OZONA INVITED TO MOTORCADE WELCOME FETE

Citizens Urged To Attend Dinner To Be Given Group

AT FAIR GROUNDS

Few Rodeo Features, Music, Speeches, Entertainment Plans

Next Wednesday at noon the citizenship of Ozona will be hosts to the Florida-to-California motorcade for one hour at the noon period and the entire citizenship is urged to turn out on this occasion to help welcome the visitors.

Plans for the reception of the party have about been completed and a hearty West Texas welcome is to be accorded them during the short time they will be guests of Ozona.

The party will be treated to a chuck wagon dinner here and an entertainment program consisting of western sports, rodeo events that typify this section of the country, music and speaking has been arranged by the entertainment committee. The motorcade will be received at the fair ground grounds and grandstand having been offered for this occasion by President Joe Pierce of the Crockett County Fair Association. Mr. Pierce is head of the entertainment committee in charge of arrangements for the rodeo events for the occasion and expects to have a snappy short program while the visitors are eating.

W. R. and J. M. Baggett, composing the eats committee, have reported that they will be ready with plenty of meat, beans, pickles bread and other trimmings and will have plenty to feed all local citizens who turn out for the occasion.

The dinner will be served near the grandstand and the visitors will gather there to eat their meal and to enjoy the program which will follow. The rodeo events will take place in the regular arena. Three or four branch busting events, goat roping and possibly steer riding will constitute this program. Serving of the dinner will be in the hands of J. T. Keeton and Fred Haffley.

The finance committee, composed of Scott Peters and J. L. Littleton, announced that no collection to pay for the entertainment of the motorcade party would be made until after the event takes place. Then, when all accounts are in and a definite check on the total cost of the project has been made, a collection will be taken about the town to defray the expense. The project is being underwritten by the Lions Club, however.

The motorcade left St. Augustine, Florida, Wednesday of this week and will arrive in Ozona about 12 o'clock, October 9th, after spending the previous night in Junction. The party will spend an hour here and make Fort Stockton by 5:30 or 6 o'clock and spend the night there. Advices from Harrah Ayres, managing director of the Old Spanish Trail Association with headquarters in San Antonio, indicated on the eve of the departure of the motorcade that the crowd leaving Florida would come up to expectations and that near a hundred cars would join in the trans-continental motorcade.

The new building being erected by Dr. J. A. Fussell to house the Ozona Steam Laundry is rapidly nearing completion. Machinery for the laundry is to be moved into the building in the next few days.

The Ozona High School football team will journey to Sonora Saturday for the first game of the season with the Bronchos. Sonora has won and lost a game to date, winning by a narrow margin of 2 to 0 over Rooksprings in the opening fracas and losing last week to Junction by a 26-0 count.

Davidson Sweeps Abilene Cow Show

Seven Firsts And Two Championships Won By Local Herd

Registered Hereford cattle, owned by Joe T. Davidson of Ozona, and fresh from Crockett County ranges, swept the cattle show at Abilene last week during the West Texas Fair in that city, taking seven first places, three seconds, two thirds and a junior and grand championship.

Beau Gwen 14th, calved in October, 1928, a splendid animal, proved the champion of the Abilene show, winning first place in his class, senior bull calves, Junior Champion Bull, and Grand Champion Bull. This same animal was shown at the West Texas Exposition cow show in San Angelo last month and won first place in his class but was defeated for the championship.

Davidson cattle made the following winnings in the Abilene show: Senior yearling bull, second place.

Summer yearling bull, first and third place.

Senior bull calves, first and third.

Three bulls, owned by exhibitor, any age, first.

Two bulls, bred and owned by exhibitor, first.

Grand Champion bull.

Senior heifer yearling, first.

Senior heifer calves, second.

Two females, any age, bred and owned by exhibitor, second.

Pair of calves, first.

Four animals, get of one sire, any age, first.

The Davidson senior heifer yearling which won first place in the Abilene show, Blanche Blanchard by name, won first place in the baby calf show here last summer during the cattle show held in connection with the fourth annual Crockett County Rodeo, Race Meet and Stock Show, won first place in her class at the West Texas Exposition in San Angelo and was runner-up for the championship in all shows in which she has participated.

The Davidson herd will be taken this week to Marfa where they will be entered in the cow show in that city.

SIGNING UP OF SEWER PATRONS STARTED HERE

Plans Completed By Engineer Barlow Are Approved

START WORK SOON

Representatives Of Company Here For Preliminaries

W. F. Whitley, field representative of the Southwest Sewer Company of Dallas, is in Ozona to start the work of signing up the required number of patrons of the local sewer system to insure its installation and operation.

This information was given out this week by J. S. Barlow, independent engineer, who has just completed a survey of Ozona and the map and plans for the sewer system, a copy of which is on file in the office of County Judge Chas. E. Davidson.

M. R. Diggs, vice-president and general manager of the Dallas sewer firm, was here with Mr. Barlow the first of the week, looking over the situation and working out plans for the installation of the system here. M. L. Friday, a sewer contractor, was here with Mr. Diggs for the purpose of getting estimates with a view to submitting a bid for the work of installing the system.

A minimum of 100 patrons of the system must be signed up before the work of installing the system can begin, Mr. Barlow said. The canvass will be under the direction of Mr. Whitley and no difficulty in getting the required number of patrons is anticipated.

The design as drawn by Mr. Barlow takes in practically every house in town, he said. The design even calls for extension of the sewer lines into Lima, Mexican suburb of Ozona. The design calls for mains large enough to take care of all future growth of the town, the engineer declared. By making the system adequate from the start, it was pointed out, it will not be necessary in case of future growth to tear up paving, etc., to put in larger sewer mains, as has been the experience of other towns.

