CROCKETT CO. GOES 3 TO 1 FOR STERLING

Local Voters Swamp Proxy Government 488 To 153

MA LOSES 4 VOTES

Sterling Doubles His First Primary Vote As Ma Drops Off

A dogged campaign to swamp Fergusonism in Crockett County and to put this county on the side of anti-proxy government in no uncertain terms produced results, judging from the count of ballots in Saturday's run-off primary. Governor Ross S. Sterling was given a three-to-one vote in this county over Mrs. Ferguson, the final count being 488 to 153. Mrs. Ferguson's total was four under her vote in the first primary in this county while Sterling's vote was more than doubled. The Ferguson dropped eight votes in the Ozona box over the first primary total.

With the exception of the governor's race and the race between Pink Parrish of Lubbock and George B. Terrell of Cherokee County for Congressman-at-Large Place No. 1, Crockett County voters favored the candidates who won out in the final count over the state.

C. V. Terrell was more than two to one the favorite over Lee Satterwhite for the six-year term on the railroad commission, the vote being 426 for Terrell and 166 for Satterwhite. Terrell is the nominee, the unofficial count for the state shows.

Crockett voters picked another winner in Ernest O. Thompson over W. Gregory Hatcher for the four-year term on the railroad commission, according him a narrow margin of three votes over his opponent. The vote was 279 for Thompson and 276 for Hatcher.

Pink Parrish, who was defeated for the Congressman-at-Large place by Mr. Terrell, was given a majority of 48 votes, the count being 304 to 256.

Joseph W. Bailey, Jr., who piled up a spectacular majority over Cyclone Davis for Congressman-at-Large in Place 2, was favored in this county 341 to 226.

Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, another successful candidate, was the pick of local voters over Joe Burkett of San Antonio, a member of the Highway Commission under the last Ferguson regime when the highway department was the center of the rank Ferguson scandals. The vote was 388 for Strong to 185 for Burkett.

William Pierson, who won the nomination for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court by a narrow margin over his opponent, J. E. Hickman, received a majority of 99 votes in this county, the totals being 324 to 225.

Busby Holds Services At Church Of Christ, Last Meeting Tonight

Evangelist Horace W. Busby of Fort Worth, one of the most popular evangelists ever to hold services in the local Church of Christ and who conducts fruitful meetings at the local church every year, is here for a short visit with friends this week. He is holding services at the Church of Christ each night while here, services having been held Tuesday and Wednesday nights, the last of the series being slated tonight.

Rev. L. N. Moody, minister of the church, is away on an evangelistic tour, leaving early in the summer. Rev. Busby is drawing splendid crowds at his meetings this week. Everybody is invited to these services.

Mrs. Joe Hull and children leave Friday morning to take up their residence in Carthage, Texas.

Mutual Helpfulness Of Trading At Home Is Stressed In Talk At Lions Meet To Launch Movement In Ozona

A movement to bring to the attention of Crockett County people the mutual benefits that will accrue to the merchants of Ozona, to the people themselves and to the community as a whole from a conscientious effort on the part of Ozona people to trade at home, to buy from Ozona merchants wherever possible and to keep their dollars at home rather than send them to mail order houses and out-of-town merchants, was started by a group of merchants and citizens at the regular meeting hour of the Lions Club at the Hotel Ozona Monday noon.

More than twenty merchants of the city were guests of the Lions Club at this meeting when a plan of action as worked out by a committee from the club was presented.

Preliminary to opening the discussion of campaign plans, Rev. M. M. Fulmer as spokesman for the committee, presented a lucid discussion of the two sides of the buy-at-home question, the merchant's side and the people's side. Rev. Fulmer pointed out in the beginning that his talk was to be from the standpoint of a consumer and represented the results of his observations from that standpoint.

Reciting the obligations of the merchant in a buy-at-home drive, the speaker pointed out that the merchant must in a measure compete with out-of-town firms in price. People do not expect the merchant in a small town to always meet the prices of the larger city firms nor do they expect them to meet the mail-order prices. People are willing for the most part to pay a little more for the added convenience of buying at home, but they do expect the merchant to give them a fair deal from the price standpoint.

Keeping an up-to-date store and window display is another obligation that rests on the merchant, he said. An attractive display helps to sell home people on home merchandise.

Advertising was another merchandising method advocated for the merchant in his effort to draw the trade of his home people. The mail order houses and the big merchants recognize the value of this selling medium, he declared, and if the small town merchant expects the trade of his home people, he must seek it through attractive and newsy advertising.

Truthfulness in all dealings with his customers and a spirit of fairplay in every consideration were other obligations cited for the merchant's observance.

