COTTON COMES BACK.
CAPPER BACKS FARM BILL.
COOLIDGE IS EARLY.
WHY FARMERS LAUGH.

Cotton growers will be glad to hear that big department stores are specializing in cotton goods. "Cotton arrives" is the announcement of one store, biggest in New York, doing about $90,000,000 a year.

"Dotted swiss," pigne" and "ginghams" are featured energetically. "Often woman changes," the French say. Real or imitation silks have been the rage; now King Cotton comes back.

If Americans will advertise, and emphasize, "Cotton goods grown and made in America," instead of advertising "British cotton cloth," that will help.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, trusted by farmers, backs President Hoover's farm bill. He opposes the debenture subsidy plan, which would pay a bonus to exporting middlemen, cost the taxpayers heavily, and do the farmer little, if any, good.

Calvin Coolidge, as director of the New York Life Insurance Company, arrived twenty minutes ahead of time for his first director's meeting.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings."
The former President is interested in life insurance, not for profit, but for possibilities of public service. His day's work yesterday paid $50; not much according to present ideas. But it is fifty times as much as Mr. Coolidge's father paid the black-bearded giant who earned in the Coolidge blacksmith shop $1 a day fifty years ago.

Tears and laughter afford relief. Loud laughter, violent weeping, cause the mind to rest and bring temporary peace.

There will be farm-relief laughter in news that railroads have consented to lower freight rates on wheat flour from the Middle West to the Atlantic.

The notion that farmers will get more for their wheat when flour mills pay lower freight bills will make the saddest farmer laugh.

Relief for flour manufacturers is welcome. They are having a hard time, with chain stores regulating their profits.

But charging them ten cents less a barrel for shipping flour will not cause them to give farmers two cents a bushel more for wheat.

Relief for farmers and for many others will come from generally increased prosperity, and especially from sharing national wealth more widely.

American farmers once sold corn for less than the amount of tariff now proposed.

Prisons have changed. One ancient hero, solitary in prison, had to encourage him only the example of a humble spider spinning and respinning a web as fast as it was torn down.

A well known oil magnate, jailed because he wouldn't answer Senators' questions, has the deeper, pleasanter inspiration of a blonde trained nurse.

In the Medical Department of the jail, this blonde lady works for the sick and suffering, and says to her oil man assistant, worth $100,000,000, "Please hand me that iodine," or "Watch how I fix this bandage."

Much can be learned in such an atmosphere.

LIONS URGE GRADING OF POWELL AVE.

Street To North Edge Of Town In Bad Condition, Declared

SEE COMMISSIONER

Committee To Interview Court In Interest Of Plan

A movement to induce the county Commissioners Court to bring the county road grader and crew to Ozona for the purpose of grading the north end of Powell Avenue and putting this street in a passable condition before the opening of the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show was started at the regular meeting of the Lions Club Monday.

The suggestion that this action be taken by the club was made by Rev. W. R. Swinney, and upon action by the club, President Fulmer appointed a committee composed of Rev. Swinney and P. T. Robison to confer with Commissioner Ben Ingham or the court as a whole as they find necessary, with the request that the road crew be placed at work on local streets to get them in condition before the rodeo.

"It is likely that the streets will be thoroughly worked over and put in good condition before the rodeo," one member of the club declared, "but it might not be a bad idea to have a committee call to the attention of the commissioners the condition of the north end of Powell Avenue."

Streets through the city traversed by the Old Spanish Trail are being kept in good condition by the State Highway Department crew but the other streets have been neglected until they are now in a deplorable condition, according to speakers.

Lowell Littleton, clerk in the Ozona National Bank, was voted into membership in the club. The day's entertainment was furnished by Mrs. M. M. Fulmer who played several piano numbers.

