LIONS PLAN LADIES NIGHT PROGRAM SOON

Committee Named To Arrange Program For Event

SET DATE LATER

Committee To Work With School Authorities Named

Another Ladies' Night, when local Lions and their ladies will gather about the banquet table for a special program and a pleasant social evening, is being planned by the Ozona Lions Club to take place in the next few weeks.

Decision to stage another Ladies' Night program was reached at the regular meeting of the club Monday. A committee composed of President M. M. Fulmer, Ben Lemmons and L. L. Bewley was appointed by the acting president, W. R. Swinney, to decide on a date for the meeting that will not conflict with other public meetings and to arrange a program for the event.

Revised meetings planned for this season in the three local churches will continue until near Armistice Day, but it is hoped that one evening can be picked between now and that time for the Lions evening banquet.

At this meeting it is planned to invite a few local people who are not members of the club in the hope of interesting them in the work being attempted by the local club, and also the committee plans to invite a few prominent club members from nearby towns.

Appointment of a Public Schools Relations Committee, to act as an intermediary agent between the Lions Club, representing the only local active civic organization, and the public schools of Ozona, was another matter of importance that was accomplished at the Monday luncheon.

This committee is composed of Supt. John L. Bishop as chairman, A. W. Jones and Evert White. It will be the duty of this committee to represent the Lions Club in matters affecting the local schools which might come up for public consideration.

One new member was added to the rolls of the club Monday, the application of Bryan McDonald of the McLeod Motor Company receiving favorable action at the hands of the club.

Miss Lois Riddle, music teacher in the local schools, provided the day's entertainment program, playing a piano solo that was well received. Lion McDonald, the only Lion musician in the local club, played a piano selection in lieu of a speech.

Visitors for the day included Judge Joe Montague, who is sitting on the bench here this week for the first time in his role of judge of the newly created 112th district court, Henry Schooler of Big Lake, manager of the Magnolia Petroleum Company there, and Dan Willis, Crockett County rancher.

Adams & Adams, New Dry Goods, Grocery Open For Business

Ozona's newest store threw open its doors for business this week when L. B. Adams, manager of the Adams & Adams Dry Goods and Grocery announced the formal opening in the Adams building, lately occupied by the Chris Meinecke Store No. 2.

The new store has been handsomely finished inside and out, with new display counters and shelves and a brand new stock of merchandise. The north side of the building is occupied by the dry goods department while the grocery department occupies the south side.

The new store will be operated on a strictly cash basis, Mr. Adams says, and by selling for cash

Four Liquor Cases, One Theft And One Robbery Are Charged

Six indictments were returned by the Crockett County grand jury at noon Tuesday after being in session a day and a half at the call of Judge Joe Montague for the special term of the newly created 112th judicial district in session here this week.

Armour Buys Cubs For "Star Hams" Says Chicagoan

Many a wise crack has been launched at the expense of the Chicago Cubs since their recent unmerciful pounding at the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1929 World Series, but it remains for a Chicagoan to pull the prize crack of them all about the old home town National League Champions.

A. W. Jones, proprietor of the Jones Saddlery Company here, sent an order for some merchandise to Charles Meurisse & Co., Chicago dealers in polo supplies, and as it was during the World Series and fans were wondering what had happened to the Cubs to make them put up such a poor showing against the Athletics, Jones inquired of the Chicago firm as to a first hand opinion on the Cubs.

Owen de Lacey, sales manager for the firm, inserted the following paragraph in an otherwise strictly dignified business letter acknowledging the order:

"We have noted with interest your remarks with reference to the Cubs and would like to state for your edification that Wrigley has sold the Cubs to Armour & Company, anticipating a huge product of Star Hams through them, and also Al Johnson has produced a new song called 'Sunny Boy Wilson'. No doubt you will be able to purchase this record in Ozona soon."

One and a quarter million pounds of wool held by the Wool Growers Central Storage Company will be subject to sealed bid sale at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 5, it was announced Monday by J. Miles O'Daniel, secretary.

Officials of the local commission warehouse, the first to announce a sealed bid sale this fall, expect the Texas crop to amount to six or seven million pounds this year, shearing being heavier than usual. S. A. Time and thus eliminating the usual loss from bad accounts and the maintenance of expensive book-keeping systems, hopes to offer appreciable savings in both dry goods and groceries. All-day delivery service will be maintained, Mr. Adams announces.

