Optimistic Note Sounded At Meet Bank Officials

Officers, Directors Re-Elected At Annual Session Tuesday

A note of optimism for the coming year's business was sounded by shareholders and officials of the Ozona National Bank when the annual meeting was held Tuesday afternoon for the election of officers and directors.

Reviewing events of the past year and basing their hopes on the ready apparent upward trends in all business channels, the bank officials predicted continued improvements during the next twelve months.

All officers and directors of the bank were re-elected to their respective posts, with nearly all shares represented. Officers of the bank were re-elected as follows: P. L. Childress, president; W. Young and W. E. West, vice presidents; Scott Peters, cashier; and Lowell Littleton and Hugh Childress, Jr., assistant cashiers. Directors were re-named as follows: Roy Henderson, P. L. Childress, J. W. Young, W. R. Baggett, W. E. West, W. W. West and Cassie West.

At the bank call for statement condition at the close of business December 31, the Ozona National showed deposits of $541,123.55. The local bank is a member of the Federal Reserve System and of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Immediately after the meeting of bank shareholders, the annual meeting of the Ozona Loan Company, subsidiary of the bank, was held and all officers and directors were re-elected. The same officers and directors governing the bank are named for the loan company, except that Scott Peters holds the post of secretary-treasurer instead of cashier and Lowell Littleton is assistant secretary-treasurer, and Hugh Childress, Jr., holds no post with the loan firm.

Mrs. Roberts will be in charge of welfare work in the three counties, making proper investigations and making monthly reports to the Commissioners Courts on work accomplished. Museum Collection Of Co. Housed In Room Of Hi School Building

Its collection of curios and relics of historic interest having grown to such proportions recently as to make an interesting display, the Ozona High School has set aside a room on the third floor of the building as a museum, under the direction of C. S. Denham, superintendent.

One of the most recent additions to the museum collection and one that has created considerable interest both locally and throughout the state are the two skeletons of Texas cave dwellers, estimated to be more than 3,000 years old, found in a cave on the Noelke ranch in this county. These skeletons, with their rabbit skin blanket and native plant fiber wrappings, have been carefully assembled and displayed in glass cases in the new museum quarters.

Branding irons from early day cattle ranches down to the present, approximately fifty excellent arrow head specimens picked up in Crockett County, fossilized mollusks and ammonites, petrified wood, a well preserved mastodon bone and tooth, fossilized fern of an ancient age, a broadaxe found in the Old Spanish Trail in this county, ancient and modern firearms and hundreds of other interesting pieces are included in the school's collection. SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

Many local business men complain, and with justice on their side, about the thoughtless practice of some of their customers and potential customers of buying from out-of-town firms the necessities they could buy from their home town merchants with more convenience to themselves and at the same time help their own community by keeping as much money at home as possible.

But the wholly righteous claims of these merchants to patronage from people who claim this community as home are weakened when they send their customers bills on statements that are printed in some outside city, in an envelope printed by the government at the taxpayers expense, or by a printer in distant city. He could present his claims with more sincerity if his own house were first placed in order.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Robison will return from Christoval Saturday. Mr. Robison has been taking the baths.

The LIVESTOCK SITUATION
by J.A. McNAUGHTON

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14—Probably at no previous time in our history has the United States Supreme Court been called upon to render an opinion more far-reaching than on the Agricultural Adjustment Act. The amount of actual tax money involved is well over a billion dollars. In fact, last year's income to the Federal government through processing taxes constituted the largest source of Federal income.

But of far greater import is the fact that the Supreme Court has determined that Federal restriction upon agricultural production is unconstitutional, declaring that this is a matter of states rights. Manifestly, it is beyond reason to suppose that forty-eight states and various territorial possessions could agree upon uniform laws to "adjust" production of various agricultural products. And there are many who have always opposed the AAA declaring that it was not within the power of the central government to properly adjust production. This fact was demonstrated when the drought went a great deal further in restricting pork production than had been intended by Federal bureau heads.

At this time, it does appear that the Supreme Court decision has removed doubt as to the policy to be pursued by American producers. In this respect it is gratifying that a decision has been rendered in time for producers to plan for spring planting and to determine upon procedure over a long time period without doubt as to governmental interference. It is too bad that it took so many months for the people to gain a decision upon the validity of the AAA.

