Death Of T. W. Patrick Marks Passing Of Another Pioneer Resident Of Crockett County; Lived Here 35 Years

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the residence for Thomas Walton Patrick, 82, retired ranchman and pioneer Crockett County resident, who died at the family home here at 1:10 o'clock Friday afternoon following an attack of pneumonia. Rev. M. M. Fulmer, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of which Mr. Patrick was a pioneer member, conducted services at the home, the Masonic Lodge taking charge of the rites at the grave side.

Mr. Patrick was the oldest member of the local Masonic lodge. Judge Charles E. Davidson, next to Mr. Patrick in age among members of the order here, acted as master of the lodge and read the impressive burial service, with a group of 40 members of the order taking part. N. W. Graham and B. B. Ingham acted as wardens in the Masonic burial service. Pallbearers were selected from among the older members of the lodge.

Mr. Patrick had been a resident of Crockett County 35 years. He was born in Tennessee January 12, 1850. He came to Texas with his family when he was a small boy. The family penetrated further westward until they reached Ozona in 1897. Mr. Patrick was married in 1874 to Miss Texana Capps, the couple rounding out their 58th year of married life last March.

Eleven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick, nine of them surviving him. They are Tim Patrick of Corsicana, Dim Patrick of Frankston, Texas, John Joe and Jim Patrick of Ozona, Tom Patrick of Pandale, Mrs. R. R. Fields of Ballinger, Mrs. Rufe Everett of Pandale and Mrs. Everett Finigan of San Antonio. The widow also survives.

One of Mr. Patrick's ambitions, often expressed to friends, was to live to see his descendants, counting both the "in-laws" and actual descendants, number a hundred. That ambition was realized just a few days before his death with the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Oden. This youngster, a great grandson of Mr. Patrick, was the hundredth in the line, Mrs. Oden being a daughter of Mrs. R. J. Cooke, one of the deceased daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick.

Mr. Patrick had engaged in the ranching business in this section for many years. He had retired years ago, however, his sons taking charge of the ranch, but he continued to supervise operations until a few years ago when his eyesight failed. He was well posted on worldly affairs until his last illness, keeping in touch with the present-day world through the radio and through telephone conversations with friends. His death marked the passing of another of the old timers, the pioneers who settled the barren areas of West Texas and made it pay.

Concentration Charge On Wool Shipments Is Removed By Santa Fe

R. H. Forbes division freight and passenger agent for the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railroad, was a visitor to Ozona the first of the week conferring with stockmen on their shipping problems and advising them of the elimination of the 10 cent concentration charge heretofore made on shipments of wool from Barnhart to warehouses in San Angelo.

This 10 cent charge for shipment of wool from Barnhart to San Angelo was removed effective September 12 in competition with truck transportation of wool to the concentration centers, Mr. Forbes said.

Under the present ruling, the hauling charge to the concentration point is made against the storage company upon shipment, but the amount is refunded as soon as the wool is moved from warehouses to buyers, the agent said.

Louis Donaho was a visitor to San Angelo Sunday.

Musical Revue To Be Presented Here

"Here Comes The Show Boat" At High School Friday Evening

"Here Comes The Show Boat," a revue in two parts, presented by the San Angelo School of Fine Arts before a packed house at the municipal auditorium in San Angelo recently, will be presented at the High School Auditorium here Friday evening under the auspices of the Ozona Parent-Teacher Association.

The performance was given a rousing reception by the San Angelo audience, according to directors, and was declared by many critics to be one of the best musical programs ever presented in that city. Nearly forty persons take part in the performance, which includes, solo and chorus singing, dancing and vaudeville numbers, lasting approximately an hour and a half.

The performance will start at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Admission charges will be 25 cents for children up to 12 years of age and 35 cents for adults. Proceeds from the performance going to the P. T. A. will be used by that organization in financing the district P. T. A. convention to be held in Ozona next April.

Eldorado Downs Ozona Lions 14-0

Locals To Meet Junction Here Saturday Afternoon

A bad kick which rolled but ten yards, coming after a glorious brick wall stand on the ten yard line, started the Ozona High School Lions on their road to misfortune on the Powell Field gridiron Saturday afternoon in their second conference encounter of the season, against Eldorado. That bad kick plus a 23 yard heave by an Eldorado back to a receiver standing on the Ozona 10 yard stripe and the consequent gallop over the goal resulted in the first marker by the visitors, another being added in the last frame, a well placed kick converting in each case and the final count was 14 to 0 in favor of the Eagles.

The Lions will have some more sharp talons to reckon with on the local battle ground next Saturday afternoon when they entertain the Junction Eagles, another district contender. Coach Ted White is drilling his proteges daily in preparation for this encounter and is still hopeful of a rally that will carry the locals through a successful season the rest of the way.

