

Baby Bond Bonus Passes in Senate By an Overwhelming Margin, 74-16

BILL IS NOW WITHIN ONE STEP OF WHITE HOUSE AFTER VOTE

Majority Is Sufficient To Override a Veto
BACK TO HOUSE
Easy Victory Is Sure When Lower Body Casts Votes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21, (AP).—The Democratic house leadership today continued plans to whisk the baby bond bonus bill to passage tomorrow, with a possibility that the president will get the bill by Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21, (AP).—A soldiers' bonus bill, calling for payment of full 1945 maturity value in $50 bonds, was shown to within a step of the White House last night as the senate passed it along to a receptive house by a top-heavy majority of 74 to 16.

The majority rolled up for the Democratic-republican two billion dollar proposal was easily more than enough to pass it over a veto. The house already has approved immediate payment by an even greater majority—356 to 59—but without specifying the payment method. Some observers predicted a veto, but even Democratic leaders said it would be overridden.

Speaker Byrns said the "baby bond" bill will be taken up in the house Wednesday. House leaders predicted house acceptance of the senate substitute by an overwhelming ballot.

A double defeat in the senate for payment of the world war adjusted service certificates in new currency was expected to influence house supporters of the inflationary Patman bill, vetoed last session, to refrain from voting this issue.

Only nine Democrats and seven Republicans yesterday voted against senate passage. Fifty-six Democrats, 15 Republicans, 2 farm-laborites and the lone progressive, LaFollette, replied in the affirmative.

The approved measure would authorize appropriation of $2,237,000,000 and also make available $254,000,000 in the adjusted service certificate fund to defray the estimated ultimate cost of the bonus of $2,491,000,000.

Beginning June 15, next, the $50 bonds and as much cash as would be needed to take care of odd amounts, would be made available to around 3,500,000 bonus holders at local postoffices.

They could cash the bonds immediately or hold them as an investment. If held, they would pay a per cent simple annual interest for nine years. If redeemed the first year no interest would be paid.

Sponsors of the bill, however, demand on the treasury the first year would not exceed $1,250,000,000 on the theory that thousands of veterans would hold their "baby" bonds as a nest egg.

Opponents contended it would cost the government $1,000,000,000 more than it promised to pay in 1925, and that the move may place the nation's credit in a dangerous position.

Only one amendment was approved by the senate and that was offered by Harrison. This alteration wrote in penalties of $1,000 and five years' imprisonment for any fraud in obtaining the bonds. Application of the penalties to violators of regulations was stricken from the bill by Senator Borah (R-Ida.) who called that "too severe."

A vote of 50 to 35 turned down a motion to reconsider previous rejection of an amendment by Senator Connally (D-Tex). It would have extended bonus benefits to 2,257 "provisional" first class second lieutenants who served in the regular army in the world war and resigned the first year after the armistice.

Connally and Senator Byrns (D-Ga.) argued strenuously for the amendment, declared it would avoid frank discrimination, but they got nowhere after they had stated the war department was opposed to the proposition.

First Twins Born in Matanuska

Arrival of these twins was an event to be given a prominent place in the annals of the Matanuska valley in Alaska, for theirs was the first twin birth since colonization of this far north district. The proud mother, smiling as she holds a girl on each arm, is Mrs. Henry Rossier, formerly of St. Louis, wife of one of the settlers making farm homes for themselves under the government's rehabilitation plan.

WHAT SENATE BILL WOULD GIVE VETS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Veterans' agencies today calculated adjusted certificates holders would receive the following amounts under the senate bill:

Holder of an average certificate of $1,000 on which no loans have been made would be entitled to receive $1,000 in $50 bonds which could be cashed for the full amount any time during the year beginning with June 15 next, at any postoffice, but not bank.

If he held the bonds until June 15, 1937, he could receive on demand $1,030, including 3 per cent interest.

If he held them until maturity, June 15, 1945, he would get $1,270. A veteran who borrowed to the limit of 50 per cent on his certificate would receive just half of the amounts in the above categories, because interest on such loans would be cancelled.

ECTOR WILDCAT HITS A HEAVY GAS FLOW EARLY TODAY

Dunning Scharbauer Makes 15,000,000 Cubic Feet

The outstanding development today in West Texas oil exploration is the striking of a large gas flow in W. H. Dunning et al. No. 1 Mrs. Clarence Scharbauer, northern Ector wildcat. While drilling at 4015 feet in time, the well picked up an estimated 100,000 cubic feet of gas, which increased to between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 cubic feet as drilling progressed to 4030. Operations in drilling to 4815 feet, being drilled in one day, utilizing the hole, although they have rigged up control head.

