeting will be held next Sunday for the purpose of deciding on the color and kind of brick to be used in the building. The building is to be of tile with brick veneer, it has been decided. Samples from two brick companies are in the hands of the committees and these are being examined this week in preparation for a final selection Sunday.

THE OZONA STOCKMAN

W. EVART WHITE EDITOR and PUBLISHER

Entered at the Post Office at Ozona, Texas, as Second Class Mail Matter under the Act of Congress, March 3rd, 1879.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation will be cheerfully corrected upon being brought to the attention of the editor at The Stockman office.

It is easier to know mankind in general than man individually.
—LA ROUCHEFOUCAULD

A SUGGESTION COMES from the aviation department of the San Angelo American Legion, in charge of preparations for the tenth National Convention, that Ozona and other towns in Texas mark their town for the benefit of air pilots. The suggestion from the San Angelo Legion is made in the interest of Legion members who will fly to the National Convention in San Antonio October 8 to 12, but it is a suggestion that if followed out would be of permanent benefit.

Aviation is becoming more and more important in this country and each community must recognize the place held by the airplane. Fliers who make cross-country trips over unfamiliar territory have a kindly feeling for the town that has a marker showing the name of the town and pointing out the landing field. It is suggested that the name of the town be painted in large, plain letters on top of the most prominent roof in the town and that an arrow be painted pointing to the landing field. This service for air pilots could be performed at negligible cost and would no doubt prove of great benefit, not only to flying Legionnaires bound for the San Antonio convention but to all pilots who happen to pass this way.

Hurray! The baseball contests are growing keener—the big leaguers are getting more pep into their playing—the bleacher fans are shouting more vociferously—the radio baseball fans are listening in more frequently—the world's series are on the way!

Soon the greatest baseball event on the globe will be on, and naturally fans are getting pretty much excited over the prospect. And why shouldn't they be! For one thing, everyone will be able to enjoy the games this year—what with radios, mechanical score boards, and the wide variety of devices that can bring play-by-play news of the games instantly to persons in all parts of the country.

Time was when a great athletic event could be watched only by actual eye-witnesses. Now the actual eye-witnesses are only an insignificant percentage of the total number of persons "seeing" the event. For one person who sits in the bleachers or grandstand there are thousands who listen in to the radio, or watch the swiftly moving figures on a mechanical score board.

What a gorgeous thing it is to think that eighteen men may be engaged in a game somewhere on a field, and that the entire nation may be able to watch every movement of every one of the eighteen men.

Radio and inventions of its kind are making the world smaller, and yet larger, every day. They reduce the distance between city and city, nation and nation, drawing all together in bonds of friendship. They enlarge the spiritual and mental outlook of the world. They make the world a greater, more wonderful place to live in, and add a thousandfold to the power of great persons and great events to command attention and influence and inspire the Race of Man.

What is P. T. A.? Come and see.

"PRACTICE WHAT you preach" is good advice for anybody. The fellow who is a reformer by day and a renegade by night is bound to come to bad end some day. The fellow who urges others to do a certain thing and then does the opposite himself can not command their attention for long.

So it is with the merchant who preaches "buy at home" doctrine to his friends and customers and then buys all of the supplies that he could get here at home from an out-of-town house. Such inconsistencies can not remain under the cover. The merchant who sets such an example before his customers can not hope to convince them of his sincerity when he preaches "buy at home."

If everybody living in a community bought everything he possibly could from persons doing business in his community, going outside for only those things that he could not possibly get at home, what a wonderful community it would be. But the business man or merchant who buys his supplies from the out-of-town house or the peddler can not hope to keep the trade of others, before whom he sets himself as an example.

The popular belief that anything can be bought cheaper from firms in the larger cities is more or less a myth anyway. On many items, to be sure, there is often a slight difference in price, but taking all things into consideration we believe we are safe in saying that most things can be purchased as cheap here as in any of the larger cities.