Last Saturday's game was listless for the most part, with the exception of a few exciting moments when the Lions tightened their defense and fought the Eagles to a standstill in the shadow of the goal posts. Such a moment came shortly before the first Eagle touchdown. The locals had been backed in a steady march down the field to their own 10 yard marker. There they stiffened and in four tries at the line and around the wings, the visitors were unable to gain one inch.

Taking the ball on the 10 yard line, the locals attempted a punt

Car Is Stolen From B.B. Ingham

Ford Parked In Front Of Residence Driven Off By Thieves

A Ford coupe belonging to B. B. Ingham was stolen from in front of the Ingham residence here sometime Monday night.

The car had been parked in front of the home with the key in the switch and the thief or thieves siphoned a tank full of gasoline from Mrs. Ingham's car, a Chrysler, and drove off with the Ford. Sheriff W. S. Willis was notified early Tuesday morning and by long distance telephone and telegraph attempted to spread a net in all directions in an effort to apprehend the thief and recover the car. No word from the missing vehicle had been received up to yesterday afternoon, however.

A transient who had sought lodging at the county jail Monday night was questioned by Sheriff Willis concerning the whereabouts of his companion of the night before. The man declared that his partner had "caught a ride out" the night before. A description of the man was secured by the sheriff and has been broadcast.

Irion County's Bonds Are Sold

Highway Dept. Promises Early Award Of Contracts

Closing of the gap in pavement of the Petroleum Highway through Irion County was assured this week with announcement of the purchase by Ira G. Yates and the San Angelo National Bank of $23,000 worth of the $50,000 bond issue voted by that county for acquiring right-of-way for the highway. Closing of this gap, the last remaining in this important highway, will give Ozona another hard surfaced outlet and a shorter paved road to San Angelo.

The Irion County bond issue carried the first of the year was for $50,000. Of this sum $40,000 is to be used for the acquiring of right-of-way and fencing and $10,000 is to be used for special work on lateral roads.

The San Angelo Board of City Development has pledged the court that it will sell the remaining $30,000 worth of bonds as soon as they are required for work.

The Highway Commission has promised to let two sections of the grading and drainage structures of the 50 miles of road through the county at the first letting in November. The last two sections, which will include the spur from the highway to Sherwood, will be let not later than the first letting in December. The state is to pay for road construction, the county supplying the right-of-way.

The entire highway will stay on the north side of the Orient right-of-way and do away with two dangerous grade crossings over the Orient at just below Tankersly and at Mertzon.

Methodist Picnic To Be Held Friday At 5 On Baggett Ranch

The Methodist Sunday School picnic and weiner roast, which was unavoidable postponed from last Friday afternoon, will be held tomorrow afternoon on the W. R. Baggett ranch north of town. It was announced Sunday by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Meredith.

Methodist folks will meet at the church at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and go from there to the picnic site. Those who do not have a way to go to the outing are asked to communicate with Rev. Meredith or Dr. J. A. Fussell.

Howard Wilson was a visitor to San Angelo Sunday.

"Outstanding in 1932"

The honor and title of being "The outstanding woman in America for 1932" was awarded Amelia Earhart Putnam, in civic ceremonies at Philadelphia. Her solo flight across the Atlantic, the first woman, was the feat which won for her.

Another Beef Canned Today

A. C. Hoover Donates Steer; Goal Of 1000 Cans Is Near

Another beef was being canned this morning in the basement of the grade school building under the direction of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, the meat to be used in meeting relief needs faced by the Red Cross in this county this winter.

A total of 667 cans had been put up before the canning of the beef started this morning. It is believed that the goal of 1000 cans of meat almost will be reached when the work is completed today, one more operation possibly being necessary to fill all cans on hand, according to Rev. M. M. Fulmer, Red Cross chairman and general supervisor of the canning operations. The beef being canned today was donated by A. C. Hoover.

A 3-year-old steer donated by Lee Henderson was put up last week, a total of 288 cans being filled. One hundred sixty-three No. 2 cans were filled Tuesday when eight goats and three lambs were canned.

Rev. Black Attracts Large Crowds For Revival Services

Rev. W. D. Black is attracting large crowds at both morning and evening revival services being conducted at the Church of Christ, according to Rev. L. N. Moody, minister of the local church. Rev. Black was formerly pastor of the local church.

Morning services start at 10 o'clock and evening services at 7:30. Rosa Hufstelder is in charge of the song services.

In the event the musical entertainment sponsored by the local Parent-Teacher Association is held here Friday night, the evening revival services will be rushed up 30 minutes in order to allow the crowds to attend the entertainment, Rev. Moody said. Services on that night will start at 7 o'clock in the event the players are able to get here, he said.

