'Variety Night' Entertainment Monday Night

Civic Groups Contribute To Woman's Club Evening Program

Planned for tonight, the Ozona Woman's Club "Variety Night" will not be given until Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Ozona High School auditorium offering a symposium of local talent in various acts and stunts.

The first attempt of the Woman's Club to present under its auspices such a program, the symposium of entertainment is forecasted by sponsors as an effort to present Ozona with a "highly entertaining and varied program for the evening." Civic organizations and clubs have been invited to prepare and present skits, acts or stunts and thus far the Ozona Music Club, the P.T.A., Lions Club, Junior League, High League B.Y.P.U. and an orchestra directed by Joe Haddon have consented to enter. Three more organizations probably will compete. Mrs. Ira Carson, president of the Woman's Club, said:

Besides the organizations which are to compete, the Woman's Club will present an entertainment act but will not contest for the $5 prize which is to be given for the best number on the evening program. The clubs and civic units have been left to the selection of their own acts that originality might mark the entertainment.

The Monday night feature will be enlivened by the $5 award which will be made to the group receiving the decision of the judges which are to be named. The entertainment groups have been asked to limit acts to ten minutes and the entire program is expected to extend about an hour and a half.

Admission charges will be fifteen and twenty-five cents.

Mrs. T. A. Kincaid and Mrs. W. E. Friend, Jr., and small daughter were in San Angelo Tuesday to shop and to see the motion picture "David Copperfield," showing there the first of this week.

Beauty Spot Is Created Along Highway Here

Waste Land Utilized For Impressive Native Planting

Willing labor and enthusiastic planning and direction have combined to work a near miracle in a single beautification project along Highway 27 west of Johnston draw in Ozona.

With Mrs. Ira Carson, president and a committee from the Ozona Woman's Club assisting, as the directing force, a crew of workers from the maintenance division of the State Highway Department assigned to beautification work, have laid out and planted what gives promise of being one of the prettiest small park sites along the highway in West Texas.

Set out in native plants, some of them already blooming and all of them in such stage of growth as to make an immediate showing, the little beauty spot has been carefully laid out for artistic but not geometric planting, and is set off with stone marked pathways and native stone rustic benches.

Two triangular shaped plots where cross streets intersect with the highway, on the west side of the curve of the highway, were selected for beautification, these small plots being highway property. Fred Wynn, district maintenance engineer, is in charge of the crew of men assigned to do the planting in accordance with the directions of the Woman's Club committee. The department workers are gathering the native plants from surrounding lands, hauling in the necessary water and the rocks for beautification of the plot. After the work is completed, the highway department will water and care for the plants until they are established, Mr. Wynn told the committee.

Parker Takes 1st, Third In Barnhart Track, Field Meet

Ozonan Leads Field In High Jump; Bobcats Take Meet

D. A. Parker, ace Lion representative on the gridiron and cage floor, took a victory in the high jump and third honors in the 440 yard dash at Barnhart last Saturday to bring back all of Ozona's share in the track laurels there.

The San Angelo High School Bobcats nabbed their third track title of the season by running up 30½ points to win the fourth annual Range Country Track and Field Meet. The Melvin Bulldog came in for second laurels with team points amounting to 16½.

Coach Ted White took only a handful of juniors and only two seniors to compete in the large field of contestants representing strong class A schools of West Texas. Inexperience, a feature not to be overcome even by blessings of luck, dismissed the junior group of nine from the field.

But in the senior division, in which D. A. Parker entered the high jump and 440 yd. dash and Ray Boyd was entered in the 220 yd. dash and broad jump, Parker was able to leap 5 ft. 5 in. for a first and take third in the 440 in a fast field. The Ozonan was clocked at 56.2 in that event but the speedy Harry Hays of San Angelo was in a record breaking mood and ripped the old time by .2 of a second and ran the length in 54.7.

