

ONLY $5,000 TO THE LORD OUR DESCENDANTS. LINCOLN'S SHORT LETTER. "ONLY A COLD."

Mrs. E. S. Dodge dies leaving one million. Nineteen thousand dollars to friends, $5,000 to a Presbyterian church, the balance to relatives. Five thousand dollars out of $1,000,000 given to the Lord seems small. In old days, when heaven and hell were taken more literally, it would have been thought wise to give $900,000 of the $1,000,000 to religion and make sure of salvation.

But in this agnostic day many feel that the Lord does not need money, especially as He could create any amount of it by an easy miracle, whereas relatives and educational institutions DO need money, and can't perform miracles.

That a son was born to Princess Michael Cantacuzene in Chicago means little to the average, but a great deal to a few old men of the Grand Army, who know that Princess Cantacuzene is General Grant's granddaughter.

The only immortality of which we are certain, apart from the certainty of religious faith, is the immortality of our descendants. Each may live for thousands of years in his descendants. You that read this are descended from men that were alive on earth 500,000 years ago.

What our descendants will be we cannot guess.

General Grant, before opportunity came and people wondered why he didn't keep "sober," little thought that he would be the great grandfather of a son of a Russian prince.

Descendants of Astors, Vanderbilts and Rockefellers will beg their bread a thousand years hence if begging still prevails.

Descendants of Jhenghis, Timur and Attila are among Mongolian laborers now scattered through Asia.

The Triennial Protestant Episcopal Convention in Washington is urgently requested to recognize faith cures. In such cures the patient helps himself by believing that someone else will help him. Faith can do many things. A man was bound to a chair, his feet put in hot water and told that his feet would be cut by a razor.

The back of a razor was drawn across the soles of his feet. Not a drop of blood was shed, but he died. What can kill can cure.

Some doctors wisely believe that faith healing should be used to help nervous patients.

On June 12, 1848, Abraham Lincoln wrote to William H. Herndon a short letter, telling what he thought about Zachary Taylor's prospect of election.

The letter was sold yesterday for $3,000.

Lincoln, thirty-seven years old when he wrote that letter, would have been glad to get the job in the Interior Department for which he applied unsuccessfully. Fortunately he didn't get it, for it might have taken him out of politics.

Johns Hopkins, in 125 families, rich and poor, will investigate origins, causes and frequency of colds.

What is foolishly described as "only a cold," is the most harmful of diseases, causing a loss of hundreds of millions a year in wages. And what is worse, it weakens the system, exposing it to attack from diseases that destroy life—pneumonia, heart disease and a dozen others.

JUNCTION 11 DOWNS OZONA BY 12 TO 9

Eagles Previously Forfeited Game, Lions Get Credit For Win

PASSING IS FATAL

Locals Unable To Hold Aerial Attack In Last Half

Piling up a 9 to 0 lead in the first half, the Ozona High School Lions rested on their heels in the last half of the Ozona-Junction game on the local gridiron last Saturday afternoon and as a result the Eagles played them off their feet in the last half to win 12 to 9.

The locals opened up a vicious attack at the beginning of the game that kept the ball in Junction territory most of the time during the first period. Near the end of the first quarter, after the Lions had backed the visitors to their own 10 yard line, George Bunker, at half, crashed through the line to block a kick. The ball bounded away and rolled across the goal line and Herman Chandler fell on it for a touchdown. A try at goal failed and the quarter ended with the score standing Ozona 6, Junction 0.

Junction opened up with its passes in the second quarter but the locals soon broke up that type of play. Three Junction passes were intercepted by the Ozona lads in that frame. Near the end of the first half, after the Lions had backed the Eagles to within 15 yards of the latter's goal line, Walter Kyle, quarterback, maneuvered for position for a try at goal from placement. From a point almost directly back of the goal posts, Doc Lee, full back, thumped the oval squarely between the uprights, making the score Ozona 9, Junction 0. The half ended with the ball in Ozona's possession on Junction's 32 yard line.

A pass for a gain of 20 yards a few minutes after the resumption of play in the second half was the start of the Eagles' march to victory. The journey to the first marker for the visitors started from their own 45 yard line. A center buck netted another 20 yards and another buck pushed the ball across for a touchdown. The try at goal failed and the score was Ozona 9, Junction 6.