Probably we will see no greater increase in pork production during the next two years than would have been the case under AAA. Certainly, the decision can hardly have any immediate effect, or any effect for some months to come, upon the supply of livestock for markets. As to the price situation, it is reasonable to assume that hogs will sell for more money on the markets without a processing tax of $2.25 a cwt. than with the tax. Possibly a happy medium will be struck, after the first market flurries, where both the producer and the consumer will have some immediate market price benefits through the court decision.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPRES JR.

AUSTIN, Jan. 14—Lobbyists and members of the legislature who have been in Austin recently are agreed that the called session will be at work at its gigantic task of raising revenue early in February, despite conflicting rumors of indefinite postponement. Renewed opposition by Gov. Allred to a general sales tax, following his visit to California, which has a sales tax that is to be submitted to the voters for possible repeal soon in a referendum election, and the entrance of Sen. Roy Sanderford as a candidate for governor on a straight 3 per cent sales tax platform, made it practically certain that the sales tax, freighted with more political significance than ever before, will be a leading issue before the session when and if it is held. Incidentally, the Kentucky legislature which adopted a sales tax in 1934, repealed it last week.

Another source of considerable state revenue was bottled up last week-end when attorneys for group of chain store organizations obtained in district court at Dallas an injunction against collection of the chain store tax. Chain store lobbyists, facing defeat just before the bill was passed, openly boasted in Austin that they had succeeded in obtaining adoption of amendments to the bill that would render it subject to court attacks.

both state and federal, on constitutional grounds. The law may have to be reviewed before the U. S. supreme court before its validity is finally decided, probably preventing collection of any taxes under its provisions for a year or two.

Gov. Allred once more laid rumors that he is "luke-warm" toward the New Deal when he was paid the high honor of being invited to deliver the Jackson day address last week at Nashville, near the Hermitage, historic home of President Jackson. He delivered an eloquent eulogy of President Roosevelt and his efforts in behalf of the forgotten man. At the Dallas dinner, Bascom N. Timmons, noted Texas journalist in Washington, convulsed an audience of 800 diners with his dry wit, when he commented upon the supreme court AAA decision. "When I first saw those nine old gentlemen in their black robes, I was pretty much impressed," he said. "But, do you know, I later found out they don't sleep in those robes at all. They take 'em off, and don a nightshirt or a suit of pajamas, just like any other ordinary men."

Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw did the honors as chief speaker at the Ft. Worth dinner with his customary forensic skill.

Two developments of first importance to Texas occupied attention of observers here last week. First, and most important because of its possible political implications, was the supreme court decision invalidating the AAA. Texas has collected more agricultural benefit cash from the federal government than any other state. Texas senators and congressmen were virtually unanimously supporters of the AAA program, and primary elections are coming on this summer. Many politicians believe that both President Roosevelt and the Texas congressional delegation have been strengthened substantially in Texas by the decision. Others are concerned over the possible economic effect of the immediate shutting off of millions of dollars in benefit payments to Texas farmers, and the probable trend of the cotton market in the face of unrestricted production of cotton this year. All proposed substitutes for the AAA are receiving careful attention, including Congressman Cross' (of Waco) plan to enact legislation to curb the powers of federal courts to declare acts of congress unconstitutional.

A second development—a 5 to 15 cent increase in the posted price of crude oil—brought rejoicing to many sections, notably East Texas. The increase was forecast in this column in December, a date between Jan. 1 and 10 being predicted. The increase was posted Jan. 9. It will mean about $50,000,000 additional annual revenue to Texas land and royalty owners, and additional income are expected shortly, as the oil line price is adjusted. The increase also brings in substantial additional tax funds to the state treasury and to the university and school funds.

MOTHER don't experiment with your Child's Colds

VICKS VAPOR

Often, "mere colds" have serious consequences. It is dangerous to neglect a cold—equally dangerous to experiment with half-way measures.

Feel safe! Use Vicks VapoRub—the proved external method of treating colds. No risks of counter internal "dosing," which so often upsets delicate digestion and lowers resistance when most needed.

DOUBLE DIRECT ACTION

Just rubbed on at bedtime, VapoRub fights a cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation and inhalation. This combined poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—makes difficult breathing—helps break congestion. Often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Stalin, the Iron Dictator, Can Smile

Being a dictator, be it in Italy, Germany or Russia, is a grim business and there is not much opportunity for smiles. In this instance, Dictator Josef V. Stalin of the Soviet is finding his "Iron Man" reputation being pierced by a little girl, Mamakat Nakhangova, who is asking for his autograph. On the extreme left is M. A. Red Trend Shown In Business Failures

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 14—The statistics on commercial failures in Texas during December showed a downward trend in comparison with the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, according to the report of the Bureau of Business Research, University of Texas. There was an average of five failures a week during the month against six the preceding month and four during December a year ago. Average liability per failure was $18,000, a decline of 28 per cent from December, 1934, but less than that of the preceding month. "Let's call it quits," he said. "That's a nice name, but not even married yet." "I saw it in the Stockman."

