Stockman Free Cooking School Here April 22-23

Mrs. Wm. A. Browne, Nationally Known, Is Lecturer

Here's a treat for the women of this city and surrounding territory. The Ozona Stockman has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Mrs. William A. Browne, nationally famous home economist, to conduct its free Kitchen Chautauqua April 22 and 23.

Every woman who can possibly attend these lectures should do so for Mrs. Browne will bring many new methods in cookery and her revelations on the art of science of preparing new dishes—as well as old dishes in a new way—will amaze and please the women attending.

She has scientific knowledge gained in laboratory work as well as practical experience in her own kitchen of foods, but her lectures are not the dry discussions of calories, proteins and carbohydrates. She knows what a balanced ration should be but she also knows that foods should be appetizingly prepared and daintily served in order to be eaten with relish. Her appeal is to the eye and the palate as of prime importance as well as those phases of dietetics with individual metabolism.

There are many women who have often expressed regrets that they did not have the opportunities provided for school girls of today by the economic department in schools. Housewives appreciate the benefit and value of instructions along these lines and will grasp the opportunity of taking a course in household arts since such a thing is now practicable.

Mrs. Browne works along entirely new lines. Her lectures will be found especially helpful to the young housewife and the matron.

Austin, March 31. (Special) — City and county school superintendents throughout the state have been called upon this week to cooperate with Governor James V. Allred's New London School Memorial Committee by making it possible for every school child in Texas to participate in memorial donations.

The Governor has designated April 7th as "New London School Memorial Day" and called upon teachers throughout Texas public schools to conduct classroom memorial exercises and allow each child to contribute a penny toward the erection of a suitable memorial. The funds collected will be forwarded directly to the Governor at Austin for use by the Memorial Committee.

Hundreds of school children have written him and asked for permission to cooperate in the movement, Governor Allred said in his proclamation.

"Such an expression of love and sympathy from the school children of Texas would be comforting to the grieving parents of those who so short a time ago shared the joys of the classroom," said his proclamation. "Such an expression" (Continued On Last Page.)

THE COURT DECIDES

Three decisions in which the Supreme Court of the United States upheld Monday important new deal legislation have a public bearing on the President's justly disputed judiciary reform plan. Within the court, no consideration of the debatable question can have influenced judicial determination. In the two instances in which new issues were presented, the bench was unanimous. In the minimum wage law for women, in which the court reversed a previous holding, the earlier defeat was by a 5-4 margin and the shift of one Justice's opinion won the case this time by the same ratio.

In the wave of popular misunderstanding of the court, sedulously fostered by Mr. Roosevelt's lack of frankness in dealing with the question, there is wide failure to realize that more than sixty per cent of new deal legislation has been sustained by the "nine old men."

The majority of conservative thinking America has the utmost confidence in what is by far the most efficient bench in the country and by far the most hard working and one of the ablest units of present-day government. The court continues to interpret the Constitution as it stands.

The members of the highest bench do not have their ears to the ground. They keep their feet on it.—Dallas News.

When There's a Boy in the Family.

By PERCY CROSBY

AN UNFAIR BILL

The so-called anti-advertising law for dentists, now awaiting action in the Senate, strikes directly at two principles that always have been deemed indispensable to proper conduct of democratic government. One is that the law shall not be permitted to be used for private purposes; the other is that innocence before the law shall be presumed until guilt is proved.

The proposed new law, amending the dental practice act, would offend in both respects. It would lend the law to the enforcement of a private professional code. It would allow the State Dental Board to take away a dentist's license without proving anything against him, leaving it to him in a later hearing to establish his innocence and reinstate himself.

The anti-advertising section of the proposed new law is by no means the principal change it would introduce. A far more serious alteration from the public viewpoint is the virtual permission it would give to dentists organizations to fix prices to be charged the public and to exclude from practice dentists of whom they do not approve. It would make possible the denial of the right to practice to a dentist who in every way might be qualified, whose work was of the best, whose patients were entirely satisfied, and who himself was officially licensed by the State.