Baptist Revival To Start Next Sunday

Rev. J. A. Kidd, associational missionary for the Pecos Valley Baptist Association, will be here Saturday from his home in Pecos to start a two-weeks revival to be held at the First Baptist Church of Ozona. The meeting will start Sunday morning and continue through Sunday, November 6. The pastor, Rev. M. M. Fulmer, will be in charge of the inspirational song services to be held with each meeting.

To Amputate Leg Of Willis Child

Doctors Give Up Hope Of Saving Infected Member

Adelia Willis, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Willis, who has been in a critical condition the past two months suffering from an infection of the knee joint which followed an accident in which the knee was pierced by the blade of a pair of scissors, will undergo an operation for removal of the leg probably Friday, it was learned here early this morning.

Dr. F. T. McIntire, who has performed several operations on the infected leg in an effort to save the member, has abandoned hope of saving it, according to reports this morning, and has advised its amputation.

Dr. McKelvey of the Kings Daughters Hospital in Temple, family surgeon for the Willis family while they resided in Bell County before coming here, has been summoned to assist Dr. McIntire in the operation. Dr. McKelvey is expected to arrive in San Angelo tonight and will come to Ozona by auto Friday. The operation will be performed in Dr. McIntire's office here. Three surgical nurses are also here to assist in the operation.

General Election Ballots Printed

Absentee Voting Period Opened Tuesday; None Are Cast Here

Ballots for the general election to be held November 8 were printed this week in the Ozona Stockman commercial printing department and were delivered to County Clerk George Russell Tuesday, the day the absentee voting period officially opened. No absentee ballots had been cast here for the general election, however, up to late Wednesday afternoon.

The 1932 ballots are a record for size, the local ballots being 22 inches by 27 inches in size. The ballot contains seven voting columns, with six named parties and an independent column. Democratic, Republican, Liberty, Jacksonian, Socialist and Communist parties have their tickets on the ballot, with one blank column for independents.

The ballot also contains nine proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of Texas, which are to be decided by the voters at the general election.

Mrs. Ira Carson Is Named President Of Parent-Teacher Assn

Mrs. Ira Carson was elected president of the Ozona Parent-Teacher Association at the regular meeting of the association Monday afternoon. Mrs. Carson succeeds Mrs. Welton Bunger, who resigned the post when it became impossible for her to serve by reason of the fact that she will not be here this winter. Mr. and Mrs. Bunger are living on the ranch and sending their children to school at Pandale.

Dues of the organization were reduced to 50 cents a year by action of members present Monday. It was decided to sponsor the sale of Christmas Health seals here again this winter. Funds derived from sale of the Christmas seals are used in the constant war on tuberculosis.

Four girls who are members of gym classes at the Ozona High School and whose parents are unable to provide the regulation gym suits for them will have brand new suits in the next few days, the gift of the Ozona Lions Club. The club voted Monday to provide the girls with the suits when their plight was placed before the organization.

COUNTY SEEKS STATE O.K. OF BOND REFUND

Commission Asked To Release $85,000 Held In Escrow

WOULD RETIRE 190

Court Would Wipe Out Half Of Obligation For Road Work

Consummation of the Crockett County Commissioners Court's order, passed at its session last week retiring $190,000 of the $375,000 bond issue voted to meet state and federal aid on this county's road building program, awaited final release by the state Highway Commission of $85,736.26 held in escrow for application on work for which contracts have already been let.

Minutes of an adjourned session of the court held Tuesday reveal that the Central National Bank of San Angelo, where Crockett County bond funds are on deposit, has declined to retire the bonds from the available funds until the Highway Commission waives its claims to all the funds ordered paid over.

Responding to a telegram sent the department by Judge Charles E. Davidson requesting the department to order the bank to release to Crockett County the unexpended balance of the bond funds, Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, in a letter gave an itemized statement of the funds of this county already expended on road work, the amount in escrow and the cash balance in the bank. Mr. Gilchrist asserted that the telegram to the department was vague as to its meaning but he asserted that his office was going on the presumption that the county desired the department to release $85,736.26 now held in escrow in the bank on contracts already let.

Mr. Gilchrist cited a recent ruling of the commission to the effect that monies in escrow on contracts pending would not be included in the refunding program as provided by the legislative act which became effective September 17 by which the state assumes the indebtedness of counties contracted for improvement of state highways.

In concluding his letter, however, Mr. Gilchrist advised that if the county wished to have the $85,000 escrow money released for

Highway Projects Offer Employment

Applicants Must Sign Blanks At County Clerk's Office

Every physically fit man in Crockett County who is out of employment will be given first consideration for employment in high way construction work now under way in this county under the terms of the federal emergency unemployment relief act under which the new road contracts are being let.

All that is required of those seeking employment on these jobs is that they file their names and qualifications on special blank cards now in the hands of County Clerk George Russell. These application blanks will be kept on file in the Clerk's office and the lists made available to contractors on the road jobs. Contractors are required wherever practicable to employ local labor on the federal emergency projects.

