Ozona Lions Run Wild For Crushing Victory Over Sonora Bronchs

Opening up in the second half with that same brand of smashing, crashing, dashing play that won them a one-sided victory over the strong Eldorado Eagles the previous Saturday, the Ozona High School Lions made a clean ride of the Sonora Bronchs on the local grid Saturday afternoon, taking the big end of a 24 to 6 count from their ancient rivals.

The Bronchs executed a fair piece of bucking through the first two frames of the contest, sufficient to hold the Lions to a 6-6 count to the rest period between halves.

But like the cat that plays with the mouse, the Lions came back in the second half to open up a slashing attack that swept a courageous opponent off its feet. In short, the Lions made plow nags out of an erstwhile bunch of Mustangs in that second half, and but for an over-anxiousness which cost them a total of 75 yards in penalties during the game for off-side, might have piled up an even larger total of points.

Game Is Orderly

The game marked the resumption of athletic relations between the two schools after a recess of three years. The entire contest was orderly from start to finish and although there was one of the largest crowds of the season on hand for the game, including both local and Sonora fans, there was nothing but good humored rooting for both teams and on the field of battle there has not been seen a cleaner, more sportsman-like game in years. Although hopelessly outclassed in the last half, the Sonora lads fought to the closing gun over every inch of ground, good sports and good fighters to the last ditch. Throughout the entire contest there was not a penalty on either side for rough playing, there was no arguments over decisions of officials nor the slightest evidence of anything but clean sportsmanship.

Both teams scored touchdowns in the first quarter of play. Ozona came through with two more in the third quarter and added another in the last frame. All try for points after touchdowns failed. The Lions might have had another marker in the last minute of play had it not been for a bit of hard luck. On their fake place kick formation, a clever trick that results in a pass over the goal line, and a play that has not failed so far this season, the locals heaved it over Saturday in the final few seconds for what they hoped was another touchdown. Cox shot the ball to the waiting arms of Buddy Moore over the goal line and Moore gathered it in, but he was out of bounds when the catch was made and the play was just another incomplete pass.

As evidence of the power which the Lions wielded over the visitors, the locals are credited with a total of 14 first downs to Sonora's 5. At the half the two teams were about even on first downs, as they were on the score, but that last half rally shattered the Bronchs defense to smithereens and the locals were able to gain ground rapidly on almost any form of attack.

Lions Still Tip-Top

The Lions showed fully as much pep and spirit, and as much finished form in that fracas here Saturday as they showed in that determined attack the previous Saturday in which a flock of highly touted Eagles from Eldorado were made to look like a cage full of canaries. The line was adamant, blocking was splendid and those running and passing attacks were not to be stopped. Had the locals been as quick on the get-away in this game as they were in the Eldorado mix-up the score would have been appalling.

The courage of the Lions will be tested next Saturday when they meet the big eleven from Lakeview. Coach Ted White and his lads are looking for one of their toughest encounters of the season in this melee and this

Lions To Tackle Lakeview Eleven

Locals To Encounter Most Beefy Squad Of Season Here Sat.

Coach Ted White's High School Lions are expected to be called upon to show their mettle on the Powell Field gridiron next Saturday afternoon when they are scheduled to meet the giant eleven from Lakeview High School.

With a weight advantage of far too many pounds over the locals, the Lakeview lads are expected to furnish some lively entertainment for the Lions in the coming fracas. It is reported here that the Lakeview eleven boasts a 200 pounder in fullback position, and others in excess of the average high school weight.

However, unless the visitors exhibit something more than beef, they are slated for an afternoon of reducing exercises trying to run down Joe Chandler and Vic Montgomery on those end runs and Moore, Wilson, Cox, Chandler, et al. on passes.

At any rate, the Lions are putting in a full week of practice in preparation for the coming battle and hope to have developed sufficient speed and brain to combat the excess of brawn reported to be packed by the Lakeview squad. The game gets under way at 3 p. m. Saturday at Powell Field.

Pep Squad Stages Weiner Roast For Sonora Visitors

Members of the Sonora football squad, the Sonora coach and other school officials and visitors from Sonora were guests of the Ozona High School Pep Squad at a weiner roast held at the fair grounds Saturday evening following the football game between Ozona and Sonora teams on the local grid Saturday afternoon.

The Ozona gridiron warriors, victors in the clash with the Sonora Bronchs, were honored guests of the Pep Squad. Local school officials and others were also present.

A large pile of cedars had been gathered in the center of the rodeo arena and at 6:30 a huge bonfire was lighted, and a typical bonfire fellowship was dominant. It was a pleasant affair for representatives of both schools. Pep songs were sung, football experiences exchanged and Pep Squad ideas voiced.

"Sonora people are always welcome to Ozona," was the keynote of the gathering, according to Miss Tommy Smith, assistant pep squad leader.

Lions Vote To Ask Reduction In Rates For Water & Lights

Joining in the movement initiated by other organizations in the city, the Ozona Lions Club voted Monday to lend its voice to a request for a reduction in power and light rates here.

In addition to joining in the protest voiced by other clubs against electric rates, the Lions Club voted to voice a similar protest against local water rates. A committee was named to petition the West Texas Utilities Company here and the Ozona Water Works for a reduction in rates.

Methodists Honor Returning Pastor

Rev. and Mrs. Meredith Welcomed At Reception Fri. Night

Members of the Ozona Methodist Church held open house at the church Friday evening, November 6, to welcome Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Meredith, who were returned to the local pastorate for their fifth successive year.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Scott Peters. She requested those present to answer roll call by reporting a joke, some funny story, a nursery rhyme or anything other than present. A spirit of informality prevailed throughout the meeting. "Mr. and Mrs." being taboo during the entire evening.

Mrs. Lee Childress acted as secretary and called the roll, using the full name of each guest as follows:

Nan Palona Grimmer, Mary Louise Perner, Mary Elizabeth Childress, Alice Yaws, Mary Vaughan, Vera Fussell, Mary Lillian Henderson, Alyce Baggett, Maggie Burns Seahorn, Camille Montgomery, Jessie Aubrey Fussell, Bertie Williams Katie Theresa Childress, Ethel Bishop, Kathryn Flowers, Robert Bailey, Carolina Mary Baggett, Margaret Evelyn McIntire, Evelyn Henderson, Jessie Ray White, Myrete Miller, Pearl Henderson, Ada Lenora Pierce, James Henry Meredith, Mary Pickett McDonald, Elizabeth Perner, Dorothy Beatrice Meredith, John Laurell Bishop, Lemuel Bascomb Cox, Edna Pearl Harvick, Lula May Peters, John Robert Bailey, Paul Christian Perner, Norene Allison, Patti Raiza, Ted White, Guinn Caruthers, Lee Childress, Martin Strickland Harvick, Jim Miller, Walter Scott Peters, Israel Greer Rape, Lewdie Bryan Townsend, William Ponder Seahorn, Walter Roy Henderson, Bryan Eugene McDonald, Hugh Francis Childress, Tessie Kyle, Richard Leon Flowers, Floyd Richmond Henderson, William Ramsey Baggett, Minnie Kyle and Thersie Aakin.