HUGE ACREAGE IN CROCKETT, SUTTON LEASED

Humble And Gulf Take 65,000 Acres In 2 Counties

OTHERS GET BLOCK Play By Major Companies Shows Interest In Section

Eastern Crockett county, northern Sutton county and southwestern Schleicher county is the scene of the latest lease play on a big scale in this section of West Texas, two major companies, Gulf and Humble, taking big blocks and other companies checkerboard acreage. The play started west of Ozona and extended into Sutton and Schleicher counties, being along a northwest-southeast trend. The nearest production is the Powell pool in Crockett county, while the showing of high gravity, sweet oil in Phillips-Interstate No. 1 Whitten in Schleicher has had some bearing.

Gulf Production Company is reported to have leased approximately 25,000 acres in Crockett county and 12,000 acres in northwestern Sutton county, while Humble Oil & Refining Co. has leased around 25,000 acres in Crockett. The leases are of the commercial type for ten years without drilling obligations and are bringing in money to owners of large ranches.

Humble has leased land in Crockett county out of the ranches of the late S. E. Couch, Judge Chas. E. Davidson, Joe T. Davidson and F. R. Henderson. Gulf leased the Baggett ranch north of Ozona, the Kincaid ranch and Pleas L. Childress ranch adjoining the Schleicher county line. Another block taken by Humble is the Bailey ranch adjoining the Childress ranch on the north and also adjoining the Schleicher county line.

Independent operators leased the Clayton ranch of sixteen sections adjoining the Childress ranch on the south. William Harold Winn of San Angelo leased the G. W. Stephenson ranch of 13,550 acres north of Sonora and adjoining the Schleicher county line.

In Sutton county, Gulf leased the Mittel ranch of nine sections northeast of Sonora, the Simmons ranch northwest of Sonora extending almost to the Schleicher line, and the Luke Thompson ranch in Schleicher county. Gulf also purchased considerable acreage in southwestern Schleicher county.

Empire Gas & Fuel Company, Delmar Oil Company and Sun Oil Company are among the majors that have taken spreads in eastern Crockett county.

Meredith Leaves To Attend Conference Meet In San Antonio

Rev. J. H. Meredith, pastor of the Methodist church, and Mrs. Meredith, left Tuesday to attend the annual meeting of the West Texas conference which meets at Travis Park Church, San Antonio, Texas. This conference embraces the territory lying between the Gulf of Mexico and Colorado river on the south and east, the Rio Grande and Pecos river on the west and a line along the northern boundaries of Midland, Glasscock and Coke counties on the north intersecting the Colorado river at the corner of Coke county.

The width of the conference is 287 miles and the length north and south, is 378 miles. The extreme points northwest to southwest are 527 miles apart. Should a preacher move from Brownsville on the south to Midland on the northwest he would travel over 690 miles of motor road.

There are 187 preachers to be parceled out to the various churches of the conference at this time. One of the Methodist rules is that every church will have a preacher and every preacher have a church, and some of them as many as six or seven. Several preachers like the one at Ozona has whole counties as their parish. There are 310 houses of worship. There are 50,428 members who paid a total for all purposes last year the sum of $1,379,600.

The Ozona church is sending in a good report this year as is its habit. A good gain in membership, everything paid in full and extra offering made to the Old Preachers Endowment Fund, and to the Hospital at Tucson. And the plan now is to have the church out of debt by the time the preacher returns from conference about Nov. 1. There will be no preaching services next Sunday, it is the one Sunday of the year when all the Methodist pulpits of the conference are vacant except those at the seat of the conference. The announcements of the appointments will be broadcast about ten o'clock Sunday night and those of you who will tune in on San Antonio will know then who the pastor of the Methodist church will be for next year.

Lindy, Mail Carrier For Jones, Is Dead; Dog Poison Victim

"Lindy," the mail carrier, is dead.

Not the Lindy of flying fame, but a ground carrier of slightly less local fame.

Lindy, the Jones-Sadler mail carrier, an unassuming little mongrel whose duty it was to go to office at the home of his master, with several packages grasped between his teeth, became a local institution. He proudly wore a flea-suit and bearing his name and the name of his master in the following manner: "Lindy, I'm A. W. Jones' dog. Who are you?"

A few days ago Lindy was a victim.

A Thought WORTH REMEMBERING

Whatever comes from the brain carries the hue of the place it came from, and whatever comes from the heart carries the heat and color of its birthplace.
 —Holmes.

Another black cloud of disgrace looms on the political horizon of the great state of Texas. The most disgraceful episode in the history of Texas threatens to repeat itself. Jim Ferguson, who has heaped more disgrace upon the people of Texas than any other man in all its history, thinks again to hoodwink the ignorant vote and slip again into the office of governor. He is making the same old uncouth appeal, the same flow of bitter, gutter-snipe language, the same ballyhoo to the ignorant about lower taxes, unattainable reforms and blaspheming the name of the Savior by comparing his wholesale pardoning record with the forgiving spirit of Jesus.