Miss Helen Chapman Dances In Sul Ross College Entertainment

(Special to the Ozona Stockman)
ALPINE, Texas, June 19.—Miss Helen Chapman of Ozona, a sophomore student in the Sul Ross State Teachers College here and an active member of the Pioneer Club, danced in three old folk dances which were given at the annual college entertainment last Saturday night. Other stunts, among which was "Wild Nell," were pulled at the affair. "Wild Nell" has been given for the past six years and the part of the hero has been taken by the same boy for the last eight performances.

The entertainment itself is traditional with the college and its main purpose is to get the faculty and students who have been here before acquainted with the new ones. A western spirit of hospitality and good fellowship is emphasized.

FROZEN DESSERT FOUND INTACT IN FRIGIDAIRE AFTER HOME IS BURNED

CHILDRESS, Texas, June 19.—One would scarcely look for frozen dainties in the salvage of a home destroyed by fire, but a quantity of ice cream was found in the smoking ruins of the M. G. Brock home here.

While working with electric connections among the smoldering timbers of the home, employees of the West Texas Utilities Company found a charred Frigidaire and from its porcelain-lined chambers found two trays filled with ice cream and ice cubes. Refreshments were enjoyed by the searching parties.

Scouts Support Urged By Denham

Leader Gives Splendid Report Of Activities At Camp Connellee

"Every man should get squarely behind the Scout movement and see that it is built up to the point where every boy of Scout age in Ozona is an active member of local troops," C. S. Denham, principal of the Ozona High School, declared in a talk before the Lions Club Monday.

Mr. Denham and seven Ozona Scouts returned Thursday from Camp Connellee, on the north Concho River 18 miles from San Angelo, after a week's stay with Scouts from the Ranch District in attendance. The outing of boys from the Ranch District followed a general camp with boys from the San Angelo district attending.

"There was not a dull day throughout the camp period," Mr. Denham declared. "Instructive games and drills in Scoutcraft occupied the time and every boy that attended the camp was well paid for his time, both in knowledge and entertainment. My only regret is that every boy in Ozona of Scout age could not have been present."

Scouting, Mr. Denham declared, is a process by which real men are built from real boys by a real program of boy building. It is the greatest movement ever started for the training of boys toward useful citizenship and should receive the unqualified support of every adult. Mr. Denham appealed to the men of Ozona to get behind the Boy Scout movement and put it over big in Ozona.

Bishop Having Great Time In Colo., Wants "Home Town Paper"

The following letter was received this week from John L. Bishop, superintendent of the Ozona schools, who, with Mrs. Bishop, is spending the summer in Boulder, Colorado:

Dear Mr. White:
I just can't do without the Stockman so will you please send it to me at 1006 15th St., Boulder, Colo. We are finding Boulder to be a very pleasant place—now.
Thanking you for sending the "home town" paper, I am,
Yours truly,
John L. Bishop.

F. A. Gray Suffers Injury When Arm Is Caught In Belt

F. A. Gray is carrying his right arm in a sling this week as a result of injuries suffered Monday when he was struck by a belt on one of his well drilling machines.

The belt had been patched with a piece of metal and in attempting to make an adjustment on the machine the metal patch struck his arm just below the elbow.

The muscle was badly bruised and torn and a deep gash was cut in the muscle of the forearm. Mr. Gray planned to go to San Angelo the middle of the week to have the injured arm examined with the X-Ray.

Seek 5 In Attack On Mexican Youths

One Man Under Suspended Sentence Said To Be Involved

Five American youths are being sought by the sheriff's department in connection with an attack last Sunday afternoon on two Mexicans on the Del Rio road at the point beyond little Mexico.

The two Mexican youths, according to reports to officers, had stopped to fix a flat tire on their car. Finding they had no material with which to fix the tire, they stopped men were riding and asked them the car in which the five young men were riding.

Without further provocation, the report to officers indicated, the Americans got out of their car and proceeded to whip the two Mexican youths with ropes.