Junction kicked after the touchdown and Ozona fumbled, giving the visitors the ball on the local's 31 yard line. Another series of passes and line bucks again put the ball on Ozona's 5 yard line. But this time, the Lions raised their bristles and the ball went over downs and Ozona kicked as the quarter ended.

The last quarter was a heart breaker for local fans. More passing, more bucks and more end runs swept the ball straight down the field for a touchdown before the quarter had progressed far and then the Junction lads locked the play and it was a see-saw battle until the game ended.

The loss of Saturday's game will count as a win for the Ozona squad however. The game was played with the understanding that Junction had forfeited the game in the Interscholastic League race on account of playing ineligible men.

Ozona's line-up was considerably altered in Saturday's fray. Arthur Kyle, regular fullback, was out of the game on account of an injured ankle and P. C. Coates, regular quarterback, was out of the line-up on account of illness. Walter Kyle, Ozona's line-bucking ace, was shifted to quarter, and Doc Lee to full, while Thalis Elledge, a substitute, went into the regular line-up at left half and George Bunker was pulled out of the line to fill the other halfback position. In the line were Herman Chandler, left end; Carlton Phillips, left tackle; Raymond Swinney, left guard; Earl Deland, center; Henry McGhee, right guard; Carl North, right tackle, and Buster Miller, right end.

Ozona Girl Weds Houston Banker

Miss Lily Flynn Myers Becomes Bride Of Wm. Swearingen

The wedding of Miss Lily Flynn Myers and William Swearingen was solemnized Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock at the Ozona Methodist Church, Rev. J. H. Meredith officiating. The church was beautifully decorated in yellow and white. The chancel rail was covered and heaped high with yellow and white chrysanthemums, smilax and marigolds. A panel of lattice work woven with smilax and with clusters of chrysanthemums, studded with marigolds, rose along the wall at each end of the chancel rail. In front of the altar stood an arch of chrysanthemums from which the wedding bell, also made of chrysanthemums, hung. At each side were candelabra with white tapers and spice ferns.

The bride came in on the arm of her step-father, Scott Peters, who gave her away in marriage. She was clad in a French creation of flesh satin made bouffant style. The close bodice was embroidered in seed pearls and crystal beads and the skirt was covered with tiny shirred ruffles of pink tulle, edged in silver. The veil was of point lace with orange blossoms and a head dress of pearls. Her slippers were of ivory satin. She carried a bouquet of rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Miss Vivian Baggett, maid of honor, wore a pink taffeta frock with jutting layers of net in peacock effect, draped at the left side with a large green velvet bow. Her slippers were of green satin with rhinestone clasps.

Miss Mary Sue Montgomery of San Angelo, bridesmaid, was attired in a gown of green taffeta, with the bodice covered in handmade lace and ornamented with clusters of French flowers.

Miss Dorothy Nell Ross of Austin was also a bridesmaid. She wore a princess gown of flesh tulle, encrusted with gold beads. Her slippers were of gold kid.

Mrs. Jake Short of Bandera was matron of honor. Her gown was of green satin with silver accessories and silver slippers. She carried an arm bouquet of huge chrysanthemums, as did the rest of the attendants.

James Swearingen, twin brother of the groom, acted as best man. Marvin Brown of Fort Worth, Edward Jarrett of Del Rio, and Boyd Clayton of Ozona were ushers.

Mrs. Lee Handerson, wearing an apricot dress, played while Mr. Brown sang, "I Love You" and Mrs. J. W. Handerson sang "Promise Me," and "Because." Mrs. Lee Childress played the wedding march. She wore a pink gown.

Little Mary Louise Harvick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Strick Harvick, was flower girl. She wore a dainty frock of pink crepe de chine. Little Billie Gus Hemphill, son of Mr. and John B. Hemphill of San Angelo, was the ring bearer. He wore a white suit.

After the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Peters. The wedding party and a few friends and relatives were present. A plate of turkey a la king, salad and olives was served. The wedding cake reposed on the dining table decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and marigolds with silver candlesticks and white tapers. The spread was of handmade lace.

The bride's going away costume was a dress of dark blue with a side drape and green banding around the neck and down the front embroidered in gold and black. Her hat and slippers were blue to match. The hand bag was of ostrich skin with tan gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Swearingen left for San Angelo on their way to Houston where Mr. Swearingen is employed in the First National Bank.