And in that connection, Jim makes the bold assertion in his public statement (which is, by the way, apparently paving the way for his public announcement of his candidacy) that he will make his past pardoning record look sick by pardoning about "2,000 of the convicts for good behavior and tell the rest to go to work and if they make good they may get a pardon too." Another little matter Jim neglected to mention there was "for good behavior—and other considerations."

In his feeler statements, Jim makes the claim that he and "his good wife" are receiving suggestions from friends that one of them announce for governor, and follows with the statement that "we have no desire to enter into any scramble for office," but "if there should be a request of us or either of us for public service which the people are not now receiving, or for a change from present conditions, gratitude and duty will not permit the people's will to go unanswered."

"Public service which the people are not now receiving"—thank the Giver of all things good, and may they never again receive it.

Can NOTHING silence this man? Can there be no relief from the threat of Fergusonism in Texas? Will this cloud forever hang on the political horizon of Texas? Can it be possible that a man who hid behind his wife's skirts draped about the governor's chair and plunged this state into unprecedented disgrace, hope to again hold a place of trust at the hands of the same people? Possibly. We can believe almost anything can happen after the debacle of 1924.

The whole world dropped a knee in honor of the greatest living scientist Monday when people in the four corners of the earth stopped to do homage to Thomas A. Edison on the occasion of Light's Golden Jubilee, the 50th anniversary of Mr. Edison's momentous achievement in perfecting the first incandescent electric light globe.

This, one of the greatest moments in the history of the world, was re-enacted Monday night in Dearborn with Henry Ford and Edsel Ford as hosts and with the nation's great assembled to witness the ceremony and to honor the man who has given so much to the world in the form of scientific discoveries and inventions. In the Ford museum in Dearborn, Mr. Edison, now 82, again fondled the apparatus which on October 21, 1879, produced the first glow of the filaments in a glass globe and gave to the world the incandescent electric light. Mr. Edison re-enacting the final stages of the experiment in the presence of President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Owen D. Young, Henry Ford, Edsel Ford, Madame Marie Curie, discoverer of radium, and others who are prominent in world affairs.

On this occasion, cablegrams of congratulations and good wishes to Mr. Edison were read from the Prince of Wales, President Von Hindenberg of Germany and from Commander Byrd, now in "Little America" at the southernmost end of the earth.

The observance of Light's Golden Jubilee, described as the greatest honor and tribute ever paid to a living man, still fell short of expressing the gratitude of the world to Mr. Edison for the blessings he has brought to it. The world can not express its gratitude to Mr. Edison, but it is well that the great of all nations paused on this Golden Anniversary to do homage to the greatest inventor of all time.

WISE RULES

The New York State Conservation Department has made eleven wise rules for the prevention of hunting accidents.

As men take to the field and wood, these rules deserve wide circulation. They are sensible. All hunters, in every part of the country, would do well to follow them. We print them herewith:
 "Never carry loaded guns in automobiles or other vehicles. "When afield hunting birds, keep abreast of and know the exact location of your companions.

"In leading never point a gun in the direction of your companion. "In climbing over stone walls and fences, first break or unload your gun.

"A bird quartering to the right in the vicinity of your hunting companions should never be fired on by a hunter on the extreme left or vice versa.

"Never leave a loaded gun standing against a tree or lying on the ground where a dog may get at it. "Always keep your gun pointed away from your companions when you stop to talk.

"In handing a gun to a person for inspection, be sure it is unloaded.

"Never shoot in the direction of your companions because you consider yourself a good marksman. You are taking a dangerous chance.

"Carry a gun pointed down to the left. If you shoot left handed walk at the extreme right of the party.

"At all times be careful."

The Town Doctor (The Doctor of Towns) Says

MOTOR TRAFFIC versus FACTORY PAY ROLL

There is no denying the value of factories to any community. New industries and more industries should be constantly strived for but many cities overlook or fail to recognize the real value of automobile traffic.

There are thousands of cities and towns with a population of from 10,000 to 40,000 with an average of 25,000 tourist cars per week (cars more than 100 miles away from their home garage). The potential cash value of 25,000 such automobiles per week amounts to an average of $26,000 per town, regardless of the size of that town. The business secured from this mode of traffic is good business; the money is good money. Merchandise purchased by those comprising the motor traffic is always a cash transaction; goods once purchased are seldom, if ever, returned or exchanged, and there is less overhead per individual sale. But it is not only the amount of business or the amount of money that is to be considered when a comparison is made with a factory pay roll.

