

Warnings On Speculation The Federal Reserve Board $25 A DAY $2,000,000 MORE FROM J. D.

There are bad features about the generally ignorant speculation in stocks. Money thus invested might better be invested in other ways. Inevitably, buying ignorantly and recklessly, many are doomed to bear heavy losses.

It is necessary to issue warnings and the Federal Reserve Bank warning is based of course on excellent intentions.

But between warning and ACTION there is a wide margin. To tell outside banks that they must not lend money on call, giving a monopoly to New York City banks and gigantic profit to holders of New York bank stocks, may not be the best way to solve the money and speculation problems.

Another week opening finds Wall Street refusing to be scared to death. Speculators are like "Old Dog Tray, ever faithful." Grief cannot drive them away.

Jack up the interest rate, and still they say, "I think stocks are going to be worth more and so I am going to buy them." The prices lifted up their little heads as soon as the market opened, and kept them up.

One comforting fact for gentlemen that speculate in stocks, paying ten, twelve and more per cent for money: Federal Reserve Bank in 1928 made a net profit of $64,653,000, or $21,000,000 more than in 1927. It seems only reasonable that the Federal Reserve Bank, efficient in putting up interest rates, should get a good share of the profit.

Corporations get good service and government, sometimes poor service. Colonel Lindbergh is named Federal Aviation Adviser, and WHEN HE WORKS his Uncle Sam will pay him $25 a day.

All Hollywood knows that Lindbergh could have had $500,000 for making one picture, which would have paid him about $10,000 an hour for his work.

However, as Lindbergh says, flying is his business, and $25 a day for work on Government would suit him better than any price for standing before a camera. Besides, he has a job with General Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, selecting landing places, etc., for the railroad which will pay a salary considerably better than $25 a day.

If men are welcomed in Heaven in proportion to their deeds on earth, there will be a special committee of welcome to meet John D. Rockefeller when he arrives. May it be fifty years hence.

President Angell of Yale University announced a gift of $2,000,000 from Mr. Rockefeller for expansion of Yale's medical department, the building of a laboratory, etc.

Mr. Rockefeller is the only man that has given away HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

Since the people do not know enough to use their unlimited resources for their own welfare, they are fortunate in having intelligent men that collect hundreds of millions and spend them usefully for education, health, scientific research combatting disease, etc.

Beginning Monday my beauty shop will be open every week day. Appointments can be made at any time. We are offering this week special prices on facial work. Investigate them.

OST MOTORCADE URGES ACTION GOOD ROADS

Mud Strip Thru West Texas Is Talk Of Trail, Declare

COMPLIMENT CITY

Californians Loud In Praise Of City In Stop Here

Making a plea for good roads over the muddy section of the Old Spanish Trail through West Texas and for constant advertising and boosting of the Trail for the benefit of towns along its entire route, about thirty modern good roads crusaders in the personnel of the O. S. T. Motorcade from San Diego, California, to St. Augustine, Florida, were guests of Ozona Wednesday night.

The Motorcade arrived about 11 o'clock Wednesday night, four hours behind their schedule time, the result of muddy, slippery roads between here and El Paso. A banquet arranged through efforts of the Lions Club and various individuals in honor of the guests was called off when it was learned that the party would not be here until late Wednesday night. More than fifty local persons had signed up to attend the banquet and a full program of music and talks had been arranged.

The party was met, however, by a group of local citizens and treated to a free dinner at the Hotel Ozona. The crowd being much smaller than was expected, the hotel was able to provide rooms for all of them and it was unnecessary to use a number of rooms in private homes offered by local citizens.

Harral Ayres, managing director of the Old Spanish Trail Association, was at the head of the party, joining the motorcade at El Paso. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the spirit of the Motorcade and of the reception the party has received all along the line. Mr. Ayres as well as other members of the party were also enthusiastic in their praise of Ozona and of its citizenship, and expressed gratitude for the reception and courtesies extended them here.

The Motorcade is headed for St. Augustine, Florida, to join in the dedication of a monument to be erected at the eastern terminus of the Trail at that point.

"We of San Diego in this motorcade have three primary purposes in mind in making this trip, which is a personal sacrifice for most of us," declared Elwood Bailey, of San Diego, chautauqua lecturer and business man of San Diego. "First, we are here to say a good word for San Diego, of course. And of San Diego we say it is the garden spot of the world and Ozona is second. Second, we hope to arouse you fellows and others along the entire route to do what we of California have done toward making the Old Spanish Trail a paved or graveled road from one end to the other. And third, we hope to arouse a national consciousness of the advantages of the Old Spanish Trail as an all-year southern route across the continent."