Among the guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Swearingen of Lockhart, the groom's parents, Mrs. J. T. Jarrett of Del Rio, V. A. Stewart of Little

Local Exchange Passes Into Hands of Texarkana Company

SHARES BRING $140

New Owners Take Over Management Of Exchange Today

The Mid-Continent Telephone Company, with headquarters in Texarkana, owners of approximately ten telephone exchanges in Texas, have purchased the 250 shares of stock in the Ozona Telephone Company and will assume control of the local exchange Thursday or Friday.

Sale of the local telephone exchange to the Mid-Continent was announced Wednesday afternoon following completion of final details in the transfer. Out of the total of 250 shares of stock, 245 were taken in the name of the Mid-Continent Telephone Company while the remaining five shares were taken in the name of individual officers of the company. One share was taken in the name of P. L. Childress, president of the Ozona Telephone Company, until the transfer is completed, when this remaining share will also go to the new company. Officials of the company who were here to negotiate the deal and who each took one share of the capital stock were Herrick Johnson, E. Newt Spivey, Otis F. Glen and J. F. Dewoody.

No announcement of the policies of the new company in connection with the operation of the local exchange was made. No radical change in policy is expected, however, by former officers of the company here.

The Mid-Continent Telephone Company operates ten or more exchanges in Texas, with headquarters of the company at Texarkana.

Shareholders in the Ozona Telephone Company received $140 on the $100 share. The company was capitalized at $25,000 and sold out for $35,000. The company was established in June, 1915, and installed the exchange at that time. The first telephone exchange was put in operation here by E. W. Bennett and sons, E. W. Bennett being the father of Will and Raymond Bennett. In about 1912 the exchange was sold to the Pecos and Rio Grande Telephone Company and when the latter company threatened a raise in rates in 1915 a group of local people organized the new company and put in another exchange. The Pecos and Rio Grande later sold out to the new company.

TAX HIJACKING

Rocksprings Record: The framers of the Constitution never intended that any man should be required to pay more than one tax on any piece of property. Yet every automobile owner in the State of Texas is paying more different kinds of taxes on his automobile than on any other piece of property he might possess.

Car owners are aware of this situation, but the majority have never given concentrated thought to the question. They go ahead and pay the various taxes, and never a word is said about the rank injustice of it all. In addition to the taxes, they have other incidental fees and charges which they must pay before they can begin to enjoy the use of their car, all of which combined, in some cases, is more than the total cost of all other taxes they are required to pay.

The many taxes assessed against the car owner are a hang-over from the days when the automobile was considered a luxury, and no provision has been made for the transition of the car from the luxury class to that of an absolute necessity. Yet, in spite of the fact that the automobile is a necessity, especially in business, taxes are required of the car owner as if the vehicle was still a luxury.

A STRANGE CLOCK

A gentleman living in Calcutta has a clock that is without doubt the most weird timepiece in the world. It was constructed by the keeper of an oasis in the Sahara desert. It is built entirely from the bones of travelers who perished in the sands of the Sahara. The case is five feet high and is composed of over seven thousand pieces of human bones. The dial is the top of a skull, the numerals are human teeth and the hands are little finger bones of an infant. On a small platform before the dial is a heap of miniature bones and skulls strung on fine wires. At the stroke of one, a part of the bones spring up and form a complete skeleton six inches tall which advances and strikes a bronze gong; at two o'clock two skeletons arise, and so on until at twelve all twelve skeletons arise and each strikes the gong once. The movement was originally of bone but has now been replaced.

Every purchaser of a new Ford is entitled to this Free Inspection Service

The modern automobile is a finely built piece of machinery and it will stand a lot of abuse. Considering the work it does, it gives surprisingly little trouble. But there isn't a car made that will not run better and longer if given proper care.

The first few hundred miles are especially important because that is when the mechanism of your car is being broken in.

Proper attention during this period will lengthen its life and prevent unnecessary trouble later on.

We are particularly interested in this matter because we believe it is our duty not only to make a good automobile, but to help the owner get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

With this in view, the entire Ford dealer organization has been specially trained and equipped to service the new Model A car.

