G. A. Plans Study Of Mission Book

Plans for opening study of a Home Mission book at the next meeting March 29 were laid at the meeting of the Girls Auxiliary of the Baptist Woman's Missionary Union at the home of Mrs. J. S. Whitley Monday afternoon. It was also decided to hold a social meeting every three months.

Roselle Pharr, president, led the devotional, followed by prayer by Mrs. Whitley. Excellent reports were heard from standing committees. Cake and hot chocolate were served to Adele Keeton, Roselle Pharr, Louis Bean, Zella Lee Thurman, Donita Stahl, Vera McCaleb and Mary Elizabeth Gray.

Guinn Carruthers, manual training teacher in the Ozona High School, was called to Hillsboro last Saturday on account of the death of an uncle, Jack Beavers, of that city. Mr. Carruthers returned to Ozona Monday.

W. T. Utilities Stages Two-Day Cooking School

Mrs. Bonnie McDaniel To Show Electric Cookery April 1-2

A home-town girl who made good in the big city is Mrs. Bonnie McDaniel, noted home economist who is returning to her native land to conduct a modern Electric Cooking School for the West Texas Utilities Company. Mrs. McDaniel, a native West Texan, is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene.

She will open a 2-day cooking school in Ozona April 1 at 2:30 p. m. The school, featuring the many uses of electric service in the modern kitchen, will be held in the Methodist Church basement.

Mrs. McDaniel, a representative of Edison General Electric Appliance Company, makers of Hotpoint electric ranges, was secured to give Ozona women expert instruction in electrical cookery, which has been widely heralded as the 1937 method of securing "time on your hands."

Years of training and research work in the Hotpoint experimental kitchens have given Mrs. McDaniel an authoritative tone when she declares "You can produce culinary miracles with electricity," according to J. O. Lusby, local manager, who announced the two-day school in Ozona.

Devout in her description of electric cookery, Mrs. McDaniel is enthusiastic about her return to West Texas. "It does my heart good to show women in this great region advancements that have been made in electric service, primarily so that they may be relieved of household burdens," she said.

Denton, March 17—While nations of the world vie with one another in contribution to the progress of aviation, Texas has managed to hold its position as a leader in this field.

Such factors as the great amount of open country in this state, the high percentage of clear days, and the relatively warm waters caused the national government to center its military aviation training here during the World War. Randolph Field, often called the "West Point of the Air" was established near San Antonio, and is now one of the greatest military fields in the world.

Apart from the army set-up, six commercial airlines operate regular schedules between important cities within the state. They connect with the national lines to Chicago, Atlanta, Ga., Charleston, S. C., and New Orleans, as well as with the transcontinental line from New York to Los Angeles and the international air system to Mexico City.

Airports in Texas total 133, this compares favorably with the national total of 2,369. A general idea of this state's rating can further be seen from the 1935 statistics, which show 8,613 airplanes in operation in the United States, 449 being in Texas. The number of licensed pilots in Texas reached 728 in 1936.

Annual Clean-Up, Fire Prevention Week April 4-11

Austin, March 17—The Annual Clean-up and Fire Prevention week will be held here April 4 to 11, according to word just received from Dr. Geo. B. Cox, State Health Officer. In observance of this week there will be a joint effort between the State Fire Insurance Department and the State Department of Health.

"The warm days of spring will soon be here and everyone is urged to see that their property is cleaned of the accumulation of trash. It is only through individual responsibility and effort that one can have a clean and neat appearing city.

"In planning your spring cleaning start with the house itself in the attic and work down, not forgetting the basement. Attics and basements are the greatest collectors of refuse and therefore of dust and dirt that the house possesses, and their neglect often constitutes a serious fire hazard. Do not forget to screen against flies and mosquitoes. The better the job of cleaning, and with a garbage pail kept tightly covered, the fewer flies there will be, because flies love dirt and filth and breed in garbage and other filth.