The minimum wage scale as set by the federal government is 30 cents an hour for unskilled labor and 45 cents an hour for skilled labor. The maximum limit for labor is 30 hours per week.

THE PARTISAN'S DUTY

Franklin Roosevelt's "parfit gentil knight" spoke the other day in Pennsylvania the only word that can win that stronghold to the Democratic standard: "We should never put party above country, and even though we are extreme party men, if we are honest and patriotic, we necessarily want to have our party command the respect of honest people..."

Old-line Democrats in Texas shout to hear that doctrine in Pennsylvania—but shiver as at vile sacrilege upon the mere whisper of it within the confines of the Lone Star State. Yet consider how powerful and how diverse is the call to independent voting:

Senator Norris speaking under Roosevelt's auspices: "The duty we owe to any honest party makes it necessary for us to criticize our party when we think it is wrong; condemn wrong and evil wherever we find it; punish debauchery in high places; so that in low places they can not say that those high up go free, while ordinary men must go to jail."

Franklin Roosevelt: "All over this country I have been preaching the doctrine that the choice this fall is one which involves a purpose and principle deeper than any party."

Gen. M. M. Crane: "I think that the pledge in a primary election is quite as binding as any legal contract, but it can be canceled for the same reason that a legal contract can be canceled. When any party to a legal executory contract charges and stands ready to prove that it was procured by fraud and illegality and the party against whom the charge is made, the other party is unquestionably released from performance of his part of that executory contract."

James E. Ferguson (in Ferguson Forum, Sept. 23, 1926): "You are an American citizen—free and independent. Go to the polls and vote as you please, regardless of whether or not you went into the Democratic primary."

George Washington (in his Farewell Address): "Let me now take a more comprehensive view, and warn you in the most solemn manner against the baneful effects of the spirit of party generally. This spirit, unfortunately, is inseparable from our nature, having its root in the strongest passions of the human mind. It exists under different shapes in all Governments, more or less stifled, controlled or repressed; but in those of popular form it is seen in its greatest rankness and is truly their worst enemy."

Meanwhile the management of the Democratic party of Texas, as Senator Norris says the managements of all parties everywhere do, demands regularity, right or wrong, though "in reality they are for no party. If they can not control the nominees of a party, they leave it without a second thought"—as James E. Ferguson did without hesitation, concealment or apology.—Dallas News.

SCANDALS By THE TOWN GOSSIP

Well customers, old T. G. is back in town after perambulating hither and yon over the United States and Mexico in search of a dry climate. You know, T. G. originally became a resident of Crockett County on account of the High, Dry climate which his doctor advised for him and I want you to know that somebody was most certainly misinformed or uninformed when he said that West Texas is a semi-arid country, precipitation, 16 inches annually. My old malady, water on the brain, has set in again and I don't know what in the world I will do for relief.

That great Spanish Athlete, Ye Editor, wired me COLLECT, praying that I return and saying that Ye OZONA STOCKMAN was on the verge of bankruptcy, due to the fact that fully 50% of his cash customers, five of them to be exact, had absolutely refused to "kick in with the dinero" unless T. G. the man who "sees everything, hears everything, tells everything" be persuaded or forced to return to his post of duty. So what was I to do.

So here I am—I haven't been in town long enough yet to have been able to pick up the latest in the scandal line, and ask that all of you send in the juiciest bits of gossip you know—it doesn't necessarily have to be the truth—to T. G. care of Ozona Stockman, Ozona, Texas.

Just this little one that I picked up on my way home—I really hate to tell this as it happens to be on our one-time staunch Democrat, Mr. O. W. Smith—but you know, truth will out, sooner or later anyhow so here goes—

As I entered Crockett County on my way back to Ozona, I noticed a dejected, disconsolate figure of a man in front of me. Thinking I was encountering one of the "Hoover Tourists" and being of a naturally charitable nature, I stopped and asked the poor fellow if he cared to ride. Imagine my surprise when the individual turned out to be Olney. I recognized him instantly and though he has seen me several times around the old home town, he was too preoccupied with his troubles to pay any attention to who I was; about the only thing he was interested in at the time was to give his feet a rest. He didn't even deign to reply to my query but started to enter, what I laughingly refer to, as my car. I detained him thusly—

"Wait a minute, bo—before you ride with me, I must know your politics."

"I'm a Democrat," quoth O. W. "I'm sorry, but I don't allow anyone but Republicans to ride with me," I told him.

Poor Olney thought it over. As I said above he had been a good old dyed-in-the-wool Democrat for many years but he had come to the point where he was desperate; he was still many miles from home, tired, hungry and thirsty; the temptation was too great for him to resist, so he was converted. About ten minutes later we passed a place where a herd of fat sheep were penned.

"Let me out for a minute—I want to catch one of those fat lambs," said Mr. Smith.