Furthermore, we have instructed every Ford dealer to give the following Free Inspection Service at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles:

- Check battery
- Check generator charging rate
- Check distributor adjustment
- Check carburetor adjustment
- Check lights
- Check brakes
- Check shock absorber adjustment
- Check tire inflation
- Check steering gear
- Change engine oil
- Lubricate chassis

No charge is made for labor or materials incidental to this service, except, of course, where repairs are necessary through accident, misuse or neglect. The only charge is for new oil.

See your Ford dealer, therefore, and get this Free Inspection of your car at 500, 1000 and 1500 miles. Find out, too how little it will cost you to have your car given a thorough going-over at regular periods thereafter.

A checking-up by experienced mechanics, together with oiling and greasing every 500 miles, will add months and years to the life of your car and mean more economical and pleasurable motoring while you drive.

THE HUMAN SPHINX

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE

Simon Judd, amateur detective, and William Dart, an undertaker, are visiting John Drane, eccentric man of wealth, at the Drane place. Suddenly the household is shocked to find that John Drane has been murdered. The dead man is first seen by Josie, the maid, then by Amy Drane and Simon Judd. The latter faints.

Police officers call and investigations begin. Dr. Blessington is called, and after seeing the murdered John Drane, makes the astounding revelation to Amy Drane that her "uncle" is not a man but a woman.

Dr. Blessington discounts the theory of suicide, saying definitely that Drane was murdered. He then comments on the fact that all servants in the house are sickly. Dick Brennan, the detective, arrives to investigate the case.

Amy says no one had any reason to kill her uncle. She is asked about Dart. Judd tells the story of his acquaintance with the actual John Drane.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

"No, nothing. He was uncle John's friend a long while—long before I came here," Amy said. "They have played cards together many evenings."

"Never quarreled?"

"No."

"You've not noticed anything queer about the servants?" Brennan asked after a moment.

"Do you mean that they were sickly?"

"Are they?"

"Yes; I think they are all sickly. I don't know why uncle John had such sickly servants, unless he was so kind hearted. Dr. Blessington is here nearly every day for one or another of them is nearly always in bed. It makes it very hard for Mrs. Vincent, the housekeeper, but I'm afraid she's the sickest of any."

"But aside from that you've not noticed anything queer in them. Anything you might call craziness, any mania?"

"Oh, no; never anything like that," Amy said.

"You don't know of any enemies your uncle had?"

"No; he never spoke of any."

"He had business in New York, hadn't he? Had an office there?"

"Yes," Amy said, and told him the address, which Brennan jotted down in his notebook. "He was a speculator, I think. He would wait and buy a great lot of stocks of one kind and then they would go up and he would sell. I think he always made a great deal of money that way. I don't really know much about that. They can tell you more at his office. His manager there is Rufus Lodermann. He is quite an old man and he has been with uncle for a long while, I think."

Brennan jotted this name down in his notebook.

"Who else is there? You don't know? No matter—I can look that up," the detective said, putting his book in his pocket again. "And I think that is all I have to ask you now, Miss Drane, unless you can tell me something about the servants—who they are and where they came from."

"I think Mrs. Vincent, the housekeeper, can tell you more about that," Amy said. "I've not really paid much attention to that; I've always felt I wasn't wanted to interfere. Mrs. Vincent had been here quite a while when I came, and uncle was old and liked to have things as they were. He didn't seem to want to have me do anything but enjoy myself."

"But you were always ready to do your share if anything turned up," said Brennan, smiling. "I can see that, Miss Drane."

"Of course," Amy said. "It was not that I didn't want to."

"Mr. Drane just did not seem to want you to bother with the servants and the household affairs and so on; that was it wasn't it?"

"Yes; he never said much but that was what I felt," she replied. "I'm trying not to be unpleasant, asking so many questions," Brennan said, "but this whole thing is queerish, as you understand—John Drane being a woman and being murdered this way—and I have to get into my head the best picture of the household as it was, the best picture I can. How was your uncle about money?"

Amy wrinkled her brow, trying to get the meaning of the question.

"Do you mean with me?" she asked. "He paid me an allowance, always on the first of the month. It was fifty dollars while I was at school, but when I came here he gave me a hundred dollars a month. I haven't used nearly all of it. I asked him what I should do with the rest and he told me I could put it in a savings bank, and I did. The house expenses he settled with Mrs. Vincent—once a month, I think. I've heard them going over the bills. He seemed particular about them."