The trouble most of the time is that persons who go out of town for supplies do not take the trouble to inquire at home to find out what they can get and at what price. The merchant or individual who orders something from out of town without first comparing prices of his local dealer is not being fair to either himself or his neighbor. Often he could get a better price on as good a commodity right here at home than he could get from the dealer in the city, and could save the hauling charge in addition. But even if the price were slightly higher at home, it would still be cheaper in the long run for as each merchant is dependent upon his local customers for his existence so is every other business house in town dependent upon its local trade and individual firms prosper as the community prospers.

A WHOLE IS NO better than its parts. A community is no better than its people. A community made up of persons who had no interest whatever in the development and prosperity of that community except their own personal advancement would indeed be a poor place in which to live. There are a few in every community who have exactly that attitude. They walk along the streets, speak to their neighbors and possibly smile. But their interest is 100 per cent selfish. They care not a rap about their neighbor nor their community except in so far as it affects their own personal being.

They live in the community, share its benefits, enjoy the gifts of other citizens of the community and never contribute a thin dime nor a moment's time as their share toward the community's upbuilding. If all such persons could be herded together into one community and MADE to live in the community of their own making it probably would be a severe lesson for them. Certainly it would relieve every other community of its quota of blood-sucking leeches.

THE TIGER TRAIL

by Edison Marshall

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Dr. Long is visiting Southley Downs, to which he is conducted by Ahmad Das, an Oriental. There he meets Mr. Southley, whom a detective friend, Alexander Pierce had told him to watch, and his son Ernest Southley, Mr. Hayward and his son Vilas, and then Josephine Southley, whom he had seen faint on the train. Josephine tells him the story of Southley Downs and its ghost, which is not the ghost of a human being but of a tiger.

Dr. Long has a quarrel with Vilas Hayward over Josephine, and finds that the Haywards have a strange authority over the Southleys. He is ordered to leave Southley Downs. The rain prevents him leaving at once. Dr. Long and Ernest go out on the road in the rain looking for the tracks of a tiger that Ernest says are there.

They find the tracks. Later Ernest and Dr. Long see a prowling creature in the hall of Southley Downs. This frightens the elder Hayward, who also sees it. Ernest begins to feel that Ahmad Das is perpetrating some devilry. The elder Hayward is later found dead, his neck broken as if by a giant's blow.

The coroner and police arrive in order to investigate. Because of the murder, Dr. Long must remain at Southley Downs. All the persons there are questioned by Inspector Freeman.

Dr. Long becomes jealous of the love he believes to exist between Vilas Hayward and Josephine. During the course of investigations of the crime Dr. Long becomes suspicious of a man named Robin. He determines to watch him.

Robin turns out to be Alexander Pierce.

NOW ON WITH THE STORY

"But it seems you trusted everyone else." I glanced toward Southley and his daughter.

"Naturally Mr. Southley knew it. I came at his invitation—and and your own, of course, too. Long, Miss Southley learned the truth just this evening, and I consider it a distinct reflection on the ability of her father and myself to judge character that we waited so long in making her an ally. But I will say—its more her father's fault than mine."

Father and daughter exchanged smiles. Josephine herself seemed changed. It was curious that I had not noticed it the moment I stepped into the room. There was a new light in her eyes, a rising of the delicious color that played ever in her cheeks. Again I saw the smile that I had marveled at that night in the drawing-room long ago. Evidently there had been developments in the mystery of which I was not aware.

"Remember, we will need your son too," Alexander told my host. Alexander and I walked together into the drawing-room, and we had a minute's talk at the foot of the stairs.

"I'm going to my room now," he explained. "It's a maid's room on the third floor, but it fits my purpose perfectly. I have a few chemical experiments to make."

"Of course it was you who destroyed the evidence on the white stone."

"Not destroyed it. Merely gathered it up. I wanted to make some blood tests. And it pained me to cause you and the inspector so much disappointment."

"I imagined it would!" Then we had a little laugh together. It was all too plain that a deep professional jealousy existed between such free-lance experts as Alexander and staff detectives like Inspector Freeman.

"But why in the world did you tear that piece from Ahmad's shirt?" I asked.