Charges of assault have been filed against the quintet and officers are on the look-out for them. One of the men who is said to have been in the party is under a five-year suspended sentence imposed recently by a Crockett County jury in another assault case.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Weaver returned Monday from Dallas where Mr. Weaver attended a Chevrolet school of instruction. He is employed at the North Motor Company, local Chevrolet dealers. They were accompanied home by Miss Maxine Boswell, Mr. Weaver's niece, who will visit them here a few days.

W. J. Grimmer, former head of the Grimmer Motor Company, now the McLeod Motor Company, Ford dealers, has accepted a position as sales and service manager for the Wilson Motor Company here, succeeding John R. Weaver, who has resigned.

and faithful service in Lionism. After serving as a club president he was elected district governor of California, and in 1923 was chosen on the board of international directors. He was elected third vice-president in 1926, second vice in 1927, first vice in 1928, and now president.

Mr. Riley was married in 1894 to Miss Winifred M. Jebb of Battle Creek, Mich. They have one daughter, Mrs. Thelma Marie McKim.

OZONA TEL. CO. REPORTED SOLD TO ANGELO CO.

Confirmation of Change In Ownership Of Exchange Lacking

DEAL IS PENDING

Ozona Exchange Will Be 19th In Chain If Added To S. A. Co.

Negotiations looking toward the sale of the Ozona Telephone Company to the San Angelo Telephone Company were reported in progress here this week. No official confirmation could be obtained from officials of either the Mid-continent Telephone Company of Texarkana, owners of the local exchange, or the San Angelo concern, but the deal was reported to be practically consummated, with final details to be worked out.

If the Ozona exchange is added to the San Angelo company, it will become the nineteenth in the chain of exchanges owned by the San Angelo company. Exchanges outside of San Angelo now owned by the company include Barnhart, Best, Big Lake, Blackwell, Bronte, Carlsbad, Christoval, Eden, Eldorado, Maryneal, Mertzon, Miles, Robert Lee, Rowena, Sonora, Sterling City and Wall.

The Ozona Telephone Company was purchased from stockholders last November by the Mid-Continent Company. The 250 shares of stock in the local concern at that time brought a premium of $40 a share to local stockholders. No information as to the consideration in the present deal was available.

Herrick Johnson, president of the company, was here last week and officials of the San Angelo Telephone Company were also reported to have been here looking over the situation late in the week. Definite announcement of the outcome of the negotiation is expected within the next few days.

Ranchers Advocate Organization For Higher Wool Prices

As a result of the low price which wool and mohair brought this year, ranchmen and growers are considering the formation of an organization or association by means of which they can unite to demand higher prices from the buyers of the east. It is estimated that Texas is one million dollars poorer today because of the lowered price on wool for the past season.

Thursday, June 20, 1929

Revs. Crum and Joyner are having several kinds of fits in their efforts to save a man who killed one policeman and escaped from the penitentiary and killed another—a man who carried two pistols and used them when cornered. There is a Mexican youth in the death cell who killed a companion in a dance hall fight. Surely his case is more to be condoned than that of the double murderer and gun-toter. This Mexican youth has no sermons preached in his behalf. No delegations go to the Governor and no delays are given to study the records. He will be led out and executed when his time comes, although his crime was committed perhaps years after the crimes of others in the death cell who have money and influences to clog the wheels of justice.—Uvalde Leader-News.

The history of Texas is by no means free from the blights of disgraceful episodes but if this arch criminal, Pete McKenzie, is allowed to cheat justice by escaping from the electric chair that he so richly deserves, the blackest, most disgraceful page in Texas history will be written. It is difficult to decide which is the more revolting, the two crimes which McKenzie has committed or the maudlin sentimentality in San Antonio which seeks to save him from paying the penalty for his deeds.

And now once more justice has been blocked and a long suffering public must wait through a court hearing to test this criminal's sanity as another effort to prevent his paying the penalty for the cold-blooded murder of two police officers who were shot down while attempting to do their duty. The lives of two men in the public service were sacrificed, snuffed out at the hands of a criminal, and the maudlin sentimentalist said nothing. But when the law seeks to take the life of this criminal who so wantonly sent two gallant peace officers to eternity, that's a different matter. And then they give the CRIMINAL a SANITY HEARING.