Quality Texas Beef Cattle Improved By Government Culling

COLLEGE STATION—Jan. 14—The Government purchase of cattle during the drought enabled the ranchmen and farmers of Texas to cull their herds which has resulted in a better class of beef cattle, according to Gerge W. Barnes, Extension animal husbandman. Barnes in outlining a few things to be done in 1936 for further improvement of Texas beef cattle, also said, "County agricultural agents are taking advantage of the Government culling job and are encouraging the use of better registered sires." The Extension animal husbandman went on to outline a few tips on raising good beef animals. He said, "The better the quality of the calf the longer it can profitably be fed. A six months' feed will be required to fatten well bred 400 pound steer calves. If calves are as light as 350 pounds when started on feed, seven months will be required. Heifer calves of the same weight and quality will finish 30 to 50 days earlier than steer calves. "More rapid gains may be secured on steer calves the second 30 to 100 days of feeding than the first. In the fattening period a calf should at least double his weight. A gain of two pounds per day may be considered satisfactory. The amount of feed necessary to fatten a calf will depend upon the condition, quality and weight of the calf and the ability of the feeder. Under ordinary farm conditions, it will take 1,500 pounds of shelled grain, or one ton of grain sorghum heads or ear corn, 300 pounds of cottonseed meal and from three-fourths to one ton of roughage per head.

First Newspaper In Texas In 1813

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 14—Research by Ike Moore, instructor in history at The University of Texas, has brought to light that the first printing press was brought to Texas in 1813, and it is probable that the first newspaper was published that same year. In an article, "The Earliest Printing and First Newspaper in Texas," in a recent issue of the Southwestern Historical Quarterly, Moore discusses evidence of the publication of a newspaper in 1813, six years earlier than the date other records have shown and 23 years before Texas gained her independence. Moore gives an account of the struggles against the Spanish government which resulted in the publishing of three newspapers: Mina's Manifesto, 1817; the Texas Republican, 1819; and El Majicano. It is the last which Moore believes was the paper published in 1813. The publisher of El Majicano is believed to have been Jose Alvarez de Toledo, Moore says. Included in his article is a statement from "The North American" by Henry A. Bullard, secretary and aide-de-camp to Toledo and later a prominent Louisiana citizen. Bullard writes that Toledo, a Cuban who came to Texas to aid the filibustering expedition of Gutierrez-Magee in 1813, car-

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants in retarding the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Early Anglo-American Settlers Of Texas Province Loyal To Government Of Mexico, Records of Bexar Reveal

Idea Of Independence Not Held By Colonists of Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 15—It has often been supposed that the American immigrants came into Texas with definite plans to declare Texan independence and to annex Texas to the United States. Nothing could be further from the truth, it is indicated from documents in the Bexar Archives in the University of Texas. These documents comprise the official Spanish and Mexican records for the Province of Texas for the period from 1731 to the declaration of Texas independence from Mexico. They contain communications to the Spanish and Mexican authorities from practically every "foreigner" who hoped to settle in or to colonize Texas, and they include copies of all official pronouncements issued by those authorities.

As soon as the Anglo-Americans under Stephen F. Austin settled on Texas soil, they became loyal and industrious citizens of Mexico. Austin even called himself a Mexican citizen. In spite of the fact that the Mexican officials were inexperienced in matters of government, and sometimes, quite unintentionally mistreated the Americans, no violent demonstrations were made by the foreign immigrants. There was only one instance, before 1835, when a group of misguided Anglo-Americans actually took up arms against the Mexican government. This incident, however, merely helped to prove Anglo-American loyalty to the Mexican authorities.

A misunderstanding between the Mexican government and two Edwards brothers resulted in the Fredonian fiasco. Haden Edwards and Benjamin, his brother, seem to have misunderstood the terms of powers granted him as empresario. On November 22, 1826, a band of forty armed men rode into Nacogdoches and seized Norris, the alcalde, and other officers they found there.