Lions Beat Rankin By One Touchdown

Locals Get Stiff Test In Second Game Here Friday Afternoon

Superior generalship displayed by Woodrow Wilson at quarter, a line that held like a brick wall against onslaughts by a line of greater avoirdupois, and a bunch of hard hitting and fast running ends and backs accounted for the closely contested victory of the Ozona High School Lions over a team from Rankin on the local gridiron in the second game of the season here Friday afternoon.

Ozona fans were treated to a real football game in the Ozona-Rankin game, a one-touchdown victory for the locals indicating the evenly matched battle. And in that game, fans saw a local team considerably buoyed up by courage and intensive training and discovered gridiron talent that had remained more or less unsuspected at the outset of the season. Of course, last year's veterans were expected to show up better with a little more limbering up and a little more training, and they were not disappointed in the running, interference and ball carrying ability of Herman Chandler at end, the speed of Thalis Elledge and Lee Patrick in half-back positions, and the line-plunging ability of Fatty Kyle at fullback, and an iron-man line composed of Chandler, Bumper, Swinney, North, Schwaibe, Baggett and Robison.

The first half of the encounter gave every indication of a 6-0 tie for the game, the ball being saw-sawed back and forth with neither team being able to gain much advantage. Just before the half ended, however, the Lions had begun to show their strength and were within ten yards of a touchdown when the whistle blew ending the half.

The rest period did not interrupt the Ozona drive, however, and the opening of the third quarter found the locals pounding away at the Rankin line with surprising results. It was in this frame that the local took the ball on about their own 40-yard line and marched steadily down the field, with one first-down after another, to within a few yards of the goal line when Woodrow Wilson took the (Continued on Page 8.)

MUST HAVE 100 SEWER PATRONS

Before actual construction work can begin on the proposed sewer system for Ozona at least 100 persons must sign up for connections with the system, W. F. Whitley, field representative of the Southwest Sewer Company, who is here engaged in signing up patrons, declares.

Mr. Whitley is a stranger here and this fact makes it difficult for him to get this preliminary work done. A dozen or more connections had been signed up Wednesday, however, and a number of local citizens were co-operating with him in seeing home owners.

A deposit of $10 is taken with each signature, the money to be paid into the Ozona National Bank pending construction of the system. Of this amount, $5 is a connection charge while the balance goes toward paying the first month's service charge. The monthly service charges will be $2.50 for residences and $3.50 for business houses.

LAMB SHIPPING NEARING PEAK; 25,000 LOADED

Lanes Full As Crockett County Producers Ship Flocks

GOING TO FEEDERS

Dock Friend Tops Previous Weight Record With 78 3/4 lbs.

Drovers lanes leading to Barnhart continue crowded with Crockett County lambs on their way to the shipping point where they are to be loaded for shipment to feeders and to market centers.

Dock Friend snatched honors for top weight lambs from Mrs. Chas. E. Davidson, Sr., with a bunch of January lambs weighing an average of 78 3/4 pounds. Mrs. Davidson shipped 100 head of muttons that averaged 77 1/2 pounds.

Approximately 25,000 more lambs were moved to the shipping pens during the past week. Following is a list of producers making shipment, with the purchaser, number of head, average weight and price received:

Joe Blakeney to Jess Elrod, 1826 mutton lambs, 60 pounds, at 11 cents.

Rob Miller to Cooperative Producers Commission Co., 955 mutton lambs, 72 1/2 pounds, at 11 cents.

Tom Smith to Cooperative Producers, 829 mutton lambs, 71 1/2 pounds, at 11 cents.

Will Miller to Cooperative producers, 546 mutton lambs, 68 pounds, at 11 cents.

Dan Wills to Cooperative Producers, 360 mutton lambs, 60 pounds, at 11 cents.

SENTIMENT FOR ROAD PROJECT GROWING HERE

Petition For Vote On $250,000 Issue Held Up For Survey

MANY IN FAVOR

May Seek Designation Of Barnhart Road At Commission Meet

Growing sentiment on the part of many Crockett county people for good roads found expression last week when two petitions asking for an election for a $250,000 bond issue for the construction of the road from Ozona to the Sutton county line on the Old Spanish Trail and from Ozona to Barnhart appeared on the street.

Both petitions, however, were withdrawn on advice of state highway department officials pending a survey of the proposed route by engineers of the state department. It is understood that the divisional engineer, with headquarters in San Angelo, is now making an effort to get an appropriation from the department of funds sufficient to make the survey over the state route.

An effort is also under way among the good roads leaders of this county to secure state designation of the north and south highway through this county. Application may also be made later for federal designation of this route as a connecting link between the Petroleum Highway and the Old Spanish Trail.

Paving of these two highways, it is pointed out, will save the citizens of Ozona a huge amount of money in street paving. If the two highways are paved with state and federal aid on one and state aid on the other, it will take care of around fourteen blocks of city paving, with the possible exception of narrow strips along the sides of the wide streets, paving of which would be at the option of the citizens.

Mrs. Kinser Suffers Broken Leg In Fall Of Horse On Ranch

Mrs. E. R. Kinser suffered a broken leg Tuesday when she fell from her horse while riding on their ranch some sixty miles from town. She was brought from the ranch here and was immediately taken to San Angelo for medical attention. Mr. Kinser went with her.

932 mixed lambs, 74 pounds, at 10 cents.

A. W. Clayton to Jess Elrod, 747 mixed lambs, 70 1/2 pounds, at 10 1/2 cents.

Clayton Bros. to Jess Elrod, 915 mixed lambs, 64 2-3 pounds, at 10 1/2 cents.

Roger Blain to J. A. Womble, 840 mixed lambs, 60 pounds, at 10 cents.