A worthwhile suggestion comes this week from the Lions Club—that the north end of Powell Avenue be graded and smoothed down as soon as possible and by all means before the rodeo, July 3, 4 and 5. This street has been left practically untouched for the last several months and lately has become almost impassable. Great chug holes have been worn in the street and recent rains have carved deep gullies across it until it has become an ordeal to drive along the street in an automobile.

The state highway department graders have kept Broadway and the south end of Powell Avenue, the course of the Old Spanish Trail through the city, in fairly good condition, but the road north is in bad condition and should be remedied.

JINGLE BELLS

BY FRANK R. ADAMS
ILLUSTRATED BY FRANK B. DRUEN

—What Happened So Far—

Tom Bilbeck is the narrator. He is a fat newspaper writer who drives a tumble-down car he calls Grandmother Page. He is in love with Maryella, his rival being Jim Cooper. The three are members of an amateur dramatic group. Plans for a play at the Old Soldiers' Home are under way. Grandmother Page has engine trouble while Maryella is out driving with Bilbeck, and Cooper, passing in a big roadster, taunts him. After Maryella has left Bilbeck is able to start his car again.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

The amateur players are to give "Pygmalion and Galatea" at the Old Soldiers' Home. In their version Bilbeck is to act as the statue, and Maryella despairs when she discovers his bow legs. Mrs. Hemmingway later flatters Bilbeck and talks to him about the play. Bilbeck pats her hand, only to find a rough hand grasping him by the shoulder and lifting him out of his seat.

Mr. Hemmingway does not belong to the club. He is managing editor of the Daily Mail, and has to work nights too often. But he usually calls for his wife to take her home from rehearsals.

We stood in the aisle and glared at one another.

"Why, John!" Mrs. Hemmingway interposed, "I wasn't expecting you for quite a while yet."

"I can see that," he retorted, not taking his eyes from my face. "Now all I want to know is who you are," he shouted at me. "Take off that mask before I yank it off."

His wife stopped him.

"Don't, John. It's Tom Bilbeck. That's his real face."

John Hemmingway's jaw fell. He and I are close friends. We went through all our schooling together, and we belong to the same secret societies. I suppose we have sworn eternal friendship and brotherly love on a dozen occasions. It was partly owing to him that I held down my star job on the newspaper.

"Oh!" he exclaimed, and turned to his wife. "But—"

She had stepped out in the aisle and his eye fell on her costume for the first time. He was speechless—with admiration, I thought.

"What have you got on?" he demanded hoarsely. "Is it anything at all, or have I merely got a speck in my eye?"

"This is my costume for the play," she explained carefully.

"Your costume?" he repeated, puzzled. "Where is the rest of it?"

"That is all."

"All? What do you represent—a clothespin?"

"No."

Mrs. Hemmingway has the virtue and the fault of literalness.

"I am a Greek boy."

"Not any more," her husband stated firmly. "You can quit right here. I won't have my wife parading around in that kind of a—whatever it is."

"It's a Greek tunic."

"It is not," he declared, looking at it more closely. "It's my best silk sport shirt with the neck cut out and a little embroidery around the tails! Go and get on some clothes and I will take you home."

"Oh, John! You don't mean it!" Mrs. Hemmingway was genuinely alarmed now, and feared that he was in earnest.

"This is all for Art."

"I don't care whether it is for Art or for Tom Bilbeck. Go, cover 'em up."

By this time the rest of the company had heard the discussion, which had been conducted in the glad to be able to leave the theatre.

Hemmingway had gone after telling his wife that he would send a taxi to take her home.

The coach came out in front of the curtain to announce that the stage was all set for the third act. "Everybody on stage," he requested. I did not respond.