Giving consideration to the home merchant first was the first obligation which the speaker im-

Let Contracts On West Hi-way Soon

Balance Of Stretch To County Line To Be Let This Month

Contracts for grading and drainage structures on approximately 24 miles of the Old Spanish Trail Highway from Live Oak Creek east to a point nine miles west of Ozona will be let at the meeting of the Highway Commission in Austin September 19 and 20, according to information received here.

If contract on this stretch of road is let at the September meeting of the commission it will complete the contracts for grading and drainage on the entire east and west highway through this county. Included in this letting will probably be the immense fill to be made on the grade down the mountain near old Fort Lancaster, this project alone requiring several months for completion, according to estimates.

J. S. Wade, contractor for the first nine miles of the west road out of Ozona, reported the first of this week at the office of Exline Martin, state highway engineer. Mr. Wade, who was awarded the grading and drainage contract on this stretch of road nearly two months ago, is more than thirty days late in starting the work. He will operate two steam shovels on the project, however, and expects to have the job completed on time. Bridge contractors have been at work several weeks.

Thomason Thanks Crockett Voters For Heavy Majority Here

Congressman R. E. Thomason of El Paso, who was overwhelmingly re-elected to a second term in Congress from the sixteenth district of Texas in the first Democratic primary, expressed his appreciation for the vote he received in Crockett County in a letter received by the Stockman this week, written from El Paso and dated August 26. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. White: I regret that I have not had opportunity to write you before this and express by appreciation for your support in the Primary, as well as thank you for the other courtesies you have shown me through your paper during my term in Congress.

"It was disappointing to me that I was unable to see more Ozona people during the campaign, but you may be sure that I am deeply grateful for the vote I received there.

"Please let me hear from you whenever I can be of any service to you or the people of Crockett County.

"With kind regard, I am,
Sincerely your friend,
R. E. THOMASON.

Bishop Predicts Best School Year

Supt. Urges Continued Co-Operation With Authorities

Everything points to one of the most successful years in the history of Ozona schools the coming term, John L. Bishop, superintendent, declared in a statement prepared for the Stockman this week. The co-operation and support of the citizenship is urged by Mr. Bishop in the efforts of school authorities to push the work of the schools to the front. His statement follows:

"The school term for 1932-33 will open Monday, September 12th. This is due to be the greatest year in the history of the Ozona School. With two buildings second to none in the state and with a corps of teachers familiar with the situation, everything points to a successful year.

"The school is the biggest business in Ozona or in any community. It is a business in which everyone participates. The school is not big from the financial standpoint alone. It is a business that molds character, it determines to a great extent the future of a community, of a state, and of nations. Doesn't such an asset as this deserve and need the support of every citizen?"

"It is true that we are experiencing one of the greatest economic depressions that the world has ever known. Most everything is at a standstill, we are marking time and waiting. This is not true of the minds of the school children, they are changing and in spite of all, we are going to see that they develop properly. In the life of a school boy or girl the mind is in a receptive state for a certain thing at a certain time. Next year or the next might possibly be too late. We as parents and citizens owe it to our children to keep their minds developing properly. The economic depression must not delay the pace of the child. We must strike while the iron is hot.

"Probably for the first time in the history of the school there were no changes made in the personnel of the faculty. All teachers are expected to be in Ozona by Friday, September 9th to attend the teachers institute Friday and Saturday. The opening exercises for the school will be held in the auditorium Monday, September 12th at 9:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited to be present."

Miss Mary Elizabeth Lumpkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lumpkin of Houston, and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jones, left this week for her home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jones. She accompanied Mrs. Gus Cormier, sister of Mrs. J. T. Keeton, here from Houston.

SMITH BEATS JOHNNIGAN BY FIFTY VOTES

Incumbent Re-Elected In Run-Off Primary Here Saturday

TOTAL VOTE IS 644

Smith Favor In Ozona Box; Johnigan Gets County Boxes

O. W. Smith was swept into the office of tax assessor of Crockett County for the seventh consecutive term in the balloting in this county in the run-off primary election Saturday.

Mr. Smith beat out his opponent, W. M. Johnigan, by an even 50 votes according to the unofficial count. This is the second time in which Mr. Smith and Mr. Johnigan have been matched in a run-off, Smith winning two years ago by the narrow margin of three votes.

The race for tax assessor registered more votes than any of the state contests, three more than the heated race for governor. The total vote counted in the assessor's race was 644, which was sixteen less than the total vote in the first primary.

Johnigan carried the three small boxes of the county, but Smith's lead in the Ozona box, the largest in the county, was sufficient to give him a comfortable margin. In the Ozona box the vote was 319 for Smith and 249 for Johnigan, a margin of 70 votes. In the Owens box it was 25 to 12 in Johnigan's favor, 11 to 8 in his favor in the Powell field box and 12 to 8 in his favor in the Pecos Valley Power and Light Co. box.