"We are prone to judge people in no small measure by the kind of yard keepers we think they are. Many times you have heard some one say, No, I don't know the people next door but they can not amount to much because their yard is cluttered with tin cans and papers and their garbage can is always open. Do not let your neighbors be able to pass judgment on you on such grounds."

Employers Must File Returns On Social Security

Provisions Of New Law Explained By Revenue Collector

There appears to be a great number of employers who do not seem to realize that they are required to file monthly returns and pay the tax monthly under Title VIII of the Federal Social Security Act and that the act provides for severe penalties for failure to file returns on time, according to word from Frank Scofield, collector of internal revenue for the First District of Texas. Title VIII of the act provides for a tax of 1% due by the employer as an excise tax on wages paid his employees for services on and after January 1, 1937, and the employer is required to withhold 1% from the wages as and when paid or made available to his employees. The full 2% must be reported and paid by the employer on a Form SS-1 to the collector of internal revenue within the month following the month in which the wages were paid.

"Under Title VIII," said Scofield, "every employer is required to file monthly returns on Form SS-1 covering wages paid to even one individual for any service performed for any length of time on and after January 1. In other words, wages paid to one or any number of individuals for performing services for any length of time on or after January 1 in an employment, that is, for the performance within the United States of services not specifically excepted, are subject to tax. The January returns must show all wages paid in January for services performed on and after January 1, 1937. There have been filed to date in the Austin office approximately 23,000 returns for the month of January, 1937. It is estimated that approximately 50,000 of these returns should have been filed before the close of February."

Many employers have the erroneous impression that they must await their social security numbers before filing monthly returns and that they must report the names and addresses and account numbers of their employees on these returns. "This is not correct," Mr. Scofield stated. "My office will not require a report of the names, addresses and account numbers of employees until in July of 1937 and thereafter reports will be required quarterly giving the names, addresses, account numbers and total wages paid to employees, and blanks will be furnished for this purpose in ample time.

"All employers who have not done so should now, voluntarily file their January tax returns. February returns covering wages paid in February should be filed some time during this month of March, but not later than March 31. If an employer does not have blank Form SS-1 for use in filing his return, such blanks will be furnished upon request. Every employer who files a late return should prepare and submit with his return an affidavit in duplicate explaining the reasons for delay. The reasons for delay as given in the required affidavits will be carefully considered before asserting any penalties," Mr. Scofield explained.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. Who were the candidates for governor in the 1892 campaign and what votes did each receive?

A. Gov. Hogg was a candidate to succeed himself; Judge George Clary of Waco, ran as a conservative on a "turn Texas Loose" slogan; and Judge Thomas L. Nugent of Stephenville, as the "People's Party" candidate. In the November election, Hogg received approximately 190,000 votes; Clark 133,000, and Nugent, 108,000.

Q. To what extent was there ever commercial navigation on the Sabine River?

A. Prior to 1858, the Texas Legislature had authorized the expenditure of more than $30,000 in making the Sabine navigable to Logansport, and in 1859 the steamer, "Uncle Ben" made five trips as far as Smith county, carrying out nearly 1,000 bales of cotton each trip, the boats made several trips and high hopes were held of a big business with Galveston and New Orleans by river route, but the War Between the States put a stop to river improvement and navigation almost ceased.

Q. Was the capital of the Spanish territory of Texas ever at Aedeas?

A. While Texas was first designated as a Spanish province in 1691, it was not until after 1717 that Spanish authority was established. In 1722, when the administration of Texas was separated from Coahuila, the capital was fixed at Aedeas, (now Robeline, La.) but later was moved to San Antonio, which became the center of Spanish life in Texas.

Q. What has been the increase in Texas State government expenses in 10 years as compared with the increase in population?

A. Increase in government expenses in that period has been 40.6 per cent, while increase in population has been 14.1 per cent.