As soon as the government officials in San Antonio heard the report of the insurrection, they prepared an expedition against it. The armed force was scheduled to set out on December 2, but was delayed by a Comanche raid on San Antonio. On December 13, Colonel Ahumada and Saucedo set out with a force of one hundred and fifty men. They arrived at San Felipe on January 3, 1827, and were delayed there three weeks by rain and bad weather.

In the meantime, on December 16, Benjamin had paraded his men in the main street of the village of Nacogdoches, and proclaimed the Republic of Fredonia. The new republic could count on barely thirty armed men in its standing army. There was a possibility, however, that Edwards could enlist the aid of Richard Fields, Cherokee leader, and let loose a damaging Indian war against the Mexican government and loyal Anglo-Americans. Eventually, Edwards lost the support of the Cherokees through the opposition to him of chiefs Bowl and Mush.

There is no better proof of the initial assertion that the Anglo-Americans did not have definite and prearranged plans to sever Texas from Mexico than the attitude the majority of the settlers assumed toward the Fredonian insurrection. Stephen F. Austin denounced the movement in the strongest terms. He wrote letters to the rebellious colonists in Nacogdoches advising them to lay down their arms and submit to the Mexican authorities. He addressed his own colonists reminding them of their duty as loyal Mexican citizens. In one of his letters he wrote, "I am a Mexican citizen and an officer and I will sacrifice my life before I will violate my duty and oath of office." Austin was not alone in expressing loyalty to the government. Resolutions were drawn up by several districts and groups. A translation of one of the few unpublished statements of resolutions extant in the Bexar Archives of the University of Texas follows:

"Assembly of the residents of the settlement called El Fuerte in the district of Victoria in Austin's colony for the purpose of considering the commotions going on in Nacogdoches. Mr. Wyly Martin was named president and Randal Jones secretary of said assembly. The following resolutions were drawn up:

"First, that the foolish conduct of some desperate men with a certain Martin Parmen, otherwise known as the tiger with the painted tail, at their head is such as merits the distinct disapproval of every good, respectable resident of this colony.

"Second, that it is the duty and obligation of all the residents of this colony to unite in opposition to any union of people in any neighboring colony which has as its purpose the overthrow of good order or the abuse of the government of the United States of Mexico.

"Third, that we are ready, if called on by the authorities, to unite and give our greatest efforts to oppose those who band together for the purpose of abusing the authorities of this republic.

"Fourth, that William Morton, Randal Jones, and Santiago Jones are named as a committee to present our respects and these resolutions to the head of this department of government."

Dated January 8, 1827, this document was signed by Wyly Martin, president, and R. Jones, secretary.

The Fredonian rebellion was quickly crushed. On January 28, 1827, the Fredonian insurgents, hearing of the approach of Austin and his colonists along with the Mexican force, hurriedly abandoned Nacogdoches and fled across the Sabine. On February 8 the main army composed of four hundred men reached the town. A detachment of 35 men under Laurence Richard Kenney had preceded the main body of troops and had captured nine men. Aside from a bloodless skirmish in the outskirts of Nacogdoches, no serious developments followed the Fredonian fiasco. Austin and some Mexican officers remained in ona Girl Writes Impressions Of Huge Enclave Of Youth At Methodist Young Peoples Conference In Memphis, Tenn.