"What will you do with a lamb?" I asked him.

"Nothing," replied Olney—"but having been a Republican so long, I feel I just have to steal something."

Famous epitaphs: "Here lies an atheist. All dressed up and no place to go."

At last we've figured it out—why news of weddings has been so plentiful of late. Just two and a half months of Leap Year yet to go.

Shorty Lawrence just loves flow-ers. But it's the sentiment that really counts, he says. That's the reward of being big and strong and handsome—the girls just will fall for it and bring in the bouquets.

Doing Their Stuff Now

By Albert T. Reid

BRUCE BARTON

Writes of "THE MASTER EXECUTIVE"

Supplying a work-to-work inspiration for the busy, loaden who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

A CAREER OPENS UP

Is it not high time for a larger reverence to be given to that quiet unassuming Joseph the Father of Jesus? To Mary, his wife, the church has assigned a place of eternal glory; and no thoughtful man can fail to be thankful for it. But with the glorification of Mary there has been an almost complete neglect of Joseph. This is partly because Mary lived to be known and remembered by the disciples, while nobody remembered Joseph.

Was he just an untutored peasant, married to a superior woman, and baffled by the genius of a son whom he could never understand? Or was there, underneath his self-effacement, a vigor and faith that molded the boy's plastic years? Was he a happy companion to the youngsters? Did he carry the youngest, laughing and crowing on his shoulders from the shop? To these questions the narrative gives no answer. And since this is so—we have a right to form our own conception of the character of this vastly significant and wholly unknown man, and to be guided by the one momentous fact which we do know.

It is this. He must have been friendly and patient and fine; he must have seemed to his children to be an almost ideal parent—for when Jesus sought to give mankind a new conception of the character of God, he could find no more exalted term for his meaning than the one word "Father."

Thirty years went by, Jesus had discharged his duty; the younger children were big enough for self-support. The strange stirrings that had gone on inside him for years were crystallized by the reports of John's success. The hour of the great decision arrived; he hung up his tools and walked out of town.

What sort of looking man was he that day when he appeared on the bank of the Jordan and applied to John for baptism? Unfortunately the Gospel narratives supply no satisfying answer to these questions; and the only passage in ancient literature which purports to be a description of him has been proved a forgery. Nevertheless, it requires only a little reading between the lines to be sure that almost all the painters have misled us. They have shown us a frail man, under-muscled, with a soft face—a woman's face covered by a beard—and a benign but baffled look, as though the problems of living were so grievous that death would be a welcome release.

This is not the Jesus at whose word the disciples left their business to enlist in an unknown cause. And for proof of that assertion consider only four aspects of his experience: the health that flowed out of him to create health in others; the appeal of his personality to women—weakness does not appeal to them; his lifetime of outdoor living; and the steel-like hardness of his nerves.

ABOUT MUSIC

By Fred Wilson

"What can America do to save her musical soul?" is a common question among musicians today.

Of course we must admit that radio and sound pictures have reduced professional musicians to near the vanishing point. But I must dispute the oft heard statement that the musical soul of America is imperiled thereby.

In this hour of sympathy for the enormous number of professional musicians out of employment, let us not confuse their deplorable plight with the unusual activities and increased interest of an enlarged host of amateurs in music. The few outstanding musical artists represent only the flower, whereas the great body of amateurs representing the musical root and stem of America itself, have been stimulated by access to the better radio programs.

Children very rarely study music with the expectation of financial reward. For some inherent reason, little girls want to play the piano and sing. Boys are irresistibly attracted to bands and orchestras. If you doubt this, just note the average boys desire to pound a drum, toot a horn or scrape a fiddle. Members of school bands and orchestras receive no mercenary reward. They are not actuated by expectation of financial remuneration. They play for the love of "making" music. Personal performance in music is a natural outlet and manner of expressing themselves.

My thirty-five years observation and personal association with musicians and teachers of the art leads me to the conclusion that no child ever took up the study of music with a view to making a living, fame or fortune, therefrom. Professional musicians invariably become such by accident, not forethought. Their ability as amateurs attracted attention of employers always on the alert for talent.

I am not recommending any boy to become a professional musician. Let his dominant ambition be that of a doctor, lawyer, engineer or some such profession which requires less time and less study and pays several times as much money.

Our forefathers had no music in their churches and many of them went to their graves insisting that a "fiddle" was possessed of the devil. Just think how much more spiritual inspiration they would have received from the old fashioned, non-political, hellfire and brimstone sermons, had they been introduced by a nice or-ers; the appeal of his personality to women—weakness does not appeal to them; his lifetime of outdoor living; and the steel-like hardness of his nerves.

A home without music is like a town without a postoffice.

Parents should encourage their children to play music, not only because it is a great cultural advantage, but because it is a natural and laudible outlet for human emotions. Every child so desiring should learn to sing or play some instrument for the reason that throughout his or her entire life it will furnish rest, relaxation, entertainment, inspiration and much personal satisfaction.

