WINGLESS HENS
EAT MEAT
HARRASSING HOOVER
WE ARE CANDY EATERS

This is real news. Dr. Renwald, poultry expert in Nebraska, says he has produced a breed of wingless hens that also lack toenails. They lay, but can't fly, can't scratch, can't be ardently interested in motherhood, having no wings to shelter a brood.

Such hens, being saved the trouble of moulting the difficult wing feathers, should go on laying all year round producing 300 eggs a year.

To separate female usefulness from psychological disturbances like moulting would be marvelous, in poultry, and among the primates.

The Artic explorer, Stefanson, and a companion, Anderson, have lived for a year on nothing but meat, eating enormous quantities. Physicians say their health is better, their resistance to disease strengthened.

Let vegetarians muse on that. The rock in 1,000 million years produces soil, with the aid of earth worms.

The soil, after more centuries, produces grass. The cow eats grass for three years, digesting it slowly. Man eats the beefsteak in fifteen minutes.

Great labor-saving device. Give your children meat.

President Hoover, great engineer, has been kept busy since his inauguration by prohibition problems.

Now he is asked to develop and enforce new blue laws. The blue law gentlemen want Washington made into a "Blue-Law Paradise," that the city may be an example to the nation.

Poor President Hoover, listening to six speeches in favor of Snaday blue laws, all in one day, must wonder when the country will allow him to do some engineering.

After all, preventing Sunday golf in the District of Columbia is NOT as important as the Boulder Dam or flood control.

In the last six months Americans have eaten more than six and a half billion pounds of sugar. Prohibition helps that. More candy is sold.

The country this year will use thirteen billion pounds of sugar. If the tariff increase costs but two cents a pound, that will cost the public $260,000,000.

The city of Colby, Kansas, again votes not to tax anybody or property, real or personal, in the city.

Colby owns its power, light and water plant. Profits, which go to the city, make taxes unnecessary.

In fact, because of surplus profits, the water rate is reduced 25 cents this year.

ROAD WORKER IS BRIDEGROOM AT 62; BRIDE IS 17

W. C. Latham Weds Miss Wilma Rasco Here Tues. Morning

W. C. Latham, 62-year-old road worker in Crockett County for the last six years, styled himself the "happiest road-worker in the United States" Monday morning following his wedding to Miss Wilma Rasco of Lamesa, 17 years old.

The wedding was performed at 9 o'clock Monday morning by W. M. Johnigan, justice of the peace, in the presence of the young bride's mother, Mrs. J. E. Rasco, and Mr. Latham's niece, Mrs. Artie Planagan.

MOTORCADE ON O. S. T. TO STOP HERE OCT. 9TH

Florida To California Trek To Be Entertained Here

PROGRAM PLANNED

Chuck Wagon Dinner And Special Features Planned

Ozons again will be host to a transcontinental motorcade over the Old Spanish Trail next month when the Trail Motorcade from Florida to California passes through this city.

The cae will be guests of Ozons for an hour and a half on October 9th, according to Harrell Ayres, managing director of the Old Spanish Trail Association, who was a visitor here Monday and Tuesday making arrangements for reception of members of the party composing the motorcade.

The motorcade will leave St. Augustine, Florida, on October 2 and will arrive in San Diego, California, on October 14. Florida backers of the event have promised that at least 100 cars will leave that state, while others are expected to join the party along the route.

The party is expected to reach Ozons shortly after 12 o'clock noon on October 9th, Mr. Ayres said. Plans for appropriate entertainment of members of the party to be worked out between now and the date.

Suggestions have been made that Ozons provide a barbecue dinner, or chuck wagon dinner for the short period the party will be here. Mr. Ayres was unable to stay here long enough to meet with the citizenship of Ozons, but urged a few with whom he conferred to urge the people of this community to turn out and give members of the cae a "Royal Texas Welcome."

"Members of the California-to-Florida motorcade who passed through here recently talked all the way to Florida about the hospitality they encountered in Ozons," Mr. Ayres declared. "Although the motorcade encountered some misadventures west of here and did not arrive until late at night, a group of your citizens had waited up to receive them and had arranged a free banquet for them. That impressed the Californians of the real hospitality and the speakers at subsequent stops did not fail once to mention Ozons."

"That's the kind of reception we want you to give the Florida-to-California motorcade, although we hope we do not encounter misfortune that will make it as difficult for you again. But the point is that this is an opportunity for Ozons to help herself and to help the Old Spanish Trail. This motorcade will gain nation-wide publicity for the Old Spanish Trail and for the towns along the route and we are anxious that the program along the whole route be as impressive as possible."

A telegram will be dispatched this week to O. H. L. Wernicke of Pensacola, Florida, chairman of arrangements, inviting the motorcade to be guests of the people of Ozons and advising something of the nature of the entertainment that may be expected here.

FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. L. B. Adams entertained the Friday Bridge Club at her home last week. Those present were: Mesdames Wayne West, Early Baggett, Tom Smith, Ben Robertson, Bryan McDonald, S. M. Harvick, Arthur Phillips, Leta Hawkins and Evert White, and Misses Hester Bunker and Mary Augustine. Punch was served during the party and ice cream and cake at the close.

Rev. W. R. Swinney, who has been conducting revival meetings in Texas and Oklahoma during the past several weeks, returned last week to resume the pastorate of the local Church of Christ.