"He was a woman," suggested Brennan, "and household bills possibly were in his line. Did he keep much money in the house? Had he a safe here? Did he bring securities home, do you know?"

"No, nothing like that. He used checks almost always."

"No jewelry to amount to anything?"

"He never wore jewelry at all; not even a ring."

"There was a scarf pin," Brennan reminded her.

"Yes; that was all the jewelry he had," Amy said.

"I thought, perhaps, as he was a woman," Brennan explained, "he might have a woman's usual liking for jewels. Suppose we see Mrs. Vincent."

Bob Carter volunteered to find Mrs. Vincent and while he was on his way Brennan lighted a cigarette. He leaned forward with his elbows on his knees and looked out over the lawn.

"You come purty near bein' a first class detective, don't you?"

Simon Judd asked, hitching forward in his chair he filled to overflowing.

"I'm not the worst in the world," Brennan said. "There are better. We've some fine men in New York. Our men are a lot better than we're given credit for being. We have lots of crimes and we don't get every crook, but it's a bad mess over there. I do well enough. It's not as bad here as it is in Manhattan."

"That's so; that's likely," Simon Judd agreed. "And we ain't got it near as bad out to Riverbrook. If you was out there you wouldn't have much trouble at all, I reckon."

"There are tough problems everywhere," Brennan said. "Any place may turn out a hard problem at any time."

"That's how I think about it," Simon Judd said. "That's why I kept pesterin' them out there until they said they'd make me chief of police. 'Black my cats!' I says to them; 'The ain't no tellin' when you're goin' to need first class detective ability.' I guess," he chuckled, "they don't think overly much of me at that! Think I'm some sort of fat old fool, mostly. And I don't know but what I am. The ain't no fool like an old fool, is the? What you think? Am I a fool to go takin' up detectin' as a life work when I'm along past seventy years old?"

"I'll reserve my opinion on that, Mr. Judd," Brennan smiled. "I can't remember any man who took up investigatin' work at that age, but I've known some men who took up crime as old as that and did quite well at it."

"A detective has to be slicker than a criminal, that's the pest of it," Simon Judd said. "And it's so blame hard for them folks to take a fat man serious out there to home. Especially a man that's mostly cling to jobs where he could sleep mostly, like livery-stablin'. I cling to livery stablin' as long as I could, and that's a fact, but these here automobiles have given the business a black eye, and if a man goes into the garage business he's got to be lively and wide awake all the time. Now a detective—in a town like Riverbrook, Iowa—"

"Can sleep most of the time," laughed Brennan.

"That's the idea!" Simon Judd chuckled. "Particular if he's not on the force. If he's just a policeman he's got to be out and around, but if he's chief of police and detective he's got to spend quite a lot of time in meditation—sittin' in his office in a chair tipped back against the wall with his eyes closed. Looked like a good job to me, so I got shut of my livery stable and pestered the life out of 'em until I got me this job, startin' January first next."

"Good job," smiled Brennan.

"Yes, or I wouldn't have wanted it," said Simon Judd. "But the main thing when a man hammers down a job like that is to be able to hang onto it, and that's why I figgered I'd come east here and learn the detective business from A to Z. I says to myself 'If I can get them slick New York detectives to let me help hunt up a murderer or something, I'll learn a lot, and when I come back and catch a couple of crooks right here in Riverbrook the folks ain't ever goin' to let nobody throw me out.'"

Brennan looked up at the old man's face suddenly, but all he saw was good nature and smiling cheerfulness.

"This murder occurred very opportunely," Brennan said.

"That's what I was goin' to say," Simon Judd replied. "Just like it was made to order for me. It could not have been handier. So that fetches me to what I'm goin' to say—what'd you say if I was to go sort of partners with you and the two of us together hunt out who done this crime?"

"We're always glad to have any assistance we can from any source whatever," Brennan told Judd.

"Yes, I reckon," said the fat man. "Only that ain't any idee. I want you should say we'll work at this case together, so's I can get the

It will be a revelation in non-skid power - and permanence.

In the daily emergencies of traffic there are hundreds of occasions when brakes must hold—when good non-skid alone can make the brakes effective. It is not enough to have non-skid for only the first few thousand miles.

There are whole seasons of bad weather which call upon tires for a quality of service that rises above the question of ultimate mileage—times when the security of a single mile, often a single stop, may be as important as the value of several years' total mileage.