Soaking Rains In West Texas

2.4 Inches Recorded Here In Precipitation Tuesday

After a week or more of intermittent showers, barely sufficient to keep the dust down, the rain gods got down to business in earnest Tuesday and Wednesday and as a result nearly the entire livestock raising section of West Texas has been soaked by bountiful rains.

Falling most of the time as a slow steady rain, but assuming torrential proportions at times, the downpour here Tuesday and Wednesday morning had amounted to 2.4 inches, according to the gauge at Joe Oberkamp's. Another soaker coming last night is estimated at more than two inches.

Reports here indicate that the fall covered a wide area of West Texas. Water holes have been filled, and with the few weeks of warm weather yet in store a good winter range is assured, ranchmen say.

Mertzon And Ozona Teams Locked In Tie In 10-Inning Battle

Mertzon and Ozona baseball teams battled to a draw in a ten-inning game on the Mertzon diamond last Sunday afternoon, the game being called after the tenth inning with the score knotted 5 and 5. The game was called on account of another game at Sherwood in which there was a great deal of interest in Mertzon.

The two teams were slated to be matched in a play-off on the Powell Field diamond here this afternoon. If the roads are passable today, the game will be played but unless the weather has definitely cleared, the match will likely be postponed.

'SECOND CHAPTER OF JIM' IS MASTERPIECE

You will have to have an extremely small sense of humor if you fail to get many hearty chuckles from a recent article appearing in the Sterling City News-Record, and written by the much-quoted editor of that paper, W. F. Kellis. It is entitled, "The Second Chapter of Jim," and is reproduced herewith:

And it came to pass that during the reign of Miriam, the handmaid of Jim, there arose a young man whose hair was red and whose name was Dan. Now this Dan was a mighty warrior in the land and gave trouble to the Jimites, yea muchly.

The servants of Miriam had gathered many shekels unto themselves, even six hundred thousand bucks, (which in the Jimite tongue means smackers) all in one pot.

Now this same Dan saw that all this money was quite money paid in as tithes by the people to make the paths in the land straight, as foretold by the prophets.

When Dan saw all this, he was wroth, and he said unto the servants of Miriam, "How come?" Is it not written in the Book, thus saith the Lord: "Thou shalt not steal?" Putherback! Which means in Danite tongue, restore the money.

And the servants of Miriam were sore and wrothy, and they said unto Dan, gotohell!

Hearing this, the spirit of righteousness wrought mightily on Dan, and he arose and laid strong hands upon the servants of Miriam, and strove with them and threw them down with a mighty throw, and took that which they stole and put it with the other shekels in the sanctuary.

After gathering many shekels from tithes of the people and dealing with them with great waste of their substance and with much deceit, they began to murmur against Miriam and at Jim who was the high priest and chief bottle-wash of the Jimites.

Thus it came to pass that there was war between the Jimites and the Danites and they strove with each other mightily, and the Danites overcame the Jimites in a great slaughter at a ford on the river Salt. At this ford, a sheaf of cockleburra was hung on a hackberry limb, and when a Jimite sought to pass by and cross over the river Salt, a Danite guard would confront him and say: "Say thou unto me, Gimite," and owing to a slight defect in his tongue, he would say, "Jimite" and the Danite would smite him, and that day fell an hundred thousand Jimites, and the House of Miriam fell and Dan became the ruler over all the land of Texas.

And Dan had his place in the city of Aus, by the river Colorow. And after many days Dan took unto himself a wife, a princess, even Mildred of the House of Paxton, of the tribe of Abilene. She was comely and fair to look upon, and all the people rejoiced with a great joy. And it came to pass that Mildred bore a son unto Dan and they called his name Dan.

Dan reigned four years and walked before the law as it is written in the Book, but Jimferguson was an hungrier for more shekels and the Jimites began to murmur. And when Ross of the House of Sterling sought to be the ruler of the land of Texas in the city of Aus, the Jimites rose up against the Rossites and they strove with a mighty strive, and the Rossites smote the Jimites until they were sore, so that for two years they stood upon their hind legs to eat.

After many days it came to pass that Jimferguson took down his ukelele (which means groceries in the Danite tongue) from the wild (Continued On Last Page)

THURSDAY, SEPT. 1, 1932.

TAX THE PEDDLERS

The present summer has produced more peddlers on the streets of Ozona than ever before. Nearly every day in the week, the business section of Ozona has been littered with vegetable wagons, watermelon trucks, chicken coops, fruit carts and the like until it was nearly impossible for residents of the city to park their cars in front of business houses of the city.