Pate Hitch-Hikes To Texas Prison

Man Sentenced Here Takes To Road To Start "Stretch"

Hitch-hiking over 400 miles of Texas highways for a thrill or for a pleasure jaunt may be satisfying to some adventurous natures, but when a man hitch-hikes that distance to begin his "stretch" in the state penitentiary he is either showing an unusual penitence or is trying to make the jury which convicted him sorry of their act.

Whatever his motive was, that's exactly what Bill Pate did. Pate was convicted by a jury in Crockett County district court on a charge of assault to murder in connection with a knife attack on Lindsey Maynard here last year, and was given a two-year sentence in the state penitentiary.

The time having elapsed for filing an appeal from the verdict and no appeal having been perfected, local officers began to search for Pate to remind him of his two-year debt to society of the state of Texas. But Pate had scorned their hospitality and a free ride to Huntsville and elected to hit the high road to Huntsville, to catch rides if possible, but if not, then to depend on his own "dogs" to carry him through.

He was evidently fortunate in getting the rides, for information has reached here that he had arrived at his destination and found pen authorities ready to receive him.

Lemmons Dry Goods Co. Employs Expert Advertising Man

Franklin K. Foss, expert window trimmer, card writer, interior decorator and advertising manager has accepted a position with the Lemmons Dry Goods Company of Ozons.

The local store might attain better window displays and proper interior decorative arrangements, Mr. Lemmons has engaged Mr. Foss in a thorough rearrangement of the interior of the store and plans to change the window displays regularly, thus putting the Ozons store in a class with stores in the largest cities.

Mr. Foss has lately been conducting schools for window trimming, card writing, advertising and interior decorating and is considered one of the best artists along these lines in the state.

The half-page ad appearing in The Stockman last week and the quarter-page in this issue were laid out and written by Mr. Foss. He has had many years experience in ad writing and knows the department store and dry goods store business thoroughly. He puts real store news into his ads and is mapping out a consistent program of newspaper advertising for the Lemmons Dry Goods Company, to keep the local customers of the firm posted on all the late style developments, new merchandise, special bargains, and the like. Watch for the Lemmons ads in The Stockman.

DOCK LEE TO CAPTAIN GRID SQUAD OF '29

Lions Organize On Opening Day Of School Term Monday

28 IN PROSPECT

More Good Material Shows Up On Opening Day

Dock Lee, a fourth-year veteran and half-back on last year's squad, was chosen by his teammates as captain of the 1929 Ozons High School Lions at a meeting of the squad at the high school Monday afternoon on the opening day of the 1929-30 term of school.

Dock has played a consistent game on the gridiron and has displayed a leadership in past years that suggested him as the logical leader of this year's team.

With a possible 28 men coming out for practice, Coach O. G. Lewis is confident that he will be able to shape up a winning aggregation of this year's squad. Eight veterans of last year's squad will form the nucleus of this year's eleven and there is some promising material among the last year's sub list.

No games have yet been scheduled by the locals, but the season's opener is expected to be arranged within the next few days.

On account of the long distance between towns on the extreme ends of this district of the Interscholastic League, efforts are being made by Coach Lewis and other leaders in the district to divide the district into west and east halves, the district championship to be decided by a play-off between winners in the two halves.

If this arrangement is made, Ozons will probably meet teams from Sonora, Eldorado, Junction, Fredericksburg and possibly Kerrville, although the latter city may be shuffled to the eastern half.

Other towns in the district include Marble Falls, Llano, Bertram, Burnet and Menard.

12 Veterans Form Nucleus For 1929 Varsity Grid Squad

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Sept. 4.—Opening of fall training for the 1929 football season at the University of Texas will see Coach Clyde Littlefield with a nucleus of twelve letter men around which to build his squad. "Mac" Burnett, Curtis Beatty and Gordy Brown will report for duty on September 10; "Ox" Higgins and Henry Mills are other line veterans who will return. Tommie Birdwell, Walter Howie and Jim Underwood will come up to the Varsity team from the freshman squad of last year. "Slats" Youngblood, a junior college transfer will also be on hand.

"Big 'Un" Rose and "Rut" Vining will doubtless get first chance at the end positions on Littlefield's line-up, filling the places left vacant by the graduation of "Wild Bill" Ford and "Dusty" Rhoads. Frank Cheatham, Lester Peterson and Henry Easterling will also be considered.

Backfield material is plentiful. Dexter Shelley, "Pap" Perkins, Nona Rees, Eddie Beular and Claude Meadors are the five outstanding candidates. In addition to these, four backfield men will come up from the freshman squad, Andy Brown, "Dutch" Baumgartner, "Shag" Laughlin and "Ur" Hodges. "Bull" Elkins and Doell are junior college transfers who will provide additional backfield material.

Coach Littlefield will start his third year as football coach, and many are expecting him to repeat his last year's record of walking off with the conference championship. He will be assisted by Line Coach Bill James and Backfield Coach Marty Karow.

10 Pct. Reduction In Electric Rates

Utilities Co. Announces Cut In Rates In Group West Tex. Towns

In line with the policy of the West Texas Utilities Company, rate reductions in 11 cities and towns in this territory were announced from the office of the company here today.