The welcome address was given by Jessie Aubrey Fussell and the response was delivered by James Henry Meredith. The following program was rendered:

Piano Solo—Nan P. Grimmer. Quartet—R. L. Flowers, L. B. Townsend, I. G. Rape, and Bryan McDonald.

Reading—"The Deacon's Thanksgiving"—Mary Lillian Henderson.

Song—"Carry Me Back to Old Virginia"—Evelyn Henderson.

Reading—"Charity's Religion"—Bertie Williams.

Instrumental Music—Norene Allison and Ted White.

Old fashioned games were enjoyed and old time songs were sung. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the evening's entertainment. The assembly was dismissed by Rev. Meredith.

Armistice Program Presented By History Department Of O.H.S.

Armistice Day was fittingly observed in the local schools by a splendid program presented at the High School assembly hour Tuesday afternoon by members of the history department. The following interesting program was presented:

Lions Advocate Dredging Draw Project Would Provide Work For Idle And Reclaim Lands

Endorsing the national movement for the relief of unemployed, the Ozona Lions Club at its luncheon Monday pledged its efforts toward local relief work during the coming winter. Providing work for the unemployed who may be here or drift through during the coming months is advocated by the club, and among projects mentioned for providing work for idle men and at the same time offering a worthwhile improvement for the community was dredging and straightening of the Johnson Draw through town. Such an improvement, it was pointed out, would not only provide work for idle men, but would reclaim valuable building lots along the draw.

Rev. Lyle Price, who is conducting a revival meeting at the Ozona Church of Christ, was a guest of the Club. Rev. Price, who is a member of the Lions Club in his home town of Denison, made an interesting short talk to the club.

Miss Treva Wallender, student in Ozona High School, entertained the club with two humorous readings.

Rev. J. H. Meredith, vice president of the organization, occupied the chair at the request of the president, John L. Bishop. Rev. Meredith was given a rousing welcome back to the club for another year, this being the first meeting since his appointment by the Methodist Conference to serve his fifth year as pastor of the Ozona Methodist Church.

MOVE BARBER SHOP

L. E. Land, recently of Fort Stockton, who purchased the Sanitary Barber Shop from Raymond Bennett, is moving the shop this week to its new location in the Adams Building. The barber shop will occupy the southeast corner of the Adams Building, cut off by a partition from the rest of the building. The front and interior of the shop quarters are to be completely renovated, painted and approved and the barber shop is expected to be much more attractive in its new home. Mr. Land expects to be ready for business by the end of the week.

ATTEND FUNERAL

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Meredith left Wednesday morning for San Antonio where they were called on account of the death of Mrs. Harry Heck, a cousin of Mrs. Meredith's. Mrs. Heck died at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Funeral services were to have been held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Rev. and Mrs. Meredith expected to be back in Ozona Saturday.

PROPOSE RED CROSS DRIVE IN CROCKETT

Nucleus Of Chapter Is Formed At Lions Club Meeting Monday

FULMER TO HEAD

Pastor Is Chairman Of Organization Committee

Organization of a Red Cross Chapter in Crockett County, with a Roll Call drive in this county during the customary period from Armistice Day until Christmas, is contemplated in action of the Ozona Lions Club in its meeting Monday in the appointment of Rev. M. M. Fulmer as chairman of a committee to perfect the Red Cross organization.

A unanimous pledge of membership in the local chapter was given by Lions present for the luncheon and this group will form the nucleus of the county organization.

Crockett County has not had a Red Cross roll drive in many years and has had no active Red Cross organization. The need for Red Cross work this winter is expected to be greater than ever before, and those who are backing the movement to perfect an organization here feel that this county should do its part toward the national and local relief work undertaken through the Red Cross.

Membership fees of $1 per person will be accepted during the annual Roll Call drive from Armistice Day until Christmas. Half of this amount will remain in a local fund for the relief of worthy charity and the other half will go into the national treasury of the organization for relief in cases of disaster anywhere in the world.

Members of the committee of which Rev. Fulmer is chairman include John L. Bishop, Hugh Childress, Jr., and Evert White. Rev. Fulmer has offered his services in conducting the county Roll Call drive and will likely have his plans perfected for this work within the next few days.

FREE SUIT OF CLOTHES

A $40 suit of clothes or topcoat is the prize offered by the Model Laundry Dry Cleaners in a contest which will come to a close on December 10. Each patron of the dry cleaning department will have a chance at this award.

MEETING DRAWS CROWDS

Good crowds are attending the Church of Christ revival which is being conducted here under the leadership of Rev. Lyle Price of Denison, Texas. The song services are under the direction of Ben Taylor, of the Busby-Taylor team, and the church is being greatly benefited by these services. Morning services are being conducted at 10 o'clock and evening services at 7:15.

$100 PRIZE OFFERED

One hundred dollars in cash prizes will be given away by the Crockett Motor Company in a contest which is under way now and will close on January 8th. The prizes are divided as follows: First prize, $50; second prize, $25; third prize, $10; fourth prize, $5, and ten prizes of $1 each.

P. T. A. MEETS MONDAY

The regular meeting of the Ozona Parent-Teacher Association will be held Monday afternoon in the High School auditorium beginning at 3:15. All members of the organization are urged to be present and visitors are cordially invited.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Meredith and Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Fussell attended a Methodist Workers Conference in San Angelo Tuesday.

Lions Club Plans To Fete Grid Men Lions To Be Guests Of Luncheon In Near Future

Recognizing the sincere effort that is being put forth by members of Coach Ted White's football squad on the gridiron each week and in a desire to add to the honors they gain for themselves on the football field, the Ozona Lions Club plans in the near future to honor the squad and its coach.

The thought was expressed at Monday's luncheon that the 1931 High School Lions deserve signal recognition from the community as a whole and the entire community may be asked to share in the program honoring the football boys.

Definite plans for entertaining the gridiron warriors, who have lost but one game, tied two and won five so far this season, will be worked out at the next meeting of the club.

New High School Building Rapidly Nears Completion

Ozona's new $175,000 High School building, now under construction, is rapidly nearing completion. Workmen are now putting the finishing touches on the interior of the building and the grounds are being put in shape.

No definite date has yet been set for formal opening of the building. Speculation as to the date upon which the new structure will be ready for opening range from early in December to the first of January.