A. A. Perry to J. A. Womble, 1574 mixed lambs, 60 1-3 pounds, at 10 1/4 cents.

C. Hines to Jess Elrod, 411 mixed lambs, 55 1/4 pounds, at 11 cents.

V. Hughes to Jess Elrod, 786 mixed lambs, 69 3/4 pounds, at 11 cents.

Ernest Duclap to Jess Elrod, 440 mixed lambs, 60 2-3 pounds, at 10 cents.

Blackstone to Jess Elrod, 1410 mixed lambs, 62 pounds, at 11 cents.

John Henderson to Jess Elrod, 1633 ewe lambs, 65 pounds, at 12 1/2 cents.

John Henderson to Jess Elrod, 950 mutton lambs, 69 pounds, at 10 1/2 cents.

All of these are those good Crockett County Rambouillet feder lambs, product of Crockett County ranges, and when all are loaded out, going to northern and western feeders, will represent between a half million and a million dollars in the pockets of Crockett County ranchmen.

A Thought
WORTH REMEMBERING

He is not poor who has the use of necessary things. —HORACE.

A scarcity of animals alive or dead, has been noticed on the highways.

It is said the heaviest mortality from motor cars is suffered by the skunk, which is hard to explain, for surely every driver would go far out of his way to avoid hitting this animal.

Birds, once run over in great numbers, are now seldom hit. The box tortoise, who years ago

ANYTHING LESS THAN THE BEST IS SOLD AT A DISCOUNT

There is an old and very true saying that "What the eye doesn't see, the heart doesn't fancy," but it is also true that the eye sees many things that blind the heart to that which it otherwise would fancy.

How often have you seen a blemish on the face of an otherwise beautiful woman, so noticeable that whenever you looked at her, you could not keep your eye off the blemish? She might be wonderfully gowned, marvelously groomed and exquisitely coiffed, but try as you might, you could see only the mar.

The appearance of anything either repels or invites ownership. Eighty-per-cent of those things sold today are purchased through, or the purchase is influenced by, the eye. What a thing looks like, therefore, is extremely important in creating a desire in the minds of others for it.

The appearance of a town is just as important as the appearance of a package, the appearance of a show window, clothing, or anything that is purchased in the store or on the market.

Why do they put colored picture wrappers on cans of beans, corn and tomatoes—it doesn't make the contents of the can any better. Why do automobile manufacturers spend so much time, care and money on the exterior appearance of the motor car—it doesn't make the motor run any smoother or last never "speeded up" when a car was coming, now fairly gallops to the safe woods when a driver hoots the horn to warn him.

It is almost impossible to believe, but it really seems as though the animals have developed a sense of the danger of cars and therefore avoid the well traveled roads.

Some humans could profit from their example!

any longer, or make the car ride any easier.

Any package, even though the contents be unharmed, depreciate in value if the cover is spoiled, torn, or the least bit mutilated. Furniture with the least scratch a suit, though never worn, that has faded; a book with a broken cover; a shirt with a torn tail, are less than the best, and so sold at a discount. A perfect animal with a skin blemish never takes the prize.

Look around you and see all those things that are made to look attractive, in order that you may be attracted thereby—then, think of your town.

The picture of many communities would serve well for a puzzle picture of "What's Wrong Here?" Stand back and take a good look at the picture of your own front yard, your store, your office building, your factory. Does it look good or are you half way ashamed of it? Are you proud of it, or do you apologize for the looks of it when company calls or people start talking about it?

Selling a town—and to keep pace with modern times, it must be sold—is like selling anything else. Therefore—how your town looks is of vital importance. There are few towns that are not very much like the "otherwise beautiful woman"—their beauty is so marred by blemishes that the beholder cannot see the attractiveness for looking at the scars.

Do your part—set the example by eliminating the scars, the blemishes of your corner and others will do likewise. It's poor business to allow the value of your community to be discounted by a poor appearance.

THE SUCCESSFUL LAWYER

Is that Lawyer who knows his opponents' arguments as well or better than he knows his own.

In the commercial world it is the same. Not dog eat dog, as is generally thought, but a systematic plan of getting all the business possible—on the merits of that business.

Four years ago we anticipated future competition, not then nor up to now encountered, and we went into the propositions offered from three very large companies dealing in Retail Groceries.

We found in every case that, isolated as we are, they had no attractions whatever for us other than a world known sign over our building. That we should be forced to buy their fixtures, and pay them a sturdy percentage on our sales did not sit well on our shoulders. Nor did we like the idea of that money going out of the country, solely to speculators, whom we did not know, nor did they know or care for us, much less our customers.

We went into their merchandising scheme also, and found that they do not operate on less than a 20 percent average of mark-up.

There has been some dissatisfaction among our customers, and we have heard at various times—"Why don't you put in a Piggly-Wiggly, then prices would not be so high." Would they have believed us, had we explained that such was not the case?

NO, and we are glad to extend a welcome to the Sonora branch of Piggly-Wiggly which will open here shortly. No town is quite complete without one, and we have the vision of a complete Ozona. Already one of the most progressive inland towns in the United States, it marks another step up in its advancement.

We will go along the same old way, only better the same old dependable service—and we have, and will continue, to appreciate your business.

Remember Steddon, a pretty, unsophisticated daughter of a narrow-minded minister.

Rev. Doctor Steddon, violently opposed to "worldly things," denounces the movies.

Dr. Bretherick, an elderly physician, and a friend of the Steddon family, is astonished at Remember's condition as the result of an unfortunate affair with Elwood Farnaby, a poor boy and son of the town sot. They have been in love since childhood but Doctor Steddon is opposed.

Remember is persuaded by Dr. Bretherick to go West after Elwood is killed in an accident, using a bad cough as an excuse.

On the train going to the West, Mem meets Tom Holby and Robina Teele, movie stars. The train stops, narrowly escaping a wreck.