Q. When and by whom were umbrella China trees first grown in San Antonio?

A. Umbrella China trees, now so commonly seen in that part of Texas, were introduced in San Antonio in 1863, by C. L. Lege, Sr., and most of the chinaberry trees in that section have been propagated from the two planted at that time.

Q. What became of the San Antonio de Valero mission?

A. This mission, the buildings of which were mere thatched huts was moved from the west to the east side of the river by Father Olivares at the end of 1718, and in 1724 the primitive buildings were destroyed by a hurricane. It was moved to a more convenient location in 1727 "about two gun-shots from the original site," where the Alamo now stands.

Q. Please tell something about the founding of San Antonio's de Valero.

A. In 1691, the Teran Expedition found a Payaya Indian rancheria called Yanaguana and Father Manzanet erected an altar in a chapel of boughs, set up a cross and said mass. The mission was deserted in 1693 by all except Captain Joseph de Urrutia and three companions. The pueblo was named Agua de San Pedro (San Pedro spring). In 1709, another expedition under Fathers Olivares and Espinosa explored the site and called it San Antonio de Padua. On Dec. 7, 1716 the mission San Antonio de Padua was officially recognized on request of Father Olivares at the site of rancheria Yanaguana and on May 1, 1718, was renamed San Antonio de Valero.

Q. When were traffic lights first used in Texas?

A. As early as 1750, Nacogdoches used lanterns suspended from poles to mark traffic intersections and barred left turns by horsemen and horse-drawn vehicles.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

Austin—A pronounced swing toward the conservative side by heretofore radical pension liberalization bloc in the house of representatives featured a week's session of the legislature. Administration forces have been hacked away consistently at the top by liberalization group's strength ever since the session began. Lobbyists who oppose the tax increases recommended by Gov. Allred in his opening message who have been in the depths of depression ever since that message was delivered—were almost enthusiastic over the improved outlook for fewer tax increases. They figure that if no costly pension liberalization plan goes through, there will be little demonstrable need for large amounts of new revenue. And they also figure that the pension bloc cannot get more money for the aged voters, members will be extremely reluctant to raise much additional revenue for any other purpose. There is no political advantage in offending both the pensioners and the people who pay taxes.

A significant break came when the house voted 68 to 66 to postpone until April 6 the state affairs committee's pension inflation bill, doubling the present cost pensions. The most ardent pension inflationists conceded this left little chance to enact the measure, which Gov. Allred threatened to veto, anyway.

TAX REMISSION BILL PASSES
True enough, the house followed up this action by passing Fred Burdick's bill to remit the general revenue portion of state ad valorem taxes to the counties for a period of five years. This would amount to $8,500,000 a year or $42,500,000 total. Its passage was partly to the pressure of party political machines, who lobbied ardently for it; and partly to the fact that many house members who voted for it under this pressure believe and hope the senate will kill the measure.

The only important revenue measure the house has passed—the six-cent oil tax—is being held up in the senate by strategists who want to see what else the house is going to do about revenue raising. Hearing before the senate committee is set for March 18. General opinion of observers here is that the senate finally will reduce substantially the rate in this bill before finally passing it.

Interest centers around the Herman Jones franchise tax bill, imposing a franchise and a net income levy on all corporations, to the tune of $12,000,000 a year. The house has twice refused to suspend the rules and call it up.

RACE FORCES WIN REPRIEVE

The week's most important action in the senate was the postponement by the senate of action on the race track repeal. Warned by Speaker Bob Calvert that he would kill on a point of order the amendment to the jockey licensing bill that would eliminate pari-mutuel betting, which the senate tacked on last week, the race repealists decided to concentrate on the house bill repealing racing by Bradbury. This bill went back to the committee on criminal jurisprudence. Repealists are prepared to force thru a resolution directing the committee to bring it to the floor, should the race betting forces seek to stifle it in committee, and they evidently have the strength to do so, barring parliamentary mishaps. In fact, such a resolution is now pending, and action on it was only temporarily averted by the race tracts' leader, Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth, when he forced thru an interpretation of the rules which brought up first an unfinished minor public utility regulation bill. This utility bill brought Sen. Claude Westerfelt of Dallas to the floor with an extended and impassioned speech which consumed enough time to prevent Woodruff's resolution reaching a vote. That was what Rawlings had hoped for.