As soon as building contractors announce when the new building will be ready, school officials will begin plans for the formal opening exercises. The regular opening exercises at the beginning of the present school term were dispensed with pending opening of the new building, opening exercises and the formal dedication ceremonies to be combined at that time.

OBSERVE PRAYER WEEK

The annual week of prayer was observed by the Methodist Church here last week with a program led by Mrs. Joe Pierce at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and another at 9 o'clock Friday morning led by Mrs. Scott Peters. A nice offering was given for the repair of some of the missionary buildings.

GIVE GROCERY PRIZES

The "Beans in the jar" contest of the Mike Couch Grocery will close at 6 o'clock Saturday evening. A larder full of groceries will be given away as prizes to winners of this contest.

ARMISTICE DAY

Thirteen years ago the greatest war in all history came to a sudden termination with the declaration of the Armistice on November 11, 1918. The hopes of the world ran high. This was to be the last of war. The Peace Treaty was to be such a masterpiece of statesmanship that all future grounds for war would be eliminated. Our soldiers came back from France with the feeling that they had played a victorious part in a war to end war.

After thirteen years, how far has the world got toward ending war? Every nation in the world, including our own, is staggering under a crushing burden of taxation to maintain greater armies and navies than ever before. As we write this the machinery set up by the Treaty of Versailles for the prevention of war is being subjected to its first serious test, and it is still in doubt whether war between Japan and China can be averted. President Hoover's effort to reduce the cost of keeping up a larger navy than we are ever likely to have use for has aroused a storm of protest on the part of people who fail to realize that preparation for war always breeds war. It is absurd to believe that any nation can train hundreds of thousands of fighting men and not create a "war party" which will welcome any excuse to put this military and naval training into practice.

There are circumstances under which no nation can refuse to go to war, just as there are circumstances under which a man must fight whether he wishes to or not, but those circumstances so seldom arise, and their consequences when they do arise are so disastrous even to the victor, that the sober thought of the whole world is turning more and more against war as a means of settling international disputes. When war was merely a glorious adventure for youthful fighters, and had no serious effect upon the rest of the population, it had a romantic appeal. But war today touches every man, woman and child, and we believe that we are expressing the thought of those who participated in the last war, as well as of the vast majority of others, when we hope that our country shall never again have to go to war.

FROM A SURVEY OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Business skies are brightening, reports The Associated Press, following a country-wide survey of the economic situation. Constructive factors are at work, and the most potent are psychological.

Since President Hoover announced his plans for setting up a half-billion-dollar National Credit Corporation, the people have shown more confidence and have begun to spend money a little more freely. As a result, numerous factories have resumed operations and others have expanded production, putting men back to work.

The news-scouts found something encouraging to report from every section. In the South a rising cotton market and the reopening of banks has created a decidedly optimistic feeling. In the Middle West the basic steel industry is "gaining moderately," and automobile-manufacturers report increasing orders and "an average stepping up of production."

Two leading financial institutions in New York—the National City and Chase National banks—have just given out the most optimistic reports in several months. Smaller banks' embarrassment because of "frozen credits" is due speedily to pass, says the National City Bank. Timely aid from the new Corporation will reduce suspensions and restore public confidence.

The larger banks—holding 40 per cent of the Nation's financial resources—now have ample liquid assets for helping the smaller institutions, reports the Chase National.

Similarly, the West is jubilant over a 37 per cent advance in wheat-prices in four weeks' time and an upturn in crude oil. The railroads are organizing a pool for stabilizing their own credits.

Governor Emmerson has called the Illinois Legislature to consider downward revision of property taxes. Such an act would stimulate business at home and set an inspiring example to other States.

All the developments enumerated are highly hopeful signs. While they should not raise too great expectations they do indicate a trend in the right direction.

CHILDREN ON WHEELS

The chance of an automobile accident is much greater if the driver is under twenty than when he or she is over thirty, according to statistics compiled by one of the large accident insurance companies. The records of some four million licensed automobile drivers were examined and it was found that by far the highest percentage of accidents occurred when children under age were driving a car.

There are still a good many states and communities where very little or no inquiry is made into the qualifications of anyone who wants to drive a car. In the majority of the states today licenses are required but the examinations and driving tests vary. And there are still a great many places in which any child who is physically able to hang on to the steering wheel and reach the pedals is allowed to drive.

Of course, the earlier in life one learns to drive, the more confidence the motorist acquires and the better he or she is likely to be as time goes on. But we think there is a great deal of wisdom in the law which obtains in some states, under which no one under eighteen may be licensed to drive, and then only after a severe road test of ability. In order to learn to drive before applying for a license, young people in states where this law obtains must always have with them on the front seat an experienced licensed driver.

There will always be parents who will let their children talk them into taking out the car, whether really fit to drive it or not, and children will always want to get out on the road and "step on it." That is human nature, and it would not be anybody else's concern if people driving care were not a menace to other motorists and pedestrians.

THIS MUDDLED WORLD

The world chaos that gains impetus with every rising sun has reached a critical point in these United States. A country and a government that have been held up as examples of progress and glorious democracy are floundering in a sea of unrest, rebellion, crime and misery. In this hour, when problems of supreme importance confront us, it is interesting to observe the censorious spirit that dominates the mind of man.

Every fellow is disposed to blame some one else for all the ills to which he has become heir. The government, the trusts, the war, prohibition, automobiles, the news papers and chain stores, the republicans, the democrats and the tariff—these and other forces are called into account for afflicting us with low priced cotton and wheat, shrinkage in property values, loss of credit, threatened bankruptcy and all the other evils that beset us. Seldom, if ever, is there heard in the chorus of denunciations, one word of self directed blame, but whether we are willing to admit or not, our troubles are, in part, at least, self-made.

A people, for the most part accustomed to living moderately and even frugally prior to the war, we launched into an orgy of spending such as has never been known in the history of man. Although endowed with a modicum of reasoning power, we have deliberately thrown discretion to the winds changing our standards of living from quiet simplicity, to frenzied luxury. Equipped with sufficient mathematical knowledge to know that four from two leaves minus two, men and women with incomes of $200.00 a month have spent at the rate of $400.00. This has applied quite generally whether the income has been $25.00 or $2500.00.

Farming and other businesses are more or less demoralized, but it is not due altogether to 5 cent cotton and the tariff. It is due in part to our waste, abuse of credit, poor business management, and laziness.

Before we see the end of this many of us who are now riding may be walking, but that probably would be as it should be. The men and women who honestly work their ways out of the present economic labyrinth will be those possessed of the proper intestinal stamina. For some time now, we have needed something to divide the sheep from the goats. Crooks and deadbeats have been sailing along in the vanguard of society and the church, enjoying all the privileges and often more than those who make up the ranks of honest citizenry. If the present crisis serves as a leveler in the business and social realms, much will be gained. The seeming success of the dishonest during the reign of extravagance through which we have just passed, has had a baneful effect, serving to give sanction to the theory that the way to win is through shady paths.