At Tucson Mem is met by Dr. Galbraith. Later she writes that she has married "Mr. Woodville" and leaves Tucson for Yuma.

At her boarding house in Yuma, she met an old man who told her of his partner of prospecting days—the name Woodville reminded him of his friend's name, which was Woodward or "something like that," as he remembered it—and how he had died in the desert.

His story offered her the way, possibly, to get rid of "Mr. Woodville." She would take him into the desert and let him "die"—of thirst.

She had found the way to be rid of her husband for the satisfaction of her people.

Now if she could only find a way to be rid of herself.

And that way came to her before the long day had burned itself away, for she heard two waitresses talking in the dining room below as they set the tables for supper.

"Who was that letter you got com? Some feller!"

"Naw! It was from a lady up to Palm Springs, askin' me to come back up there this season."

"Are you?"

"Naw! Too quiet for me. Yuma ain't no merry-go-round, but Palm Springs—my Gawd! It's just a little spot of shadder in the desert."

"This lady offer you a job?"

"Yes. She's on her knees to me. Mrs. Randles her name is. Husband's got a ranch. How'd you like to go there and take the job?"

"The other voice moaned: "Me? Not much. I run away from home to get love and excitement!"

Mem had never heard of Palm Springs, but she was looking for just such a place. And a ranch! She had always wanted to see a ranch. She wanted to get away from everybody that had ever known her. She wanted to find some deep, dark cave.

Heat and fatigue whipped her into hysteria. She found energy enough for one last desperate letter home. Then she would declare her soul bankrupt and face the world free of responsibilities of the past.

Darling Mama and Papa:—By now you have probably ceased to be surprised at anything I do. You'll think I have gone absolutely crazy and I guess I have, but as long as I'm getting better and happier every day you won't mind.

I've been too busy to write you all about John as I promised. He is out here scouting for a famous mine and is going prospecting for it right away. It is a famous mine that got abandoned and lost on account of some old litigation and was nearly forgotten. So he's on the hunt for it and we're going together. It means losing ourselves in the desert and the mountains for a long while—there's no telling how long—but it will be terribly romantic and fine for my health and when next you hear from me I may be so rich I'll send you a solid-gold sewing machine, mama, and papa a solid-gold pulpit.

There's no mail delivery where we're going and no way of reaching us, but don't worry. If anything happens, I'll let you know. If you don't hear from me for a long while you'll know everything's all right. You can send your letters to me here and I'll get them when I return. Do not send me any more money.

So good-bye and blessings on your darling heads. John sends his love.

Your loving, loving, loving, Mem.

To be a chambermaid or a waitress was a dismal come-down but, Mem decided, she must accept it! What right had she to pride? And so she faced forth into the desert to become a "widow"—as she had become a "wife." She went there to find obscurity and concealment.

But everything went by contraries, and from that oasis she was to be caught up into a fiery chariot, for all the world to behold as it rolled her round and round the globe on an amazing destiny.

Mem was deposited at the lonely station of Palm Springs, and fear smothered her as she watched the train vanish into the glare. But a rancher, almost as shy as she, offered her the hospitality of his wagon. He said he was going past the Randles ranch anyhow, and would leave her there.

After a time, Mem saw ahead of her a shimmering lake and trees and a waterfall.

"That's Palm Springs, I suppose," she said.

"No, ma'am, that's a mirage—a 'maginary mirage. They're nothing there a tall—no ma'am."

And now that Mem had learned her own eyes could lie to her with convincing vividness, suddenly she saw what she was sure was pure mirage, a scene that must have come from her memory of a picture in an old volume of the Bible stories. She would have almost sworn that she looked into the desert of Araby, for she seemed to see a train of camels in trappings, and perched upon their billowy humps men in the garb of Bedouins.

The ranchman's horses seemed to suffer from the same delusions and terrified by the camels they carried the wagon into the ditch and overturned it.

Mem found herself gently spilled in the soft sand, so little injured that her only thought was for pulling down her skirts.

She lay still, reclining, not in pain, but in wonderment, as the wagon slid on its side, the driver stumbling along and still clinging to the lines as if he tried to hold giant falcons in leash.

The caravan grew restive, too, and Mem was consumed with perplexity as she saw one of the animals forced to his knees not far from her. The sheik, or whatever he was, tumbled from the saddle and ran to her.

A brown face looked out from the hood, and from the scarlet lips surrounded by a short beard came a voice startlingly un-Arabic.

"Miss Steddon! Miss Remember Steddon!"

She was so dazed that she could only stare into the mysterious face. The Arab smiled and laughed. "I'm Tom Holby, a common movie actor, out on location."

He lifted her from the sand, brushed her off, and went for her suitcase, which had been dumped into the cactus.

"Have you come here to be with parents or friends or relatives?" he asked.

"No, I'm looking for a position as a chambermaid."

"My God! You!"

Her eyes were amazed at his horror. He cried again: "You, with your beauty! Oh, no!"

She had been brought up on a motto: "Praise to the face is an open disgrace." She snubbed him with a fierce toss of her head.

A man in a pith helmet, dark goggles, and a riding suit, drove up and was complaining.

"Say, Holby, do you realize you are keeping the whole company waiting in this ghastly heat?"

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Folger," said Tom, and walked beside the director. "Just a moment, old man. That girl is a friend of mine and beautiful as a peach. She's just lost her husband and come out to this hell hole to be a chambermaid and—give her a chance, will you?"

The director twisted in his saddle and stared at Mem with expert eyes, then laughed at Holby.

"All right," he said. "I'll take a chance. Two of the extra women keeled over this morning from the heat. I'll have my assistant take her to the wardrobe woman and get her fitted out and made up. She can appear in the famine scene."