Such sights as these are familiar in the farming section of the state where the farmers of the trade territory of the city bring their produce to town for sale. But in a county where farming is practically an unknown quantity, it should be unusual. But not in Ozona, where the "lid is off" and the peddler has the advantage over the home merchant in many ways, and they flock here from every part of the state, set up their stands on the main street of Ozona, display their wares in the open and exposed to the flies and dirt, pay no tax of any sort and sell in competition with local merchants.

To any fair minded person who gives the peddler question unbiased consideration, the situation is manifestly unfair to the local merchant and to the people as a whole. The local merchant sets up in business in a business building, which he either owns or pays rent on. He works constantly to make that store more attractive and thus adds to the attractiveness of the town. He keeps what he offers for sale in as nearly sanitary condition as possible; that's why he rents a store building instead of piling everything up on the ground somewhere and offering it for sale.

The merchant employs labor in the operation of his store and the money he thus spends is kept at home, to support another family. The merchant each year renders his stock and fixtures at the current taxable value and pays without a murmur the state, county and school taxes on that valuation his money going for the operation of our county government, to help build our roads, to help maintain our schools and to help finance all the other services of local government.

The merchant contributes liberally to all worthy causes. If the P.T.A., the Woman's Club, the Lions Club, the Cemetery Association, the churches, the schools, or any other organization needs funds for a worthy cause, solicitation first starts among the merchants and the response is always liberal. TRY TAKING UP A COLLECTION AMONG THE PEDDLERS WHO SWARM OZONA STREETS!

The county and state demand taxes of the merchant who has established himself in business to serve the people permanently. This tax he must pay to his government, yet he must compete with the peddler who pays no tax to do business, pays no rent, helps in no manner to support the schools, roads, or operation of the county government. What profit he makes from his sales he takes to his distant home, and not one dime of it is left in Ozona.

It is within the province of the county, as we understand it, to levy a license tax on all peddlers. In fairness to the home merchant, such a tax should be levied and collected from every peddler who comes to Ozona to set up his sidewalk business. Such taxes are collected in nearly every other town in the state and the home merchants of Ozona are entitled to a fair break at the hands of their county government; it seems to us.

CHEATING OURSELVES

The story is told of a dishonest worker. He and his family were roofless, whereupon a certain good Samaritan decided to surprise this poor man with a comfortable home. So, without telling his purpose, he hired the builder at a fair wage to build a house on a sunny hill, and then went on business to a far-away country. The builder was left at work with no watchman but his own honor. "Ha," said he in his heart. "I can skim the material and scam the work." So he went on spinning out the time, putting in poor service, poor nails, poor timbers.

When the good Samaritan returned, the builder said: "That's a fine house I built on the hill." "Good," was the reply. "Go move your folks into it at once for the house is yours. Here is the deed." The builder was thunderstruck. He realized that, instead of cheating his friend, he had been industrially cheating himself when he did not know it was his own house he was building.

That illustration reminds us vividly of the predicament our voters and taxpayers find themselves in today. They suffer under a burden that has become almost unbearable. They wail loud and long about the burdens of taxation, wasteful and foolish governmental expenditure, graft and cheap politics. But are they not criticising the house they built themselves?

Back a short time ago when most of us had more money than brains and when we were drunk on the power of the almighty dollar, we openly voted for and supported candidates of a spendthrift character, knowing when we did so that we were "slipping in shoddy materials" in the governmental structure we were building. We knew that government, justly and economically administered, required our sober thought and honest action, yet we dismissed the thought with the snap of a finger and went right along with our own selfish pursuit of the dollar. We didn't have time to vote intelligently.

Now we are reaping the rewards. Of course the house we built leaks and cracks and threatens to collapse. But we can't blame it on the other fellow. We built it ourselves.

Let us profit by our lesson and build the next house as it should be. Our democratic government isn't at fault. The fault lies with we voters who built it. We have been cheating ourselves.—Guide, Batesville, Arkansas.

THE FIVE DAY WEEK

The five day week in industry has been tried for a year or more in a number of important manufacturing establishments of different kinds and sizes, and the general verdict is that it works to the advantage of everybody concerned. It is something which was bound to come sooner or later. The period of depression from which we are now emerging has merely hastened it along.