Observers here believed this parliamentary by-play, however, merely postponed the end for the race track faction. The 20 to 8 record vote of the senate on repeal indicated that eventually race track betting will be definitely killed in Texas at this session.

HIGHWAY FRIENDS ACTIVE

Answering the many bills designed to take away from the highway department funds for other purposes, highway friends this week issued a logical statement asking no action on any of these measures until completion of the elaborate statewide survey of all Texas roads now under way by the highway department, in cooperation with the federal bureau of public roads, financed with federal funds. The study has been under way a year, at a cost of about $1,000,000 and will soon be completed. The highway department's friends claim it will give the first dependable information that will enable adequate and sensible planning of a coordinated road development program, including cardinal and local roads. They plead for the legislature not to disrupt the department's financial structure until such a plan is available, and allocation of road funds can be made on a scientific basis. The legislature has repeatedly refused to raid the highway funds, but that doesn't discourage political-minded members from thinking thru new schemes to raid the treasury of this unique state department, which has never operated on a deficit basis, because its directors have enough business sense not to spend money the department hasn't got.

THIS OIL BUSINESS

Oil is Texas' major source of wealth. Unheard of 50 years ago, the Texas oil business today contributes directly or indirectly to the success of every other business activity in the state. The Humble Company is in the oil business; it produces oil, refines it into motor fuels, motor oils and other products, and markets these through Humble service stations and Humble dealers. It knows what this oil business means to Texas, but more than that—it realizes what Texas means to this oil business. The appreciation of this fact stands behind Humble's policy of continuous improvement, behind the unexcelled service the Texas motorist finds in Humble service stations.

of all other State Departments, public officials and good citizens, to take definite action immediately to see that the law is complied with in regard to the proper registration of motor vehicles, and that these public funds are distributed as provided by law.

"You know, of course, that owners, who have obtained their license plates by purchasing them in counties other than the county of their residence, are operating with illegal license plates, and are subject to arrest and fine for operation of such motor vehicles improperly registered; and, furthermore, that they are subject, upon apprehension, to re-registration in the county of their residence."

Registration of motor vehicles by Crockett County owners has been under way since March 1, when the law permitted installation of the new numbers. With less than two weeks remaining in which to secure the new license plates without penalty, registrations are picking up, the tax collector's office reports. New numbers must be purchased before April 1. After that date a penalty of 20 percent of the fee automatically applies and in addition, the operator of a motor vehicle without new 1937 plates is subject to arrest and fine.

The investigators were excavating the floor of the cave for further relics. They had dug through four feet of ashes, which are being sifted for archeological material. The bottom of the ash deposit had not been reached Sunday, the Ozona party reported.

The Lubbock party will remain at the cave site the balance of this week. Complete equipment for the work is carried by the party, including a truck, two automobiles, a Delco light plant and other equipment. Any valuable archeological finds from the cave will be placed in the West Texas museum at Lubbock.

The two almost complete skeletons, taken by a party of Ozonans from the cave, are on display in the High School museum here. In addition to the skeletons, the party brought back some of the basketweave material, arrowheads and other relics from the cave.

A new test for oil on the W. E. Friend ranch near Big Lake was started last week by O. B. Great-house of Big Lake. The new test is 1980 feet south and 330 feet west of Dobbs Oil Co. The Dobbs No. 1 Friend showed oil at intervals between 2300 and 2355 feet and struck sulphur water at 2464 feet. It was plugged back, acidized and shot and pumped some oil in July, 1935. In October it was reacidized after plugging back farther but pumped only a little oil, with increasing water, and was abandoned.