The caravan resumed its plodding advance, and Holby turned back to Mem to say:

"I've taken a great liberty. I can't bear the thought of your working as a servant when there may be a big career before you in the pictures. There is a shortage in the company for the big scene and you'd be a godsend. To please me—I mean the director—do this won't you?"

"Well, of course, if it would be doing you a favor—"

"An immense favor!"

"I don't know anything, you know."

"That's all the better. You have nothing to unlearn. Here's Mr. Ellis, the assistant director. He'll take care of you. I've got to go."

Mrs. Kittery, the wardrobe woman, and Leva Lemaire (who in private life was Mrs. David Wilkinson) helped Mem into one of the cars after she had made explanations and said farewell to the curious ranchman. While Mrs. Kittery found a costume for her, Mrs. Wilkinson, who was an "extra" took the job of making her up.

Watching a scene being taken Mem listened to Leva: "That's Robina Teele on that biggest camel. She's earning her money to-day by the sweat of her whole being. She's sweet on Tom Holby and is jealous of him as a fiend. Mighty nice, boy—not spoiled a bit by being advertised as the most beautiful thing in the world. I was in a scene with him once; he was as considerate as if I had been Norma Talmadge or Pauline Frederick."

In a heat that drove the desert Indians into shade and idleness, faint activities and actors invited sunstroke, and after a time the extras were called forth from the comparative shelter of the tents to the scene of action.

Mem could not believe that this was she who stumbled across the sand, twitching her skirts out of the talons of the cactus, carefully dabbling the sweat from her face with a handkerchief already colored like a painter's brush and jingling, as she walked, with barbaric jewelry.

The mob went forward slowly and she recognized Tom Holby on a camel. She hoped that he would not recognize her, but he studied all the faces and, being used to disguises, made her out and hailed

West Texas Utilities Company

I saw her hand; she has a leathern hand,
A freestone colour'd hand; I verily did think
... She has a huswife's hand; but that's no matter.
—Shakespeare.

Hands bespeak the lady—so it has been said for more centuries than we can remember. And yet, in the eager joy of sports and outdoor living, our present generation seems in grave danger of forgetting this age-old counsel.

Hands require special care after the vacation, and nails, particularly, are likely to show signs of neglect. So I shall devote this entire article to the care of the nails for remember—no matter how soft and smooth the hands are, they will not be truly beautiful until the nails are as fresh and gleaming as tiny pink shells.

The shape of the perfect nail varies. But before you go to extremes with your nail file, stop for a moment and realize that the nail is a utility appendage as well as an ornament. It is placed at the end of your finger to protect the sensitive nerves there from all sorts of injury. Very short, pointed nails are quite foolish as the long pointed ones which the Chinese nobles protect with jeweled nail-guards. (Unfortunately there are women who are quite as fondly vain in this respect as the mandarins.) The most sensible and correct shape for the nails is an almond shape only moderately long, rounded at the ends and corners, with a half-moon smoothly revealed at the base.

For the home manicure you need only a few implements—a nail file, an orange stick, a nail brush and a good chamois buffer are most essential. Some women prefer the quick liquid polish to a dry powder or paste polish used with the buffer. This is a matter of taste and convenience. Certainly a liquid polish saves time and many of the good ones are in quite as good taste as the conservative dry polish.

Price Of Mohair Declared Too Low

6,000,000 Pounds Of Fall Clip Sold At 46 To 56 Cents

Setting an average price of 46 cents for adult hair and 56 cents a pound for kid hair, three Boston buyers acquired during the week six million pounds of the Texas fall mohair clip, while producers over the southwest protested the inadequacy of the price.

The Junction Wool and Mohair Company sold more than 300,000 pounds to G. C. Murfitt and Company of Boston which also bought the nearly half million pound accumulation of the Del Rio Wool and Mohair Company. The accumulations at San Saba, Brady, Lampasas, San Marcos are said to have been sold while that of the Wool Growers Central Storage Company of San Angelo and the Texas Wool and Mohair Company of the same place have not been disposed of. Other unsold accumulations are said to be Horner at Uvalde and that at Sanderson and Mertzon. Reports differed as to whether the hair at Brackettville has sold. It is the lowest price for hair since the autumn of 1923.

lion pounds at San Antonio at the first of the week.

The prices received for this fall clip are the lowest since the fall of 1923 when the average for grown hair was 45 cents while kid hair brought 85 cents a pound that year.

Taylor-Link Gets New Crockett Co. Producer Near Young

The gap between the Powell pool in Crockett county and Dr. J. D. Young's No. 1 Shannon estate, which recently effected a two-mile south extension, had been narrowed by almost a quarter of a mile Monday by Taylor-Link Oil Company's No. 3 Powell. At 2,643 feet in line, seven feet in the pay, the well was estimated by the operators to be good for at least 200 barrels a day. Some estimates were twice as high.

Tubing and rods were being run and it was thought probable that the well would go on the pump Monday night. It is in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 32, block BB, G.C. & S.F. Ry. survey, 1,000 feet south of Taylor-Link No. 2 Powell, a producer.

Here's How

BY E. W. HOWE
"The Sage of Potosi"

VOLTAIRE, A MASTER VIRTUE STAYING POWER

Frequently a reader encounters these two words: "Voltaire said." I always read what follows; sometimes I do not understand it, occasionally I disagree, but always I recognize a master mind and hand.

Some will not read him, they have heard he was a mean and foolish little man. On the contrary, he was so unusual that he is still encouraging or distressing his fellow men.

If you read of Napoleon you soon note he had a good deal of respect for Voltaire. You have undoubtedly heard of Frederick the Great, who had the advantage of being a king to start with. Voltaire was a much smarter man; he has had far greater influence on the world. In spite of faults inevitable and natural in any human machine, Voltaire came nearer having intelligence than any other living organism.