Thirty per cent of a factory pay roll is spent outside of the town through purchases made by mail, going to the next nearest large town to purchase, and other known practices that keep the earned cash out of local circulation. It has been stated that a dollar of outside money is worth one dollar and ten cents of inside money. Therefore, a town located on a highway, or highways that carry an average weekly traffic of 25,000 cars, has in that traffic a cash asset equivalent to a factory in the town with a pay roll of approximately $2,000,000.00 annually.

It is true that factories bring new people to a town, but so do highways; in fact, 20 per cent of the motoring public is in the market (Continued on page 7)

Good Will

That intangible something which a few of the largest manufacturers set in their Balance Sheet as an asset which runs into six figures. Something which represents an actual value, yet which is hard to sell to a successor on a tangible basis.

Good will is not based on Price Consideration. It is not based on any one man in any establishment. Nor can it be pinned down to any one great quality.

A business house takes on the form of a single unit. The entire personnel, from the stock boy to the check signer, becomes as one, and as one, it is judged.

The house policy can not be set and adhered to by the manager. Every member must coordinate in their attitude toward the firm. Oftimes we are judged by what we think of ourselves.

Ours is not a territory which would care for a six-figure good will asset, but we do claim a four-figure consideration.

Every member of our firm is loyal to the core, and that means they are loyal to YOU, our customers. Because, you see, YOUR best interests become ours. There is not a "clock watcher" in the house. That indicates their interest in You. They are willing to stay as long as you need them.

For that reason we ask no more of them than they can do well. Seven days a week would wear them out utterly, and a worn-out body cannot be over zealous to your interests.

"Business goes where it is wanted"—We want your business if your good will goes with it—"And stays where it is well treated"—We Go The Limit To Please You.

Millions of Miles of Constant Testing to maintain the outstanding quality and dependability of The Chevrolet Six

In spite of the fact that a million Chevrolet Sixes have already been placed in the hands of owners, and have proved their performance and stamina by billions of miles of service over every type of highway the nation affords—

—the Chevrolet Motor Company continues to take new Chevrolet Sixes from the assembly line at the factory and subject them to pitiless testing on the roads of the General Motors Proving Ground!

This passion for proof—this consistent refusal to accept any tests as final—is one of the fundamental reasons for the overwhelming popularity of Chevrolet cars. For in no other way is it possible to make the Chevrolet Six so sound in design and materials—so dependable in performance—and so economical to operate!

If you are considering the purchase of an automobile, come in and see the new Chevrolet. You will find that it is more than a Six in the price range of the four. In every way it is a finer car than you ever thought possible in the low-price field!

Remember Steddon, a pretty, unsophisticated daughter of a narrow-minded minister.

Rev. Doctor Steddon, violently opposed to "worldly things," denounces the movies.

Dr. Bretherick, an elderly physician, and a friend of the Steddon family, is astonished at Remember's condition as the result of an unfortunate affair with Elwood Farnaby, a poor boy and son of the town sot. They have been in love since childhood but Doctor Steddon is opposed.

Remember is persuaded by Dr. Bretherick to go West after Elwood is killed in an accident, using a bad cough as an excuse.

On the train going to the West, Mem meets Tom Holby and Robina Teele, movie stars. The train stops, narrowly escaping a wreck.

At Tucson Mem is met by Dr. Galbraith. Later she writes that she has married "Mr. Woodville" and leaves Tucson for Yuma.

Mem does a small part in a movie with Tom Holby and Robina Teele, then goes to Palm Springs to work for a storekeeper.

At Palm Springs she meets Mrs. Duck and her son, Terry, with whom she becomes intimate. Later, going to Los Angeles, Mem gets work in a studio laboratory. Later she loses her job then her mother comes to visit her.

Mem went to see Tirrey, a casting director, and impresses Claymore so that he decides to give her a trial.

Then the lights went out and there was a wait while Mike ran along the gallery parallel, with tweezers in his gloved hand. When Mike was ready the camera man shouted: "Hit 'em! All right, Mr. Claymore!" Mr. Claymore called "Music, please!"

And Mem found herself in a sea of blazing radiance tremulous with a shimmer of music.

She went back to the door and nodded when Claymore's "Are you ready?" penetrated the myth realm from far away. She heard him murmur: "Camera! Action!" and she heard his voice reciting an improvised libretto for her pantomime.

"You've come from your dark cell! The light blinds you! You begin to see the angry public, the cruel judge. You flinch. You fall back. They are going to sentence me to death!" They are hissing me because I loved too well! But my little baby! They said I killed him! They can't know how I loved him! How I felt his little hands on my cheeks, his lips at my breast and how I suffered when his cheek grew cold! O God! I prayed for his life even though it meant eternal shame! But he is gone! My lover is dead! What is this world to me! Wring your hands! Look at the judge! Draw yourself up! Defy him! That's it. Now let the tears come. My baby, I am coming to you! My baby!"