More Than 5,000 Delegates Registered At Year-End Meet

Mary Elizabeth Williams

The morning of December twenty-sixth two big stream-buses left the city of San Antonio. On these busses were three delegates from the Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and I was fortunate enough one of them. They were headed for Memphis, Tennessee, to the Methodist Young People's Conference. They were a group of many from all over the Southern United States. On Christmas Eve, thirty delegates from California boarded the train for Memphis. They spent Christmas and had their Christmas tree on the train. Ranging in number from one delegate each from Cuba to 243 from the North Carolina Conference, delegates poured in from thirty-nine conferences to exceed their allotments in 24 states and fall short in 14. The Texas Conference's allotment was 82 delegates and their actual attendance was 131 delegates. The two busses from San Antonio made their way through ice and rain on into Arkansas. By one o'clock the following morning they rolled over the big bridge spanning the Mississippi River and on into Memphis. After eating breakfast in Memphis we went to Convention Hall where delegates from all of Southern Methodism were gathered. The delegates received envelopes which had been prepared in advance upon their admittance as delegates. The majority of the West Texas Conference stayed in the Hotel Shelby and each night could be heard ringing out the windows of the Eyes of Texas. "Facing Life With Jesus" The general theme of the Conference was "Facing Life With Jesus Christ." Dr. W. A. Smart of Baylor University "pitched the subject" for the four-day conference in the opening session, speaking on the subject "The Way of Jesus Christ." Other outstanding speakers of the Conference were Edwin McCall Poteat, Jr., who is pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina. He was one of the most dynamic speakers and spoke on the subject "The Law of Love in a Profit Making Economic Order." Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes who spoke on "What Shall Youth Do About Alcohol?" brought the interest of every member of the vast audience to attention on his fiery speech, of great importance to the United States today. He was like a general going into battle, as he rose and poured forth his denunciation of alcohol. Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon preached the Conference Sermon Sunday morning on "The Lordship of Jesus Christ." Two excellent speakers of Sunday night were Paul W. Quillian who spoke on "The Church and the World Crisis" and Allen K. Chalmers of Broadway Tabernacle, New York City, who spoke on "Candles in the Wind." Other Bishops who were Bishops John M. Moore, and Paul B. Kern who gave the closing address, "Facing Life with Jesus Christ."

The outstanding speaker of the whole Conference was Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian, world citizen, and so wide is his influence that no other introduction was necessary. He leaves the Orient but rarely and people in this country are fortunate this year in hearing of his life, his work, and his philosophy at first-hand. His latest published work in English is "Songs from the Slums" which was widely sold at the Conference and made a very fitting souvenir from the Conference. His message to the Conference concerned practical aspects of Christianity as he sees them, and what he considers the basic Christian ideal. He made two addresses "What Christ Means To Me" and "Love the Law of Life." He has written ninety-seven books and with all of the money and returns that he has received from them he has turned back to help the poor and to further Christianity. Nine thousand persons were present to hear his two speeches and to see the great Japanese Christian.

International Day

Monday was International Day and delegates from China, Central Africa, Cuba, Japan, Indian and Mexican Missions, and Poland were present to make speeches and to be recognized. Monday night Senator Gerald P. Nye gave a stirring address on "The Munitions Industry and the Causes of War." He revealed some startling facts about the industry and the horrors of war. Dr. Kirby Page, noted peace leader, advised the youth of the Southern Methodist Church, in his address "Should Christians Sanction War?" to get themselves expelled from school by refusing to submit to compulsory R.O.T.C. if they wanted to get rid of it. Mordecai Johnson, a negro, made a splendid address on "The Negro in the World Crisis." Regina Westcott-Wieman, in her address on "The Youth of Today and the Homes of Tomorrow," discussed things that are faced by every young person in selecting a life-long companion and partner, and in building a Christian home. G. Ray Jordan, minister of Centenary Church in Winston-Salem, made an appealing address on "Jesus Our Only Hope and Never Failing Strength." And then one of our own Texas pastors, Umphrey Lee, gifted pastor of Highland Park Church, Dallas, Texas, made a talk on "Shall Jesus Be Lord?" The Conference music was most enjoyable. The group singing was directed by Walter Vassar, Professor Voice at Greensboro College, North Carolina. The organist was Franklin Glynn, International Concert Organist, Memphis, Tennessee, and the pianist for the Conference was Mrs. Walter Vassar. As special music the Concert Singers of Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial State College, Nashville, Tennessee, and the Paine College Quartet, which proved to be the most popular attraction along the line of music, sang. They were all negroes. Each afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30 p. m. Discussion Groups were held. These groups discussed practical problems and problems that would be of use to delegates in the future. I was fortunate enough to be in the discussion group led by E. O. Harbin, "Christian Use of Leisure," who is one of the outstanding leaders of recreation in the Methodist Church today.

SMU Sends Big Group

The Conference received greetings from the Young people of Brazil, Poland, Cuba, Belgium and the Student Volunteer Association being held in Indianapolis at the same time as the Conference in Memphis.

While sending her untied and undefeated football team to the Rose Bowl for the football of the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, Southern Methodist University found strength at the same time to send the largest delegation from any college to the Methodist Young People's Conference. Her delegation of forty and more was above the allotted quota. The Conference sent a telegram of good luck and cheer to the Mustangs before the great game on New Year's Day.

Published under the Directing Committee of the Methodist Young People's Conference for the General Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, "The Daily Highroad" was issued to each delegate.