Residential rates were reduced immediately, will mean a saving to the electric consumer of approximately 10 per cent. Due to mass production, a modern system of more than 2,100 miles of transmission lines and increased consumption of electric current, the rate reductions are made possible, according to a statement issued from the office. Over the next three years there will be a very material reduction in electrical rates throughout the properties of the West Texas Utilities Company. It is the policy of the company to reduce rates in groups of towns at intervals.

"Under the new incentive rate it will be possible for the electric consumer to use almost twice as much electricity as he formerly used at but a very slight increase in cost. It will be possible for the home owner to leave his lights burning when away from home, to leave lights burning in the front of the house when he is in the rear, and to use more power to operate the scores of labor-saving appliances all with but little additional cost," the statement said.

The newest school in the county, that at Live Oak, opened with a total enrollment of 15 pupils. Mr. Bishop was informed. No reports have been received from Pecos Valley Power & Light Company school.

The opening exercises for the 1929-30 session were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning in the auditorium of the Methodist church, which was packed to capacity for the occasion. The exercises opened with the singing of "America" and prayer by Rev. J. H. Meredith.

Angelo Fair Sets 17th As Ozons Day

City Is Invited To Put On Special Program For The Day

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 4.—Ozons is to have a special day at the thirty-fourth annual West Texas Exposition, to be held in San Angelo, Sept. 16-21, Tuesday, September 17th has been designated by officials of the organization as Ozons Day. It was announced this week.

Because the West Texas Exposition is exactly what its name implies—a West Texas Exposition for West Texans—those at the head of the fair feel that it is nothing but right that each town be given a special day during the fair.

"This does not mean, of course," said L. E. Horton, president, "that West Texans will not be welcome in San Angelo throughout fair week, but it means that each town in West Texas is to be specially recognized, as the fair belongs to each town in the section just as much as it does San Angelo."

Mr. Horton said that the fair officials will be delighted to have these towns take a big part in the fair, and on the special days he said special stunts, delegations, bands or other features to boost the individual town would be welcomed.

"There's one big thing that we want to stress," Mr. Horton said, "and that is that the West Texas Exposition is a West Texas fair, for all West Texans, and that it will not be a success unless every West Texas town co-operates."

An expenditure of approximately $30,000 is placing the grounds at San Angelo in perfect shape to take care of the fair crowds. A mammoth grandstand of steel construction has just been completed and in order to take care of the 150 race horses expected for the fair, 120 new stalls have been built within recent weeks. Considerable work has been done on the race track, in order to give the horses every opportunity to demonstrate their greatest speed. Other improvements have been made at the grounds to insure adequate facilities for all visitors.

SCHOOLS SHOW BIG HIKE IN ENROLLMENT

Approximately 10 Per Cent Gain In High And Grade Schools

CROWDED OPENING

Methodist Church Packed For Exercises Monday Morning

Although final figures for the whole county were not available, a big increase in enrollment in schools both in the city of Ozons and rural schools in the county is indicated at the opening of the 1929-1930 term, according to Supt. John L. Bishop.

An increase of approximately 10 per cent was registered in the high school and grade schools here, Mr. Bishop announced. The high school had an enrollment of 82 pupils, an increase of about ten over last year's enrollment on the first day of school. The grade schools showed a total enrollment of 212 against a total of 201 last year. There were 71 enrolled in the Mexican school, eleven more than last year's total.

The newest school in the county, that at Live Oak, opened with a total enrollment of 15 pupils. Mr. Bishop was informed. No reports have been received from Pecos Valley Power & Light Company school.

The opening exercises for the 1929-30 session were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning in the auditorium of the Methodist church, which was packed to capacity for the occasion. The exercises opened with the singing of "America" and prayer by Rev. J. H. Meredith.

All new teachers in the grade and high school were then introduced by the superintendent, who acted as master of ceremonies. Among the new teachers introduced were Miss Carolyn Fox, who taught expression here two years ago and will again act in that capacity this year, and Elbert Sadler of Oetina, Texas, who will be in charge of the manual training department, both of whom were added to the faculty at the last minute and whose names were not announced in last week's paper.

After several announcements and a short talk by Judge Chas. E. Davidson, the exercises closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. W. R. Swinney.

Rev. Robt. Ekrut, who has been filling the local Baptist pulpit in the absence of Rev. M. M. Fulmer, sang a solo number which was enjoyed.

Judge Davidson complimented the fine appearance of the pupils assembled for the opening of the year's work and renewed, on the part of the school board, its promise to make provision in the near future for a new school building.

The increased enrollment this year has added to the overflowing condition of the high school and authorities are having to use every inch of available space in order to take care of the increase, it was declared.

A Thought
 WORTH REMEMBERING

The evidence of nature is worth more than the arguments of learning.—St. Ambrose.

The golden rule should apply in business the same as in any other aspect of life. With some persons it does, but with others a dollar can quickly switch the viewpoint.

Believing that the future of Ozona depends upon the business life of the city, that a town prospers and progresses as its business firms prosper and progress, and that live, modern business houses are essential factors in the development of any community, this newspaper has always advocated the "Buy at Home" slogan, and has given liberally of its space the only thing that a newspaper has to sell, in an effort to point out to the people of this community the advantage that would finally accrue to them if they should buy from Ozona merchants everything they need that it is possible to obtain here.