"You have a wonderful country and a wonderful opportunity to show it off to best advantage. But the class of tourist traffic that you want and the class that will travel the Old Spanish Trail will not come until you have done your part toward making this route attractive, a good road in every kind of weather. When that is done, I venture the statement that this beautiful little hotel will be filled to capacity every day and that the business of Ozona will reap the harvest of a worthwhile tourist trade."

"Please say for me and for the rest of the Motorcade," Mr. Bailey added, "that we sincerely appreciate the courtesies shown us while in Ozona and that we shall always remember your wonderful little city."

Mr. Ayres urged that this coun-

Rains Again Soak West Texas Range

Half Inch Fall Tuesday Night And Wednesday Here

General rains falling at intervals throughout Tuesday night and all day Wednesday again soaked most of West Texas and added considerably to the already bright prospects for the stockmen of this area for the coming year.

The rains this week, coming on the heels of heavy general rains of the week before will deepen the moisture in the ground and assure abundant pasturage throughout the Spring months and well into Summer.

The fall registered a half inch here up to late Wednesday afternoon and the skies were still heavy.

Mrs. Kittle Moves Specialty Shoppe

Ozona Specialty Shoppe New Name For Former Bluebonnet Shoppe

Formal opening of the Ozona Specialty Shoppe, formerly the Bluebonnet Shoppe, has been announced for Saturday in the new quarters of the concern in the Flowers Grocery Building.

The ladies ready-to-wear establishment moved into its new home Thursday and will spend Friday getting its stock in order for the opening Saturday.

The north half of the Flowers Grocery building has been leased by the Specialty Shoppe for a period of three years. A partition has been constructed between the grocery store and the new shop and an attractive show window has been built.

Mrs. L. J. Kittle, manager of the store, says that with the additional room available in the new home of the concern, she will be able to offer Ozona patrons a much larger selection of first class merchandise than was possible in the Hotel Ozona.

A complete new stock of merchandise has been ordered for the opening Saturday and Ozona women are cordially invited to attend the opening and to inspect the new stock of Spring merchandise.

Mrs. Will Bennett left last Saturday for Seagraves where her father, J. H. Lehmann, is seriously ill.

Cam Longley, Jr., returned Monday afternoon from Chicago, Ill., where he has been for the last several months studying in an aviation school.

C. C. Montgomery and Geo. Harrell returned last Friday from Beaumont where they attended the I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge sessions. They also stopped over for a pep in at the Cattlemen's Convention in Houston.

ty get busy and do its part toward making the Old Spanish Trail an all-weather road.

"I know Crockett County well enough to know that it can build these roads if the people want them," Mr. Ayres said. "And I believe also that there are enough people who want them to put the project over. It's up to you young fellows to take the lead."

Accompanying the motorcade in Ozona were H. W. Bierschwale, E. O. Loeffler and J. W. McClinton of Junction and H. W. Reick of Roosevelt, who joined it between here and El Paso. Members of the party who registered at the Hotel Ozona were Dr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Good, Capt. Otto Langer, Frank Carlson, Elwood Bailey, Robt. G. Goree, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hodge all of San Diego and Harral Ayres of San Antonio. The party left at 8 o'clock Thursday morning for San Antonio where a dinner has been arranged for them Thursday night.

Petroleum Production Up 26,000 Barrels

Austin, Texas, March 27.—Daily average flow of petroleum in Texas increased from 703,000 barrels in January to 789,000 barrels in February, compared to 653,000 in February, 1928, according to Bervard Nichols, assistant in charge of index numbers in the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

"An important development is the decline in field work," Mr. Nichols said. "During the month, 556 new wells were completed, compared to 653 completions in February a year ago. Three hundred of the new wells were producers, or the same number as in February, 1928. It is interesting to note that the percentage of successful wells is very much higher

Subscription List Is Given To Band

Lions Turn Canvass Over To Members Of Adult Organization

The balance of a fund necessary to maintain the Crockett County Band and the P. T. A. Boys' band on a permanent basis by providing a salary sufficient to keep a director here must be raised by members of the adult band, the Lions Club decided at its meeting Monday.

A subscription list amounting to around $60 was made up last week by Ben Lemmons, who was appointed by President M. M. Fulmer on a committee to assist a committee from the Parent Teachers Association in raising a fund sufficient to put the band on a permanent basis.

Members of the Club who expressed their opinions on the subject declared that they thought the Club had done its part toward raising the necessary amount and it was pointed out that the Crockett County band had enough adult members to select a committee competent to finish the canvass.