If it serves to make us a little more concerned about the quality of the men who are entrusted with our governmental affairs, it will be well worth living through. As it is and has been, our most responsible trusts are often given to men who could not make a living for themselves in any other than political fields.

There is really a great deal about our present status to give us urge to go forward and cheer in the hope that in going forward much that has been unwholesome will be left in the discard.—Miss Emily Woodward, News, Vienna, Georgia.

SIGHT UNSEEN

by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and his sister Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of them, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously. With Johnson he goes to the Wells residence and they find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

The French maid admits she was out at the time Wells was shot, telephoning from a nearby drug store. Johnson goes to the drug store where the clerk tells him the maid phoned to the Ellingham house, telling somebody there not "to call that night."

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy adds details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocketbook being lost which contained some important car tickets and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

THE STORY

I find that the solution of the Arthur Wells mystery—for we did solve it—takes three divisions in my mind. Each one is a sitting, followed by an investigation made by Sperry and myself.

But for some reason, after Miss Jeremy's second sitting, I found that my reasoning mind was stronger than my credulity. And as Sperry had at that time determined to have nothing more to do with the business. I made a resolution to abandon my investigations. Nor have I any reason to believe that I would have altered my attitude toward the case, had it not been that I saw in the morning paper on the Thursday following the second seance, that Elinor Wells had closed her house and gone to Florida.

I confess I had an overwhelming desire to examine again the ceiling of the dressing room and thus to check up one degree further the accuracy of our revelations. After some reflection, I called up Sperry, but he flatly refused to go on any further.

"Miss Jeremy has been ill since Monday," he said. "Mrs. Dane's rheumatism is worse, her companion is nervously upset, and your own wife called me up an hour ago and says you are sleeping with a light, and she thinks you ought to go away. The whole club is shot to pieces."

But, although I am a small and not a courageous man, the desire to examine the Wells house clung to me tenaciously. Suppose there were cartridges in his table drawer? Suppose I should find the bullet hole in the ceiling? I no longer deceived myself by any argument that my interest was purely scientific. There is a point at which curiosity becomes unbearable, when it becomes an obsession, like hunger. I had reached that point.

Nevertheless, I found it hard to plan the necessary deception to my wife. My habits have always been entirely orderly and regular. My wildest dissipation was the Neighborhood Club. I could not recall an evening away from home in years, except on business. Yet now I must have a free evening, possibly an entire night.

In planning for this, I forgot my nervousness for a time. I decided finally to tell my wife that an out-of-town client wished to talk business with me, and that day, at luncheon—I go home to luncheon—I mentioned that such a client was in town.

"It is possible," I said, as easily as I could, "that we may not get through this afternoon. If things should run over into the evening, I'll telephone."

She took it calmly enough, but later on, as I was taking an electric flash from the drawer of the hall table and putting it in my overcoat pocket she came on me, and I thought she looked surprised.

During the afternoon I was beset with doubts and uneasiness. Suppose she called my office and found that the client I had named was not in town? It is undoubtedly true that a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive, for on my return to the office I was at once quite certain that Mrs. Johnson would telephone and make the inquiry.

After some debate I called my secretary and told her to say, in such a message came in, that Mr. Forbes was in town and that I had an appointment with him. As a matter of fact, no such inquiry came in, but as Miss Joyce, my secretary, knew that Mr. Forbes was in Europe, I was conscious some months afterwards that Miss Joyce's eyes occasionally rested on me in a speculative and suspicious manner.

Other things also increased my uneasiness as the day wore on. There was, for instance, the matter of the back door to the Wells house. Nothing was more unlikely than that the key would still be hanging there. I must therefore, get a key.

Going through my desk I found a number of keys, mostly trunk keys and one the key to a dog-collared. But late in the afternoon I visited a client of mine who is in the hardware business, and secured quite a selection. One of them was a skeleton key. He persisted in regarding the matter as a joke, and poked me between the shoulder-blades as I went out.

"If you're arrested with all that hardware on you," he said, "you'll be held as a first-class burglar. You are equipped to open anything from a can of tomatoes to the missionary box in church."

But I felt that already, innocent as I was, I was leaving a trail of suspicion behind me: Miss Joyce and the office boy, the dealer and my wife. And I had not started yet.

I dined in a small chop-house where I occasionally lunch, and took a large cup of strong black coffee. When I went out into the night again I found that a heavy fog had settled down and I began to feel again something of the strange and disturbing quality of the day which had ended in Arthur Wells' death. Already a potential housebreaker, I avoided policemen, and the very jingling of the keys in my pocket sounded loud and incriminating to my ears.

I do not like deserted houses. Even in daylight they have a sinister effect on me. They seem, in their empty spaces, to have held and recorded all that has happened in the dusty past. The Wells house that night, looming before me, silent and mysterious, seemed the embodiment of all the deserted houses I had known. Its empty and unshuttered windows were like blind eyes, gazing in, not out.

Nevertheless, now that the time had come, a certain amount of courage came with it. I am not ashamed to confess that a certain part of it came from the anticipation of the Neighborhood Club's plaudits. For Herbert to have made such an investigation, or even Sperry, with his height and his iron muscles, would not have surprised the club. But I was aware that while they expected intelligence and even humor, of a sort, from me they did not anticipate my particular bravery.

The flash was working, but rather feebly. I found the nail where the door-key had formerly hung, but the key, as I had expected, was gone. I was less than five minutes, I fancy, in finding a key from my collection that would fit. The bolt slid back with a click, and the door opened.

Once inside the house, the door to the outside closed, and facing two alternatives, to go on with it or to cut and run, I found a sort of desperate courage, clenched my teeth, and felt for the nearest light switch.

The electric light had been cut off!

I should have expected it, but I had not. I remember standing in the back hall and debating whether to go on or to get out. I was not only in a highly nervous state, but I was also badly handicapped. However, as the moments wore on and I stood there with the quiet unbroken by no mysterious sounds, I gained a certain confidence. After a short period of readjustment, therefore I felt my way to the library door, and into the room. Once there, I used the flash to discover that the windows were shuttered, and proceeded to take off my hat and coat, which I placed on a chair near the door. It was at this time that I discovered that the battery of my lamp was very weak, and finding a candle in a tall brass

THE PIANO TUNER SAYS—

By Fred Wilson

We have always, until recently, looked upon state militia from a purely ornamental view point except on one occasion several years ago when old man Walton's Jack, then Governor of Oklahoma, called out the state troops with orders to exterminate a couple of irate citizens who had beat up on a pet bootlegger who had sold them a gallon of synthetic hooch then swiped it back while they were endeavoring to coax their fliver into action.

