McKENZIE AGAIN

Legally sane or insane, John M. (Pete) McKenzie is a ruthless and resourceful criminal. To permit him the privileges of other prisoners is to pave the way, sooner or later, for his escape. That is his record.

Pete McKenzie, again loose in the State would be a calamity to be avoided at any cost. He is a cold-blooded killer with no compunction about taking the lives of those who cross him.

Another example of the blood lust of this "model" prisoner has just been recorded. A fellow prisoner who, convict witnesses say, attacked McKenzie with a stick of wood, was stabbed to death.

Regardless of any question of self-defense, the significant point is that McKenzie had concealed on his person a home-made dagger. The secret possession of that dagger is final and conclusive evidence that McKenzie's many years in the shadow of the electric chair have not tamed the beast within him.

When McKenzie shot down Detective Chief Sam Street in San Antonio he was then an escaped convict under a life sentence for a slaying in El Paso. When an insanity plea saved him from the electric chair he was confined to the Terrell State hospital.

He was found with arms in that institution and was returned to Bexar for a new hearing. A hung jury left the case pending. After nearly three years in the Bexar jail, where he was surrounded with many luxuries, he escaped. He was recaptured near his old home in Missouri and taken to the State penitentiary in Huntsville for safe keeping.

McKenzie's record proves he's adept at the technique of jail-breaking. It proves that he is a remorseless slayer. He is capable of making the record of Dillinger look like that of an amateur when he chooses to escape.

The State of Texas could well afford to provide an eight by ten cell adequately guarded and keep McKenzie in it. That is the place to put him and keep him out of the headlines.—San Antonio Light

If prosperity has turned the corner, a local sage observes, it must have run into a blind alley.

DEMOCRACY'S SHAME

Brownwood Bulletin: Fully 50,000 persons felt that they had to attend the funeral services for "Pretty Boy" Floyd. They got in everybody's way, jammed traffic in the little Oklahoma town beyond endurance, and made a disgusting spectacle of themselves at the cemetery, where they stole all the flowers from the dead bandit's coffin and nearly got into a free-for-all fight over the disposal of these precious souvenirs.

An outburst of this kind is not exactly surprising, considering the rapt interest that dim-witted folk are bound to feel in the doings of any notorious outlaw. It is a little bit appalling, however, to learn that there could be so many people within driving distance of one small town who had so little to do with their spare time.

A democracy that will turn out 50,000 strong to squabble over the flowers on a dead bandit's coffin is not giving a good indication of its ability to meet a democracy's problems intelligently.

WE LEARN THE JOY OF LIVING TOO LATE

San Angelo Times: That Illinois banker who took $56,000 from the till, fled to the Wisconsin woods, and there learned that the simple life has it all over the ordinary rush for worldly goods seems to have made a great discovery in much the way that most of us make it—too late to do himself much good.

He found out, of course, to begin with, that putting his hand in the till had been a tragic mistake for which he could not hope to escape retribution. But that was really among the last of his discoveries—since it is, after all, something that a custodian of other people's money ought to know from the beginning.

What was more important was his discovery that he had been on the wrong track even before he became an embezzler.

He took the money, that is, to play the market. He was going to make a big killing, restore what he had taken, put himself on easy street, and live happily ever after; the act of embezzlement was simply the product of the pressure, which a go-getting society put upon a personality that had lost a proper sense of values.

And his big discovery was his realization that even if he had got away with it, it wouldn't have given him what he wanted.

He learned, that is, that where money is the one yardstick, the effort to build a satisfying life is almost certainly doomed to failure. And that, after all, is what most of the rest of us are forever finding out; that it is possible to spend so much of our time and energy in making a living that we have none left for living itself.

We take all the force and intelligence God gave us, and apply them to the business of getting ahead—and then, presently, we find ourselves looking wistfully back on our lives and saying, "Why—is this all there is to it?"

So we dream of what we shall do, some day, when things break just for us and we retire to that little house in the country; or we use books or sport, or restless movement of one kind or another, to escape from our subconscious dissatisfaction with modern life.

For we have somehow built up a society which cuts us off from those things that are to be prized above all else—free fellowship with one another, contact with the open earth and sky, solitude, leisure to savor such things as the wind in the leaves or dawn on the empty hills.

And the tragedy of it is that, too often, we find it out as this banker did—too late to do anything about it.

Frank Taylor, who has been ill for several weeks, was reported in a serious condition here this week. He suffered a relapse the first of the week.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Kerrville Mountain Sun: To one of humane instincts it is distressing to witness the utter disregard of animal suffering which is shown by thoughtless or vicious persons.