With becoming thoughtfulness, the Memphis weather man arranged two snowfalls during the convention week—a record for rapid frequency. It was a real thrill for the extreme southern delegates to walk through the powder-sugar ground covering—later turned successively to chocolate frosting by the soot and smoke from the factory section of Memphis.

The heart of downtown Memphis offers one of the most delightful greetings for the visitor in the form of scores of squirrels and pigeons who inhabit Court Square also known as Squirrel Park.

An oddity in the city is the statue of the doughboy going over the top with fixed bayonet in Overton Park. It is the only statue of its kind in which the soldier has his right foot forward instead of the traditional army left.

Texans Whoop Centennial

In return for the many interesting features which Memphis offered—among them black snow, ice skating, the Pink Palace—the 853 delegates from Texas provided constant amusement for the Memphites. "The Eyes of Texas" rang constantly down the streets, cafes, hotels and Convention Hall, and the Centennial was widely advertised. Hotel porters confided that it was the first "dry" convention Memphis had ever seen, as was the Creamer Brothers' streamlined bus used by the West Texas Conference also apparently a novelty to the Southern City.

It was announced at the opening session of the Conference that there were 5140 registered delegates. Others came. Local newspapers reported that more than 8,000 were present to hear Kagawa speak and attendance averaged 5,000 to 6,000.

It was indeed a great achievement to bring so many young people together from all over Southern Methodism. Suppose the average expenses were $25.00. That would mean a total cost for the Conference of $125,000 to $135,000. We believe the value of the Conference to the lives of the young people of our church cannot be measured in dollars.

Early Anglo-American Settlers Of Texas Province Loyal To Government Of Mexico, Records of Bexar Reveal

Idea Of Independence Not Held By Colonists of Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—It has often been supposed that the American immigrants came into Texas with definite plans to declare Texan independence and to annex Texas to the United States. Nothing could be further from the truth, it is indicated from documents in the Bexar Archives in the University of Texas. These documents comprise the official Spanish and Mexican records for the Province of Texas for the period from 1731 to the declaration of Texas independence from Mexico. They contain communications to the Spanish and Mexican authorities from practically every "foreigner" who hoped to settle in or to colonize Texas, and they include copies of all official pronouncements issued by those authorities.

As soon as the Anglo-Americans under Stephen F. Austin settled on Texas soil, they became loyal and industrious citizens of Mexico. Austin even called himself a Mexican citizen. In spite of the fact that the Mexican officials were inexperienced in matters of government, and sometimes, quite unintentionally mistreated the Americans, no violent demonstrations were made by the foreign immigrants. There was only one instance, before 1835, when a group of misguided Anglo-Americans actually took up arms against the Mexican government. This incident, however, merely helped to prove Anglo-American loyalty to the Mexican authorities.

A misunderstanding between the Mexican government and two Edwards brothers resulted in the Fredonian fiasco. He addressed his own colonists reminding them of their duty as loyal Mexican citizens. In one of his letters he wrote, "I am a Mexican citizen and an officer and I will sacrifice my life before I will violate my duty and oath of office." Austin was not alone in expressing loyalty to the government. Resolutions were drawn up by several districts and groups. A translation of one of the few unpublished statements of resolutions extant in the Bexar Archives of the University of Texas follows:

"Assembly of the residents of the settlement called El Fuerte in the district of Victoria in Austin's colony for the purpose of considering the commotions going on in Nacogdoches. Mr. Wyly Martin was named president and Randal Jones secretary of said assembly. The following resolutions were drawn up:

"First, that the foolish conduct of some desperate men with a cer-

"Second, that it is the duty and obligation of all the residents of this colony to unite in opposition to any union of people in any neighboring colony which has as its purpose the overthrow of good order or the abuse of the government of the United States of Mexico.

"Third, that we are ready, if called on by the authorities, to unite and give our greatest efforts to oppose those who band together for the purpose of abusing the authorities of this republic.

"Fourth, that William Morton, Randal Jones, and Santiago Jones are named as a committee to present our respects and these resolutions to the head of this department of government."

Dated January 8, 1827, this document was signed by Wyly Martin, president, and R. Jones, secretary.

The Fredonian rebellion was quickly crushed. Girl Writes Impressions Of Huge Convocation Of Youth At Methodist Young People's Conference In Memphis, Tenn.