The Dunning wildcat is located over a mile north of the Goldsmith pool, in section 33, block 44, township 1 north, T. & P. survey.

In Gaines county, W. T. Walsh & Harry Adams Corp. No. 1 Avertis, in section 228, block G. W. T. R. survey, was reported as having reached 3225 feet in anhydrite and sand. It is still making from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, and operators are converting from drilling to 4815 feet, being drilled in one day, utilizing the hole, although they have rigged up control head.

The No. 1 Avertis is three miles northwest of Seminole and is being drilled in one day, utilizing the hole, although they have rigged up control head.

The other Gaines test, Wahlenmaier, York & Harper No. 1 Ed Jones, had not yet picked up solid time in drilling to 4815 feet, being drilled in one day, utilizing the hole, although they have rigged up control head.

The location of the No. 1 Waddell, deep discovery in the Tubbs area of Crane county, after which rocks and five sacks of cement were put in, being drilled to 6980 feet. From the latter depth, the hole will be anchored for 30 feet and will be shot with 140 quarts from 5980 to 6050 feet. Result of the shot should prove interesting since it will probably determine the productive possibilities of the Simpson formation in this well.

Location of the No. 1 Waddell in section 4, block B-27, public school land.

Barnsdall's No. 1 Foster, new pool opened in Ector county about a mile north of the Addis pool, has not yet been given an official pronouncement test but has stimulated new drilling, two offsets having been announced. Barnsdall's No. 1 Foster, new pool opened in Ector county about a mile north of the Addis pool, has not yet been given an official pronouncement test but has stimulated new drilling, two offsets having been announced.

Stanford is rigging up rotary for the No. 1 Witcher, 660 feet out of the northeast corner of section 24, block 43, township 2 south.

35 ATTEND HEALTH BOARD MEETING ON MONDAY EVENING

Gray Addresses the Meeting of County Organization

Speaking from the standpoint of a private physician and also from that of a public health doctor, Dr. George Gray, of Memphis, Texas, addressed a group of about 35 people last night at the annual meeting of the county of Midland on the dignity of the Midland County Public Health Board, on the subject of general public health. He complimented the county of Midland on the dignity it has given public health work by placing the nurse's office on the second floor of the court house. In his experience, he had found most of the health offices in the basement.

"The beginning of public health in the United States was with the United States public health service," said Dr. Gray. "And it is still in its infancy." He recounted some of the recent works of public health done by the service, which from our knowledge of disease prevention might have been done many years ago, had the idea of public health not been in its infancy.

Explaining the difference between public health and individual health, the doctor defined public health as being concerned with the health of the individual only in the masses. One individual's disease is the concern of the whole community, because that disease may spread to many other individuals. So, in as far as individual health is tied up with that of the community, public health is involved. "Individual treatment is not public health," Dr. Gray said emphatically, "and where done by public health workers is indigent practice. It should be separated from public health, which is preventive medicine."

Dr. Gray spoke of the large number of diphtheria deaths in Texas as compared to the average for the United States, which was much surprised to hear that Midland county had not experienced a death from diphtheria in a good many years.

He said that the death rate from diphtheria of 10.8 is one of the worst states in the matter of diphtheria, in spite of favorable climate and the fact that the organization which furnish free immunization, or else they are so ignorant and careless they will not go to the doctor.

It is the shiftless indigent group which makes the health problem an economic one, says Dr. Gray. "It is cheapness of public education, and preventive medicine, or these things, or is it cheaper to bury the dead and feed and clothe the living?"

The speaker pointed out the importance of vital statistics, stating that the reporting of disease is very inadequate, particularly the reporting of tuberculosis. It has been estimated in sections where reporting is average or better that about 10 per cent of reported tuberculosis cases reported to the state. In this county last year with 7 deaths from tuberculosis there ought to have been around 70 cases of tuberculosis reported to the state.

Dr. Gray said that maternity care was of the most vital concern to a public health agency, but it was their duty only to see to it that every pregnant woman had adequate care, not to give that care. He stressed all through his talk the importance of public health officials staying out of private practice. "Rightly carried out under the supervision of the medical profession, the public health program need not make the private physician apprehensive of losing his practice. Public health should bring more work to the doctor's door."