It should be borne in mind that under the existing law any dentist, whether he advertises or not who is guilty of fraudulent claims of malpractice of any sort, may be excluded from practice—after his guilt is proved. The proposed new law would not require proof before exclusion. Texas does not need such a law. If all that "ethical" dentists can prove against a practitioner is that he is saving his patients money and getting more patients than if he charged "regular" prices, they should not be granted the use of the law to protect their pocketbook against fair competition.—Fort Worth Telegram.

Only 20 Car Owners Return Questionnaire To Road Department

According to the latest available report from the Highway Planning Survey, 20 car owners of Crockett County have mailed the post cards which were handed to them at the time they paid their 1937 automobile license fees at the office of W. S. Willis, Tax Assessor and Collector. Since the number of cards thus far returned from this County are insufficient to give complete proof of the real needs of the County, every car owner should request one of these self-addressed, postage-free cards and should fill it in and mail it at once because information so collected, together with information compiled by other branches of the survey, will be used by the State Highway Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in collecting federal funds which will soon be spent in improving the secondary road system and in planning the future construction and maintenance of the roads and highways.

Throughout the state the car owners have been returning these cards in a highly satisfactory way. This county, in order to furnish information which places it on a comparable basis with other counties, should return these post cards from as high a percentage of its car owners as its neighboring counties.

Work Of Cast In Lenten Play Wins Reviewer's Praise

By Mary Williams

The Things that are Caesar's" Dorothy Clarke Wilson was the Lenten play of peace presented at the local Methodist Church last week on the evening of Good Friday as a part of the church's observance of Holy Week.

Mrs. Paul Perner sponsored the play and it was under the direction of Miss Morie Draper.

The scene of the play was laid in a soldier's barracks late in the afternoon of a spring day, just after the crucifixion of Jesus. The play centered about the transformation of Junius, the young Roman soldier who won the cloak of Jesus when the lots were cast, from a devoted soldier of Caesar's to a follower of the Christ. Evart White, as Junius, was superb in his action and in the interpretation of his lines. The role of Justus, the Centurion, was perfectly portrayed by Guinn Carruthers. The allegiance of Justus to Caesar on the one hand and the allegiance of Junius to Christ on the other was always in evidence. Marcus and Gaius, played by Elmer Baggett, Jr., and Ted White, furnished whatever levity the drama offered. These happy-go-lucky soldiers were ably interpreted by these two. Mrs. Ted White, as the Woman, revealed the deep emotions of one who had known and loved Jesus. Mrs. Graham Halbert as the Girl, deserves praise for her fine work. She and Mr. White are to be commended for the scenes in which they appeared together. Joe Thomas Davidson, Jr., as the officer did his duty well. In physique and manner he represented the force of the law.

The set and costumes were designed and created by Mrs. Paul Perner and Mrs. Joe Davidson. Special music was offered before the presentation by Miss Elitabel Hillery, Mrs. Ruth Hill, and Joe Eaddon. The Rev. Eugene Slater read the scripture before the play.

Livestock Shipments For February Show 5 Percent Increase

Austin, March 31 — Reports from approximately 1,500 Texas shipping points show aggregate forwardings of live stock during February of 3,958 cars, an increase of 5 per cent over February last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Shipments of cattle and calves declined but this decrease was more than offset by increases in the shipments of hogs and sheep. Cattle shipments, 2,473 cars, declined almost 3 per cent; shipments of calves, 457 cars, declined more than 3 per cent; hogs, 803 cars, increased 34 per cent; and sheep, 225 cars, increased 38 per cent.

Aggregate shipments during the first two months to Fort Worth and interstate points were 9,258 cars, an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

"Special features of the live stock marketings in February were the increase of shipments to the Los Angeles market," the Bureau's report said. "Cattle shipments to this market were nearly seven times as large and hog shipments more than four times as large as last year. Shipments of sheep to the Fort Worth market were nearly doubled those of February last year, but cattle shipments to this market fell off sharply."