I give him no credit; he simply had it. Instead of being born a pitiful fool, he was born with the world's greatest mind. Some of the famous prophets were weaklings compared to him; Mahomet's personal history convicts him frequently of being an ass—indeed, I know of no great mystic among rulers who had a really good mind.

Voltaire won his fame as fairly as has evolution; every scholar has added him up, and given him great credit.

This long introduction to a quotation from Voltaire I just encountered in reading: "All men are equal; but it is not birth but virtue which makes them so."

I find the gross sentimentalism of our conversation and reading the declaration that we are all equal is a favorite; but remember that a man really able to think says you are only equal to another if you have his virtues.

And virtue is a simple word; it means a high average in the sort of conduct the world has decided is good. The dictionary gives some pages to the word virtue, but it all condenses into this: a high average in fairness, honesty, industry, temperance, usefulness in small or great ways, and thrift in health and business.

And the lowliest of us may profit from the practice of virtue.

I have received many letters in a single delivery of mail, and not one of real interest; but I received one today that caused me to take notice. "The heroics of human life," said the writer, "do not consist in spectacular circumstances; in great deeds, or in the taking of cities, but in the staying powers we have for the monotony of little things that make up the long hard seizure of living and behaving creditably." This, it seems to me, is wise; had I encountered it in Emerson or Aristotle, I should have been moved no more than I was by this utterance of one of the plain people of 1929.

U. S. Marine Band To Play In San Antonio Auspices Of Shrine

Henry A. Hirschberg, Potentate of Alzafar Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, San Antonio, announces that that world-famed United States Marine band, of Washington, D. C., will give two concerts in San Antonio, under the auspices of the local Shriners, on the afternoon and evening of Sunday, October 27th.

This celebrated official band of the U. S. Marine Corps, has been in existence for more than 126 years, and is the oldest musical organization in the country. It was organized in 1801, immediately following the moving of the capital to Washington. With its long history filled with romance, it is only natural that it has become the favorite of many presidents and their families, and endeared itself to official Washington and the nation at large. The band has come to be known as the "President's Own," and is coming to San Antonio under the special permission of the President of the United States.

It is only in recent years that the United States Marine band has been heard outside of Washington, where it plays for all the great State functions at the White House. The demand for concerts in other parts of the United States has been tremendous, and President Hoover, like his predecessors, Calvin Coolidge and William Howard Taft, realizes not only the patriotic pride which the band inspires, the educational value to the people of such a tour.

The San Antonio concerts will be held in the Municipal Auditorium, a matinee at 3 o'clock and an evening performance at 9 o'clock. Tickets, adults, $1.00 and children 50 cents at both performances. No seats will be reserved.

GUIDEPOSTS TO Health and Happiness

By Bernarr Macfadden

DON'T GO TO BED WHEN YOU FEEL SICK

What is the first thing you think of when you feel ill? Going to bed, of course! But everyone cannot give up as easily as that. There is work to do, jobs on hand, children to look after and all the countless things that go to make up the day of the average active individual. And the person who is unable to "give up" and who says: "I will have to keep going until I drop in my tracks!" usually feels very sorry for himself.

But if he only knew it, he is fortunate indeed, for he stands a better chance of getting well than the "lucky" one who can take to his bed at the first sign of indisposition.

The reason is obvious. What happens when you "give up and go to bed?" All mechanical stimulation of the organs of your body ceases. The digestion is not carried on so freely. Tissue change is not so active. The purifying functions of the body are retarded.

On top of this you are probably brought three times a day a tray loaded down with food that would be hard for a well person to digest. "You must eat to keep up your strength" the well meaning tray-bearer insists. And so you sigh, and eat. And you are longer than you expected to be getting well.

"You must keep warm," someone else cautions, piling blankets on you and closing windows to within two inches of the sill—"Just to keep the air fresh."

And there you are. A fine breeding place for new diseases and a paradise for whatever ailment sent you to bed in the first place. And it is only one more of nature's miracles that you ever get well!

Why, you can make a well man sick by just such a procedure. Keep him in bed a week, load him with food, coddle him and he will be so shaky when he gets up that he'll need your hand to steady him.

Keep up when you feel sick! Take more exercise than ever. Move about, bend, stretch, do everything you can to stimulate the normal functions of your body. Keep them all working. Keep your blood circulating and give the white corpuscles a chance to fight whatever ails you. Work the poison out through the pores instead of keeping it under the bedclothes.

And keep up your spirits! Doctors themselves, even while telling you to go to bed, will impress upon you the value of a cheerful attitude, even though forced. Try to get your mind off yourself and get interested in something else. But don't go to bed until you have to.

Fame Of Sargon Now Nation-Wide

When Sargon was first given to the world, well known authorities predicted it would become one of the greatest outstanding health-giving remedies of the age, but the men of science who labored for years to perfect it little dreamed it would become a household word in so short a time.

According to the statements of people everywhere who have actually put it to the test it is restoring literally hundreds of thousands of weak, rundown, half-sick, discouraged men and women by some of the latest and most advanced methods known to Medical Science.

The demand for Sargon is probably without parallel in the history of the drug trade. In the State of California alone, it will require over one million bottles to supply the people of California during the first twelve months after it was placed on sale. One big New York firm, with wholesale houses in leading cities, have sold and distributed 908,184 bottles in the past eight months, or at the rate of one million and a quarter bottles per year.

Kansas City wholesale and retail firms have sold and distributed over 300,000 bottles within twelve months, or an average of almost one bottle for every family in the State of Kansas.

Texas dealers required nine car-loads the first four months. In the Northwest, the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul have been selling at the rate of over $100,000 per year, to say nothing of the immense wholesale distribution. Sale in other sections have been correspondingly large.