Dr. Gray was one of the Abilene physicians who assisted with the Abilene survey made of the Abilene area by a group of eleven Midland citizens. Included were: Harold H. Kendrick, Raymond L. Hughes, Buster Howard, Rev. Winston F. Borum, G. B. Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Crane, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Howe, Collin Puckett, Alvon Patterson.

Claude Crane of Midland was recognized commissioner for the council. Other officers re-elected were: President, Chas. E. Paxton, Sweetwater; vice president, A. E. Lang, Monahans; and treasurer, L. J. Greer, Sweetwater.

Following the afternoon business sessions, the meeting was climaxed with a Silver Jubilee banquet in the Crystal Ballroom of the hotel.

The dinner program included song numbers led by the Midland Borum of Midland.

Rev. Dick O'Brien of Colorado presented the chief inspirational address of the evening, stressing an optimistic attitude.

John P. Howe awarded the Silver Beaver for distinguished service to B. Reagan of Big Spring.

On behalf of the scouters of the council and in recognition of his service to the Buffalo Trail council, Scout Executive A. C. Williamson was presented with an engraved watch bearing the scout emblem and appropriate motto.

Songs, Poetry, and Cartoons Illustrate Writer's Versatility

By KATHLEEN EILAND

"Indefatigably industrious" that's a large phrase but it is an apt one to describe a small but very busy person that we know here in Midland—Mrs. Emma Allen Bailey. For along with her domestic activities (she keeps house for her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Phillipus, the former a merchant, the latter a teacher, she finds time to write poems and sing lyrics, and conduct a cartoon feature of humor and philosophy now running in two papers.

"How long have you been writing?" A reporter asked in a stereotyped question in an interview a few days ago.

"Mrs. Bailey's eyes opened wide. 'Always,' she said, quietly as if in wonder at the question.

Her newest project is the publishing of her songs. The first one off the press is a waltz ballad, "When It's Summer Down in the Valley."

She plans to bring out another waltz ballad, "In My Wonderful Dreams of You," as her second number. Sydney Bender of New York City wrote the music for this song and it was revised by Lon Foley.

Her third song will be "I Didn't Know Why I Waited," set to fox-trot music by Healy.

Besides the sentimental song lyrics Mrs. Bailey has written a number of religious songs. In all she now has on hand 40 or 50 songs. After an initial unsuccessful venture in the work years ago, her interest in song writing lagged and she did not take up this type of composition seriously again until about two years ago.

She is a prolific writer of verse. Her poems have been published in the Mitre Anthology of London in the winter and spring issue of 1930-31 and in various other magazines and papers, including "Twilight Magazine," "Texas Christian Advocate," "Fletcher's Farming," and the "Yorktown News."

She won first prize in a poetry contest conducted by "The Reporter-Telegram" several years ago.

At the present time she has 275 poems which she plans to include in a collection for publication in the future.

Her writing is not confined to verse, however, for she has had published one serious story, "Dad's Affairs." In addition, she has several stories which are ready for the last draft.

The casual observer would probably never think of this little, very feminine person with an air of perpetual youth about her, as being a cartoonist, but she is. Her "Aunt Carlina's Observations" is headed by a cartoon sketch of a hefty negro mammy whose dialect philosophy is of the homely variety made popular by "Hamboonee."

In fact, one of the authors of two publications, the "Yorktown Weekly" and "The Reporter-Telegram" (See WRITER, page 6)

HOLY COMMUNION IS ATTENDED BY ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

Entire World Sending Condolences to Queen Mary

UNMARRIED KING

First Bachelor Heir Of the Empire in 176 Years

LONDON, Jan. 21, (AP).—King George, who died shortly before midnight Monday, will be buried Tuesday, January 28th, in St. George's chapel of Windsor castle. The body will lie in state in Westminster hall from Thursday until the funeral. The body was started from Sandringham today on a slow journey which will permit thousands of his subjects to view his face for the last time.

When a parliament met today to swear allegiance to the new king, the title Edward eighth was used for the first time.

SANDRINGHAM, Eng., Jan. 21, (AP).—Great Britain's royal family today mourned the death of King George at a private service in Sandringham's little church while the new monarch, Edward VIII, flew the first British ruler to use an airplane—to London for his accession ceremony.