In other words, The Stockman has waged a relentless campaign on behalf of the business interests of Ozona in an effort to drive home the point to its readers that when they buy at home they are spending money with a home merchant who is ready at all times, within his means, to put that money back into circulation here toward realization of some local community project, possibly some hobby that you, his customer, is advocating. Not only is the local business man willing to donate liberally to any community development project, but he keeps home money at home in many other ways, taxes, current expenses, charities, etc.

Those are facts that The Stockman has tried to bring out in its campaign for the merchant, to educate his customers to the "Buy at Home" idea, that the merchant might prosper, that through his prosperity the town might progress along the lines of expanded business capacity, more community improvement projects, etc., and that the people at large might realize an advantage in lower living costs through greater local business volume, a prettier, better place in which to live, and in the personal satisfaction that comes from living in a town of which one can be proud.

Now, here's the point to the observation about the golden rule. Last week a salesman for a mailorder printing house away out in California visited Ozona. He called on these business houses in Ozona, the same business houses in whose behalf The Stockman has waged a three-year "Buy at Home" campaign. He sold them printing, took their check for his commission and they will pay the balance due at the postoffice when they get their order.

The Stockman operates a modern commercial printing department in connection with the newspaper. True, the local shop is not as large as some in the big cities of California, but we make the statement that the Ozona Stockman is as well equipped, with as modern machinery, as any shop its size in the state of Texas. True, The Stockman printing department may not be able quite to meet the prices offered by big shops in the larger cities whose volume justifies specialized automatic machinery, but we invite you to compare our prices with any shop of its size in the state and even with the shops ten times its size in San Angelo. Any business man knows that volume controls prices, and, volume considered, we invite comparison of prices with ANY shop.

But be that as it may, the fact is that several local business houses, not all of them by any means, purchased this cheap printing, sight-unseen, paid the money on the barrel-head for it, sent their money to California to return no more, and if there is an error in the work when they receive it, if it is not as represented by the salesman, if it is inferior workmanship or materials, it is their hard luck; the printing house and the salesman have their money—try and get it back.

Cash with order, quantity orders only, no rush jobs and salesmen penetrating to every corner of the nation, sending in orders—and—CASH—that's the secret. The local print shop may take the leadings, the small-run jobs where every print shop takes a loss, 30 to 90 days on the books, and print free editorials in its paper every week urging home people to patronize home merchants.

But we will say this in justice to the greater part of the merchants of Ozona, that most of them practice what they preach, and do most of their buying at home where it is possible. The Stockman printing department gets a fair share of this business, does its utmost to please them, and to accommodate them, takes a fair price for the work and spends every dime of it, with the exception of that which goes to the wholesale paper concerns, in Ozona. The Stockman will continue to print editorials urging "Buy at Home" because we believe in it, believe it is the solution of many a community problem, but we do hope that the few business concerns who have forgotten temporarily the mandate of the golden rule, will read them and put their preachings into practice.

OZONA—20 YEARS BEHIND

Yes, it costs more but who wants to go back to the conditions of 20 years ago, with the dusty streets, no gas, poor electric service, no sewerage system and so on. Anyway, there is something to show for the money spent.

About the oldest of arts—The Baking process that transforms the raw product into tasty and healthy food.

The old order changeth and instead of mixing the dough with his feet, the modern baker churns it with machinery. Instead of guesswork, he watches gauges for temperature. And always there is the Giant Organization of the Fleichman Company, ready and eager to assist in any problem.

The New Baker has learned that too much substitute means too small a volume of sales. Hence, corn-starch loses its significance in the supply department.

No longer does a pinch of this or that satisfy the demand of accuracy. Scales that break with a milligram of weight are a constant partner to the working bench.

The whirr of machinery, the clanking of pans, the roar of the baking fire, all go into the making of your bread and cakes. A room standing at a hundred and four degrees almost constantly. A baker dripping sweat at every pore. The helper, with that set face that bespeaks aching muscles. The flash of the peel blade as it darts in and out the yearning, hungry oven door.

And then the silence of rest. The mixer folds its hands and drifts into a peaceful sleep. The cake machine, the merriest of them all, giggles one last time and bows its head. The pans, sturdy and strong, talk awhile of tomorrow's work, and the oven heaves a sigh of relief.

Every bite of bread you eat is a morsel of industry. Every one of those most excellent cakes you buy, is a monument to man's ingenuity. Every GOOD BAKERY produces a refined and cultured product, of which it may justly be proud.

Ours is a GOOD BAKERY. We do not hesitate to recommend it to you, because we know you will appreciate a master's art. "Bread is your best food, eat more of it."

FINAL INSTALLMENT

"Wait a minute," I said. An idea had struck me. "I have a friend up in the next coach who will pay my fare."

"All right, let me meet him," the conductor was frankly sceptical. I led the way with some misgiving across the swaying platform to the smoking car ahead.

Yes, Julius was still there, his back turned toward us. Evidently he was greatly contented with his lot in the world.

I crowded into the seat in front of him.

"Sufferin' cats!" the cigar fell from between Julius' lips.

"Yes, it's your old pal, Tom Blackwell," I said reassuringly, at the same time drawing down my left eyelid.

Mystified, he preserved a discreet silence. He had no way of knowing what my next move was going to be.