No report was available on the exact amount that had been made up by the P. T. A. committee and no announcement has been forthcoming from that organization as to what action it will take in the matter.

The action of the Lions Club was to be reported to the Crockett County Band at its regular meeting Thursday night and some plan of action will be devised by the organization at this meeting.

Performances are scheduled for two for the afternoon and eight for the night show. Doors will open an hour earlier so that all may leisurely visit the menagerie.

ARIZONA HIGHWAY HEAD WARNS TEXAS PEOPLE TO BUILD ROADS

By JOHN C. SMITH
(Chairman, Touring and Highway Bureau—Tombstone, Ariz.)

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., March 23.—At a gathering from several towns here Wednesday members of the Old Spanish Trail Association discussed the matter of the motorcade which leaves San Diego, Cal., on the 23rd headed for St. Augustine, Fla., where the dedication of the Old Spanish Trail monument will occur on April 3.

This motorcade, which will be in San Antonio March 29, should grow as it goes east, and the fact that great progress has been made on this great National highway from San Antonio all the way to the Atlantic, brought out the further fact that while to the east of San Antonio millions upon millions have been spent to build bridges, road bed and pavement, no one knows for sure where the people are going to build the Old Spanish Trail, whether it's going to go via Del Rio or Kerrville.

It was recalled that at San Antonio in 1919 about 125 West Texans promised to build a highway of worth from San Antonio, Kerrville and Ozona, to Kent, Tex. They have not kept faith, for there are miles and miles of road that are not to be classed as standard by any stretch of the imagination.

It seems as if Del Rio people and

OZONA MEN TO TRY ENDURANCE TRIP OVER OST

Taylor Word and Leonard Hensley Hope To Break Record

START IN 2 WEEKS

Non-Stop Journey From Florida To California In Buick

An attempt to break the cross-country automobile non-stop endurance record and for the first time to traverse the Old Spanish Trail from one end to the other in a test of this character will be made at an early date by two Ozona men, Taylor Word, proprietor of the Crockett Cafe, and Leonard Hensley of the Ozona Stockman staff.

Plans for this run of approximately 2,750 miles are now being formulated and if the weather permits, it is hoped to start on the trip sometime early in April.

The trip is to be made in a stock model Buick roadster owned by Mr. Word purchased recently through the Wilson Motor Company, local Buick dealers.

Under present plans, if the trip is attempted, the men will drive from Ozona to St. Augustine, Florida, and be tapped off from there on the race against time. It is hoped through the Old Spanish Trail Association to get sufficient publicity along the proposed route to facilitate the passage of the car at high speed through the various cities and towns.

This, so far as is known, will be the first attempt to set an endurance record over the entire Spanish Trail. It is hoped through this run to gain valuable publicity for the Trail and also for Ozona and this section of the state.

BUILDING PERMITS DROP

Austin, Texas, March 27.—Building permits in Texas declined from $7,982,000 in January to $7,852,000 in February, according to Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review at the University of Texas. This decline is in sympathy with a similar movement over the United States.

Mrs. Glenn Taylor of Houston is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Augustine.

her neighbors will get busy and busy and build a United States standard highway from San Antonio to Van Horn they will carry off the plum, and that plum is the money that rolls in to each town on a standard highway. In this case it's up to the people living on either United States 90 or United States 290 to keep faith with both the eastern section and the western section of the Old Spanish Trail.

The people from Kent, Tex., through El Paso, New Mexico, Arizona and California to San Diego, have built a road that is a pride and pleasure to its peoples and they feel that the missing link in Texas should be built and built soon if the people in that part of Texas wish to benefit from tourist traffic in thousands where now they only get dozens.

From El Paso there is no part of the Old Spanish Trail where one has to drive slower than 35 and 60 can be made with ease all the way to San Diego—no mud, sand, rivers or creeks to ford, no gates, ferries or tolls of any kind to pay—you just roll on and on.

So all us Texans out here are now "praying" that Texans will get in line and build a standard highway either by Del Rio or Ozona, East Texas, the West, the Southwest, the Southwest, demand it.

Thursday, March 28, 1929.

The man who lacks courage to make a start has already reached the finish.—L. M. CRANDALL.

On the front page of this issue of The Stockman is an article under an Arizona dateline which should put every citizen of Crockett County, and of every county between San Antonio and El Paso for that matter, to thinking. Thinking of roads—good roads and bad roads.