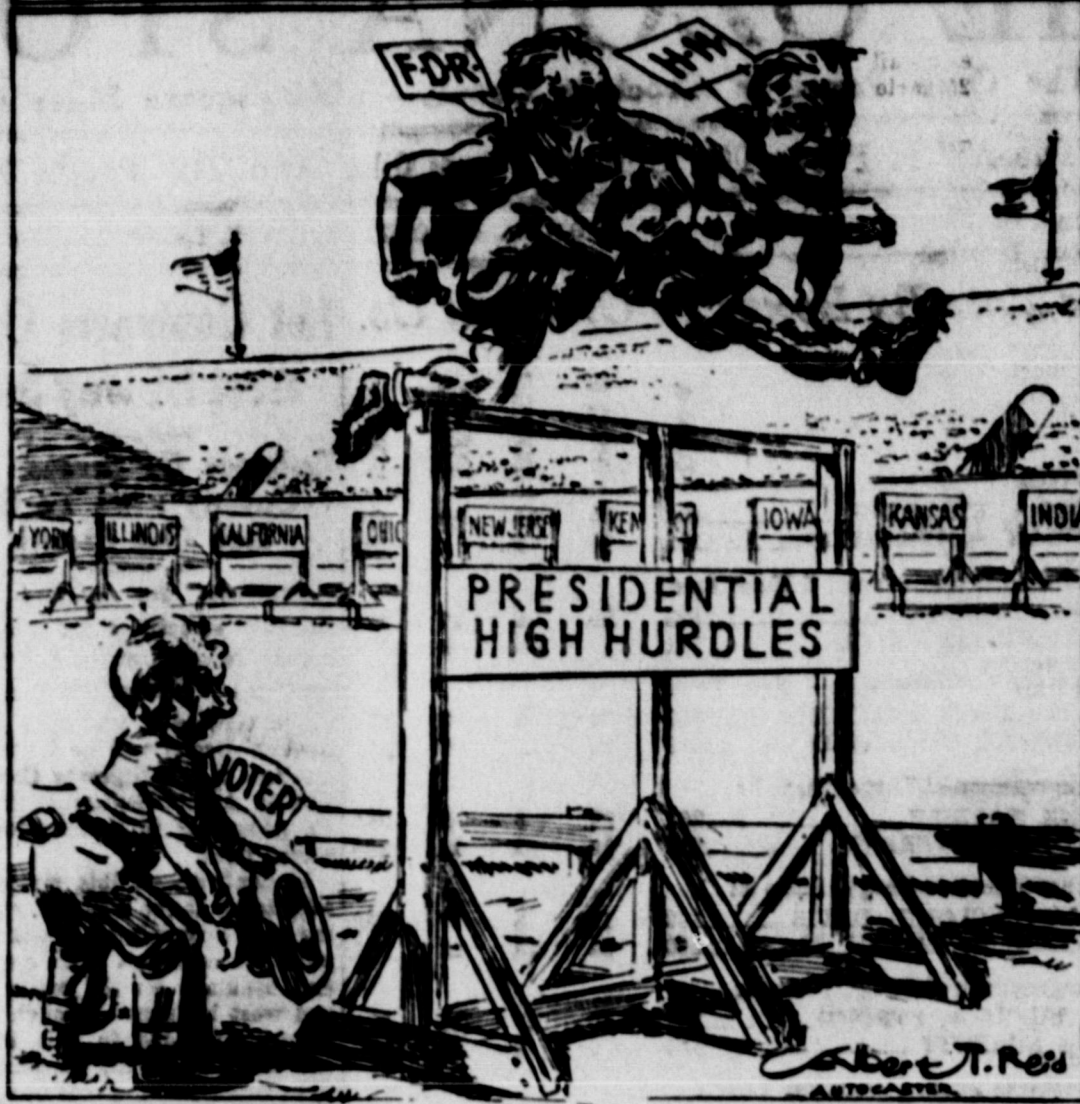

In almost every kind of business in these days the Saturday half holiday is generally observed. It is not generally the case, however, that a full half day's work is done on Saturday morning. Some of the large organizations, like the big life insurance companies, which have had a five day week for their clerical staffs for a long time, say that just as much work is done in five days as used to be done in five days and a half. Also, that their employees get such a definite physical and spiritual benefit from having their time to themselves from five o'clock Friday until nine o'clock Monday morning, that it has proved an actual economy to cut down the working week without reducing salaries.

We have too much of a tendency in America to make a virtue out of work for its own sake. A sounder philosophy of life is that work is a necessary evil, and should be regarded as merely a means to the end of achieving more leisure in which to enjoy the really valuable things of life. If the world's work could be done in three days out of every week, this would be a much happier world in which to live.

BRUCE BARTON

Writes of THE MASTER EXECUTIVE

Supplying a week-to-week inspiration for the heavy burdened who will find every human trial paralleled in the experiences of "The Man Nobody Knows."

DAYS OF DOUBTS

Another young man had grown up near by Jesus' home in Nazareth and was beginning to be heard from in the larger world. His name was John. How much the two boys may have seen of each other we do not know; but certainly the younger, Jesus, looked up to and admired his handsome fear less cousin.