Back of Sargon's triumph in the drug stores is Sargon's triumph in the homes. When a suffering man or woman finds a medicine that helps them, they invariably tell their friends about it, and in this way the fame of Sargon is spreading from coast to coast, sweeping the country like a great tidal wave.

No matter where you go—North, East, South or West—Sargon is bringing health to thousands, and many foreign countries are now clamoring for it.

1928 Was Banner Livestock Year, Says Government Report

In general, the year 1928 may be characterized as one of the outstanding years in the history of the livestock industry, declares the Bureau of Agricultural Economics U. S. Department of Agriculture. As measured by total income to producers, by apparent profits, and by the general level of prices of all meat animals, the year was more favorable than 1927, in fact, the bureau says, it was the most favorable year of the postwar period.

"The situation in the sheep industry was somewhat better than in 1927 and was one of the most profitable years on record," according to the bureau's review. "The relatively unsatisfactory conditions in the hog industry were more than offset by the favorable conditions in the cattle industry. Conditions in the hog industry were slightly below average, whereas conditions in the sheep and cattle industries were considerably above average.

"Although prices for commodities purchased by farmers were slightly higher in 1928 than in 1927, the higher general level of livestock prices offset this increase. The purchasing power of livestock was not only considerably higher than in 1927 but was also the highest since war time. The situation of the livestock industry as a whole was more favorable than that of most other major agricultural enterprises."

her with the password: "How you standing it?" She called up to him: "All right, thank you." There was vast interest in her from now on. The leading man had singled out an extra woman for special attention, and gossip went round with a rush as of wings. The director divided the extras into groups, with business assigned to each. Close-ups of individuals were taken, the most striking types being selected and coached to express crises of feeling: "You go mad and babble, old man, will you? Tear at your throat and let your tongue hang out? . . . You, miss, will you fall back in your mother's arms—you be mother, will you miss, and catch her—you are to die, you know; just roll your eyes back and sigh and sink into a heap. And you, mother, wring your hands and beat your breast and wail. You understand—Oriental stuff, eh? . . .

"And I'd like somebody to just look up to heaven and pray for mercy—somebody with big eyes—You, the young lady over there—will you step out? Oh, it's Mrs. Woodville, isn't it? I met you this morning. Here's your chance. Do this for me like a good girl, and give yourself to it. Look up to heaven; if the sun brings tears to your eyes all right, but let them come from your soul, dear, if you can. You see, you have seen your people dying like flies about you, from famine and hardship. You look up and say, O God, you don't mean for us to die in this useless torture, do you, dear God? Take my life and let others live. Won't you, dear God?"

Mem stood throbbing from head to foot with embarrassment and with a strange inrush of alien moods. The fierce eyes of the director burning through his dark glasses, the curious indignation in his voice, the plea to do well for him, quickened her magically. Folger took her arm and murmured:

"Now, dear! Let your heart break! Look around and see your dying people. That's your father over there just gasping his life out. Your mother lies dead back there; you've covered her poor little body with sand to keep the jackals from it. Can you do it? Will you? That's right. Look around now and let yourself go."

She felt herself bewitched, benumbed, yet mystically alive to a thousand tragedies. Her eyes rolled around the staring throng, and made out Tom Holby gazing down at her from his camel and pouring sympathy from his own soul into hers.

Then she flung her head from side to side in a torment of woe, cast her head back, and heaved her big eyes up into the blue brazier of the skies, seemed to see God peering down upon the little multitude, and moved her lips in supplication.

She felt the words and the anguish wringing her throat, and the tears came trooping from her eyes ran shining into her mouth, and she swallowed them and found them bitter-sweet with an exultation of agony.

There was such weird reality in her grief that the director's glasses were blurred with his own tears and the camera men were gulping hard.

As her upward stare again encountered Tom Holby's eyes she saw that tears were dripping from his lashes and that his mouth was quivering.

The sight of his tears sent thru her a strange pang of triumphant sympathy, and she broke down sobbing, would have fallen to the sand if Leva Lemaire had not caught her and drawn her into her arms, kissing her and whispering: "Wonderful! Wonderful!"

She felt a hand on her arm was drawn from Leva's arms into a man's. Her shoulders were squeezed hard by big hands and she heard a voice that identified her captor as the director. He was saying:

"God bless you! That was the real stuff! You're a good girl! The real thing!"

Then she began to laugh and choke, became an utter fool.

This was her first experience of the passion of mimicry. She was as ashamed as glorified, as drained yet as exultant, as if a god had seized her and embraced her fiercely for a moment, then left her aching, an ember in the ashes.

The director was already calling the mob to the next task. She could not help glancing toward Tom Holby. His camel was moving off with the crowd, but he was turning back to gaze at her. He was nodding his head in approval and he raised his hand in a salute of profound respect.

Mem's sin had led her to the edge of paradise, and then drawn her back by the hair.

She was doomed to spend a certain time in increasing heaviness, and then to die or to go about thenceforth with a nameless child holding on to her hand an anchoring link to obscurity.

She found a place as maid in the home of a storekeeper at such wages as he could afford. She began the sordid routine of her tasks but, contrasting them with the glamour of playing tragic roles, she felt herself entombed.

Then the summer heat began and grew so fierce that her employer and his family went to the seashore.

She spent much thought upon the letter home that she had not yet written, that she must write if ever she were to go home again. The whole purpose of this long, long journey into loneliness was to be able to write that letter; and it had not yet gone.

Every time she made the beginning her hands flinched from the lying pen. But one night in a frantic fit of histrionic enthusiasm she dashed off her fable, sealed it in an envelope, and dropped it after dark in the mail box.