Only the tire that will not wear prematurely "bald" can give you this positive assurance of long wear and supreme safety season after season.

The new Dual-Balloon's flat, powerful tread design, its wider, deeper, fuller non-skid will carry you safely long past the point where by all previous standards you would expect to be running on "bald-headed" rubber.

Its outstanding low-pressure efficiency also means greatly increased traction, greater safety, by putting more rubber on the road—a bigger, softer, clinging grip. It eliminates the running risks and power wastes of constant slippage.

The New GENERAL Dual-Balloon 8

Our Special Trade-In Plan

We want hundreds more to take advantage of all that this Trade-In event offers in higher quality and greater value.

See the new General Dual-Balloon "8" now and get acquainted, too, with the regular 6-ply and 4-ply de luxe types throughout the General line—famous always for its super-tire leadership.

You will be surprised at the favorable prices that today's extremely low cost of crude rubber makes possible during this Trade-In.

With the present low cost of rubber, why worry along with the ordinary tire? It will pay you to trade in now for the tire that will carry you safely through the next period of rising tire prices. The saving of today will be cause for congratulation for many seasons to come.

About Your Health
Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M.D.

"Gland Treatment"
"Why don't you try gland therapy?" is heard so often now that a brief talk here may not be out of place. "Gland treatment" is not very new. The theory of it is, that when a certain gland, or set of glands within the human body, become incapacitated from disease or over-use, we should at once restore them by administering to the patient, the substance of similar glands taken from animals; this procedure, we are assured, will rapidly regenerate the broken-down human organism, and make it new.

Therefore the quack! Upon his shelves stand rows of bottles with mysterious labels, and filled with button-sized discs of greyish color—some of them are kidney, some ovary, some thyroid, some liver, some spleen, and so on—all good for the corresponding gland in the patient, so good, indeed, that gullible persons will gladly shell out from five to fifty dollars per "course" to the "great specialist" whose picture peering through a microscope, we see so often. Will some folks ever learn better?

A few glands—very few—are known by educated, experienced physicians, to be valuable, through their extracts, in treating certain ailments successfully. Some of these are utterly unknown to laymen, and, the advertising quack is fully as ignorant. The reader may well take this to heart: No "tablet" that is marketed to the public through commercial channels by advertising, is either worthy of faith or the perfectly good money it costs the purchaser. The field is a broad one—for the medical impostor. Don't be stung.

Barnhart, Nov. 7. —Joe Pena, wanted for the murder of two Mexicans here, is still at large, and the request of the Orient railway to burn the building in which the two Mexicans were hacked to pieces with an ax, has been refused.

Sam Harkey, sheriff and Marion Grace, deputy, traced the fleeing Mexican to the Live Oak station, near Sheffield, where he is said to have bought 55 cents worth of canned goods and to have eaten a meal there, going to the door often to see if anyone was coming. He had a coat on his arm, and a large roll of bills in his hand.

Mr. Harkey and Mr. Grace also continued to the Dryden and Marathon country and it is presumed that the man went to the border, though some think that he may still be in the country here.

It is said here that the two Mexicans killed had been paid off by the Texas Company the day before for work of clearing the right of way for the Texas Company pipe line and that that might have been the motive. Pena, however, has a $20 check due him for work in the depot here now.

inside of how you fellows go at it. What say to it?"

Once more Brennan looked Simon Judd in the face. What he sought was the eye of an insane man—the eye of a man who might have come to this house and murdered John Drane to make a case worth solving. Or, perhaps, the eye of a man who had held a grudge against John Drane and had come here to satisfy it. What he saw, if he could judge, was the keen eye of a man who was not such a fool as he looked, the keen laughing eye of a man who, possibly was laughing at the detective good-naturedly while laughing at himself.

"This," Brennan said to himself "is a man who is laughing at me because he knows something I do not know!"

"I won't be no more trouble to you than need be," Simon Judd said. "Only thing is it would be quite an experience to me to work hand in hand, so they say, with a real detective like you are."

"I think we can manage it," Brennan said.