I am not particularly concerned whether or not we propagate great artists, with long hair and squint eyes, who will sway the world but I am anxious to see every child have through music, a chance to place itself in tune with the infinite. Birds do not sing for pay. Personal participation in music is its own reward.

Far better were it that parents gave more thought to musical training for their children, and less to the family bootlegger.

SHE'S BIG ENOUGH, THANK YOU!

"Monty's Magazine" asks the question: "Will Texas continue to grow?"

Let's hope not, she's big enough already. "Will Texas continue to grow?" Why, bless your life, Monty, she's larger now than Italy, England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland all put together with the states of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and Massachusetts all thrown in for good measure. Why, man, Texas has one county, Brewster, that's as large as Connecticut and Rhode Island put together, and larger than Alsace and Lorraine combined. Our two neighboring counties, Pecos and Crockett, together are as large as the state of New Jersey. Our own Upton county is larger than the state of Rhode Island, while Brewster and Crockett counties together are as large as the whole Palestine.

"Will Texas continue to grow?" Please your honor, sir, the King Ranch in South Texas is larger than the whole state of Delaware, while it is as far from Texarkana, Texas, to El Paso, Texas, as it is from Texarkana to Chicago. In fact, Texas is so large that if it were turned over toward the east it would cover every other state between it and the Atlantic Ocean and the Texas Panhandle would reach far enough out into the ocean that it would start a tidal wave that would inundate the British Isles.

As to the size of Texas in point of population, she is bound to grow—it's too great a country for there to be only 22 persons to the square mile.—McCamey News.

STANDARDIZATION AND ADVERTISING CUT COSTS

I heard a speaker the other day criticize advertising for standardizing our lives and then launch into a long and eloquent appeal for a special kind of patriotism that he considered essential.

As I heard him, I felt that he was wrong on both issues. He was wholly wrong, perhaps, but wrong for the most part. It strikes me that there are two kinds of standardization, physical and mental. You can't separate them completely, because each affects the other but somewhat of a line can be drawn.

Physical standardization, up to a certain point, is a good thing. We are living in a machine age. It offers us comforts and luxuries such as have never been possible before. But it offers us these only through the adoption of mass production, which means standardization, and through advertising, which is the most potent means for distributing the standardized products. Thus we get sound, reliable products at a price that we can pay. Standardization generally reduces prices. What, for instance, would we have to pay for an automobile if every car was custom-built by a small group of mechanics who produced cars only for the people of a little community? This is the way carriages were built; at one time it is the way all articles used to be produced, except the considerable list of things, from soap to trousers, that were made in the individual home.

I admit that something has been lost in the shift to standardized products. The old idea of craftsmanship is not prevalent any more, and it was—and is—a fine ideal. Even so, however, it has not disappeared altogether. Some time ago I saw an exhibition of modern French furniture which was strictly craft work. It was as beautiful, to my eyes, as any furniture that I have ever seen. Yet it would have cost approximately four thousand dollars to furnish one moderate-sized room with it. Craft work can still be obtained, but the price is prohibitive to most of us.

As a matter of fact, it always was. The average person's home today is much better furnished than the average home was at any previous time in history. The fine furniture, the fine food, the fine homes, of older days belonged to the rich. Mass production and advertising have brought something of fineness into the physical surroundings of everyday folk.

Moreover, mass production and advertising have shortened the hours of labor in industry, in trade, and in the home. A degree of physical standardization gives us more leisure.

But if we use this leisure in an effort to standardize our thinking, as the speaker that I heard urged, it will be about the end of progress. Standard brands of opinion and ideals have never done any good. We do well to keep some physical standardization, but use the leisure it gives to keep our minds free and individual as we need as much variety of opinion as we can get.—Nelson A. Crawford, Household Magazine, Topeka, Kansas.

BUY IT IN OZONA!

And Pay For It Promptly!

There is no gainsaying the fact that people in this world are interdependent upon each other. A bare existence from the fruits of nature is the best that one could hope for in a life alone in the world. And what a drab existence that would be.

Cities were built because people are willing to band together, to live in peace and harmony, to work with each other in development projects, and they are each dependent upon the others for the continued progress of their community. Without community cooperation, cities could not have developed.

Ozona business firms exist to meet a popular demand. If people are to make their homes in Ozona, they must have a place to trade that is convenient. People would not band themselves together to build fine homes on a bald prairie without first assuring themselves that they would have a trade center convenient. In other words, without business life there can be no town; people might as well live on their ranches. Of course, schools attract people to population centers, but without the convenience of ready channels of trade the schools would never have come into the present-day stage of development which makes it possible for children to receive the best in training at a minimum cost.