Within the last few months, however, several of our southern and western states have come into prominence by calling out their respective troops to settle all manner of disturbances ranging from dog fights to insurrection.

As a primer, "Cocklebur Bill" detailed a platoon armed with horse pistols and axes to the southern boundary with orders to open an interstate bridge which was closed to the public after the tax payers had built and paid for it—while, in the mean time, another detachment bearing muzzie loaders and pipe wrenches were screwing plugs into Oklahoma's wells. Now that the ball was rolling, Royalty Ross showed signs of life by detailing a few companies, under command of Jake Wolters, a prominent major oil company attorney, to take charge of the East Texas oil situation while an adequate number were kept mobilized at Austin to choke off the special legislature in case they decided to perpetuate the session after agreeing on the $10.00 per diem question which means that the tax payers have to dig up a ten spot for every dime worth of service rendered. About this stage of the game, old Arkansas has to dispatch her dough boys, on double quick, to Jonesboro to untangle a couple of preachers who had fallen into mortal combat about whether their ancestors hung by tails or necks.

Then Iowa sends soldiers to hog tie farmer Jones while the state "Hoss" doctor gives his cow a squirt of serum intended to kill off some sort of bacteria which, if left to increase and multiply, would cause all human posterity to suffer from ingrowing toe nails even to the seventh generation. The Senator-Governor of Louisiana surrounds himself with rook-ies to protect his gubernatorial bicuspids from the rusty forceps of old Doc. Cyr, while Mississippi invokes military aid to prevent a flock of cannibalistic natives from barbecuing an unbleached citizen.

If the demand continues on the increase it won't be long until all idle men of able body and empty head can enlist in the militia and thus automatically solve the unemployment situation.

MAIN STREET LOOKS AT BROADWAY BY OBSERVER

A Disappointed Visitor

Premier Laval, who is practically the ruler of France, the President of that country being largely a figurehead, learned, when he landed in New York, that being a personage has its troubles. He wanted to look at the big city, but he confided to his intimates, the most he saw when he approached the Battery, was a lot of silk hats and broad backs belonging to the welcoming committee.

Even his mile ride up Broadway to the City Hall did not give him much chance to see things as the crowds pressed close to his auto and demanded he look at them and not at the buildings.

His experience is that of all famous men. The way to see New York is to slip in quietly and roam around without any committee telling you what to do or where to go. Still, he enjoyed it all, he claims.

Doctor's Fees

There is no place in the world where you can pay more for doctoring than in New York, fees of $3,000 and $5,000 being nothing uncommon for wealthy people to pay. But, on the other hand, if you haven't got a cent, you can probably get the same service from one of the hundreds of free dispensaries.

Dr. Lorenz, of Vienna, once charged Armour $20,000 for an operation on his little daughter, Lolita, in Chicago, and cured her of a hip disease. On his way West he stopped off in this city and treated more than twenty poor children for the same trouble. And none of them paid one cent. That kind of charity, or kindness, is going on all the time here and in most other big cities.

When One Doctor Squawked

One fashionable doctor here who gets top fees, has been in the habit of sending his patients who had bad teeth to a certain dentist. He made him famous, and the tooth-puller finally got to charging $3,000 fees himself.

Recently the doctor's 13-year old son needed dental work and he sent him to the dentist. After the work was done he got a bill. For $3,000. Everybody knows one doctor never charges another for attention and the doctor expected the work to be free.

He squawked like a stuck pig and got the bill down to half, which he paid. The dentist told him he had to charge him full rates because he had only so many hours a day to work and his time was fully taken up. Needless to state, the doctor is now recommending another dentist to his clients.

Great Bus Terminal

A few years ago a small theatre on the edge of the Times Square district found itself unable to draw. The owner closed it down and put it on the market. Because it was so handy to many hotels, the different bus companies clubbed together and turned it into a terminal.

Its big waiting room, with ticket offices at one side and a huge information desk in the center, rivals many of the big railroad stations of the country in size and convenience. One thing noticeable about it is that the crowds are much smaller than in the usual railroad depots, the reason being that instead of busses leaving for some other big city three or four times a day, service is almost hourly and there is none of that bunching as at railroad offices.

HAPPY WASHDAYS

WASHDAY is no longer a day of back-breaking drudgery—for modern and progressive Home-managers. . . They have freed themselves from an every-Monday ordeal over steaming wash-tubs and scrub-board by the simple expedient of having an efficient Electrical Servant do the work.

You, too, can have Mondays for yourself! Install one of the new Fedalco Electric Washers—out washday to but a fraction of the time, work and worry required by old-fashioned methods—and profit by better work, more inexpensively completed! A salesman will be happy to arrange a complete demonstration—in your own home, on your own things. Call him today. Convenient Terms.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

TELEVISIONS

YOU WOULD say she had X-ray eyes . . . was clairvoyant . . . a fortune teller—except that thousands of shoppers see as clearly as she into the contents of perfectly opaque jars, and foretell with the same swift accuracy the future of the things they buy.

Advertising is her television. Advertising gives her complete advance information. Quietly, in a congenial corner of her home, she thinks and determines before she buys. Finding out about the newest foundation cream, the crispest breakfast food, the most gossamer brand of hose. Comparing these with others. Making selections serenely. Going forth to buy . . .

She has only this left to do. No worrying or hesitating when confronted by two jars, each equally inviting. No doubt about their makers. Advertisements have told her the invisible merits—given her clear true images of the contents of those jars, and the results of their use.

Rare is the woman who can boast she has never bought anything she wishes she hadn't bought. But with the aid of advertisements, that sort of buying is almost entirely done away with. A regular reading of advertisements keeps shopping-temper sweet.

BOOKS
The Chicago public library has not had any money from the city with which to buy new books for several months. That has not stopped the young people of Chicago from taking books from the library to read. Instead of the up-to-date, modern novels, they are reading the great classics of literature.

This is a good thing for the young people of Chicago. They are learning, if nothing else, that the newest books are not necessarily the best books, and that a well-told tale is always interesting reading, even if it were written a hundred years ago.

In my opinion, the greatest novel ever written in the English language is "The Way of All Flesh" by the late Samuel Butler. It was written in 1870 and its background is the England of the first half of the nineteenth century, but its people, their points of view, actions and characters are just as true to life as if the book were dated 1930 and the scene set in America.

Fifty years from now very few of the books which have been published in the past ten years will be remembered at all.

BRAINS

Dr. George W. Crile, famous surgeon, told a medical convention recently that most of the heart and kidney diseases which are becoming more and more of a menace are the result of the over-development of the human brain which we use for thinking. is a comparatively recent product of evolution. Civilization has developed the brain more rapidly than the physical body, and the strain that is put upon the body by the activities of the brain result in high blood pressure and heart disease, according to Dr. Crile.