With the vast empire and the world mourning their sorrow, the royal household went to the church to hold communion service this morning.

The former Prince of Wales at the Duke of York, her presumptive worked with palace officials this morning, drawing plans for the funeral and Edward's formal accession.

After reaching St. James's palace the new king went to Buckingham palace through streets lined with thousands of his subjects to see his father, the Duke of York, at a meeting of naval, military, police and royal household officials to discuss arrangements for the next few days.

The formal proclamation of his accession will be given tomorrow, by which the Duke of York must wait until the end of the year-of-mourning period.

The body of the deceased king will be placed on a special carriage and taken to a special train for London, where it will lie in state at Westminster hall.

Four days after he had contracted a sudden illness, the ruler succumbed to complications of a severe cold, bronchial catarrh and heart weakness shortly before midnight Monday.

Seizing themselves for a double funeral, the new sovereign, Queen Mary and the children went to the world's greatest empire waited to go him home.

It was only Friday afternoon that the public learned the king had died peacefully without pain. A first bulletin issued by the king's condition that night disclosed he had suffered an attack of bronchial catarrh, accompanied by heart weakness.

His strength slowly ebbed as his heart action slowed down. The king died peacefully without pain.

Knowing the end was near, the royal family remained through out the long evening.

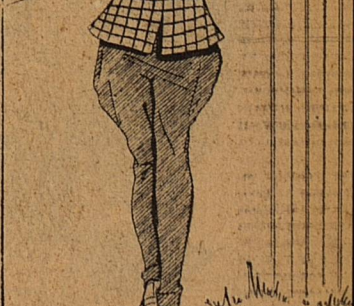

Just before midnight the doctor realized death was imminent and hurriedly summoned Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and the other members of the royal family.

It was the 26th year of George's reign, though an eventful period of world history. King George, 58, won the love and respect of 450,000,000 subjects.

At the moment of his death the popular Prince of Wales automatically became king although many formalities must be gone through with. He is the first bachelor to ascend the throne of Britain. (See KING GEORGE, page 6)

SWEDEN OFFERS MORAL EQUIVALENT OF WAR

Some time ago a philosopher remarked that what the world needs most today is a moral equivalent of war. By this he meant that war, for all its horrors, does call on men to submerge themselves in a higher cause, to offer themselves to danger, discomfort, and death for the sake of a general ideal of service to their fellows. And there is something about the human race that makes such a call irresistible. Oddly enough, Signor Mussolini's bombs seem to have given a taste of the philosopher's equivalent for war to the young men of Sweden. A Swedish Red Cross unit in Ethiopia was bombed by Italian flyers. Sweden flamed with indignation. It demanded that its government retaliate—not by making war on Italy, but by sending out to Ethiopia hundreds of doctors, nurses, and stretcher-bearers to take the place of the unit that was destroyed. And here is the interesting part about it. No sooner was this proposal made than young men all over the country began to volunteer for such service. They didn't know whether the government would go ahead with the plan or not, but they volunteered anyway—by the hundred, by the thousand.

Man may be basically a very selfish animal, but there is a great streak of pure valour in him. Offer him a chance to live easily and luxuriously and he will accept it, of course; but offer him a chance to get kicked all over the map, for no pay at all except the inner satisfaction that comes from knowing that he is a man serving some cause higher than himself, and you are apt to get trampled underfoot in the rush of volunteers. The dangerous callings are never underrmanned. Youth is always standing in line for a chance to die horribly in the trenches, or to wrestle with Arctic darkness and cold, or to fly rickety planes over illimitable oceans, or to take a chance on fever and starvation in tropic jungles. It can't be scared off.

Why is this? Simply because there is in human nature something that leaves a man forever dissatisfied unless he gets a chance to identify himself with something bigger than he is—something which, at the same time, promises to demand all the heroism and self-sacrifice he has in him. That is what these young Swedes saw in this Red Cross business, and they jumped at it. Youth has always behaved the same way, and it always will; and in that fact lies a force that occasionally changes the face of the world.

So far, we have pretty much ignored that force, except when we need soldiers. Some day we shall find out how to use it, how to make youth's eagerness to immolate itself work for the benefit of all humanity. When we do, the race will start to go places.