Entries of Coach White in the junior division were: 100 and 50 yd. dashes—Joe Thomas Davidson P. C. Perner, John Chidress, William Beecher Montgomery, James Parker and Leo Williams; pull up—W. B. Montgomery, Thomas Ed Montgomery and Billy Grimmer; broad jump—Wilton Bunker, Jr.

DEPRESSION ERA A BUILDING ERA IN OZONA AS LEAN YEARS SEE THE MOST IMPRESSIVE RESIDENTIAL CREATIONS

While building, the heart of prosperity, has skipped beats frightfully and even failed to register any activity in many West Texas towns during the past quintet of years, in Ozona the "depression" era has been a building era. Most elaborate of the city's residences have been erected since 1929, a seeming paradox to facts indicating a financial stagnation.

The construction period, which was to last through the financially lean years, was launched back in 1928 when the beautiful Methodist Church structure was completed at a commanding point in the city's downtown section just off the park. Residential construction was set off in the same year when Bascomb Cox erected a home on the Sonora street which set a mark for home builders.

Hope building was getting into pace on the following year when the Ozona residential

Giants Limber Up For 1935 Permian League Campaign

First Practice Game Against Station A Here March 31

The Ozona Giants began working out on their field here Tuesday under Manager Carl Dorley and the season's opener will be seen on the local field ten days from today, Sunday, between the locals and Station A.

Only seven reported for first day practice but Manager Dorley is working out each evening with his club and expects to see it in working order in time for the coming fracas.

Ozona and Texon, former members of the disbanded West Texas League, will be circuit members of the Permian Basin League during the coming season. Others to be in the Permian are Iraan, Crane, McCamey and possibly another town yet unattached.

A meeting of the Giant club backers is to be held soon for laying plans for the season's campaign.

Houston Smith was a business visitor in Alpine the first part of the week and returned to Ozona Wednesday.

Mrs. Bill Swearingen and two small children of Lockhart are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Scott Peters.

Hardin-Simmons U. Dean To Deliver Address To Grads

Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Noted Educator, Make Commencement Talk

Principal speaker for the commencement exercises of the Ozona High School graduating class of 1935 will be Dr. D. M. Wiggins, dean of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. The Abilene educator has accepted the invitation of local school heads to speak at the exercises which are planned for Thursday evening, May 16, in the High School auditorium.

Ozona school authorities expressed high appreciation in their fortune of securing the Abilenean who is widely known in educational circles of the Southwest. A graduate of Simmons University, the school dean attended Yale University where he was bestowed with the Masters degree and later was given the doctorate.

During the last decade Dr. Wiggins has occupied the chair of dean of students at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene and taught education. He is a member of the Curriculum Revision Committee of the Department of Education of Texas, acting in an advisory capacity to district committees in the vicinity of Abilene.

Since receiving the Ph.D. degree at Yale University, the coming speaker has attained an authoritative status in the field of education and is in wide demand for platform addresses.

Sale Of License Tags Lagging As Deadline Nears

Sale of auto license plates was still lagging this week when only 106 plates had been issued from the tax collector's office by Tom Casbeer Wednesday afternoon.

The new motor license plates went on sale here March 1 and met sluggish sales during the first week with only twenty-two being issued. Deadline on the issuance of the tags is April 1 by state law enacted late in 1934 which gave the motor driver an extra two months in which to purchase the licenses. Sheriff Willis and County Treasurer Tom Casbeer have called for early attention on the part of drivers in buying tags to avoid last day rushing.

Thrilling Story Of Indian Battles By Early Texas Settlers Told First Hand In Spanish Records Of Colony

Redmen Presented Greatest Menace To State's First Settlers

AUSTIN, Texas, March 19.—Through the years that followed the planting by the Spanish government of a civilian colony on Texas soil, the priests, the soldiers and the settlers who made up the population of San Antonio de Bexar began to turn their eyes across the rich prairies, the fertile valleys, and the pleasant woods of the vast virgin country—Texas. In addition to keeping open communication with the interior of Mexico, where the Spanish viceroy was ensconced, and holding Bexar against the Indians, they flung outposts of Spanish civilization to the far corners of the province of Texas.