This article shows what others are thinking of the roads in Texas, and the roads along the route of the Old Spanish Trail between San Antonio and El Paso in particular. It also in effect drops a gentle hint to the people of this section of what might happen if they persist in their indifference to the march of progress around them and "stay in the mud."

Despite the fact that considerable sums of money are spent each year, though an insufficient amount we will admit, to advertise the Old Spanish Trail as an ideal transcontinental route, this route does not get half the traffic to which it is entitled under the circumstances. In spite of the fact that this is the shortest route and for a greater part of the year at least, the best route, and a route with greater historic and scenic interest, much of the traffic which should be routed over the Trail is routed instead over the border route. And one of the reasons this is done is because at intervals when this section is favored with rain unpaved portions of the Trail become almost impassable, and the worst stretch of the road from Florida to California, we venture the guess, is the 38 miles from Sonora to Ozona in Sutton and Crockett Counties.

A community, like an individual, that becomes so self-centered and complacent that it closes its eyes to all things modern and is content to go along in its own way, satisfied with what is and deaf to the din of progress all about it is most certainly on the down grade. "We don't need the tourist" is the most absurd bit of folly that has ever been voiced in this county. There is not a town in the world that doesn't need all it can get. But aside from that, if there were not a tourist nor an outsider ever piloted an automobile over a road in Crockett County that would not by any means be an argument in favor of "staying in the mud." The people of Crockett County need the roads worse than do the tourists.

The time has come when this county must vote bonds and build good roads if it is to take its rightful place among other progressive counties of West Texas. And we believe there are enough citizens in Crockett County who are in favor of such action to force the issue and to pull this county out of the mud.

AND FURTHERMORE, Ozona has the worst streets of any town in Texas, we sincerely believe. If they were properly drained and maintained constantly, they would be as good, so far as smoothness goes, as any. But the only thing that will ever give Ozona the aspect of the true modern town that it is, and the one thing that would possibly be of more direct benefit to every resident of the town would be paved streets.

The cost of maintaining the streets, if they were maintained, would almost pay the interest on bonds necessary to pave that part of the highways. And it would be worth thousands of dollars annually to the people of Ozona to get away from the bumps, the humps and ditches, the dust, the mud and slush in rainy weather, the ruts, rocks and holes. If the highways east and west and north and south are paved before Ozona is incorporated, the paving question for this town would virtually be solved.

A NEW WAY TO TELL TIME

Henry Rheinhardt, chairman of the Associated Dress Industries, Chicago, comes forth with a brand new idea on the moot problem of the length of skirts.

He suggests that dresses should be worn down to the knee at noon, and hour by hour longer dresses should be worn until at midnight the dresses would be as long as in the days of our grandmothers.

This would give women fashion's authority to change their frocks every hour. The suggestion has been given serious attention all over the country.

It is said that this suggestion, if followed, would be a wonderful compromise, pleasing both the advocates of long and short skirts.

We don't pose as an authority in such matters, but pass the idea on in the thought that it is interesting at any rate—and would provide a rather charming way of telling the time.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

What Happened Before

Palermo is the scene. There an exile, Leonardo di Marioni, has come for love of Adrienne Cartuccio, who spurns him. He meets an Englishman, Lord St. Maurice, who falls in love with Adrienne on sight. Leonardo sees his sister Margarita, who tells him his love for Adrienne is hopeless. But he pleads with her to arrange an accidental meeting, to say farewell, between Adrienne and him.

She consents. That night the Englishman is informed of an attempt being made to carry off Signorina Cartuccio and Margarita, who are walking, by brigands employed by a rejected suitor, on a lonely road. He rushes to rescue the ladies.

The two ladies looked at their preserver standing in the middle of the road—fair and straight and tall, like a Greek god, but with a terrible fury in his dark blue eyes.

"You are not hurt, I trust?" he asked, his breath coming quickly, for he was in a towering passion. He was not speaking to the darker of the two girls at all; in fact, he was unconscious of her presence. He was standing by Adrienne Cartuccio's side, watching the faint color steal again into her cheeks, and the terror dying out of her eyes, to be replaced by a far softer light. Her black lace wrap, which she had been wearing in Spanish fashion, had fallen a little back from her head, and the moonlight was gleaming upon her ruddy golden hair, all wavy and disarranged, throwing into soft relief the outline of her slim, girlish figure, her heaving bosom, and the exquisite transparency of her complexion. She stood there like an offended queen, passionately wrathful with the men who had dared to lay their coarse hands upon her, yet feeling all a woman's gratitude to their preserver. Her eyes were flashing like stars, and her brows were bent, but as she looked into his face her expression softened. Of the two sensations gratitude was the stronger.