Alexander laughed again—a boyish, joyous sound that died quickly in the silence of the room. "I'm afraid that is evidence of my quixotic nature," he said. "But I had to have a sample of the blood stains; and I knew it would break Freeman's heart if I took the whole shirt. So I just tore out the piece."

He sobered and became very business-like. That was one of the marvels of the man. One minute he was the best of comrades—boyish, laughing, irresponsible. The next, he was the cool-headed, tireless sleuth with every nerve and muscle alert.

"There's work for to-morrow," he went on swiftly. "You'll have your part to do. So will Southley have his part and his two children. To-morrow I'm going to take the boat on a little expedition—over to the plateau. You are to meet me on the path at my return—just after nightfall. You can have the inspector with you if you like. Southley and his daughter will be close about, and they will know their parts. The hour to strike is almost here."

"And Vilas? What about him? And Ahmad?"

"Ahmad is the suspected murderer. I'm afraid Vilas won't do." "But Josephine Southley would think otherwise," I told him with some bitterness. "You must know—that they are allies. You couldn't have missed that point."

"Allies?" he echoed coldly. "What do you mean?"

"She's going to marry him—that's what I mean. And she's bitterly against me. Thinking that her lover might be accused of the murder of his father, she told the detective things that implicated me and got him to hold me here."

He turned and started up the stairs. "Sometimes, Dr. Long," he told me slowly, "your mental grasp is quite astonishing—for its perfect and abounding aptitude to make a fool of yourself."

And he left me to ponder in the halls below.

Inspector Freeman—who had learned the truth at last—and I walked down to the shore with Pierce at eleven o'clock the next morning. The row-boat waited for my friend, and in it were two strong colored men to row. Alexander had put on hip-boots and was armed with a heavy rifle. And it was plain to see that Freeman was entirely contemptuous of the whole proceedings.

"You're a funny one, Pierce," he spoke jokingly—and at the same time meant every word he said. "In the first place, coming with all that stage scenery on yourself. It takes one of you correspondence school detectives to do stunts like that. I suppose you thought that the murderer would recognize your determined face from your picture in the newspapers—and make himself scarce before you could get out the handcuffs."

"Rather a different reason, my dear inspector," Alexander answered him as he began to slip the great cartridges into the magazine of the heavy rifle. "It wasn't the murderer I was so frightened of. In the first place, I didn't want you to leave the scene in disgust, as you might have done upon recognizing me. You were doing too good work."

"You needn't have been afraid of that. The man was already in my hands. And I'm glad you appreciate the work I have done."

"Perfectly, Freeman, perfectly. It was particularly clever the way you found the shirt."

"Of course, you were in the hall all the time."

"Of course. I wondered what you and my good friend Long were going to do."

"I suppose you know that the shirt is going to put the noose about Ahmad's neck?"

"One can never tell, inspector."

"It's a piece of evidence that cannot be questioned—although I admit the final tests as to the authenticity of the stains has not yet been made."

"And besides, Freeman—there are other reasons why I thought it best that certain occupants of this house didn't recognize me," Alexander went on seriously. "It would help out in the end. I confess I don't care for disguises as a rule. And now I must bid you good day, and go search yonder jungle for the murderer of Hayward."

Freeman laughed uproariously. "With a rifle, too!" he exulted. "I'd think you were going elephant hunting. Of all the quixotic enterprises! You can't believe that the murderer is still at large, when I have him under my constant supervision in the house! Pierce, I have every admiration for your qualities, but I assure you are making the mistake of your career."

"Every one has to make mistakes sometimes, inspector," Alexander returned quietly. "Besides—I do not suppose you remember about the breaking of the levee—how the murderer would have time to cross the isthmus to the plateau, but couldn't possibly go farther?"

"I remember that perfectly. But the real murderer didn't try to cross at all. He came back into the house."

"Then there's the matter of the scratches—and the legend, and

Innettah Cooke Weds Pipe Line Employee; To Live In Nocona

Miss Innettah Cooke, daughter of R. J. Cooke, proprietor of the Ozona Meat Market, became the bride of Arthur Schwartz, bookkeeper for the L. E. Myers Construction Company, at a pretty home wedding at the Cooke home here Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. M. Fulmer, pastor of the Ozona Baptist Church, in the presence of members of the family and a few friends. The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Boerne where they visited relatives before going to Nocona, Texas, to make their home. Mr. Schwartz is stationed at Nocona for the present but expects to be sent to this section again soon. He was stationed in Ozona when the company made this town headquarters while constructing a pipe line through this country.