This is both interesting and plausible. In the course of millions of years we may develop a human race with a body totally different in appearance and function from our bodies of today. But whether the man of that remote future will have a more highly developed brain than ours, and a body adapted to nourish the brain, or whether he will have degenerated into a brainless animal is another question.

CONSERVATIVES

I think there are plenty of signs of a definite swing toward what is usually called "conservatism" in politics. People are getting to be afraid of new ideas and new political experiments. The conservative landslide in the English elections was something more than a mere reaction against the party that happened to be in power when economic conditions became bad.

I talked a few nights ago with the head of one of the largest industries in this country. "My directors are in a panic of terror for fear that Communism will become a menace in the United States," he told me. "In the slump of 1921 our company lost $6,000,000 and these directors didn't let it worry them. We have lost only $1,000,000 in the past year and they are scared to death."

How far down the line, economically speaking, this conservative trend may go I can only guess. I am inclined to think, however, that revolutionary radicals are not going to get much encouragement in the election of 1932.

BOXWOOD

The most valuable vegetation that grows in America is boxwood. If you have an old boxwood hedge on your place you can sell it for almost any price you want to ask for it. That is because it takes from a hundred to two hundred years for a boxwood hedge to grow to its fullest beauty and usefulness. From $150 to $500 for a horizontal yard is frequently paid by wealthy men with country estates for old boxwood hedges to be transplanted.

A friend of mine bought an old farm in the Virginia mountains recently for a few thousand dollars. He found that the house was not in very good repair and he was wondering whether he had not paid too much for the property, when a nursery-man came along and offered him $100,000 cash for the ancient boxwood hedge which surrounded the gardens! These boxwood trees were about ten feet high, and there were perhaps a thousand of them in the hedge.

PROPAGANDA

Officers of the Army and Navy are liable to court martial and punishment if they take an active part in political agitation for large appropriations for military purposes. Of course, every admiral and general wants to see more tax money spent on ships and guns than the country can afford. So there are organizations like the Navy League, whose purpose is to spread propaganda in favor of heavier armaments.

President Hoover politely called the head of the Navy League a liar the other day. The investigation of the League's activities, which he promises may put a stop to its efforts to keep war expenditures up in peace time.

WHERE COMMUNISM FALLS DOWN

For several reasons I find it difficult to get as excited as some of my friends about the threat of Communism.

In the first place, we have had universal education in this country for a long time. Nearly all can read and write, and quite a large proportion can think.

In the second place, our wealth, though very inequitably distributed, is enjoyed by a far larger proportion of people than has ever been true in any nation before. Millions own homes, and land and stocks. Few are entirely satisfied; no one imagines the present social structure ideal, but very few care to risk losing what they have on the vague promise of acquiring more.

But there is a third and more fundamental reason. Communism even if it came, would not continue. Some form of capitalistic society would very rapidly take its place.

Here is an interesting illustration.

Back in the latter days of the Civil War, when it was necessary to draft men for the Northern armies, the Indians of the West thought it a propitious time to revolt.

Several regiments of Union soldiers were withdrawn from the front to settle the uprising. A Pennsylvania politician made a smart suggestion.

He said to Abraham Lincoln: "Our Federal military prisons are filled with Southern military prisoners. These boys are young and keen and good fighters, as we have plenty of reason to know. I'll bet that most of them would rather be outdoors fighting the Indians than sitting idly in jail. Why not recruit them into regiments and send them West?"

The proposal was adopted and was immediately successful. But this is what happened in one instance, which throws a fine clear light on the practicability of Communism. I quote from my father's Life of Lincoln:

"A thousand men were enlisted at Alton, Illinois, and Camp Douglas in Chicago. They left Chicago on two special trains. Each man had in his pocket two hundred dollars bounty in United States green backs, and none of them had any other money. During the period of their imprisonment most of them had become habitual card players, if they had not previously been so. It is said that before they reached their destination a very few individuals had the lion's share of the money. Perhaps never before on earth was there so equitable an experiment in the results of starting men out in life on the basis of equal division of property. The equal division appears not to have lasted very long."

Life is a battle and a gamble. We can improve the rules, give fairer handicaps to the less favored, and make the game more humane.

But we can't alter the fundamentals of human nature. Communism tries to do that; and Communism will always fail.

Prune Muffins

Delicious muffins are made from any reliable batter with a pitted prune thrust into the center of each muffin after the batter is poured into the tins. They are baked in the usual way.

Sauteed Carrots

Cut small carrots six times lengthwise, larger ones more times to make sliver-like pieces.

Parboil, drain, and then brown the carrots in hot butter, sprinkling a little sugar over them as they brown. Serve very hot. They are delicious with lamb chops.

Banana Pie

One cup milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch. Put milk and sugar on to boil; when boiling stir in cornstarch dissolved in a little water; let boil until thick and let cool. Bake crust first, put in a layer of sliced bananas, then put in above mixture.

Cocoanut Souffle

1 cup of milk
1 pinch of salt
3 level tablespoons of flour, softened in a little cold milk.
2 level tablespoons of butter
4 level tablespoons of sugar
Yolks of four eggs
1 teaspoon of vanilla
1 cup of shredded cocoanut
Whites of 4 eggs.
Heat milk, add salt and flour and cook ten minutes after it has thickened. Mix together, butter, sugar and yolks of eggs. Pour hot mixture, cover, stirring well and set aside to cool. Add vanilla and cocoanut. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs.

Bake in buttered pan in moderate oven until firm. Serve hot with chocolate sauce.

Sardine Toast

Skin and bone five or six sardines, and separate them into small pieces. Put two tablespoons of milk into a small saucepan with a teaspoonful of butter; add to it the chopped sardine and a teaspoonful of essence of anchovy with a little cayenne and salt to taste. Bring it just to the boil then stand on one side, while you make the toast. Now beat up the yolk of one egg and stir into the mixture. Immediately the egg has thickened, take it off, and spread the mixture on to the toast.

stick on the mantlepiece, I lighted it.

Then I looked about. The house had evidently been hastily closed. Some of the furniture was covered with sheets, while part of it stood unprotected. The rug had been folded into the center of the room, and covered with heavy brown papers, and I was extremely startled to hear the papers rustling. A mouse, however, proved to be the source of the sound, and I pulled myself together with a jerk.

It is to be remembered that I had left my hat and overcoat on a chair near the door. There could be no mistake, as the chair was a light one, and the weight of my overcoat threw it back against the wall.

Candle in hand, I stepped out into the hall, and was immediately met by a crash which reverberated through the house. In my alarm my teeth closed on the end of my tongue, with agonizing results, but the sound died away, and I concluded that an upper window had been left open, and that the rising wind had slammed a door. But my morale, as we say since the war, had been shaken and I recklessly lighted a second candle and placed it on the table in the hall at the foot of the staircase, to facilitate my exit in case I desired to make a hurried one.