Acts of unnecessary cruelty to dumb animals are an indication of either lack of education or serious moral defect on the part of those who practice them. Children should be taught very early to treat animals with kindness. Without such teaching a child is very likely to develop cruel tendencies, particularly when the example of unfeeling indifference is set by older persons.

As a prominent educator recently said, any system of education which neglects training in the humane treatment of animals is failing in its duty.

We have noticed another thing; Any person who is cruel to animals will bear watching in all his other relations of life.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Henderson and children will spend the holidays visiting relatives in Dallas.

THIS MAY HALT ABUSE

Austin American: One of the best suggestions as to ways of stopping the abuse of pardons and paroles seems to have been the one proffered recently by Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings—that the names of all politicians who ask clemency or lenient treatment for criminals be made public.

It is very hard to think of any good reason why this policy should not be adopted—why, as a matter of fact, it should not be written into State and Federal laws.

A man who asks a parole or a pardon for a criminal ought to be perfectly willing to have the fact published, if he has anything resembling a legitimate reason for making the request.

If he hasn't of course, he will shy away from the publicity; and that might well result in a vast shrinkage in the number of crim-

Lumber Sales Increase 6.7% Over October Year Ago

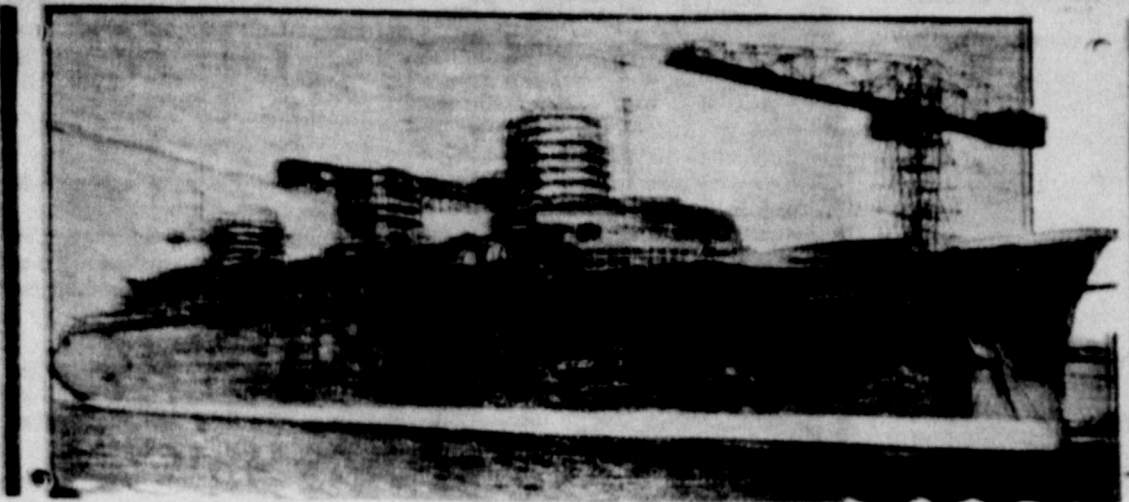

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 27—Reports from 95 representative Texas retail establishments indicate average dollar sales for the month of October were 6.7 per cent above those of October last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The increase in sales of 6.7 per cent over September of current year, however, was considerably less than the average seasonal increase. For the first nine months of 1934, sales were 22 per cent above the corresponding period last year.

Collections of outstanding accounts also continued the favorable showing noted in previous months," the Bureau's statement says. "During October 36.5 per cent of such accounts were collected against 33.1 per cent in the same month last year.

Nationwide Radio Broadcast Feature Seal Sale Opening

As the opening feature of the twenty-eighth annual Christmas Seal campaign and in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the sanatorium movement in the United States, the National Tuberculosis Association has arranged a coast-to-coast broadcast Sunday, December 2, from 10 to 10:30 p. m. (E. S.T.)

Dr. Francis B. Trudeau, son of the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, "Father of the Sanatorium Movement," will be the speaker on the program. He will present the Christmas Seal message for the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country. The campaign is conducted between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas and the funds obtained by the sale of the seals at a penny each finance a program of free nursing service, clinics, rehabilitation, education, tuberculin testing of children, X-rays, social and medical research.

Both of the nation's radio favorites, the golden voiced Jessica Dragonette and Larry Ross, have volunteered their services as their contribution to the campaign, and will sing a duet as the feature event of the program. The other stars who are contributing their talents are Rosaria Bouden, vocal conductor; Frank Banta and Milton Lettenberg, pianists; and Jacques Malkin and his Renaissance Ensemble. The ensemble, which is unique in the musical field, is being heard this season for the first time in America. The artists in this unusual group play instruments of the 16th and 17th centuries, some of which never have been heard previously in this country. Julius Schuman plays the dessus de viole, a violin with six strings; Youry Biletin plays the viola da gamba, an instrument similar to a cello, but with twelve strings; Leo Small plays a two-manual harpsichord; Benjamin Feinbloom plays the bass de viole, an instrument of three strings midway between the cello and the double bass; and Jacques Malkin, the director of the group, plays the fourteen stringed viola d'amour.