Lions Hear Inspiring Talk By Pres. Fulmer

An inspiring address on Lionism by President M. M. Fulmer was the featured number on the program of the regular luncheon of the club at the Hotel Ozona Monday noon.

President Fulmer pointed out the ideals for which the club stands and pointed to the slogan of service as the goal of the organization and its individual members. He called attention to a letter he had just received from Homer Miner, crippled magazine circulator of Amarillo, who wrote to the local club president asking for the names of any local cripples who might need a wheel chair. The Amarillo man, crippled from birth, but who has made a financial success despite his handicap, gives away a number of wheel chairs to cripples each year. President Fulmer said, and pointed to this as an example of real service and a real expression of sympathy for fellow unfortunates.

The club was entertained with two readings given by Gene Montgomery. Gene was introduced by Mrs. A. W. Jones as one of her pupils with only a week's training in expression. His performance would have done credit to a far more advanced pupil, in the opinion of his audience.

The Scissorites

On Wednesday, September 19, the Four Leaf Clover Club met in regular session for a business meeting. The following were appointed for the program committee:

Rachel Graham, Kaleta Cox, Pansy Whitley and Ethel Word. A Social Committee was then appointed composed of: Alma Johnigan, Ada Word, Jessie Ingham and Bernice Bailey.

The club voted to change the name from the Four Leaf Clover Club to the Scissorites Society.

The officers installed were as follows:

President, Alma Johnigan; vice president, Arthur Kyle; secretary, Mildred Davis; chorister, Louise Henderson; pianist, Bernice Bailey; sergeant-at-arms, Jessie Ingham; parliamentarian, Mr. Lewis; critic, Mr. Denham.

The Society is expecting excellent programs this year and to have a better time together than any previous club has had.

THE editor of a Florida newspaper was just about ready to put his paper to press when he received a couple of articles, one in regard to a recent wedding and the other an auction sale. Harriedly he urged his assistant to prepare these two "write-ups" as quickly as possible, and as haste makes waste this fellow made a grave mistake with the following result:

"James Anderson and Miss Mary Smith were disposed of at public auction Wednesday morning at ten o'clock in front of my barn two miles west of a lovely cluster of roses and two spotted heifers, before a background of farm implements in the presence of a few intimate friends, including four milk-cows, three mules, and a corn planter. Rev. Jones tied the knot with three pairs of plow lines, and the happy couple left for an extended trip north on a grain drill, followed by a shower of rice and many good wishes, with terms to suit the purchaser."—EX.

A matter of direction—A well known minister, famous for absentmindedness, once met an old friend in the street and stopped to talk with him. When about to separate, the minister's face suddenly assumed a puzzled expression.

"Tom," he said, "when we met was I going up or down the street?"

"Down," replied Tom. The minister's face cleared. It's all right, then. I had been home to lunch."—EX.

Dr. Frank Crane Says

HAPPINESS

When my two girls were getting ready to enter Wellesley they suddenly discovered about two weeks before their entrance examination that they were to be quizzed upon the subject of trigonometry and knew nothing about it. But they had to pass an examination on it.

So I got them a tutor at $20.00 a foot and he prepared them so that they passed and entered the college.

While engaged in this study they came to me one day and asked me what a sine and a co-sine were. I told them to look in the dictionary as I had to. The truth was I didn't know what those things were myself.

They looked in the dictionary and then brought the book to me saying they didn't understand the definition. Reading the definition, I replied that they had nothing on me, that I didn't understand it myself.

Some days afterward I was talking to a very distinguished mathematician and told him the story, and asked him why it was that I who flattered myself on being an intelligent man could not understand what kind of a thing a sine was.

"Why," he replied, "that is very simple. A sine isn't anything at all."