"Julius," I said heartily, "I find that I have come away from home without any cash, and I want you to pay my fare."

Julius laughed a hearty, ringing laugh.

"Me pay your fare? I don't know you from Adam."

I leaned over and whispered in his ear. "There's a sheriff in the next car behind," I said. "If you pay my fare I won't tell him you are on the train."

It was a long shot, but he had no way of knowing whether I told the truth or not and it won.

"Why didn't you say that in the first place?" Julius said heartily, reaching down in his pocket and producing a roll of bills, one of which he handed to the conductor.

"Where do you want to go to?" asked that worthy.

Julius looked inquiringly at me.

"I am going with this gentleman," I said to the conductor.

Julius grinned his appreciation while the conductor made change and when he was gone he eyed me sardonically.

"What do you want?" he asked. "You or the pearls," I replied evenly.

He sat in silence for some time digesting this. Finally he grinned.

"How do you think you will get the pearls?" he asked at length.

"Perfectly simple, my dear Julius," I answered patronizingly.

"All I have to do is to go to the postmaster of your town as soon as this train gets in and ask him to hold all mail addressed to a man by the name of Julius something or other. There can't be many Juluses, and I will be pretty sure to get the right package."

"Darn clever," he admitted. "It would work, too, if I had addressed that package to myself, but I did not. Besides my real name ain't Julius."

He leaned back and surveyed me with an impudent smile. My face must have shown how crestfallen I was at having my scheme overthrown. I wasn't much of a detective after all, not to have thought of this simple device for evading me. Now I had betrayed my plan to him and it was worthless.

"Don't be downhearted, pal," he said encouragingly. "You've done pretty good for an amateur, but I am too old a hand for you. I have been up against this game too often."

He was still telling himself how good he was when our train came to a slow stop. We both looked out to see if it was a station. It was not. We were in the midst of a snow-piled prairie.

"What the deuce is the matter?" Julius murmured anxiously.

Every one was asking the same question, turning to one another in the aisles.

Finally some one got out to see, and returned shortly with the information that we were stuck in a snow-drift with every possibility of staying there for some time.

After we had waited quite a while I had a new idea. I got up and started down the aisle. "You ain't going to leave me now, pal?" asked Julius. "You better keep an eye on me if you ever expect to see me again."

"I'll take a chance on that," I assured him. "You've got a fair chance of getting away in this kind of a country with the snow eight feet deep."

My action in deserting him evidently puzzled him, but he did not follow.

With most of the other male passengers I got out and walked toward the head of the train. They went on to see how badly we were stuck, but I stopped at the railway postoffice car. The mail clerks in the car apparently welcomed a slight vacation before they got to the next town, and they were not averse to talking to a picturesque stranger like myself.

I gained their attention by an explanation of how there came to be only one leg to my pair of trousers, and I kept them interested by telling them about the robbery of the pearls. When I explained that the booty was in their own car in a parcel post package mailed at Fair Oaks, they were eager to help me.

"It will be a comparatively simple matter," said one of them, "to find all the packages which were mailed from Fair Oaks. I do not believe there were many. It will be against the law for us to let you examine them, but you can

Why You Need Your Tonsils

Modern science has accomplished wonders. And in the brain of man marvelous thoughts have been born. But man and science put together will never achieve the miracles that Nature performs daily as a matter of course.

Consider the human body. Neither science nor man has ever succeeded in making a machine that anywhere near approaches it in delicate construction and perfect coordination. True, we cannot always understand why Nature does certain things, nor why she has implanted into the human body certain organs. Tonsils, for instance, to us, they appear useless. And yet, isn't it logical that Nature, noted for her precision, put them there for a definite purpose? Did you ever know her to work in a haphazard manner?

Whether or not you approve of tonsils, the truth is that they perform a very necessary and thorough job. Tonsillar tissue forms a complete ring around the throat. Practically everything that enters the body through the mouth has to pass this ring, which picks up everything of an infectious nature and destroys it. A marvelous safeguard!

But what has happened when the tonsils are swollen and inflamed—when the doctor says: "They must come out." The explanation is simple. It simply means that the tonsils have encountered a too powerful infection and in order to put forth the greater effort necessary to conquering it they require a greater supply of blood. They become literally gorged with blood and naturally they swell up and become redder. Sometimes this infection is so severe that the tonsils cannot cope with it and the tonsillar tissue is called "diseased tonsils" and most likely you will have them out.

Such a procedure is as sensible as taking out of the barrel the few spotted apples on top, without going down to the bottom of the barrel and finding the one spoiled apple that is causing all the trouble. "Diseased tonsils" are the result of some faulty body condition that must be located and treated. They have been overworked in a way that Nature never intended. They are not the "breeding grounds of germs."

So you see, the tonsils, like every other organ of the body, require normal physical condition if they are to function properly. They need healthy blood circulating through them, and healthy blood is produced only by clean living, proper natural foods and sufficient exercise and sleep. Tonsils are traps. And as traps they must trap something. That something is the ordinary poisons that enter the mouth. Introduce any foreign element, such as nicotine, alcohol, drugs, etc., and you will soon have a fine case of chronic tonsil inflammation.

Don't blame the tonsils. You wouldn't expect a mousetrap to hold a bear!