More Than 5,000 Delegates Registered At Year-End Meet

Mary Elizabeth Williams

The morning of December twenty-sixth two big streamliners left the city of San Antonio. On these busses were three delegates from the Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and I was fortunate enough to be one of them. They were headed for Memphis, Tennessee, to attend the Methodist Young People's Conference. They were accompanied by many from all over the Southern United States. On Christmas Eve, thirty delegates from California boarded the train for Memphis. They spent Christmas there and had their Christmas tree on the train. Ranging in number from one delegate each from Cuba, Mexico, and Texas to 243 from the North Carolina Conference, delegates poured in from thirty-nine conferences to attend their allotments in 24 hours and fall short in 14. The Texas Conference's allotment was 82 delegates and their attendance was 131 delegates. Two busses from San Antonio made their way through ice and snow into Arkansas. By 10 o'clock the following morning they rolled over the big bridge spanning the Mississippi River into Memphis. After eating breakfast in Memphis we went to Convention Hall where delegates from all of Southern Methodism were gathered. The envelopes had been prepared in advance upon their admittance as delegates. The majority of the West Texas Conference stayed in the Hotel and each night could be seen ringing out the windows of the "Eyes of Texas." "Facing Life With Jesus" was the general theme of the Conference. Dr. W. A. Smart of the University of North Carolina pitched the theme for the four-day conference in the opening session, speaking on the subject "The Way of Jesus of Today." Other outstanding speakers of the Conference were Edwin McPoteat, Jr., who is pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina. He was one of the most dynamic speakers and spoke on the subject "The Law of Love in a Profitable Economic Order." Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes who spoke on "What Shall Youth Do About Alcohol?" brought the interest of every member of the vast audience to attention on his fiery speech of great importance to the States today. He was like a general going into battle, as he rose and poured forth his denunciation of alcohol. Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon preached the Conference Sermon Sunday morning on "The Lordship of Jesus Christ." Two excellent speakers of Sunday night were W. Quillian who spoke on "The Church and the World Crisis" and Allen K. Chalmers of the Tabernacle, New York, who spoke on "Candles in the Wind." Other Bishops speakers were Bishops John M. Moore, and Paul B. Kern who gave the closing address, "Facing Life with Jesus Christ."

The outstanding speaker of the whole Conference was Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian, world citizen, and so wide is his influence that no other introduction was necessary. He leaves the Orient but rarely and people in this country are fortunate this year in hearing of his life, his work, and his philosophy at first-hand. His latest published work in English is "Songs from the Slums" which was widely sold at the Conference and made a very fitting souvenir from the Conference. His message to the Conference concerned practical aspects of Christianity as he sees them, and what he considers the basic Christian ideal. He made two addresses "What Christ Means to Me" and "Love the Law of Life." He has written ninety-seven books and with all of the money and returns that he has received from them he has turned back to help the poor and to further Christianity. Nine thousand persons were present to hear his two speeches and to see the great Japanese Christian.

International Day

Monday was International Day and delegates from China, Central Africa, Cuba, Japan, Indian and Mexican Missions, and Poland were present to make speeches and to be recognized. Monday night Senator Gerald P. Nye gave a stirring address on "The Munitions Industry and the Causes of War." He revealed some startling facts about the industry and the horrors of war. Dr. Kirby Page, noted peace leader, advised the youth of the Southern Methodist Church, in his address "Should Christians Sanction War?" to get themselves expelled from school by refusing to submit to compulsory ROTC if they wanted to get rid of it. Mordecai Johnson, a negro, made a splendid address on "The Negro in the World Crisis." Regina Westcott-Wieman, in her address on "The Youth of Today and the Homes of Tomorrow," discussed things that are faced by every young person in selecting a life-long companion and partner, and in building a Christian home. G. Ray Jordan, minister of Centenary Church in Winston-Salem, made an appealing address on "Jesus Our Only Hope and Never Failing Strength." And then one of our own Texas pastors, Umphrey Lee, gifted pastor of Highland Park Church, Dallas, Texas, made a talk on "Shall Jesus Be Lord?"

The Conference music was most enjoyable. The group singing was directed by Walter Vassar, Professor Voice at Greensboro College, North Carolina. The organist was Franklin Glynn, International Concert Organist, Memphis, Tennessee, and the pianist for the Conference was Mrs. Walter Vassar. As special music the Concert Singers of Tennessee Agricultural and Industrial State College, Nashville, Tennessee, and the Paine College Quartet, which proved to be the most popular attraction along the line of music, sang. They were all negroes.