WHY WAR'S A RACKET

Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler served his country long and well as a fiery leader of marines. Retired, he continues to serve it by speaking blunt truths about the business of war.

His remarks at the recent Congress Against War and Fascism are worth pondering. He declared that war is a racket; and he explained that, in turn, as follows: "A racket is best described as something that is not what it seems to the majority of the people. Only the 'inside' group knows what it is about. It is conducted for the benefit of the very few at the expense of the very many."

That says it, pretty neatly. May General Butler continue to make speeches like that, all up and down the land!

A western group protests that the state is providing out-of-date textbooks. Probably pre-dust storm geographies.

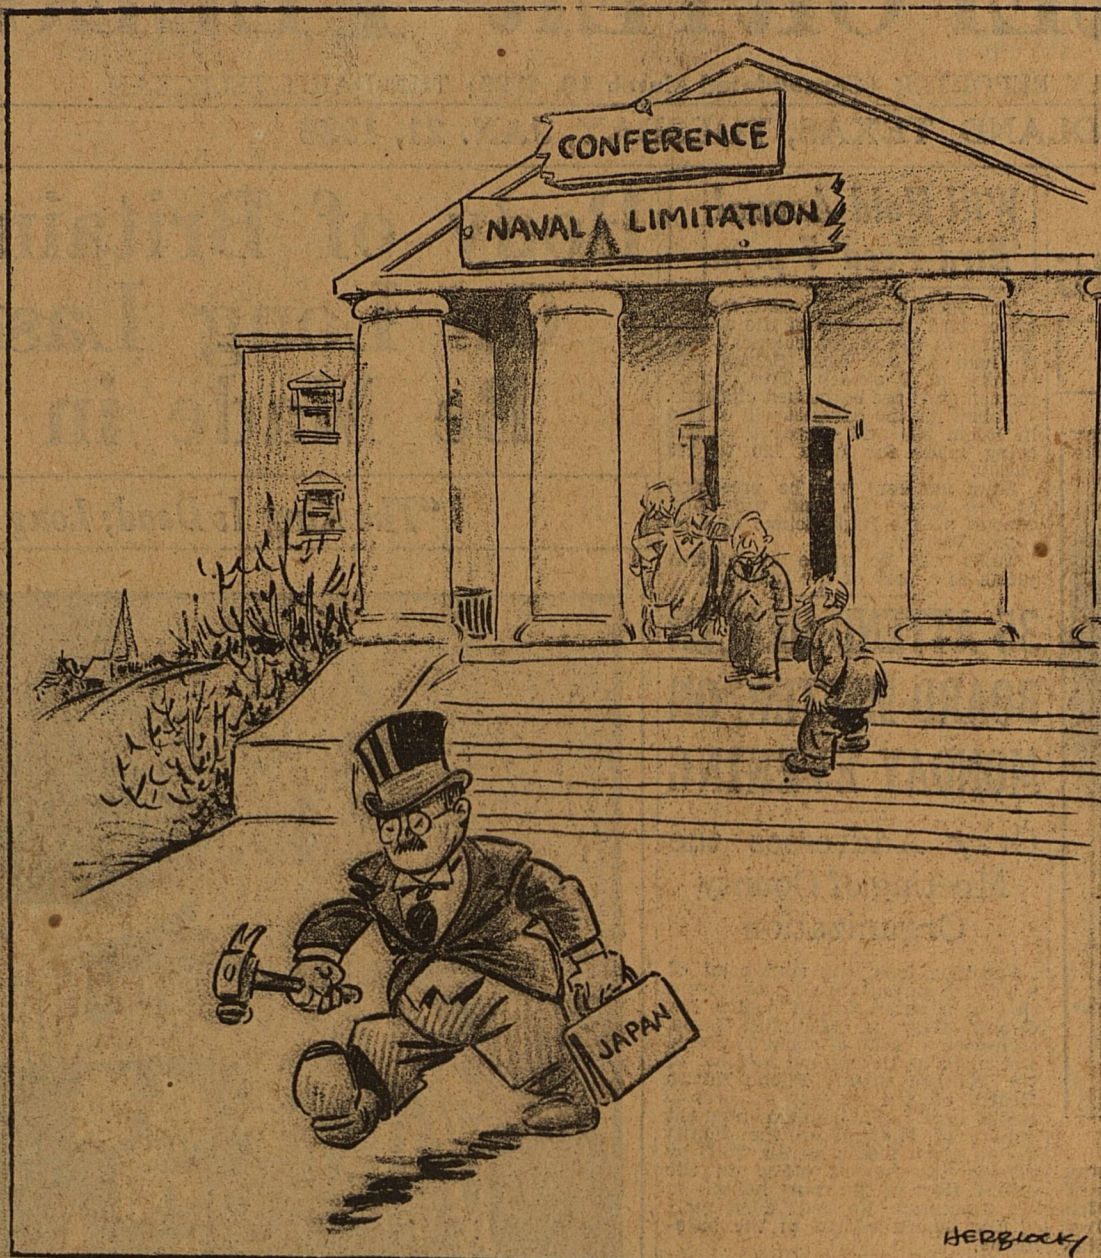

Turkey learns it has never signed peace treaty with San Marino, a republic of 32 square miles, but, then, the San Marino army has probably mislaid his gun, anyway.

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein
Of the 5,000,000 new trans-Pacific airmail stamps printed by the U. S., fewer than 2,000,000 are said to be of collectible value, and most of these are sold out. Collectors have turned to the poorer remainders for position blocks, in the belief that no more of this particular type of stamp will be printed and that it is bound to go up in value, whatever its condition.

Another valuable set of stamps, in connection with the first trans-Pacific airmail flight of the China Clipper is that which the Philippine government overprinted in gold for this particular occasion. The return of the China Clipper disappointed many collectors who expected return covers which they had dispatched on the Clipper's westward flight. This mail could not be handled by the Manila postal authorities in time to catch the plane on its way back so it had to be held up for the return of the second ship, the Philippine Clipper.

Revenue collectors should watch for the potato tax stamp, Uncle Sam's latest innovation. There are two classes of these stamps, one for tax paid, the other for tax exempt.

Return of King George II to the throne of Greece has brought out the first stamps under the new monarchy. These are two values of the 1933 series, surcharged with the date of Nov. 3, 1935, when the king was recalled by popular vote, a crown and new values. Two postage dues also are surcharged.

Hold National Dairy Show at Centennial

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 19.—The National Dairy Show, one of the great cattle exhibitions of America will be held at the Texas Centennial Exposition in October. Directors of the National Dairy Association meeting at Chicago this week voted to make their twenty-seventh annual show a feature of the Lone Star State's birthday celebration in Dallas which starts June 6. This great showing of dairy cattle will be held in the million dollar live stock and agricultural section of the Exposition grounds. The premium list will be the most attractive ever offered