"You are not hurt?" he repeated. "I am sorry that I did not get here sooner, before that fellow touched you."

She held out her hand to him with a little impetuous movement.

"Thanks to you. No, Signor," she said, her eyes suddenly filling with tears. "Oh, how grateful we are, are we not, Margarita?"

"Indeed, indeed we are. The Signor has saved us from a terrible danger."

"It is nothing. The fellows were arrant cowards. But what was the carriage doing here?"

He pointed along the road. Already the clumsy vehicle had become a black speck in the distance, swaying heavily from side to side on the pace at which it was being driven, and almost enveloped in a cloud of dust.

Adrienne shook her head. Margarita had turned away, with her face buried in her hands.

"I cannot imagine. Perhaps they were brigands, and intended to carry us for a ransom."

The Englishman shrugged his shoulders.

"Odd sort of bandits," he remarked. "Why, they hadn't the pluck of a chicken between them, especially this one."

He touched the prostrate figure with his foot, and the two girls shuddered.

"He is—is not dead, is he?" Margarita asked.

"Not he. I shouldn't say that he was very badly hurt either," the Englishman declared, bending down and listening to his breathing. "More frightened than anything. He'll get up and be off directly we leave. You will let me see you home?" he continued, speaking to Adrienne.

She looked up at him with a gleam of humor in her wet eyes. "You don't imagine that we should let you go and leave us here?" she said. "Come, Margarita."

The Englishman looked at the other girl, almost for the first time, as she came up and joined them. Her dark eyes were full of tears and her face was troubled. There was very little relief or thankfulness for her escape in her expression. The Englishman was no physiognomist, but he was a little puzzled.

"There is no danger, Signorina," he said reassuringly. "To-morrow I will go to the police, and I dare say that we shall get to the bottom of the whole affair."

She shuddered, but made no reply, walking on by their side, but a little distance apart. As for the Englishman, he was in paradise. To all intents and purposes, he was alone with Adrienne Cartuccio, listening to her low voice, and every now and then stealing a glance downward into those wonderful eyes, just then very soft and sweet. That walk through the scented darkness, with the far-off murmur of the sea always in their ears, was like the dawning of a new era in his life.

It was she who talked most, and he who listened. Yet he was very happy; and when they reached her villa, and he left them at the door, she gave him a white flower which he had found courage to beg for.

"May I call on you to-morrow?" he asked, trembling for the answer.

"If you would like to, yes," she answered readily. "Come early if you have nothing to do, and we will give you afternoon tea a l'Anglaise. By the bye," she added, a little shyly. "Is there not something which you have forgotten?"

He divined her meaning at once. "Of course, I ought to have told you my name!" he exclaimed hastily. "How stupid of me. It is St. Maurice—Lord St. Maurice."

"Lord St. Maurice! Then are you not the fortunate possessor of that delightful little yacht in the harbor?"

"Yes, if you mean the Pandora, she's mine. Do you like sailing? Will you come for a sail?" he asked eagerly.

"We'll talk about it to-morrow,"

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

If parents will have their children memorize the daily Bible selections, it will prove a precious heritage to them in after years.

CHRIST TEACHES HUMILITY

Matthew 18:1-6. At the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? 2. And Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them. 3. And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. 4. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. 5. And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. 6. But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

PRAYER: Lord, put Thy Spirit within us and cause us to walk in Thy Statutes.

About Your Health
Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M.D.

MENTAL DISEASE
When eminent specialists hold directly opposite views as to what is wrong with a murderer—or whether there is anything wrong with him at all, it is little wonder that thoughtful people lose more or less confidence in so-called medical science.

That luxury adds license, is particularly true of youth. Even men grow astoundingly indifferent to moral law, when the fat purse so easily procures the intoxicant. When our young people hear discussions by their elders, as to whether Jesus Christ was a legitimate child, and that brutal murderers need trained nurses and sanitary diet instead of a hangman's noose—pray, what may we expect?

We are very sure that youth is susceptible to suggestion, with the mind in the formative stage, and, when said youth is relieved by society, of all parental espionage—and when said youth has his mind fed twice a day by a capable press, on the most salacious crime news obtainable—we are not long in witnessing the reaction. A boy drunken with speed-mania, his pockets bulging with money, envious of the publicity accorded bold bad boys with knife and gun, will kill for the fun and notoriety of it! Insane? Dementia praecox? Call it what you will—if you sow criminal neglect, you will reap dismembered bodies of little girls.