"Surely you are not going to go away during a dress rehearsal?" said Jim Cooper.

"I really have to go," I replied, and added bitterly: "It doesn't make any particular difference. I believe that you will find the dummy more pleasing to some of the members of the cast, and if you use it I'm sure it will save me a lot of trouble."

"Maryella"—Jim turned to her—"can't you say something to make Tom remain?" He'll do it for you."

Maryella looked at me with a coldly flashing eye.

"I doubt," she hesitated, "whether anything I could say would have any effect. I imagine that his interest in the rehearsal will cease with Mrs. Hemmingway's departure."

I could scarce believe my ears. How could she be so unreasonable? I turned on my heel and made down the aisle for the front entrance of the theatre.

"Tom," some one shouted after me.

I continued my way unheeding.

"Oh Tom!" "Wait a minute!" implored Jim.

I did not answer. If I had I might have said something that I should have regretted exceedingly later.

Some one was coming down the aisle after me. I quickened my pace, determined to listen to no pleadings. Maryella had chosen to bring personalities into it and I would not stand for it, that was all.

I reached the main entrance of the theatre and stepped through a door into the brilliantly lit lobby. A man who was buying tickets at the box office looked up and with a yell ran out into the street, leaving his change behind on the shelf.

Some one opened the door I had just closed behind me. I did not look around.

"Tom!"

It was Jim Cooper's voice.

"Well?"

"I thought you might want these if you are going over to the office." He thrust something into my hands and then hastened back into the theatre.

It was my trousers!

the prisoners who were agitating for an eight-hour day, and some new fox-trot records for the phonograph, or something like that. The warden had not granted their demands, so this jail-delivery practically amounted to a strike. The men who escaped left word that they would not come back until their demands were acceded to.

Of course it was really a lot more serious than that, but I wrote it up in that fashion for the Daily Mail. Not that I felt particularly facetious—far from it; but that is my newspaper style. The public and my employers expect it of me.

What really occupied my mind was the unpleasant recollection of my departure from the Sheridan Dramatic Club and simultaneously

Make Him Happy at Meal Time

There is art in preparing appetizing meals. Three times a day the problem arises. It is a lucky wife, and a smart one, who is able to meet this problem three times a day, 30 days in the month and bring a smile to her husband's face every time he sits down to the table.

Appetites naturally become fagged during the summer months. It takes just a little more careful planning, just a little more variety to make eating a satisfaction.

Our job is to help the housewife meet this problem. We have studied this problem from a grocer's standpoint and our varied stock of foodstuffs shows the conclusions we have reached. Variety—in canned goods, fresh fruits, vegetables and staple groceries—has made the problem easier. Consult our shelves the next time you encounter this perplexing problem.

GENE TUNNEY, AUTHOR

From Italy comes the rumor that Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, who has been visiting with the world-famous playwright, George Bernard Shaw, contemplates entering the literary field.

George Bernard Shaw is said to have given Gene Tunney encouragement in this new ambition. And so the world is to have a new thrill, seeing a dyed-in-the-wool pugilist turn to the gentle art of letters.

Of course, a not altogether new thrill. Almost every successful sportsman has written articles on sports, or had such articles written for him by ghost writers. However, from Tunney we do not expect a story of his experiences in the ring.

For Tunney's mental make-up is different than that of most pugilists. He typifies the new school of athletes, whose minds are developed as carefully as their bodies. Tunney reads and understands Shakespeare and Shaw, and has the friendship of such literary artists as Thornton Wilder.

Tunney evidently wants to become one of the world's classics—and if he should succeed, it will be among the most remarkable phenomena of modern times, for who would have dreamed that a hand capable of delivering knockout punches could also be employed in the delicate art of penning masterpieces. We have yet to see whether Tunney's pen is more powerful than his punch.