for a show of its kind. Charles L. Hill, State Commissioner of Agriculture for Wisconsin, President of the Association, and Secretary Lloyd Burlingham are enthusiastic over building progress on the model agricultural and live stock section of the Exposition which is now almost complete. Future farmers of America and 4-H Club boys and girls from all parts of the Southwest will visit the Exposition and witness the judging of the 1,000 fine dairy cattle which will be entered in the show.

Native Song, Dance Show at Centennial

DALLAS, Tex. — Native America in song and dance will be reproduced during the second week of the Texas Centennial Exposition in the presentation of the National Folk Festival. Arrangements have been made for this national event, the Southwest phase of which will be built up out of song, dance and folk play research in every county of Texas and adjoining states. The Exposition, in this week beginning June 14, will be host to the festival that has enlisted the drama, music, dances and handicraft of the history of the nation during the three years since its origin in St. Louis. Its second presentation was last year in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Hundreds of performers from almost every state in the Union will participate. This presentation is not a professional one, but a program of amateurs representing the folk lore of the nation. It will begin with the Indians, the First Americans, adding to the Texas Indians' performances and exhibits the ceremonials and customs of the Kiowas of Oklahoma. In Spain will be featured folk plays and ballads, dating back to the 16th century, and preented with casts from Albuquerque, New Mexico and the Texas border. The St. Genevieve singers from Missouri, with players from Vincennes, Indiana and Acadians from Louisiana will present the French contribution to American culture. Pennsylvania Germans will join German-Americans from Texas communities with their songs. Lumberjacks from Michigan will send choruses with their wood-choppers' songs. Cowboys of Texas and Arizona will give the plains flavor to range songs. Sea charities will be the contribution of the old sailors from Snug Harbor, Staten Island and New London, Connecticut. From the Appalachian, Tennessee and Ozark ranges will come mountaineers, with folk plays also by the hill people of North Carolina. Work songs as well as spirituals will be sung by massed negro choruses. This is the program of the National Folk Festival, of which Paul Green of the University of North Carolina is president; Constantine Rourke of Grand Rapids, vice-president, and M. J. Pickering of St. Louis, business manager. Its board of 53 members include G. L. Kittredge of Harvard, Walter Prosser, Eaton of Yale, Arthur L. Campa of the University of New Mexico, Ben A. Botkin and O. B. Jacobson of the University of Oklahoma, Louise Pound of the University of Nebraska and J. Frank Doble of the University of Texas. Miss Gertrude Knott, a Kentuckian, is director. She organizes the Dramatic League at St. Louis and out of this grew the National Folk Festival.