They looked toward the east, and saw Nacogdoches on the extreme Texas-Louisiana frontier, beyond which dwelt the French, ever on the alert to gain an advantage over them. They looked toward the south, to Bahia, thru which it was hoped provisions and clothing might be secured by sea without the exorbitant freight charges consequent upon overland transportation. They looked toward the north, to the chain of mountains where, it was said, rich veins of minerals lay waiting the pick and shovel of the miner.

Indians A Menace
The Spaniards were first of all soldiers, second gold seekers, third cattle raisers, and fourth farmers. In Texas, conditions forced them to go at the process almost backwards—they must open small farms, make use of the vast ranges, think longingly of the gold and silver mines and yet be a soldier all the while. This, because the Indians of Texas were not the kind of Indians that lived beyond the Rio Grande. Here they encountered the fierce Lipan and the treacherous Comanche, not the gentle pueblo tribes that took meekly to the pick, the shovel, the plow and the hoe at the behest of the Spanish. Indians barred way at every move toward expansion.

Stirring accounts of Indian warfare are written in the official documents of the government for the province of Texas, now in the possession of the University of Texas library. One of these, a report of the cavalry company of the Royal Presidio of San Antonio de Bexar, as of February 1, 1781, has just been translated. It shows a total of 101 men in the company, eight of which guarded the presidio, 24 were detached with the Caballada, 22 were detached at the fort on the Cibolo, 1 was in the province of Coahuila, 7 were guards for the mail, 7 were detached in Coahuila for government supplies, 4 were sick, and 27 were present and active in the settlement. Written by Don Domingo Cabello, Governor of the province of Coahuila and Texas, who was also in command of the military garrison of San Antonio de Bexar, the record clearly indicates the inadequacy of the defense facilities of the settlement against devastating Indian rampages and elusive Indian retreats after attack.

"On the first of February, certain citizens of the presidio who were cutting lumber on the banks of the Medina River, five leagues from this presidio, reported that they had seen fresh traces of the enemy and signs that they had built two fires on the preceding night." Don Cabello wrote. "A good pack saddle was found on the ground at the same place. I arranged to have sergeant, a corporal, and eighteen soldiers to go out and reconnoiter all that part of the country to see if they could find the enemy who had left these signs.

"On the third, the party returned that had gone out to inspect the trail and fires which were reported to have been seen on the day and night of the 31st. From the trail and the fires found it was concluded that it was a party of Lipan Indians. The sergeant scouted over the entire section. Having found nothing, he returned to this presidio.

Massacre Soldiers
"On the sixth, at four o'clock in the afternoon, a soldier came in from the fort at Cibolo. He was riding bareback and carrying his gun in his hand. He brought me a verbal message from Sergeant Manuel de Urrutia, who was stationed at that place because of the illness of Alferes Don Marcelo Valdes and Don Francisco Amanual. He said that corporal Tomas del Toro and the soldier Eusebio Gasman, Fermin Leal, Jose Asencio de Ynoxosa, Cayetano Hernandez, Pedro Matias Sanchez and Jose Flores went out on a scouting trip and to cut forage. They were returning to their detachment when they heard behind them the indescribable yells of the Indians. They stopped, looked around and found that there were more than one hundred of the enemy. They, therefore, tried to gain the shelter of the only mot that was in the vicinity but the Indians got within gunshot of them and began such a heavy fire that they instantly wounded the soldiers Fermin Leal and Jose de Ynoxosa. Thereupon, the corporal ordered all of them to get down off their horses. All the while, the Indians were keeping up an incessant fire. They wounded Jose de Flores' horse. He became unmanageable and made a bee line for the fort. Flores ran upon some of the Indians and they wounded him with a lance. He reported these incidents. He thought that all his companions had been killed because of the heavy fire of the Indians. In view of this, I ordered Alferes Marcelo Valdes to go out with twenty-six men, twenty soldiers, and four Indians of the missions to cut off the enemy who, naturally, were trying to get away across the Guadalupe. The party set out about the time of vespers. A little later, Carlos Rioja, Nicolas Carabajal, Diego Enrique and Pedro Chirino begged for permission to go to the fort to carry some medicines to the soldiers in case they had escaped, because all of the aforesaid settlers were brothers-in-law of the soldiers.

