ORGANIZED LABOR CRITICISES BILL FOR WORK RELIEF

Green Says $50 Wage Would Be Harmful To Industry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1, (P)—A blast of criticism from organized labor today was directed at the administration's $4,000,000,000 work relief bill as the measure continued under critical scrutiny of the senate appropriations committee.

Appearing before another senate group, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said a plan to pay a maximum of $50 a month on public work projects would "tear down the wage structure of private industry and reduce the purchasing power" of workers.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR CRANE MAN

ODESSA, Feb. 1,—Ben N. (Blackei) McKeewn, 38, filling station owner at Crane, was instantly killed, Buck Riden and A. M. Thornton, oil company employees, also of Crane, were seriously injured in an automobile collision on Highway 51, three miles east of here Wednesday night. Funeral services are to be conducted for McKeown at three o'clock this afternoon, Riden and Thornton were reported to be resting well at a local hospital.

There were no witnesses to the tragic collision, other than those involved.

SULPHUR WATER STOPS DRILLING ON WINKLER WILDCAT

Wildcat Is Spudded In Lea County Thursday

By PAUL OSBORNE

A hole full of sulphur water, encountered at 3.451 feet yesterday, has definitely stopped further drilling in the Maxwell No. 1 Clapp, Winkler county wildcat test. The water was reported flowing in a three inch stream in the well yesterday afternoon.

The Clapp well is located in section 37, block 26, public school land, about a mile northwest of Fox-Butler No. 1 Jeffries, a recognized producer. First sulphur water was encountered at 3.404 feet, but operators drilled further hoping to find a possible untested oil zone below the water. It is reported that the well will be plugged back and shot in an attempt to commercialize oil shows further up the hole.

York and Harper and Harry Adams No. 1 Hereford Stock Farms, wildcat northeast of the Means pool in northern Andrews county, has reported hole full of water at 1,525 feet in red beds, and is drilling ahead.

Argo Royalty Company No. 1 Burner, wildcat test in section 6, township 20 south, range 32 east.

AUSTIN, Feb. 1, (P)—Governor Allred today intervened to prevent the possible electrocution of Cecil Short under sentence of death from Dallas county because of a clerical error in the commutation proclamation by former Governor Ferguson.

Allred said he was re-issaing the proclamation commuting Short's sentence to life imprisonment.

The proclamation by Governor Ferguson was written soon after the first of the year, the stenographer inadvertently dating it "1934" instead of "1935." Thus the commutation would have been issued before the crime for which he was sentenced had been committed.

Charles A. Lindbergh, today disputed the opinion of eight state experts that the defendant wrote the Lindbergh ransom notes.

The defense formally disclaimed any connection that the dead Isadore Fisch might have written them.

A. Christmas card was handed Trendley with a query of possible similarities between the handwriting the fourteen ransom notes which followed the kidnaping and slaying of the baby. The state objected.

The card was not immediately identified, although discussion following indicated that it was from Fisch.

SENTIMENT NO ANSWER TO PRISON PROBLEM

The one thing more than any other which stands in the way of our reaching a sane and workable prison program is sentimentality.

Here is one problem which we do not seem able to approach reasonably. No matter when or how it comes up, we look at it through a mist which our sentimental preconceptions have spread before our eyes, and this mist distorts and conceals the things we look at.

Now there are two kinds of sentimentality in connection with the prison problem. One is the kind made familiar by the man who suffers from excessive softness of heart. To this man the convict is simply a luckless, misunderstood child-a person who has never had a chance, and who will forsake his evil ways overnight and become an upright citizen, a devoted husband and father and a pillar of the church, if only someone will speak to him kindly.

The mischief that this kind of sentimentality is responsible for in our treatment of criminals is so obvious and so widespread that it needs no comment.

The other kind of sentimentality is the exact reverse of this. It is the hard-boiled type. The man who possesses it thinks that no prison routine can be too harsh

If someone tries to give prisoners decent food, decent sanitation, and a halfway respectable training for lawabiding life, this man cries that the prisoners are being

He is against paroles, against "trusty" systems, against every effort to turn criminals into good citizens.

This attitude is just as truly a sentimental attitude as the other one, though we don't usually look on it in

It is sentimental because the man who has it is ruled by what he feels and not by his brain. And it is just as great a barrier in the path of enlightened penology as is the sentimentality which springs from maudlin sym-

Julian Alco, acting president of the California Board of Prison Directors, points out that the hope for an intelligent penal program lies between these two extremes.

Our present system, which herds great masses of men together, keeps them idle, and mixes first offenders with hardened old repeaters, simply creates fresh troubles for us, he asserts.

It is his idea that each state should establish work camps for such prisoners as are not completely beyond

Let transfer from prison to camp be a reward for good behavior, he urges; let the convict in the camp understand that he is being fitted for a return to civil life; put hope in his breast instead of hatred-and we shall approach a sensible solution of our prison problem.

If we can lay aside these two kinds of sentiment and be guided by reason, we may follow some such scheme as this . . . and save ourselves much trouble.

REFRESHING DISGUST

Once in a while a man will decide, suddenly and unexpectedly, that he is just naturally fed up with things. When he does so, he is more than likely to do something very queer; but the very queerness of his action sometimes makes it rather refreshing to the innocent by-

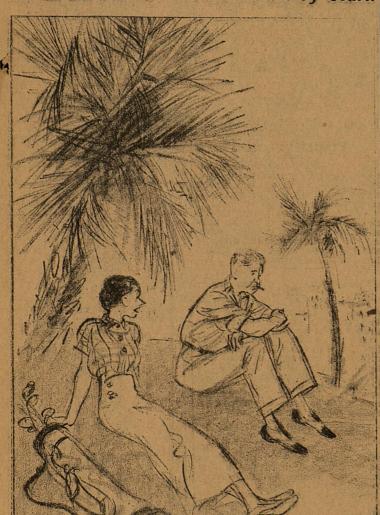

A sample is the case of the Washington street car motorman who came abruptly to the decision that he didn't like his work. He reached this decision while piloting his car through crowded traffic along a main street; but having reached it he never hesitated.