"I know," I answered. "But why put it in the dictionary?" He said: "A sine is not a thing. It is a relation between two things."

The greatest thing anybody can learn as regards their personal happiness is that it is not a thing, but a relation between two things.

We never realize what a blessing good roads are until we come to a detour and have to travel over a mile or so of bumpy dirt road.

The homely advice, "Count your blessings," is a good one.

We can only be happy in what we possess by contemplating those who have less and not those who have more.

So look about you, and see how many people are worse off than you are, and be thankful things are no worse.

Carroll F. Briggs, well known Val Verde County greeder of registered goats, recently sold 20 yearling billies to B. B. McCutcheon of the Ozark Mountains in Missouri. B. L. Briggs sold Mr. McCutcheon 173 does at $6 and the stock, 193 head in all, was shipped from Del Rio to the Missouri ranch the first part of September. The billies brought $32.50 a head.

It is stated that the McCutcheon ranch is located in a fine goat country. He has a ranch of 7000 acres and decided to come to Texas and get some new stock to add to those that he already owned.

During the last few years the goats of Carroll Briggs have won many prizes at Texas shows. He now owns about 500 goats, all thoroughbreds, and most of them are registered. The Briggs family ranch on Mud Creek.—Del Rio Herald.

it seemed to me that I heard the far-off echo of two rifle shots, but I couldn't be sure. Freeman continued his investigations. Vilas walked about on the green hillside like a hunted man. The long afternoon waxed hot, the shadows lengthened, the sun cast its glamour over all the waste of the marshes. Twilight dropped like a white mist, and the stars began to crop out of the sky. The night life of the marsh awakened—insect and wind and bird had their chorus.

I don't know where my thoughts were that long afternoon. I tried to read for a while. It wasn't a success. I knew that my stay at Southley Downs, so often threatened, was at its end at last. Tomorrow we would all cross the marsh to testify at the coroner's inquest and I would never return to Southley Downs again. The mystery and the charm would go out of my life, as the swamp-water glided beneath the boat.

Where Will YOU Be At Seventy?

Recent investigations have shown that a large number of persons are dependent on relatives or charity in their old age.

When the autumn of life approaches, and the leaves of youthful vim and enthusiasm fall, it is extremely difficult, no matter how able, these investigations prove, to compete in the world of business and commerce.

What better insurance against dependence in old age than a savings account? One dollar will start you on the road to economic security!

Utilities Co. Says
Angelo Water Plant
In Operation Oct. 1

SAN ANGELO, Tex. Sept. 19—Insuring the City of San Angelo an inexhaustible supply of chemically pure and clear water, the new filtration plant of the West Texas Utilities Company under construction here will be put in operation by October 1st, it was announced by E. R. Hoppe, chief engineer of the company.

About 90 per cent of the construction work has been completed and within a comparatively short time the plant will be ready for operation, Hoppe said. "One pump has been set and the other pumps in the high lift pump station are being set. There remains yet a small amount of electrical work to be done."

"The clear well and coagulating basins are completed as are the river intake and low lift pumping stations. The pumping capacity of the new plant will be 12,000,000 gallons daily, almost four times the present consumption of San Angelo, which has been averaging 3,000,000 gallons daily."

A 4-horse power Type Z Fairbanks-Morse gasoline engine was stolen recently from the drilling rig of the Anchor Oil Company in the S. E. Couch pasture southwest of Ozona, Mr. Couch reported Wednesday. The engine was used by the oil company but belonged to Mr. Couch, he said. The person who took the engine evidently thought it belonged to the oil company but Mr. Couch is anxious to convince him of the error.

FRIGIDAIRE

Prices so low ... Terms so liberal that it actually pays for itself

A New Thrift Idea For Careful Buyers

IF YOU buy the New Frigidaire on a deferred payment plan ... as most people do ... the first payment need be no greater than the cost of a few ice books. Furthermore, your New Frigidaire will actually pay for itself as you pay for it. There will be no more ice to buy. No more wasted food due to spoilage. And since the New Frigidaire keeps food fresh and wholesome 4 to 5 times longer, you can safely buy in larger quantities. These combined savings are so great that the New Frigidaire will actually pay for itself. And despite the remarkable improvements in the New Frigidaire despite its incredibly quiet operation; its greater beauty and convenience, Frigidaire prices were never lower or West Texas Utilities Company terms more liberal. You should select your Frigidaire now. Waiting simply means that you are paying for a New Frigidaire without enjoying any of its benefits ... paying for it without having it. So don't delay any longer. Write, phone or call on us to-day. But don't put it off.