She heard his voice wailing and trembling like the vox humana stop the village organist used to pull out for the sake of pathos. It was maudlin, unforgivably cheap and trashy, yet it was the truth for her as for millions of other girls. It was trite because it had broken so many hearts.

She felt a fool, a guilty fool. The music, the lights, the director's voice—all, was insanity. But it swept her heartstrings with an Aeolian thrill and they sang with a mad despair.

But Mem had been schooled all her life to keep her hands down and to avoid flourish, to take short steps and to keep her waist and hips stolid. Though the fashions of the day gave her short, loose skirts, no corsets, free arms, she might as well have been handcuffed and hobbled and fastened in iron stays, for all the freedom she used.

Claymore made her run, with longer and longer stride, head and touch the floor, fling her arms aloft, take the steps of a Spanish dancer and a Spanish vixen. But she was unbelievably inept.

"I wish I had the courage and the kindness to give you a Belasco training," he said. "You know he testified in court that when he trained Mrs. Leslie Carter for her big war-horse roles, he had to break her muscle-bound condition. He threw her down stairs, throttled her, beat her head against the wall, and chased her about the room. She told me herself that she learned the Declaration of Independence by heart and spent hours and hours repeating it as glibly as she could. Every time she missed an articulation she went back to the beginning and recited it all over again—hundreds and hundreds of times. That's how she learned to deliver great tirades with a breathless rush, yet made every syllable distinct. That's how she learned how to charge about the stage like a lioness.

"To be a great actress is no easy job. You've got to work like a fiend to exercise your arms and legs and your voice and your soul. If you will, you've got a big future. If you won't you'll slump along playing small parts till you lose your bloom of youth, then you'll slip into character parts and go out like an old candle."

The upshot of this ordeal by fire was that Mem was recognized as a star yet to be made—if, indeed, her nebulous ambitions should ever be condensed into solid achievement.

Claymore felt that she had a future. He told her so. But he told her that a period of hard labor lay between her and that paradise.

Theirs was an exceedingly curious method of getting acquainted. Teacher and student became as much involved in each other as Abelard and Heloise at their first sessions.

Claymore offered her a lift home in his automobile. It was quicker than the street car, but it seemed far quicker than that. They chattered volubly of art theories and practices. They did not realize how long the car stood in front of her bungalow before Mem got out, or how long he waited after she got out, talking, talking, before he bade her the final good night.

Her mother realized it, peering through the curtains, and Leta exclaimed:

"Good Lord! The minx has the director eating out of her hand already. She'll get on!"

She met Tom Holby on the lot one day. He had been asked to come over and talk of a possible contract with the Bermond Company. He greeted Mem with effusive enthusiasm and she warmed at the pride of his recognition. Then she felt a little twinge of conscience—an intuition that she had no right to be so glad to see Mr. Holby, since now she fancied, she belonged to Mr. Claymore.

One day when a little scene was being filmed in which Mem was the only actress, the rest of the company being excused for a change of costume, a visitor from overseas was brought upon the set, a great French general.

The publicity man suggested that the general might like to be photographed on the scene. He laughed and came forward with a boyish eagerness. When the picture appeared in newspaper supplements about the world it was stated in each of the captions that the great warrior had said, "Remember Steddon is the prettiest girl in America."

More amazing yet, Mem first learned of this astounding tribute from her astounded father.

The news came in a letter from the man Mem and her mother loved and dreaded. As Mrs. Steddon opened the envelope in all the awkwardness of guilt, two pictures fell to the floor. They were in the brown rotogravure of the Sunday supplements and presented Mem standing at the side of the French general. Both stated that he had called this promising member of the Bermond Company "the prettiest girl in America."

Mem and her mother gathered themselves together as if they had been dazed by a rip of lightning from the blue and waited for the thunderbolt to smash the world about them. They read the letter together. It began without any "Dear Wife" or "Dear Daughter." It began:

The enclosed clippings were sent me by members of my congregation who were sojourning one in New York and one in Chicago. It is hard for me to doubt the witness of my eyes, but it is almost harder to believe that the wife of my bosom and the daughter reared in the shelter of our home could have fallen so low so suddenly. Before I write more I want to hear the truth from both of you, if you can and will tell it.

The Reverend Doctor Steddon was something more than a father to his daughter, something more than a husband to his wife; he was also the high priest of their religion.