Then I climbed slowly. The fog had apparently made its way into the house, for when, halfway up, I turned and looked down, the candlelight was hardly more than a spark, surrounded by a luminous aura.

I do not know exactly when I began to feel that I was not alone in the house. It was, I think, when I was on a chair on top of a table in Arthur's room, with my candle upheld to the ceiling. It seemed to me that something was moving stealthily in the room overhead. I stood there, candle upheld, and every faculty I possessed seemed centered in my ears. It was not a footstep. It was a soft and dragging movement. Had I not been near the ceiling I should not have heard it. Indeed, a moment later I was not certain I had heard it.

My chair, on top of the table, was none too securely balanced. I had found what I was looking for, a part of the plaster ornament broken away, and replaced by a whitish substance, not plaster. I got out my penknife and cut away the foreign matter, showing a small hole beneath, a bullet-hole, if I knew anything about bullet-holes.

Then I heard the dragging movement above, and what with alarm and my insecure position, I suddenly overbalanced, chair and all. My head must have struck on the corner of the table, for I was dazed for a few moments. The candle had gone out, of course. I felt for the chair, righted it, and sat down. I was dizzy and I was frightened. I was afraid to move, lest the dragging thing above come down and creep over me in the darkness and smother me.

And sitting there, I remembered the very things I most wished to forget—the black curtain behind Miss Jeremy, the things flung by unseen hands into the room, the way my watch had slid over the table and fallen to the floor.

Since that time I know there is a madness of courage, born of terror. Nothing could be more intolerable than to sit there and wait. It is the same insanity that drove men out of the trenches to the charge and almost certain death, rather than to sit and wait for what might come.

In a way, I daresay I charged the upper floor of the house. Whatever drove me, I know that, candle in hand, and hardly sane, I ran up the staircase, and into the room overhead. It was empty.

As suddenly as my sanity had gone, it returned to me. The sight of two small beds, side by side, a tiny dressing-table, a row of toys on the mantlepiece, was calming. Here was the children's night nursery, a white and placid room which could house nothing hideous.

I was humiliated and ashamed. I, Horace Johnson, a man of dignity and reputation, even in a small way, a successful after-dinner speaker, numbering fifty-odd years of logical living to my credit, had been running half-maddened toward a mythical danger from which I had been afraid to run away!

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

MORE HEARTS

Living almost in the door of a great city, I naturally notice their vital statistics, and their prevailing causes of death as reported in the newspapers. Listen: Within the last seven days five sudden deaths have occurred, the victims ranging from fifty to sixty years of age. "Heart disease" was the newspaper report, doubtless based on the official death certificate. And the mad, unthinking chase after the dollar keeps right on.

It's the same old story. The business man arises from bed in the morning—probably retired at mid night or later—he hastily swallows a cup of coffee and a half-cooked dish of somebody's "health food." He is too busy to fool with a good breakfast; besides, the wife isn't up yet; it's half-past eight.

He rushes downtown to the office, or to the car-barn, garage, store or what-have-you. Customers are there waiting. He grinds till twelve-thirty; then the lunch counter, a miserable excuse for a meal—it just isn't one. Back to the grind for the second session.

I sat down and mopped my face with my pocket handkerchief.

After a time I got up, and going to a window looked down at the quiet world below. The fog was lifting. Automobiles were making cautious progress along the slippery street. A woman with a basket had stopped under the street light and was rearranging her parcels. The clock of the city hall, visible over the opposite roofs, marked only twenty minutes to nine. It was still early evening—not even midnight, the magic hour of the night.

Somehow that fact reassured me, and I was able to take stock of my surroundings. I realized, for instance, that I stood in the room over Arthur's dressing room and that it was into the ceiling under me that the second—or probably the first—bullet had penetrated.

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK

Six o'clock—he hurries home, ah, dinner! Beefsteak, fried potatoes, coffee, many condiments for stimulation; fritters, omelettes, gravies—a monster feed and plenty of time; it reassures the tired body and nerves. The desserts challenge the capacity of old King Cole, the merry old soul.

The tubby daddy gets short-winded in time,—but he looks so capable with his ample bay-window. He stimulates more—struggles on and on to the fatal fifty to sixty decade, shorter of breath, maybe gets elected to a seat in the city council—dead! Just heart disease; too bad.

Is life of so little worth? I wish I could impress upon my neighbors the danger of the six o'clock dinner!

Buyers' Demand For Mohair In Clothing Is Help To Industry

Insistent demand from buyers that products from the nation's farms and ranges be used in place of inferior synthetic substitutes is responsible for revival in use of mohair as a lining for men's suits and for furniture covering, it is revealed by a survey by the National Wool Marketing corporation.

Swinging away from allowing clothiers to offer good quality linings as substitutes for mohair has been the aim of buyers who are returning to wearing values rather than "cheaper" materials. At the same time the individual who demands mohair for suit linings in his clothing is taking part in the great campaign to use farm produced products in place of the synthetic materials and fabrics, the National points out.

Mohair, the choice raw material produced by the Angora goat, has not only outstanding beauty, but also sturdiness and wearing qualities that have never been questioned. As a lining for coats, and other clothing, it outlasts the suit is comfortable does not wrinkle or absorb moisture and has great strength in every way. It also makes a better fitting and better appearing garment. Buyers who champion the cause of American producers of mohair, cite the great need that "every buyer should be certain his suit is mohair-lined to be assured of quality."

Individuals demanding that their merchants sell them this quality material rather than the substitute are benefitting the general mohair industry and at the same time get more for their money at less actual cost, it is pointed out.

Manufacturers of mohair materials have improved their fabrics greatly in the past few years by extensive tests and better weaving. The quality of goat and kid hair has become better, due to constant breeding up of flocks in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon and Missouri, principal mohair producing states. Fleeces clipped in 1930 averaged 4.3 pounds, compared to 3.6 pounds in 1920, showing that better length, more even texture and uniform quality of the hard wearing fibres has been improved.

Ozona Thrashes Sonora 24 to 6

week's training is by way of pointing for the coming battle. The game will start at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon on Powell Field.

Following is a running account of Saturday's game with Sonora:

Ozona kicked off and the ball was downed on Sonora's 20 yard line. An end run failed to gain and on the next play Ozona dived her first penalty for off-side. Two more line plays failing to gain, Sonora kicked to the 50 yard line. Then the necessary yardage, the Lions kicked and the runner was downed on his own ten yard line. Sonora promptly returned the kick, but Ozona was off-side and when the Bronchs again attempted to kick the ball was fumbled and Schwalbe recovered for the Lions on the 15 yard line. Montgomery failed to gain over the line and Conley Cox then crashed through for 14 yards, to carry the ball to the visitors' 1 yard line. Montgomery bucked it over for the touchdown. The kick for extra point failed.