DOUBTERS
The doubter is in the woods—a lost man. Doubt breeds infidelity, discouragement, failure, despair. I may not be able to afford a costly automobile; I may deny myself everything in the way of luxury on account of a thin purse and a puny income; but least of all can I afford to harbor doubts.

The halting twin of fear is doubt. Fear and doubt will sink any navigator on the sea of life. Therefore, I shall not permit either of them to board my vessel. But they must be watched—or they will creep in unnoticed; they take possession while we are not looking for them. And, they have a way of growing every time we trip on a snag or a boulder in our path; that, above all times, is when we must shake off the spell of doubt and indecision. If doubt ever got folks anywhere, I could be more lenient toward it; but it doesn't; it never did; therefore I will have none of it.

The man who buys a farm, or a house in town—and doubts his ability ever to pay, is pretty sure to go by default in the end. Look about you, and verify the truth of what I am telling you. Then turn and look at the plodding fellow who never had a doubt in his life—who kept pegging away—and heaped a competence for happy old age!

There is room and plenty for all in this world; you know that's the truth. Nobody ever got his share by doubting. Doubt is my worst enemy; if I kill him on sight he cannot come back to haunt me. There are three stages to failure: Doubt—hesitation—lost! Two to success: Confidence—zeal.

John 15:1, 2, 4, 5. I am the true vine, and my father is the husbandman. 2. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. 4. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. 5. I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit; for without me ye can do nothing.

JINGLE BELLS

from the good graces of one Maryella, eminently desirable spinster. I also had room in my consciousness for an uneasy speculation as to whether or not John Hemmingway really thought that I was flirting with his wife. I could get another job, of course but my berth on the Daily Mail and its allied syndicate was very pleasant and lucrative.

They had to hold the presses for me on the city edition until I returned from the "pen," so that it was after two when I finally left the office to get supper at an all-night lunch-counter. I turned in about three, but didn't get to sleep for an hour or so after that.

It seemed as if I had barely dozed off when my telephone rang. I got up and answered it.

"Hello," I growled.
"Hello, Tom. This is Jim Cooper talking."

I muttered something under my breath.

"Don't swear," he observed pleasantly. "You ought to be glad I woke you up."

"Glad?" I repeated, incredulously.

"What have I got to be glad about?"

"Because Maryella wants to talk to you, for one thing. She asked me to tell you to come over to her home as soon as possible. You see, it is all for the best."

"Go to the deuce," I advised crossly.

"I should be glad to," he was answering in an unruffled tone as I hung up the receiver.

I went back to my nice warm bed, but sleep was effectually routed for the day. My curiosity was aroused.

What did Maryella want? Probably something wherein I would be the nickel-plated goat. I was suspicious.

Still, it was nice of her to make the first move toward reconciliation. In the past that had always been my part. Maybe she knew she was in the wrong and wanted to apologize.

There was only way to find out. I got up and dressed.

After breakfast I walked to Maryella's house. The air was quite cold and a light snow was falling. We had had cold weather before, and there was couple of inches of ice on the river, but this was our first snow-storm.

Mrs. Hemmingway was with Maryella. The huge living-room of the Waite home was littered with sewing materials, endless ruffles and basting-threads. A cheerful fire was burning in the grate.

The two young women were on the floor cutting something out of white cloth. The atmosphere was too happy and industrious for me to preserve my grouch in. I almost regret to say that I thawed at once.

"We're making pads," Maryella explained after I was comfortably settled.

"For me?" I asked suspiciously.

"—for everybody who needs them," Maryella added hastily, interpreting the hostility in my tone.

"For you, for Mr. Cooper and for Mrs. Hemmingway."

"For Mrs. Hemmingway?" I repeated incredulously. "I don't see what she needs of—"

Maryella interrupted me before I could finish.

"Mrs. Hemmingway, who is speechless with modest blushes, wishes me to thank you on behalf of herself and her Creator. As a matter of fact we are not making any pads for her. Quite the reverse, in fact."

"But we are building some for you and Jim."