It is easier to nip "dementia praecox" in the bud, than it is to get clear of a murder charge on the grounds of insanity. We never heard of dementia praecox when parents took time to train their children properly. There is food for reflection, when Mamma bobs her hair and her skirts—and when Dad spends his Sundays cussing the caddie! Mental health, moral health, is secured only by observance of the strict code that trains youth up in the way he should go.

Plaintiff further alleges that said

Things That Make Life Worth Living

Electricity and electrical appliances are to the American home what religion is to man. They make life worth living.

Nothing is more wonderful than a comfortable chair, a good book and the soft rays of an electric lamp. For the American Home Electricity has done many things. It has placed pleasures in the house where only drudgery had existed.

The vacuum cleaner, electric range, electric washer, electric ironer, toaster and refrigerator have brought many conveniences and pleasures.

Every one should have electricity and electrical appliances in their home, for when discomfort is abolished, then Life Is Worth Living.

West Texas Utilities Company

(Continued from page 4.) Block 32, on what is now known as the El Masho Townsite (but which was formerly known as Grube) located in Crockett County, Texas, said Townsite covering part of Sections 71 and 72, I & G. N. Railway Company Surveys, more fully described in dedication recorded in Vol. 51, page 93 of the deed records of Crockett County, Texas, to which reference is made for all purposes, and plaintiff alleges that at the time of its sale of said goods, wares and merchandise to said

Cole and Brumme, the legal title to the real property above described was in defendants, George L. Thompson and wife, Ruby Thompson, but that defendants Cole and Brumme were by virtue of a contract, the exact terms of which are unknown to plaintiff, the owners of the improvements in the construction of which said material was used, and the defendants, M. R. Showalter and wife were the owners of an equitable interest in the surface rights of said real estate and the construction of said improvements thereon was in carrying out said contract, and with the full knowledge and acquiescence of defendants Thompson and wife and Showalter and wife. Plaintiff alleges the filing by it on the 30th day of April, 1923, of an affidavit duly recorded in Vol. 2, page 22 of the Mechanic Lien records of Crockett County, Texas, claiming a Mechanic's and Materialman's Lien against the real estate above described and the improvements located thereon, to secure the payment of the account sued on, and it also claims such a lien against the improvements under the Constitution of the State of Texas. Plaintiff alleges the sale of Lots 1 and 2 of the real estate in question by defendants, Thompson and wife to defendant, Mrs. Showalter, as shown by deed recorded in Vol.

27, page 250, of the deed records of Crockett County, Texas, but plaintiff alleges that deed is void for defective acknowledgment and that if it conveyed any title to said land or improvements, same is in all things subordinate to plaintiff's lien. Plaintiff further alleges that the various defendants to this cause are claiming right, titles and interests in the improvements and in the real estate hereinbefore described, the exact nature of which are unknown to plaintiff, but are by virtue of various affidavits enumerated in plaintiff's petition and of record in Crockett County, Texas, each of which plaintiff alleges is insufficient and void because not in the form nor filed in the manner by law required, and plaintiff asks that said affidavits be in all things cancelled and held for naught.

Dr. Frank Crane Says—

THREE THINGS

Gabriel Wells had a Christmas card in which he says there are three things that constitute a rounded out life: Power, Pleasure and Peace.

The more we think of it the more this seems to be a very good definition.

There is not much satisfaction in a life of no power. What gives zest to sport is the employment of our powers and we all applaud the victor, that is, the man who shows the most power. This includes both mentality or mental acumen and skill.

As for pleasure, they have learned a great lesson who have found out the abiding pleasures of life are those that come from serving others. The pleasures that we experience in merely receiving gifts or benefits, merely enjoying things that are our own, the pleasures of possession and amusement are temporary and they fade.

But one who devotes his life to bringing joy into the lives of others has an unending source of satisfaction.

Peace comes from the firm establishment or connection of life with certain fixed principles. There are some things which, when we have decided upon them, we lay on the shelf. They are not to be reopened. One who is continually arguing the fundamentals is always in hot water and unsatisfied.

That is the advantage of a belief in God. It is something fixed and settled, a central sun about which all of our other thoughts and opinions may revolve.

Of course the belief in God does not imply any congeries of fantastic connotations. One's belief in God may take many forms, but it must have a central core of repose. A life without inner repose is constantly buffeted to and fro by contrary passions.

One who has power sufficient to enjoy his ability to overcome obstacles, who takes pleasure in giving pleasure to others, and who has inner repose enough to keep him content in the center of its being, can be truly said to live a somewhat complete life.