Bronchs Even Count

Ozona kicked off after the marker and the Bronchs brought the ball back to their own 30 yard line. Although the Lion line was holding like a brick wall on the following plays, somebody was over-anxious and two off-side penalties against the locals gave the visitors a first down. Then came a fake end run play, a beauty, by the way, that temporarily unnerved the Lions. It was a spinner play that went around end, this time for a gain of 22 yards, placing the ball on Ozona's 38 yard line. Again the play was tried, but this time it lost one yard. A third time it was tried and this time it was good for Sonora's lone touchdown. Kring, star Bronch backfield man, loping the remaining distance for the marker. An attempted kick for the extra point failed and the score was tied, 6 and 6.

Sonora kicked off to Schwalbe, who made a neat return to his own 40 yard line. A line plunge failed to gain and then Ozona was off-side again. A pass failed and Chandler then raced around end for a gain of 12 yards. A pass was good for two yards, but the next heave was knocked down and Ozona kicked to Sonora's 20 yard line.

That clever fake end run came up again and was good for a gain of 15 yards, Kring carrying the ball. It was tried again, but it lost 5 yards this time. A line play failed and on the next try Chester Wilson broke through the Sonora line and threw Kring for a five yard loss. The Bronchs kicked to Montgomery on his own 40 yard line just as the quarter ended.

The opening of the second quarter found the locals pounding at the line, tossing passes and getting penalized for off-side. But they were forced to kick and the ball was downed on Sonora's 30 yard line. But the Bronchs soon admitted they couldn't pierce the Ozona line and kicked, Montgomery returning the punt to his own 40 yard line. Joe Chandler skirted end for 6 yards. Vic Montgomery ripped off 10 yards through the line. Another line buck netted 1 yard and Chandler picked up 3 more around end. Montgomery gathered in 7 more and then the Sonora defense stiffened, and Ozona was forced to kick, Conley Cox booting the ball over the goal line, and it was brought out to the 20 yard line.

Wilson Gets Thru

Wilson again sifted through to bounce the visitors for a 3 yard loss and they kicked to Montgomery on his own 45 yard line. A few moments later, Kring jerked down an Ozona pass and was downed on Ozona's 49 yard line. Here the Bronchs sought to cash in on their break and opened up an end running and passing attack, but their passes were unsuccessful and that Wilson again went through and jerked them back two yards, which disheartened the attack and the Bronchs kicked to Montgomery on his own 20 yard line and he sidestepped his way back to his own 38 yard line on the return. After gaining about seven yards via the Chandler around end and Montgomery through center route, the locals were forced to kick and Montgomery booted the ball to Sonora's goal line, the visitors returning it to their 25 yard line.

Phillip Lee Childress went in to the game for Lowell Schwalbe. Kring made a first down on two successive plays but the Ozona line gathered itself together and stemmed that attack and Sonora kicked to Montgomery who was downed on his own 29 yard line. Two thrusts at the line failed and Montgomery lost 5 yards on an attempt to pass just as the half ended.

Clever exhibitions by the Pep Squads from both Sonora and Ozona entertained the crowds during the intermission between halves.

Lions Open Up

Just what it was that Ted White told his lads during the time out between halves is not known, but the fact remains that it didn't take long after the opening of the third period for them to get things in action. The Lions kicked off and the ball was downed on the 35 yard line. Failing to gain, the Bronchs booted to Montgomery on his 40 yard line. Chandler then measured off a beautiful 20 yard gain around end and Montgomery followed him two plays later with an 18 yard gain thru the line, a pretty bit of broken field running. This put the ball on Sonora's 28 yard line. Cox crashed through for 7 yards and Chandler made it a first down on Sonora's 15 yard line. Montgomery then dashed around end for the locals second touchdown. Again the try for point failed and the score was 12 and 6.

The Lions kicked off after this marker and forced the visitors to punt, the ball going out of bounds on Ozona's 48 yard line. Chandler failed to gain at end. Buddy Moore picked up 3 yards through the line and Chandler then stepped off a first down around end, putting the ball on Sonora's 42 yard line. Moore and Montgomery then took turns at butting the line and shoved the ball to a first down on Sonora's 31 yard line. Moore again advanced the ball 4 yards and Cox then found a hole and turned in a gain of 13 yards, downing the ball on the visitors' 14 yard line. Ozona was off-side but Chandler gained the 5 yards back around the wing. Ozona was off-side again but Moore was able to get but 3 yards back. Another off-side and then Chandler gained about 12 yards. A pass failed and the ball went over on the 10 yard line. Sonora hastened to kick out of trouble but kicked into trouble. Montgomery took the punt on the 40 yard line and running behind perfect interference, sifted through the entire Sonora team for a touchdown. It was "no kick" and the score stood 18 to 6.

Lions Constant Threat

Galyon went in for Childress, Galyon taking the half back position and Moore going to end. Ozona kicked over the goal line, but a Bronch attempted to return the ball and was downed on his own 10 yard line. Even a 5 yard penalty against the Lions failed to help the Bronchs and they kicked to Ozona's 45 yard line. Chandler caught a pass on the 50 yard line as the quarter ended.

Smith went in for Hoover at right guard. Montgomery gained 3 yards through the line and Chandler was good for 19 around end. Montgomery failed to gain at center and Cox picked up 3 yards the same route. Ozona was off-side, but Montgomery gained 8 yards through the line. Cox picked up two more and then Montgomery kicked out of bounds on the 12 yard line. Sonora punted but Ozona was off side and on their own 17 yard line the Bronchs passed but it was knocked down and they kicked to Montgomery on the 40 yard line and he returned the punt to the Sonora 25 yard marker. He then picked up 5 yards through the line and gave it to Cox who picked up two more, then carried it himself for 8 more, a first down on Sonora's 9 yard line. Chandler picked up 2 yards through the line and Cox 4 through the same hole. Cox then pushed it over for the fourth touchdown. The kick was bad and the score was Ozona 24, Sonora 6.

Ozona kicked off and the Bronch ball carrier was downed on his own 40 yard line. Galyon then snatched a Sonora pass on the 50 yard line where he was downed. Montgomery and Cox gained 4 yards and 5 yards respectively through the line. Westfall went in for Chandler. The Lions continued a steady march down the field to the 10 yard line. Sonora was off-side and the ball was Ozona's on the 5 yard line. Here the place-kick fake pass was worked, but the receiver was out of bounds and the ball was given to Sonora on the 20 yard line. Westfall intercepted a Bronch pass on the 40 yard line and returned it to the 30 yard line. A pass, Montgomery to Cox, was good for a short gain as the game ended.