He to whom your soft lip yields And perceives your breath in kissing All the odors of the fields Never, never shall be missing. —Wm. Browne.

Perfumes and summer have an undeniable kinship. The nature scents are never sweeter or more alluring than at this fragrant season. And not unnaturally the woman who values charm and daintiness adds to her flower-tinted wardrobe nests of new, flower-scented sachets; to her dressing table the atomizer, summer perfumes and toilet water which will enable her to rival the freshness and allure of her surroundings. In selecting summer perfumes it may help you in your choice to remember that a light flower or bouquet scent is much more desirable for hot days than a heavy cloying oriental scent.

Heavy thickly sweet fragrances convey an illusion of heat. A rain-drenched lilac has a fresh delicate scent infinitely more delicious on a warm day than the heavy sweetness of a tuberose or narcissus.

The same principle holds true of your own perfume. An exotic languorous blended scent is much less successful than a faint fresh flower odor.

Some "sartorial" women even banish their perfume bottle at the first sign of summer weather and use only Toilet Water, a light diluted perfume water that is delightful to use on the hands and face in an atomiser or in the bath.

Let me warn you that the scent perfume cannot be used to disguise the odor of perspiration so be sure before you spray a flower essence on your gown that you have scrupulously attended to the use of a deodorant which will keep you immaculately fresh throughout the day.

Experiment a little with the dainty, not too lasting summer scents and select one that not only pleases you most but that best expresses your own daintiness and personality.

ICE CREAM In 30 Seconds

With The

GENERAL ELECTRIC GARDNER Half-Minute Freezer

Fastest Ice Cream Freezer In The World

The Gardner Half-Minute Freezer requires a minimum of ice compared with the old-fashioned freezer, to operate efficiently. One filling requires five pounds of ice to freeze one gallon of ice-cream or other frozen desserts.

The Gardner Half-Minute Freezer is versatile—it will make a pint of ice-cream, then a pint of sherbet, then a pint of ice, and then another pint of ice-cream if desired. It takes up and freezes all of each mixture poured into it.

For instance: If a hostess desires to serve several different frozen desserts—ice-creams, sherbets or ices of different flavors and colors, she may have her freezer packed ready for use, wheeled to the table on the tea wagon, with small pitchers of various differently flavored ice-cream, sherbet and ice mixtures on the tray ready to freeze, and serve her guests the flavors and the desserts they may select. The various flavors do not become mixed in the freezer. They each freeze separately and may be served separately.

The Gardner Half-Minute Freezer is almost indispensable in the home to interest children, who may not care for cocoa, milk or chocolate, as usually served, but would eat it in frozen form.

The Gardner Half-Minute Freezer is most necessary in hospitals and sick-rooms where cool, appetizing desserts are required. Ice-cream is generally conceded to be wholesome and nutritious.

The Gardner Half-Minute Freezer is simply wonderful for use at picnics. You merely pack your freezer and take it with you, together with the mixtures of ice-creams and other frozen desserts you intend to serve and freeze them right on the spot.

Bakery Products

... of the Better Kind

When you eat bread or cakes you have the right to expect a nutritious food. Bread, when properly baked, has more food value than almost any other food—body building elements that you can get from no other food. But when bread is not baked properly, it does more harm than good to the body—just added waste that the body must eliminate without benefit.

Baking good bread is an art. It requires knowledge, experience, quality materials and modern equipment. All of these elements go into the making of each loaf of bread and each cake made in our bakery. Flavor and food value are tests of good bread. Try ours and see how good knowledge, experience, quality materials and modern equipment can make bread.

Delicious refreshments consisting of pressed chicken, potato chips, stuffed olives and iced tea were served.

ENROLL FOR MEN'S RIGHTS

Now there is a world organization called Aequitas, formed to fight for Men's rights.

It is housed in a fine old Vienna palace and its members are 25,000 suffering males who have been driven by the tyranny of femininity to join forces in the hope of preventing the further subjugation of men.

The Aequitas says that women have always ruled France, that women voters outnumber the men in England, and that the United States is completely under the domination of the ladies.

The Aequitas admits it does not want to reestablish the tyranny of the male. (Evidently that is considered a hopeless task.)

The program of the Aequitas if carried out, would make it impossible for women of means or women capable of self-support, or women who leave their husbands within three years of marriage, to get alimony. Divorced women would be denied the use of their husband's names.

There are other purposes of this movement for Men's Rights. But it is rather timid, milk-and-water movement. For example, many American men are in it. But they refuse to make their names public! They're afraid. And who would not be?

Herbert Thompson of Ballinger, nephew of Taylor Word, arrived Sunday for a few days visit here.

The regular meeting of the Ozona chapter of the Eastern Star will take place on the 3rd Tuesday night of each month.

make a memorandum of where they are being sent and you can trace the address that way."

That was even more than I had dared hope. It is rather difficult to get Uncle Sam's clerks to do any thing out of their routine business and the mail is an especially inviolable department.

After a few minutes search they showed me a dozen packages which had come on at Fair Oaks. All but three of them were addressed to a mail-order company in the city, and two of the remainder were obviously books.

That left only one package under suspicion. It was about six inches long and eight inches wide, with a depth of two or two and one-half inches. It was a little bit heavy but was doubtless the one I was searching for.