We can imagine with what eager interest he must have received the reports of John's impressive success at the capital. He was the sensation of that season. The fashionable folk of the city were flocking out to the river to hear his denunciations; some of them even accepted his demand for repentance and were baptized.

John's fame grew; his uncompromising speeches were quoted far and wide. The business men of Nazareth who had been up to Jerusalem brought back stories and quotations. There was considerable head-wagging as there always is; these folks had known of John as a boy; they could hardly believe that he was as much of a man as the world seemed to think.

But there was one who had no doubts. A day came when he was missing from the carpenter shop; the sensational news spread through the streets that he had gone to Jerusalem, to John, to be baptized.

John's reception of Jesus was flattering. During the ceremony of baptism and for the rest of that day Jesus was in a state of splendid exultation. No shadow of a doubt darkened his enthusiasm. He was going to do the big things which John had done; he felt the power stirring in him and he was all eager to begin.

Then the day closed and night descended, and with it came the doubts. The narrative describes them as a threefold temptation and introduces Satan to add to the dramatic quality of the event. In our simple story we need not spend much time with the description of Satan.

We do not know whether Satan is to be regarded as a personality or as an impersonalization of an inner experience. The temptation is more real without him, more akin to our own trials and doubts. With him or without him, however, the meaning of the experience is clear. This is its meaning: the day of supreme assurance had passed; the days of fearful misgivings had come.

What man of outstanding genius has ever been allowed to escape these trials and doubts? For country lawyer and a good teller of jokes? Those who rode with Lincoln on the circuit testify to his terrifying moods of silence. What solemn thoughts besieged him in those silences? What fear of failure? What futile rebellion at the narrow limits of his life?

THE COST OF GOOD ROADS

The biggest item in the tax budget of most rural towns is the cost of building and maintaining unimproved roads. Practically all of the hard-surfaced roads which constitute our main motor highways are paid for by states or counties with the towns contributing only a small percentage. But there is something worth thinking about in the report recently published by the New York State College of Agriculture, in the discrepancy that was made that 76 cents out of every dollar in town taxes goes to the maintenance of ordinary dirt roads.

In the state of New York, and this is more or less true everywhere else, the typical town contains 23,800 acres, or about thirty-seven square miles. It has an average population of 1,500 with taxable property assessed at $2,250,000, and its annual tax collection is about $16,500.

This was the average of seventy-one towns which were studied by the Agricultural College, and each of these towns had a net worth of about sixty-five miles of dirt highways in addition to the hard-surfaced roads supplied by the state and county.

Five cents of the town tax dweller dollars in these towns are spent for poor relief, to which the county also contributes. Three cents of each dollar pays for the assessment and collection of taxes. Two cents more go for the administration of town affairs, and two cents more for elections. Public health expenses tax seven and a half cents out of each tax dollar, and various other normal town expenses run up to a total of twenty-four cents on the dollar of taxes. The remaining seventy-six cents out of each dollar collected goes for the upkeep of dirt roads. This is spent for local labor, for operating road machinery, grading and filling mud holes and the other necessary work to keep the back roads passable.

There can be no question of the value of good roads to the farmer as well as to the inhabitants of villages. But we sometimes wonder whether all of the cost of trying to keep ordinary dirt roads in such condition that automobiles can travel over them safely at high speed is a fair charge upon the taxpayers.

Ten world record performances which marked the Olympic track and field championships have been stamped with official approval and put on the books by the International Amateur Athletic Federation meeting in Los Angeles. Eight were credited to Americans and one each to Japan and Great Britain.

The record-breaking festival in the track and field events of the Olympic Games resulted in twenty-three Olympic marks falling. Only five events were the previous marks left intact—the broad jump, high jump, 50,000 meter walk, hammer throw and 10,000 meter run. The women broke all marks in their events.

To set a new world's record and course, a new Olympic record, Eddie Tolan, of Detroit, ran 100 meters in 10.3 seconds. The previous Olympic record was 10.6, held by five athletes. The former world's record of 10.4 seconds was held jointly by Tolan and Charles W. Paddock.

Henri Cochet, generally regarded as the world's greatest tennis player, amateur or professional, is coming to America to participate in the annual men's national singles championships at Forest Hills, New York, opening September 3 and concluding September 10. Cochet has hopes of meeting Ellsworth Vines, Jr., in the final round. Vines, present holder of the American title, defeated Cochet during the Davis Cup matches in Paris.

During a field day at the Polo grounds in New York last year the Ruth fungo-hit a ball 426 feet, 4 inches. That's said to be the greatest drive ever.