"On the seventh, at daybreak, these four settlers reached the fort. Sergeant Urrutia reported to them that not a one of the six men had returned and that he believed they were dead because the night before, the dim forms of Indians had appeared in the oak grove fronting the fort, wrapped up in the capes of the dead soldiers. Therefore, the settlers begged to be allowed to take six soldiers and go to the spot to see if they could recover the dead bodies and bury them. This was granted. They arrived at the place and found the six dead men seated propped against the trees in the mot in which they had taken shelter. The Indians had scalped every one of them and mutilated their bodies. Some of them had their fingers, and noses cut off, and there were little sticks holding their eyes open. They had killed the dog that Caytano Hernandez had with him and had placed it between his legs as if he were haugging it. It could be seen that they had defended themselves bravely. Fifty used cartridges lay on the ground, the powder from which had blackened their lips and their teeth. Two buffalo robes with bullet holes in them were found. They were covered with blood. There was a broken chimal, a quiver and a number of arrows. There was an elaborately embroidered shoe. There were a number of pack saddles and some broken armor. From this, it was thought that the soldiers had killed some of the Indians. These men loaded four of the bodies on the horses they had carried for the purpose, when they heard whoops coming from the direction the Indians had come when they committed the attack. They were frightened, and for fear the Indians might come back, they retired. They reached the fort and buried the bodies in the chapel, having left behind the bodies of Corporal Tomas del Toro and the soldier Jose Ynoxosa for the reason already stated.

Settlement Decimated
"On the seventh at dawn, Alferes Valdes reached the banks of the Guadalupe River. He found no indication that the enemy had crossed. He therefore determined to cross the river at the place called Paso del Tio Geronimo. This he did. He realized from the many tracks he saw, that a large number of Indians had come in. He turned back, preparing to recross the river at the same place. As he traveled along the thick undergrowth on the banks of the river, he noticed on the left of the road that eleven Indians were coming to meet him. They had crossed the river lower down at the crossing called los Chiflones. As soon as the Indians saw him, they raised the war whoop and turned back. The alferes thereupon ordered ten men to dismount. In spite of the thick woods, and of the fact that they were two gun shots away, he pushed part of his force forward through the thick woods and had others recross at Paso del Tio Geronimo and to try to overtake the Indians at Paso de Chiflones and to cut them off. They succeeded only in capturing six horses and two mules and in killing two Indian men and one Indian woman. The rest dived into the river—which was very deep—and allowed themselves to be carried down by the current. But many were wounded by the heavy fire from both sides of the river. Our party also recovered a gun and a brace of pistols taken from the soldiers of the fort that were killed.

"On the eighth they followed the trail beyond the Guadalupe until they reached the desolate Rancho del Pastle where, as on the road the previous day, they found as many as seventeen fires where the enemy had slept. They, therefore, realized that there were a large number of Indians. On the ninth, after examining the country around Rancho del Pastle, and discovering a number of trails leading in various directions, they followed the largest one which led them to the spot where they had killed the corporal and five soldiers of the fort. Here, they found the dead bodies of Corporal Tomas del Toro and the soldier Jose Ynoxosa literally shot and hacked to pieces. It could be seen that they had put up a splendid defense and that they had killed some of the enemy. Arrangements were made to load them on a horse and they were carried to the fort and buried in the chapel with their companions."

Although repeated attempts were made by detachments of soldiers and settlers to trail the Indians and make a surprise attack on them, the wily savages always evaded their pursuers, and continued their depredations on the settlers. They came closer and closer to the settlement in their forays, and the commandment found it necessary to state in his report that by the end of the month his company was so greatly reduced that defense of the settlement was an impossibility.