Just Think! This is our OWN HOME

The couple in the picture are very happy. They are looking at the home they have built, and feel a glow of pride.

You, too, can own your own home. It's easier than you think. You can build the home you have always dreamed of and at the same time save rent.

Stop paying rent—let us show you how conveniently you can become a home owner.

Plaintiff alleges that the improvements are capable of removal from the land without material injury thereto and it prays for a judgment against Cole and Brumme establishing the amount of its said debt and damage and for a foreclosure as against all the defendants of its lien on said land and improvements, or if no lien is found to exist against the real estate, then for a foreclosure of its lien on the improvements against all the defendants, and for an order of sale and for costs of Court and for general and special relief.

"The Desperate Lover"

she laughed, holding out her hand. "Good-night."

He let her hand go. If he held it a moment longer, and a little more firmly than was absolutely necessary, was he much to blame?

"Good-night," he said. "Good-night, Signorina," he added, bowing to Margarita. "I shall come tomorrow afternoon."

Then he turned away, and walked with long swinging steps back to the hotel.

"Margarita!"

She had found her way into a lonely corner of the villa grounds, and, with her head resting upon her hands, she was gazing across the blue sunlit waters of the bay. Below, hidden by the thickly-growing shrubs, was the white, dusty road, and the voice which disturbed her thoughts seemed to come from it. She pushed the white flowering rhododendrons on one side, and peered through.

"Leonardo!" she exclaimed. "Leonardo!"

"Are you alone?" he asked.

"Yes. Adrienne is in the house, I believe."

"Then I am coming in."

She looked troubled, but she could not send him away. He clambered over the low paling, and, pushing back the boughs of the shrubs which grew between them, made his way up the bank to her side.

"Have you been away?" she asked.

"Yes, I have been home. Home," he repeated bitterly. "I have wandered through the woods, and I have climbed the hills where we spent our childhood. I have looked upon the old scenes, and my heart is broken."

Her eyes filled with tears. For a moment her thoughts, too, went back to the days when they had been children together, and he had been her hero brother. How time had changed them both, and how far apart they had drifted. They could never be the same again. She knew it quite well. There had grown up a great barrier between them. She could not even pretend to sympathize with him, although her heart was still full of pity.

"Leonardo, I am sorry," she whispered. "How it is, I wonder, that all through life you seem to have set your heart upon things which are impossible."

"It is fate!"

"Fate! But you are a man, and man should control fate."

"Have I not tried?" he answered bitterly. "Tell me, do I so easily relinquish my great desire? Why am I here? Because I have said to myself that I will not be denied. Adrienne shall be mine!"

She looked at him steadily.

"We have not met, Leonardo, since the night after the concert. Do you know that we had an adventure on the way home?"

"Tell me about it," he answered, looking away.

"Is there any need, Leonardo?"

A faint tinge of color stole into his olive cheek.

"You guessed then," he said.

"Tell me, does she know? Has she any idea?"

"None."

"She does not suspect me at all?"

"No; she thinks that it was an ordinary attack by robbers, and that the carriage was to take us a little way into the interior, so that they might hold us and demand a ransom. It was her own idea; I said nothing. I feel as though I were deceiving her, but I cannot tell her. She would never look upon your face again, Leonardo."

"You must not tell her," he muttered. "Swear that you will not!"

She shook her head.

"There is no need. I am not anxious to denounce my own brother as a would-be abductor."

"Margarita, I was desperate," he cried passionately. "And that cursed Englishman, he has become my evil genius. It was a miserable chance that enabled him to become your preserver."

"It was a very fortunate one for you, Leonardo."

"What do you mean?" he cried sharply. "Tell me, has he been here?"

"Yes."

He seemed to calm himself with a great effort. He was on the threshold of what he had come to know. He must keep cool, or she would tell him nothing.

"Margarita," he said slowly, "the time is fast coming when I shall have no more favors to ask you. Will you remember that you are my sister, and grant me a great one now?"

"If I can, Leonardo."

"It is good. I shall not ask you anything impossible or unreasonable. Tell me the truth about Adrienne and this Englishman. Tell me how you have spent your days since this affair, and how often he has been here. Then tell me what you yourself think. Tell me whether she cares for him; and be for her. Let me hear the whole truth, so that I may know how to act."

"Leonardo," she whispered, "remember our watchword, 'Endurance.' I will tell you everything. Lord St. Maurice came on the day after our adventure. He stayed till evening, and we walked with him on the Marina. The next day we went yachting with him. Yesterday and to-day he has spent nearly the whole of his time here. I believe that he is in love with Adrienne, and as for her, if she does not love him already, I believe that she soon will. You have asked for the truth, my brother, and it is best that you should have it. Forgive me for the pain it must cause you."