The National Broadcasting Company, as its contribution to the campaign, has arranged for a WJZ network and will put the program on the air from the famous 8-H studio in the E.C.A. Building, New York City, which is the largest broadcasting studio in the world.

To Save You Money—
 To Save Ourselves—

We Are Going On A Strictly

Cash Basis

Beginning December 1, 1934

The modern trend is away from credit business. Credit business by the retail merchant has been tried and found wanting. We have tried it and found it so. A certain percentage of loss is counted on in the credit business, and that loss is generally provided for in higher prices.

Effective December 1, we are going on a STRICTLY CASH basis. It is not of our own choosing, but of necessity, that we have adopted this decision. The volume of our business and the margin of profit will not allow us to carry accounts as we would like. We can not carry as complete stock as we would like simply because the money that should be available for stock is on our books, and although your credit may be good, OURS IS NOT, and for that reason, we must have money to buy stock.

By adopting a CASH-TO-ALL policy, we can make substantial reductions in prices, and this we will do, starting Dec. 1. You save on every purchase. We intend no reflection on anybody's credit, it is merely a move for self-preservation, and we believe that our customers will welcome the savings they will be able to realize, and that these will offset the inconvenience of paying cash at purchase.

We appreciate the many loyal customers to whom we have extended the courtesy of credit and who have always paid promptly. We trust that they will understand our position and will take advantage of the saving in prices under the new cash policy.

Hamburgers Are the Great American Dish

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The great American dish has been determined—it's hamburger. Mr. Wimpy's taste is the average American's.

A chain restaurateur who made a canvass of preferences during the Century of Progress here, learned that the visitors preferred hamburgers, with apple pie as the principal dessert. The second and third choices of pies were cherry and blueberry.

Coffee remains the Nation's most popular beverage.

About 1,500 pounds of hamburger, the equivalent of two cows, was consumed daily in two restaurants where the survey was made, among diners from every State in the Union.

Be Thankful For Good Health On Thanksgiving Day

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Nov. 27.—Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, has asked all citizens of Texas to give some thought to health, both personal and public, on this Thanksgiving Day. The original Thanksgiving was held by the Colonies for the purpose of giving thanks for their health.

Great advances in the treatment and prevention of disease have been made since that first Thanksgiving. Yellow fever, plague, and cholera have practically ceased to exist. Smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid can be eliminated as a cause of death if a person will have himself and children immunized. Malaria and many other diseases can be controlled if the public would demand that the government furnish such protection.

Due to the advancement in knowledge of disease, concerning its prevention and cure, fifteen years have been added to the expectation of life. This means that a child born now can be expected to live fifteen years longer than he would if he had been born fifty years ago.

We have a great deal more to be thankful for now, even with a depression, than did our Pilgrim forefathers; so let each one in his Thanksgiving pledge to assist in furthering the work being done to improve health conditions in Texas.

Relief Clients To Make Clothing For Families On Rolls

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—Because relief clients in some Texas counties are in acute need of clothing, county administrators have been instructed by Texas Relief Commission officials to have sewing room workers cut cloth into garments for issuance to clients, who will finish the garments themselves.

The sewing rooms will continue to turn out finished products as fast as facilities will permit, but it was felt that production is not progressing fast enough to prevent suffering in some instances.

Garments cut for finishing will be issued upon recommendation of case workers to clients capable of finishing the work. The case worker also will advise as to the number and sizes of garments needed for each family and will report completion of the garments by the families for whom they are cut.

25,000 Head Cattle To Be Processed In Texas Canning Plants

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—Federal Surplus Relief Corporation officials have allotted 25,000 head of cattle from an emergency purchase now in progress in Texas to the 21 government canning plants in the state, State Relief Administrator Adam R. Johnson was informed by Keith Southard, executive office of the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation.

"This grant will enable plants closed last week at El Paso, Abilene, Big Spring, Wichita Falls and Waco to resume a full production schedule for the next two weeks," Johnson said. "By then, we hope to have instructions for processing still more cattle in our plants."

Relief officials said only 25,000 head remained for processing when the new grant was made and these had been concentrated for plants other than those which had been closed.

The 21 government beef canneries operated under supervision of the Texas Relief Commission at capacity handle 2500 head of cattle per day and turn out a maximum of approximately 400,000 cans of beef. It is estimated 300,000 head of cattle have been processed at these plants since they have been in operation.