"Black my cats, that's fine!" Simon Judd exclaimed. "Amy, that fixes that fine! I'm goin' to pitch right in and work at this thing until we get it all cleaned up and the murderous person put behind the bars. Fine! Now, first of all, girl, you go up to my room and, if the officers has got through rummaging in my baggage, fetch me down a note book I've got in my valise up there. It's a blank one, Amy, without anything wrote in it yet. I didn't know whether real deceives used note books or not, but I see Brennan does, and I want to do this thing right. It's right down in the bottom of the valise, Amy."

The girl went into the house and Simon Judd looked after her. When he saw that she was gone he drew closer to Brennan.

"Now that you and me are in cahoots on this business, partner," he said, "we want to start off clean and clear and no favors. What I know you want to know, if not nothin's no good. And there's somethin' wrong here right at the start."

"It being—?" Brennan asked.

"The girl, Amy here," Simon Judd whispered. "She ain't what she says she is."

ROCKSPRINGS 6—OZONA 6

One of the most spectacular and most interesting games ever played on the local gridiron was that which was played last Saturday evening between the high school teams of Ozona and Rocksprings, the score being 6 and 6.

The Ozona team is one of the interscholastic league entrants, while Rocksprings is not, hence the game had no bearing on the league standing of either team, yet because of the friendly attitude taken by each town, the game drew a good crowd, and the interest of the spectators was high.

Games between Ozona and Rocksprings have always passed off with no bickering and quarreling, and it is a pleasure for player and spectators alike when these two towns engage in any contest, which is very commendable and a real test of sportsmanship.

Literature On Tex. Cowboy Is Greatest Texas Contribution

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 7.—"Literature relating to the cowboy and his activities is the most distinctive contribution of Texas to the Literary world," Dr. L. W. Payne, Jr., professor of English at the University of Texas, said in commenting on his new book, "Survey of Texas Literature," which is to be ready for distribution about the middle of November.

A sketch of the first book printed in Texas, as well as summaries of the first foreign novel concerning Texas and of the first novel written in Texas, is included in the book. It is only since the Civil War that Texas writers have attracted National attention, according to Dr. Payne, and for that reason, the latter part of his book is considered of more importance from a literary standpoint than the first half.

Mr. Victor Harrison will be with us Monday night and have charge of the song services. Mr. Harrison comes to us with the finest recommendations of any worker we have had for a long time. His success with the young people is mentioned by every pastor he has helped. The report from Grace Church, Fort Scott, Kan.—"Victor Harrison is a worthy lieutenant and one of the leading Texas interpreters of sacred song." From Dayton, Texas.—"Victor Harrison is in a class all to himself. He is an efficient worker with children, and a successful leader of young people." He was in charge of the song services at the Kerrville Encampment the past summer.

Rev. C. R. Brewster, of Victory, who had Mr. Harrison with him last year in one of the best revivals the Victory church ever had and one of the best in the whole conference last year, personally told your pastor that Mr. Harrison was the best help in a revival meeting that he had ever seen. Others speak just as highly of him and his work.

We ask for your co-operation that this meeting may be a blessing to Ozona. Let's give the church a chance.

"King of Kings" To Be Shown At Del Rio

One of the greatest events of the picture season here will be the premier showing of Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings," at the Princess Theatre, Del Rio, on November 19-20-21. This picture has enjoyed a sensational success in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, and has been more widely discussed by press, clergy and laity than any other motion picture since "The Birth of a Nation."

The causes of the popularity of "The King of Kings" are not far to seek. Among them are the world's greatest story, the reverent dramatization of the life of Christ; superb acting of eighteen stars; 500 well-known players and 5,000 extra people; the restoring of a historical period in buildings, scenes, properties and costumes exceeding in elaborateness even "Ben-Hur"; and above all a vision that truly realizes the infinite tenderness, humanity and uplift of the New Testament story.

Miss Edith Word, student in Simmons University at Abilene, spent the week-end here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Word. Mr. Word took her back to Abilene Monday on his way to Mineral Wells where he will attend the state Baptist Convention.

We Invite You To See This
"Tire of Tires"

An Exhibition of a Masterpiece—not a sale!

Nothing like it has been known before. A new type—the first super-tire! The finest, strongest, handsomest tire that can be built, without limit on cost.

It is Goodyear's 30th Anniversary masterpiece. You will hear it much discussed.

You may not drive so hard, or fast, or far, or punish tires on bad roads enough ever to need one.

But you will be interested in seeing this "tire of tires"—a super-example of the endurance and beauty built into all Goodyear tires.