But Mrs. Steddon had grown up with her husband and had seen his tempers goad him to too many mistakes. She was merely angry at him now for a burst of wrath, while Mem cowered before him as an inspired prophet.

Finally, in a frenzy she went to her table and wrote her husband an answer to his letter:

Dear Husband—I am ashamed of you for writing such a mean little note. Yes, I am proud to say that our daughter is an actress and is doing fine work. If you are not proud of her it is because you don't know enough to be. You will some day, you'll see.

She is working hard and earning lots of money and I'm going to stay down here as long as she needs me. I guess you can get along without me for awhile. If you can't, come on out and see for yourself how wrong you are. I hope your next letter will be an apology. Mem would send her love if she knew I was writing. Your loving Wife.

When this tiny bomb exploded in Doctor Steddon's parsonage it produced an outstanding effect. The old devil fighter was not afraid of all the legions of hell. He could even face his richest pew-holder without flinching.

But he was arraid of that little wife of his. She alone could scold him with impunity and by the mere withdrawal of her approval cast a cloud across his horizon. He was in an abject perplexity.

Have a job and get a job. To him that hath—

Remember Steddon's first picture was approaching its finish.

She had already been acquiring a little name. Gossip of every sort was rife, and some of it was flattering. The word floated about that "Steddon was making good

... our Faith in You!

THE electric light and power system in many towns represents the heaviest industrial investment in the town.

Present day utilities of electricity in domestic and commercial life calls for great power generating stations and costly distribution systems. When selecting factory locations, big industries first ascertain if uninterrupted electric service is available.

When a company invests millions in generating stations to serve a group of cities and towns it is certainly a concrete indication of the company's confidence and faith in the towns.

The West Texas Utilities Company has built three major generating stations, and maintains 15 auxiliary power plants, to give unfailing service to the 110 prosperous cities, towns and communities on its properties.

This company is vitally interested in the progress and development of every community it serves. Your success is its success therefore it is one of your most active civic boosters and one of your most substantial citizens.

Beauty is Nature's brag, must be shown in courts, at feasts, and high solemnities. Where most may wonder at its workmanship. —Milton.

WHEN HUMAN INTEREST IN BEAUTY CULTURE BEGAN

In order to trace the very first interest manifested by women in the development of personal beauty, one would have to go back to the very beginning of time. From extensive research, I find that there never was a time when people were not interested in beauty culture, although the varying standards of the different ages must naturally have seemed ridiculous to each succeeding generation.

The Atlantians in 2300 B. C. have handed down to later generations the earliest reputed records of the use of cosmetics. The Chinese civilization brought about a pursuit of beauty that amounted almost to a religion. One of the manifestations which persisted in later years in China was the custom of binding feminine feet in order to keep them tiny. This seems to us such a cruel practice, and yet the Chinese women never protested, accepting this as a part of the daily routine. Our very ancient ancestor in America, the pre-historic Indian, thought a misshapen skull the highest form of beauty. Skulls were actually deformed in infancy and despite the danger of such operations these Indians lived to a ripe old age.

When some people today deplore the modern woman's intense interest in personal charm, they are ignoring the fact that this interest in beauty is an inheritance of woman which has been handed down to her for thousands and thousands of years. As for woman's right to be interested in beauty culture, I can only refer you to the Bible—to the "Songs of Solomon" dated 1014 B. C. "When Jehu was come to Jezebel, Jezebel heard of it, and she painted her face and tidied her hair and looked out the window."

Certainly modern woman can do no better than to follow the sage behavior of Jezebel.

BAPTIST W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Dunlap Wednesday afternoon. An interesting program on "Stewardship" was given, with Mrs. M. M. Fulmer as leader. Following the program, refreshments were served the following: Mesdames Chas. Coates, Cal Word, John Pettit, S. L. Butler, J. T. Keeton, Jas. Patrick, W. S. Willis, Ray Dunlap, C. J. Watts, W. A. Kay, M. M. Fulmer, E. M. Fulmer, Sr., E. M. Fulmer, Jr., of Idabel, Okla.

BOYISH FIGURE IS DANGEROUS ASSET SAYS HEALTH DR.

To the "teen age" girl the fad for a boyish figure is fraught with very real danger, according to Lewis E. Bracy, Executive Secretary of the Texas Public Health Association.

"Perhaps mothers and aunts on the uncertain side of forty need to count calories and carefully eschew large quantities of pastry and potatoes," said Mr. Bracy, "although even for them the advice of a physician should be sought before 'reducing' is undertaken."