That Tired Feeling

Two weary tramps met after a lengthy separation and sat down to compare experiences. "Where yer bin?" asked one. "Ain't seen yer about lately." "I've been laid up with the influenza." "Influenza! What's that?" "Well, I don't know that I can exactly explain it. It takes all the fight out of yer. Yer feel sort of tired like. Don't seem ter want ter do anything." "Why, I've had that disease for the last twenty years!" exclaimed the first speaker. "but this is the first time I have ever heard its name."—Montreal Star.

Two old settlers, confirmed bachelors, sat in the backwoods. The conversation started with politics and finally got around to cooking.

"I got one of them cookery books once, but I never could do nothing with it." "To much fancy work in it, eh?" "You've said it! Every one of them recipes began the same way: 'Take a clean dish—', and that settled me."

RURAL KITCHEN MODERNIZATION WITH OIL-BURNING EQUIPMENT

The Modern Oil-Burning Kitchen

The mention of kitchen modernization usually brings to mind such major equipment as gas or electric ranges and refrigerators, but this photograph shows that modernization in homes beyond gas and electric lines also is receiving wide attention. It is a model kitchen equipped with an oil-burning refrigerator and an oil range in "matched units."

The burners of the range, said to have heating capacity equivalent to those of a gas range, are concealed by a hinged panel at the front which may be left open or closed while the stove is in use.

The refrigerator supplies constant food-conserving cold and freezes ice cubes just as an electric refrigerator does, although the burners need be operated only about two hours a day. The burners go out automatically when sufficient refrigeration for 24 hours has been created.

It is said that the efficiency of the refrigerator is increased and dependable service assured even under the most severe conditions by the use of both water and air cooling. No outside water connection is needed. The condenser tank, filled with water at the beginning of the season, serves the same purpose as the water-filled radiator of an automobile engine—the quick absorption and carrying off of heat.

These refrigerators are said to have attained wide popularity in the tropics as well as in rural homes of this country.

Q. Where was Dimmitt's Trading post and by whom was it founded?

A. Dimmitt's Trading Post, also referred to as "Dimmitt's Point," "Dimmitt's Landing" and "Dimmitt's Crossing," was on the Lavaca River near Lavaca Bay. It was founded about 1832 by Capt. Philip Dimmitt, who was in command of the Texans at Goliad in 1835 and active in the meeting there that declared for Texas independence and, in 1936 was in command at Victoria and retreated on approach of Urrea, thus escaping the fate of Fanin and his men. Some historians say that the Post was on the site of old Fort St. Louis, though Prof. Bolton, says this is not correct.

Q. What became of Philip Dimmitt?

A. While he was preparing, in 1841, to engage in business on the Nueces about 15 miles from Corpus Christi, he and his companions were captured by Mexican raiders, his building was pillaged and burned, and the captives were taken to Monterrey and started from there to Mexico City. At Aguac Nueva they attempted to escape, but were retaken, and Dimmitt then suicided by taking morphine rather than endure the horrible imprisonment he foresaw. (All Rights Reserved.)

Contest Seeks To Find Ugliest Man In Texas Colleges

Fort Worth, March 31— Texas college campuses are all a-dither over—of all things—the question of which one boasts the "ugliest man."

Joe Frederick, senior at Texas Christian University recently won first prize on his campus in a contest to name the ugliest man. Not content with his honors, the Frog Frankenstein came out with the statement, "I am the ugliest college man in Texas!"

To date, eight colleges have challenged this statement, and have selected their "Beau Ugly" for the race. Several other schools are expected to participate. A judge, or judges, will be named in the near future by The Skiff, T. C. U. student newspaper, which started the whole thing.