He simply turned to his passenger, said, "To hell with this job," got off the car and walked away, leaving street car and riders to get home as best they could.

This would be an odd sort of world if men generally used that method of giving up a distasteful job. But there is, nevertheless, something humorously appealing about this little story. It gives the imagination something to play with.

Can You Find Hauptmann in This Court Crowd?

Without reading beyond this first sentence, can you find Richard Bruno Hauptmann in this picture? The photo was taken in the Flemington, N. J., courtroom the other day as the alleged slayer of the Lindbergh baby was brought through the dense crowd after a luncheon recess to resume the witness stand. The picture clearly shows why troopers take firm hold of the prisoner when entering and leaving court. If you haven't already spotted Hauptmann, he may be seen just to the left above the man wearing glasses and plaid scarf in the right foreground,

Store Sales Are Highest for Two Year Era Studied

The Review, compiled Jan 15, reports "the agricultural and livestock situation continues to be affected adversely by the lack of moisture. Over the major portion of the district there is a deficiency of subsoil moisture and in some areas there is no surface moisture." The seasonally adjusted index of department store sales for December, the Review continues, rose to the highest point recorded since the low point in January, 1933. Wholesale distribution, while showing the usual decline from November, was maintained at a higher level than a year ago. Several wholesalers reported a considerable volume of fill-in-business. Debits to individual accounts at larger centers in December exceeded those of November by 18 per cent and were nine per cent above those in the corresponding month of 1933. In other departments of business and production in the eleventh district, the Review's survey says:

Small grains, which showed considerable improvement after the rains early in December, are now showing a tendency to deteriorate. On the other hand, the mild temperatures and open weather enabled tarmers to make good progress with farming operations and have been favorable to livestock. The condition of range and livestock over much of the district continues poor to only fair. The absence of adequate pasturage has necessitated heavy feeding in some areas to sustain the conditions of livestock. After the turn of the year, market prices of most classes of livestock. Financial statistics reflected changes largely of a seasonal nature. The commercial loans of member banks in selected cities showed the usual decline between December 12 and January 9, and on the latter date were in about the same volume as a year ago. The combined net demand and time deposits of member banks in this district averaged $793,025,000 in December compared with $7??,953,000 in November and $680,863,000 in the corresponding month of 1933.

While the return flow of currency after the holidays reduced the circulation of Federal reserve notes, the total on Jan substantially larger than a year-earlier.

Although the valuation of build-ing permits issued at principal cities declined 38 per cent from No-vember, the month which establish-ed a record volume for the year, the total for December was 62 per cent larger than in the same month of 1933. The aggregate volume for 1934 was 22 per cent larger than that for the previous year.

Several of them saw the organization proceedings and then departed. There is little doubt, however, but that they will return when their presence is demanded. Certain observers hold the opinion that some members of the legislature, particularly those serving their first terms in the House, are somewhat chary of the lobbyists. They have heard so much about lobbyists and lobbying that they appear anxious to wear no one's "brand", at least until they acquire experience and knowledge of why the legislative wheels go round. The comment caused by adoption of a resolution by the house calling for appointment of a joint committee to prepare a questionnaire divulging sources of income and employment of legislators also has had an effect. The questionnaire would be answered under oath. It evoked quite a stir in the Senate and certain members showed a desire to go into campaign funds of some state department heads, including expenditures in behalf of Governor James V. Allred. AUSTIN, Feb. 1. (P).—Widespread agitation for strict regulation of lobbyists has had a decided effect. on the legislative picture generally, in the opinion of those who have observed the procedure of lawmaking through the years.

Fewer lobbyists, with the possible exception of representatives of public utility interests, were present during the opening weeks of the current regular session than in recent years, observers agreed. The general impression is that they have become conscious of the increasing sentiment to remove the legislature from undue "influence" but will be dormant only until their presence on the legislative preserve is needed.

During the past few years clamor for strict regulation of public utilities has been rising. The utilities in the past have staved off enactment of legislation they regarded as likely to be a hardship on their activities. The state deficit of more than $15,000,000, the greatest in modern times, is causing concern to the larger corporations. Those familiar with legislative procedure recall the numerous attempts that have been made to boost substantially the taxes paid by oil producers and sulphur companies. Any serious effect to balance the budget will require additional taxes. Sulphur and oil have been favorite sources of levies in the past. Bills to increase taxes on these resources were among perfield" is finally coming to the screen!

It opens for 3 days at the Yucca Theatre prevue Saturday night as one of the gold medal pictures of recent years.

No photoplay in recent years has aroused more advance interest than "David Copperfield." Listed among the immortal stories of all time, it frequently was described by Charles Dickens, its author, as "my favorite child." It is a story that has been read by untold millions since it first was published, and its presentation on the screen is awaited eagerly.

No liberties have been taken with the original story, according to advance information. It remains a thrilling, dramatic and humorous tale of adventure and romance, just as Dickens wrote it.

No less than sixty-five stars and featured players have the principal roles, with many other players in supporting parts. It was produced by David O. Selznick of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, the main who gave the screen "Dancing Lady," "Viva Villa!" and "Little Women," The director was George Cukor, who directed "Little Women, and many other outstanding successes.