The better the stores a town boasts the more convenient are purchases, the greater the assortment of stocks carried, the lower prices. Better stores are built from the greater volume of trade. Profit from the re-sale of merchandise go to pay salaries of owners, managers and employes and other overhead expenses and to improve the service to customers. The greater the profit, then, the better the store will be. The greater the volume of business, the lower prices will be, for profits can be narrowed as the volume increases to allow the same return.

You may not owe an obligation to your merchant to trade with him whenever possible, but you do owe that obligation to your town. It is to your advantage as a citizen to promote the best interests of your town and the best interests of your town will be served by giving its business firms as much of your trade as possible.

Prompt payment of current accounts is an obligation that rests squarely on you. Delay in settlement of your account costs your merchant real money—money that he could save on discounts, interest that he could save on money that he must borrow in order to keep up his service to customers. It is not enough that your intentions are the best and your credit rating excellent—neither one can be offered as collateral at the bank. Your credit rating is based on how you pay your bills, not what your reputation has been in the past, not what your intentions are for the future.

CHECKING UP ON SPORTS BY JACK ADAMS

The new motor boat record almost equals the fastest speed of the automobile in 1910. That year, Barney Oldfield on the sand beach at Daytona, did 131.76 m.p.h. for a straightway mile.

Last year Hobart College's football team scored 39 points while its opponents scored 276. Hobart won one game during the season, its final game with the University of Rochester.

An all-time record for salmon taken on the fly was established the other day in the Miramichi River, Fredericton, Canada, when Harry R. Wellman, Dartmouth College professor, landed one weighing 35 pounds, 2 ounces. The fish was landed after a battle of four hours.

One of a pair of dice apparently used in games of chance by inhabitants of ancient Mesopotamia, has been acquired by the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The dice, dating from about 2750 B. C., was found at Tepe Gawra. It is cubical in shape and is made of baked clay. Whereas modern dice are so marked that the sum of the dots on any two opposite sides total seven, the numbers on the ancient cube are arranged so that five opposes four and two opposes three.

Bullington Drive Gains Momentum

Wichita Falls Man Making Whirlwind Gubernatorial Campaign

The fourth week of his state-wide speaking tour completed, Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, is well-pleased with the receptions given him on his trip and is confident that the rising tide of support coming to him from the Democratic ranks will give him a substantial margin of victory when ballots are cast November 8 in the race for the Governorship of Texas.

With about three weeks in which to finish his campaign itinerary and less than half the State yet to be covered, Bullington will have appeared in practically every county before he closes his drive. Traveling by automobile, he already has covered more than 5,000 miles and has made more than 100 speeches.

Opening his campaign with an address at Waco September 19, Bullington swung across into North and Northeast Texas, then into Northwest and West Texas and back through Central Texas into the Southwest and the Rio Grande Valley. His itinerary also carried him along the Mexican Border and the Gulf Coast. He still is to make another swing through the West and into the Panhandle, after which he will tour East and Southeast Texas and finish up his drive back into Central and North Texas cities.

Throughout the State those who are tired of political strife in Austin and who are unwilling to experience another Ferguson administration, are not only supporting Bullington but also are working for him. Everywhere Bullington-for-Governor Clubs, Bullington-Democrat Clubs and Anti-Ferguson Clubs have been organized and the people, Bullington cited, are "becoming thoroughly aroused to the crisis which is faced by the State and the necessity for laying aside partisan views in the interest of the high principles involved."

An analysis of Bullington's campaign speeches shows clearly a program of governmental reform and improvements to relieve the farmer, home-owner and others now overburdened by taxation of the unfair responsibilities now borne by them and a more equal distribution of the tax burden. He also favors home rule for counties desiring it, a penitentiary system that will be self supporting, elimination of the pardon and parole peddling racket, fair and indiscriminate enforcement of probation in Texas oil fields, protection of the small merchant from the chain store systems, a conference of State Governors to relieve unemployment through a plan of reduced hours without sacrifice of pay, regulation of public utilities, maintenance of present highways and improvement of lateral roads in counties which have been mud-bound for years and nine months of school in all communities.

Dr. A. L. Lewis, who practiced here during the absence of Dr. F. T. McIntire while the latter was in a San Angelo hospital recovering from an operation, has established an office in the Western Reserve building in San Angelo.

J. H. McClure spent the week-end in San Angelo. Mrs. McClure accompanied him here and will remain for a few days visit.

Mother Perner Gives School Pictures Of Murdered Presidents

By Tommy Smith

Mrs. Mary Perner has presented the High School with the picture of the three presidents who were assassinated. The pictures are of Lincoln, assassinated in 1865, Garfield, assassinated in 1881, and McKinley, assassinated in 1901. They are framed in a hand made frame that is fifty years old. The picture has been placed in the history room. It bears the following inscription: "Presented by Mother Perner—1932."