"The ages between 20-24 show the highest tuberculosis death rate of all ages. Physicians are unanimous in blaming lack of rest, scanty clothing and dieting fads for this condition. They say the young girl is not likely to break down from tuberculosis in her twenties if in her 'teens' she gets enough sleep—is not overworked under unhealthy conditions, and has a diet of good plain wholesome food, including a warm nourishing breakfast. She need not fear that any loss of beauty will result from a few pounds added, for her clear skin, shining eyes, glossy hair and abundant 'pep' will make her popular and successful."

The Texas Public Health Association is engaged in a year 'round campaign for the promotion of better health among children. On the staff of the Association are a public health nurse and a child health education director whose services are available to schools and committees upon request. Also on the staff are a Mexican and a Negro health worker, especially trained for health work among their races. All of the work done by the Texas Public Health Association, which includes, not only child health and racial health work, but also general health education toward the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, is financed through the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. These seals will be sold in every county in Texas from Thanksgiving Day until Christmas.

Here's How

BY E. W. HOWE
"The Scribe of Potato Hill"

STUBBORNNESS AMATEUR WRITING DRUNKARDS

A reader asks: "What actuates a stubborn man?" Answer: Meanness; Scare him sufficiently, and he will come out of it.

I find satisfaction and value in the writing of amateurs. Their halting fear of an audience appeals to me, and I am more readily disposed to approve than when I pick up a book of an old professional like Bernard Shaw or H. G. Wells. Both these men (and most of the noted) display contempt for us readers too frequently, whereas by reason of our great number, we have accomplished more than the few authors with all their skill manipulating the make-up box. . . . I find very good things in amateur writing. I have before me a modest book by Alfred Hitch, published by that author in the usual amateurish style, from which I quote samples: Virtue is its own reward; anything else is a bribe. . . . Not to fear is not courage, but insensibility. Courage is to fear and still attempt. . . . The possible always happens sooner or later. . . . The less people have in themselves the more they seek the society of others. . . . The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam celebrates that disgusting trait in men to get drunk when anything goes wrong (whereas adversity is the precise time one should remain sober). It is not strange that in the custom of "treating" a friend, the custom is to offer him poison that should go to an enemy? . . . Dogs are dogs whether they are under or on top. The only immortality of which man is worthy would be that of preservation in alcohol with other reptiles and insects; and two or three specimens would be enough. Give me facts, and I will not ask for truth. . . . The Russians and Germans cheerfully followed their sovereigns through pillage and murder, and turned from them only when they failed.

I have never been able to understand a drunkard. Every man may be pardoned for making a fool of himself occasionally; and, if a man is behaving when we hear of his folly, it helps with the public. But treacherous; he punishes himself every week or every day, and knows the loss is greater than the profit; not one drunk in the many he has indulged in has paid him. Therefore how does such a man satisfy his conscience? An old drunkard tells me the exhilaration of a good stiff drink of whiskey lasts forty minutes. For such exhilaration one pays with a busthead lasting several hours; in the case of a drunkard, he pays with the contempt of everybody. Unless heir to a fortune, he accepts the unnecessary disgrace of failure and poverty—and even if born with a silver spoon in his mouth, he soon spews it out, and substitutes pewter. What is the philosophy of the drunkard? Or of the idler, the bore, the dead beat, or other persistent violator of rules of human society? They have excuses, but usually these are mostly exercise in the trade of liar, wherein one insults himself with injury.

My liver wasn't active and my whole system seemed full of poisons. My husband was taking Sargon and I saw it was doing him worlds of good so I decided to try it.

"I can eat anything I want now and my stomach never bothers me. That terrible aching in my side is gone and there isn't a rheumatic pain in my body. Sargon Pills regulated my liver and drove all the poisons out of my system, without nauseating or upsetting me in the least. with Bermond's."

The Bermond Company, when her picture was finished, agreed to "rent" Mem to a new company that was to make Tom Holby a star. He had earned the elevation, and this meant that he and Robina Teele would part company—at least upon the screen.

When Mem read of this flattering plan in an evening paper her heart gave a hop. She was not sure just what the excitement meant within her there.

She did not want Tom Holby for herself, yet she did not want to see any other woman land him.

Claymore obtruded upon her meditations. She was under obligations imposed by his devotion.

He tried to be particularly aloof professional, and directorial in his conduct with Mem, lest the company discover his infatuation. But his love was less and less content with courtesy alone. The very effort emphasized what he sought to hide, and the whisper went about that Claymore and Steddon were thicker than thieves.

He persuaded her now and then to stroll—anything to get her away from the eyes and ears of her mother and her housemates.

The Town Doctor Says—

ket for or can be sold a new location. The publicity value obtainable from the average factory that can be secured is nothing compared to the publicity and good will that can be obtained through the motorist.