Shelterbelt Was an Early Day Problem

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The Great Plains shelter-belt, or windbreak, project finds a precedent in pioneer days. United States Forest Service officials detailed to this vast undertaking say that early settlers planted "on their own" and modern farmers set out trees under state and federal supervision. One of the earliest records of windbreak planting is a report on forestry by the Kansas State Historical society in 1880, giving information on adaptable species, suggested spacing, culture methods, effects of trees on adjacent field crops and exact locations of the oldest successful plantings. Passage of the Timber Culture act in 1873 was an important event in tree planting history. It provided homesteaders for those who agreed to plant a certain amount of land in trees. Amended subsequently, and repealed in 1891, it nevertheless sowed the idea of tree culture in the Plains area, a statement from the United States Department of Agriculture says. Much bonafide planting was done under the act but there also were fraudulent attempts at growing trees with the intent of getting free lands.

River Landmark Razed

CLINTON, Ia. (AP)—A landmark rich in the lore of early Mississippi River steamboat history today had been reduced to a pile of stone and debris. It was a three-story brick hotel, known as the "Old St. Louis House," and when it was built 80 years ago was one of the finest show places on the river.

It used to be that a horse wasn't any good in this country unless he could roll over twice. And now they are breeding the horses with such high withers that they can't roll over at all. They lie down and "waller" on one side, then get up and lie down to get the other side dirty.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

We must be getting "linen minded" or something. At least in window shopping about town the last few days, our attention has lingered on linens. New linen suits were always spoken of in this column. But yesterday we saw a group of handkerchief blouses in tailored and semi-tailored styles that were also attractive. These were in pastel shades and in the strange warm hues that are so effective the last few seasons. Exotic of spiraling the traditional reds, blues, and oranges.

And since it is getting near to Valentine day, we can't resist the distinctly Valentine handkerchiefs now displayed. To give one's lady love a handkerchief adorned with arrow-pierced hearts—now that is an ideal combination of the practical and loverlike. She could never forget the giver's message, not even when she had a cold. In fact, the oftener the handkerchief was used, the oftener she would be reminded of it. Hearts with pictures embroidered within, bowknots, and flowers are also used on these squares of real linen.

In general we have only words of praise for our courthouses but we do have one suggestion to make: That is that cushions be provided for benches in the district courtroom. Surely comfort is not antagonistic to the dispensing of justice—or the seeing it dispensed.

We must be in a particularly vile mood this morning. But since we're criticizing, we'll add one thing more to the list of things that annoy us: Getting persuasive advertising material on high class amusement attractions which omit the price of admission.

How can we know, those of us who live on a budget, whether to plan to see it or not, when we don't know what the attraction costs? We

DIAGNOSIS

MY heart is jumping rope today,
Block after block it goes,
And I am starting out to buy
New clothes, clothes, new clothes.

I'M smiling at the apple men
And those who shine old shoes.
The hurdy-gurdy players, and
The boys who peddle news.

WHEN I look up, the sky looks down
I know the symptoms very well—
I'm going to fall in love!

It's like this—
You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it?
Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute—
It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.

Ired Marine Says Property Safer In China Than U. S.

DEL RIO. (AP).—Lieut. M. J. Howard of the United States Marine Corps left here Jan. 10 for a new assignment at Bromerton, Wash., declaring personal property was safer in China than in the United States.

"I have grown so accustomed to the honesty of the Chinese at Peiping," he remarked, "that I never dawned on me that I should remove my personal belongings from the car while visiting 30 minutes in the home of a friend."

Howard, a graduate of the Del Rio high school and former student at the University of Texas, returned here at Christmas after three years' service with the Marine Corps at Peiping. Previously he had been stationed in Central America.