Furthermore, the canneries are the biggest work project for relief clients in the state, giving employment to 20,000 in the canneries and to 5,000 more in slaughter houses. It was estimated 100,000 persons would have been affected had the canning program been discontinued.

C. Z. Crain, head of the commodities distribution department of the Commission, went to Washington early this week to ask federal officials to divert a portion of the emergency cattle purchase to the Texas canneries. Until notice was received today, all cattle from this purchase were being shipped out of the state.

Ozona's 20 yard line. Hest circled the end and stepped out of bounds on the 2 yard line. The next line buck sent it over for the first marker. An end run netted the extra point.

Slaughter Continues
A few minutes later, the visitors added another 7 points when they took possession of the ball in midfield and on successive passes advanced to the 2 yard line where the Lions held for three downs but were pushed back on the final line plunge by McDaniel. Cloud converted with a placekick. Previous to this marker, Hest circled Ozona's end, laid back his ears, and raced 54 yards to cross Ozona's goal line, but the play was called back and the Eagles penalized 15 yards for holding.

Again in the third period, the visitors scored another touchdown in a march of three-fourths the length of the field on end runs, off-tackle gallops and bullet passes.

Two more were added in the fourth, the first on smoothly executed end runs and line plays starting from the 40 yard line, and the last when Hest intercepted an Ozona pass on the 35 yard line and raced the remaining distance to cross the goal line.

THE VEGETABLE KINGDOM

All plant foods, except fruits, grains and nuts, are included under the term "vegetables."

With the exception of the so-called legumes (peas, beans, lentils) vegetables consist mostly of water. They are rich in mineral matter but poor in fat and protein, their chief constituent being starch and sugar.

One of the chief advantages of vegetables as a food, in addition to their nutritional value, is this: A considerable part of the vegetable consists of un-absorbable matter which is never digested or assimilated and passes unchanged into the bowel. Here it adds bulk to the residue and acts as a vehicle for the elimination of toxic material. In this role it serves a very useful purpose, as one of the main reasons people are constipated is that there is nothing in the bowel on which its muscular coat can fasten itself and propel onward.

Aid Some—Harm Others
Very few persons can eat all vegetables with impunity. We all have our little idiosyncrasies in this connection as we do in most affairs of life. Some people suffer with a violent attack of gastritis if they eat a piece of onion as large as a pea, while others could eat a bushel basket of onions and suffer from nothing except lonesomeness. Some persons get a beautiful case of "hives" from a few strawberries while others can consume half the patch while they're picking, with no danger except to get caught doing it. And so on throughout the entire dietetic list—"what's one man's food is another man's poison."

Here are some good rules for cooking vegetables that, I believe, are apropos in this connection:

- (1) Wash thoroughly.
- (2) Pare, peel, or scrape according to kind.
- (3) Let stand in cold water until ready to cook, to keep them crisp, to freshen when wilted, or to prevent from turning dark.
- (4) Cook in enough freshly boiling salted water (one teaspoonful salt to one quart water) to cover, and keep water boiling slowly, as tender vegetables are easily broken. To preserve color cook green vegetables uncovered.

Polluted Roaches Take Charge Of Shiner Kitchen

SHINER, Texas.—Local insects appear to have heard of the theory, advanced by certain scientists that insects are soon to assume mastery of the earth, and are acting accordingly.

One Shiner housewife noticed cockroaches were invading her kitchen, and were acting in a strange and hilarious manner. On investigation, it was discovered that two barrels of wine, stored under the house, were leaking, and that hundreds of the creatures were lying about in a state of advanced intoxication, only the more temperate ones being able to ascend to the upper regions. Another kitchen was invaded by a roach big enough and snappy enough, to spring a mouse trap and to have himself neatly decapitated thereby.

In another yard, it was noticed that a large, pale green praying mantis, or devil-horse, had a strangle hold on an unusually gorgeous butterfly, and on being pried loose from his victim, put up his dukes and offered fight, and it was necessary to pull his head off to quiet him.

Faculty Members Have Interesting Program Topics

Interesting discussions of educational problems were heard by faculty members of the Ozona schools in the regular faculty meeting at the end of the second six-weeks period Wednesday.

M. M. Collins discussed "The Future for Which We Must Educate." Mr. Collins pointed to the need for early training in the interest of more satisfactory social and economic adjustment of children and graduates of schools.

At the conclusion of the program, girls of the Home Economics department served pie and coffee.

The next faculty meeting will be January 10, when the general topic for discussion will be "Curriculum Revision," a program now under way in Texas, which is expected to be completed by 1937.