In the past, cities, communities and towns have offered all sorts of concessions and inducements to obtain new factories and no doubt there will be many towns that will continue to do so. There are many communities who lay claim to the fact that they will not offer concessions, but in most cases, the temptation is too great, it seems, and when it comes to the point that some other town in the immediate locality offers a bonus to secure a new industry, other towns do likewise: in some towns it is the purchase of stock, others furnishing of a free factory site, free light, water or power, but in practically all cases, there is some inducement of a bonus nature that is offered.

There is a town in one of the central states that recently raised $100,000 and donated it to a shoe manufacturer as a bonus for the locating in their town of a factory with a pay roll of $1,000,000 in ten years. Figure the percentage paid for the business, with no guarantee that the business of this particular concern would not slump, the factory thereby being closed, or that any of a dozen other things might and could happen.

This same town had a motor traffic the value of which, on a comparative basis, exceeded this ten-year pay roll every year. Yet, there never had been any attempt to capitalize on it—business which was at their very door—a virtual gold mine that required only initiative and exercise of the mind to be turned into a reality.

Every city and town in the country has diligently worked, connived and maneuvered to get hard roads, but after getting them, many are sitting back with their hands folded across their laps, apparently blind to the "acres of diamonds" that these roads have made possible. This may be likened to a merchant working overtime for weeks to prepare for a gigantic sale, expending thousands of dollars in advertising to induce the people to come to the store on a specified day, and then failing to open up on the morning of the day designated.

If your town is not getting its share of this business, the reason lies within your town—it may lie you. If your community is not getting more than its share, it is because you and your town are not going after it.

Business from motor traffic is not hard to get. Apply the same principles that a modern merchant applies to getting business for his store and the results will be satisfactory. It is a problem of modern business, and modern business is a problem of selling.

Your town may not have a traffic of 25,000 cars per week, but half—even one-fourth of 25,000 cars, is traffic enough to make it well worth your while to do something to get it. Get sold on the place where you live and then sell it to every motorist that travels through your community.

Screened Hospital For Sheep and Goats Aids Worm Fight

Pearsall—A screened hospital with a capacity of 15 to 20 sheep or goats at one time is part of the equipment on the ranch of C. L. Saunders in the western part of Frio County. It is used to aid in curing cases of screw worms, E. Mortensen, county agent explains. By keeping the animals in this hospital during daylight hours one treatment for the worms is sufficient. The hospital is 12 by 20 feet in size and high enough to stand in. It is screened on the sides and top, and a brush shade provided on top to keep out the hot sun.

"Yes, thank you," she said. "I'm Gladys Zell," she replied.

GOODYEAR

DOUBLE EAGLE — The Tire of Tires

Like great "cleats" or "spikes" on the soles of a mountain-climber's shoes, those big sharp-pointed, sharp-edged and extra deep-cut cross-blocks of tough rubber DOWN THE CENTER of a Goodyear DOUBLE EAGLE tire, dig in and take hold on the slipperiest pavements or the worst roads.

Here is THE tire for you who cannot always "pick" your roads—who MUST GET THROUGH. A SUPER-edition of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread which for more than 20 years has proved the world's safest and best tread.

Compare these deep-cut "cleats" with the "sled-runner" ribs of shallow indentations you see IN THE CENTERS of other treads.

Come in and examine a DOUBL EEAGLE. Let us show you the one and only tire on the market that is built 100 ojs without a cost limitation of any kind.

 in the Jones household. Lindy was question.

FIRST NORTHER HITS

The first north of the season swept down on Ozona Tuesday and sent the temperature down several notches but failed to reach the freezing point. It did succeed, however, in sending residents to the attic to drag out last year's overcoat and sweater, and possibly, in some cases, the elongated and more intimate garments said to be particularly suited to the wintry drafts.

Scott Peters, Pleas Childress,
 Lee Wilson and Tom Smith formed a party of representatives from Ozona who appeared before the Highway Commission at Austin
 Tuesday in the interest of highway improvement in this country.

Miss Ruth Cavender and S. D.
 Vicks were united in marriage at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at for X-Ray burns received while undergoing an operation in San Angelo for removal of a piece of steel from his shoulder. The X-Ray burn was received ten weeks ago and he is still in bad condition as a result of the injury.

The Baptist Ladies announce they will pack the Fall Box for Buckner's Orphan's Home next Wednesday at the church. Those having garments for the box they wish called for, please call Mrs.

 W. A. Kay, phone 135.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carson and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Oberkamp have returned from Dallas where they purchased the furniture for the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Carson.

Mrs. Boyd Cox of Rankin is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Fern Wednesday at the church. Those