"All you have to do," the mail clerk said, "is take this address to the postmaster when you get to the city and have him hold this for identification."

"I thanked the boys and returned to my car.

As I had rather more than half expected, Julius was not there, nor did I ever set eyes on him again. I did not care. I had the pearls once more; or at least I had them where I could get them. They were really safer in the mail-car than they would have been in my own possession.

After half an hour of delay we got under way once more, and shortly arrived in town. I went direct to the post-office just as I was.

CHAPTER XV.
The Pearls At Last

Although the postmaster at first regarded me with suspicion, owing to my motley garments, I explained my connection with the Daily Mail and gave him enough of my story to arouse his interest.

He sent for the package under suspicion and assured me that he would keep it personally until I arrived with Maryella to identify the pearls.

I went to my own room and changed to a suit of regular clothing. Then I telephoned the Old Soldiers' Home to see if Maryella had gone back there. Colonel Stewart informed me that the entire party had left to catch the afternoon train and that Maryella was in Fair Oaks waiting to be joined by the others.

When the train came in I was down at the station to meet them.

Maryella was expecting me, and her eye sought me anxiously in the throng that was waiting in the station. I greeted the others perfunctorily and drew her to one side.

"I have located them at the post-office, but you have got to come over and identify them."

She squeezed my hand. "Oh, Tom," she said sweetly, "you are wonderful!"

I swelled with pride as I disclaimed any special credit for helping her out of her predicament. I hailed a cab and together we went to the post-office. The postmaster was expecting us and we were immediately admitted.

The box lay on his desk, and after a short explanation from Maryella he opened it.

It contained twelve beautiful, large eggs!

We left the postoffice absolutely crestfallen. I had been so positive that that package contained the pearls that I would have staked my life on it. How had Julius fooled me again?

Maryella was crying softly at my side.

"What shall I do?" she moaned. "How can I ever tell Mrs. Hemmingway?"

I was too humiliated by the failure of my plans to be very fertile in offering suggestions. I felt that I was in more or less disgrace with Maryella once more, and I had planned to ask her to marry me when I restored the necklace.

"I'll tell her if you want me to," I offered. "At least I can do all the disagreeable work, even if I was not very bright."

"Oh, will you?" Maryella smiled wistfully. "That will make it a little easier. I don't know how I can replace them, but I suppose that if I work my fingers to the bone all the rest of my life, like women did in the story about the diamond necklace, I can replace them before I die."

"But the diamonds in de Mau-passant's story were only paste. Maybe Mrs. Hemmingway's pearls were only imitation."

"No such luck," moaned Maryella, "these were real."

We took a cab to the Hemmingway's house to get it over with as soon as possible.

We got there almost as soon as they did. They appeared very happy, and were even nice to me; which was more than I expected, considering the way they had felt toward me during the last couple of days.

While Maryella stood tearfully by I told them the story of the necklace and how we had traced them and discovered only the package of eggs. Mrs. Hemmingway heard me through without interruption, smiling sympathetically. At the end she laughed.

I gazed at her anxiously. Was she going insane at her loss? No, her amusement was genuine.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she said at last. "That I caused you so much trouble; but here are the pearls."

She reached into her hand-bag and produced the strand, lustrous and satiny against her throat, around which she clasped it.

"Why, how did you get them?" stammered Maryella, confused. "I saw them lying on the dresser the night that John came back to the Old Soldiers' Home, and as I knew you were through with them I picked them up."

It seemed simple enough, and Maryella and I laughed with relief as we went down to our cab once more.

Once inside, she laid her hand on my arm and said: "Anyway, Tom, it was splendid of you to make the effort you did and I will never forget it."

"Never?" I asked.

"No." "Not even after you are married to Jim Cooper?" I asked gloomily. She laughed. "No, because I am never going to marry Jim Cooper!"

"Not marry Jim Cooper!" I repeated. "Then whom are you going to marry?"

"That depends entirely upon you," she said and I started a traffic cop by making my next remark in pantomime.

We went out together the following week after the snow had melted and operated on Grandmother Page for a new pump gear. She was absurdly grateful, and didn't stop once all the way home, although it took us nearly three hours to make the trip because it is hard to drive using only one arm.

It's all for the best!

Friends Hard To Handle—Don't Welcome Sin—Learning The Ways Of Women

There used to be a man who told me I should marry again, and had a woman picked out for me. Somehow I could never squelch him. I had known him so long, although I had never intimated to him that I needed such advice. His assumption that I needed his assistance was extremely distasteful to me; no doubt he spoke to women unknown to me, and made me ridiculous, but I could not help myself. Fortunately I am rid of this man, as he died some time ago, but others remain to keep me sufficiently humiliated. One of the heaviest burdens of my life has been numerous persons among my acquaintances who make a fool of me, and I have never been able to get rid of them. According to my standards they are grossly impolite, but they seem to have friends and prosper. I get along well with active enemies; they at least only scowl at me, and they finally quit talking about me behind my back—but I cannot handle some friends so successfully.