Each afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30 p. m. Discussion Groups were held. These groups discussed practical problems and problems that would be of use to delegates in the future. I was fortunate enough to be in the discussion group led by E. O. Harbin, "Christian Use of Leisure," who is one of the outstanding leaders of recreation in the Methodist Church today.

SMU Sends Big Group

The Conference received greetings from the Young people of Brazil, Poland, Cuba, Belgium and the Student Volunteer Association being held in Indianapolis at the same time as the Conference in Memphis.

While sending her untied and undefeated football team to the Rose Bowl for the football of the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, Southern Methodist University found strength at the same time to send the largest delegation from any college to the Methodist Young People's Conference. Her delegation of forty and more was above the allotted quota. The Conference sent a telegram of good luck and cheer to the Mustangs before the great game on New Year's Day.

Published under the Directing Committee of the Methodist Young People's Conference for the General Board of Christian Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, "The Daily Highroad" was issued to each delegate.

With becoming thoughtfulness, the Memphis weather man arranged two snowfalls during the convention week—a record for rapid frequency. It was a real thrill for the extreme southern delegates to walk through the powder-sugar ground covering—later turned successively to chocolate frosting by the soot and smoke from the factory section of Memphis.

An oddity in the city is the statue of the doughboy going over the top with fixed bayonet in Overton Park. It is the only statue of its kind in which the soldier has his right foot forward instead of the traditional army left.

Texas Whoop Centennial In return for the many interesting features which Memphis offered—among them black snow, ice skating, the Pink Palace—the 853 delegates from Texas provided constant amusement for the Memphians. "The Eyes of Texas" rang constantly down the streets, cafes, hotels and Convention Hall, and the Centennial was widely advertised. Hotel porters confided that it was the first "dry" convention Memphis had ever seen, as was the Creamer Brothers' streamlined bus used by the West Texas Conference also apparently a novelty to the Southern City.

It was announced at the opening session of the Conference that there were 5140 registered delegates. Others came. Local newspapers reported that more than 8,000 were present to hear Kagawa speak and attendance averaged 5,900 to 6,000.

It was indeed a great achievement to bring so many young people together from all over Southern Methodism. Suppose the average expenses were $25.00. That would mean a total cost for the Conference of $125,000 to $135,000. We believe the value of the Conference to the lives of the young people of our church cannot be measured in dollars.

UCC Provides New Easy Payment Plan For Ford V8 Buyer

Eight years ago the Universal Credit Company began its history as an important factor in the commercial, financial, and industrial life of the nation—a specialized financial institution created for the exclusive purpose of providing a stabilizing factor in financing the time sales of Ford cars and trucks. The company has made sound and substantial progress ever since inception.

UCC has been repeatedly responsible for the reduction of finance costs for Ford buyers. The large volume of business developed has made possible constantly improved plans, providing courtesy, safety, and economy for the Ford purchaser desiring to buy out of income.

UCC again follows with the lowest and best plans it has ever offered.

Under the new UCC Plans, after the usual low down payment, the Ford buyer can purchase his Ford car anywhere in the country on instalments of only $25.00 a month.

The cost of this extension of credit is only 1/2 of 1% per month on the original unpaid balance and insurance. Convenient UCC charts show these finance charges which are computed by multiplying the unpaid balance plus insurance by 1 1/2% per month (6% for 12 months—which is not simple interest but a multiplier for computation).

SUTTON COUNTY PLANS BEAUTIFICATION PROGRAM

Beautification work planned to make more presentable both highway right-of-way and home surroundings will be started at once in this section, according to an announcement this week by Mrs. Roy E. Aldwell, Sutton county chairman of the state organization in charge of the work.

Prime purpose of the encouraging of beautification work is to make Texas more attractive to the many who are expected to visit the state during 1936—Centennial year.

Planting work is to be done at once by H. L. Taylor, section foreman, state highway department and his workers. Mr. Taylor and his employees are directly in charge of the work on the highways and wayside parks on the highway rights-of-way. Mr. Taylor and his men are working in close cooperation with Mrs. Aldwell and the committee chairmen she has appointed for the work in the county.—Devil's River News.

W. E. Crowder and daughter, Miss Louise Crowder, of San Angelo, former Ozona residents, were here visiting friends Sunday.

A Frenchman was relating his experiences of studying the English language. He said: "When I first discovered that if I were quick, I was fast; that if I were tied, I was fast; if I spent too freely, I was fast; and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged. But when I came across the sentence, 'The first one won one one-dollar prize' I gave up trying to learn the English language."