The first horse race was staged 660 B. C. as a part of the 23rd Olympiad program in Athens. The distance was four miles.

Back in 1913 the Washington Senators in a game with the Boston Red Sox used eight pitchers and yet managed to win 10 to 9.

To set a new world's record William Miller of the U. S. A., during the recent Olympic Games, vaulted 14 feet, 1 7/8 inches. The previous world record was 14 feet, 1 1/2 inches. The first pole vault record made back in 1877 was 9 feet, 7 inches.

The vogue for keeping tropical fish in the home has developed recently to the point where these pets seem likely to vie with the cat and the canary. Pet shops here report that business is pretty good.

There is a department store in New York selling an aluminum kettle with a whistle attached to the spout. As the water boils whistles.

One of the humorous weeklies here has unusually large desks in its offices. In fact, they are large enough for ping-pong tables and each night at 5, desks are cleared, nets put up and bats brought out. Then the games go on.

A shopper here in New York has been trying to get a parrot with an old-fashioned vocabulary and finds it impossible. Plenty of birds are available, and some of them are fine talkers, but none of them swear. Inquiry among pet shops reveals the cause. It is all the fault of the radio. If songs and patter are not coming from a radio in the pet shop, they drift from adjoining stores or houses of the young birds, fresh from Mexico, South America or Africa, at the pet utter only the cries of their native jungle. But soon they pick up shop talk and radio music, and customer who wants a sailor's bird is disappointed when his prospective pet gurgles, "You'll get those love birds," or "Let's have another cup of coffee."

HALLIBURTON MOVES CAMP

J. E. Halliburton of near Ozona is to establish a tourist camp here according to his own statements to Davis citizens. He has bought nearly an acre of land from C. G. Carmack. It lies in the crotch of the Y formed by the junction of the Davis Mountains State Park Highway with Highway No. 17—right in the door to the scenic wonders of the mountains.

Mr. Halliburton has had a camp store and filling station, he said, on Oak Creek, but prefers to move here and get in on the ground floor of the coming big tourist business. He said he expected to move his camp here from its present location—Alpine Avalanche.

POISON IVY

In most rural communities this spiteful plant is in evidence. It gets in its baneful work on tourists, vacationists, native ruralists, all in warm weather, and it is a very painful guest to entertain. I have seen skin literally on fire and eyes swollen shut—fever, sometimes delirium from ivy poisoning.

Look out for it, with its three-in group leaves of lance-head shape, growing vigorously over blighted trunks of trees, upon old fences and in neglected places. It is easy to know—and avoid, if one tries.

I don't pretend to take the work of the skilled physician and try to place it in amateur hands. But the pointers here are worth while for my friends to know. Bear in mind that this is an ACID poison, and it takes "alkalies" to neutralize acid.

My best success with ivy poisoning has been with equal parts of alcohol and lime-water. The alcohol, with its affinity for water, rapidly depletes the inflamed skin; the lime-water counteracts the acid. Apply on cloths continually, until the trouble is corrected.

Never treat poison ivy with ointments or "salves;" they simply hold the poison in the tissues. Sugar of lead is dangerous—lead poisoning, you know. No ivy remedy should be permitted between eye-lids. It has been said that ivy poisoning gets well in a few days of itself—and the last remedy used gets the credit. That nothing is "specific" remedy in such cases. I have taken the swelling and pain away in 24 hours, with the mixture of pure grain alcohol and lime-water, equal parts. The alcohol is hard to get—but that's another matter.

An Appreciation.....

I am deeply grateful for the splendid vote I received in the run-off primary Saturday which resulted in my re-election as your Tax Assessor.

I appreciate every vote that was cast for me in this election and were it possible for me to do so, I should like to thank you every one in person. But since it is impossible, I hope that all will accept this as my sincere expression of my appreciation for your support. I hold no grudge against those who voted against me.

In this expression of my appreciation, I think it proper to renew my pledge to give you the best that is in me in serving you another two years as Tax Assessor, and I intend to continue to serve you to the best of my ability as long as I am in office.

Sincerely—

O. W. SMITH

Quality Counts-- and Service Too

Grocery prices are at the lowest level they have been in years. But don't be misled by price alone. In nearly every line there are "seconds," goods that are just a little inferior to the top quality. Don't be too certain you are always getting the best at the lowest quoted price.

You will find no "seconds" on our shelves. Our prices are lower on first quality merchandise. We offer you value, plus service.

Attractive discount for prompt payment of accounts.

china limb where it had hung for many moons and began to sing and play while the Jimites danced.