More than mere honor will go to the Texas Collegiate Champion of Ugliness, for the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition will award the winner a job for the summer. In a letter to The Skiff, Manual Tobias, director of the guide unit, says they will declare the state winner "Jefe Honorable," and offer him a position on the staff of escorts.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Austin— Repeal of race-track gambling in Texas moved a step nearer enactment when the senate committee on criminal jurisdiction voted 8 to 6 to report a bill favorably, after a lengthy public hearing in which Sen. G. H. Nelson, of Taylor, staged a pretty bit of legislative dramatics as Austin has in many a moon. Nelson neatly outmaneuvered the race gambler's spokesman, the astute Sen. Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth. His action puts the bill, already passed 107 to 24 by the house, on a senate calendar and makes it pretty certain another record will be taken by the whole state. Packed galleries applauded vociferously as the vote was taken, after Nelson climaxed his speech by an old-fashioned country house plea, and capped the climax by leading to the stand a mother of seven children accompanied by five of the children—and told how her husband, ruined by race track gambling, had put a gun to his temple and blown his brains out. This was Nelson's answer to the opposition's charge that stories of race track gambling were "hearsay" and demanded specific instances. Those voting against track gambling in the committee were Brownlee of Austin, Stone of Houston, Rawlings of Fort Worth, Spears of San Antonio, Stone of Brenham and Albert of Seguin. Voting against the bill were Collier of Eastland, Cotten of Westlake, Davis of Brownwood, Hill of Henderson, Isbell of Rockwell, Lemens of Rainbow, Small of Amarillo and Woodruff of DeWitt. Unless the bill is prevented from coming to a vote on the senate floor, it is virtually certain to pass in the senate. Gov. Allred, long advocate of repeal, was an interested spectator at the hearing.

Speaker Is Scrapper, Too
Capitol corridors were buzzing last week with an unpublished story of a fistic encounter between Speaker Bob Calvert and an East Texas freshman house member, nearly twice Calvert's size. The brush occurred in an anteroom, with the East Texan the aggressor, according to the story. Calvert, attacked, not only proved capable of taking care of himself, but did the job so well that the East Texan yelled "enough" in short order.

Prison Bill Vetoed

The task of writing a law to effectuate the provision of the constitutional amendment adopted last year by Texas voters to reform the system of pardons and paroles, must be started all over again, following Gov. Allred's veto of the compromise bill written by a free conference committee. Allred specified about 10 objections to the bill, including the one of the paroles board to spend at least half the time at state prisons, or on prison farms, and providing criminal punishment for failure to do so. He also criticized leniency toward prisoners, and detailed duties imposed by the legislature upon parole board members. A bitter fight between Austin and Huntsville for the board's headquarters location raged throughout the time it was under consideration. Sen. Gordon Burns of Huntsville gave notice of an attempt to pass the bill over the governor's veto, something that hasn't happened since Don Moody was governor.

Tax Remission Battle
Widening the breach between governor and solons, the house passed the Harris-co tax remission bill without debate, in the face of a warning by Allred he would veto it. The bill remits 50 per cent of state ad valorem taxes to Harris for 10 years for flood control and had already passed the senate. Meanwhile the senate state affairs committee favorably reported the Mauritz bill, passed by the house, remitting all state ad valorem taxes (except the constitutional school levies) to all counties for five years, to use as they see fit. This raid of about $45,000,000 of state revenue would if enacted and signed, precipitate another sales tax crisis. The senate may pass it, too, but Allred is virtually certain to veto it.

Talk Follows Farley Visit

The speech of Jim Farley before the legislature, urging support of the president's court plan stirred much political talk here. Friends of Sen. Tom Connally, who opposes the plan, but has suggested a compromise, resented Farley's reference to Democrats who oppose it as "lending aid and comfort to the enemy," and felt Farley was unduly hard upon Connally, one of the president's closest friends in the national senate. In the campaign now under way to elect a successor to the late Congressman Buchanan of the Austin district, Lyndon Johnson's supporters were heartened by pledging full support to the Roosevelt court plan in his campaign speeches.

Highway Racket Halted

An end to a racket, under which certain unnamed county commissioners' courts have been mulcting the state highway funds by buying road equipment with scrip or warrants, was promised by the highway department. The equipment dealers have been peddling the county scrip to owners of large truck fleets, at a discount, urging them to register their vehicles in the affected counties, paying with the discounted scrip. A state law prohibits the registration of motor vehicles in counties other than the residence of the owners.