Darling Mamma and Papa:

How can I write the terrible news? I can hardly bear to think of it, let alone write about it. But my darling husband passed away in the desert. I cannot write you the particulars now, for I am too agitated and grief-stricken and I do not want to harrow you with details. I know your poor hearts will ache for me, but I beg you not to feel too deeply, because I am trying to be brave. And I remember what you taught me, that the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. . . . I cannot write you more now. I am in no need of money and I will get a little stronger. All the love in the world from

Your loving Mem.

After she had slipped the letter irrevocably into the mail box she realized that the postmark of Palm Springs would be stamped on the envelope. Her place of concealment would be disclosed.

Still, it would not matter. She was a widow now in the minds of her people and she could go back to them and face the future in calm.

The mountains had a beckoning look always, and on this afternoon, when a clouded sky gave a little shelter from the sun, she set out to obey the impulse to climb as far as her strength permitted.

The exertion of climbing was more than Mem had bargained for. The steep that looked so inviting from a distance were ragged and forbidding. The burnt-colored almond mountains were hot and sharp-edged gridirons to her feet. The sun came blazing down and seemed to spill upon her a yellow hot mass of metal that slashed her about the head and rolled over her shoulders in blistering ingots.

A stone rolled under her foot and shook her from her balance. She wavered, clutched at nothing, whirled, struck, bounded from the hard rock, fell and fell, and then—a smashing blow, blackness, silence.

A young Indian girl, chasing her stray pony about the sand had seen Mem stumble, then fall; had heard the thump of the body on cushioning sand; had run to the nearest house and told what she had seen. Mem was taken home. The village doctor did all that his skill could do.

Though she had never dared to visit him, he knew of her, and knew her a widow. When she was strong enough to be talked to he prepared her for bad news.

"Am I to be crippled for life?" she cried.

"No," he laughed. "You will bear no marks of your accident. But you will not—but your other hopes and expectations—will not be realized."

She was dazed and he was timid, and he had some difficulty in making her understand his bad news; that she would not be a mother.

She bore this blow with a fortitude that surprised him.

And now Mem was weak and woebegone, at the bottom of the cliff of life. She had never climbed very far, but she had fallen far enough to give both soul and body an almost fatal shock. She was a drudge in a poor family in a scorched settlement abandoned by all that could get away.

The only inferiors she could see were a young widow named Dack and her five-year-old boy, Terry. Mrs. Dack took in washing.

The boy Terry was of the Ariel breed. His fancy girdled the globe in forty minutes. He mimicked birds and animals and often covered his mother with terror and amused chagrin by imitating her clients with uncanny skill.

Once the child caught cold—in all that heat!—and Mem sat by his bedside through several smothering nights, while the back-broken mother slept. Mem exercised her skill in making up little dramas to while away the tedium of the long nights and to keep the wakeful child's mind from his cough.

During his illness Mem received a letter from Leva Lemaire, saying that she had just seen in an old paper a paragraph describing "Mrs. Woodville's" fall from the mountain and her miraculous escape from death. Leva expressed her sympathy and prayed that her beauty had not been marred. She added:

"Why Should I Buy a GOODYEAR TIRE?" Come into our store and ask this question, man to man, "Why should I buy your tire?" You won't need to ask another. All we want, whether you buy or not, is an opportunity to explain why the Goodyear is called The World's Greatest Tire. Here's Why: 1 Its sturdy carcass is made of Supertwist, which means fewer fabric failures and less tire changes on the road. 2 Its new design of tread gives the best traction and car control ever afforded by an automobile tire. 3 Its tenacious ability to grip the road gives the greatest possible degree of safety. 4 Increased area of road contact and added All-Weather blocks insure slow, even tread wear and greater satisfaction to the user. 5 Quietness and smooth running are also made certain by the new design of tread. 6 This new Goodyear is admittedly the World's Most Beautiful Tire. Crockett Schools Enroll 455 Pupils

Capacity Of School Is Taxed With Increase In Enrollment

"All seats are full and all rooms are full of seats."

This is the laconic statement issued by Supt. John L. Bishop Wednesday in describing the conditions existing in the schools of Crockett County as a result of a big increase in the total enrollment this year over that of last year.

A total of 455 pupils have been enrolled in the schools of the county to date, Supt. Bishop declared, 370 of these being in the grades and 85 in high school.

Every year, according to past records, has seen an increase in enrollment in local schools. This steady increase has necessitated the development of makeshift classrooms; every inch of available space has been used, and every seat in these rooms is filled.

"Any further increase in enrollment will necessitate the installation of bleacher seats on the outside of windows," one school official said in describing the situation.

Law May Stop Rodeos In Texas

Dallas—Rigid enforcement of the state law against prize fighting has raised a question of what is to be done with bulldogging and roping contests, that usually form a part of the fall fairs of Texas.

The same article that prohibits a prize fight prohibits a contest between a man and bull or any other animal. This knocks out bulldogging—one of the greatest events of rodeos.

Roping of any animal is forbidden in another article of the same chapter of the criminal statutes. It provides a fine of from $100 to $500 for any person who participates in such a contest either in competition with others or alone as a trial of skill "for money or prize of any character for anything of value, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered." Just as the anti-prize fight law came into the light at Dallas recently when an attempt was made to stage the Kober-Trammel fight, so the anti-rodeo law is likely to attract attention in Dallas, for reports have it that a noted rodeo manager has been signed by the State Fair of Texas for the coming fall.

By a queer turn of fate, State Ranger Captain Tom Hickman, who with Sheriff Hal Hood stopped the Kober-Trammel fight, has been invited to act as judge at the rodeo here. Whether he will appear in the role of judge or rodeo stopper is a question that is causing much speculation. Hickman has been a rodeo judge in New York and abroad. He was one of the celebrated American rodeo performers that appeared at Wimbledon, England.