"You will thus see that, if the enemy should attack this presidio, as is probable, I can count upon the eight men on guard, the six recruits, the drummer, the gunsmith, and five sick men," he wrote. "For this reason, it is impossible to defend it; and, therefore, the governor can not be held responsible for any thing that happens, for I have given you due notice of what may be expected."

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1935.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPEK JR.

AUSTIN—The legislature is enjoying a good laugh at the antics of representatives of an out-of-state concern which is attempting to suck into its channels literally thousands of advertising dollars that normally go to Texas newspapers and Texas printing establishments.

The company in question is one which is engaged in three enterprises, that are carefully linked together. They issue an annual edition of a book which purports to "rate" insurance companies, according to the "opinion" which this company forms of each insurance company's standing. An alphabetical designation is given each company. An "A" company is supposed to be best, a "B" company good, etc. The rating company then sells thousands of copies of the book each year to the insurance companies it rates. It also published an insurance periodical, in which it sells advertising space to the insurance companies, and sells rating charts, which are a part of its "service."

Trouble with this system has developed in many states, and bills which would prohibit the out-of-state concerns from circulating alphabetical ratings are pending in a number of state legislatures at present, including one by Sen. Holbrook in the Texas legislature. In addition, a number of companies, including many ranked "A", have notified the rating company that they do not wish to be included in the publication. These officials condemn the practice because they say many insurance firms are loath to refuse advertising to the rating concern because of the effect it might have on their ratings.

But the real laugh comes in at the trick the rating concern has adopted to fight the bill in the Texas legislature. Its representatives wrote a circular letter to the managing editors of many Texas newspapers, telling them the bill "threatens the freedom of the press." The bill has nothing to do with the freedom of the press, but it does forbid issuing ratings with one hand and selling advertising with the other. Any rating concern would be allowed to issue ratings, provided it did not sell advertising.

The freedom of the press is too precious to be used for the purpose of cloaking polite pressure selling and it is doubtful that Texas newspaper men will fall for such tactics. It is also probable the legislature will pass the bill prohibiting the selling of advertising in connection with ratings.

Anybody who sets himself up to "rate" banks according to his idea of their safety would quickly find himself in trouble with the state and federal banking laws. From the standpoint of public interest, the arbitrary, unsupervised rating of insurance companies is not much different. The supervision proposed by Senate Bill No. 147 is the least that should be imposed, many legislators assert.

An alluring picture of the future of the oil industry, which nets more than $1,000,000 daily to Texans, is given by Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman of the railroad commission. Commission surveys show that Texas has 540 oil fields, distributed among 122 counties. Oil consumption increased 6 per cent in 1934, while production was upped only 1 per cent. The balance came out of stored oil, which has hung like a weight around the industry's neck for years. The average price of crude last year was 98 cents, against 66 in 1933, and recently oil for June delivery sold in New York for $1.25. With better times ahead for the industry, Thompson believes the legislature will act favorably on the commission's desire for more operating funds from the oil tax revenue, to enable it to keep pace with the progress of Texas' greatest cash crop.

The race horse people are full of tricks. Perhaps that explains the race-betting "compromise" which would leave the question of race betting to the various counties on a local option basis. Every lawyer in the legislature knows that such a statute would be unconstitutional, and that the only way local option could be applied to horse racing would be by a constitutional amendment. But if the legislature passes a local option law, and forgets about repeal, and later the courts invalidate the local option law—as they surely would—that would leave horse-race betting unmolested until the legislature meets again.

HAPPY KITCHEN CHATS

By Mrs. Johnetta Howard

"THE ROMANCE OF COOKING"

A great celebration will take place when dishes are invented that are inexpensive enough to be thrown away after one using, but still retain the virtues of china.