Integrated Unit Plan Of Teaching In Elementary Grades Forms Interesting Experiment In Three Classrooms Here

System Advocated By State Dept. Given Trial Here

Laboratory tests of a recently adopted educational system in the elementary grades of Texas schools, sponsored by the State Department of Education, are being made during the last half of the present term in the four lower grades of the Ozona Public School system.

The system is known as the "Child-Centered Educational Plan," and seeks to promote intellectual growth by expansion of the child from within, rather than an arbitrary stuffing of knowledge by the teacher from without. The program seeks to shift the center of interest from the teacher to the child himself, and his own program of seeking information, according to C. S. Denham, superintendent of Ozona schools, who is following the lead of other school executives in putting the system to a test.

Under the system, teaching is by the integrated unit plan. Under the teacher's guidance, pupils select a unit for development and in the course of its development, all of the common subject divisions of study are combined into the unit and developed as the unit itself is developed. Spelling, arithmetic, reading and other common subject divisions are learned by the pupil himself in his work toward completion of the selected unit.

Laboratory School

The Ozona school system, designated as a laboratory school by the State Department of Education, adopted the unit plan in three of the lower grades at the beginning of the second semester of the present term. Units are being developed in the second, third and fourth grades.

The fourth grade under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. C. S. Denham, completed last week a unit on Switzerland. From cardboard and other materials, pupils fashioned models of Swiss homes, the Alps, learned the industries and products of the country through research reading, model building and drawing and through their own initiative made a thorough study of the life and customs of the people of Switzerland.

With completion of their Swiss unit the fourth graders will spend the balance of the present term in developing a unit on Holland.

In the third grade, taught by Miss Norene Allison, communications is the unit adopted, with the course of study not entirely integrated in this class. Under communications, the children are investigating radio, telephone, postal service, railroads, motor cars and airplane transportation and newspapers and magazines. The children, after visiting the local postoffice and making a firsthand investigation of the system of transportation and delivering mail, fashioned a postoffice of their own out of cardboard. They have set up a radio broadcasting station over which a variety of programs are being broadcast and the subject is being developed with drawings and models of telegraph instruments and other communication facilities.

Study Community

The second grade's integrated unit is being developed on the subject of community life. The children are studying community life of various classes and races of peoples, fashioning typical homes of different groups from cardboard, and setting up a model of community life. All phases of community life come in for scrutiny in this unit, and the children are making a model of their own community, studying every type of business and the social and economic life of the commu-

Air Net to Catch Bombers

In the next war London may be defended from enemy bombers by great cable nets supported by balloons like that shown here. It is a revival of a plan of 1917 and provides a menace to low-flying planes, forcing them to fly higher, where searchlights, range finders and aircraft guns may be used against them more effectively.

ity, Miss Frances Northcutt, second grade teacher, is directing the new study plan in her grade.

Miss Elizabeth Fussell, first grade teacher, has plans in readiness for the development of a unit entitled, "The Three Bears," a unit study on home life. The kindergarten plan, under the direction of Miss Sophie Haug is entirely on the child-centered system, pupils of that department recently completing a home unit, the finale of which was a reception for parents and friends, and a grocery store, and this week a flower store sale.

The integrated unit plan of teaching has been adopted in most of the larger school systems of the state for the elementary grades. Many of these are following the plan entirely, while others, like the Ozona school, are feeling their way with the plan, awaiting further investigations and findings by the State Department of Education.

If you don't have SUPERFEX, the spoiled food you throw away is sure to cost you more, sooner or later, than you would pay for SUPERFEX modern refrigeration. Think of the wastes of the hot summer weather . . . milk that sours . . . butter that turns rancid . . . meat that spoils . . . vegetables that wilt . . . left-overs that can't be used; waste and loss, that is needless. SUPERFEX ends such waste and in doing so pays its own way—amazingly fast!

But now think also of the daily joy of having modern refrigeration in your kitchen—ample ice cubes for cold drinks—fresh, crispy salads or frozen desserts to enliven hot weather meals—and no waste food, because you can work over the "left-overs" into tasty dishes when you are ready to use them. No running down into the cellar or out to the well—no more worrying whether your next meal has spoiled before you get the chance to prepare it.