"You should see the fine large chest we have wished on our husky Greek warrior; and as far as you are concerned—Well, all I can say is that we used Mrs. Hemmingway for a pattern. But that is not what I asked you to come over and talk about."

"No?" with a polite inflection from me.

"No. Did you ever read a story entitled, 'Pollanna'?"

"Not yet," I replied with my best noncommittal manner. "I have heard of it though. What's it about?"

"It's about a great many things," Maryella explained seriously, "but mostly it's the story of a girl who believes that no matter what happens it is all for the best. She is an awfully dear little child, and she always looks on the bright side of everything. It's sort of sad too, because she gets hurt once and nearly dies, but she cheers everybody up just the same and tells them that it is all for the best because it has been a dull season for the undertakers anyway."

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernarr Macfadden

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS THROUGH SELF-CONTROL

In a certain prison there is a young man serving a life sentence. He had been in love with a beautiful girl who was dearer to him than life itself. And because he loved her, he trusted her. His joy knew no bounds. He pictured to himself the glorious married life they would have together. He showered on her every luxury that his salary would permit. And then he found out that she was accepting the attentions of another man. Did he cut her out of his heart as he would have cut out a festering thorn from his hand? Did he say: "good riddance," and thank his lucky stars that he found out what manner of woman she was before marriage instead of after? He did not.

He completely lost control of himself, and his actions were those of an animal who acts by blind instinct instead of reason. He stayed away from his job and lost it. He consorted with loose women. He filled his fine body with poisonous liquor. And finally, in a fit of rage, he went to the girl's house. Carried away by his hate and jealousy, he gripped her by the throat and choked the life out of her body.

Of course he was caught, tried and sentenced to life imprisonment. And there he sits—at an age when most men are starting out on the great adventure of life—waiting for death. He has lost both the girl and his freedom, to say nothing of his self-respect and the respect of his friends. And all because he could not control his passions!

The greatest of all human gifts might be termed self-control. To control others is difficult, but to control one's self is the first necessity of life. When your brain is seething with a white heat—grip the mental reins tightly. A bad temper can, with one sweep, destroy the work of a lifetime. It brings back what it gives out—fierce hatred, resentment, ingratitude, disloyalty. There follow in its wake any number of physical ailments—bad circulation, indigestion, skin disease. . . Its possibilities for evil are unlimited.

So if you have a bad temper, learn to control it along with the other destructive passions that bring their share of pain and punishment. Be your own master. Dominate every phase of your life with intelligent control. And while others about you are losing their heads and making fools of themselves, you will be riding on the crest of the wave. People will admire you and believe in you and business success and personal happiness are bound to come your way.

Don't wait. Begin now—while you are young.

STUDENT TAKES HORNED FROGS TO HOME IN ALA.

FORT WORTH, June 19.—Because there are no horned frogs in Alabama, Paul Howle, junior in Texas Christian University during the long session just ended, carried with him in his handbag four live horned frogs and a bottle of live red ants with which to feed them on the long journey, when he left for his home in Oxford, Alabama.

It was necessary to take the live ants, for a horned frog will not eat dead ants although he thrives on live ones. Howle originally started out with seven of these reptiles, peculiar to the plains of West Texas and to T. C. U., as her athletic emblem, but when he placed them in a red ant bed near T. C. U. to catch their own lunch, three of them escaped before he could recapture them.

Her cheeks like apples which the sun had ruddied.

How many women realize the need for a new type of makeup in the spring and summer? Not many, I fear. And yet the need is indeed important. Just as one's wardrobe requires freshening, a change of color scheme, a new tone and plan, one's complexion needs a different style in makeup.

The mood of spring is different from the mood of winter. Deep shades in rouge and lipstick, fair shades of powder that have made light skins seem dazzlingly white under the bright indoor lights of a winter's social season look out of place in the informal, outdoor type of entertainment that characterizes the spring and summer season.

Clothes become less formal now.