The Englishman sat quite still, holding in his hand a long, curious-looking dagger, which the first gleam of moonlight had shown him lying at his feet.

He was no coward, but he gave a little shudder as he examined its bluish steel edge with his finger. It was by no means a toy weapon; it had been fashioned and meant for use. What use? Somehow he felt that he had escaped a very great danger, as he put the thing thoughtfully into his pocket, and leaned back in his chair. The shrill voices and clatter of glasses around him sounded curiously unreal in his ears.

By degrees he came to himself, and leaning forward took a match from the little marble table, and re-lit his cigar. Then, for the first time, he noticed with a start that the chair opposite to him was occupied, occupied, too, by a figure which was perfectly familiar. It was a Sicilian who sat there, quietly smoking a long cigarette, and with his face shaded by the open palm of his hand.

Lord St. Maurice made no sign of recognition. On the contrary, he turned his head away, preferring not to be seen. His nerves were already highly strung, and there seemed to him to be something ominous in this second meeting with the Sicilian. If he could have been sure of being able to do so unnoticed, he would have got up and gone into the hotel.

"The Desperate Lover"

"Good-evening, Signor!" Lord St. Maurice turned and looked into the white, corpse-like face of the Sicilian. It told its own story. There was trouble to come.

"Good-evening, Signor," he answered quietly.

The Sicilian leaned over the table. There were gray rims under his eyes and even his lips had lost their color.

"A week ago, Signor," he remarked, "we occupied these same seats here."

"I remember it," Lord St. Maurice replied quietly.

DON'T!—

Just think of your jeweler when you have the misfortune to break your watch. Come in, bring your rings, bar pins, etc., and let him see that the stones are secure in their settings. Also, if you have some pieces of jewelry that are out of date but have some nice stones in them, I will be glad to show you designs and give you an estimate on the cost of remodeling.

If Goodyear Tires were not the best tire-buy for you—we wouldn't be recommending them.

We live in this town, and expect to be here for a long time.

Common sense tells us we can build our business only as we take care of our customers.

Selling a customer anything but the best is not taking care of him.

We know that—so we recommend Goodyear Tires.

They're the best tires—proved by the fact that more people ride on them than on any other kind.

That's why we handle them.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE ERADICATED

The United States is again free from foot-and-mouth disease and an official order of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, effective on March 18, removes the quarantine placed on the limited affected area in California. The outbreak was of the shortest duration and involved the smallest number of premises and animals of any of the outbreaks that have occurred. It also caused the least interference with agriculture and industry in the surrounding territory.

Extensive inspections indicate that the last vestige of the disease was destroyed four weeks ago by the slaughter and burial of infected herds and the cleaning and disinfecting of the premises. But as a precautionary measure the premises on which the disease was being held under veterinary inspection pending the outcome of the customary tests in which numbers of susceptible livestock are used. As a still further safeguard the department will maintain an adequate force of trained veterinarians in the locality to deal promptly with any recurrence which past experience has shown to be possible in dealing with this treacherous malady.

"King Of Kings" To Be Shown Here

Famous Screen Version Of Life Of Jesus At Ozona Theatre

In response to many requests from his patrons, Manager J. R. Kersey, of the Ozona Theatre, has booked Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The King of Kings," for a two days' showing, beginning Monday and Tuesday, April 8 and 9. This is the picture that was presented to crowded audiences for six months at the Gaiety Theatre, New York. It enjoyed exceedingly successful runs in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, and many other cities in this country and abroad.

In filming this wonderful story of Christ, Mr. De Mille displayed daring, the work being even more venturesome than his "Ten Commandments" and the pitfalls many. The unanimous praise of the reviewers in all the metropolitan centres indicates that his effort proved successful.

Among the eighteen stars of the production are such favorites as

H. B. Warner, Jacqueline Logan, Rudolph and Joseph Schildkraut, Victor Varconi, William Boyd, Montagu Love, George Siegmann, Theodore Kosloff, Julia Faye, Robert Edeson, Sam De Grasse. In fact, the cast of principals is a roster of eminent names in pictures. Approximately $2,500,000 is said to have been expended on the production. As the actors embody the cherished characters of the New Testament narrative, so the hundred great sets faithfully realize the scenes in the life of Jesus.

traordinary success in this country and abroad and it won the commendation of press and public alike. Its beauty and charm evoked the general praise.