"Americans in north China are treated with every courtesy," he said, "but the tales of the inhumanity of foreigners that drift back occasionally are fiction. I would trust many women folks on the streets of Peiping at any hour of the night."

"There is no spring and no fall in China. One goes to bed at the end of the summer season and sweaters until midnight. The next day it will be freezing. The winters are colder and the summers hotter than here. The terrible yellow sand storms from the Gobi desert," he added, "give most persons sinus trouble."

Lieut. Howard, son of G. E. Howard, a railroad conductor here, was obliged to travel to his new post by way of San Francisco to obtain duplicates of his lost orders.

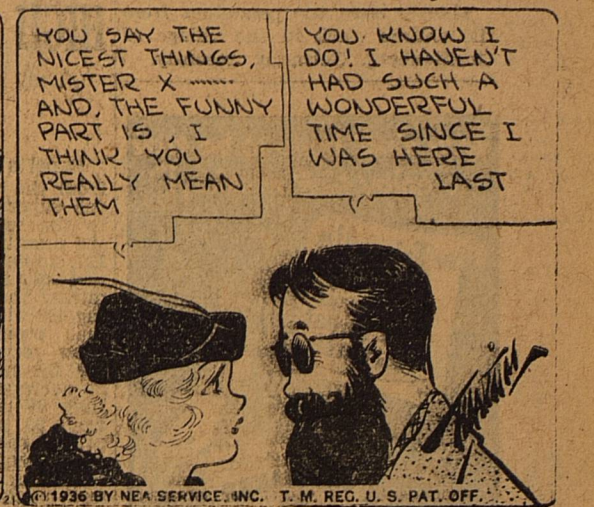

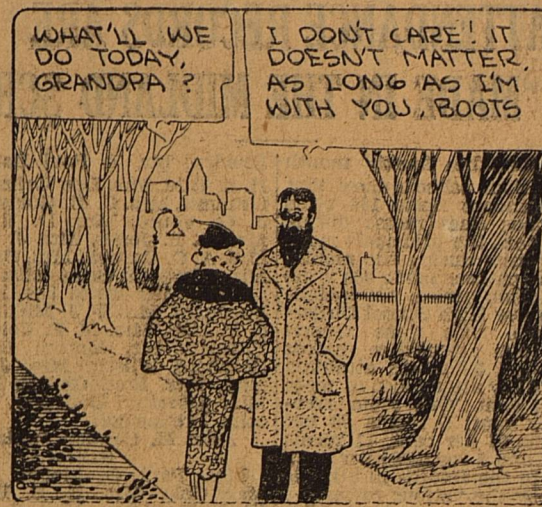

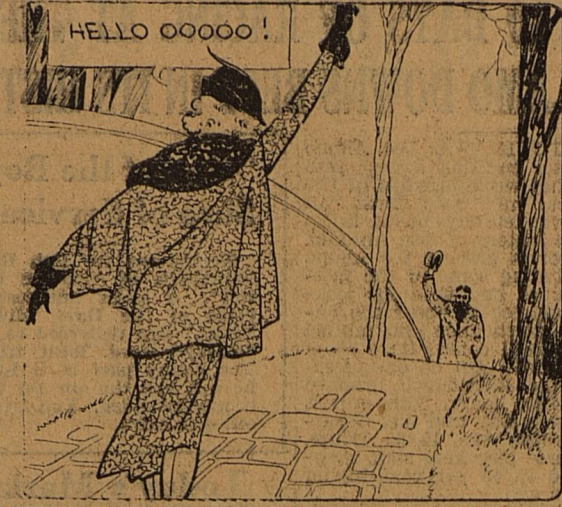

Ragweed Is Found to Be Good for Tobacco

WASHINGTON. (AP).—Ragweed has been found good for tobacco and smokers from hay fever would gladly have this poisonous growth put to such work exclusively.

Tobacco specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture know that some weeds in a crop rotation often give exceptional quality to the tobacco leaf. In a two-year rotation with different weeds in South Carolina, ragweed as a preceding crop gave highest value and highest yield. Tobacco after ragweed averaged 1,873 pounds an acre with a leaf of such quality that the total acre value was $410.37, a report from the department states.

Approximately 30 cents' worth of electricity is contained in the average flash of lightning.