As he struck a chord on his ukelele, he sang: "In my reign, the shekels in the sanctuary they tempted me even as the serpent in the garden of Eden tempted Adam, and I reached mine hand and gathered them. I bought chicken salad and this ukelele at the grocery store and behold they charged them against the state as groceries. I strove against the select draft law with great profit and much applause from the Germans. I borrowed one hundred and fifty thousand from Younohoo and wouldn't tell them where I got it."

And it came to pass that the Chiefrods and elders rose up and were wroth with me, and they did throw me down and kick me and I lost my job for many days, and they spat upon me and called me skunk (which means polecat). They dealt me great misery and tribulation.

And the Jimites shouted, Shame shame!

Then the Chiefrods and elders repented them of their acts, and they forgave me of mine evil, even with a damnasty act which they called a law. Then they encompassed me and threw me down and took mine damnasty away from me and here I am without a job.

And the Jimites gnashed their teeth and cried aloud: "Thisishell! Thisishell!"

Then he hung his ukelele on the limb of an oak tree, and stood upon his hind legs, hitched up his britches and winked his left eye and spake unto the Jimites with a loud voice, saying:

"Inasmuch as they hath taken away mine damnasty and blotted me out of the book, I am no longer by the law of the land of Tehas permitted to rule over you, but behold, now, my handmaid Miriam She can be your ruler and I can rule over her, for is she not my wife, and is it not written in the Book that the husband shall rule over his wife? Behold, I will give you two rulers at the price of one.

To this the multitude of Jimites cried "Hurawfermaw! Hurawfermaw!" (which in the Danite tongue means, "Am I not thine ass, they faithful jackasses on whose back thou ridest on thy journeys?")

And he continued: Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden all ye bootleggers, hijackers, thieves, robbers, murderers and everyone that breaketh the law and standeth in danger of its judgments, and follow me, and I will build for you a city of refuge where all may enter there in and be free to follow his calling.

Each Jimite raised his voice and shouted "Golly! Hurawfermaw!"

Bring unto me the talents, the shekels, the pennies, and even the mites which a poor widow fain would give, and I will send you the book I have written, even the ferguson forum which is filled with del toro that ye may feast and fill your belly's full of it that fitteth you to fight against the Rossites.

And the Jimites cried each man through his whiskers, even through his hat: "Bullyfermay! Bullyfermaw!"

When he had made an end of speaking, this same jim whispered up his sleeve, "Behold these are my faithful jackasses in whom I am well pleased, for upon their backs will I and mine handmaid Miriam ride forth to give the Rossites battle."

NEWS HEADS ARE AT TIMES MISLEADING

"Four Miles High School Graduates To Angelo College." Yes, sir that's a head on a story in Sunday's San Angelo Times-Standard and spotted by Jim Locke, local agent for that newspaper.

BUT—let us hasten to explain that the head is rather misleading. They really don't grow 'em that big out here in this land of magnificent distances. It refers to graduates of the Miles, Texas, High School, and really has nothing to do with the altitude of the students nor the classification of the school.

And now that that's settled, let's all roll up our sleeves, take an extra hitch in our belts, shift our chaw of Brown's Mule to the other side and give Ross Sterling a big majority in tomorrow's election!—Alpine Avalanche.

posed on the buying public. Many people order from out-of-town firms without ever investigating their local stores to find out whether or not the same merchandise can be bought. That is unfair to the merchant and unfair to the town, he said.

The people should next consider the mutual helpfulness of buying at home. Every dollar spent at home stays at home, goes to help pay salaries of employes, rent, lights, water, and other current expenses. Money thus placed in circulation at home continues to circulate and makes for prosperity, it being estimated that every dollar that is sent out of town amounts to $10 or more taken from circulation locally, the speaker declared.

Prompt payment of charge accounts was another obligation which the buying public should take seriously, Rev. Fulmer pointed out. Slow payment of outstanding accounts is one of the greatest factors in retarding the development of retail enterprises in present business methods. Credit losses, interest on borrowed capital necessary to carry such accounts and collection expenses make for higher prices, he pointed out, and the quicker people realize the facts concerning this condition the quicker they will see improvements in retail business that will revert to their own benefit.

The people should be willing to pay a little more for the added convenience and satisfaction of buying at home, Rev. Fulmer declared. Lastly, buyers should read the advertisements of merchants with care, see what they have to offer, give them the same consideration that out-of-town firms are given and then keep home money at home by patronizing local merchants.

Business men present at the meeting approved the plan for a publicity campaign to point out the advantages of trading at home and a committee is out this week making final arrangements for getting the movement under way. Ernest Van Zandt entertained those present with an exhibition of acrobatics. Van Zandt plans to teach a class in acrobatics here this winter.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty.

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active acids, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation.

But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better. You will never need another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every cup.