SUNFLOWER CLUB

Chinese Customs As Revealed in Novel Is Club Meet Topic

A study of the novel, "The Good Earth" by Pearl S. Buck, furnished one of the most interesting meetings of the club year for the Ozona Junior Woman's Club last Thursday. Miss Ludee Mae Harrison was leader, with Mrs. Hugh Childress, Jr., and Mrs. Massie West as hostesses. The meeting was held in a classroom on the third floor of the new High School building.

A summary of the plot of the novel was given by Mrs. Richard Flowers and a paper prepared by Mrs. Warren Clayton on "Chinese Customs as Revealed in the Good Earth" was read by Miss Hester Bunger. Miss Aileen Hampton discussed characters in the novel and the program was rounded out with an open discussion of the work.

DONAHO BUYS INTEREST OF QUIST IN GARAGE

The partnership of Donaho and Quist, operators of the service station under that name, was dissolved last week through purchase by Louis Donaho of the interests of Arthur Quist in the business. Mr. Quist has moved to Austin where he has secured a position with a garage there. Mr. Donaho will continue to operate the business here.

METHODIST NOTES

The Methodist Sunday School picnic which was unavoidable postponed will be held Friday evening at The Baggett picnic ground. All are to meet at the church at five o'clock. Those who do not have a way to go will see the pastor or Dr. J. A. Fussell.

Preaching services next Sunday morning at eleven and Sunday night at seven forty-five. The Hi-League will furnish the music for Sunday night.

This is the last Sunday of the Annual Conference year, were not this the case we would dismiss our night services for the revival services at the other churches.

There will be no preaching services at the Methodist Church next Sunday, October 20, as the Methodist preachers of the conference will be at San Antonio, receiving their appointments for the next year.

Texas Wool Industry

By W. E. TALBOT

Editor's Note—This is the sixth of a series of articles dealing with the possibilities of the wool industry in Texas. Colonel Talbot, managing director of the Southwest Industrial Development Bureau, is an acknowledged authority on the subject of industrialization for Texas.

Copyright, 1932, Southland Life Insurance Co.

The figures on scouring and the profits to accrue have been based upon the wool and mohair production of Texas alone.

Let us now consider the possibilities of wool alone from tributary States, where it would be cheaper to ship to Texas points for scouring than to ship to New England, through the saving that could be effected by the actual shipping of the finished wool rather than the dirt and grease.

Based on recent figures, these States produce a total of approximately 265,000,000 pounds of wool that could be shipped to Texas cheaper than to Boston. Tributary to Boston, where this same advantage exists, there is raised only around 43,000,000 pounds. Yet, here we are creating wealth far removed from the source of production for other people who have had the brains and the initiative to take advantage of our lack of business acumen.

The opportunities for profit should be apparent to you. The resulting industries would give employment to thousands of our people. They would bring in new money that would remain with us in purchasing power and credit. Of course, it is realized that it would be necessary to have freight rates that permit of scouring in transit, which would, I believe, be easily arranged should the volume justify it.

Another advantage that would accrue to our own people would be that the price would be fixed on wool in the Southwest and West, instead of the way it is now done, by Boston and on an English market to which we neither export nor import. So much for the advantages that could accrue to our own people when we wake up, from the scouring of wool alone.

Next week: "Benefits That Accrue From the Manufacture Into the Finished Article."

which went bad, the ball hopping along the ground just ten yards, Eldorado bringing it back to the 15 yard line. Then, it looked like the Lions were to have a break when a bad pass from center set the Eagles back to the 33 yard line. But then came that disastrous heave, a beautiful running throw by a southpaw back that was gathered in by the receiver on the 10 yard line with nobody between him and the goal. The Eagles were again on the Ozona 19 yard line with a first down and going strong when the whistle ended the half.

The Lions made their only threat of the game in the third frame when they blocked an Eldorado kick and recovered on the 11 yard line. But four tries resulted in only one yard gain and the ball went over on the 10 yard line.

Early in the fourth quarter the locals lost the ball on their own 35 yard line when an ineligible man took a pass and the visitors marched it to the 22 yard stripe when they were held for downs. On the first play, the locals tossed a pass which was intercepted, the runner crossing the goal line for the second touchdown. The rest of the game was a desperate but unavailing attempt on the part of the Lions to score.

The Spread of Power Is the Spread of Industry

What does it mean when electric power is distributed widely over the countryside to small towns and farms? Such is the task that has been accomplished by the building of far-flung power lines in the past twenty years. What is its effect?

It means that industry can operate as efficiently in small communities as in the large cities. It means a better distribution of industrial activity, with an improvement of working conditions and a reduction in manufacturing costs.

Industry is following the power line to the small community... and here in West Texas, the "Land of Opportunity," the West Texas Utilities Company is leading industries to the 125 progressive cities and towns dependably served from its 2,500-mile transmission line network.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?