Until that time comes, however, our pride of ownership is good dishes will keep us at the daily cycle of clearing up the dinner table, washing the dishes and storing them away. In the meantime, also, many of us will continually be seeking for ways to lighten the task that takes us from table to sink to cupboard. There is really romance in cooking if we but look for it.

If we examine the processes in dishwashing, reduce if possible the time each takes and eliminate those which are unnecessary it is possible we may find waste motions and reduce the unpleasantness of an unavoidable chore.

First, all dishwashers should not be left until after the meal. Begin to reduce the after-dinner part of the work the first moment of meal preparation.

Clearing away as you go along will simplify dishwashing unbelievably. Replace materials or containers as soon as they are used—the baking powder, the spice can, the sifter.

As you replace them determine whether or not they are in their most convenient location. Replacing is simple if it means merely reaching out to a shelf an arm's length away and not walking across the kitchen.

One meal process likely to create a confused and untidy kitchen is vegetable preparation. To avoid this all fresh vegetables such as lettuce, radishes and tomatoes should be washed as soon as they arrive from the greens grocer and placed in the refrigerator ready for use.

This keeps the untidiness of wilted leaves and sandy sediment out of the kitchen during its busiest time.

Other vegetables refuse, such as potato parings, carrots scrapings and bean strings, can easily be kept out of the sink by paring or cleaning them directly into waste cans.

The large accumulation of cooking dishes during food preparation—measuring cups and spoons, mixing bowls, pans—all but the last minute cooking dishes, can be washed and rinsed with hot water.

Some housekeepers advise washing each dish as it is used, but there may be waste motion in that. A little easier system may be to clear away as one goes along but to have one washing during the last period of cooking.

When baking, a utility tray saves labor. Each tool as it is used is placed on this tray and taken with the soiled dishes on it in one trip to the sink to be washed.

The next step in cutting down waste effort in the handling of dishes after they come to the table is to have a systematic routine for them in the kitchen.

Extra space near the sink and a table placed conveniently near the sink where the dishes can be cleared and stacked as they arrive from the table are helpful.

It is at this point that a movable table of generous proportions makes its usefulness felt.

Dishes may be placed directly on the table in the dining room, moved to the kitchen cleared, washed, put back on the table and taken to the point of storage if the cupboards cannot be reached from the sink.

Spring Clean-Up Campaign Urged As Health Move

AUSTIN, Texas March 19—The accumulation of winter's debris represents a distinct menace to the health of adults and particularly to little children, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, who urges everyone to clean their houses and yards at this time. It is not only good housekeeping, but ordinary sanitary principles indicate the necessity of prompt removal of all waste matter in and around the neighborhood of yards of homes, but the definite lessening of the spread of diseases, especially those affecting infants, is vitally connected with this procedure.

Flies help spread typhoid fever, dysentery, diarrhea, tuberculosis, anthrax, and cholera. They breed, live, and feed in filth. To prevent their increase all refuse should be disposed of at once, garbage kept in covered containers, privies made sanitary, and houses screened. Every neighborhood raises its own flies, so that their number is an index to the sanitary conditions.

Mosquitoes are responsible for the spread of malaria, dengue, and yellow fever. Malaria is spread by the bite of the Anopheles or malaria mosquito. Dengue fever and yellow fever are transmitted by the Aedes Aegypti or Tiger mosquito. The best way to prevent these diseases is to destroy the breeding places of the mosquito. They breed in standing water, therefore, one should drain, ditch or fill such places, spray oil on water each week, or stock the water with surface minnows as they will eat the wigglitails. Houses should be well screened to protect against these insects. After the spring cleaning is finished, it should be kept in this condition at all times.

MRS. MILLSPAUGH IS CONTRACT HOSTESS

Mrs. Sid Millsbaugh entertained her contract club and a number of guests with six tables of players Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Ozona. Miss Mildred North won high score prize for the club and Mrs. Sterling Baker of Sonora, guest high.

ser erected a home on his ranch which linked fashion and convenience and Armon Hoover built a home on his ranch incorporating all modern features. In town, Roger Dudley and Pon Seahorn built impressive bungalows.