WHEN WOMEN BUY

When women buy, they look for conveniences. That's why domestic science authorities helped design the New Frigidaire. You will find the inside of the cabinet made of seamless porcelain enamel with rounded corners ... as easily cleaned as a china plate. Shelves are spaced to provide for tall containers. These shelves are removable for cleaning. And even the lowest one is at a convenient height from the floor. No stooping is necessary. The top of the cabinet can be used for extra shelf space. It's like having another table in the kitchen. These are but a few of the features that make the New Frigidaire so popular with women. Visit our display room and permit us to explain the others.

Rev. Cook Writes He Is Well Pleased With Work At Hobart, Okla.

The following letter has just been received by The Stockman from Rev. Walter Cook, former pastor of the Ozona Church of Christ who has taken the pastorate at Hobart, Okla., vacated by Rev. W. R. Swinney, who is now pastor of the Ozona Church:

Hobart, Okla.
Sept. 14, 1928.

Ozona Stockman,
Ozona, Texas.

Friends:

I have thought for several days I would write you, and tell you that we have settled in our new home. We are well pleased with our new location, but our minds turn back to Ozona and the good people there. We never expect to find a better spot on the globe than Ozona. We learned to love the citizenship, with a love that is enduring.

Hobart is a fine little city of about six thousand, has all the modern conveniences and is real cityfied. We look forward to a great work in this section of the country. The country is well settled, lots of people here; it is a difficult matter to get parking space on the main streets in the business hours, especially on Saturday. Quite a few Indians still in the country. They cause no little comment on the part of the children, who never saw an Indian, with their long braided hair. We are to have a County Fair next week, and they tell me Indians will put on a program of dancing and such like, possibly kill a buffalo with bow and arrow as in the days of yore.

We are anxious to get back to reading the Ozona Stockman, so please send us your paper, and if it be convenient we would like to have 5 or 6 back numbers, as we want to keep up with Ozona and the happenings.

The family joins in sending our best regards.

Yours truly,
Walter Cook,
329 S. Hill St.,
Hobart, Okla.

Your Printer vs. The Mail-Order House

A lot has been said about the mail order concern and the "buy at home" idea. Did you ever stop to think and consider that your home town print shop is a home institution, fighting your battles, striving for the upbuilding of your community, paying taxes for the support of your local government and schools and spending its earnings at home?

The job printing department of THE OZONA STOCKMAN makes the boast that it is capable of turning out as high class work on any job (except unusually complicated or special process work) as any print shop in West Texas. It has several thousand dollars invested in the latest and most modern printing equipment to better serve your needs, and good equipment and experienced workers insure you highest class work. In fact, we guarantee to please you.

Furthermore, you will find our prices in line with printing concerns in the larger cities doing TEN times the volume of business, and on many items our prices are lower on equal quality. All we ask is that you give us a chance to bid on the job and SHOW you sample materials. Before you send that job to a mail order house, call us and see if you can not get as good or better job done at home at as good a price and KNOW that you will be satisfied.

There's Varnish and VARNISH

There are about as many grades of varnish as a cat has lives—probably more. Unless you are a varnish expert what chance have you of judging varnish correctly?

PEE GEE Floor Varnish

When you buy floor varnish you expect it to have the following qualities—toughness to withstand hard usage and at the same time a flintlike surface to withstand the usual wear and tear that a floor is subjected to—it must not crack, check or mar easily and it must not turn milky in color if water, hot or cold, is spilled on it.

These things and more you will find in Pee Gee Floor Varnish—and it's cheaper to use than the so-called cheap varnish.

Come in and let's talk about it.