I am firmly convinced that the most sensible effort in which man may engage is to do the best he can with such powers as Almighty God or heredity has given him. There are so many weak and unfortunate that I cannot help them all, but may I help myself? . . . I must eat to live, and food is contrary and malicious. At 9 a.m., when suffering distress from unwise or overeating, I resolve to do better thereafter, but four hours later, with agreeable friends at table, I forget the solemn warning and resolution of the morning . . . With my striving I make a little progress. Am I a fool for not making more, or have I inherent weaknesses of body and mind that tie me helplessly to sin? Some say they can pray for strength, and receive it. Others say they are able to exercise their will, and overcome evil; but I have observed that both these boasters are usually as weak as I am; so generally so that their methods do not impress me. . . . Is sin the seed planted in man who inevitably destroy him at eighty, or earlier? . . . Anyway, I am able to regulate it a little, to my advantage, and shall persevere; I am still convinced that there is most comfort in life for those who resist sin as much as possible, instead of welcoming it.

I often think of a saying by Napoleon: "I will be compelled to go to school again," he said, when contemplating his second marriage, "to learn the ways of new woman." . . . Napoleon was a king; the girl he was to marry a princess of a subject nation. She had been brought up in the simple German way; she had been assigned him for breeding purposes (and I do not say this in an offensive way, but as a mere statement of fact). . . . Why did he not say to this girl as he said to his subjects: "Learn my ways." . . . Well, the most powerful man cannot do that with a woman. Let a king arrange for intimate association with a peasant woman, and he has another war on his hands. He is no longer king of his country or of himself. He has divided his regal power; he may be a Senate of the firm, but must wrangle with the House before his acts are constitutional.

Glad She Heeded Advice Of Friends

"I am so happy over the wonderful benefits received from Sargon that I will always be grateful to my friends and relatives who insisted that I take it.

"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble and everything I ate caused great distress. I even thought I had heart trouble. Billiousness caused dizzy spells at times I thought I was going blind. I had awful pains in my back, legs and arms and was so nervous I hardly ever got good sound sleep. I was always taking some strong laxative for constipation, but never got any real relief.

"Finally I started Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills and my relief was almost immediate. My appetite is now splendid. I never suffer with indigestion and those terrible pains have gone. The pills regulated me perfectly and relieved my billiousness and constipation.

"I could talk all day and never praise Sargon half enough."—Mrs. Julia H. Mata, 2101 Commerce St., San Antonio, Texas. Sold by Ozona Drug Co., Agents

Scouts Return From Cave Trip

Rev Meredith Describes High Points Of 600 Mile Drive

By J. H. Meredith
A little after the peep of day on Monday of last week twelve scouts, the "Devil" from the Stockman office, and the sky pilot from the Methodist church started in Ben Ingham's truck for Carlsbad Cavern. The "Devil" was the driver, the "Sky Pilot" the cook and the boys furnished the entertainment. We sure did attract attention, everybody along the road knew we were going by, and read the sign on the side of the truck "OZONA BOY SCOUTS"

"Biggest Little Town in the World" And no one ever questioned it. When they looked at that bunch of boys they no doubt wondered what the men of Ozona were like. If there was any time when more than two of the crowd agreed on what to do next we don't remember it. Finally we stopped for dinner north of Balmorhea under some cotton wood trees, beside an irrigation ditch.

Soon after dinner we struck some fresh graded road and found a fellow stuck in the loose dirt and sand, and the boys remembered their Scout teaching of "A good turn daily" and pushed the fellow out. We visited the ice plant at Pecos and discovered an old citizen of Ozona who filled the boys up on ice water and snow, which we found to be much cheaper than the cold drinks for sale along the road.

We arrived at White's camp, five miles from the cavern, in time to get our supper and camp made by dark, and all turned in early. The boys performed well while asleep, and enjoyed the night under the stars. Breakfast over, we drove the five miles to the cavern, enjoying the scenery up the canyon very much. You will see few places more rugged than this drive, even in the noted drives of the Rockies. We spent the day from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. in the cavern. It just defies description. You will have to visit it to get any idea of its magnitude and beauty. We carried down with us a lunch which we ate at noon.

After leaving the cavern, we visited Carlsbad and camped by the swimming beach which was enjoyed by the boys. Here we had the first accident. Joe Friend saw a big carp and yelled, "Watch me catch 'im," and dived after the fish. But this fish must have been some relation to the one which swallowed Jonah, at least he was on the defense and fished Joe in the hand, which made a very painful wound. Next morning the boys swam, ate breakfast and took a boat ride before starting for home. Just as we were crossing the state line, as we were returning, John Simms' hat blew off and just as he jumped from the truck, the preacher opened the door of the cab and John struck it with his arm, causing a very painful cut. We had the casualties treated by a doctor at Pecos.

At Carlsbad we met a woman who formerly taught school here. Her name was then Miss Manning and she sent her regards to her old friends of Ozona.

The boys had good appetites as the following list which was prepared for one meal will show. Here it is: 5 pounds of bacon, 2 dozen eggs, 4 large cans of pork and beans, 2 large loaves of bread, 1 pound of butter, 3 quarts of canned peaches, 1 can of strawberry preserves—and there was not a bean left.

While swimming this side of Ft. Stockton, a part of Harry Matthews' wearing apparel disappeared. Whether a goat ate them or a cow chewed them up or some boy got on two pairs has not yet been revealed. Anyhow they're gone.

We got home Wednesday night about eleven o'clock, tired and sleepy but feeling we had seen one of the greatest natural wonders of the world.