Home building on the mansion scale was seen again when Ira Carson planned and constructed one of the outstanding dwellings of Ozona. During this year Tom Smith built a spacious bungalow in the east part of the city.

In 1931 Solomon Jones erected a ranch home and John Bailey built an attractive dwelling in the city.

The following year Jeff Owens erected a rock home on his ranch and Ben Lemmons constructed a large bungalow in town.

Two town bungalows went up in 1931 while another beautiful ranch home saw completion. Solomon Jones built on his ranch while John Bailey and Tom Smith each built roomy residences in the east part of town.

Home building on the mansion scale was seen again in 1932 when Ira Carson planned and constructed one of the outstanding dwellings of Ozona. On his ranch, Jeff Owens built a beautiful rock home and in town Ben Lemmons erected a spacious bungalow.

During the past year, the seventh year of the "dwelling construction period" here, Masie West completed his fashionable new home, a pattern of simple lines employed to create beauty in architecture. Landscaping and interior furnishings augmented the impressiveness of the structure. During last year, W. R. Phillips finished his home, which he with his boys built from mortar made rocks. Carpenter work was employed.

This week the Roy Henderson family is fitting out one of the most striking of residential creations in this part of Texas, built in a section of beautiful homes. Home building in Ozona registering new highs each year, finds one of its zenith points in the completion of the Henderson residence.

Blessed rather than blighted during the past few years, the Ozona town site and surrounding ranch land has increased in architectural beauty as its "building boom" has continued in years called "depression."

Mrs. J. S. Whatley left the first of the week for Dallas to visit her daughter, Mrs. C. G. Hoehn. She expects to be gone about a month.

Sonora Hosts At District Scout Rally April 13

A Sonora district-wide rally for Boy Scouts and a four-meeting training school for Scouters were two major steps taken Tuesday night in the first organization meet of the Sonora district committee of the Concho Valley Council. Roy E. Aldwell is district chairman.

Sonora will act as host to Scouts from Eldorado, Ozona and Station

B in the first rally for 1935 on Saturday, April 13. The rally, which will draw men and Scouts from Sutton, Crockett and Schleicher counties, will precede a council-wide rally at San Angelo, April 26 and 27.

The training school, the first of its kind in Sonora and in this district, will start Monday, March 18 and will be concluded with an afternoon outing Sunday, April 21.

Jack Stone, assistant Scout Executive of the Concho Valley Council, will act as instructor in the training school and as a judge in the rally.

Both the training school and rally will attract men other than those directly interested in Scouting now. All fathers of Scouts will be expected to attend. Certificates will be given those who attend three of the four meetings, including the outing.

Set-up of the district committee Tuesday night was the first step taken in extending Scouting to every nook and cranny of the Sonora district. Mr. Aldwell appointed the following members of the committee, all of whom were present Tuesday night at the Scout Hall: Leadership Training, E. B. Baggett, Ozona; Troop Organization, Amos Floyd, Station B; Civic Service, F. M. Bradley, Eldorado; Activities, E. W. Brooks, Eldorado; Reading, C. S. Denham, Ozona; Camping, Dr. Ward Grandy, Ozona; Health and Safety, Dr. J. F. Howell, Sonora; Court of Honor, R. S. Covey, Sonora; Finance, Judge J. A. Whitten, Eldorado; District Commissioners and Troop Chairmen, R. D. Trainer, Sonora; Ben Lemmons, Ozona; Whitten, Eldorado; Floyd, Station B.

Others to be appointed on the committee and their positions are: Victor Pierce, Ozona, vice chairman; Walter Nisbet, Sonora, finance; Hugh Childress, Ozona, finance.

The committee will meet again April 13 at the district rally. Mr. Aldwell said. Several other men from Sonora will be appointed to the committee later.—News, Sonora.

Doctor and Mrs. W. A. Grandy made a visit to El Paso last week where they visited Dr. Grandy's father.