The atmosphere of home and countryside takes on a less artificial, more natural, freer, gayer tone. An interest in outdoor athletic activities is renewed, and with it comes again a vogue for sports clothes in pastel colors, not only for the women who participate in games, but for the fashionable feminine onlooker. With these clothes an average winter makeup seems either crude and glaring or delicately doll-like and artificial in tone.

The spring and summer makeup should be natural—adhering closely to one's own complexion tones. The powder, however, should be darker than she should have worn during the winter, to carry out nature's own idea in turning the skin darker through exposure to the sun.

should be worn with these darker tones are good. Red raspberry is becoming to some types, but the deep rouges with a fuscia or purplish tint are very much to be avoided. Likewise the darker lipsticks. Mascara has little place in the spring and summer makeup except for occasional formal evening functions. Instead the fashionable modern uses a dark eyebrow and eyelash cream, one that softens and promotes the growth of lashes and brows while it darkens them and also permits them to be trained to their silkiest of natural conditions when brushed frequently with a little eyebrow brush.

Ranchers Advocate Organization

The powerful money interests among eastern mills dictates the price which the ranchers will get for their product, and they can do nothing but take it. These "buyers" are sent out with instruction and a lot of hot air about reasons why prices are low.

Mr. Fred T. Earwood, president of the American Angora Goat Breeders' Association, and the largest registered breeder of Angora goats in America today, states that he is highly in favor of some organization among the ranchmen and the warehouse men, whereby the prices on wool and mohair may be upheld to a point where the industry will be protected from combinations formed to control the price on these commodities.

It will be remembered that Kimble County wool brought around thirty and thirty-one cents per pound this season. Like every other big business, it is essential to stick together or go under. The wool and mohair business is a big one; it reaches into the millions of dollars, and it is providing vital necessities to the people of this country. It should be protected from big eastern money interests, and co-operative measures between the growers and the warehouse men will help to bring this protection about.

The Rocksprings Record, which is right in the heart of Edwards County, the greatest wool producing center in Texas, devoted the whole front page of the last issue to this problem. Various opinions of prominent ranchers were expressed, and they all seem to favor some sort of co-operative organization to protect their own interests.

Aside from the menace of lowered prices, the menace of the blow fly is striking terror in the hearts of many of our ranchmen. The blow fly is one of the most destructive pests that infest the industry today. All ranchers are urged to take concerted efforts to help rid this section of the dreaded pest that eats into the profits of the wool producers.—Junction Eagle.

VACATION TIME

No more pencils, no more books, No more teacher's saucy looks!

That's what the school boys and girls used to chant when they began their summer vacations. Nowadays they may chant it out of respect to tradition, but the emotion that inspired such a verse is gone.

For the modern school boy and girl doesn't think of teacher as a person with "saucy looks." The plane of the profession of teaching has been raised to a marvelous degree. New educational methods seek to enlist the cooperation rather than the fear of the pupil. Punishments are less severe and the work is made more interesting. School is not such a bad place after all. . . . Shakespeare's boy going "unwillingly to school" is different from the pupil of today, anxious to learn and play under proper, wise direction.

Nevertheless, the children are all of benefit possible from their summer vacations, so that they may return to school next Fall refreshed in mind and body and ready to do their best.

An Example Of Fine Coachwork Of New Ford Closed Models

The art of the master designer is evident in the smart low lines of the new Ford, and emphasized by the beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

Set against these body colors are the full-nickled radiator, door handles and headlights—smart touches of bright metal that add a great deal to the attractiveness of the car. Running boards and crown fenders are heavy and capable. Cushions are deep and easy. Upholstery is rich, and durable. Newly designed steel spoke wheels carry out the impression of fleetness and sturdiness.

The same quality is evident also on the inside of the car — in the mechanical beauty of the engine, transmission, etc. In appearance and performance, the new Ford brings you everything you want or need in a modern automobile. Call or telephone us for a demonstration.
